CRYMES, AUGUSTIN CLAYTON, physician, was born in 1834, in Heard County, Ga., son of Dr. George W. and Jane S. (Ector) Crymes who were married in 1831 in Heard County, Ga., the former, of English descent, was born in 1809 in Greenville District, S. C., the latter, a native of Oglethorpe County, Ga., was born in 1816. His father was graduated in medicine from the Transylvania University, Lexington, Ky., and practiced in Georgia at Atlanta and in Heard County, then moved to Alabama and practiced his profession at Oak Bowery, Chambers County, at Tuskegee, Macon County, and at Enon, Bullock County, where he died in 1873. Dr. Crymes studies medicine under his father, attended his first course of lectures at the Louisville Medical College, Kentucky, 1854-1855, and was graduated from the Jefferson Medical College at Philadelphia, Pa., 1856. He practiced medicine for a short time at Indian Creek, Bullock County, then went to Batesville, Barbour County. In 1862, he was appointed surgeon of the Thirty-ninth Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army, and followed Gen. Bragg through his Kentucky campaign. He was in the engagements at Murfreesboro, Chickamauga, Missionary Ridge, and the Atlanta campaign; was at Franklin, at Nashville, and in the retreat to Corinth; was with Johnston in North Carolina, and in the fight at Kingston and Bentonville. When the war was over, he returned to his practice at Batesville, remaining there until 1882, when he settled at Midway. At that place, he became occupied in planting, in addition to his practice as a physician. He is a Methodist, a Mason, and a member of the state and county medical associations. Married: 1867, Mattie R. Wilson, daughter of L. R. Wilson, who came from South Carolina to Alabama about 1850, settled on a plantation in Barbour County where he lived until his death in 1873. Children: 1. Emma C., m. F. L. Merritt; 2. Augustin Clayton, jr.; 3. Walter W.; 4. Mattie; 5. George W., d. when seven years of age. Residence: Midway, Bullock County.

CULBERSON, CHARLES A., congressman, was born June 10, 1855, at Dadeville; son of David B. and Eugenia (Kimball) Culberson, the former for twenty-two years congressman from Texas and colonel, 18th Texas infantry regiment, C. S. Army. He removed with his parents at an early age to Texas; attended the common schools of Gilmer and Jefferson Counties; graduated from Virginia military institute, Lexington, 1874; studied law at the University of Virginia, 1876-77; returned to Texas and began the practice of his profession. He was elected attorney general, 1890 and 1892; governor of Texas for two terms, 1894 and 1896; elected to the U. S. senate, January 25, 1899, reelected in 1905, 1911, and again in 1917. Residence: Dallas, Tex.

CULLENS, FREDERIC BACON, physician, was born August 2, 1863, at Ft. Gaines, Ga.; son of Francis Tennille and Harriet Emma (Coachman) Cullens the former born at Scottsboro, near Milledgeville, Ga., was a graduate of Oglethorpe college, a lawyer, a veteran of the Mexican War, member of the Georgia legislature from Clay County, solicitor-general in Georgia and was captain of Co. G, 1st Georgia regulars, C. S. Army; grandson of Wiley Wimberly and Mary Bacon (Tennille) Cullens of Sandersville, Ga., the former a lawyer, two ancestors of the latter, Major Algenon Sydney Tennille and Col. William Tennille, were for a long time residents of Ft. Gaines, Col. Tennille lost an arm in war with the Indians, was comptroller general of Georgia, in time of the War of Secession, and an earlier ancestor, Lieut. Francis Tennille was in the Revolutionary War, and of James and Sarah Coachman of Huguenot origin, who lived at Old Steam Mill, near Bainbridge, Decatur County, Ga.; great-grandson of Benjamin Coachman, to whom a monument exists erected to commemorate the gift of one hundred pounds for the erection of a church on the Pee Dee River, S. C.; and descended from several generations of patriotic representatives of the Tennille family. Dr. Cullens was educated at home; attended the medical department of Tulane university, at New Orleans, 1895-96; the Memphis hospital medical college, 1896-97 and 1899; licensed to practice in 1897; and since that date has practiced his profession at Ozark. In 1913 he served as coroner. He is a Democrat; a Methodist; a Mason; an Odd Fellow; a Knight of Pythias, and Woodman of the World. Author: "Where the magnolias bloom," 89 pp.; "The serpent's trail," 168 pp.; "Legend of Klondyke—A short story"; and has contributed many articles to professional magazines and to newspapers. Married: September 17, 1891, at Ozark, to Annie Laurie, daughter of E. F., and Mary Davis, of Lawrenceville, Henry County; the former a lieutenant in the C. S. Army. Children: 1. Frederic Bacon jr.; and 2. Annie Laurie, graduate of Sullins College, Bristol, Va., 1913; 3. James Wimberly; 4. John Francis; 5. Mary Emma; 6. Helen Mavourneen. Residence: Ozark.

CULLMAN, JOHANN GOTTFRIED, merchant and colonizer promoter, was born July 2, 1823, at Frankweiler, Canton Landau, Rheinpfalz, Bavaria, and died December 5, 1895, at Cullman; son of Gottfried and Juliane Schneider) Cullman; grandson of Gottfried and Louise (Becker) Cullman, and of Jacob and Christianna (Laugel) Schneider, all residents of Frankweiler. John G. Cullman received a good education in the city school of Frankweiler, of which his father was principal; and was graduated from the Polytechnic college at Zweibrücken, Bavaria. He at once entered upon a mercantile career, was proprietor of an establishment at Neustadt an der Haard, and became a large American exporter. Politically he held views not in harmony with that of his government at the time, and being fearless in their advocacy, he soon found himself in the midst of a short-lived revolution, in which he held for one day the command of a regiment of revolutionists, from which he acquired the title of colonel. The war with Denmark in 1864 causing his failure in business, he came to the United States in the same year. He finally settled in Cincinnati where he found employment in a bookstore, remaining there until 1871, when he visited Alabama, with a view to establishing a German colony. At Florence he met Gov. R. M. Patton, who became so interested in his enterprise that he furnished him with men and horses with which to explore the country, in the search for a suitable location. After a careful survey of the field in 1872 he contracted with the Louisville and Nashville railroad co. for 349,000 acres of land, the terms being that he should pay for the advertising and all other expenses incident to the bringing to America of the desired immigrants. In 1873 on the site of the town of Cullman, he located his first colony, consisting of fourteen German families. Later a number of Georgia farmers came in. The town was laid out in half acre lots, with streets and avenues one hundred feet wide. To every denomination he donated a full block of two acres on which to build a house of worship. He took the initiative in every public improvement and donated liberally to enterprises that looked to the material and educational progress of the colony. During 1878 Col. Cullman entered into additional contracts with the Louisville and Nashville railroad co., whereby he came into possession of an additional tract of 300,000 acres of land, lying along the railroad between Decatur and Montgomery, and to the sale and settlement of these lands he gave his special attention. In January, 1886, he organized the North Alabama land company with a paid up capital of $150,000. In May of the same year he made a trip to Europe in the interest of immigration, and returned in the fall to find the North Alabama boom at its height. Realizing his great opportunity, in February, 1888, he organized the North Alabama land and immigration company, with a capital of $2,000,000, the company at one time owning 160,000 acres of land, and 1,000 lots in Cullman. He founded Garden City in 1876. Immigrants were also located by him in settlements along the railroad, and at other places in the State. At different times he brought over and located in the State more than one hundred thousand persons, all under his immediate supervision. As an evidence of the regard in which he was held by persons of high official position in Alabama, during Gov. Houston's administration he was invited by that gentleman to formulate a plan of immigration. He did so, and the plan though adopted by the senate was defeated in the house. At the succeeding session, the measure again came up and was adopted by the house, but defeated by the senate. Col. Cullman was a Democrat, and was in fact thoroughly imbued with Democratic ideas before coming to America. He was often solicited by his friends to be a candidate for political office, but he never yielded to their solicitations, although he was always a hard worker in the party campaign. He was a Mason and a Lutheran. He was much beloved and the large concourse at his funeral showed well the high estimation in which he was held by the people of Cullman County. Married: in 1847, at Landstuhl, to Josephine, daughter of Theodor and Marie Loeb. She never came to America, but lived with her daughter, Maria, the wife of Ludwig Richard, at Frankfort on the Main, where she died at the age of seventy-five. Children: 1. Theodor; 2. Otto; 3. Marie, m. Ludwig Richard. The sons were both associated in business with their father at Cullman, and both died of typhoid fever at the age of twenty-six. Last residence: Cullman.

CULVER, FRANK PUGH, educator, was born July 31, 1863, at Lawrenceville; son of Maj. Isaac Franklin and Nancy (McSwean) Culver (q v.). Rev. Dr. Culver received the degree of M. A. from Southern university, 1888, and the honorary degree of D. D. from Southwestern university, Texas, 1912. He was ordained a minister of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, 1888; served at Oxford, 1888-91; Anniston, 1892-96; Tuscaloosa, 1897-1902; Huntsville, 1903-05; Eleventh avenue church, Birmingham, 1906-08; presiding elder Birmingham district, 1909-11; president Polytechnic college, Ft. Worth, Tex., 1911-15; pastor, Waco, Tex., 1915-18; First church, Fort Worth, Tex., 1918 to date. He is a Democrat; Mason; and a member of the Kappa Alpha college fraternity. Married: (1) to Ella Taylor, of Greensboro, (2) April 23, 1901, to Mary Lee White, of Meridian, Miss. Residence: Ft. Worth, Tex.

CULVER, ISAAC FRANKLIN, planter, was born October 20, 1830, at Sparta, Hancock County, Ga.; son of Isaac and Margaret (Grace) Culver, natives of Hancock County, Ga., who came to Alabama in 1851, and located in Henry County, where the former died in 1858 at the age of sixty-two years, and the latter in 1867, at seventy-eight years; grandson of John Culver, an Englishman, who was brought in his youth to America by his parents, who first located in Delaware but subsequently moved to Georgia where he married, lived and died, and grandson of Jephtha Grace, a planter who lived and died in Hancock County, Ga. Maj. Culver completed his education at Mt. Zion, Hancock County, Ga., farmed there until he moved to Alabama in 1851; located in Henry County, where he resided until 1860; and moved to Bullock County which has since been his home. In May, 1861, he joined Co. A, Sixth Alabama infantry, C. S. Army, as a private, and was at once sent to Virginia. He fought at Seven Pines, Cold Harbor, Malvern Hill, Fredericksburg, Boonsboro Gap, Sharpsburg, Chancellorsville, Gettysburg, the Wilderness, and at other points. At the expiration of his first term of enlistment for one year, he was commissioned captain; was promoted to major after the battle of Chancellorsville, and was made lieutenant-colonel at Petersburg with command of the regiment. He was wounded at Malvern Hill, Boonsboro Gap, and at Gettysburg. After the war, he returned to his farm in Bullock County. He was elected to the State legislature in 1878, and re-elected in 1880, serving through both terms as chairman of the committee on temperance. When his term in the legislature had expired, Maj. Culver was elected superintendent of education for Bullock County, which office he held for six years. During that period, he was president of the State Agricultural Society and of the Alabama State Fair Association. He has been a stockholder in the Union Springs Cotton Mills, and a director in the oil mill company. He served as state commissioner of agriculture, 1896-1900. Maj. Culver is a Democrat; a Methodist, serving as steward in the church for twenty-five years; and a Mason.

Married: (1) in 1850, Mary Boran, who was born and educated in Washington, Wilkes County, Ga., and died in 1858, daughter of John Boran, a Georgian, who died at Washington, Ga.; (2) December 16, 1860, Nancy McSwean Pugh, widow of Dr. Thomas Pugh, cousin of James L. Pugh, U. S. senator, daughter of Roderick and Mary (Cambell) McSwean, who were married in North Carolina, came to Alabama in 1836, and settled at Clayton, Barbour County, the former a native of Scotland, who came to America when a young man. Children, by first marriage: 1. Maggie, m. (1) J. J. Ramsey, a horse breeder of Union Springs, deceased; (2) Rev. S. M. Hasmer, Brundidge; 2. Mary L., m. William R. Ethridge; 3. Fannie H., m. D. F. Sessions, Ozark; by second marriage, 4. Roderick McSwean, planter, Ensley; 5. Rev. Frank Pugh, college president, b. July 31, 1863, at Lawrenceville, was graduated from Southern University, M. A. 1888, ordained in the ministry of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, 1888, pastor at Oxford, 1888-1891, at Anniston, 1892-1896, at Tuscaloosa, 1897-1902, at Huntsville, 1903-1905, at Eleventh Avenue church, Birmingham, 1906-1908, presiding elder of Birmingham district, 1909-1911, and has been president of the Polytechnic College, Fort Worth, Tex., since 1911, m. (1) Ella Taylor of Greensboro, who died August 28, 1896, (2) April 23, 1901, Mary Lee White, of Meridian, Miss., resides at Fort Worth, Tex. Residence: Union Springs.

CUMBEE, REUBEN ANDREW JACKSON, probate judge and Baptist minister, was born June 9, 1833, in Meriwether County, Ga.; son of Reuben and Sarah (McCall) Cumbee, the former a native of Newberry District, S. C., who removed soon after his marriage to Meriwether County, Ga., later removing to Alabama, lived in Chambers and Randolph Counties where he was a planter. Sarah (McCall) Cumbee's paternal grandfather was a soldier of the Revolution. R. A. J. Cumbee was educated in the common schools and the high school at Milltown, Chambers County. He was ordained to preach at Bacon Level, Randolph County and preached there and in Heard County, Ga., until the beginning of the War of Secession. He enlisted as a private in Co. F, 14th Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army, was made third lieutenant, saw service in Virginia, being in the battles of Seven Pines, the seven day fight around Richmond, Salem Church, Fredericksburg, Gettysburg, Wilderness and Gaines Farm. He returned to Chambers County and preached and taught at Fredonia until 1876, when he removed to Tallapoosa County, preaching at Dadeville and Alexander City, later removing to Clay County, where he preached at Lineville and Ashland. He was elected probate judge of Tallapoosa County in 1880 serving six years, defeated in 1886 and reelected in 1892. Married: (1) in 1857, in Heard County, Ga., to Mary R. Stodghill; (2) in 1873, at Bacon Level, Randolph County, to Catherine E. Trent; (3) November, 1892, at Fredonia, to Fannie, daughter of William Bonner of that place. Children: by first wife; 1. Sarah E., m. S. H. Gillam; by second wife, Annie Pearl. Residence: Tallapoosa County.

CUMMING, JOHN BRYANT, Methodist minister, was born August 11, 1859, at Hatchechubbee, Russell County; son of Seaborn Jones and Mary (Parsons) Cumming, the former a native of Georgia, who removed to Alabama in 1848 where he lived until his death; grandson of Rev. Mr. Cumming, a Primitive Baptist minister and a soldier in the War of 1812, and of Wright Flournoy and Alcey (Wright) Parsons, of Georgia. Rev. Mr. Cumming received his education at Louisville academy and at the Southern university, 1879-80, but did not graduate. He joined the Alabama Conference Methodist Episcopal church, South, in December, 1881, in which he remained until November, 1912, when he transferred to the Northern Alabama conference; was president East Lake atheneum, 1895-97; editor of the "Alabama Christian Advocate," 1910-1912; financial agent Birmingham college, 1912. He is a Democrat; a Mason; Knight Templar; Odd Fellow and

Knight of Pythias. Married: at East Lake, October 21, 1891, Rosa, daughter of Solomon and Mary (Law) Palmer (q. v.). Children: 1. John Palmer; 2. Bryant Flournoy, of Corpus Christi, Texas; 3. Mary Virginia; 4. Edwin Davis; 5. Rosa Lee; 6. Maude Louise; 7. and 8., d. in infancy. Residence: Birmingham.

CUMMING, SAMUEL JAMES, lawyer, was born in September, 1821, at Baltimore, Md., and died at Birmingham in 1893; son of Samuel and Mary Ann (McLean) Cumming, the former a native of Scotland, who came with his family to Baltimore in 1819, where he died in 1823, resulting in the return of his family to England. Mr. Cumming's early education was received at Plymouth, England. At the age of fourteen his family again returned to Baltimore, where he attended high school. He taught school in Easton, Md., and then studied law and later he pursued his studies under Judge Brockenbourg in Rappahannock, Va. He came to Alabama and located in Monroeville, in 1842, where he practiced his profession until 1861. He promptly entered the Confederate service, and was adjutant of the 17th Alabama infantry regiment. He was a representative from Monroe County both in the legislature and in the constitutional convention of 1865; and was the nominee of his party for congress in 1870. For several years before his death Mr. Cumming resided in Birmingham in the practice of the law, and was at one time associated with Bertrand L. Hibbard. He was a Presbyterian. Married: February 2, 1845, in Monroe County, to Susan Singletary, daughter of Thomas and Elizabeth A. (Randalson) Wiggins, natives of North Carolina. Children: 1. Samuel McLean, m. Sallie Frierson, of Covington County; 2. Susan Moore, m. John Polk Watkins, of Burnt Corn; 3. Mary Ann, m. Frank L. Moore, Camden; 4. Elizabeth, m. Albert Ervin, of Evergreen; 5. Margaret; 6. Thomas, d. in infancy; 7. Daniel, drowned in Alabama River; 8. Janie, m. Brackett O. Watkins, Birmingham; 9. Dixie Alice, d. in infancy; 10. Daisy, d. in infancy; 11. Kate, m. A. Hafner, of Eutaw. Last residence: Birmingham.

CUMMINGS, KATE, author and writer. Residence: Birmingham.

CUNNINGHAM, ANDREW, merchant and planter, was born December 14, 1814, at Cunningham's Store, Jackson County, Ga., and died October 16, 1889, at Talladega; son of Joseph Thomas and Agnes Elizabeth (Montgomery) Cunningham, the former a Virginian by birth, of Prince Edward County, but who moved from his native state to Georgia, was postmaster at Cunningham's Store, the latter of Jackson County, Ga.; grandson of Elizabeth Cunningham, and of Hugh Montgomery. The Cunninghams are of Scotch stock. Mr. Cunningham was educated in old field schools of Jackson County, Ga.; was a merchant at Cunningham's Store for several years prior to 1836; moved to Talladega County, Ala., in fall of that year and engaged in farming, living first at Fife, then Eastaboga, and lastly at Talladega; was a member constitutional convention of 1865; senator from Clay and Talladega Counties, 1876-77 and 1878-79; and a captain in the home guards in the War of Secession. He was a Whig prior to the war, and later a Democrat; and a Presbyterian. Married: November 2, 1835, to Jane Agnes, daughter of Robert and Isabella Venable, of Jackson County, Ga. The Venables were of Welsh descent, settled in Maryland, then moved to Prince Edward County, Va. Children: 1. Margaret Isabella, m. James Augustus Storey, both deceased; 2. Agnes Elizabeth, m. John A. Winbourne, both deceased; 3. Robert Joseph, unmarried; 4. John Reid, deceased; 5. Fannie Forester, m. William E. Storey; 6. Jane Venable, m. Otis Cook; 7. Andrew, deceased; 8. Cynthia Bersheba, deceased; 9. Robert J. Last residence: Talladega.

CUNNINGHAM, ARTHUR S., lieutenant-colonel, temporary commander 10th Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army, 1863; lieutenant-colonel, temporary commander, 40th Virginia infantry regiment, C. S. Army.

CUNNINGHAM, BENJAMIN WEAKLY, teacher, farmer and legislator, was born March 19, 1870, at Rogersville, Lauderdale County; son of Jonathan and Susan (Taylor) Cunningham, of that county, the former was first lieutenant Co. I, 27th Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army, member Alabama house of representatives 1876-77, 1887-88, and in the state senate, 1890-98; grandson of Jonathan and Allie (Nance) Cunningham, who came to this state from North Carolina, and of Benjamin and Susan (Westmoreland) Taylor, natives of Virginia. He was educated in the county schools, and graduated, 1892, from the State normal college, Florence. He taught in the public schools of Alabama and Texas from 1892 to 1900. In 1900 he entered upon farming as a profession. He is also interested in a mercantile business at Center Star. On June 19, 1909, he was elected to the legislature to fill the unexpired term of John L. Hughston, appointed probate judge of Lauderdale County. Married: December 12, 1906, at Cherokee, to Turner Goodloe, daughter of Willis P. and Turner (Goodloe) Rutland, of that place. Residence: Center Star.

CUNNINGHAM, JAMES, lieutenant colonel, 2nd Alabama cavalry, C. S. Army.

CUNNINGHAM, MARY SUE EVERHART, critic and lecturer, was born April 26, 1857, at Huntsville; daughter of George Marlow and Cornelia Adelaide Bowman (Banner) Everhart (q. v.), and granddaughter of Constantine Ladd and Mary (Bowman) Banner of Salem, N. C.; great-great-granddaughter of Henry and Margaret (Hampton) Banner of Stokes County, N. C. Mrs. Cunningham was given her first training by her mother, and was graduated in 1875 from Kemper Hall, Kenosha, Wis., a school founded by her father; later studied at the University of Berlin where her masters were Doctors Goldsmith, Hoffman, Lauders and Welzel; and in Paris, where she passed the Sarbonne examinations; taught for ten years at Hamner Hall, Montgomery, a school for young ladies, also founded by her father, succeeding him as principal; lectured in Chicago and in southern cities on literary and art subjects; organized the Clonian club of Birmingham; advocate before the Alabama legislature for child labor law in 1902; vice-president Equal suffrage association for Alabama 1906; and magazine writer, specializing in criticism. She was an Episcopalian in early life, but is now a Transcendentalist; and a member of the Essenes, the oldest known order of philosophers. Married: in 1890 in Decatur, Ga., to Robert Cunningham, representative in Alabama legislature from Monroe County, and at the time of his death president of the Travelers protective association in Alabama, and son of Dr. William and Mary Cunningham of Monroe County. Children: 1. Adelaide Louise; 2. William Everhart. Residence: Atlanta.

Mr. B. Crump Town.

CUNNINGHAM, ROBERT JOSEPH, planter, was born December 6, 1840, near Eastaboga, Talladega County; son of Andrew and Jane Agnes (Venable) Cunningham (q. v.). He received his early education in the county schools; is a planter; was notary public and exofficio justice of the peace, 1876-80. He entered the C. S. Army as a private in Co. E, 10th Alabama infantry regiment, was discharged December, 1861; reenlisted in 30th Alabama infantry regiment, March, 1862, acting as commissary sergeant until July, 1863, when he was elected second lieutenant, Co. E, 30th Alabama infantry regiment. In 1867 he removed to Texas where he held the position of deputy clerk of the district court, 1868-71; returned to Alabama and resumed farming. Residence: Talladega.

CUNNINGHAM, ROBERT M., soldier of the American Revolution, was born in York County, Pa., September 10, 1760, and died in Tuscaloosa, July 11, 1839; son of Roger and Mary (Sturgeon) Cunningham, natives of Pennsylvania, who removed to North Carolina and bought a plantation. Rev. Dr. Cunningham served while a youth as private and sergeant of the North Carolina continental line and militia, in the Revolutionary War. He entered a Latin school in the neighborhood of Rocky River, N. C., at the close of the war. Remaining here for only one year, he next attended the school of Mr. Robert McCulloch, at Bethel settlement, York County, N. C., for two years; then removed to an academy on Bullock's Creek; graduated from the Dickinson college, Carlisle, 1789; and received the honorary degree of D. D. from Franklin college, Georgia, 1827. After graduation he returned to his parents and taught school at the same time studying theology. He joined the first presbytery of South Carolina and was licensed to preach, in 1792. In the autumn of this year he went to Georgia settling in Green, now Hancock County; organized a church; ordained elders for the Ebenezer church; opened a school; and preached alternately between Ebenezer and Bethany. He and four other ministers were sent out by the presbytery of South Carolina, in 1796, to form one in Georgia, this one being constituted the March following. He removed to Kentucky in 1807 and remained here until 1821; was a member of the synod of Kentucky as early as 1803 and was one of the founders of the Kentucky Bible society, in 1817. He resigned and removed to Moulton, Lawrence County, Ala., in 1822, becoming a farmer and preaching constantly in Moulton and surrounding villages. He bought a farm eleven miles from Tuscaloosa, on the Greensboro road, and removed to this place in the fall of 1826; built churches in Tuscaloosa and Carthage; preached alternately between these churches, and occasionally at Greensboro, where his son Joseph, was a pastor. He preached a free gospel at Tuscaloosa for eight years, resigning in favor of Rev. Wm. Williams, but continued for several years longer at Carthage. He removed to Tuscaloosa in 1836, and preached his last sermon in the summer of 1838. Married: (1) to Elizabeth, daughter of Charles and Mary Moore, of Spartanburg District, S. C.; (2) October 15, 1795, to Betsey Ann, daughter of Joseph Parks, of Prince Edward County, Va., and (3) October 14, 1805, to Emily, daughter of Col. William Bird, of Augusta, Ga. There was one daughter by the first wife who died in infancy, five sons by the second marriage and one son and three daughters by the third. Children: by second wife: 1. Joseph, Presbyterian minister; by third wife: 2. Robert, a physician of Sumter County; 3. Mrs. Maltsby; 4. Mrs. Wilson; 5. Louisa, unmarried. Last residence: Tuscaloosa.

CUNNINGHAM, ROBERT M., Presbyterian minister, mentioned in Nall's "Dead of the Synod of Alabama," 1851.

CUNNINGHAM, RUSSELL McWHORTOR, physician and surgeon, teacher, farmer, legislator, member constitutional convention, lieutenant-governor and acting-governor of Alabama, was born August 25, 1855, at Mt. Hope, Lawrence County; son of Moses W., and Nancy Caroline (Russell) Cunningham of that county, the former a native of Tennessee. Dr. Cunningham received his academic education in the public schools of his native county and at the age of seventeen began teaching school. His father, having suffered financial reverses incident to the War of Secession, was not able to give the young son the college education to which he aspired, so he devoted his own efforts by teaching and farm work, towards the accumulation of money for a medical education. While alternately engaged in these two callings he began March, 1871, the study of medicine under Dr. John M. Clark, a distinguished physician of North Alabama. During 1874-75, he attended lectures at the Louisville, Ky., medical college, and in the spring of the latter year, began, as an undergraduate, the practice. In 1878 he entered Bellevue hospital medical college, New York City, from which he graduated the following year. He located in Newburg, where he practiced for two years with that success that has characterized his professional career. In 1881, he was appointed physician of the State penitentiary, and removed to Wetumpka, where in addition to performing his duties as prison physician, he built up an extensive private practice. Following certain prison reform legislation, requiring his residence where the largest number of state convicts were employed, he removed, 1883, to Pratt Mines. The official reports that were made by Dr. Cunningham at this time were the first authentic statistics compiled in Alabama on prison mortality, its cause and prevention, the adoption of his recommendations in behalf of diet, sanitation, hours of work, recreation, etc., bearing immediate results. In 1881, when he was appointed to his office the death rate among Alabama convicts was 18 per cent per annum, and by October, 1884, it had been reduced to 2.83 per cent per annum. In 1885 he was appointed physician and surgeon for the Tennessee coal, iron and railroad company at Pratt Mines prison, and was later also physician for the Alabama steel and ship building company. He established a private hospital at Ensley which he conducted for a number of years, finally disposing of his institution and removing to Birmingham where he conducted a private practice, prior to his retirement from the arduous duties of his profession, and now divides his time between his Alabama and his Florida homes.

In addition to his distinguished career as physician and surgeon, Dr. Cunningham has held a high place in the political life of the State. During 1880-81, he represented Franklin County in the legislature and after locating in Jefferson County was a strong factor in the Democratic party there. During 1896-1900, he represented that county in the State senate and was chosen president of that body in 1898. He was the nominee for membership in the proposed constitutional convention of 1899, from Jefferson County, and was a delegate to the constitutional convention of 1901. After the adoption of that instrument, which had recreated the office, he was elected lieutenant-governor on the ticket with William D. Jelks, governor, and by virtue of this office presided over the deliberations of the senate. While holding the office of lieutenant-governor he served as acting governor of the State for a year, during the absence of Governor Jelks, who was in the west on account of ill health. At the expiration of his term of office he resumed the practice of medicine in Ensley.

He is a member of the Southern surgical and gynecological association; past president of the Tri-State medical association, which embraced Alabama, Georgia and Tennessee; orator of the Alabama State medical association, 1895; president, Jefferson County medical association, 1896; president, Alabama State medical association, 1900; for some years member State committee of public health; County health officer of Jefferson County, resigning that office in 1916. He was at one time professor of principles and practice of medicine in the Birmingham medical college. He is a Baptist; a Democrat; a Mason; and a Knight Templar. Author: in the literature of his profession, he has written for medical journals and societies, a number of articles and papers, notably upon "Croupous pneumonia," "Tuberculosis," "Morbidity and mortality of negro convicts," "General practitioner in gynecology," "Relation of the cause to the prognosis and treatment of fracture," etc. Married: (1) August 13, 1876, in Franklin County, to Sue L., daughter of Judge J. E. Moore of that county; (2) Annice Taylor, of Birmingham. Children: by the first wife, 1. Moses, physician, m. Kathleen Hundley. Residence: Birmingham.

CUNNINGHAM, WILLIAM COLUMBUS, business man, was born January 31, 1867, in Hickman County, Ky.; son of William Crawford and Margaret (Hutchison) Cunningham, the former a native of Georgia, the latter of Kentucky; grandson of John and Martha Hutchison of Mayfield, Ky. He was educated in the free schools of his native state; began work as a barber in 1880; and has since that date followed his occupation in Kentucky and Alabama. He was elected in 1902 as a member of the legislature from Jefferson County. He is a Democrat; and a member of the Cumberland Presbyterian church. Married: November 18, 1888, to Delia, daughter of A. B. and Delia (Morgan) Jackson, of Georgia. Residence: Birmingham.

CUNNINGHAM, WILLIAM N., soldier of the American Revolution, aged 93, resided in Benton County, June 1, 1840.—Census of Pensioners, 1841, p. 148.

CURRY, JABEZ LAMAR MONROE, educator, congressman, and Baptist minister, was born June 5, 1825, in Lincoln County, Ga., died February 12, 1903, at Asheville, N. C., and is buried in Richmond, Va.; son of William and Susan (Winn) Curry, the former a successful planter of Lincoln County, Ga., a colonel of State militia, who removed to Alabama in 1838, locating in Talladega County, where he owned a large tract of land; grandson of Thomas Curry and wife, who was a Miss Walker, and of Richard F. and Prudence (Lamar) Winn; great-grandson of John and Dorothy (Wright) Winn, the former a soldier of the Revolution and a brother of the founder of Winnsboro, S. C., and of Basil Lamar. The Currys are of Scotch, the Winns of Welsh, and the Lamars of French descent. Dr. Curry removed, with his father, to Talladega County in 1837. He was educated in the public schools of Georgia and the private schools of South Carolina; graduated from the University of Georgia, in 1843; and from Dane law school of Harvard university, in 1845. He returned to Talladega and entered the law office of Judge Samuel F. Rice; was admitted to the bar, in 1846; and joined the Texas Rangers in the same year, serving for a short time with distinction. He represented Talladega County in the State legislature, 1847, 1853, 1855, and was a Buchanan elector in 1857. While serving in the legislature he drew up a bill for the geological survey of the State and participated largely in efforts in behalf of education. He was elected to the U. S. congress in 1857 and re-elected in 1859, resigning in 1861 with other southern members of the house. In 1861 he was elected a deputy from Alabama in the provisional Confederate congress; later elected to the first Confederate congress; and two years later was defeated. He entered the Confederate service in 1864, as lieutenant-colonel, 5th Alabama cavalry regiment, serving until the end of the war. In November, 1865, he was elected presiding officer of the Baptist State convention and on December 5, of the same year, he accepted the presidency of Howard college, then at Marion, remaining here until 1868, when he became professor of English at Richmond college, Va. Subsequently he was appointed to the chair of philosophy and lectured also, for a period, on constitutional and international law. He was elected general agent of the Peabody educational fund, February 3, 1881, and October 30, 1890, was entrusted with the general agency of the Slater fund. On March 27, 1885, he was offered the head of the Bureau of education, but declined to accept, and on September 23, of the same year accepted the appointment from President Cleveland, as minister to Spain, discharging the duties of this office for three years. He resigned August 20, 1888, returned to America, was re-elected Peabody agent, this office having been kept open for him while absent in Spain, and again re-elected in 1894, 1896 and in 1902. On April 7, 1902, he was sent to Spain as ambassador extraordinary to the coronation of Alfonso XIII, and while there was decorated with the Royal Order of Charles III. He received the degree of D. D., from Rochester University, in 1871, and LL. D., from the University of Georgia, in 1887. He was a member of the Virginia, Alabama, Southern, Virginia Baptist, and Massachusetts historical societies; Southern and American history associations; American society for extension of university training; Evangelical alliance of the United States; American colonization society; Northwest literary and historical society; and of the Phi Sigma and Phi Beta Kappa college fraternities. Author: "Constitutional government in Spain," 1889; "Establishment and disestablishment in America," 1889; "William Ewart Gladstone," 1891; "The Southern States of the American union," 1895; "The Civil history of the government of the Confederate States, with some personal reminiscences," 1901. He wrote quite freely for newspapers and magazines and had the distinction of having made more addresses on the subject of education than any other man in the State. By legislative action, 1903, Dr. Curry was designated as one of Alabama's representatives in National statuary hall, the Capitol, Washington, the act stating that this tribute was made in recognition of his long distinguished labors as an educator. The act did not carry an appropriation as Dr. Curry's widow proposed bearing the expense of the statue which was in 1906, placed among America's illustrious dead. Married: (1) March 4, 1847, to Ann Alexander, daughter of Chancellor Alexander and Susan Barnett (Jack) Bowie (q. v.); (2) June 25, 1867, to Mary Wortham, daughter of James, jr. and Mary (Wortham) Thomas, the former one of the leading tobaccoists of Virginia and a resident of Richmond. Children: by first wife, 1. Susan Lamar, m. John B. Turpin; 2. Manly Bowie, m. A. L., daughter of Augustus O. and Virginia (Lamar) Bacon, the former U. S. senator from Georgia. Last residence: Richmond, Va.

CURRY, JOHN HARDY, Baptist minister, was born January 7, 1845, near Carrollton, Pickens County, and died September 9, 1901, at Northport; son of James Madison and Lucy (Chapman) Curry, the former a native of South Carolina, who came to Pickens County, Ala., and lived near Carrollton; and grandson of William Curry of the same county. Mr. Curry obtained his education in the common schools of Pickens County; was ordained to the Baptist ministry by Big Creek church, near Carrollton, October 16, 1868; was pastor in Obion County, Tenn., at Carrollton and other points in Pickens County; and in 1890 located in Northport, and was a preacher there until his death. He was superintendent of education for Pickens County, 1886-90; and superintendent of education for Tuscaloosa County a part of 1894. He was a Democrat; and a Mason. He was a Confederate soldier, and in collaboration with J. J. Willett, of Anniston, he wrote, "The history of Company B, 40th Alabama regiment, C. S. A.," in which he was a 1st sergeant. Married: November 30, 1865, near Carrollton, to Nancy Lewis, daughter of Henderson and Beatrice Ferguson, who lived at Carrollton. Children: 1. Milton B., m. Ava V. Bonner, Carrollton; 2. John L., m. Velma Eatman, Northport; 3. Edna O., m. Samuel T. Palmer, jr., Northport; 4. Luther C., m. Nancy Robertson, Northport; 5. Lela P., m. W. H. Storey, Carrollton; 6. Mary Stella, resides Carrollton. Last residence: Northport.

CURRY, JOHN RENFROE, Baptist minister, was born January 16, 1877, at Tunnel Springs, Monroe County; son of Rev. William Green and Ann Mariah (Wiggins) Curry, who lived at New Decatur, the former of whom was a Baptist minister for fifty-one years, who served throughout the War of Secession in the army of northern Virginia, and was commissioned chaplain of the Fifth Alabama regiment in the fall of 1863 for conspicuous gallantry in battle; grandson of Allen Howell and Frances E. (Farnell) Curry, who lived at Pineville, Monroe County, the former of whom came to Monroe County from Georgia, and of Thomas and Elizabeth Allen (Randalson) Wiggins, who lived at Tunnel Springs; great-grandson of Drury Allen and Mary (Singletary) Randalson, who came from North Carolina in 1818 and settled in Monroe County. He received his early education at Furman, at Livingston male academy, and at Aberdeen public school, Mississippi. He attended Bethel college, Russellville, Ky., 1895-1896, completing the sophomore year; entered Howard college, Birmingham, in the fall of 1896, and was graduated there with the degree of A. B., 1898; attended Southern Baptist theological seminary, Louisville, Ky., 1898-1901, graduating in May of the latter year with the degree of Th.B. He was licensed to preach in the summer of 1895 at Aberdeen, Miss., by the Baptist church, and was ordained at Livingston, September, 1899. His first pastorate was at Athens; since then, he has been pastor at Citronelle, Atmore, Tuskegee, and Wetumpka. He is a Democrat and a Mason. Married: February 26, 1903, in Mobile, Nannie May, daughter of Lyman Hall and Pauline Elizabeth (Priester) Faith, who lived at Mobile. Children: 1. Pauline Faith; 2. Lillian Adele. Residence: Wetumpka.

CURRY, MILTON BEJAMIN, lawyer, was born May 10, 1867, near Carrollton; son of Rev. John H. and Nancy L. (Ferguson) Curry, the former a Baptist minister and Confederate soldier. He was educated in the common schools; studied law; was admitted to the bar, November, 1899; and is engaged in active practice in Carrollton. He was mayor of Carrollton 1890-1900, was elected to the State legislature in 1900; and was re-elected in 1902. He is a Democrat and a Baptist. Married: January 31, 1894, to Alva V., daughter of William J. and Virginia (Cunningham) Bonner, of Pickens County. Residence: Carrollton.

CURRY, THOMAS, planter, was born April 17, 1844, in Perry County; son of Jabez and Rebecca (Jordan) Curry, the former a native of Lincoln County, Ga., second cousin of Jabez Lamar Monroe Curry (q. v.); grandson of Burwell and Nancy Ann (Dupree) Jordan. He was a student at the Southern university and spent, 1862-63, at the University of Alabama. He served in the C. S. Army as sergeant, Co. H, 8th Alabama cavalry; and served after the war as register of chancery and justice of peace. He is a Democrat. Married: to Lona, daughter of Elam and Lumley (Sullivan) Parish of Marion; granddaughter of Dunklin Sullivan (q. v.). Residence: Marion.

CURRY, THOMAS, soldier of the American Revolution, sergeant, particular service not disclosed; annual allowance, $31.82; not demanded after March, 1831.—Pension Book, State Branch Bank, Mobile.

CURRY, WILLIAM GREEN, Baptist minister, was born September 11, 1843, at Pineville, Monroe County, and died January 12, 1910, at New Decatur; son of Allen Howell and Frances E. (Farnell) Curry, of his native place. He received a good elementary education and at the age of sixteen was licensed to preach. It was not until he was in the Confederate Army, however, that he was ordained, this ceremony taking place, by the order of the Pineville church at Orange Court House, Va., in 1863. He entered the Confederate service as private and "in consideration of a faithful discharge of duty," was made chaplain of the 5th Alabama infantry regiment, serving throughout the whole struggle. On returning home he became pastor at Monroeville, Belleville, Pineville and Bethany churches, and retained this relation until he was appointed to the evangelistic work by the Alabama State mission board in 1877. Two years later he returned to the pastorate at Snow Hill, and following this other pastorates in Alabama and Mississippi, filled a total ministry of more than fifty years. He was superintendent of education of Sumter County, 1891-1893. Howard college, of which he was a trustee, 1896-1904, conferred upon him the degree of D. D. in 1897. He was a Mason. Married: June 29, 1865, at Kempsville, to Annie Mariah, daughter of Thomas Allen and Elizabeth (Randallson) Wiggins of that place; descended from the Singleterrys, who came from Scotland and settled in South Carolina. Children: 1. Lola, m. Dr. B. W. Watson, Pineapple; 2. Thomas A. Clanton; 3. Wilbert A., New Decatur; 4. Bessie, m. Rev. W. M. Quisenberry; 5. John Renfroe, a Baptist minister, Tuskegee; 6. Susie, m. a McLean of Livingston; 7. Capers Jones, of New Decatur. Last residence: New Decatur.

CURTIS, ANDREW JACKSON, physician, was born December 20, 1829, in Dinwiddie County, Va., and died October 25, 1872; son of Robert LaFayette and Elizabeth (Dyer) Curtis, the former a Virginian, born in Petersburg, who moved to Alabama in 1836, and settled in forks of the Warrior and Bigbee Rivers, the latter of Elizabeth City, Va.; grand-nephew of Robert L. Curtis, who was killed in the Revolutionary War. Dr. Curtis obtained his early education in the country schools of his county, and entered college at Knoxville, Tenn., graduating in 1849. He read medicine under his brother, Dr. Fenton Curtis, at Panola, Miss., and completed his medical studies at the Pennsylvania medical university, Philadelphia, Pa., graduating with honors in 1851. He went to Cuba to practice medicine and to observe the yellow fever epidemic raging on that island; returned to this country in 1853, and settled in Choctaw County, where he practiced in partnership with Dr. Coleman; traveled through the northwestern and western states prospecting and as a correspondent of the Mobile "Mercury," and other newspapers and periodicals, 1857; returned home and purchased a property near Mt. Sterling, Choctaw County, where he engaged in farming; was a member of the Secession convention in 1861, from Choctaw County; was appointed surgeon of a company under Capt. Wilks Coleman, in the C. S. Army, but was forced to resign because of ill health; sold his farm in 1870, and moved to Meridian, Miss., with his family and practiced medicine at that place until his death. He was a Democrat, a Presbyterian, and a Mason. Married: October 19, 1854, at Mt. Sterling, to Olivia Octavia, daughter of George B. and Caroline (Ainsworth) Chaney, of Sumter County. Last residence: Meridian, Miss.

CURTIS, JAMES JACKSON, lawyer and judge, was born August 18, 1871, at Double Springs, Winston County; son of Benjamin F.

and Eliza (Taylor) Curtis, the former came from Denmark, Buncombe County, N. C., lived near Double Springs, Ala., was once sheriff of Winston County, also once tax collector, and a member of the legislature of 1878-79; grandson of Solomon and Charlotte Curtis, of Denmark, N. C., and of John and Eliza Taylor, of Haleyville. The Curtis and Taylor families are descendants of early English settlers in North Carolina. He was educated in the schools of Winston County; graduated in 1891, from the State normal college, at Florence; later took a course in the Birmingham business college. Studying law he was admitted to the bar in February, 1895. His practice has been in Cullman, Birmingham and Haleyville. He was assistant district attorney, 1895-96; U. S. commissioner, 1897-1903; mayor of Haleyville, 1907-09; supervisor of the census, 1910; elected judge of the fourteenth judicial circuit in 1910, which position he still occupies. He is a Republican; Presbyterian; Mason; Odd Fellow; Knight of Pythias; a member of the Fraternal union, and of the Royal order of moose. Married: June 22, 1904, at Cullman, to Lorena, daughter of Judge Asa B. Hays, of that place. Children: 1. Lorena. Residence: Haleyville.

CURTIS, T. F., clerk of the Alabama Baptist State convention, 1850.

CURTIS, WILLIAM MARVETTE, Methodist minister, was born December 30, 1878, at Lower Peach Tree, Wilcox County; son of Christopher Columbus and Viola Spencer (Powe) Curtis, who lived on a plantation near Lower Peach Tree and at that place, for about fifty-four years, the former of whom was born at the Curtis place in Clarke County, and was a farmer and physician. He received his early schooling and was prepared for college at Lower Peach Tree. Rev. Mr. Curtis entered the junior class of the Southern university when he was fifteen years old, and was graduated, A. B., 1896, and A. M., 1898. He was a student in graduate economics at Vanderbilt university, and spent three years in the theological department of that institution, being graduated B. D., 1901. He entered the ministry in the Alabama Conference, Methodist Episcopal church, South, 1901; served at the Headland Mission two years; on the Graceville Circuit, one year; at Columbia Station two years; at St. Paul's, Butte, Mont., one year; at the Perry Street church, Montgomery, three years; at Marianna Station, one year; was field secretary of the conference Sunday school board one year; was stationed at Uniontown; and at Tuskegee, 1917-1920. He is a Democrat; a Mason; and a Knight of Pythias. Author of "Christ, the Best Evidence of Christianity," thesis in systematic theology; "Child Labor in Nashville," thesis in graduate economics; "Moses' Place in the History of Israel," thesis in Biblical history; and has contributed to the press. Married: April 21, 1903, at Headland, Charles Frederick, daughter of Dr. Charles Frederick and Mattie McCrelus (Price) Sporman, of Headland, the former of whom is of German ancestry, who took his degree in medicine at Mobile, and practiced his profession at Headland and Macon, Ga.; granddaughter of Dr. Jonathan E. and Mila (Kirkland) Price, the former of whom came from North Carolina and settled at Abbeville, Henry County, where he was married. Children: 1. Charles Marvette; 2. John Christopher. Residence: Tuskegee.

CUTHBERT, JOHN ALFRED, lawyer, representative in congress, was born June 3, 1788, at Savannah, Ga., and died September 22, 1881, near Mobile. His father was a Revolutionary soldier who served in the army under Gen. Greene. He was graduated at the College of New Jersey, 1805; studied law and was admitted to the bar, 1809. The following year, he was elected to the Georgia legislature from Liberty County. After that time, he was returned regularly to one or the other branch of the legislature of that state for several years. He was an officer in the War of 1812, and commanded a company of Georgia volunteer militia in the defense of the coast. He was a representative from Georgia to the Sixteenth and Seventeenth congresses, 1819-1823, and was editor of the "Federal Union," Mill-edgeville, Ga., 1831-1837. He moved to Alabama in 1837, settling at Mobile. He was appointed judge of the county court of Mobile by the Alabama legislature, 1840, and was appointed judge of the circuit court in 1852. Last residence: Mobile.

D

DAGG, JOHN LEADLEY, Baptist minister, teacher, was born February 13, 1794, at Middleburg, Loudoun County, Va., and died June 11, 1884, at Hayneville; son of Robert and Sarah (Davis) Dagg of Dumfries, Va.; grandson of Thomas and Clarissa (Powell) Dagg, the latter the sister of Leven Powell who represented the Mount Vernon District in the U. S. congress, and of Samuel and Sarah (Leadley) Davis, of Loudoun County, Va.; great-grandson of John Dagg, who was born in England about 1700, and settled in early manhood in Dumfries, Va. Rev. Dr. Dagg received about two years' instruction from Rev. William Williamson, a Presbyterian minister, who had charge of a church in Middleburg. Further than that schooling and the instruction of his parents, Dr. Dagg was a self-taught man. He prepared himself for the ministry; was licensed to preach by the Ebenezer Baptist church, Loudoun County, Va., in 1816; and was ordained the following year. He was a Baptist preacher in Virginia until 1825, when on receiving calls to the pastoral care of the First Baptist church of Richmond, and to the Fifth Baptist church of Philadelphia, he accepted the latter, and remained in charge of the church eleven years. In 1836, he came to Tuscaloosa to take charge of the Alabama female atheneum, now the Tuscaloosa female college; held the presidency of that institution until 1843, when he was elected to the presidency of Mercer university, Pen-field, Ga. He was connected with that institution until 1855, as president for the first ten years, and as professor in the theological department the latter two years. Dr. Dagg organized the theological department of the University, and his administration marked a period of growth and development in the school. Subsequently, he lived at Madison, Ga.; Cuthbert, Ga.; and Forsyth, Ga.; moving in 1870 to Hayneville, where he lived in the family of his son-in-law, Henry R. Rugeley, until his death. The honorary degree of D. D. was conferred upon him by the University of Alabama in 1843. He was author of "Manual of Theology," 1857; "Treatise on Church Order," 1858; "Elements of Moral Science," 1859; and "Evidences of Christianity," 1868; besides numerous pamphlets. He was a Democrat.

Married: (1) Fannie Hunton, daughter of Thomas Peyton and Elizabeth (Hampton) Thornton, of Virginia; (2) Mary (Young) Davis, who was by her first marriage, mother of Prof. Noah K. Davis (q. v.). Children, by first marriage; 1. Mary, m. Rev. George Y. Browne, a Baptist minister of Georgia; 2. Elizabeth, m. Rev. S. G. Gillyer, a Baptist minister of Georgia; 3. Sarah, m. Henry R. Rugeley; 4. John Francis, a Baptist minister of Georgia, Alabama and Kentucky, b. August 5, 1823, d. August 31, 1894, A. B., A. M., 1846, D. D. from Mercer University, 1874, pastor of Milledgeville Baptist church, Georgia, 1847-1850, editor of "Christian Index," Penfield, Ga., six years, pastor at Cuthbert, Ga., 1856-1866, president of Bethel College, Hopkinsville, Ky., 1866-1874, pastor of Danville and Lafayette, 1874-1878, professor of mathematics at Albemarle Female Institute, Va., 1878-1880, pastor at Gadsden, 1880-1882, m. December 24, 1857, Rosalee Helen Horsley, son, Judge J. L. Dagg of Vidalia, La.; by second marriage: 5. Mary Jane, m. Rev. R. D. Mallory of Macon, Ga. Last residence: Hayneville.

DAILY, OWEN, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 76, resided in Monroe County, June 1, 1840.—Census of Pensioners, 1841, p. 149.

DALE, LAURA, former faculty member of the Alabama girl's technical institute, Montevallo. Residence: Oak Hill.

DALE, SAMUEL, pioneer, was born in 1772, in Rockbridge County, Va., and died May 23, 1841, in Daleville, Miss. He was of Irish descent, and lived with his parents at Clinch River Forks, Va., from 1775 to 1783. The family moved in the latter year to what is now Greene County, Ga., then the frontier of that state, and lived in a stockade for protection from the Indians. The boy early became familiar with Indian warfare, and when his parents died a few years later, supported and protected the seven younger children, working on the farm and engaging in much of the border warfare with the Muscogees. In 1793 he was appointed a United States scout, and soon became a noted Indian fighter, known as "Big Sam." On November 13, of that year, he killed seven Indians single-handed at Randon's landing on the Alabama River, with only slight injury to himself. He saw service under Capt. Jonas Fauche, and at the peace became a trader among the Creeks and Cherokees, and acted as guide to pioneer parties who were seeking the Tombigbee settlements. At this time, he resided in Jones County, Ga., and during one of his trading excursions, heard Tecumseh's war speech at Tookabatchee. He moved to Clarke County, Ala., about 1810, and in 1813, was at the house of Col. Joseph Phillips, at Jackson, when James Cornells arrived there and announced that hostile Indians had burnt his house and corn cribs on that creek, which perhaps from this event, took the name of Burnt Corn. Capt. Dale accompanied Col. Caller in the Burnt Corn expedition where he was painfully wounded; took part in the bloody Canoe Fight; shortly afterward followed Gen. Claiborne to Econochaca as captain of a company in Maj. Smoot's battalion, taking part in that fight; commanded a battalion of Kentucky volunteers in Col. Russell's expedition to the Cahaba old-towns, February, 1814; and in the following December rode his pony, "Paddy," from Georgia to New Orleans in seven and one-half days, bearing dispatches to Jackson. Soon after the peace of Fort Jackson, he moved to Monroe County where he established a farm and became a trader at Dale's Ferry. He was for a short time in service under Gen. Jackson when that officer was sent to subdue the turbulent Seminoles; and went promptly to the assistance of the settlers when the outrages of "Savannah Jack," in what is now Butler County, caused alarm throughout the state. He was the first or second tax collector of Monroe County. In 1817, was a delegate from Monroe County to the convention to divide Mississippi territory; was a member of the first general assembly of Alabama territory, the same year; and received from Gov. Bibb a commission of colonel.

Col. Dale represented Monroe County in the Alabama legislature in 1819 with James Dellet, in 1820 with John Murphy, in 1821 with Arthur P. Bagby, in 1823 with John Gayle, in 1824 with Arthur P. Bagby, in 1826 and 1828 with Enoch Parson, and in 1829 with John Morrissett, serving in all, eight years between 1819 and 1830. In 1821, he was a member of the commission to locate public roads from Tuscaloosa to Pensacola, and on to Blakely and Fort Claiborne; was one of the committee to meet and escort Gen. Lafayette to the capitol of Alabama, 1824; was appointed with Col. G. S. Grimes by the secretary of war to remove the Choctaw Indians, 1830; moved to Perry County, 1830, remaining there about a year; bought land from Ia-cha-hopla, near Daleville, Lauderdale County, Miss., lived there for the rest of his life, and was the first representative sent by that county to the Mississippi legislature, 1836. On December 5, 1821, the Alabama legislature passed an act expressing gratitude for the services of Col. Dale, the preamble stating that he had lost the vouchers proving his claims against the United States, and the enactment putting him for life on the half pay of a United States colonel, with the rank of brevet brigadier-general of militia. One of the counties of the state was also named after him. Col. Dale spent some time in Washington, and his fragmentary descriptions and judgments of Jackson, Calhoun, Webster, Benton, Prentiss, and other great contemporaries are considered of great value. He has been called the "Daniel Boone of Alabama," and his adventurous life has been recorded by Meek, Pickett, and especially by J. F. H. Claiborne in his work, the "Life and Time of Gen. Samuel Dale." Married: about 1812 in Clarke County. Last residence: Daleville, Miss.

MAJOR WILLIS J. MILNER

DALTON, DAVID LOUIS, secretary of State, was born December 31, 1822, in Maury County, Tenn., and died November 13, 1894, at Shannon, Miss.; son of William Sims and Milbury (Halford) Dalton, the former a native of North Carolina and a teacher, and the latter a native of Virginia, of Irish descent. He obtained his primary education in his native State. He was a lawyer by profession, but details of his career as a lawyer are not available. When he came to Alabama is not definitely known, but he probably located in Florence before 1860. In that year he was clerk in the Indian bureau at Washington, D. C. He held clerkships under the Confederate government at Montgomery and at Richmond. He was secretary of State, 1865-7; private secretary to Gov. W. H. Smith, 1868-1870; and a clerk in the State department of education. During the last years of his life he resided at Shannon, Miss., where he was postmaster. He was a Democrat, and a Mason. Married: in June, 1845, at Florence, to Kate Louisa, daughter of Ebenezer and Jane (Wasson) Darby, who lived at that place, the former from Connecticut, and the latter of Welsh ancestry. Children: 1. Son who died in infancy; 2. Marie, residing at Shannon, Miss, unmarried. Last residence: Shannon, Miss.

DANCY, CHARLES FENTON MERCER, physician, was born September 7, 1814, at Greenville (now Emporia), Greenville County, Va., and died September 7, 1875, at Decatur; son of William and Priscilla (Turner) Dancy, the former born in Edgecombe County, N. C., lived at Decatur, Ala., of Huguenot ancestors, who belonged to the French nobility, but fled from France on account of religious persecution, and had relatives in the Continental Army; grandson of Col. David and wife, who was a Miss Dancy, who lived in South Carolina, of Simon Turner, a Tory of Greenville, Va., whose kindred held high appointments from under the King, and who after the Revolution was appointed a justice of the peace. He was educated at the famous old La Grange College, and in Nashville, Tenn.; studied medicine in Nashville and in New Orleans, and located in Decatur, where he practiced with much skill and success. When a youth, he served in the Mexican War, receiving land grants from Texas for his services. He was appointed by Gen. Albert Sidney Johnston in charge of all the hospitals from Port Hudson to Decatur, but after the taking of Decatur by the enemy, Dr. Dancy was required to serve in Federal hospitals. After 1865, because of failing health he retired from active professional life and became a planter. Prior to the War of Secession he was a Whig, but later affiliated with the Democratic party. He was a Royal Arch Mason. Married: July 23, 1849, near Decatur, to Sarah Dandridge, daughter of Gen. Jesse Winston and Unity Spotswood (Dandridge) Garth (q. v.). Children: 1. Mary Lou; 2. Unity, both of whom reside near Decatur, unmarried. Last residence: Decatur.

DANIEL, CULLEN COLEMAN, Methodist minister and president Birmingham-Southern college, was born August 29, 1879, at Highland Home, Crenshaw County; son of Coleman Franklin and Fannie Jane (Stough) Daniel, the former a native and resident of Highland Home; grandson of Thomas and Elvira Daniel, and of Simeon and Matilda Stough, all of Crenshaw County. Rev. Dr. Daniel obtained his early education in local schools, and in 1900, graduated in Highland Home college, with the A. B. degree. He was also tutor in Latin, and valedictorian of his class. He was graduated from the Southern university, Greensboro, A. B., 1905. He attended Vanderbilt university, 1910, but did not graduate. Later in 1910 he entered upon his work as a Methodist minister, and has filled appointments at Florala, Opp, Uniontown, and Fort Deposit, and the McTyeire memorial church, Nashville, Tenn. In 1917 the Alabama conference and the North Alabama conference agreed on the closing of the Southern university at Greensboro, and that all effort in behalf of the education of young men in Alabama under Methodist auspices should be centralized at Birmingham by the union of the Southern university and Birmingham college as Birmingham-Southern college. Rev. Dr. Daniel who had served as president of Southern university became president of the new institution, a position he still holds. He is a Democrat; a Royal Arch Mason; and a Knight of Pythias. Married: December 29, 1909, at Moundville, to Margaret Estelle, daughter of Newton Walter and Margaret (McKemie) Elliott, of that place. Residence: Birmingham.

DANIEL, JOHN, teacher and scientist, a native of Alabama, was born near Perryville, Perry County, July 6, 1862; son of John and Susan Lee (Winfield) Daniel, both of Virginia. He received his early education in the private schools at Summerfield, Dallas County; graduated from the University of Alabama, B. A., 1884, M. A., 1886; student at Johns Hopkins university, 1886-88; winning the "University Scholarship" in the first year of his attendance; and spent the year 1892 in Berlin. He was assistant professor of physics at the University of Alabama, 1884-86, fellow 1888, instructor in physics 1889, adjunct professor 1890-93; and since 1894 professor in physics at Vanderbilt university. He is the discoverer of the depilatory effect of the X-

Ray; was a member of the jury of awards, Tennessee centennial exposition, 1897. Author: numerous papers in Science, Physical review, Philosophical magazine, and Wiedeman's annals. Married: September 2, 1896, at Anniston, to Grace Olive, daughter of Ray and Frances Matilda (Harben) Knight, of that place. Children: 1. Landon; 2. Ray Knight; 3. John, jr.; 4. Harben Winfield; 5. Robert; 6. Grace Olive. Residence: Vanderbilt University, Nashville, Tenn.

DANIEL, JOHN WILHITE LEWIS, lawyer and major C. S. Army, was born August 1, 1831, at La Grange, Ga., and died August 31, 1876, at Midway, Bullock County; son of James Lewis and Matilda Ann (Gantt) Daniel, the former a native of Warren County, N. C., who removed to Tuskegee, Ala., where he lived nineteen years, after which he located in Eufaula; grandson of Capt. John and Mary Elizabeth (Lewis) Daniel who owned a plantation near Raleigh, N. C., and of Alfred Gantt, who lived near La Grange, Ga.; great-grandson of Zadek Daniel, and of James and Susan Clark (Anderson) Lewis; great-great-grandson of Robert and Jane (Meriwether) Lewis, and great-great-great-grandson of Gen. Robert Lewis, of Wales. Alfred Gantt's wife was a descendant of the Wilhoites and Munfords. He obtained early education in Tuskegee. After preparation and admission to the bar, he located in Midway; practicing in Barbour and Bullock Counties. Together with John Cochran, Jefferson Buford and Alpheus Baker he was chosen as a delegate from Barbour County to the Secession convention of 1861. On the outbreak of hostilities he was chosen captain of a company which he raised at Midway, and on the organization of the 15th Alabama infantry regiment he was chosen major. He resigned after the battles around Richmond, and raised a company for "Hilliard's Legion," but was placed on detached service in the conscript department in which he served during the remainder of the war. He was a Democrat; a Methodist; and a Mason. Married: in 1861, in Eufaula, to Belle Green, niece of Senator James L. Pugh. Children: 1. Estelle, m. Green Turner; 2. Edward; 3. Bert; 4. John W. L.; 5. Gilmer B. After their father's death, they moved to Texas with their mother, where she died. Last residence: Midway.

DANNELLY, EDWARD AIVES, Methodist minister, was born December 5, 1866, at Camden, Wilcox County; son of James Patrick and Louise Olivia (Gordon) Dannelly, natives, respectively, of Georgia and Alabama, who moved from Georgia to Canton Bend, Wilcox County, and later to Camden; grandson of John and Margaret (Raiburne) Dannelly, and of James Washington and Adelaide (Hawkins) Gordon, who lived at Suggsville; brother of Rev. Dr. John M. Dannelly (q. v.). Dr. Dannelly was prepared in the public schools of Camden, with the exception of a few months, and all of his early education was obtained from his mother who taught a public school for some years. He attended Southern university for three years; studied for the ministry; and joined the Alabama Conference in December, 1892. He has served as pastor of the charges of Montgomery City mission; of Geneva; Evergreen; Auburn; Church street, Selma; Government street, Mobile; and has also served as presiding elder of the Marianna district for three years; the Greensboro district, three years; the Montgomery district, four years, 1916-1919, inclusive; and became presiding elder of the Dotham district in 1920. The degree of D. D. was conferred upon Dr. Dannelly by Southern university in 1912. He is a Mason; an Odd Fellow; a member of the Woodmen of the World; of the Improved Order of Red Men; and of the Knights of Pythias. He was editor of "Wilcox Progress," published at Camden, during 1891-1892. Married: June 28, 1894, at Eufaula, Sara Glenn, daughter of Marcus Joshua and Sara (Glenn) Caldwell, who lived at Midway. Children: 1. Olivia Herndon; 2. Sara Glenn; 3. Margaret; 4. Eleanor; 5. Edna Cox; 6. Lucy Glenn; 7. Dorothy; 8. Edward Aives, jr. Residence: Mobile.

DANNELLY, JOHN MILTON, Methodist minister, was born September 19, 1855, at Camden, Wilcox County; son of James Patrick and Louise Olivia (Gordon) Dannelly, the former a native of Georgia, brought when a few months old, by his parents, to Canton Bend, Wilcox County, Ala., later lived at Camden; grandson of John and Margaret (Raiburne) Dannelly, and of James Washington and Adelaide (Hawkins) Gordon, who lived at Suggsville, Clarke County. Dr. Dannelly attended common schools and Wilcox institute, at Camden, then a preparatory school for boys, taking first prizes, at both, for conduct and class work. In 1909 he received from Southern university, Greensboro, the honorary degree of D. D. After some years of work as bookkeeper, farm, and railroad employee, he joined the Alabama conference, M. E. church, South, at Union Springs, December, 1885. He has had several pastorates, two being Pensacola, Fla., and Troy, at the former place was associated with the organizations of the United charities. He was colonel on staff of Gov. B. B. Comer, and detailed to act as chaplain in Alabama national guard, 1907-11. He is a Democrat; a Mason; Odd Fellow; and Knight of Pythias. Since 1907, trustee and financial agent, Woman's college of Alabama. Married: December 23, 1885, at Louisville, Barbour County, to Lena Augusta, daughter of Nelson K. and Mary Katherine (Tucker) Stephens, who lived at Louisville. Children: 1. Clarence Moore, m. Mamie Farnham; 2. Mary Olivia; 3. Nellie Lee, m. G. B. Clinckscapes, Ph. D., of Spartanburg, S. C.; 4. John Milton, jr. Residence: Mobile.

DANSBY, WILLIAM JEFFERSON, teacher, was born December 28, 1880, at Silas; son of James Madison and Lucy Ann (Wright) Dansby, the former of Barbour County; grandson of Isham Dansby, and of Vergil and Mary (Kimbrough) Wright, who lived near Bladon Springs. He obtained his early education at Silas academy, graduated in 1902, with B. Ph.

degree, at Troy State normal school; and in the law class, University of Alabama, 1913. He is a teacher by profession; taught in Choctaw County, 1902-10; principal of county high school, 1908-10; and has been county superintendent of education, 1904 to 1913. He was a member of the house of representatives from Choctaw County in 1919. He is a Democrat; and was a delegate in 1904 and 1912 from his county to state conventions in Montgomery. He is a Baptist; belongs to the Masons, Order of Eastern Star, Odd Fellows, Woodmen of the World, Knights of Pythias, and Farmers' Union. Married: December 31, 1914, at Thomasville to Marcita, daughter of L. L. and Josephine (Adams) Moseley. Children: 1. Josephine. Residence: Butler.

DARBY, BENJAMIN, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 86, and a resident of Clarke County; private S. C. Militia; enrolled on April 18, 1833, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $38.32; sums received to date of publication of list, $95.80.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34.

DARBY, STEPHEN JOSEPH, lawyer and editor, was born August 22, 1852, on a farm in Tallapoosa County; son of John West and Susan (White) Darby of Twiggs County, Ga.; the former a Democrat and a Secessionist, and when the war broke out in 1861, enlisted as a private in the Forty-seventh Alabama regiment, was discharged because of failing health, re-enlisted in 1862, and died from disease in service; grandson of Isaac and Mary (Lee) Darby, natives of Georgia, who lived on a plantation in that state, then moved to Stewart County, Ga., and finally to Bosier Parish, La., and of Capt. John and Nancy (Tanner) White, who lived in Anson County, N. C., and afterwards in Coosa County, Ala., the former of whom was a captain of militia in North Carolina. Mr. Darby spent his early days on his father's farm, attending the common schools in the neighborhood. Later he studied in the high school of John McWade in Georgia, and the private school of I. O. Clifton at Summerville, Tex. For two years after he finished his schooling, he was employed as a traveling salesman in Texas. He returned to Alabama; studied law with Suttle and Kyle at Wetumpka; was admitted to the bar in June, 1874, beginning practice at Rockford, Coosa County; was admitted to the supreme court of Alabama, January 3, 1876; established the "Rockford Enterprise," 1877; was elected solicitor of the fifth judicial circuit in 1880 for a term of six years and declined re-election; was admitted to the circuit court of the United States at Montgomery, 1885; moved to Birmingham, November, 1886, practicing law there for eight years, as well as connecting himself with J. C. Westbrook in the real estate business; became secretary of the Birmingham agricultural works, a director of the West Valley street railroad of that city, and attorney for both corporations; represented the department of justice in connection with the court of claims under Harrison's administration; was special assistant U. S. attorney, 1889; was admitted to the supreme court of the territory of Arizona, 1898; established the Arizona "Democrat" under the name of "Daily Enterprise," in Phoenix, Ariz.; was elected city treasurer of Phoenix, 1899; moved to San Francisco; edited a newspaper and was connected with a job printing office in that city up to and including the time of the earthquake; returned to Rockford; resumed the practice of law in that city, and established the Rockford "Chronicle," December 4, 1908. Mr. Darby is a Democrat, has frequently represented his locality in the state conventions of his party, and in 1884, was a delegate from the fifth district of Alabama to the national convention that nominated Grover Cleveland. In 1886, he was a candidate for the nomination for congress in the fifth district, and was defeated by three-fourths of one vote. He is a knight of the Golden Rule, and a Royal Arch Mason. Married: at Kowaliga, Rosalie, daughter of John C. and Elizabeth A. (Lambert) Westbrook (q. v.), who lived at Kowaliga, and later at Birmingham. Children: 1. Stephen J., jr.; 2. Rosalie, attended normal school at Florence, teaches in the public school at East Lake; 3. Annie Lee. Residence: Alexander City.

DARDEN, GEORGE, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 71, and a resident of Tuscaloosa County; private Georgia Militia; enrolled on April 2, 1833, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $27.77; sums received to date of publication of list, $83.31.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34.

DARDEN, GEORGE WASHINGTON, lawyer, was born November 17, 1865, near Lafayette, Chambers County; son of William Cargil and Caroline Elizabeth (Holsteen) Darden, both of Chambers County, the former a planter, merchant and manufacturer of West Point, Ga., for some time a Confederate soldier with the Georgia troops, judge of the inferior court at West Point, Ga., and a representative from Chambers County, Ala., in the legislature, 1874; grandson of George Washington Darden of Cooksville, Ga., and of Stanmore and Statira (Grigsby) Holsteen, of Chambers County. Both sides of the house are of English origin and from North Carolina. Mr. Darden received his early education in the schools of Lafayette, and attended the University of Alabama, 1884-1887. He studied law; was admitted to the bar; began to practice law in Oneonta, and has continued in that place; served as a justice of the peace in 1891; as mayor of Oneonta in 1893; as presidential elector from the ninth district, 1904; as solicitor for the sixteenth judicial circuit, 1907; and was elected to the State legislature, 1911. He is a Democrat, a Baptist and a Knight of Pythias. Married: June 26, 1891, at Oneonta, to Vaden, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Mamie Ruby Pratt of Madisonville, Ky. Residence: Oneonta.

DARDEN, JOHN AUSTIN, lawyer, was born April 2, 1879, near Rockford, Coosa County; son of John Alexander and Georgia Elizabeth (Webb) Darden, the former a native of Hanover, Coosa County, who was a resident of that county all his life, taught school a number of years, farmed and engaged in the buying and selling of cattle; grandson of Uriah Addison and Mary (Logan) Darden, natives of Georgia, who moved to Coosa County, the former a private and corporal of Co. A, Forty-sixth Alabama regiment, C. S. Army, who was captured at the battle of Lookout Mountain, and held a prisoner until the end of the war, and of Austin Pain and Ann Webb, natives of Georgia, who moved to Coosa County, the former a Confederate soldier who was captured at the battle of Missionary Ridge. Mr. Darden was left an orphan at an early age; attended the rural schools of Coosa County; was graduated from the Fourth district agricultural school, 1901; and from the law school of the University of Alabama, LL. B., 1903; was admitted to the bar June 1903, at Goodwater, where he has since practiced. He has been a justice of the peace, notary public, and a town attorney; and was elected to the State legislature from Coosa County, 1915. He is a Democrat; a Missionary Baptist; and a Columbian Woodman. Married: September 23, 1900, near Nixburg, Coosa County, to Vashti Olie, daughter of Sampson Elijah and Martha Jane Sellers of that place, the former a Georgian, who moved to Alabama in early life, served in the Thirty-fourth Alabama regiment, C. S. Army, until the surrender. Children: 1. Mabel Clara; 2. Eschol Sampson; 3. Olie Jewel; 4. John Austin, jr.; 5. Martha Elizabeth; 6. Norman Delmas. Residence: Goodwater.

DARDEN, WILLIAM ABNER, secretary to the governor, was born November 25, 1883, at Cave Spring, Floyd County, Ga.; son of William Abner and Edna (Evans) Darden, the former of whom was a native of Hancock County, Ga.; grandson of William Abner and Nancy (Morris) Darden who lived in Virginia, and of Edwin Whitfield and Nancy (Reed) Evans, of Georgia. He is of Scotch descent on the paternal side, and of Welsh descent on the maternal side. He was educated in private schools in Anniston, attended the Alabama Polytechnic institute, Auburn, for one year, and the Virginia Polytechnic institute, Blacksburg, Va., for one year. He entered the manufacturing business, starting to work with the Kilby Car and Foundry Company of Anniston when he was seventeen years old, and has been connected with that firm for twenty-one years, serving at present in the capacity of secretary and treasurer. He is also secretary to the governor of Alabama. He is a member of the Baptist church; a thirty-second degree Scottish Rite Mason; a Knight Templar; and a Shriner. Residence: Anniston.

DARGAN, EDMUND SPANN, lawyer, representative in congress, chief justice supreme court of Alabama, was born April 15, 1805, in Montgomery County, N. C., and died November 22, 1879. He was the son of a Baptist minister of Irish descent. His mother whose maiden name was Lilly, was of English parentage. Judge Dargan was forced to support himself at an early age, because of the death of his father. By his own efforts, he obtained a fair knowledge of English, Latin and Greek; was engaged on a farm until he was twenty-three years old, then read law in the office of Col. Joseph Pickett of Wadesboro, N. C. In 1829 he came to Alabama, settling first in Washington, Autauga County, where he taught school for a short time, practiced law, and was elected justice of the peace for several years. He moved to Montgomery in 1833 and rose rapidly in his profession; was defeated for the State legislature in 1840 as a candidate of the minority party; was elected by the legislature to the bench of the circuit court of Mobile district over Judge William Hale, of Mobile County, and immediately moved to Mobile County. He resigned the office of judge in 1842; was elected mayor of Mobile and to the State senate from Mobile, 1844. He resigned from the senate the following year, when he was the candidate of the Democratic party for congress, and was elected over Hon. William D. Dunn, the Whig condidate. He refused a renomination; in December, 1847, was elected to the supreme bench of the state by the legislature, to fill the vacancy made by the death of Judge Goldthwaite, and, on the resignation of Justice Collier, in July, 1849, became chief justice of the supreme court.

Judge Dargan resigned from the position of chief justice in December, 1852, and resumed his practice in Mobile. He did not again appear in public life until he was elected to the constitutional convention of 1861, as a delegate from Mobile. He voted for the ordinance of secession. At the first election by the people of representatives in the Confederate congress, he was elected from the Mobile district, defeating Col. Percy Walker, and Col. Portis of Clarke. He served through the term, declined re-election, and took no active part in public affairs after peace was established. He was a Democrat. Married: Roxana Brock of Montgomery. One of his sons, Moro, was born March 24, 1845; was a major and an aide on the staff of Gen. Clayton, C. S. Army; after the war was a broker in San Francisco, Calif.; and died May 6, 1883, at Spokane Falls, Wash. Last residence: Mobile.

DARWIN, JAMES LANIER, physician, was born July 8, 1859, at Meridianville, Madison County, and died March 3, 1916, at Huntsville; son of Sidney Sledge and Mary Ann (Lanier) Darwin, natives of Madison County, the former a Confederate soldier, engaged in the mercantile business in Huntsville; grandson of George and Belinda (Humphrey) Darwin, and of William Dixon and Lucy Ann (Caldwell) Lanier, all of whom reside near Huntsville. Dr. Darwin was educated in the public and private schools of Madison County, spent two years at the Agricultural and mechanical college, now Alabama polytechnic institute, Auburn. Ill health caused him to withdraw. He became a student at Bellevue hospital medical college, New York, graduating in 1888; was appointed on the staff of the Harlem hospital, which position he soon resigned, to accept a position on the resident staff of the New York cancer hospital, where he served one year. In 1890 he returned to Huntsville where he practiced his profession until his death. He was a Democrat; Knight of Pythias; and an Episcopalian. Married: May 22, 1902, at Nashville, Tenn., to Mattie, daughter of Oliver Beirne and Bettie (White) Patton of Huntsville; granddaughter of Dr. Charles H. and Susan (Beirne) Patton and of Gen. Addison and Sarah (Irvine) White, the latter a granddaughter of Dr. Ephraim McDowell of Kentucky, whose wife was a daughter of Gov. Isaac and Suanna (Hart) Shelby, of that state. Children: 1. Martha; 2. Mary Beirne; 3. James Lanier, jr. Last residence: Huntsville.

DAUGETTE, CLARENCE WILLIAM, teacher and president Jacksonville state normal school, was born October 14, 1873, at Bell's Landing, Monroe County; son of Thomas William and Clara Janet (Rankin) Daugette, who came from Clarke County, Ga., to Burnt Corn, Ala.; grandson of Chatham and Matilda (Campbell) Daugette, and of Hugh and Clarissa Janet (Abney) Rankin; great-grandson of Duncan and Janet Rankin, and of Captain Henry L. and Martha Abney. The Rankins were of Scotch origin, while the Abneys came from South Carolina, all to South Alabama. Thomas W. Daugette served for four years in the Confederate army, and was a member of Company H, 2nd Alabama cavalry regiment. Prof. Daugette was educated at the Monroeville academy, and at the Alabama polytechnic institute, graduated B. S. 1893, and M. S. 1894; and took summer work at the University of Chicago, 1899-1900. He was an assistant at the Alabama polytechnic institute, 1893-94. He first taught school at Repton, 1887, and afterwards at Range and Kent; taught science in the State normal school, Jacksonville, 1894 to 1898; and in 1899 elected president of that institution, a position he still retains. He is a Democrat; an Episcopalian; a Mason, and a Woodman of the World. He has been a member of the Alabama educational association since 1896 and has served as first vice-president, secretary, and as a member of its executive committee. He has served as president Calhoun County good roads association, and is interested in chamber of commerce work. He is editor of the "Normal school bulletin," a magazine for teachers, issued quarterly by the school of which he is president. Married: at Jacksonville, December 22, 1897, to Annie Rowan, daughter of John Horace and Septima Sexta Middleton (Rutledge) Forney (q. v.) of Calhoun County. Children: 1 Kathleen Forney; 2. Palmer, a daughter; 3. Clarence W., jr.; 4. Rutledge Forney; 5. Rankin Middleton. Residence: Jacksonville.

DAVENPORT, JAMES M., physician, was born in Kentucky about 1802, and died in Demopolis, 1842. He represented Marengo County in the legislature of 1840. Garrett says of him: "He was an educated gentleman, of pleasant address on the floor and elsewhere, a Whig in principle, and a very respectable debater, though he never tried the patience of the House by the frequency or length of his speeches." Married: in Demopolis, Alethia Ann, daughter of Allen and Sarah (Norwood) Glover, (q. v.), and the sister-in-law of Francis S. Lyon. After the death of Dr. Davenport, his widow married Alexander Graham, cf Eutaw. No children. He is buried in the Allen Glover cemetery near Demopolis. Last residence: Demopolis.

DAVENPORT, ROBERT B., captain in Col. J. C. Malone's 9th Alabama cavalry regiment, C. S. Army. Deceased. Last residence: Valley Head.

DAVIDSON, ALEXANDER CALDWELL, lawyer and congressman, was born December 26, 1826, in Mecklenburg County, N. C., and died November 6, 1897, at Uniontown; son of John Howard and Martha (Caldwell) Davidson, both natives of Mecklenburg County, who emigrated to Alabama in 1835 and located in Marengo County, where he lived until his death; grandson of John Davidson, an emigrant to North Carolina from Belfast, Ireland, a merchant and died of the yellow fever in Charleston, on the first appearance of that plague in the United States, and of Rev. Alexander Caldwell and his wife, who was a Miss Davidson, a daughter of John Davidson, a signer of the Mecklenburg Declaration of Independence, the former the son of Dr. Caldwell, an emigrant from Pennsylvania to North Carolina, and who was known as the fighting parson of the revolution, and served churches at Alamance. This Davidson family was related to the well known Graham family of North Carolina. Alexander C. Davidson received his elementary and academic education in Marengo County, then entered the University of Alabama, from which he was graduated in 1848. Two years later he received from the University the degree of A. M. In the meanwhile he studied law in Mobile, but owing to his father's health he was forced to give up its practice and to take up his father's business of planting and railroad construction in which he attained great success. On the outbreak of the War of Secession Col. Davidson, as he was called, offered his services to the Southern cause, but they were not accepted on account of his physical disabilities. He was often heard to declare that this rejection of the offer of his services in behalf of his native South was the great sorrow of his life. In 1881 as a Democrat he was elected to the lower house of the legislature and served one term. In 1884 he served in the State senate. In March, 1885, he was elected as a representative from the fourth district of Alabama to the United States congress, was re-elected in 1887, thus serving through the forty-ninth and fiftieth congresses, and was a member of the committee on agriculture and labor. He was an Episcopalian. Married: May 3, 1860, at Uniontown, to Maria Overton, daughter of Col. James L. Price, of Perry County. Children: 1. James Price, m. Mary Purnell Sharpe; 2. John Howard, m. Nancy Elizabeth Phillips; 3. Alexander Caldwell, jr., A. B., LL. B., University of Alabama, 1887; 4. Louis Overton, A. B. University of Alabama, 1888. Last residence: Uniontown.

DAVIDSON, HENRY CLARK, insurance and real estate, was born July 31, 1845, at Montgomery; son of James and Lucretia (Baily) Davidson, the former of Melrose, Scotland, emigrated to Montgomery, 1841, was merchant, cotton factor, and treasurer of city of Montgomery, 1875-83, and the latter born in Haddam, Conn.; grandson of Jonathan and Annie Elizabeth (Briggs) Davidson, of Melrose, both buried in the family graveyard at Abbotsford. Henry Clark Davidson was educated in private schools of Montgomery. He was clerk in the office of secretary of State, Confederate States of America, 1861-62; clerk in the quartermaster's department, Montgomery, 1862-63; and orderly sergeant, Co. D, Seventh Alabama cavalry regiment, C. S. Army, 1863 to the close of the war. He was a merchant in Montgomery, 1865-84, excepting a brief period from 1866-68, when he resided in New York; and has been in the insurance and real estate business since 1884. He has been member of Montgomery city council; aide, with rank of major of cavalry, on staff of Gen. George P. Harrison, commander Alabama division, U. C. V. He is a Democrat; an Episcopalian; a Mason; a Knight of Pythias; Elk; and Shriner. Married: July 31, 1872, at Montgomery to Fannie, daughter of Henry P. and Betsy Ann (Nicholson) Lee. Children: 1. Harry L., m. Caroline C. —; 2. Katherine Lucretia, m. George F. Linder, resides in Atlanta, Ga. Residence: Montgomery.

DAVIDSON, JAMES, SR., business man and public official, was born March 25, 1811, in Melrose, Scotland, and died January 6, 1884, in Montgomery. In 1831, he emigrated to America first settling in New York City; later removed to Georgia; in 1849, located permanently in Montgomery, Ala.; and engaged successfully in various forms of business. For many years and until one month previous to his death, he served as treasurer of the City of Montgomery. He was a Democrat; a Mason; and an Episcopalian. Married: in Haddam, Conn., to Lucretia, daughter of George Baily, of that place. Children: 1. Henry C. (q. v.), m. Fannie O. Lee; 2. James, jr., m. Jennie R. Keyes; 3. William B., m. Fannin Ferrett, of LaGrange, Ga.; 4. Lucretia, m. Belsr Wyman, of Montgomery. Last residence: Montgomery.

DAVIDSON, JAMES L., merchant, was born February 14, 1837, at Centerville; son of Samuel W. and Frances (Stringfellow) Davidson, respectively natives of North and South Carolina, the former was reared on a farm and received a common school education, migrated from North Carolina to Alabama in 1819 and settled near Pratt's Ferry in the present Bibb County, where he eventually became a large planter, was a representative from Bibb County in 1840 and filled many township offices, and through his efforts the Presbyterian church was built in Centerville in 1859; grandson of John and Margaret (Wilson) Davidson, the former a native of North Carolina, a merchant and a soldier in the Revolution who died in Bibb County, the latter was born in 1761, died in North Carolina, and reared a family of nine children. James L. Davidson was reared in Centerville and received his education at the colleges of Centerville and Tuscaloosa. At the outbreak of the War of Secession he organized the first infantry company in the county, of which he was elected captain. He took the company to Virginia where he commanded it until 1862, when he was detached and served as lieutenant colonel until the end of the war. He was at Seven Pines, Chickamauga and a number of skirmishes. At the close of the war, he followed for one year the grocers business in Mobile then formed a partnership in Centerville with Robert McIlvaine. He soon after bought out his partner's interest and alone entered upon a successful career, which has continued to the present day. In 1882 he was appointed postmaster at Centerville. He was a very large land owner and owns a fine plantation two miles south of Centerville. He was a Democrat; and a Presbyterian. Married: (1) January 27, 1864, to Fanny, daughter of Hugh Barclay; (2) November 17, 1867, to Susan A., daughter of James and Ann (Suell) Rowell. Children: by second marriage: 1. Margaret; 2. Anna; 3. Fannie; 4. Ella; 5. Dora; 6. James; 7. Ida; all deceased. Residence: Centerville.

DAVIDSON, JAMES MILLER, lawyer and State senator, was born December 17, 1844, at Scotland, Monroe County; son of William and Mary Jane (McMillan) Davidson, the former a native of Camden, Kershaw District, S. C., removed with his parents to Monroe County, in 1818; grandson of John and Patsy (Miller) Davidson, and of Rev. Neill and Mary McMillan, all of Monroe County; great-grandson of John and Jennie (King) Davidson, who emigrated from Ireland to America about 1784; great-great grandson of Hugh Davidson and wife, a Miss McCrory, who lived near Dublin, Ireland. James Miller Davidson received his early education from Rev. H. A. Smith, Hon. M. M. McCorvey, H. H. Holcomb, and R. A. Andress. He attended the Stonewall institute, near Summerfield; studied law at the University of Virginia; supplemented his law course with private reading; was admitted to the bar in 1872; entered upon the practice at Monroeville; removed to Polard, Escambia County, 1874; and settled in Brewton, in 1883. He was elected to the State senate, 1884-88; was mayor of Brewton, 1893, and served on the Democratic committees of Monroe and Escambia Counties several times. He enlisted as a private in Co. H, 17th Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army, in the fall of 1861; was promoted to first sergeant, which office he filled until wounded at the battle of Franklin; was taken prisoner and paroled at Pt. Lookout, Md., June 7, 1865; and was adjutant, Gen. Clanton Camp, U. C. V., Brewton, 1913. He is a Presbyterian; a Democrat; and a Mason. Married: April 9, 1878, at Pollard, to Sarah Catherine, daughter of Malcom and Mary Jane (McCaskill) McMillan. The McMillans and McCaskills located in West Florida in the early part of the 19th century from Richmond and Robeson Counties, N. C., to which their forefathers had emigrated from Scotland about 1760. Children: 1. Mary Anna, m. J. D. Williams, Birmingham; 2. William Malcom, lawyer, Birmingham; 3. Catherine Elizabeth; 4. Sarah McMillan; 5. James Marion; 6. Eleanor; 7. Kathleen; 8. Edward Neill; 9. Ada McCaskill. Residence: Brewton.

L. E. Thomas,

DAVIE, JESSE BATTS, merchant, was born February 23, 1856, on his father's plantation in Barbour County; son of Marshall Calhoun and Jane Elizabeth (Bass) Davie; and brother of Dr. Judson Davie (q. v.). Mr. Davie received his education at his father's home and in Spring Hill academy, Barbour County. After leaving the farm, on which he passed his boyhood, he became a clerk in a village store; then successively chief clerk in the office of the probate judge of Barbour County; clerk in the office of the master of trains in the Central of Georgia railroad company; store manager and buyer for the Comer and McCurdy mining company at Pratt Mines; store manager and buyer for Woodward iron company, at Dolomite, Jefferson County; and finally entering the mercantile business independently, at West Blocton, on October 3, 1889. He served two consecutive terms as president of the Bibb county jury commission; and was a member of the house of representatives from Bibb County, 1915. He is a Democrat; and a Baptist. Married: January 7, 1879, on her father's plantation, to Rebecca Tate, daughter of Jonathan McConico and Rebecca (Woodruff) Thornton, of Barbour County. Children: 1. Marshall Calhoun, m. Mary Emma Huddleston, West Blocton; 2. Jessie, m. Dr. M. C. Thomas; 3. Kathleen, m. Dr. Peacy E. Godbold; 4. Nuckols Thornton, M. D.; 5. Gladys, m. William Morris Lucy, Belle Ellen. Residence: West Blocton.

DAVIE, JUDSON, physician, was born April 17, 1851 in Barbour County; son of Marshall Calhoun and Jane Elizabeth (Bass) Davie, the former of whom was born at his father's plantation home in Columbia County, Ga., and lived at several places in Georgia until he moved to Barbour County, Ala., in 1848, and became a planter there; grandson of William and Ruby (Wellborn) Davie, who lived and died near Augusta, Ga., and of Buckner and Ann Elizabeth (Bass) who moved from Georgia to Barbour County in 1848; great-grandson of Robert Davie who married a Miss Wellborn, fought with his brother and father in the Revolutionary War in the battle of Guilford Court House and other battles, after the war settled in Georgia, near Augusta, and was given a grant of land by the state of North Carolina in Madison County, Tenn., then territory of North Carolina, where many of the descendants of the family settled, and of Elias and Mary (Marshall) Wellborn, the former a soldier in the Revolution; great-great-grandson of Gabriel Ashburn Davie who married a Miss Bumpas; great-great-great-grandson of William Davie who came to America from Cumberlandshire, England, about the year 1820, the first of the family to settle in America, located first on the Potomac River, where the City of Washington now stands, married Mary Ashburn of England, moved to Person County, N. J., where he spent the remainder of his life, was a cousin of Gen. William Richardson Davie, of North Carolina, who fought in the Revolution.

Dr. Davie received all of his education at home from his father except his professional. He studied medicine for a couple of years in the office of Dr. J. B. Pouncey, then entered the Medical College of Georgia at Augusta, and was graduated, M. D., 1872. He began the practice of medicine that same year in Spring Hill, Barbour County; was in partnership with his brother, Dr. Mercer Davie, until 1878, and has continued his practice there at his plantation home. He was elected to the State legislature from Barbour County, 1888, and served for two years; was elected state surgeon to the convict system, 1894, for a term of one year, was appointed physician inspector of convicts on the state board of convict inspectors by Gov. Oates in 1895, in charge of the hospital at Speigner where the state farm is located; was elected to the State senate from the twenty-fourth senatorial district, 1900, and while a member of that body was the author of a bill which became the present law controlling the practice of medicine in the state of Alabama; was appointed to take charge of a large hospital for state and county convicts at Flat Top Mine, in Jefferson County by Gov. Jelks, 1902, and was re-appointed to the same position in 1907 by Gov. Comer; served in that capacity for nearly nine years in all, then returned to his home at Spring Hill. While he was a member of the board of convict inspectors, Dr. Davie was the originator of the plan to use convict labor in building and operating cotton mills, which plan has since been adopted by the legislature and put in force. He is a Democrat, and a member of the Democratic Executive Committee for Barbour County; is a member of the Barbour County Medical Society, of the State Medical Association, and of the American Medical Association. He is author of several articles published in medical journals. Married: December 8, 1874, near Spring Hill, Georgia Tullalah, daughter of Joshua and Rebecca (Roberts) Hillman of Randolph County, Ga. Her father was a Confederate soldier who died in the army, a short time after the death of his wife. Mrs. Davie was adopted when she was three or four years old, by Mr. Leroy Upshaw and his wife, Annie Harris, who was a cousin of Mrs. Hillman. Children: 1. Annie Lee, m. December, 1902, Leroy J. Upshaw, resides at Rutherford, Russell County, has two children, Leroy Davie and Judson Davie; 2. Edward Rutledge, m. January, 1904, Leila Long, resides at Spring Hill, Barbour County, one child, Evelyn. Residence: Comer.

DAVIE, MERCER STILLWELL, physician, was born July 12, 1873, at Cowikee, Barbour County; son of Mercer Stillwell and Mary Eliza (Cody) Davie, the former of Talbot County, Ga., who lived at Cowikee, Pleasant Point, Tex., and Clayton, Ozark, Pinckard and Dothan; grandson of Marshall Calhoun and Jane Elizabeth (Bass) Davie; and of Michael and Frances (Thornton) Cody, whose last residence was Dothan. Dr. Davie was educated at Cowikee, Columbia, and Ozark; graduated at Tulane university, New Orleans, La., M. D., 1899. He at once began the practice of his profession in Dothan, where he has been continuously engaged; has been councillor and censor of the Medical association of Alabama, and orator of the association, 1906; was first health officer of Houston County, and president Houston County medical society. He is a Democrat; a Baptist; and a Mason. Married: June 27, 1901, at Eufaula, to Victoria, daughter of John C. and Victoria (Williams) McEachern (q. v.). Residence: Dothan.

DAVIES, T. W. W., major and later lieutenant colonel, 28th Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army.

DAVILA Y PADILLA, Spanish author and explorer. See Indian chiefs and associated characters.

DAVIS, BENJAMIN, planter and merchant, was born April 25, 1780, in Brunswick County, Va., and died June 29, 1863, in Autauga County; son of Maj. Benjamin and Tabitha Davis who lived in Brunswick County, Va., the former of whom was an officer in the Revolution, who came to Alabama in the early days of the state, about the time of its admission into the Union, and settled in Autauga County. The Davis family is of Welsh ancestry. Mr. Davis served in the War of 1812, and came to Alabama in 1818 or 1819, locating in Autauga County. He became a merchant and planter; was elected to the State legislature from Autauga County about 1828, when the capitol was at Tuscaloosa, and served two terms. At one time he was tax collector of Autauga County. He was a Democrat and a Methodist. Married: March 28, 1816, Martha, daughter of Benjamin Taylor who came to Alabama from Georgia and settled in Autauga County. She died in 1873 at the age of seventy-seven years. Children: 1. Mary Eliza, m. Cary L. Newman; 2. Merritt Warren, killed at nine years by a falling tree; 3. Benjamin F., M. D., m. Elizabeth Frith, son, Walter G. Davis, of Prattville; 4. Louisiana Caroline, m. John H. Barlow; 5. Thomas Asbury, physician, served in the C. S. Army as captain of Co. G., Sixth Alabama infantry, then as surgeon of the regiment, later as brigade surgeon under Gen. Gordon, m. Dora Motley; 6. Robert Henry, d. when twenty-one years old; 7. Laura Taylor, m. William Caver; 8. Martha Aurelia, m. George W. Zeigler; 9. John William, physician, b. in 1838, deceased, was graduated from the University of Atlanta, M. D., 1859, joined Co. G, Sixth Alabama infantry, went with it to Virginia where he was taken prisoner the day before the first battle of Bull Run, and was confined in prison at Washington, D. C., for six months, was paroled, practiced medicine for nine months in Perry County, was detailed to take charge of the sick at the Alabama Salt Works in Clarke County, joined the artillery at Mobile, was sent to Fort Gaines where he was again captured, was confined for three months in the barracks at New Orleans, for four months on Ship Island, was exchanged January, 1865, returned home, resumed his practice and farming, m. 1867, Astoria J., daughter of Dr. John and Clarissa Shackleford of Autauga County, granddaughter of Gen. Shackleford, one of the pioneers of Autauga County, adopted and reared Dr. Robert Davis, son of his deceased brother. Last residence: Autauga County.

DAVIS, BENJAMIN BULLOCK, druggist, merchant, was born September 9, 1829, at Philadelphia, and died August 19, 1888 while on a visit to his sister in Philadelphia; son of Anthony Davis, who was born at Rochdale, England, and emigrated to America about 1810, settling as an iron-founder in Philadelphia. He received a common school education in Philadelphia; trained for the drug business in that city; moved to Montgomery, Ala., in 1850 and entered the drug business there in connection with Coxe and Hutchings; entered the hardware business as a member of the firm of Davis, Stratford and Dillard; later was in the book business and sold out to Joel White. During the War of Secession, he was for a period secretary and treasurer of the Montevallo Coal Mining Company, furnishing coal mined at what is now the Aldrich mine, to the Central Foundry at Selma, where cannon were made for the Confederacy; moved back to Montgomery in 1865, entering into the hardware business with William H. Ware, under the firm name of Ware and Davis; bought out his partner and moved his stock of hardware to Eufaula, 1877. He was a deacon in the First Baptist church at Montgomery and at Eufaula for many years, and for eleven years was recording secretary of the Alabama Baptist State Convention, in which office he was succeeded by his oldest son. He was a Mason. Married: September 14, 1854, in LaGrange, Ga., Mary Elizabeth, daughter of Rev. William Anderson Callaway, who lived at LaGrange, Ga., and in Meriwether County, Ga. Children: 1. William Anthony (q. v.); 2. Mary, m. (1) John Edward Fitzpatrick, deceased, (2) Joseph A. Hall, resides at Atlanta, Ga.; 3. George Benjamin, m. Sallie B. Davis, resides at Athens, Ga.; 4. Jennie Triebels, d. 1891, in Atlanta, Ga., m. William W. Reid. Last residence: Eufaula.

DAVIS, CLINT, captain, prominent citizen of Madison County; son of Nicholas Davis, sr.; brother of Zeb P. and Lawrence Ripley Davis (q. v.). Deceased. Last residence: Huntsville.

DAVIS, DANIEL, physician, was born May 1, 1798, in Pendleton District, S. C., and died in Jefferson County, July 12, 1869; son of Edward Davis of South Carolina. Dr. Davis received his education in South Carolina; removed to Alabama in 1818; settled in Tuscaloosa County in 1821. He was a Baptist. Married: Lanie Brownlee, of Abbeville District, S. C. Children: order conjectural, 1. Bettie, m. George W. Marshall of Virginia, second cousin of Chief Justice Marshall; 2. Edward, m. (1) Elizabeth McMath of Jefferson County; (2) Mary C. Perry of Montevallo; 3. John W., m. Susan S. Etheridge of Mobile; 4. Elias, m. Rhoda Georgia Anna Latham (q. v.); 5. Ralph, m. Anna E. Suttle of Bibb County; 6. died young; 7. died young; 8. Lanie, m. a merchant of Eutaw; 9. Amanda, m. a minister of Kentucky; 10. Mary; 11. William. Last residence: Jefferson County.

DAVIS, DEWITT C., member constitutional convention, 1861, from Covington County.

DAVIS, EDWARD, farmer and merchant, was born in 1820 near Charleston, S. C., and died April 27, 1869, at Montevallo; son of Daniel and Lanie (Brownlee) Davis, the former of Irish descent, a native of South Carolina who removed to Alabama, locating in Jefferson County where he practiced medicine and conducted planting interests, the latter of French ancestry. Mr. Davis was educated in the common schools and began his business career as a merchant's clerk. At eighteen years of age he entered into business for himself, becoming a merchant and farmer. He held the rank of colonel in the Alabama militia, and during the War of Secession was detailed by the Confederate government to fill a coal contract for use in manufacturing guns and supplies of the army. He was opposed to Secession but held tenaciously to the principles of States Rights. He accidentally discovered coal on his farm at which is now Aldrich, sold the property and re-invested in more lands and resumed his activities. Earlier in life he owned and operated a farm where Avondale now stands. He was converted before his death and desired to join the Baptist church, but the state of his health prevented immersion. He was a Mason. Married: (1) Elizabeth, daughter of Malachi McMath, of Jefferson County; (2) October 1, 1859, to Mary C., daughter of Jacob and Sarah (McLeroy) Perry, who lived near Montevallo, Shelby County. Children: by the first wife: 1. Josephine, d. unmarried; 2. William, d. unmarried; 3. Thomas, d. young; 4. John, d. unmarried; 5. Amanda, d. young; 6. Frank, m. a Georgia girl; 7. Elizabeth, m. J. C. Harris, Mansfield, Tex.; by the second wife: 8. Daniel, d. in infancy; 9. Charles, m. Emily Johnson, Navista, Tex. Last residence: Montevallo.

DAVIS, ELIAS, physician, was born March 7, 1833, in Jefferson County, and died August 21, 1864; son of Daniel and Lanie (Brownlee) Davis (q. v.). He received his early education in the schools of his native county; read medicine with Dr. Joseph R. Smith, at Elyton; graduated from the Medical college of Georgia in 1853; entered upon the practice at Trussville. Dr. Davis enlisted as a private in Co. B, 10th Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army; was promoted to lieutenant, and to major a few days before being killed in the battle around Petersburg; fought in the battles of seven days before Richmond, Sharpsburg, Fredericksburg, Chancellorsville, Gettysburg and in the defense of Petersburg. He was a Baptist. Married: Rhoda Georgia Anna Latham of Trussville. Children: 1. John D. S.; (q. v.) 2. W. Elias B.; (q. v.). Last residence: Trussville.

DAVIS, FREDERICK EUSTACE, physician, was born August 14, 1874, at Centerville, Bibb County; son of Ralph and Anne E. (Suttle) Davis; grandson of Daniel Davis, a native of Ireland and of Judge John and Margaret (Goodwin) Suttle of Bibb County, the former who was on the county bench for fourteen years. Dr. Davis was educated in the public schools and in the high school at Montevallo. At the age of eighteen he became a drug clerk in his father's apothecary store where he remained for two years. He entered the Birmingham medical college and graduated in 1899, after which date he became an interne in the Davis infirmary, Birmingham. He became a practitioner in 1902, locating at Springville, forming a partnership with Dr. McLaughlin. He also owns a drug store. He is a Democrat; Woodman of the World; member St. Clair County and State medical associations; and on the board of medical examiners for his county. Married: in 1901, to Mamie Lena McJoel, of Nashville, Tenn. Residence: Springville.

DAVIS, GARDNER HARWELL, farmer, was born in 1804, in Upson County, Ga., and died March 24, 1874, in Glenville, Barbour County. His mother was Martha Harwell. He came to Alabama prior to the Indian war of 1836 and participated in that campaign; represented Russell County in the legislature in 1862 as a Whig; opposed secession but when hostilities became inevitable he yielded to the majority, and while too old to join the army he sent five sons to the front. He was a justice of the peace for many years; was a Methodist; and after the war he affiliated with the Democrats. Married: in Upson County, Ga., Mary Trice, of a Talbot County, Ga., family. Children: 1. Elizabeth, m. John Oswell Lamar; 2. Hiram Alonzo, m. Mary Frances Griggs, of Midway; 3. E. Monroe, m. Elizabeth Mims, of Prattville; 4. James Lapsley, killed at Gettysburg; 5. Henry Harrison, planter and minister, student at the University of Alabama, 1861-62, m. Martha Alice Stearns; 6. Sallie Hunter, m. Joseph I. Blackstone, of McLendon; 7. William, m. Mary Low Coleman, of Eufaula; 8. Zachary Trice, m. Lula Russell, of Warrior Stand; 9. John Gardner, m. Ludie Owens, of Troy; 10. Mary Julia, m. Thacker Howard Owens, of Troy; 11. Emma Lou, m. James Monroe Jones, of Eufaula. Last residence: Glen-ville.

DAVIS, HIRAM GLASS, Methodist minister, was born October 3, 1860, at Gordo, Pickens County; son of Dr. Daniel Puckett and Amanda Meloina (Moseley) Davis, the former a noted typhoid and pneumonia specialist, born in Lumpkin, Ga., who was elected captain of the Plow Boys Company at Tuscaloosa at the beginning of the War of Secession, but resigned under pressure to continue as a physician; grandson of Rev. William Moseley, of Griffin, Ga., a Baptist preacher who was elected to the Georgia legislature, to the state senate, and came within three votes of being elected governor of the state of Georgia without announcing himself as candidate or making any canvass. His early education was secured from the schools of Gordo, and from Pickensville seminary; later he attended the Southern university at Greensboro. He studied for the ministry, finishing the conference theological course in 1889; became pastor at Northport, Conn., at Jasper, Stevenson and Bridgeport. He was in charge of the Baptist churches at Russellville, Florence, Athens, Alexander City, St. John's and Woodlawn Baptist churches at Birmingham, and First Baptist church at New Orleans, La.; was presiding elder of the New Orleans district, of the Shreveport district, La., Monroe district, La., Tuscaloosa district, and of the First Baptist church, Miami, Fla. He held the presidency of the Athens Female college, 1899-1901; and of the Women's college at Anniston, 1901. The degree of D. D. was conferred upon Dr. Davis by Blountville college, 1895. He is a Democrat, a trustee of colleges at Birmingham and Athens, prelate of the Knights of Pythias and a member of the Odd Fellows. Married: (1) December 7, 1897, at Tuscaloosa, Giel, daughter of Col. John and Annie Irving (McGehee) Glascock, of Tuscaloosa, first cousin of the gallant Pelham of war fame, and of Henry Clay, statesman; (2) August 11, 1904, at "Wildwood" plantation, Louisiana, Margaret Eleanor, daughter of William Henry and Winnifred Cleburne (Silk) Beasley, grandniece of Gov. William Trousdale of Tennessee, and of Gen. Pat Cleburne; niece of Dr. Buffin B. Beasley, at one time member of the Louisiana legislature. Children: 1. Minnie Lou; 2. Irvette Clay; 3. William Beasley; 4. Morrison Moseley. Residence: Miami, Fla.

DAVIS, HUBERT TREVELYAN, lawyer, was born March 9, 1864, at Tuskegee; son of Richard Tatum and Mary Caroline (Fort) Davis (q. v.). He was educated at the Park high school of Tuskegee, and at the University of Alabama, graduating A. B., 1882, A. M., 1883. In 1890 he entered upon the practice of law at Gadsden; was solicitor of the city court, 1895-1901; has been a trustee of the University of Alabama since 1898, was elected to the constitutional convention of 1901 and was a member of committees on order, consistency and harmony, and on representation in that body. He was a member of the house of representatives from Etowah County, 1903. Mr. Davis taught in Barton academy, Mobile, 1882-1886; was principal of the academy at Carrollton, 1888-89, and read law there under Martin Luther Stansel in 1889-1890. He retired from the practice in 1907 and located on his plantation at Fort Davis. He is a Democrat; a Methodist; a Mason and a Knight of Pythias. Married: June 29, 1904, at New Decatur, to Rosalie, daughter of Dr. George R. and Sarah P. Sullivan, of that place. Children: 1. Trevelyan; 2. Madison. Residence: Fort Davis.

DAVIS, J. H., member constitutional convention 1865, from Randolph County.

DAVIS, JEFFERSON SUTTLE, physician, was born March 20, 1868, at Centerville, and died December, 1895, at Montevallo; son of Dr. Ralph and Annie Elizabeth (Suttle) Davis; grandson of Dr. Daniel and Lanie (Brownlee) Davis (q. v.), who lived at Bucksville, and of Judge John Willis and Mary (Goodwin) Suttle, of Centerville, Bibb County, the former of whom served as probate judge of Bibb County for eight consecutive years, and owned a large plantation and about one hundred slaves. His father was a physician, who served as a private for three years in the Tenth Alabama regiment, C. S. Army, then was made assistant surgeon of Dr. Batty's infantry, at Augusta, Ga.; and lived at Bucksville, Centerville and Montevallo. Dr. Davis obtained his early schooling in Montevallo; attended the Montevallo Academy; studied medicine in Mobile and Augusta, Ga., and was graduated from the Medical College at the latter place with first honors, M. D., 1890. Soon after his graduation, he began to practice medicine and surgery at Montevallo, and continued his practice in that city until his death in 1895. He was a Democrat and a member of the Baptist church. A contemporary has said of Dr. Davis, "Full of energy, ambition and a tireless worker, he soon built up a reputation as a studious and thoughtful physician, and early won distinction and honorable place in his home. He was a patient student, a willing disciple, a great reader, and with his pen gave to the world the results of an experience very large indeed for the few years of his professional life." Last residence: Montevallo.

DAVIS, JOHN, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 61, and a resident of Mobile County; private S. C. Continental Line; enrolled on September 29, 1819, under act of Congress of March 18, 1818, payment to date from February 15, 1819; annual allowance, $96; dropped under act May 1, 1820.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34.

DAVIS, JOHN A., delegate, twenty-ninth senatorial district, constitutional convention, 1901. Residence: Fort Payne.

DAVIS, JOHN DANIEL SINKLER, physician, was born January 19, 1859, at Trussville, Jefferson County; son of Dr. Elias and Georgianna (Latham) Davis, both natives of Jefferson County, the former a physician, who entered the Confederate army as a private in 1860, later was made captain, and was brevetted major the very day upon which he was killed, at Petersburg, Va., August 21, 1864; grandson of Dr. Daniel and Lanie (Brownlee) Davis (q. v.), and of Sinkler and Rhoda (Edwards) Latham, of Trussville; and great-grandson of Dr. John Edwards, also of Trussville. Dr. Davis received his academic education at Trussville, under Prof. R. G. Hewitt and at McCalla under Prof. I. W. McAdory; spent one year in school at Montevallo, and read medicine in Birmingham in the office of Dr. M. H. Jordan; and graduated in 1879 from the medical college of Georgia at Augusta, and in April, 1879, entered upon the practice at Ferryville, St. Clair County, and in May, 1881, he removed to Birmingham, where he since resided. He was president of the Jefferson County medical society, 1888; vice-president of the Southern surgical and gynecological association, 1904; vice-president American association of obstetrics and gynecology, 1907; and president Birmingham surgical and gynecological society, 1911. Soon after entering upon the practice he made a series of investigations, resulting in the discovery of the effect of malaria upon the eye, and the condition he called "malarial amblyopia." His work in the field of general practice and surgery has been varied and extensive, and he has given the numerous papers and articles in the professional press illustrative of his discoveries. He was one of the founders and editors of the Alabama medical and surgical journal, published in two volumes; and his contributions to medical literature number more than a hundred titles. He is a Baptist, a Knight of Pythias, and an Elk. Married: July 15, 1897, in Birmingham, Margaret Elizabeth (q. v.), daughter of Capt. Frank P. and Indiana (McBryde) O'Brien (q. v.) of that place. This happy union was broken by the death of the young wife a few months after marriage. Residence: Birmingham.

DAVIS, JOHN T., pioneer Missionary Baptist minister. Deceased. Last residence: Columbia.

DAVIS, JOHN W., major, lieutenant-colonel, 20th Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army.

DAVIS, JOSEPH H., member constitutional convention, 1867, from Randolph County, representing the 27th election district.

DAVIS, L. C., president Alabama Baptist state convention, 1826, and 1827.

DAVIS, LAWRENCE RIPLEY, planter and public official, was born February 27, 1819, in Kentucky, and died at Athens; son of Nicholas and Martha (Hargrave) Davis (q. v.). He was educated in Limestone County; and engaged in agricultural pursuits until the war. He read law and was admitted to the bar but never practiced. In 1849 he was elected on the Whig ticket from Limestone County as a representative in the legislature, and was again elected in 1859. In 1855 he had been defeated on the policy of taxation for building the South and North railroad, a policy which he opposed. He was a member of the legislature when the State seceded, and although opposed to that principle, he yielded to the majority. In 1860 he was an elector on the Bell and Everett ticket. Garrett says of him at this period: "Mr. Davis was again returned to the house in 1861, finding a great change in political classifications. Instead of Democratic and Whig, Union and Southern Rights, or Fire-eaters as they existed ten or twelve years previously, he beheld all former party distinctions obliterated, and all standing shoulder to shoulder in support of a common cause for self government." He removed to Athens in 1873 and established the "Limestone News," which he edited for one year, and then accepted the position of private secretary to Gov. George S. Houston. In 1876 he was appointed register in chancery for his county, and was occupying this office when he was appointed postmaster of Athens by President Cleveland, in 1885. His taste for editorial work was strong and during 1882 he edited the "Athens Post." He was an old Whig, but after the war, a Democrat, and his abilities as speaker, writer and presiding officer were constantly requisitioned by his party. Married: March 27, 1851, in Russell County, to Mary, daughter of Capt. James Abercrombie (q. v.); and (2) June 27, 1861, to Sarah Ann, daughter of Thomas Joyce and Martha Fleming (Beattie) McClellan (q. v.), of Athens. Children: 1. Martha Hargrave, m. W. C. Nichols; 2. Jane Bacon, m. Robert Kelly, Madison County; 3. Malvina, m. James Jackson, Huntsville; 4. Susan Lowe; 5. Williametta; by the second marriage: 6. Effie; 7. Sophia Lowe; 8. Mary Lane; 9. Bessie; 10. Lawrence Ripley, jr. Last residence: Athens.

DAVIS, LE ROY W., physician, surgeon and planter, was born in 1827, in Newton County, Ga.; son of George C. and Jane (Montgomery) Davis, the former a native of North Carolina who removed to Georgia, later to Morgan County, and who served in the Indian War of 1812, the latter of Morgan County, Ga.; grandson of John Davis, a native of England who emigrated to America as a young man and lived in Virginia, and of James M. Montgomery, a Primitive Baptist minister, of Irish parentage, a native of Morgan County, Ga. Dr. Davis attended Mercer university, Penfield, Ga., graduating in 1848, then read medicine, and graduated from the Medical college, Augusta, Ga., in 1851. He spent one year at home in the practice of his profession; six years in Newton County, Ga.; removing to Alabama in 1858 and locating in Montgomery County. Here he resumed his practice, at the same time carrying on a large mercantile business, running two cotton gins, a grist mill, saw mill and owning over one thousand acres of land. Married: in 1859, to Fleta, daughter of Charles J. and Christiana (Holman) Matthews, natives of Morgan County, Ga., who removed to Autauga County, later locating in Montgomery County where the former became a prosperous planter.

The town of Fleta was named for Mrs. Fleta Davis. Children: 1. daughter, m. George A. Shackelford, one of the early and most prominent citizens of Montgomery County. Last residence: Fleta.

DAVIS, LEWIS C., soldier of the American Revolution, aged 78, and a resident of Autauga County; private Virginia State Troops; enrolled on May 19, 1834, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $80.00.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in Part 3, vol. xiii, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34.

DAVIS, M. L., member constitutional convention, 1875, from Sanford, now Lamar County.

DAVIS, MARGARET ELIZABETH (O'BRIEN), author, was born November 19, 1870, at Montgomery and died April 1, 1898, at Birmingham; daughter of Frank Patrick and Indiana (McBryde) O'Brien (q. v.). She was educated in the public schools of Montgomery and Birmingham and graduated with first honors at Loretto academy, Ky. She was a devout Catholic. Author: "Judith, The Daughter of Judas"; wrote many poems and short stories; edited a feature department and was associate editor of the Birmingham "Age Herald." Married: July 15, 1897, in Birmingham, to Dr. J. D. S. Davis (q. v.). Last residence: Birmingham.

DAVIS, MARY EVELYN (MOORE), author, was born March 12, 1845, at Talladega, and died at New Orleans, January 1, 1909; daughter of Dr. John and Marion Lucy (Crutchfield) Moore, the former a resident of Massachusetts who removed to Alabama to take up the practice of medicine and who before the War of Secession took up his residence in Texas. Mrs. Davis received her education under the direction of private tutors and at the early age of eighteen published her first volume. Author: besides many short stories and poems, she wrote the following: "Minding the gap and other poems," 1870; "In War times at LaRose Blanche plantation"; "Under the man-fig"; "An elephant's track, and other stories," 1897; "Under six flags," 1898; "The wire cutters," 1899; "The queen's garden," 1900; "Jaconetta," 1901; "The little chevalier," 1905; "The price of silence," 1907; "The bunch of roses"; "The Moons of Balbanca," 1908. Married: October 20, 1874, at Houston, Tex., to Thomas Edward Davis, who served in the C. S. Army as major of the 21st Virginia cavalry, was founder and editor of "The Telegram," Houston, Tex., until 1879, when he removed to New Orleans to become associated with "The Picayune," being editor of that paper at the time of his death, February 20, 1917. Last residence: New Orleans.

DAVIS, NATHANIEL, farmer, was born in 1796 in North Carolina, and died November, 1862, at Shoal Ford, Limestone County; son of George Washington Davis, also a native of North Carolina, who settled in north Alabama during the pioneer period, living for a while in Madison, and later in Limestone County, and was a farmer. The family was of Welsh origin. He represented Limestone County in house of representatives, 1840, 1841, 1842, 1843, 1844, 1848 and 1851; was in the State senate, 1847; was messenger from Alabama to carry the electoral vote to Washington in 1852; and was selected by Wm. R. King to place his name before the joint session of the Alabama legislature as candidate for the United States senate in 1847. He was a Democrat; and a Presbyterian. Married: January, 1818, to Rhoda Niblick, daughter of James Craig, who lived at Moulton, Lawrence County, a farmer, who out of conscience freed his slaves. Children: 1. George W., d. in childhood; 2. John, d. unmarried; 3. James, d. unmarried; 4. Nicholas, m. Nannie Worthington, was a Confederate soldier, Cumberland Presbyterian minister and chaplain in the Fourth Texas regiment; 5. Elizabeth Thomas, m. W. H. Bagby, of Calhoun County; 6. Louisa, m. (1) William Bullard; (2) Charles Hunter; 7. Seraphina Carson, m. William R. Johnson, of Madison County; 8. Semeranus, d. young; 9. Amanda Ophelia, m. William Vaughn, father of Wm. J. Vaughn (q. v.), of Birmingham; 10. Chlorinda Lindly, m. James M. Cunningham, of Cherokee County; 11. Franklin Pope, d. young; 12. Sophia Virginia, m. William Stuart Patterson, of Madison County. Last residence: Shoal Ford.

DAVIS, NEWTON N. major, lieutenant-colonel, colonel, 24th Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army.

DAVIS, NICHOLAS, planter, was born September 19, 1781, in Hanover County, Va., and died September 29, 1859, on his plantation in Limestone County; son of John Dabney and Ann (Tinsley) Davis, the former sergeant in the Virginia line during the American Revolution; grandson of Thomas and Martha (Ragland) Tinsley, and of Wm. and Elizabeth (Shelton) Davis, natives of Middlesex County, Va.; great-grandson of John and Ann (Beaufort) Ragland, of Rippon Hall, the latter a descendant of John of Gaunt, fourth son of Edward, King of England; and of John and Rose (Usher) Shelton, the former mayor of Dublin, Ireland, early in 1700, and of Sir John and Katy (Ragland) Davis, of Glamorganshire, Wales, who married about 1696, and emigrated to Virginia, where he later owned lands in Henrico and Hanover Counties. Mr. Davis was a U. S. marshal in Virginia, moved to Kentucky in 1808, and thence to Alabama prior to 1817. He was a member of the first constitutional convention of Alabama, 1819, and a representative in the first State legislature, 1819. He was elected to the State senate 1820-28, inclusive, and was president of that body for five sessions. He was a Whig in politics and made the race for congress on that ticket in 1829, but was defeated by C. C. Clay by the narrow margin of eighty votes. In 1831 he was a candidate for governor, and received a complimentary vote. In 1847 he was again a candidate, and was defeated by Gov. Reuben Chapman. In 1840 he was a candidate for election on the Harrison ticket, and in 1844 he offered on the Clay ticket.

DR. ELISHA M. ROBINSON

Of him Brewer says: "He was fluent and eloquent as an orator, with a large fund of practical knowledge. He was exceedingly candid and hospitable and swayed opinions of men as much by his large-heartedness as by his strong magnetism. He was a patron of the turf, and carried out in his Alabama home all the other attributes of a Virginia gentleman of the approved school." He was a captain in the War of 1812. Married: April 10, 1806, in Hanover County, Va., to Martha, daughter of Jesse and Mary (Pleasants) Hargrave; granddaughter of John and Agnes (Woodson) Pleasants, who was great-great-grandson of John Pleasants, a native of Norwich, England, burgess for Henrico County, 1692, and a member of the Society of Friends, or Quakers. Children: 1. Edwin Rodney, m. Malvina Walker, who on his death m. a Fletcher; 2. Anne Bradley, m. Wm. Richardson, lawyer, father of William Richardson, representative in Congress (q. v.); 3. Martha Nicholas, m. George W. Lane (q. v.); 4. Phillip Dormer, d. in infancy; 5. Zebulon Pike (q. v.), m. Williametta Eason; 6. Lawrence Ripley (q. v.), m. (1) Mary Abercrombie; (2) Sarah McClellan; 7. Eliza James Lockhart, m. Dr. Stith Malone. 8. Mary Pleasants, d. in childhood; 9. Hector, d. at birth; 10. Nicholas, jr. (q. v.), m. Sophia Lowe, Huntsville; 11. DeWitt Clinton, m. Susan Lowe; 12. Virginia Dudley, m. (1) N. J. Harris; (2) Judge Jesse J. Philips, of Illinois. Last residence: Limestone County.

DAVIS, NICHOLAS, jr., lawyer, was born January 14, 1825, in Athens, and died November 3, 1874, in Huntsville; son of Nicholas and Martha (Hargrave) Davis (q. v.). He was educated in his native State and completed his legal studies at the University of Virginia. He served as a lieutenant in a company commanded by Capt. Higgins, in Col. Jere Clemens' 13th infantry regiment during the Mexican War, serving part of the time as a staff officer. The war over he completed his studies, was admitted to the bar, and located in Athens. He entered upon the practice of law and in 1851 was elected to the house of representatives from Limestone County. He located at Huntsville in 1853; was elected solicitor in 1855, an office which he held for five years. In 1852 he canvassed the State as a Scott elector; and in 1860 was on the Douglas electoral ticket. He stumped Northern Alabama in opposition to the secession movement, and was elected to the secession convention of 1861 as a Union delegate. He maintained that the delegates had no authority to take the State out of the union without a vote of the people, but when the State withdrew, he threw his fortunes with his State. He was elected to the provisional congress of the Confederacy to succeed Dr. Thomas Fearn who had resigned. Soon he was made lieutenant-colonel of the 19th Alabama infantry regiment, but declined the commission. He later commanded a battalion for a short time. He refused to take the Federal oath of allegiance, and his property suffered along with that of his neighbors. Immediately after the war he resumed the practice of his profession, specializing in criminal law. Married: in Huntsville, to Sophia, daughter of Gen. Bartley M. Lowe, a native of South Carolina, captain in the Revolutionary War, removed to Florida, where he accepted service under the Spanish Government, for which he secured a large grant of land, later located in Huntsville where he became a most successful merchant, first president of the Huntsville bank, fought in the Indian War of 1836, and in 1838 settled in New Orleans, La., where he became a cotton factor. Children: 1. Lowe, m. Lucy Meriwether; 2. Sophia Lowe, m. Ben Lee Young, of Huntsville; 3. William; 4. Nicholas C., a student in the University of Alabama, 1883-85, and a private in the Spanish-American War, 1898. Last residence: Huntsville.

DAVIS, NOAH KNOWLES, teacher and college president, was born May 15, 1830, in Philadelphia, Pa., and died May 3, 1910, at Lexington, Va.; son of Rev. Noah and Mary (Young) Davis, the former a Baptist minister, of Salisbury, Md., and who helped establish the American Baptist tract society; grandson of Daniel Davis, of Welsh descent, and of George and Mary (Ellison) Young: great-grandson of Robert and Elizabeth Ellison, the former a Jersey farmer and a Quaker. Dr. Davis received the degree of LL. D. from Mercer college, Georgia, in 1849, and Ph. D. from the University of Virginia. He began his professional career as a member of the Howard college faculty; was president of Judson female institute, Marion, 1857-64; president, Bethel college, Russellville, Ky., 1864-72; and from the latter date until his death was professor of moral philosophy at the University of Virginia. He was a Democrat and a Baptist. Author: "The theory of thought," 1880; "Elements of psychology," 1892; "Elements of deductive logic," 1893; "Elements of inductive logic," 1895; "Juda's jewels," 1895; "Elements of ethics," 1900; "The story of the Nazarene," 1903. In addition to these he published a large number of magazine articles. Married: November 25, 1857, at Albany, Ga., to Ella Cordelia, daughter of Anderson and Eliza (Griffin) Hunt, the latter a relative of Cyrus Griffin, the last president of the Continental congress, and of Col. Immanuel Griffin and Maj. Thomas Griffin, of the Revolutionary Army. Children: 1. Noah Wilson, m. Caroline Moore Switzer, of Harrisburg, Va.; 2. Marella, m. Walter Egerton Brooks, of Elyria, Ohio; 3. Archibald Hunt, m. Susan Caroline Topliff, of Atlanta, Ga.; 4. Clara Bell. Last residence: Lexington, Va.

DAVIS, NORAH, author, was born October 20, 1878, at Huntsville; daughter of Zebulon Pike and Williametta (Eason) Davis (q. v.). Miss Davis was educated by tutors in her father's home and in private schools; and was a teacher in the public schools of Alabama, Florida, Mississippi, Tennessee and Arkansas, 1893-1900. She later became a stenographer and newspaper writer and held several government positions, among these being deputy clerk, U. S. district court, Northern district of Alabama, 1901-05. Author: "The Northerner," 1905; "The World's warrant," 1907; "Wallace Rhodes," 1909. She is a Progressive Republican. Residence: Huntsville.

DAVIS, PRESTON BROOKS, business man, was born February 15, 1857, at Bostick, Florence County, S. C.; son of Henry and Mary E. (Bostick) Davis, the former a native of Marion County, S. C., who lived near Bostick, S. C., and was an ardent secessionist, too old to take up arms, but a liberal contributor to the cause; grandson of Bunyan and Sarah Bostick, of Marion County, S. C. Mr. Davis' paternal ancestors came from Wales with a colony which settled at Welsh Neck, Cheraw District, S. C. His mother was of English descent. He was educated in the common school of the neighborhood, and farmed at home until 1877. He engaged in the turpentine industry, entering into that business on his own account in 1882 in Georgia. He moved to Geneva County, Ala., in 1895, and has continued at that place as a manufacturer of naval stores and a dealer in general merchandise. He served as postmaster at Chancellor for a number of years; is a Democrat; a Methodist; and a Mason. Married: December 22, 1881, in Richland County, S. C., to Florence Achsah, daughter of Hilliard D. and Susan A. Hamiter of Bookmans, S. C., both of German descent, the former was captain of Co. G, Twenty-fourth South Carolina regiment, C. S. Army, and was twice wounded. Children: 1. M. B.; 2. H. H.; 3. L. H.; 4. Phillip. Residence: Chancellor.

DAVIS, RICHARD TATUM, merchant, was born August 7, 1833, at Newnan, Coweta County, Ga., and died February 1, 1891, at Fort Davis; son of Madison and Phala (Landrum) Davis, the former a resident of Newnan until 1845, when he removed to Tuskegee, where he died in 1848. He was educated in the common schools of Newnan, and attended John's high school at Tuskegee, 1845-50; was a merchant at Fort Davis, 1865-91; justice of the peace, 1868-91. He volunteered for service in the Confederate Army but after six months was rejected on account of ill health. He was a Democrat; a Methodist; and a Mason. Married: November 12, 1860, at Cotton Valley, to Mary Caroline, daughter of Joseph Jackson and Eliza (Kelly) Fort, of Darlington, S. C., and great-grandson of Elias Fort an officer from North Carolina in the American Revolution. The Fort family came to Virginia from England in 1660, and were of Norman origin, the name being originally le Fort. The wife of Elias Fort was a Hart, whose relative, Col. Henry Hart, was also a Revolutionary officer. Thomas Hart Benton, U. S. senator from Missouri, and Tomlinson Fort, of Chattanooga, Tenn., are relatives. Children: 1. Fort Madison, student at the University of Alabama, 1881-83, planter at Fort Davis, m. Ola Johnson; 2. Hubert T. (q. v.); 3. Lidie, educated at the Alabama conference female college, Tuskegee, d. unmarried; 4. Ivanhoe, educated at Park high school, Tuskegee, and d. unmarried. Last residence: Fort Davis.

DAVIS, SAMUEL, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 78, and a resident of Madison County, private Virginia Militia; enrolled on January 24, 1833, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance $26.66; sums received to date of publication of list, $66.65.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34. He resided in Madison County, June 1, 1840, aged 85.—Census of Pensioners, 1841, p. 148.

DAVIS, THOMAS, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 71, and a resident of Madison County; private S. C. State Troops; enrolled on November 15, 1833, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832; payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $30; sums received to date of publication of list, $90.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34.

DAVIS, W. H. member constitutional convention, 1861, from Pickens County.

DAVIS, WESLEY, deceased Presbyterian minister, mentioned in Nall's "Dead of the Synod of Alabama," 1851.

DAVIS, WILLIAM, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 73, and a resident of Greene County; private of Calvary N. C. State Troops; enrolled on March 15, 1833, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $100; sums received to date of publication of list, $200.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34.

DAVIS, WILLIAM ANTHONY, business man, was born January 13, 1857, at Montgomery; son of Benjamin Bullock and Mary Elizabeth (Callaway) Davis (q. v.); grandson of Anthony Davis who came to Philadelphia, Pa., from Rochdale, England, and of Rev. William A. Callaway, of LaGrange, Ga. He obtained his early schooling from Miss Jane E. Smith and George W. Thomas of Montgomery, and spent one year at Howard college, Marion. He located at Montgomery as a hardware merchant, 1874; moved to Eufaula in 1877, and continued in that business until 1885; spent two years in the real estate business in Montgomery; and has been in that business in Anniston since 1887, for the greater part of the time as general manager of the Anniston City land company and of the Alabama Mineral land company. He served as alderman of Anniston, 1892-1895. He was a deacon in the Baptist church from 1888 to 1904 inclusive, and is recording secretary of the Alabama Baptist State convention. He is a member of Woodmen of the World and of the Ancient Order of United Workmen. Married: February 21, 1884, in Eufaula, Laura, daughter of Joseph Asburn and Julia Frances (Woods) Sylvester, of Eufaula; granddaughter of Clayton Rogers Woods, of Eufaula. Children: 1. Clifford Sylvester; 2. William Anthony, jr.; 3. Julia; 4. Henry Edmonds; 5. Jennie. Residence: Anniston.

DAVIS, WILLIAM COLUMBUS, lawyer, was born August 5, 1867; in Iuka, Miss.; son of Samuel McGee and Emily J. (Lacy) Davis, the former a native of Lawrenceville, Gwinnett County, Ga., removed in early life to St. Clair County; and at seventeen years of age joined the Confederate Army, serving throughout the struggle; grandson of Jesse Davis, and of Judge Abner W. Lacy, both of St. Clair County. Mr. Davis was educated in the Mississippi common schools; and at the age of eighteen had attained such efficiency that he began teaching. He later studied law with Col. Harvey Murphy, of Aberdeen, and began the practice of his profession at Fulton, in that state. Soon afterward he removed to Marion County, locating at Hamilton; served as solicitor of that county; in 1892 was elected a member of the State Democratic executive committee, and re-elected in 1894. In 1894 he was elected to the house of representatives from Marion County, and served three terms in succession, 1894-95, 1896-97, and 1898-99. While in the legislature he secured the passage of a bill, establishing five additional agricultural schools and experiments stations, located in the first, fourth, fifth, sixth and ninth congressional districts. He removed in 1899 to Jasper, where he has since resided, engaged in the practice of law. In 1915 he was again elected to the house of representatives, and was chairman of the judiciary committee. In 1904 he served as presidential elector for the sixth congressional district. He is a Democrat; a Baptist; and a Mason. Married: July 24, 1895, to Maude Elizabeth, daughter of Alanson J. and Elizabeth J. (Nethery) Gray, of Choctaw County. Mrs. Davis is a sister of Hon. Oscar L. Gray (q. v.). Residence: Jasper.

DAVIS, WILLIAM ELIAS BROWNLEE, physician, was born November 25, 1863, at Trussville, Jefferson County, and died February 24, 1902, at Birmingham; son of Dr. Elias and Georgianna (Latham) Davis, and a brother of Dr. John D. S. Davis (q. v.). Dr. Davis received his early education in the common schools at Trussville where he was prepared for the junior class at the University of Alabama. Ill health and lack of funds caused his withdrawal before the completion of his course. Upon his recovery he began to read law in a private office but was persuaded by his brother, Dr. J. D. S. Davis, to take up the study of medicine. He entered the medical department of Vanderbilt university in 1882, and the following year attended a course of lectures at the Kentucky school of medicine, Louisville. In 1884 he entered Bellevue hospital medical college, New York City, and was graduated the following spring. He was at once taken into a full partnership with his brother, above named. In 1887 he attended surgical clinics in London, Berlin and Vienna. He was professor of gynecology and abdominal surgery, Birmingham medical college; surgeon to St. Vincent's hospital; surgeon and gynecologist to Hillman hospital; president Jefferson County medical society; president Tri-State medical society, including Alabama, Tennessee, and Georgia;; fellow of the American association of obstetrics and gynecologists, vice president in 1895, and president in 1901; chairman of the section of obstetrics and diseases of women and vice-president of the American medical association; honorary member of the medical society of New York, and of the Louisiana State medical association, and honorary president of the section on abdominal surgery of the Pan-American medical congress in 1893, and vice-president of the same congress in 1896; fellow of the British gynecological society; secretary of the Southern surgical and gynecological association, 1887-1900; president Southern surgical and gynecological association in 1901. He was a Baptist, and a Knight of Pythias. He was the author of numerous articles on professional subjects; was one of the founders of the Alabama medical and surgical journal, and one of its editors; and at one time an editor of the Young men's christian association journal, Birmingham. Married: in Birmingham, to Gertrude, daughter of Robert Wilson and Mary (Gardner) Mustin, of Birmingham, but originally from Pickens County. Children: 1. Margaret Anna; 2. Elizabeth. Last residence: Birmingham.

DAVIS, WILLIAM HENRY, deceased Presbyterian minister, mentioned in Burgett's "Dead of the Synod of Alabama," 1890-1900.

DAVIS, WILLIAM LEVI, teacher, was born March 4, 1866, at Greenville, S. C., son of Thompson and Parilla (Karnes) Davis, the former also a native of Greenville, S. C.; grandson of Tom and Mary (Boggs) Davis, and of John and Mary (Dotson) Karnes, all of whom lived at Greenville. He received his elementary education in the schools of Limestone County, and was graduated from the University of Alabama, A. B., 1908. In July, 1888, he opened a three months summer school with a third grade certificate under the old law. He taught at Pettey and Elkmont, Limestone County, and was county superintendent of education, 1900-1905; was quarantine officer for the city of Tuscaloosa, 1905; taught mathematics and French in the Alabama Normal college, 1908-1912; and became principal of the Lauderdale high school in 1912. He is a Democrat, a Methodist and a Knight of Pythias. Married: January 5, 1893, at Center Hill, to Bessie Frances, daughter of James McClung and Almeda (Browning) Grooms, who lived at that place, the latter whose ancestors were the Brownings of Giles and Lincoln Counties, Tenn.; granddaughter of Isaac Newton Grooms, who came from South Carolina. Children: 1. Oreon Inez; 2. Odessa Irene; 3. W. Gladys, deceased. Residence: Rogersville.

DAVIS, WILLIAM WATSON, teacher, was born February 12, 1884, in Pensacola, Escambia County, Fla.; son of Matthew Livingston and Annie Laurie (Lane) Davis, the former a native of Summerville; grandson of John Eayres and Sarah (Cropp) Davis, the former a native of Summerville who removed to Georgia when a very young man and died while at home on a furlough during the War of Secession, in which service he was a major of infantry, C. S. Army. His wife was a native of South Carolina and a descendant of a French Huguenot family. The maternal grandparents were Edward and Sarah (Davis) Lane of New York City. The great-grandfather, Matthew Livingston Davis, of New York, was an editor and politician, having assisted in the organization of the Democratic party, the friend and partisan of Aaron Burr, whose biography he wrote and whose papers he published after his death. The great-great-grandfather, Matthew Davis, immigrated from Wales in the early 18th century and settled in New York town where he was engaged in business at the outbreak of the Revolutionary War. He allied himself with the Whig cause, became a major in the Continental Army under Washington and was killed in the battle at Monmouth. The Lanes were planted in Virginia and the Formans with whom there was intermarriage were from North Carolina. They were of Scotch and English descent, arriving in America in the 18th century. Professor Davis received his preliminary education at his mother's knee, from a governess and in a private school at Oak Grove. Following this instruction came sessions at Seely's academy, San Antonio, Texas, and the country schools at Mauville, near Oak Grove. At the age of twelve he entered the University military school, Mobile, where he was prepared for college. He attended the Alabama polytechnic institute, Auburn, 1900-03, and graduated the latter year with the degree of B. S. He took a post-graduate course at the same institution the following year and received the degree of M. Sc. In 1904-05 he was librarian and instructor in history and Latin at the Alabama polytechnic institute and in 1906 graduated from Columbia university with the degree of A. M.; university fellow, American history, Columbia university, 1907-08; honorary fellow from Columbia university to the University of Paris, 1909-10; did work in modern history in the Sorbonne, University of Paris, in seminars of Aulard, Bloch, Bourseois, Seignobos and holds a certificate from Sorbonne. He was granted the degree of Ph. D. by Columbia university in 1913 and holds the position of assistant professor of American history in the University of Kansas, to which he was elected in 1910. He is a Democrat; an Episcopalian; Knight of Pythias, and member of the Kappa Alpha college fraternity. Author: "A Criticism of helpers," "Impending crisis"; "Military rule in Texas and Louisiana, 1866-68"; "The Civil War and reconstruction in Florida." He has also contributed to the Alabama historical association publication, Review of Reviews and Cosmopolitan magazine. Unmarried. Residence, Lawrence, Kans.

DAVIS, ZEB P., captain, prominent citizen of Madison County; son of Nicholas Davis, sr.; brother of Lawrence Ripley and Clint Davis (q. v.). Deceased. Last residence: Huntsville.

DAWSON, ARMISTEAD B., grand high priest, grand chapter of Alabama, Masons, 1840.

DAWSON, LEMUEL ORAH, Baptist minister, was born April 24, 1865, near Waverly, Chambers County; son of Andrew Jackson and Marie Antoinette (Bailey) Dawson, the former a native of Waverly, at that time in Chambers, now Lee County, a Confederate soldier under Stonewall Jackson and a prominent Mason; grandson of Gen. Lemuel Gulliver and Mary (Glanton) Dawson; and of Allen Lane and Mary (Thweatt) Bailey, all of Chambers County. Mr. Dawson was educated in the common schools of his native county and attended Howard college, then at Marion, from which he graduated in 1886 with the degree of B. A., holding the responsible offices of quartermaster and post adjutant of the college, with rank of senior captain, the highest office in the college. He graduated at the Southern Baptist theological seminary, Louisville, Ky., 1889, under John A. Broadus, and in 1890 finished the post-graduate course at the same institution. During 1890 he traveled in Europe and studied in Germany and in 1898 took a post-graduate course at Columbia university, Washington, D. C. He entered the Baptist ministry at eighteen years of age and was pastor of several small country churches while a student. For two years after leaving school he remained with one of these charges, the Mt. Vernon Church, in Woodford County, Ky. He began his pastorate in Tuscaloosa the first Sabbath in December, 1892, and for nearly thirty years has given continuous service to that church. During that time he has refused calls to the leading pulpits of nearly every southern state in the Baptist convention and to one in the north at salaries many times above what he receives, but a realization of his opportunity for service has kept him at his post of duty. He has also declined the presidency of several colleges, the secretaryship of mission boards and the editorship of church periodicals. He is a member of the board of trustees of Howard college, and for nineteen years was a trustee of the Alabama central female college, but resigned because of lack of time to perform the duties of the office. He is a trustee of the Southern Baptist theological seminary; member Alabama Baptist State board of missions; member Alabama Baptist educational commission; one of the founders and for ten years president of the Baptist young people's union, an auxiliary to the Baptist convention; member Tuscaloosa board of trade; chaplain during 1913 of the Warrior Guards, of the Second regiment, Alabama national guards. He is a Democrat. Author: a frequent contributor to the religious and secular press; has been associate editor of the "Alabama Baptist"; founded and edited the "Franklin Advocate," at Howard college; one of the founders and editor-in-chief of Seminary magazine, now the Baptist review and expositor, Louisville, Ky.; many tracts and pamphlets. Married: October 30, 1890, at Marion, to Margaret Samuel, daughter of Dr. Samuel Logan and Margaret Caroline (Reese) Lewis, of that place; granddaughter of Charles Reese; great-granddaughter of Henry Dobson Reese; great-great-granddaughter of Dr. Thomas Reese, a graduate of Princeton university and noted Presbyterian preacher; great-great-granddaughter of David Reese, one of the signers of the Mecklenburg Declaration of Independence. Her family traces its line directly back to the kings of North and South Wales, 1171. She is also descended from General Andrew Pickens of South Carolina, a Revolutionary hero. Children: 1. Andrew Lewis; 2. Eugene Reese. Residence: Tuscaloosa.

DAWSON, NATHANIEL HENRY RHODES, lawyer and U. S. commissioner of education, was born February 17, 1829, in Charleston, S. C., and died February 1, 1895, in Selma; son of Lawrence Edwin and Mary Wilkinson (Rhodes) Dawson, the former a lawyer of ability who graduated in the law school of Judge Gould of Litchfield, Conn., and was several times a member of the South Carolina legislature, removed to Alabama in 1842, settled near Carlowville, Dallas County, and died before reaching the meridian of life; grandson of John and Mary (Huger) Dawson, jr., the former a prominent merchant, intendant of Charleston three successive years, 1806-09, and of Dr. Nathaniel H. and Mary (Hamilton) Rhodes of Beaufort, S. C.; great-grandson of John and Joanna Broughton (Monck) Dawson, the former a native of Westmoreland, England, who emigrated to South Carolina during the colonial period, settling in Charleston where he became a wealthy merchant, and a member of the South Carolina convention of 1788, which adopted the Federal constitution, and of John and Charlotte (Motte) Huger, French Huguenots who settled in South Carolina in 1786, the former a member of the council of safety during the Revolution, intendant of Charleston in 1792, a member of the State convention which adopted the Federal constitution, and descendants of Daniel Huger, French Huguenot, and Jacob Motte, also a French Huguenot and treasurer of the province for near thirty years prior to the Revolutionary War; great-great-grandson of Col. Monck, and of John and Mary (Talbird) Rhodes, the former came to South Carolina from England in 1760 and took an active part in the Revolutionary War, and of Paul and Mary (Wilkinson) Hamilton, the former a Revolutionary soldier, member of the state convention which adopted the Federal constitution, comptroller general of the state from 1800-04, governor of South Carolina, 1804-08, and secretary of the U. S. Navy during the first term of President Madison's administration; great-great-great-grandson of Col. Thomas and Anna (Johnson) Broughton, the former colonial governor of South Carolina from May, 1735, to his death in 1738; great-great-great-great-grandson of Gen. Nathaniel Johnson, a distinguished soldier and member of the British house of commons, governor of the Leeward Islands in 1689, colonial governor of South Carolina from 1703-09, and whose son, Robert, was the last governor of the colony under the proprietary government. Colonel Dawson was educated at St. Joseph college, Mobile, and read law under his father and Hon. Geo. R. Evans of Cahaba, at which place he was admitted to the bar in 1851. In 1855 he was a candidate for the Alabama legislature on the "know-nothing" ticket, and although representing a minority party came very close to election. In 1860 he was a delegate to the Charleston and Baltimore conventions and under instruction from the state convention, withdrew from the former with the Alabama delegation. He entered the Confederate Army as captain of the Selma cadets, which organization later became a part of the Fourth Alabama infantry regiment. During the last two years of the war he commanded a battalion of cavalry. He was elected to the Alabama legislature during this time and sat with the sessions of 1863-64, but returned to his command after adjournment. He had removed to Selma in 1858 and after the close of hostilities returned to that place where he resumed the practice of the law. He was made chairman of the county congressional committee of the Democratic party during this period. In 1872 he was made presidential elector; member State Democratic executive committee, 1876-86; and was chairman during the last two years of that time. He was a candidate for governor in 1882 and when his friends demanded that he allow his name to go before the state convention for gubernatorial nomination he resigned his position as chairman of the executive committee, and went before the convention leading in the number of supporters for the coveted honor above his distinguished competitor. Owing to the fickleness of political fortunes he finally lost the nomination to Hon. E. A. O'Neal, who was later elected governor. He led the canvass in 1884 for Grover Cleveland; was trustee of the University of Alabama, 1876; member Alabama legislature, 1880-81, at which time he was elected speaker of the house of representatives. In 1884 he was president of the State bar association and in 1886 was appointed by President Cleveland, as U. S. commissioner of education, a position bestowed without solicitation on his part, and filled with complete satisfaction to the teachers of the country, as well as all friends of public education which at the time was passing through a trying period. On account of the ability shown in this connection he was given the degree of doctor of letters by Columbia college. Upon the election of President Harrison he entered his resignation and a few months later returned to Selma where for many years he had practiced law in partnership with Gen. E. W. Pettus. Married: (1) in 1852, to Annie E., daughter of Joel Early Mathews, a leading business man; (2) in June, 1857, to Mary E., daughter of Benjamin J. Tarver, of Dallas County; (3) in May, 1862, to Elodie Breck, daughter of Robert S. and Elizabeth S. (Humphreys) Todd, of Lexington, Ky., and half sister to Mrs. Abraham Lincoln; granddaughter of Rev. John and Margaret (Preston) Brown of Staunton, Va. To the efforts of Mrs. Dawson was largely due the erection of the Confederate monument in Live Oak cemetery, Selma, and near this memorial to the heroes of the lost cause her own grave was placed when she passed from life in 1877. She was president of the Ladies memorial association, of Selma. Children by the first wife: 1. Elizabeth Mathews, m. Dr. John F. Furniss, Selma; by the second wife, 2. Mary Tarver, m. Jefferson D. Jordan, Chattanooga, Tenn.; by the third wife, 3. Henry Rhodes, A. B. and A. M. of the Alabama university, 1892; 4. Laurence Percy, chief of police, Selma, 1896-99. Last residence: Selma.

DAWSON, REGINALD HEBER, lawyer and president convict board, was born March 19, 1838, at Spring Grove plantation, St. John Berkley County, S. C., and died July 11, 1906, at Flat Top Mines; son of Lawrence Edwin and Mary Wilkinson (Rhodes) Dawson, and younger brother of Hon. N. H. R. Dawson (q. v.). He attended the University of Alabama, 1854-57, leaving in his junior year. In 1883, his alma mater conferred upon him the degree of M. A. He graduated in law at Lebanon, Tenn., and was admitted to the bar in 1860, beginning the practice at Camden, where he was associated for many years in partnership with Col. E. N. Jones and Hon. S. G. Cochran. When twenty-one years of age he was elected circuit solicitor. At the outbreak of the War of Secession he entered the C. S. Army as captain and rose to major, and later was made lieutenant colonel 13th Alabama infantry regiment, of which he acted as colonel and assistant adjutant general. In 1864 he retired from active duty on account of injuries received in the conflict, being given special mention in general orders for gallantry in the battle of Seven Pines and receiving other marks of distinction. In 1883 he was appointed president of the board of inspectors of State convicts and served in that capacity until 1897. His humane conduct of the affairs of this state department elicited admiration of the country and the unfortunate inmates blessed his name. He was a man of generous impulses and did a great deal of unheralded charity. He was a Democrat; an Episcopalian; and a Mason. Author: "History of the convict department of Alabama"; also contributing to the current press. Married: March 9, 1858, at Cahaba, to Georgia Anne, daughter of Thomas L. and Eliza Alabama (Rutherford) Craig, of that place. Children: 1. Laurence Edwin, m. Mary B. Boykin; 2. Thomas Craig, m. Evelyn Camp; 3. Anne Mathews, Selma. Last residence: Selma.

DAWSON, WALTER RALEIGH, farmer, was born December 4, 1832, in Upson County, Ga.; son of Gen. Lemuel Gulliver and Mary (Glanton) Dawson, natives of Edgefield District, S. C.; grandson of John Dawson, farmer and soldier in the Revolution, who lived and died in South Carolina, and of John Glanton, who also spent his life in that state. His father was educated in the common schools of South Carolina, moved to Alabama in 1834, settling in Chambers County; became a general in the state militia and in the war of 1836; died in Chambers County in 1848. Mr. Dawson was a brother of W. P. Dawson, a wealthy planter of Elmore County; of O. H. P. Dawson, a planter in Claiborne Parish, La.; of L. H.

Dawson, a planter who resides at Waverly; and of George W. Dawson, a merchant at Camp Hill. W. R. Dawson was reared on his father's farm in Chambers County, attended the common schools of the county and later private schools in Montgomery; taught school for three years, then devoted all his attention to his planting interests. He is owner of several plantations in Tallapoosa and Chambers Counties, and of considerable property in Camp Hill; has resided in Tallapoosa County since 1869, and in Camp Hill for the greater part of that time. He served in the legislature as representative from Tallapoosa County, 1878-1879; and later as treasurer of Camp Hill. He is a Democrat and has frequently represented his county in state, district and county conventions. He is a Baptist and a Royal Arch Mason. Married: November 21, 1852, Louisa Lewis Griffith, born January 29, 1835, in Jones County, Ga., daughter of Lewis and Elizabeth (English) Griffith, natives respectively of Philadelphia, Pa., and of Jones County, Ga. Mr. Griffith was a merchant tailor, and died in Jones County, Ga., in 1841. His wife died in Monroe County, Ga., in 1847. Children: 1. Sarah Frances, m. R. T. Parker, resides in Dadeville; 2. Mary Elizabeth, m. Benjamin H. Walker, resides at Camp Hill; 3. Kate Alice, m. Mr. Garrett, both deceased, last residence, Atlanta, Ga.; 4. Martha Portia, m. Henry W. Spinks, resides in Camp Hill; 5. Glennie McCoy, m. Church Corpreny, resides in Dadeville. Last residence: Camp Hill.

DAY, WILLIAM, soldier of the American Revolution, and a resident of Dallas County; private S. C. Militia; enrolled on March 8, 1833, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $40; sums received to date of publication of list, $120.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34.

DEAL, HENRY R., of Dale County, member of the constitutional convention of 1867, from the fifth election district.

DEAL, RANSOM, of Dale County, member of the constitutional convention of 1865, from the fifth election district.

DEAN, RICHARD, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 75, and a resident of Madison County; private S. C. Continental Line; enrolled on January 24, 1833, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $80; sums received to date of publication of list, $240.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34. He resided in Madison County, June 1, 1840, aged 81.—Census of Pensioners, 1841, p. 148.

DEANE, JOHN, SR., soldier of the American Revolution, aged 75, and a resident of Clarke County; sergeant of Artillery; Virginia Continental Line and State Troops; enrolled on February 6, 1833, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $120; sums received to date of publication of list, $360.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in Part 3, vol. xiii, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34.

COLONEL WILLIS BREWER

DEANS, GILBERT BURNET, farmer and legislator, was born May 14, 1852, at Midlothian, Gloucester County, Va.; son of Josiah and Mary (Yeatman) Deans, of Rosewell, Gloucester County, Va. He was educated in the private schools of Virginia and by tutors in his father's home, collegiate education being interrupted by the period following the War of Secession. From 1870 to 1880 he was employed by a railroad. During the latter year he engaged in farming which he still follows. He was a member of the legislature from Shelby County, 1894-95, and 1900-01, and of the State senate, 1896-97, and 1898-99. He is a Republican; and an Episcopalian. Married: March 25, 1880, in Shelby County, to Mary L. Lapsley. Residence: Calera.

DEAR, CHARLES, lawyer and member of the Alabama legislature, was born about 1820 and died in Wilcox County. He was trained to the law and at an early age began the practice. He was elected in 1842, representative in the Alabama legislature, and returned in 1843 and was made chairman of the proposition and grievance committee. He retired from public life to practice law and engage in extensive planting operations. He was a Whig. Last residence: Wilcox County.

DEARING, JAMES H., pioneer business man of Tuscaloosa.

DEARMAN, THOMAS M., soldier of the American Revolution, aged 94, resided in Sumter County, June 1, 1840.—Census of Pensioners, 1841, p. 149.

DEAS, ZACHARIAH CANTEY, business man, brigadier-general, C. S. Army, was born October 25, 1819, at Camden, S. C., and died March 6, 1882, in New York City; son of Col. James Sutherland and Margaret (Chestnut) Deas, the former moved to Mobile, in 1835, represented his district in the State senate in 1857, and who previous to his removal from Charleston, while a colonel of militia, had been on the reception committee at the time of the visit of General Lafayette, the latter a native of Camden, Kershaw County, S. C.; grandson of Colonel Chestnut and his wife, a Miss Cox, of Philadelphia, who lived at Camden, S. C. His mother was the aunt of James Chestnut, senator from South Carolina. During the American Revolution, after the battle of Camden, Lord Rawdon made his headquarters at the home of Colonel Chestnut. Col. George Deas, the cousin of General Deas, served with distinction in the Mexican war. General Deas was educated in Columbia, S. C., and at Caudebec in Calvados, near Rouen on the Seine, France. He moved in 1835 to Mobile, served in the Mexican war, entered the mercantile business as a cotton broker, and entered the Confederate Army at the outbreak of the war in 1861. He served on Gen. Joseph E. Johnston's staff at the battle of Manassas. On October 25, 1861, he was commissioned colonel and with the assistance of Robert Beverly Armstead recruited the 22nd Alabama infantry regiment, fitting out the regiment with Enfield rifles, from his own private means, being later reimbursed by the government in Confederate bonds. His regiment formed a part of General Gladden's brigade composed of the 1st Louisiana, the 21st, 22nd, 25th, and 26th-50th, Alabama regiments of infantry and Capt. F. H. Robertson's battery of artillery. He commanded the brigade on the first day at Shiloh, April 6, after General Gladden had fallen mortally wounded, and Colonel Adams on whom the command devolved, had fallen severely wounded. During the rest of the engagement he was in command of the brigade, and was severely wounded. He rejoined his regiment, participated in Bragg's Kentucky campaign, and was present at Munfordville and at Salt River. The 22nd Alabama, was now in Gardner's brigade composed of the 19th, 22nd, 25th, 26th-50th, 39th, Yancey's sharpshooters and Robertson's battery, and on December 13, 1862, when he was appointed brigadier-general, he was ordered to report to Lieutenant-General Polk for assignment, and superseded General Gardner as brigade commander on December 31, 1862, leading the brigade in the second day's fight at Murfreesboro. General Deas' brigade on April 1, 1863, had been reenforced by the assignment of the Alabama sharpshooters under Capt. James F. Nabors. It participated at the battle of Chickamauga, at Missionary Ridge and through the campaign from Dalton to Atlanta and Jonesboro, engaging in some severe skirmishes at Resaca, October 15, 1864; participated in the battle of Nashville, December 16, 1864, General Deas taking command of General Johnston's division on his capture on December 16th. The brigade served in the campaign of the Carolinas, but General Deas became ill at Raleigh in 1865, and the command of it devolved on Col. H. T. Toulmin. After the surrender he removed to New York City, establishing himself in the cotton business, he became a member of the stock exchange, continuing his membership until his death. He was a Democrat and an Episcopalian. Married: May 16, 1853, at Demopolis, to Helen Gaines, daughter of Francis Strother and Sarah Serena (Glover) Lyon (q. v.). No children. Last residence: New York City.

DE BARDELEBEN, A. W., major and lieutenant colonel, 56th Alabama partisan rangers, C. S. Army.

DE COTTES, NINA (BROWNE), newspaper writer, was born February 23, 1858, at Montevallo, Shelby County; daughter of William Phineas and Margaret Elizabeth Warwick (Stevens) Browne (q. v.). Mrs. de Cottes was educated at the Ursuline Convent, Tuscaloosa, and finished at Saybrook Hall, in Montreal, Canada. She edited the woman's department of the "Montgomery Advertiser" from 1890 to 1908, and was the first woman on the staff of the paper. She is the author of a "Social directory of Montgomery, Ala., 1900-1901," published in 1900, one of the first issues of its kind in the State. She began the publication of the Social world in 1908, which she conducted for a number of years. She is an Episcopalian. Married: February 8, 1877, in Bolivar, Tenn., to John MacMurphy de Cottes, son of Augustus and Susannah (MacMurphy) de Cottes, of Augusta, Ga. Mr. de Cottes is a Mason, and a lineal descendant of the Marquis Robert de Cotte, the famous architect, a nobleman of France of the Regency Period, who designed the ball room in the old Hotel de Toulouse, now the bank of France, an exact reproduction of which is the ball room of the fifth avenue home of Cornelius Vanderbilt in New York. Residence: Montgomery.

DEDMAN, JAMES EDWIN, physician, was born January 10, 1870, in Selma; son of Col. James M. and Mary Ann (Scarff) Dedman; grandson of William and Jane Dedman, natives of Virginia, who lived in Mecklenburg County, in that state, until they moved to Williamsport, Tenn., and of W. D. C. and Mary (Coats) Scarff, the former of whom was a soldier in the War of 1812; great-grandson of John Coats, who resided at Greensboro, was a member of the first legislature of Alabama, and later became State senator for his district. Dr. Dedman's father lived at Selma, served throughout the War of Secession in the Twentieth Alabama infantry regiment, was promoted to colonel, especially commended for bravery at the battle of Chickamauga by President Jefferson Davis, was advanced to a brigadier generalship just before Lee's surrender, was elected sheriff of Dallas County and mayor of Selma, and died February 6, 1888, at Shelby Springs, where he had gone in search of health. Dr. Dedman attended school at the Dallas Academy, Selma; was graduated with honors from Selma high school; entered the University of Alabama and was graduated from that institution three years later with the highest honors of his class, B. S.; enrolled in the medical course at the University of Tennessee, Nashville, during which time he served a year as interne at the Nashville City hospital; won first prize for his essay on "Prescription Writing," during his first year at the university; was graduated, M. D., taking the Paul F. Eve faculty medal for the highest average in all branches in a class of one hundred and ten students; was graduated from the College of physicians and surgeons, New York City, M. D.; opened practice at Nashville, Tenn., at the same time lecturing on normal histology in the medical department and on anatomy in the dental department of the University of Tennessee; practiced two years and a half at Indianapolis; located in Birmingham, 1898, where he became chief surgeon to St. Vincent's hospital; and served as a major surgeon in the European War. He is a Baptist; served as state deputy grand president for the Fraternal Order of Eagles; past commander of the Knights of the Maccabees; and past chancellor of Birmingham Lodge of United Moderns; and is a member of Phi Delta Theta, college fraternity. Married: Madge, daughter of George and Lorette Whitney, of Mt. Sterling, Ky. Children: 1. Madge Lorette. Residence: Birmingham.

DEESE, FRANK O., business man and legislator, was born in 1878 in Dale County; was educated in the common and high schools of the county; engaged in farming and teaching until 1902, when he entered the insurance business. He represented his county in the legislature of 1919. He is married, and has one child. Residence: Ozark.

DEFOREST, HENRY SWIFT, educator, was born March 17, 1833, in South Edmondston, N. Y., and died in 1896; son of Lee and Cynthia (Swift) DeForest, the former a native of New York, the latter of Connecticut; grandson of Gideon and Hannah (Byrdseye) DeForest, the former a native of Stratford, Conn., a soldier of the Revolution, who moved to Oswego County, N. Y., and there married. The DeForests were French Huguenots and came to this country in the first half of the seventeenth century. Henry S. DeForest was educated in the schools of Oswego County, N. Y.; pursued the study of theology at Yale university, graduating in 1857; afterwards studied this subject at the University of New York City. He was chaplain of the 11th Connecticut regiment, U. S. Army, War of Secession. After the war he served as minister of churches at Des Moines and Council Bluff, Iowa. In 1879 he became president of the Talladega college, Ala. Married: August 25, 1869, to Anna, daughter of Rev. Dr. A. B. Robbins, of Muscatine, Iowa. Children: 1. Mary; 2. Dr. Lee, the noted electrical inventor; 3. Charles M. Last residence: Talladega.

DE GRAFFENRIED, EDWARD, lawyer, associate judge court of appeals, associate justice State supreme court, and member constitutional convention, was born January 31, 1861, near Greensboro, Hale County; son of Emanuel T'Scharner and Sue Howard (Seay) de Graffenried, the former of Pleasant Ridge, Greene County, the latter of Greensboro; grandson of Dr. Trazevant and Rebecca (Hill) de Graffenried, of South Carolina, and of Major Reuben and Anne (McGehee) Seay, of Greensboro; nephew of Gov. Thomas Seay of Alabama. Christopher de Graffenried, who was born at Warb, in the Canton of Berne, Switzerland, and who founded New Bern, N. C., in 1710, was the first of the family in America. The Seays were Welsh who early settled in Virginia, later removing to Georgia and Louisiana. Judge de Graffenried was educated in the schools of Pleasant Ridge; graduated, in 1880, with the A. M. degree from the Southern university, Greensboro. He studied law under Gov. Seay, and was admitted to the bar by the Alabama supreme court, in 1882, locating in Greensboro, where he practiced in partnership with Ex-Governor Seay until the latter's death, and since, when not on the bench, has continued the practice of his profession at that place. He was the legal adviser to Governor Emmet O'Neal, and appointed by him, March 9, 1911, as associate judge of the court of appeals. On October 10, 1912, he was commissioned an associate justice of the supreme court to succeed Judge R. T. Simpson, deceased. He was a member of the constitutional convention of 1901. In 1888 he was a presidential elector and voted for Cleveland and Thurman. He is a Democrat; and a Methodist. Married: June 2, 1886, at Eutaw, to Mary, daughter of Dr. John S. and Alice (Coleman) Meriweather, of that place. Children: 1. Edward, jr. Residence: Greensboro.

DELBIDGE, GEORGE WASHINGTON, physician, was born December 16, 1826, in Petersburg, Va., and died May 28, 1899, in Macon County; son of James Kinniburgh and Minerva (Webb) Delbridge; grandson of Edward and Margaret (Turner) Delbridge, who lived in Virginia in Brunswick and Greenville Counties, the former of whom emigrated to America from Barnstable, England, with his brother, Thomas, fought in the Revolutionary War, and settled in Brunswick County, Va., in 1874, and of Warren and Cidia Jane (Walton) Webb, who lived in Greenville County, Va., the latter of whom was a descendant of the George Walton family of Revolutionary fame. Dr. Delbridge's father was born December 4, 1796, in Brunswick County, Va.; spent his early life in Petersburg and Hicksford, Va.; was a physician, a large slave owner, and lived the life of a country squire; moved with his family to Macon County, Ala., in 1834, and afterwards settled in Bullock County, where he owned extensive lands. Dr. Delbridge acquired a common education in the village schools which he supplemented in later life with extensive reading and study; entered the Transylvania University, Lexington, Ky., where he was graduated, M. D., 1854; and later was graduated from the University of Pennsylvania at Philadelphia with the same degree. He began the practice of medicine in Macon County, 1854, and continued to practice in that county for many years. During the War of Secession, he had charge of Camp Watts, between Atlanta and Montgomery, and the yard of his residence at Macon, almost always filled with the sick and wounded, was turned into a veritable out-door hospital. He was elected in 1875, a delegate to the state constitutional convention. In 1884, he became connected with the Southern medical college at Atlanta, Ga., subsequently becoming dean of the college, and retained that position until 1895. He was author of frequent contributions to medical journals; was a Democrat, a member of the Methodist church, and a Mason. Married: February 16, 1860, at Notasulga, Emily Mandeville, daughter of Joseph and Cynthia (Peaster) Hughey, of Abbeville, S. C., and later of Macon County, where Mr. Hughey died, in 1870; granddaughter of John and Sarah (Hinton) Hughey, the former of whom moved from near Charleston, S. C., to Union County, S. C., where he was a mill owner and merchant. The Hughey family is of Scotch extraction, its earliest known members having moved from Scotland to South Carolina, settling near Charleston. Children: 1. George Washington, jr., deceased; 2. Charles Lomax, m. Ida Young, resides in St. Louis, Mo.; 3. Thomas James, deceased, m. Mary Emily Mates who lives in Athens, Ga.; 4. Robert Cowart, m. Lilla Collins, resides in Atlanta, Ga.; 5. Harriet Estelle, m. Fred Remington Greene, resides in Amsterdam, N. Y. Last residence: Macon County.

DE LEON, THOMAS COOPER, author, was born in Columbia, S. C., May 21, 1839, and died at Mobile, March 19, 1914; son of Dr. Mardici Heinrich and Rebecca (Lopez-y-Nunez) De Leon, and brother of David Camden and Edwin De Leon, the former a physician and surgeon, for sixty years a resident of Columbia, S. C. He was of Spanish descent through both parents, his ancestors coming from Spain to the West Indies, and thence drifting to the colonies, before the Revolution, in which a number of them fought. He was educated at Rugby academy in Washington, D. C., where he had gone to live with his guardian, Edwin De Leon; at Portland, Me.; and at Georgetown college, in the District of Columbia. He was audit clerk in the bureau of topographical engineers from 1858 to 1861, when he resigned to enter the C. S. Army, in which he served until 1865. He located in Baltimore, where he edited the "Cosmopolite magazine" for a year, 1865-66, and 1866-67 he engaged in newspaper and magazine work in New York. In 1868 he removed to Mobile, where he made his home. He was managing editor, as colleague of John Forsyth, of the "Mobile Register," 1867, and on the latter's death in 1877, became its editor-in-chief; edited "The gulf citizen," 1878, and later "The gossip," both at Mobile; was manager of the Gossip printing company, 1885-97; lessee of the Mobile theatre, 1873-85; manager of the Interstate blue and gray drill encampment, 1885; National drill, Washington, 1887; organized Mobile Mardi Gras carnival, 1873, and managed it for twenty-five years. He invented and designed carnivals of Pensacola, 1874, and 1875; Vicksburg, 1876; first Baltimore "Oriole," 1881; Albany, N. Y., Bi-centennial, 1886, and other celebrations; and after 1897, was a magazine writer, novelist, lecturer. He was totally blind after 1903, and was called "The Blind laureate of the lost cause." Author: "South songs" (editor), 1866; translator of "Camors" (Octave Feuillet), 1866; translator of "Chalis" (E. Feydeau), 1867; "Cross purposes," 1869; "Hamlet, ye dismal prince," a burlesque produced at the Olympia, New York, 1870, the first American play to run one hundred nights, played by G. L. Fox; "Pluck," a comedy drama produced by Lawrence Barrett, 1873; "Jasper," a drama founded on the mystery of Edwin Drood, produced Barrett and Bandmann, 1873-74; "Bet: or, Through fire and water," produced Katie Putnam, 1874; "The Coqsures," 1887; "The soldiers' souvenir," 1887; "The rock or the rye; a travestie," 1887; "Creole and Puritan," a novel, 1889; "Juny," 1890; "Society as I have found it," 1890; "Our Creole carnivals," 1890-1899; "Sybilla, a romance of the town," 1891; "A fair blockade breaker," 1891; "The Puritan's daughter," 1892; "Four years in rebel capitals," 1878, 1892; "John Holden, Unionist," 1893 (in collaboration with Erwin Ledyard); "Schooners that bump on the bar," a travestie, 1894; "Out of the sulphur," (a prize novel, Tales from town topics), 1895; "East, West and South," 1896; "A nov-elette trilogy, introducing a bachelor's box, A jealous god, and The Christus sonata," 1897; "An innocent cheat," 1897; "The pride of the Mercers," 1897; "Craig-nest," 1897, 1910; "Life of Joseph Wheeler," 1899; "Confederate memoirs," 1899; "Inauguration of President Watterson," a travestie, 1902; "Tales from the coves," 1903; "The passing of Arle Haine," 1905; "Belles, beaux and brains of the 60's," 1907; "Old Vets' gossip," 1910, and subsequent years; and "Centennial remembrance book of Col. John Forsyth," 1912. Also poems, short stories, etc., as well as syndicate writer. Unmarried. Last residence: Mobile.

DELL, J. B., educator, superintendent of education of Houston County. Residence: Dothan.

DELLET, JAMES, lawyer, representative in congress, was born in 1788, in Philadelphia, Pa., and died December 21, 1848, at Claiborne; was the son of Irish parents. He was taken to South Carolina in infancy, grew to manhood in that state, and was graduated with first honors from South Carolina College, 1810. He studied law, was admitted to the bar in 1813, and was appointed a commissioner in equity. He moved to Monroe County, Ala., in 1819, settling at Claiborne, where he soon rose to eminence at the bar, and maintained his standing with increased reputation till he retired from the practice about twenty-five years later. He became a judge of the circuit court soon after his arrival at Claiborne; was elected to represent the county in the first general assembly of the state and on its assembling at Huntsville in 1819, was elected speaker of the house of representatives. In the twelve years following, he was four times elected to the legislature, was speaker in 1821, and repeatedly served as chairman of the judiciary committee. In 1833, he was candidate for congress from the Mobile district, and was defeated by Gov. John Murphy. Four years later, he in turn defeated Mr. Murphy in a regular political battle in the same district, for election to the twenty-sixth congress. He served throughout that term, 1839-1841, and was again elected to congress in 1843, defeating Judge Henry Goldthwaite in the most exciting canvass ever known in the district. While in congress, Mr. Dellet was recognized for his powers in debate, as a number of his published speeches will testify. In April, 1840, he delivered in the house of representatives a speech of thirty pages in pamphlet form, on the "Civil and Diplomatic Appropriation Bill," which was considered equal in quality to that of any of his compeers. After serving his last term in congress, he retired from public life due to the failure of his health, and devoted himself to the management of his large property in Claiborne until his death. He was a Whig. Hon. B. F. Porter, of Butler, has said of Mr. Dellet, "To strangers he was taciturn, and to the masses anything but dependent or conciliating. His ideas of independence and sincerity forbade every species of deception; and he scorned to solicit the good opinions of men except by honorable actions openly performed." Married: (1) Harriet Willison, of South Carolina; (2) Miss Wormley, of Tennessee. He left no sons. Last residence: Claiborne.

DELOACH, WILLIAM R., tax assessor and judge, was born in 1842, in Livingston, Sumter County; son of Dr. A. B. DeLoach and wife, who was a Miss Roby, the former of Tennessee the latter of Georgia. He was educated at Prof. Henry Tutwiler's Green Springs academy. At the outbreak of the War of Secession he enlisted as private in the C. S. Army, and was in the battles of Cold Harbor, Chancellorsville, Antietam; was later transferred to the Western Army, and became a captain in Forrest's cavalry. Upon the cessation of hostilities he returned home and was soon afterward elected tax assessor, a position he held two consecutive terms. In 1880 he was elected probate judge of Sumter County, and in 1886 was re-elected to that office. Married: in 1867, to Susan T., daughter of the late Charles R. Gibbs, a colonel in the War of 1812. Residence: Livingston.

DELOFFRE, ANDRE, professor of modern languages at the University of Alabama, 1855-65. Residence: Tuscaloosa.

DELONEY, JOHN EDWARD, public official, was born November 6, 1854, at Leighton; son of Edward B. and Nancy E. (Smith) DeLoney of Leighton. He was educated in the common schools of that community, and was engaged in farming until January 1, 1893, when he was elected probate judge of Colbert County. He held that office for six years, then became clerk of the county court. He was elected to the State legislature in 1900, and was re-elected in 1902. He is a Democrat and a Methodist. Married: February 14, 1893, at Leighton, to Annie J., daughter of Philemon King and Eliza J. Madding, of Lawrence, now Colbert County. Residence: Tuscumbia.

DEMENT, JAMES G., member of the State legislature from Limestone County; superintendent of education of that county; Confederate soldier. Residence: Rogersville.

DE MENT, JOHN JEFFERSON, physician, was born May 13, 1830, at Huntsville, Madison County, and died August 10, 1892, while away from home in quest of health and was buried in his native city; son of John and Celia (Lowe) De Ment, the former a native of Sumter County, Tenn., who settled in Madison County, in 1820; grandson of Charles De Ment of North Carolina, and of Jesse and Susannah Lowe. Three brothers, De Ment, came from France in the Colonial period and were Revolutionary soldiers. One settled in Tennessee, one in Maryland and one went west. The Lowes came from England and several of them were soldiers and officers of the Revolution. Dr. De Ment was raised upon his father's plantation and received a common school education. At twenty he began the study of medicine under

Dr. G. A. Wynche of Meridianville. In 1851-52, he attended the Medical college, Louisville, Ky., and in 1853, graduated from the University of Pennsylvania. He located at Meridianville and practiced his profession at that place until 1862 at which time he entered the Confederate Army. He was commissioned surgeon and assigned to the 27th Alabama infantry regiment and served this command until the surrender of Ft. Donelson, when he was sent a prisoner to Camp Chase, and later to Johnson's Island. He was released, June, 1862, and assigned to the 49th Georgia infantry regiment, under Gen. Jackson and remained with this command until it was surrendered at Appomattox. During this time he was surgeon general of Gen. Ed. L. Thomas' brigade. After the war he located in Huntsville, where he practiced medicine with eminent success until his death. He was a member of the American medical association; American health association; president, Alabama medical association, 1876; State board of censors; Madison County medical society, since 1853, and several times its president; member of the board of trustees, Huntsville female college; and since its foundation, a member of the board of trustees of Vanderbilt university; twelve years member board of trustees, Alabama insane hospitals; surgeon general, Alabama militia for eight years under Governors Houston and Cobb; appointed by Gov. Seay as one of the examiners under the color blind law. He was a Democrat; a Methodist; Mason; Knight of Honor; Knight of Pythias; Ancient Order of United Workmen; Knight Templar. Married: January 27, 1869, at Huntsville, to Cornelia Clopton, daughter of Dr. Henry Arthur and Sarah Elizabeth (Brandon) Binford of Huntsville. She was descended from the Brandon, Binford and Lee families of Virginia. Her grandmother, Miss Grace Lee, was closely related to Gen. Robert E. Lee. Children: 1. Henry Binford; 2. Mattie Sue; 3. Robert Searcy, Huntsville; 4. Sarah Binford, m. Harry Morrison Sheple, Philadelphia, Pa.; 5. John Jefferson; 6. William Rison; 7. Susie, m. Marion Ridley Moarman, Huntsville. Last residence: Huntsville.

DENNETT, WILLIAM BIBB, printer, was born November 12, 1829, at Huntsville, Madison County; son of William Briston and Amanda Nowlin (Bibb) Dennett, the former a native of Virginia, who located in Huntsville in 1827; grandson of William Bibb and wife who was a Miss Garrett, who lived on their plantation two miles from Huntsville. He attended private schools and later the Huntsville academy. In January, 1842, he entered upon an apprenticeship with the "Huntsville Advocate" which lasted five years. Shortly after completing this obligation he joined Co. H, 3rd Alabama infantry regiment, for service in the Mexican War and was with the troops from April, 1847, to July, 1848, when hostilities ceased and the company was disbanded. He held the rank of sergeant in the Mexican service, was lieutenant in Lopez' army which invaded Cuba in 1850, and was promoted captain in 1851. He entered the Confederate army as captain and was promoted lieutenant-colonel of the 24th

Alabama infantry regiment. Owing to the scarcity of printers and the pressing need of them in relation to public work, he resigned his commission in the army and located at Mobile where he practiced his trade. In 1868, in company with other colonists, he migrated to Fresno County, Calif., where for twelve years he engaged in farming. Later he was appointed deputy county assessor, and later still was elected city clerk and assessor, holding that position for eight years. He was made secretary of the chamber of commerce of Fresno and served that organization seven years. He entered the Soldier's Home, near Los Angeles, for a while and was also a member of the I. T. Union, located at Colorado Springs, and divided his time between the two homes. He later resigned both connections and retired on a pension at the age of eighty-seven. He is a Mason. Married: January 3, 1861, at Mobile, Caroline Matilda, daughter of Judge Gustaves Horton and wife, who was a Miss Sargent of that place. Residence: San Diego, Calif.

DENNIS, CHARLES AIKENS, farmer, was born July 8, 1787 in Putnam County, Ga., and died August 21, 1844, in Pike County. He was educated in his native county in Georgia, came to Alabama, and settled in Pike County, where he was a farmer all his life. He was elected to the Alabama legislature from Pike County, in 1826, and was re-elected in 1827, 1829 and 1835. He was a Democrat, and a Baptist. Married: in Putnam County, Ga., Esther Maddox, who was born May 15, 1790, and died February 5, 1870, at Orion. Children: 1. Lucinda, b. December 25, 1809, d. August 21, 1839, m. August 27, 1824, Thomas Cargill; 2. Joseph F., b. July 18, 1814, d. October 2, 1871; 3. John Wilson, b. April 2, 1817, d. September 25, 1853, m. August 20, 1840, Sarah Ann Moy; 4. Linna, b. September 1, 1822, d. October 5, 1870, m. August 19, 1840, S. R. Moy. Last residence: China Grove.

DENNIS, GEORGE A., physician, graduate of the Atlanta-Southern medical college and entered the practice at Augusta, Ga., 1893. Residence: Montgomery.

DENNIS, THOMAS HYRAM, merchant and legislator, was born January 9, 1875, at Girard, Russell County; son of Thomas Harris and Eveline Eleanor (Williams) Dennis, the former of Talbotton, Talbot County, Ga., who served in the Mexican War and in the War of Secession, the latter of Troy, Pike County; grandson of John and Martha H. (Wynn) Dennis, of Loflin, Russell County, and of Hiram P. and Emeline (Baygent) Williams, of Troy, Pike County. Mr. Dennis received his education in the schools of Girard, and is a salesman. He was formerly second lieutenant in Co. L, Second regiment, Alabama national guard; has served on the city council of Girard; and was elected to the State legislature in 1911. He is a Democrat; an Odd Fellow; a Knight of Pythias; and a Red Man. Married: May 29, 1895, at Girard, to Annie Lee, daughter of Washington and Missouri Anna (Graham) Mote, of Girard. Residence: Girard.

DENNY, GEORGE HUTCHESON, president University of Alabama, was born December 3, 1870, at "Old Church," Hanover County, Va.; son of Rev. George H. and Charlotte Matilda (Wright) Denny, the former a Presbyterian minister, chaplain of Otey's battery, C. S. Army, a native of Richmond, Va., and of Scotch descent. Dr. Denny received his preparatory education in the public schools of Amelia County; the high school at Amelia Court House, Va.; graduated with first honors from Hampden-Sidney college, Va., A. B., 1891, winning the orator's medal and taking the A. M. degree, 1892. He took post graduate work at University of Virginia, receiving his Ph. D. degree in 1897. He was instructor at Hampden-Sidney college, 1891-92; master Pantops academy, at Charlottesville, 1892-96; professor of Latin and German, Hampden-Sidney college, 1896-99; professor of Latin, Washington-Lee university, 1899-1912; acting president of Washington-Lee university, 1901-02, and president, 1902-1912, when he accepted the presidency of the University of Alabama, a position he still holds. He received the honorary degree of LL. D. from Furman university, S. C., in 1903 and from Washington college, Md., in 1905. He was president of the association of colleges and preparatory schools, 1904; trustee of the Carnegie foundation for the advancement of teaching since 1905; chairman Virginia State board of charities and corrections, 1907-12. He is a Democrat; a Presbyterian; and a member of the Sigma Chi college fraternity, and of Phi Beta Kappa. Author: "The subjective sequence after adjective and substantive predicates and phrases," 1896; editor, "Cicero's Letters" 1901; and contributor to "Library of Southern Literature," "The South in the Building of the Nation;" has written various monographs on philological, literary, and social subjects which have been published in cyclopedias, magazines and the current press. Married: June 1, 1899, in Richmond, to Janie Junkin, daughter of Rev. Dr. Givens B. and Frances (Moore) Strickler, the former was a Presbyterian minister, serving pastorates in Atlanta, Ga., and in Richmond, Va. Children: 1. Frances Moore; 2. Charlotte Josephine; 3. George Hutcheson, jr. Residence: University.

DENSON, W. A., lawyer, Birmingham.

DENT, DENNIS, merchant and planter, was born about the year of 1797 in either Georgia or Maryland, and died in 1860. He came to Tuscaloosa about the year 1820 and engaged in planting. He represented Tuscaloosa County in the State legislature, 1834, 1835, 1836, and in the senate in 1838, 1840, 1843, 1847, and in 1849 was chosen president of that body. He raised a company of volunteers in 1836, during the Indian War in Florida, and served in a campaign against the Creeks as captain. He removed to Mobile and became a member of the firm of Fontaine and Dent, commission merchants. He was a Whig and a Methodist. Married: Miss Bealle, of Georgia, and left many descendants. Last residence: Mobile.

DENT, STANLEY HUBERT, lawyer, county solicitor and member of congress, was born August 16, 1869, at Eufaula; son of Stouten H., and Anna B. (Young) Dent (q. v.). He received his early education in private schools in his native town; graduated with the A. B. degree, from the Southern university, Greensboro, June, 1886; graduated in law from the University of Virginia, June 1889, and admitted to the bar at Ozark, Dale County, July, 1889. He located in Eufaula for the practice of his profession, but later removed to Montgomery, where he formed a partnership with Gen. William C. Oates, later being a member of the firm, Harmon, Dent and Weil. Upon the death of Tennant Lomax, solicitor of Montgomery County, he was appointed by Gov. William D. Jelks, to that position, and assumed office November, 1902, to fill the unexpired term, and was, in 1904, elected for a term of six years. He was nominated by the Democrats, in a congressional primary, September 12, 1908, for membership in the 61st congress, and was elected successively to that office until 1920, when he was defeated by former Chief Justice John R. Tyson, in the primaries of that year. During his twelve years in congress, Mr. Dent held membership on important committees, and during the period of the World War, was chairman of the committee on military affairs. Married: June 23, 1897, in Louisville, Ky., to Etta, daughter of William Henry and Alice (Cocke) Tinsley of that place. Children: 1. William Tinsley. Residence: Montgomery.

DENT, STOUTEN HUBERT, lawyer and banker, was born October 20, 1833, in Charles County, Md.; son of Dr. Stouten Warren and Mary Catherine (Smoot) Dent, the former also a native of Charles County where his life was spent; grandson of Hatch Dent, a soldier of the Revolution, and of George and Mary (Dent) Smoot, all of Charles County. The Dent family is of English origin, the American founders being two brothers who left their native country under the displeasure of Oliver Cromwell whom they had opposed as adherents to the Stuarts. They settled in Maryland between the Potomac and Patuxent Rivers, then in Virginia, and upon the restoration of the Stuarts they received a large grant of land in Charles County, Md. Capt. Dent entered Charlotte hall, St. Mary's Md., after a careful preliminary training in the common schools of his native county. He completed his studies in 1861, but the school did not confer degrees. He started his career as a teacher, and this work brought him to Eufaula, Ala., but he only taught a year there. In 1856 he entered the law office of Pugh and Bullock at Eufaula, and the same year was admitted to the practice. At the outbreak of the War in 1861, he was a justice of the peace. After the close of hostilities he was for a number of years superintendent of education of Barbour County; was at one time member of the city council of Eufaula. He was first lieutenant of the "Eufaula rifles" Co. B, 1st Alabama infantry regiment; acted as adjutant of that regiment for some months; resigned and entered the artillery branch of the service as first lieutenant; was wounded at the battle of Shiloh but did not leave the field; in 1863 promoted captain of the battery which carried his name, and his command received special mention for faithful service and gallantry in battle. He was severely wounded in battle near Atlanta, July 22, 1863, and again wounded in battle, December 16, 1864, near Nashville, Tenn. Upon returning home, owing to the suspension of the courts he engaged in business. In 1866 he resumed the practice of law; and in 1879 he was elected president of the Eufaula national bank. He was temporary chairman of the State Democratic convention of 1892; was later a member of the State executive committee; and was a member of the constitutional convention of 1901. He is a Mason and an Odd Fellow; a steward in the Methodist church for forty years, has twice been a delegate to the General Conference, and in 1890 was chairman of one of the most important committees. He was the nominee of the Democrats for the legislature to represent Barbour County in 1872, and although defeated by a Republican his campaign gave confidence to the white citizenship of his section. Author: "Methodist churches in Eufaula," 1907. Married: June 5, 1860, at Eufaula, to Anna Beall, daughter of Edward Brown and Anna (Beall) Young, of Marion, Ga. Children: 1. Edward Young, m. Annie McCormick; 2. Nannie Beall, m. (1) Jackson Edward Long and (2) Dr. William W. Mangum; 3. Stanley Hubert (q. v.) m. Etta Tinsley; 4. Henry Augustus, unmarried, in U. S. Navy; 5. Katherine Louise, m. George N. Hurt, Eufaula; 6. Carrie, m. Charles Samuel McDowell, jr. (q. v.). Residence: Eufaula.

GEORGE B. McCORMACK

DERBY, CHARLES A., lieutenant-colonel, and later colonel, 45th Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army. He was killed at Sharpsburg, Md.

DESHLER, JAMES, brigadier-general, C. S. Army, was born February 18, 1833, in Tuscumbia, and was killed September 20, 1863, in the battle of Chickamauga; son of Maj. David Deshler, an eminent civil engineer, who removed from Philadelphia, Pa., to Tuscumbia, Ala., in 1825, and who at his death bequeathed his home and grounds for the establishment of a female college, now known as "Deshler Institute," in honor of his son. General Deshler entered West Point academy, in 1850; graduated in 1854; appointed brevet second lieutenant, 3rd Artillery; and served during the remainder of that year and a part of 1855, on frontier duty in California. He was transferred to the 10th Infantry, in March, 1855; spent some time at Carlisle barracks, Pa.; was in the campaign against the Sioux Indians; participated in the action at Blue Water, September 3; was under Col. A. S. Johnston in the Utah expedition; and was promoted first lieutenant, September 17, 1858. In May, 1861, he was at Fort Wyse, Colo., and upon hearing of the secession of Alabama, resigned his commission and repaired to Richmond, Va., where he was appointed captain of artillery, C. S. Army, July 19, 1861, to rank from March 16, 1861. He was ordered to report to Brigadier-General Loring, who on that day had been assigned to the Army of the Northwest. In the Cheat Mountain expedition in September, he acted as adjutant general of Gen. Henry R. Jackson's brigade, and on October 3, was aide-de-camp to Col. Edward Johnson in the engagement at Greenbrier. Captain Deshler was shot through both thighs, December 31, 1861, at Camp Alleghany while serving as acting assistant adjutant general to Col. Edward Johnson. Upon his recovery he was appointed colonel, March 9, 1862, assigned as colonel and chief of artillery, Army of Pamlico, March 22, 1862, and later relieved and assigned, April 4, 1862, as colonel and chief of ordnance, Department of North Carolina. In the latter part of 1862 he accompanied General Holmes to the Trans-Mississippi department, serving as colonel and acting assistant adjutant on his staff. He commanded a brigade of Texans in Churchill's division, was captured at Arkansas Post, in January, 1863, and exchanged in June, 1863. On July 28, 1863, he was appointed brigadier-general, ordered to report for duty to General Bragg, assigned to the command of the Artillery reserves, composed of 1st Louisiana, Lunden's Alabama battery, Massenbourg's Georgia battery, Havis' Georgia battery, Barret's Missouri battery and Orleans' guard artillery. On August 13, 1863, he was relieved from the command of the Artillery reserve and assigned to the command of the remnants of three brigades of General Churchill. This brigade now formed a part of General Cleburne's division, and as a part of this division General Deshler's brigade was engaged in the battle of Chickamauga. He was shot through the chest on the second day of the battle and died on the field of valor. Last residence: Tuscumbia.

DESNOUETTES, CHARLES LEFEBVORE, pioneer settler, was born in 1773, and was drowned in 1823, off the coast of Ireland in the wreck of a vessel. He was a cavalry officer under Napoleon with the rank of lieutenant general and was also made a count. He fought at Zaragosa, Corunna, Bautzen, Brienne, Waterloo, and Fleurus. He was one of the wealthiest of the French immigrants at Demopolis, having had bequeathed to him by Napoleon, 100,000 francs. His wife succeeded in obtaining permission for him from the French government to reside in Belgium and while on this trip he lost his life. Married: Mme. La Fitte. Last residence: Demopolis.

DE SOTO, Spanish explorer in the New World. See Indian chiefs and associated characters.

DESPREZ, WILLIAM, physician, was born during the first years of the nineteenth century in Paris, France, and died October 16, 1878; son of Ambrose and Josephine (Steübentine) Desprez, of Paris, France. His father and his uncle, Louis Desprez, were members of the court of France, the latter being one of the tutors of the Dauphin. Ambrose Desprez was a Royalist, and as such was exiled from France, and went to Ireland where he lived at Castle Blanez, Monaghan County. Dr. Desprez studied under a private tutor with the son of Lord Blanez at Castle Blanez, Monaghan County, Ireland; was apprenticed for seven years to John McAnally, surgeon, M. R. C. S., at Monaghan, the apprenticeship ending November 9, 1827. He attended the county hospital during that period, and in the year 1827, took lecture courses from the Theatre of Anatomy and School of Surgery at Dublin, from the College of Obstetrics, Dublin, and attended Dr. Steevens clinical lectures. He was enrolled as a member of the Royal College of Surgeons, London, England, November 30, 1830; practiced at Carlingford, Ireland, 1830-1843; came to America, 1843, landing at New Orleans; settled in Alabama at Buzzard Roost, near Dickson; and then at Cherokee where he lived prior to the War of Secession. Though too old to do active service in the war, Dr. Desprez was an ardent Southern sympathizer and had two sons in the C. S. Army. His home was burned by Federal troops and his valuable library entirely destroyed. He moved to a plantation in Arkansas, near Helena, after the destruction of his home, and practiced his profession throughout that part of Arkansas for three years; returned to Alabama, making his home in Tuscumbia, where he died of yellow fever. He had an extensive practice in northern Alabama and, at the time of his death, was trying to organize a North Alabama medical aid society. He was a Democrat, and a devout Roman Catholic, one of the pioneers of that faith in his locality. In Cherokee, where there was no Catholic church, services were held every three or four months at the home of Dr. Desprez, by a priest of the Diocese of Mobile; and before the building of a Catholic church in Tuscumbia, services were held in his home. He was vice president of the Alabama medical association in 1874, and a member of the North Alabama medical association. Married: names of first two wives unknown; (3) August 11, 1842, in Dundalk, Ireland, Susan (Giffney) Henderson, daughter of John and Frances (Ruxton) Giffney, of that place; granddaughter of Anne (Willoughby) Giffney, whose sister married Lord George Cole of Enniskillen, Ireland, and of Henry Ruxton of Ardee, County Louth, Ireland, captain of the volunteers and an estated gentleman; great-granddaughter of Col. Willoughby, of Counties Cavan and Armagh, an estated gentleman of English descent; sister of Willoughby Giffney, surgeon of a regiment in India, of Henry Giffney, one of the corps of civil engineers sent by Her Majesty for surveying in Australia, of John and Francis Giffney, captains and owners of a sea-going vessel, and of Jervase Giffney, who located in New Orleans, La., and whose descendants still live there. Children, by first marriage: 1. Ambrose, d. about 1859 in California; 2. Mary Ann Elizabeth, became a Sister of Charity at Nazareth, Ky., d. August 4, 1870; by third marriage, 3. Josephine Steubentine Ellen, m. Samuel Severe who is deceased, resides at Wylam; 4. Dr. John Giffney, killed in the battle of Franklin, Tenn., November 30, 1864; 5. Francis Ruxton, d. in infancy; 6. William, jr., twin to Francis, d. March 14, 1879; 7. Frances Elizabeth Logie, m. Robert Cloud, resides at Tuscumbia; 8. Dr. Louis Willoughby, d. December 3, 1915, m. (1) Erie Watkins, (2) Ava Wilson, who lives with her family in Florence. Last residence: Tuscumbia.

DE VAUDREUIL, PIERRE FRANCOIS RIGAND, Marquis, Governor of Louisiana, governor-general of Canada. See Indian chiefs and associated characters.

DEVOTIE, JAMES H., Baptist minister, was born September 24, 1813, in Oneida County, N. Y. He was baptized, December 4, 1831, and was licensed by the first Baptist church to preach, October 21, 1832; entered immediately the Furman theological seminary, at High Hills, Sumter District, S. C., under the instruction of Jesse Hartwell, D. D., and Samuel Furman, D. D. and was ordained at Camden in 1833, and there served his first pastorate, 1833-1835. He served the following charges: Montgomery, 1835; Tuscaloosa, 1836-1840; Marion, 1841-1856; Columbus, Ga., 1856-1870, after which time he became pastor at Griffin, Ga., 1871-72. In 1872 he became corresponding secretary of the mission board of the Georgia Baptist state convention. During 1855 he served as financial secretary of the domestic and Indian mission board of the Southern Baptist convention, of which he was also president for a number of years. At the beginning of the War of Secession he served as chaplain to troops on the Georgia coast. Married: (1) Margaret Christian Noble; (2) G. L. A. Children: 1. Noble Leslie (q. v.); 2. Jewett Gindrat, student at Columbia university, 1858-60, enlisted in the C. S. Army, but on account of becoming lame was discharged; inducted into the Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity at the University of Alabama, May 17, 1876, and founded Rho at Columbia college, editor-in-chief, Columbus, Ga., "Engineer Sun," 1875-81, and died April 4, 1881.

DEVOTIE, NOBLE LESLIE, founder of the Sigma Alpha Epsilon college fraternity and Baptist minister, was born January 24, 1838, in Tuscaloosa, and was drowned February 12, 1861, at Ft. Morgan, Mobile Bay; son of Rev. Dr. James H. and Margaret Christian (Noble) DeVotie (q. v.). He was carried in 1840 by his parents to Marion, where he was educated and spent one year, 1852, as a student at Howard college; entered the sophomore class, 1853, at the University of Alabama, and graduated 1856. There had been developing in his mind the plan for the formation of a fraternity during the session of 1855 and the first half of 1856, and he invited seven very close friends to join with him in the development of the movement. On Saturday night, March 8, 1856, he with his comrades, met and organized what is known as the Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity, adopting a constitution, ritual and emblem. To Noble L. DeVotie is due the honor of having seen the vision, organized the idea, and started the movement which has resulted in a great brotherhood of college men, both active students and alumni. Deciding to become a minister he entered Princeton theological seminary in 1856, graduating in 1859. That fall he received and accepted a call from the First Baptist church at Selma where he remained until 1861, at which time he became the chaplain for the "Independent Blues" and "Governor's Guard," accompanying these organizations to Ft. Morgan, Mobile Bay. On the evening of February 12, 1861, while boarding a steamer for Mobile he made a misstep, fell into the water and was drowned. The first Confederate flag ever used draped his casket. Last residence: Selma.

DEWBERRY, JAMES MARSHALL, teacher and promotor, was born September 30, 1864, at Brundidge; son of John Hunter and Sallie E. (Powell) Dewberry (q. v.). He received his elementary education in the public schools of his native county, and entered Peabody college, Nashville, Tenn., in 1883, from which he was graduated in 1885. He at once began teaching as principal of the Capitol hill school, Montgomery; he later went to the chair of mathematics in the Troy State normal school; in the fall of 1895 he moved to Birmingham where he became superintendent of the public schools of Woodlawn; in 1900 he became a member of a mercantile firm composed of his father, two brothers, J. R. and A. P., and himself under the firm name of Dewberry and Sons, druggists, and the Dewberry book store. At a later period he became interested in the great transportation possibilities of Birmingham and has promoted the Tidewater development company, the purpose of which is to connect the mineral districts of Alabama with deep water, and of making Dauphin Island a world-wide port. The Birmingham, Ensley, and Bessemer electric railway, an interurban line, known as the "Tidewater" is the first link in this chain. He is a Democrat; a Baptist; and Sunday school superintendent. He owned and published the "Educational exchange," the official organ of the State educational forces, 1887-1907. Married: September 15, 1887, in Selma, to Lou Effie, daughter of Jared Jackson and Louisiana (Morgan) Lee of that place; granddaughter of George and Emily (Wetherington) Morgan of Georgia, and of Jared Curington and Frances (Veronne) Lee of Newberry, S. C. Children: 1. Hunter Lee, d. in boyhood; 2. Lee Ola. Residence: Birmingham.

DEWBERRY, JOHN HUNTER, physician and druggist, was born in Talbot County, Ga., in 1833; son of Irby and Mariah (Walker) Dewberry, natives respectively of Putnam and Warren Counties, Ga.; and grandson of John Walker, a native of England, and a farmer, who settled in Putnam County. The Dewberrys were also of English stock. Dr. Dewberry was reared on a farm and received a good elementary education. He studied later at Hamilton academy and Waverly hall academy, Georgia, read medicine in a private office in Harris County, Ga., for two years; attended the Augusta medical college, and later, 1857, graduated from Jefferson medical college at Philadelphia. He located at Hilliard's Cross Roads, Pike County, where he practiced, 1857-58; he then returned to Talbot County, for a time and removed to Monroe County, Ga., 1859. One year later he settled at Brundidge, where he continued to practice until 1873, when he removed to his farm, upon which he spent seven years. During his residence there he continued the practice, and upon returning to Brundidge he opened a drug business, and at the same time practiced medicine. He was a member of the Medical association of Alabama, and of the Pike County medical society; a Baptist; a Democrat, and a Mason. Married: in 1858, in Talbot County, Ga., to Sallie E., daughter of Rev. Hiram Powell, a Missionary Baptist preacher who served one church over thirty years. Children: 1. Ida Irene, d. young; 2. James Marshall (q. v.); 3. Ola M., m. S. B. Copeland; 4. John Robert, Alumnus University of Alabama, professor mathematics Blount college, 1895-96, president of 4th district agricultural school at Sylacauga, 1897-99; and held a position in the auditor's office of the Alabama Midland railroad co., at Montgomery; m. Margaret Wilkerson; 5. Allie P., Dothan, Ala. Last residence: Brundidge.

DEXTER, ANDREW, founder of the city of Montgomery, was born in Brookfield, Mass., March 28, 1779, and died of yellow fever in Mobile, November 2, 1837; son of Andrew and Mary (Newton) Dexter, of Boston, who were married in Woodstock, Conn.; grandson of Samuel and Hannah (Sigourney) Dexter, of Massachusetts and Connecticut, and of Simon and Mary (Richardson) Newton; great-grandson of Samuel and Catharina (Meats) Dexter, the former a graduate of Harvard and an early minister of Dedham, and nephew of Samuel Dexter, secretary of war, 1800, and secretary of the treasury, 1801, under President John Adams. Mr. Dexter was educated in the schools of Boston and graduated from Brown university, 1796; studied law with his uncle, Samuel Dexter, and served as his private secretary while he was a member of the cabinet; admitted to the bar in 1800; practiced law in Boston; and in 1809 he was president of the Boston bank. At the same time he began the erection of the first seven story office building in America, a venture which proved a financial failure, bankrupting him and leaving obligations of over a million dollars. He removed to Nova Scotia, but remained only a short while, returning to his father's estate on the Hudson River where he engaged in the ship timber business. In 1816, he inherited from his father's estate a considerable amount of Georgia land script, which he located on the Alabama River including the site in part of the city of Montgomery. He gave the name of New Philadelphia to the location. Among other far-sighted acts was the reservation of the site of the present State capitol building, for that particular use, in the belief that some day the seat of government would move to this section of the State. The main street, first known as Market street, was changed to Dexter avenue in his honor. He also gave five acres of land for a burial ground, now a part of Oakwood. His wife died August 17, 1819, and was one of the first to rest there. He eagerly set about the upbuilding of his town and the surrounding country. A freshet about 1830 destroyed a large mill he had erected on Catoma Creek, and he also had other business reverses. The three years, 1830 to 1833, he spent in Mexico and Texas. In 1833, he located in Mobile where he had somewhat reduced his former business prestige, and where he died, still in his prime, a victim to an epidemic of yellow fever. He was a Whig; and a Methodist. Married: Charlotte Apthorp, daughter of Perez and Sarah (Apthorp) Morton, the former a soldier of the American Revolution and attorney-general of Massachusetts. Children: 1. Andrew Alfred (q. v.), m. Harrietta Sarah Williams; 2. Charlotte Sophia, d. unmarried; 3. Samuel, d. at San Augustine, Tex., unmarried. Last residence: Mobile.

DEXTER, ANDREW ALFRED, civil engineer, was born at Windsor, N. S., September 10, 1809, and died in Montgomery, December 6, 1854; son of Andrew and Charlotte Apthorp (Morton) Dexter (q. v.). He had a good elementary education, and was trained as a civil engineer. He surveyed the first railroad from Charleston, S. C. to Augusta, Ga., laid out the town of Aiken, S. C.; later he removed to Alabama and engaged successfully in cotton planting in Macon County. He was engaged in the survey of a railroad from Mobile to New Orleans, La., in 1854, when he contracted yellow fever and died in Montgomery. He was a Whig. Married: at Aiken, S. C., January 7, 1834, to Harrietta Sarah Williams, daughter of William White and Martha (Jeter) Williams, of South Carolina. Children: 1. Lucy, d. young; 2. Andrew Alfred, d. young; 3. Martha Henrietta, d. young. 4. Martha Venitia, m. at Montgomery to James Robert, son of Hiram Jackson and Martha (Sturtevant) Smith, and had five children; 5. Samuel, m. Caroline Dexter, daughter of Charles Hunt and Sophia (Dexter) Fearing, resided at Palestine, Texas, and had three children: 6. Laura Harrietta, unmarried; 7. Charlotte Morton, m. at Montgomery to Joseph Files, son of David Levi and Caroline Margaret (Womack) Campbell, resided at Palestine and Galveston, Tex., and had seven children; 8. Alfred Newton, member Co. D, Seventh Alabama cavalry regiment, moved to Palestine, Texas, m. Julia Mar Sandifer, daughter of Calvin Stephenson and Martha (Ervin) Rutland, no children; 9. Wm. Wentworth, removed to Texas in 1874, historian and author, m. Mrs. Maggie (Anderson) Abercrombie, daughter of Col. Thomas Mulady and Anne Elizabeth Anderson. Last residence: Montgomery.

DEXTER, WILLIAM ATWOOD, planter, was born December 3, 1843, at Camden, Wilcox County, and died August 3, 1913, at that place; son of William James and Catherine Ann (Ellis) Dexter, the former a native of Providence, R. I., who later located in Wilcox County, Ala., where he became a merchant and slave holding planter; grandson of Rev. John and Catherine Ann (McCraney) Ellis of Darlington, S. C. He was sixth in succession from the Rev. Gregory Dexter who was the progenitor of the Dexter family in America. He received his early education in his native town and later attended the University of Alabama which he left before graduation to enter the Confederate Army. The degree of B. A. was conferred upon him by the University of Alabama in 1863, although he had not completed his course. He rose to the rank of lieutenant in Co. D, 38th Alabama infantry regiment, and served the entire four years of the war. He was a merchant and a planter, having succeeded his father in business, until 1888, at which time he was elected treasurer of Wilcox County, an office he held from then till his death, twenty-five years later. He was a Presbyterian, and a Democrat. Married: February 15, 1867, at Canton Bend, Wilcox County, to Eliza Beck, daughter of Dr. Henry Eustis and Margaret Eliza (Beck) Curtis, who lived at Camden, the former came to Alabama in 1826 from Raleigh, N. C., to practice medicine, represented Conecuh and Covington Counties in the Alabama legislature in 1829; in 1832 moved to Prairie Bluff, Wilcox County, and represented that county in the legislature of 1834, the latter the daughter of John and Margaret (King) Beck (q. v.), and a niece of Col. William R. King (q. v.). Children: 1. Mrs. William Antony Shultz, Brundidge; 2. Mrs. Manley Thomas Barrett, Cottondale, Fla.; 3. Margaret Ellis, Camden; 4. Helen Key, Camden; 5. Franklin Beck, Camden; 6. Paula Lucina, Camden; 7. Herbert Eustis, U. S. Army, Honolulu. Last residence: Camden.

DEXTER, WILLIAM JAMES, planter and merchant, was born in 1798, at Providence, R. I., and died September 22, 1860, at Camden; son of John and Phoebe (Whipple) Dexter, of Providence, R. I., the former of whom was born in Smithfield, R. I., 1765, was a teacher, closely connected with affairs at Providence during that period; grandson of William Dexter, born in Smithfield, R. I., in 1728; cousin of Andrew Dexter, who founded the city of Montgomery and gave the ground upon which the capitol now stands; relative of Col. John S. Dexter, of Gen. Washington's staff during the operation in Rhode Island. The progenitor of the Dexter family of America was Rev. Gregory Dexter, born 1610, at Olney, North Hampton, England, who became a printer in London, was connected with the Baptist ministry at London, and was the friend and trans-Atlantic correspondent of Roger Williams. When in 1643, Roger Williams came to England to procure the first charter of the infant colony, he took with him the manuscript of his dictionary of the Indian language, and later in that year Mr. Dexter printed the first edition of it at London. He accompanied Roger Williams on his return to Providence, was one of the parties named in the second charter granted by Charles II, in 1663, was one of the first town clerks of Providence, and was the first accomplished printer that came to America.

William J. Dexter was educated at Providence, R. I., and moved to Alabama when that state was a wilderness. He became a planter and slave owner, and a merchant, first at Prairie Bluff, and later at Camden. He was a member of the Baptist church. Married: April 3, 1840, at Prairie Bluff, Wilcox County, Catherine Ann, daughter of Rev. John and Catherine Ann (McCraney) Ellis, who lived at Darlington, S. C. Her maternal grandfather was a pioneer Baptist minister. Children: 1. Lucina Dexter McIntosh, Buckner, La.; 2. William Atwood, deceased; 3. John Francis, civil engineer, b. May 16, 1845, sergeant major of Fifty-third Alabama cavalry, C. S. Army, surveyor at Palo Prido district, Tex., 1873-1875, and at San Saba Land district, Tex., 1875-1878, bridge engineer, Santa Fe Railroad, 1876-1877, assistant engineer, St. Louis & S. W. Railroad, 1877-1878; assistant engineer, Texas Pacific, 1880-1882, resident engineer, Mexican Central, 1882-1884, resides at Bowie, Tex.; 4. Charles, deceased; 5. Sarah Louisa, deceased; 6. George, deceased. Last residence: Camden.

DE YAMPERT, THOMAS WEBB, school land agent, was born May 11, 1835, at his father's country home, "Montevalla," in Hale County, and died August 3, 1912, at Montgomery; son of Lucius Quintus Cincinnatus and Parthenia (Webb) DeYampert, the former a Methodist minister, and later a planter, one of the founders of the Southern university, Greensboro; grandson of Dr. Jean and Mary (Ardis) DeYampert, the former a native of southern France, educated in Geneva, Switzerland, a surgeon in the American Revolution, and of Dr. Thomas and Martha (Dickens) Webb, of Brush Creek, Hale County. He obtained his early education in the neighborhood school near his father's plantation taught by James Woodrow, who later became celebrated as a Presbyterian minister; attended Yale college; student at the University of Virginia; and the University of Alabama, 1855-56. He was studying medicine at the outbreak of the war. He entered the Confederate service as agent for the manufacture of saltpeter. At the close of hostilities he engaged in planting and in 1889 he became a clerk in the department of education, and removed to Montgomery. He held this position for seventeen years, and in 1898 he was appointed school land agent, a position created by act of the legislature of that year. In 1908 he was appointed superintendent of the American Bible house, a position he held at the time of his death. He was a Democrat; a Methodist; and a Mason. Married: May 9, 1861, in Perry County, Anna Maria, daughter of George William and Malinda Bennet (Dickinson) Turpin, of Charlottesville, Va., and a sister of Louis W. Turpin (q. v.). Children: 1. Charles Hayne, m. Ida Mary Cate, and resides in Tucumcari, N. M.; 2. Anna Florie, m. Watson Kerr Harwell, and resides in Marlin, Tex.; 3. Ella, m. Elijah Hugh Hale; 4. Claude; and 5. Linda, both of whom live at Montgomery. Last residence: Montgomery.

DIBBLE, OSCAR, grand sentinel, was born February 22, 1844, in Savannah, Ga., died August 28, 1908, in Montgomery, and is buried in Savannah, Ga. He was a well known railroad man of Montgomery and served as grand sentinel of the grand council, Masons. Married: November 10, 1872, in Columbus, Ga., to Lena Land. Children: 1. Oscar, married; 2. George, married; 3. Barbara, m. Armand Gasenheimer, of Montgomery; 4. Malcolm: Last residence: Montgomery.

DICKEY, JAMES B., major, 55th Alabama infantry, C. S. Army.

DICKEY, LEONIDAS CICERO, lawyer, is a native of Alabama; son of Willis Wesley and Nancy L. (Burgess) Dickey, the former a planter of Alabama; grandson of Samuel Dickey who removed from Georgia to Alabama in 1830, settling near Orion, Pike County, and of Richard Burgess, a native of East Tennessee but later a resident of Shelby County. He was educated in the schools of Montgomery County; attended the Agricultural and mechanical college, Auburn; graduated A. B., 1877, and A. M., 1878, from Hiwassee college, East Tennessee; post graduate student, Vanderbilt university, 1880; and received the degree of LL. B. from the University of Alabama, in July, 1882. He was president of the Central collegiate institute, Culloden, Ga., 1879-80; president, Corinth female college and male classical institute, Corinth, Miss., 1882-83; removed to Montgomery in June, 1883, practicing law for a short while; professor of history and English literature, Southern university, Greensboro, 1883-84; and removed to Birmingham where he resumed the practice of law. Residence: Birmingham.

DICKINSON, ALFRED JAMES, Baptist minister, was born December 25, 1864, at "East View," Louisa County, Va.; son of Rev. Charles Richard and Bettie (Valentine) Dickinson; grandson of Ralph Quarles and Frances Ann (Quisenbury) Dickinson, and of Christopher and Martha (Cheuring) Valentine, all of Louisa County, Va. His father was born in Louisa County, Va., was educated at Richmond College, Virginia, and was graduated in medicine from the University of Pennsylvania, at Philadelphia, M. D., lived on a plantation near Poinexter, Va., where he owned and operated a large farm, practiced medicine, was pastor of several Baptist churches, and was president of Green Springs academy. The Dickinson family are descended from English ancestors, who came to America in colonial times. One member of the family settled in Massachusetts, and another in Pennsylvania, the latter the immediate ancestor of the Virginia family. Dr. Dickinson gained his early education from the public schools of the neighborhood, and from Green Springs academy, Virginia; attended Richmond college from 1882 to 1886, and was graduated the latter year with the degree of M. A.; entered the Southern Baptist theological seminary, Louisville, Ky., in the fall of 1886, studied there for two years, graduating in several schools; and attended the University of Chicago, 1906. He was ordained a Baptist minister; served as pastor of the Lee Street Baptist church in Baltimore, Md., 1886; taught mathematics in Rugby school, Louisville, Ky., during his attendance at the theological seminary there, 1886-1888; became pastor in charge of the Central Baptist church, Memphis, Tenn., 1887-1889; of the First Baptist church at Selma, 1890-1901; and of the First Baptist church at Birmingham in 1901, which charge he still occupies. Dr. Dickinson is a member of the board of mission and ministerial education of the Alabama Baptist State Convention; was a trustee of the Alabama girls' technical institute and college for women, Montevallo, 1903-1907; is a trustee of Judson college; of Howard college, Birmingham; is a director of Marion institute; and has been president of the Municipal ownership league of Birmingham, since 1909. He preached the sermon before the Southern Baptist convention in Richmond, Va., at the session of 1909; was among the first to move for a new constitution to revise suffrage in Alabama, as early as 1893; and took part in the prohibition movement in Alabama in 1907, stumping the state for the amendment in that behalf. The degree of D. D. was conferred upon him by the University of Alabama, 1893. Dr. Dickinson is a Democrat, a Master Mason, and an Odd Fellow. He has contributed many articles to the religious press. Married: August 13, 1888, at Culpeper, Va., Lucy Broadus, daughter of Richard and Susan (Broadus) Stone, of that place. Children: 1. Rev. Alfred James, jr.; 2. Lucy Broadus; 3. Elizabeth Valentine; 4. Charles Richard. Residence: Birmingham.

DICKINSON, JAMES SHELTON, lawyer, was born January 18, 1818, in Spottsylvania County, Va., and died July 23, 1882, at Grove Hill; son of Richard Dickinson, born in Spottsylvania County, Va., who married a sister of Judge William Crawford, U. S. district attorney from Louisa County, Va., who came to St. Stephens in 1817, to Clarke County in 1821, locating three miles north of what is now Grove Hill, represented the county in the State legislature in 1824, moved to Tallahatta in 1833 and resided there until 1866, died while on a visit to his son, December 18, 1869. Mr. Dickinson attended school at Grove Hill, under T. W. Price; taught school in the Poge neighborhood, 1839; returned to Virginia, and entered the law school of the State university, from which he graduated in 1844; moved to Grove Hill in 1845 and opened a law office in that place; was elected to the State senate from Clarke, Baldwin and Monroe Counties, 1853, and served a two year term; was made a Breckinridge elector in 1860, aiding in the campaign that gave Alabama's vote to that ticket on the "southern rights" issue; raised and equipped a company of infantry at his own expense for the C. S. Army in 1861; was elected to the Confederate congress, 1863, defeating his opponent, Hon. Charles C. Langdon, of Mobile; served at Richmond until congress closed its session in March, 1865, and returned home, resuming his practice in Grove Hill. Mr. Dickinson was a Democrat; one of the leaders in the organization of the Baptist church at Grove Hill, and an active factor in the erection of that church; a Master Mason; and was the highest officer in the county of the Order of the Sons of Temperance. He was for many years president of the board of trustees of the Grove Hill Academy.

Married: (1) in Louisa County, Va., 1844, Mary F. Dickinson, his first cousin, who died January 12, 1864; (2) in June, 1868, Alice A., youngest daughter of Col. James and Mary (Chapman) Savage, jr., of Grove Hill, the former a merchant, owner of a store in Grove Hill, a store in Hamburg, Ark., and a sugar plantation in Louisiana, who died with his wife and two daughters during the yellow fever epidemic at Grove Hill in the fall of 1853; granddaughter of James Savage, sr., a native of Ireland who came to America when quite young, and served for many years as circuit clerk at Butler, Choctaw County, and of Joseph Chapman who married a Miss Elmore, and who came to Grove Hill from South Carolina. Children, by first marriage: 1. Richard C., m. Caroline Sawyer; 2. Virginia Louise, m. Walter Pugh; 3. Rev. James W., m. Jane Fleming; 4. Mary Elizabeth, m. Dr. Bryan Borroughs; 5. John Quarles, m. Beck Pruett; 6. Martha Augusta, m. Dr. Boaz Bush; 7. Leroy Calhoun, m. Irene White; 8. Walter Granison; 9. Emma Sarah, m. Walter Pugh; by second marriage: 10. Minnie Savage, m. W. D. Dunn, lawyer, Grove Hill; 11. Robert Lee, tax assessor, m. Ella Clay, Grove Hill; 12. Mabel Clare, m. Clayton Trassue, judge of probate, Grove Hill; 13. Alice Maude, Grove Hill; 14. Shelton Chapman, druggist, Thomasville. Last residence: Grove Hill.

DICKISON, W. P., Methodist minister, pastor of the Court Street Methodist church, Montgomery, 1895-98. Residence: Prattville.

DICKSON, ABNER, soldier of the American Revolution, and a resident of Franklin County; private Tennessee Volunteers; enrolled on March 10, 1818, payment to date from May 4, 1815; annual allowance, $96; sums received to date of publication of list, $1,808; April 24, 1816. Transferred from Montgomery County, Tennessee, from March 4, 1827.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34.

DICKSON, EDWARD R., tutor, and rector of the academie department of the University of Alabama, 1862-65. He was for a long while superintendent of schools in Mobile.

DICKSON, MICHAEL, pioneer settler, was born in Duplin County, N. C., October 6, 1777, and died in Nashville, Tenn., December 23, 1859. He emigrated from North Carolina to Tennessee, later removed to Alabama, and settled at Tuscumbia in 1818. He was the first white settler in this town, and his daughter was the first white child born there. He built a log hotel and conducted it for many years; removed to Russellville, Franklin County, and served as clerk of the circuit court for about eighteen years. He then moved to Hernando, Miss., and finally returned to Franklin County, remaining here until his death in Nashville while on a visit to relatives. Married: April 2, 1799, in North Carolina, to Sene Williams, born in North Carolina, May 4, 1782, and died in Hernando County, Miss., April 18, 1854. Children: 1. Joseph John, d. in infancy; 2. Abishai, killed at Goliad, Tex.; 3. Louis, d. on Tallahatchie River, Miss., while on his way to Arkansas; 4. Hugh, d. at San Antonio, Tex.; 5. Priscilla, m. Dr. William H. Wharton; 6. Jacob W., d. at Memphis, Tenn.; 7. David, d. in infancy; 8. Joseph, m. Lizzie Nelson, and died in Colbert County; 9. Anna D., m. (1) a Mr. Hooper, and (2) Dr. Overton Watson; 10. Michael, jr., d. at Hernando, Miss.; 11. Louisa M., m. (1) William Harris, and (2) LaFayette Moorman; 12. John, d. in Arkansas. Last residence: Franklin County.

THOMAS D. SAMFORD

DICKSON, WILLIAM ENOCH, teacher, was born February 17, 1874, at Brooksville, Blount County; son of Alvin Oscar and Alabama (Alldredge) Dickson, the former a Georgian, who lived at Brooksville, Blount County, and was captain in the 48th Alabama regiment, C. S. Army; grandson of William S. Dickson, of Georgia, and of Enoch Alldredge, of Brooksville, who served many years in the state legislature. He received his early schooling in Blount County, and was graduated from the North Alabama conference college, Birmingham, A. B., 1900. He began teaching in the public schools of Blount County in 1894. He was elected to the State legislature from Blount County in August, 1900, in 1902, and from Jefferson County in 1918. He is a Democrat; Methodist Episcopalian; Mason; Knight of Pythias. Married: May 27, 1902, at Kensington, Ga., to May Morning Kendrick, daughter of Aaron Thomas and May (Campbell) Kendrick. Children: 1. Alma Kendrick; 2. Louise; 3. William Enoch, jr.; 4. May Reese. Residence: Birmingham.

DILL, H. R., State representative from Jefferson County, 1900-01. Residence: Birmingham.

DILL, J. S., pioneer Missionary Baptist minister; son-in-law of I. T. Tichenor.

DILL, JOSEPH MASON, teacher and first president of Troy State normal college, was born November 4, 1852, in Carlowville, Dallas County; son of Dr. Thomas John and Jane Lee (Alison) Dill (q. v.). Professor Dill was educated by his father; graduated at Howard college, A. B., 1874, and A. M. honorary, 1878. He taught at Tuscaloosa, 1874-76; was professor of natural sciences in Howard college, 1876-78; was principal of the Tuscaloosa high school until 1884; superintendent of the Troy high school, 1884-87; first president of Troy State normal school, 1887-88, co-ordinating the work of the Normal school and the city graded schools; president of the South Alabama female institute, at Greenville, 1888-1901; and his last work as teacher was as superintendent of the Bessemer public schools, 1901-08. Because of his increasing deafness, he resigned and entered business life. He is a Democrat; and a Baptist. Married: in Tuscaloosa, September 18, 1878, to Lucie Billingslea, daughter of Dr. Joshua Hill and Lucy Bolling (Billingslea) Foster (q. v.). Children: 1. Joseph Mason, jr., an engineer, m. in 1906, to Lillian Lea, daughter of Col. Sumpter Lea, and lives in Birmingham. Residence: Bessemer.

DILL, THOMAS JOHN, teacher, was born on Edisto Island, thirty miles from Charleston, S. C., November 8, 1825, and died at East Lake, Jefferson County, January 31, 1901; son of Dr. Joseph Mason and Regina (Alison) Dill, of Charleston, the former a planter and physician, and the latter the granddaughter of Joshua Lockwood, "whose fortune and business skill contributed in liberal measure to sustain the life of the struggling republic in the days of the Revolution." He was educated at the academy of Christopher Cotes of Charleston; and graduated with second honors from South Carolina college, A. B., 1845, and A. M., honorary. Mercer university later conferred the honorary degree of LL. D. He first taught at Edisto; in 1849, he followed a colony of Charlestonians, composed of the Lee, Lockwood, Lide, Youngblood and Alison families, to Dallas County, Ala. Here they had formed the village of Carlowville and Dr. Dill opened an academy for boys which he successfully conducted until 1869, when he was chosen professor of classic languages at Howard college. This position he filled for thirty-one years, when blindness incapacitated him for further service. In the removal of Howard college to East Lake, near Birmingham, Jefferson County, Dr. Dill acted as dean of the faculty for one year until a president was chosen. He was a Democrat; and a Baptist. Married: May, 1851, to Jane Lee, daughter of Capt. Jacob Smiser and Margaret (Youngblood) Alison, who had removed from Charleston to Dallas County in 1848. Children: 1. Joseph Mason (q. v.), m. Lucie Billingslea Foster; 2. Rev. Dr. John S., Pastor Baptist church, Gaffney, S. C. Last residence: East Lake.

DILLARD, ANTHONY WINSTON, lawyer and chancellor, was born in Tuscumbia, April 22, 1827; son of Dr. John James and Nancy Jones (Winston) Dillard, the former of Amherst County, Va., the latter of Franklin County; grandson of Col. Anthony Winston, of Buckingham County, and great-grandson of Capt. Anthony Winston, a Revolutionary soldier, of Hanover County, Va. Judge Dillard was educated at Centre college, Ky., and Jackson college, Columbia, Tenn. He was a lawyer by profession; entered the practice at Gainesville, Ala., in 1848; was elected, in 1856, probate judge of Sumter County, serving until 1862. Gov. Lewis E. Parsons in 1865 offered him the position of district solicitor, but he refused to accept the appointment. When the western chancery division was created in 1868, he accepted the appointment of chancellor from Gov. William H. Smith, and held that position until 1880. He was a member of the Charleston convention of 1860. In 1858 and 1859 under the pen name of "Lorgnette" he contributed a series of letters to the "Montgomery Confederation" in opposition to the secession plan proposed by William L. Yancey in his famous Slaughter letter. In 1857 he published in the "Messenger," Livingston, twelve chapters of a proposed "History of Sumter County, 1832-1856," and in Gainesville "Independent," 1858, republished five chapters. In 1872 he published a series of articles in the Livingston Journal, on "Lawyers of West Alabama." He contributed articles to various magazines and newspapers. Married: November 13, 1849, to Malvina C., daughter of Major Edward and Malvina (Cammack) Herndon, of Sumter County, but natives of Fredericksburg, Va., and granddaughter of Edward Herndon, a Revolutionary soldier. Last residence: Gainesville.

DILLARD, JAMES RICHARD, farmer, was born October 2, 1818, at Lexington, Va., and died in Montgomery; son of James Reuben and Delilah (Ponder) Dillard, natives respectively of Lexington, Va., and Oglethorpe County, Ga., who moved from Georgia to Montgomery County, Ala. His father died when quite young, and his mother afterwards married Capt. William O. Dabney, who lived only a few years after the marriage. Mrs. Dabney remained on her plantation and attended to every detail of her business for a period of about forty years. Col. Dillard had a common school education; became a planter in Montgomery County; served at one time as a member of the State legislature; raised a company of militia which was held in readiness for service, 1864; was captain of that company, and later was made colonel of a regiment going to the defense of Mobile at the time of the news of the surrender. He was an elder in the Presbyterian church. Married: (1) October 4, 1841, Sarah Ann, daughter of William and Nancie Falconer, of Montgomery; granddaughter of Gilbert Falconer, who came to America from Scotland and settled in Philadelphia; (2) Mrs. Ligon, of Tuskegee. Children, by first wife: 1. Reuben, d. at two years; 2. Susan Oliver, m. 1866, Dr. James Buckner Luckie, surgeon in Gen. Gracie's brigade, had nine children, Dr. William R., deceased, Dubuez, deceased, Dr. Lorenzo F. and Dr. J. B., both of Los Angeles, Calif., Alfred, Falconer, Carrie, Susie, and Sarah; 3. James Dabney served in C. S. Army, d. in his seventy-first year; 4. Sarah H., m. Frank Smith, both deceased, left five children, two of whom are Frank and Mrs. R. L. Simpson of Atlanta, Ga.; 5. Caroline, d. at eighteen years; 6. Delilah Ponder, resides in Birmingham; 7. Nancy Dillard, m. (1) John Arrington, deceased, (2) Judge H. A. C. Howze, resides in Birmingham; 8. Mary T., m. Dr. J. P. Ellshenz, had one child, m. David Buell of Mobile; 9. William Richard, m. Miss Chandler, both deceased, had one son who died in Birmingham; by second marriage: 10. Eugenia, m. William Peck, both deceased, two children, Emily and Winona; 11. Dr. John R. Dillard, dentist, Montgomery. Last residence: Montgomery.

DIMMICK, JOSEPH W., public official, was born November 6, 1838, in Rushville, Schuyler County, Ill., and died in Montgomery; son of Ebenezer and Margaret (Phillips) Dimmick, natives of Otsego County, N. Y., and of Ohio, who emigrated to Illinois about 1838, settling in Schuyler County on a farm; grandson of Mathew and Hulda (Ingram) Dimmick, the former of whom died when a young man, the latter a native of Connecticut, came from a family prominent in the Revolutionary War. The maternal grandfather was an officer in the War of 1812, who died in service. The Dimmicks, two brothers, came from England early in the seventeenth century, and settled in Massachusetts. Mr. Dimmick was reared in his native county, attending the public schools there and Rushville Academy. He was teaching school at the outbreak of the War of Secession; enlisted as a private in Co. G, Sixteenth Illinois infantry, U. S. Army, May 1861; was promoted to second lieutenant at the battle of Big Springs, Miss., served through the war taking part in every battle and skirmish of his command; was detailed for service in the subsistence department of A. J. Smith's corps, and came south in charge of a commissary; after being mustered out, located in Montgomery County where in partnership with a friend he conducted a cotton plantation; was appointed postmaster of the city of Montgomery by President Grant in 1869, and served a term of four years; became owner of a cotton plantation near Montgomery; was one of the organizers of the First National Bank of Montgomery serving as a member of the board of directors for many years, then as vice president, and finally as president, which position he resigned in 1893 after holding the office for six years; was officially connected with the Sheffield Land Company; the Sheffield and Birmingham Coal, Iron and Railroad Company; was president of the Montgomery Iron Works; a director of the Capital City Water Works, and of the Tecumseh Iron Company; controlled the Montgomery street railway for several years and was president of the company, taking hold of the road when it was a horse car line, consolidating it with the Cloverdale electric road in 1894, and equipping the whole line with electricity. Mr. Dimmick was appointed clerk of the U. S. circuit court by Justice W. B. Woods, judge of the U. S. circuit court, and later associate justice of the U. S. supreme court, and held that position for more than thirty years. He was a Republican, and represented his party on the national committee. Married: September 7, 1869, Anna, daughter of Prof. Patrick and Katherine (Hudson) Savage, of Montgomery. Children: 1. Winona, m. Albert F. Wilson; 2. Joseph Phillips, was graduated from Alabama State University, A. B., 1889, and from Harvard College, appointed deputy clerk, U. S. court at Montgomery; 3. Margaret W., a graduate of Wellesley, m. William F. Thetford; 4. Anna M., a graduate of Wellesley, m. J. Brevard Jones. Residence: Montgomery.

DINGLEY, WILLIAM HENRY, druggist, grand treasurer and registrar, grand lodge of Masons, was born December 18, 1824, at Winslow, Me., and died September 16, 1911, at Montgomery; son of Amasa and Mary (Jennings) Dingley. He was a lineal descendant of John Dingley who came to Lynn, Mass., from England, in 1637, with a company of emigrants, and is named in the rate book of Marshfield records as paying rates in 1643, and is there styled as "Goodman" Dingley. This same company, soon after landing, moved to Sandwich, now Cape Cod, and in 1640, John Dingley and two associates came to Marshfield, soon after it and Duxbury were erected out of old Plymouth. Mr. Dingley was graduated from Waterville College, Maine, and from Union College, Schenectady, N. Y., 1844. He settled first in Nobleborough, Me.; then in Boston, and finally in 1851, moved to Montgomery, Ala., where he remained until his death. He engaged in the drug business with his uncle, Henry H. Jennings; and later, on the dissolution of that partnership, was in the same business alone. The latter years of his life were devoted almost exclusively to his duties as grand treasurer of the grand lodge of Alabama, of the Grand Royal Arch chapter, of the Grand Council, and of the Grand Commandery Knights Templar of Alabama, and to the more important and detailed work as registrar of the Grand Lodge. He was an Episcopalian. Last residence: Montgomery.

DINSMORE, WILLIAM LEWIS, physician, was born December 19, 1851, near Moulton, Lawrence County; son of David Lewis and Eleanor (Kyle) Dinsmore, the former of whom was a native of Wayne County, Ky., living there until 1823, when he moved to Alabama settling on a farm near Moulton, Lawrence County, and was treasurer of that county for many years; grandson of John Dinsmore of Wayne County, Ky., who spent the latter years of his life in Morgan County, and of William Kyle, who lived in Buncombe County, N. C., then in Alabama for a time, and finally in Mississippi. One of his great-grandfathers came from Scotland. Dr. Dinsmore obtained his early education from the country schools of the county; entered Vanderbilt university, and was graduated from that institution, M. D., 1881. He began to practice medicine at Town Creek in 1881; moved to Decatur in 1889 and is still practicing at that place. He is a Democrat, an Episcopalian, and has been a steward in that church for thirty-two years. Married: (1) May 25, 1880, at Moulton, Nannie Leigh, daughter of Michael and Carolina Wert, of Moulton; (2) February 17, 1887, Elizabeth, daughter of James A. and Narcissa Nulley, of Town Creek. Children, by first wife: 1. David Arthur, m. Ann Shaffer of New York City, N. Y., two children, a boy and a girl of whom the latter is deceased, resides in Jacksonville, Fla.; 2. William Wert (q. v.); 3. Eleanor, m. L. J. Ramage, D. D. S., resides at Decatur: by second marriage; 4. d. in infancy; 5. d. in infancy; 6. Lewis Manning. Residence: Decatur.

DINSMORE, WILLIAM WERT, physician and State prison inspector, was born at Town Creek, Lawrence County, June 29, 1882; son of Dr. William Lewis and Nannie Leigh (Wert) Dinsmore (q. v.). Dr. Dinsmore was educated in the public schools at Decatur; graduated from the Alabama polytechnic institute, B. Sc. in pharmacy, 1903, and took his M. D. degree from Johns Hopkins university in 1907. He began the practice in Decatur; was city health officer 1909-10; served as State director of the Alabama hookworm commission 1910-1911; assistant in Health Department 1912-1917 and State prison inspector 1917-1918. He is now connected with the Travelers insurance company with headquarters at Hartford, Conn. Married: November 7, 1911, at High Point, N. C., to Berta Louise, daughter of William H. and Ada Louise Ragan, of that place. Residence: Hartford, Conn.

DISQUE, JOHN HAROLD, lawyer and judge, was born March 23, 1848, in New Orleans, La.; son of Michael and Philophoina (Ostiff) Disque, the former a native of Bretagne, France, and a Huguenot, who emigrated to America on account of religious persecutions. Owing to the death of his parents when he was a small boy, Judge Disque knows practically nothing of his ancestry. He was educated in the public and private schools of his native state; came to Alabama in his early manhood and read law under Judge James Aiken in Gadsden, being admitted to the bar in November, 1871. He was elected solicitor of Etowah County in November, 1872, serving four years. He organized the "Etowah Rifles," later known as the "Gadsden Guards," in 1881, and was elected captain, which commission he resigned in 1883. He was mayor of Gadsden, 1873-76, and 1886-88. In 1891 he was appointed by Gov. Thomas G. Jones, judge of the city court of Gadsden, which position he held by successive reappointments until his court was abolished by an act of the legislature of 1915, known as the court consolidation bill. The "Disque High School" of Gadsden is named for him. He is a Democrat; a Presbyterian; a Mason; Knight Templar; Odd Fellow; and a Knight of Pythias. Married: March 30, 1869, at Black Creek Falls, Etowah County, to Georgia, daughter of Lemuel Jackson and Sarah Frances (Underwood) Standifer; granddaughter of Judge William Henderson Underwood, of Augusta, Ga. Children: 1. Ellie, m. Forney Hughes; 2. John Harold, jr. Residence: Gadsden.

DIXON, GEORGE E., Confederate hero, enlisted in the Twenty-first Alabama regiment of volunteers, at the outbreak of the War of Secession, and was mustered into service October 13, 1861, at Mobile. He was promoted from sergeant to second lieutenant, May 8, 1862, and was wounded at Shiloh. When he recovered from his wounds, he was detached to take charge of the "Fish" torpedo boat in Charleston harbor. The "Fish," the pioneer torpedo, built in 1863 by Hunley and McClintock, of Mobile, was equipped with two fins by which she could be raised and lowered in the water at will. Her purpose was to dive under a vessel with a torpedo in tow, which would be dragged across the tow and exploded, while the boat rose on the other side and made off in safety. There was no provision made for storing air. The first experiment with the "Fish" was made in Mobile Bay, when she went down with a crew but could not be raised, and every man on board perished. A few days after her acceptance by Gen. Beauregard, Lieut. Payne, of the C. S. Navy, volunteered with a crew to use her in an attack on the fleet, and was placed in command. During the preparations for the attack, the swell from a passing vessel filled her, and she went to the bottom, destroying the entire crew with the exception of Lieut. Payne, who was standing at an open manhole when the catastrophe occurred. While at Fort Sumpter, nearly a week afterward, the identical accident occurred, Payne and two of the crew being the only ones saved. It was at this time that Lieut. Dixon, who had made several experiments with the "Fish" in Mobile Bay, was sent for and placed in command. A volunteer crew was quickly found and made several tests in the harbor. One day, during Lieut. Dixon's absence, H. L. Hunley, one of its designers, who had come up to Charleston to make an investigation, took the boat into Stone River to practice the crew. She was readily submerged, but her nose stuck in the soft mud at the bottom of the river, and the entire crew was asphyxiated. Later the boat attempted to dive under the Confederate receiving ship, "Indian Chief," when she fouled an anchor chain and went to the bottom, with every soul on board meeting the same fate as his predecessors. Loss of life now seemed so inevitable in the management of the boat, that Gen. Beauregard refused to permit her to be used again. No sooner had she been raised again, however, than a score of men were clamoring to be allowed to give her another trial, and Lieut. Dixon asked permission to use her in an attack on the Houston, a new war vessel that lay off Broad Inlet on the bar. This was granted on condition that she be used not as a submarine, but with a star torpedo on the surface of the water. On board the death craft, on the night of February 17, 1864, Lieut. Dixon and his crew passed under the stern of the Housatonic, exploded the torpedo, and inside of three minutes had sunk the great vessel. The "Fish" went down with the Federal ship, with the loss of every man on board. A monument of granite, bearing on one side the names of Hunley, the inventor, and the crew which perished with him while experimenting, and on the other, those of Lieut. Dixon and his crew, has been erected in Charleston, S. C.

DIXON, JAMES KELLY, lawyer, Federal prohibition director for Alabama; was born April 8, 1870, at Fayetteville, Talladega County; son of John and Matilda (Kelly) Dixon (q. v.); grandson of James and Cynthia (Driskille) Dixon, natives of Pennsylvania and Tennessee, respectively, and of James A. and Margaret (McNeil) Kelly, of Coosa County; great-grandson of John Driskille. He was prepared in the common schools of Talladega County; entered the University of Alabama in 1886, and was graduated from that institution, A. B., 1890; spent a term at the summer school of the University of Virginia; returned to the University of Alabama and was graduated from the law course there, LL.B., 1892. In September of that year, he began to practice law in Talladega; has continued his profession in that place and is at present associated with John B. Knox, W. P. Acker, and Marion H. Sims, in the law firm of Knox, Acker, Dixon & Sims, with offices at Talladega and Anniston. Mr. Dixon was appointed Federal prohibition director for Alabama, 1919. He is a Democrat, has been a member of the state Democratic committee for twelve years, and at one time served as chairman of that committee. He is a senior warden in the Protestant Episcopal church. Married: October 1, 1895, at Montgomery, Julia Augusta, daughter of George Brewer of Tuskegee. Children: 1. Brewer, b. January 20, 1898, was graduated from the University of Alabama, A. B., 1918, LL.B., 1919, and is now a student at Columbia University, New York, N. Y.; 2. Margaret was a member of the class of 1920, at Randolph Macon Woman's College, Lynchburg, Va. Residence: Talladega.

DIXON, JOHN, physician, was born June 21, 1832, in Tennessee, and died April 13, 1902, at Fayetteville; son of James and Cynthia (Driskille) Dixon, the former of whom was a native of Pennsylvania, and the latter of Tennessee; grandson of John Driskille. The father was a tanner by trade, and after coming to Talladega County, Ala., in 1832, followed his trade for seven years; then moved to Texas where he and his wife died soon after. After the death of his parents, Dr. Dixon, then eight years old, went to Coosa County to live with his maternal grandparents. He attended the common schools of the county; entered the Jefferson medical college in 1858, and was graduated from that institution, M. D., 1860. Upon leaving college, he located at Rockford, Coosa County, to practice medicine; practiced for a year, and at the outbreak of the War of Secession, enlisted in the Fifty-ninth Alabama infantry, known as Hilliard's legion, commanded by Col. Hall; was made assistant surgeon under Gen. Longstreet after the battle of Chickamauga; rose to division surgeon; and was paroled at Appomattox Court House in the immediate presence of Gen. Lee. On his return from war, he settled at Fayetteville to practice and lived there until his death. He was sent with Dr. J. T. Harrison, as the first delegates from Talladega County to the State medical association of Alabama, was elected to the college of counsellors of that association in 1897, and was a junior counsellor at the time of his death. He was a charter member of the Talladega County Medical Society, serving as censor of that society, 1886-1896, and as president for one term. Dr. Dixon was an ardent temperance advocate, and was perhaps the strongest factor in the final elimination of the whiskey shop from the southern end of Talladega County. He was an Episcopalian, and a Mason. Married: October 21, 1865, Matilda, daughter of James A. and Margaret (McNeil) Kelly, of Coosa County. Children: 1. Margaret B.; 2. James Kelly (q. v.); 3. Catherine; 4. Duncan P.; 5. Matilda; 6. John. Last residence: Fayetteville.

DOAN, JOHN F., lieutenant colonel, 11th Alabama cavalry, C. S. Army.

DOBBS, LODWICK ADAMS, lawyer, was born September 4, 1842, at Lebanon, De Kalb County, and died at Fort Payne, May 4, 1892; son of James Gibson and Eliza (Frazier) Dobbs, and the grandson of Lodwick Adams Dobbs, of Abbeville, S. C., and of James and Dorcas (Mullin) Frazier, of Lebanon. The Dobbs family are the descendants of three English brothers, who settled in different parts of the country during the colonial period. Mr. Dobbs received his education in the common schools. At the outbreak of the War of Secession he enlisted as a lieutenant in Co. A, Seventh Alabama cavalry regiment, in which he served until his capture by the enemy. He employed his time during his eighteen months imprisonment in Johnson's Island prison, in study and reading. On the return of peace he studied law under William J. Haralson, and in 1868 was licensed to practice by Chancellor Samuel K. McSpadden. He entered upon the practice of his profession at Lebanon, but when the court house was removed to Fort Payne in 1877 he made that place his home, until his death. He was counsel for the Alabama great southern railroad as long as he lived. He also practiced law in Birmingham for a number of years, being a member of the firm of Denson, Dobbs and Wood. In 1876 he was elected as a Democrat to the State senate, and served four years. In 1880 he was chosen as the messenger to carry the vote of the State to Washington in the Garfield-Hancock contest for president. He was assistant district attorney of the middle and northern districts of Alabama under Cleveland's first administration. In 1880 he nominated Thomas Seay for governor. He was a Democrat; and a Methodist. Married: November 1, 1866, at Lebanon, to Nancy Maria, daughter of Benjamin Franklin and Permelia (Caperton) Gibson, cousins, of that place; granddaughter of John Henry Gibson, born in 1774, and in whose honor Gibson County, Tenn., was named, and who was a colonel in General Jackson's army, and of John and Elizabeth (Gibson) Caperton and great-grandson of Adam Caperton, the son of John Caperton, the founder of the Caperton family in the United States. Children: 1. James Gibson, m. Emma Condra, resides in Birmingham; 2. Cordie, Fort Payne; 3. Ora, Fort Payne; 4. John Henry, of Dallas, Texas; 5. Frank, daughter, Fort Payne; 6. Olena, Ft. Payne; 7. Thomas Cicero, m. Edna Allen, resides in Birmingham; 8. Ella, Fort Payne; 9. Nina, Fort Payne. Last residence: Fort Payne.

DOBBS, SAMUEL L., Methodist minister, member of the North Alabama conference. Residence: Gadsden.

DOCKERY, JAMES C., professor of modern languages at the University of Alabama, Tuscaloosa, 1842-50. He held the degree of A. M.

DODD, JESSE, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 77, and a resident of Lawrence County; private N. C. Continental Line; enrolled on September 6, 1817, under act of Congress of March 18, 1818, payment to date from September 25, 1818; annual allowance, $96; sums received to date of publication of list, $1,124.72.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34.

DODSON, ELIJAH M., major, 1st Confederate infantry, C. S. Army.

DODSON, JOHN L., teacher, was born April 10, 1836, in Georgia, and died at Oxford; son of Samuel and Rebecca (Gardner) Dodson, natives, respectively, of Greene and De Kalb Counties, Ga., the former of whom was a soldier in the War of 1812; grandson of Joshua Dodson, a native of Virginia, whose father came to America from England; and of Christopher Gardner, who came from Ireland early in the eighteenth century because of political troubles, settled in Pennsylvania, fought in the Revolution and was severely wounded at the battle of Brandywine. He was brother of James W. Dodson, a farmer in Texas, veteran of the Florida War and the War of Secession; of Joshua M. Dodson, who was quartermaster in the Trans-Mississippi department, C. S. Army, and died in Texas; of Christopher C. Dodson, a lieutenant in the Mexican War, commander of a troop of Indians from Arizona in the War of Secession, who died in Tucson, Ariz.; of Elijah M. Dodson, major of the First Georgia regiment, C. S. Army, and an attorney-at-law at Chattanooga, Tenn.; and of George W. Dodson, a farmer in Georgia who served in the Fifty-first Alabama regiment, C. S. Army. Mr. Dodson obtained his education in Georgia from a boarding school, the county academy, and from Davidson college, North Carolina. He came to Alabama in 1860; taught school at Jacksonville for one year, and at various places in Alabama and Georgia during the War of Secession; returned to Calhoun County at the close of the war and taught at Brock's school-house two years; located at Oxford in 1868, and, associated with W. J. Borden, founded Oxford male and female college, becoming sole owner and proprietor of the school the next year. Soon after his retirement from college work, he was appointed State superintendent of Education, serving in that capacity from 1900 to 1904. He was a Presbyterian, an Odd Fellow, and a Mason. Married: July, 1883, at Oxford, Fannie S. Gladden, daughter of James A. and Martha (Kelly) Gladden, of that place. Last residence: Oxford.

DODSON, MARVIN NAPOLEON, business man, was born August 10, 1885, at Heflin, Cleburne County; son of Charles Franklin and Sarah Elizabeth (Rooks) Dodson, of Heflin, the former the editor of the Cleburne "News"; grandson of John Peter and Elizabeth Pendleton (Gaines) Dodson, of Heflin, the former a soldier in the C. S. Army; great-grandson of Edmond Dodson, a North Carolinian who came to Alabama from Fayette County, Ga., in the year 1831, settling in Benton, later Calhoun, now Cleburne County, and had served in the War of 1812 although only fourteen years old. Representative Dodson was educated in common schools and high school. He is the business manager of the Troy Herald and the Troy

Printing company; and was elected to the legislature from Pike County in 1918. He is a Democrat; an Episcopalian; a Royal Arch Mason; Scottish Rite, Knight Templar and Shriner; a Knight of Pythias; an Elk; and a Woodman of the World. He is unmarried. Residence: Heflin.

DONALD, HEZEKIAH, planter, was a native of Conecuh County, and died in 1861, near Belleville. He was one of the most prominent men of Conecuh County and a successful planter. Last residence: Near Belleville.

DONALD, JAMES MARION, physician, was born October 4, 1863, at Harrell; son of Dr. Joseph Marion and Kate Craig (Chrisholm) Donald (q. v.). Dr. Donald was educated in the common schools of Harrell and the Summerfield male school. He graduated from the medical department of the University of Alabama, at Mobile, in March, 1884, and the same year entered upon the practice at Marion Junction, Dallas County; was health officer for one term and for many years was censor of the Dallas County medical society. He is a Democrat; a Presbyterian; a Mason and a Knight of Pythias. In 1913 on the organization of the Marion Junction State bank, he was chosen president and chairman of the board of directors. Married: May 7, 1885, at Harrell, to Kate M., daughter of Rev. J. M. and Jennie C. Young, the former for twenty-five years pastor of Prosperity church. Children: 1. Lucille, m. Dr. Lawrence H. Moore, of Orrville; 2. Dr. Joseph Glenn (q. v.), m. Elsie Weeks; 3. Pressly Young, an A. B. graduate, whose medical course was taken at Tulane University. Residence: Marion Junction.

DONALD, JOSEPH GLENN, physician, was born March 14, 1887, at Marion Junction; son of Dr. James Marion and Kate M. (Young) Donald (q. v.). Dr. Donald was educated in Marion Junction high school, and at the University of Alabama. He graduated in Tulane University, M. D., 1911, and at once began the practice at Marion Junction, in association with his father. At this point father, son and grandson have practiced since 1856. He is a member of the Associate Reformed Presbyterian church. Married: January 25, 1910, in New Orleans, La., to Elvie, daughter of J. M. and Katie Weeks, of Pilot Point, Tex. Residence: Marion Junction.

DONALD, JOSEPH MARION, physician, was born near Cedar Springs church, in Abbeville County, S. C., July 2, 1830, and died near Harrell, Dallas County, September 5, 1903; son of West and Margaret (Caldwell) Donald. The Donalds are of ancient Scotch lineage. The American family tree began with Alexander Donald who married and emigrated to Virginia about 1700. Many years later members removed to South Carolina. On the death of her husband, the mother of Dr. Donald, when he was but twelve years old, moved with her family to Dallas County. With the financial help extended to her by William Johnson, a large benefactor to Erskine college, Mrs. Donald sent her two sons, James G. and Joseph M., to that institution where they graduated in 1850. Again aided by the same friend, she next sent them to Tulane university, New Orleans, where they graduated in medicine, March, 1854. Dr. Donald practiced his profession one year in Selma, and then settled down in his home neighborhood where his life was spent. He saw service in the Confederacy. Dr. Donald was a Democrat; and a Presbyterian. Married: January 18, 1859, at Harrell, to Bettie, daughter of Patrick and Katie (Craig) Chisholm, who emigrated from Ireland about 1818 to South Carolina, whence he walked to Dallas County, where he entered land, married, and in time accumulated a fine estate, and became the father of nine children. Dr. Donald had an only child: 1. James M. (q. v.), m. Kate M. Young. Last residence: Harrell.

DONNELL, ROBERT, major, 22nd Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army.

DORLON, PHELAN B., business man, public official, was born January 2, 1854, in Mobile County; son of Nathan M. and Martha (Lyons) Dorlon, natives respectively of Hempstead, Long Island, and Mobile County, the former of whom came to Mobile County in 1836, and engaged in merchandising most of his life; grandson of Oliver and Nancy (Thurston) Dorlon, natives of Brooklyn, N. Y., and of Paul and Rosalia (Ballard) Lyons, the former a native of Alabama who fought in the Revolution and lived to be one hundred eleven years old. He attended the neighborhood schools, worked on his father's farm and in his store during his boyhood and early manhood; located in Mobile in 1877 where he spent four years in the grocery business; was elected coroner of Mobile County, 1879, and served that office for four years; after one defeat for the office, was elected sheriff of Mobile County, August 5, 1893, by the largest majority ever given a candidate for that position in that county, and held the office four years; founded the Bayou La Batre Canning Company and was general manager of the company; managed the Gulf City Pickling Works for three years; was elected tax collector of Mobile County by an overwhelming majority in 1900, and occupies that position at this time. He was a member of the city council from the sixth ward for three years; was a member of Battery A, Alabama state artillery, serving as first sergeant for eight years, and is now an honorary member of that organization. He is a Democrat, and has often served as a delegate to the different party conventions. Mr. Dorlon is a Catholic; a member of the Knights of Pythias; the Order of Elks; the Knights of Honor; the American Legion of Honor; the Ancient Order of United Workmen; and of the Odd Fellows. Married: December 18, 1877, Sarah J. Case, daughter of John and Ann Case, of Mobile, the former of whom enlisted in the Emerald Guards, C. S. Army, and was killed at Newmarket Bridge, Yorktown, Va., being the first Mobile soldier who lost his life in the War of Secession. Children: 1. Sybil, m. John West who is deceased; 2. George A. Residence: Mobile.

WILLIAM T. UNDERWOOD

DORMAN, THOMAS WILMER, Methodist minister, for a number of years a resident of Alabama, was born in 1805 at Salisbury, Md., and died July 2, 1869, in Mobile. At an early age he removed to Alexandria, D. C., and at the age of twenty to Middleburg, Loudoun County, Va. At the latter place, he came in direct contact with Methodism and on July 29, 1831, was converted; in 1834, he received license to exhort; in September, 1835, was licensed to preach; ordained a deacon, 1837; and admitted to the conference at the session held in Tuscaloosa, 1839. He was at once appointed secretary to the conference, which position he held for the next twenty years. He served the Valley Creek circuit, 1840-42; Greensboro, 1842-3; Livingston, 1844-46; Franklin street church, Mobile, 1846-48; Mobile district, 1848; Demopolis district, 1849-51; Columbus, Miss., 1852-53; Franklin street church, Mobile 1854-55; Montgomery, 1856-57; Marion, 1858-59; Selma, 1860; had charge of the conference depository, Mobile, 1861-65, at the same time having charge of the State street colored church; St. Paul's church, Mobile, 1866; and again returned to the Mobile district 1867-68. On account of ill health he was superannuated, at the 1868 conference. Last residence: Mobile.

DORTCH, ISAAC FOOTE, physician, was born May 23, 1817, on a plantation in Nash County, N. C., and died December 25, 1866, at Camden; son of William and Drusilla (Whitfield) Dortch of Nash County. He received his early education in the common schools of his native county, and entered the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill. He studied medicine in Philadelphia in the thirties of the nineteenth century and entered upon the practice in Sumter County, later removing to Wilcox County. He was a member of the Alabama legislature from Sumter County, 1842. He was a Democrat; Episcopalian; and Mason. Married: May Ann, daughter of Walter Raleigh and — (Ross) Ross (q. v.). Children: 1. Celestia, deceased, m. William G. Fail; 2. Ella, m. William G. Fail, her deceased sister's husband, Idabel, Okla; 3. Walter Ross, (q. v.); 4. Annie R., m. L. A. George, deceased; 5. Parthenia, m. Winston H. Boykin, deceased. Last residence: Camden.

DORTCH, JOHN B., merchant, was born in Monroe, La., August 25, 1862; son of Robert and Mary Bethune (Martin) Dortch, the former of North Carolina, and the latter of Mississippi, who later removed to Tennessee where she subsequently re-married; grandson of William Eaton and Ann Pendleton (Cobb) Dortch; great-grandson of Rev. John Cobb, a Methodist minister. He was largely educated at home by his mother; worked in a printing office, 1878-1880; was a clerk at Lake City, Fla., 1880-1883; worked in a railroad office in Jacksonville, Fla., removing to Washington, D. C., later to Virginia; attended Amherst college one year; moved to Alabama, in October, 1886, and clerked in a store at Martins Station, Dallas County, three years; in partnership with E. B. Martin three years; next became partner in wholesale grocery firm of Moore, Kornegay & Co., at Selma, which after several changes became Atkins, Dortch & Co. He is an Episcopalian, and an Odd Fellow. Married: in April, 1890, to Louise Pegues, of Oxford, Miss. Residence: Selma.

DORTCH, WALTER ROSS, lawyer, was born September 28, 1847, at Dortch plantation, Wilcox County; son of Isaac Foote and Mary Ann (Ross) Dortch (q. v.). He received his early education in the common schools of Wilcox County; graduated from the University of Alabama, A. B., degree, and from Lebanon, Tenn., LL. B.; entered upon the practice of his profession in 1868, at Camden; removed to Texas where he remained one year, then returned to Alabama and located in Gadsden. He was the mayor of Camden, 1869-71; and city attorney of Gadsden. He assisted the cadet corps in their efforts to defend their alma mater when the Federal troops invaded Tuscaloosa and burned the University. He is a Democrat; a Presbyterian; and a Knight of Pythias. Married: Elizabeth Woodward. Children: 1. Mary E. m. James R. Forman, Birmingham; 2. Isaac Foote, unmarried, commander, U. S. Navy; 3. Adalene, unmarried; 4. William Brice, m. Aileen S. Wier, Gadsden. Residence: Gadsden.

DOSTER, CHARLES S. G., lawyer, was born in 1830, in Autauga County; son of Absolom and Sarah (Alexander) Doster, natives of Mecklenburg County, N. C., and Greene County, Ga., respectively; grandson of James and Lydia Doster, the former a member of a North Carolina family of English extraction, and of Edmond and Mary Alexander who came to Alabama, settling in what is now Lowndes County, when the state was a vast wilderness, the former of whom was a Virginian by birth, and entered the colonial army when he was but twelve years old. Mr. Doster's father was taken by his parents from North Carolina to Georgia when he was sixteen years old; came with them to Autauga County in 1818 where he engaged in merchandising at old Washington, then the oldest town in that part of the state; moved after several years to Prattville where he planted extensively; served in the State legislature, 1840-1841, when the capital was located at Tuscaloosa, being the only Whig that ever represented Autauga County in that body; was a Mason for forty years; and fought in the War of 1812. Col. Doster was reared on the home plantation, received his preparatory schooling at Rocky Mound Academy; attended the East Tennessee University and the Centenary College at Jackson, La., being graduated from the latter institution in 1853. He had read law for some years before his graduation in the office of ex-Gov. Watts, and was admitted to the bar in 1851; was elected justice of the peace; served as superintendent of education of Autauga County from 1854 to 1861; was colonel of militia before the War of Secession, and during that struggle was commandant of the militia stationed at Pratt-ville. After the close of the war, Col. Doster served in the State legislature until the Republicans gained control of the state, being chairman of the committee on education and a member of the judiciary committee; and in 1872 was elected to the State senate for four years, serving in that body as chairman of the committee on privileges and elections, and as a member of the judiciary committee. He resigned before the expiration of his term, to run for the position of circuit judge in which race he was defeated. He had been a member and one of the secretaries of the Democratic national convention which met at Philadelphia in 1866 to sustain President Andrew Johnson in his reconstruction policy; was a large stockholder and a director in the Prattville Cotton Mills & Banking Company; was chairman of the board of stewards of the Methodist Episcopal church; served as president for many years of the board of school trustees of the Prattville Male and Female Academy; and was a Mason. Married: In 1854, Caroline E. Slaton, daughter of John and Nancy (Harris) Slaton, natives of Kentucky and Georgia, who settled in Autauga County in 1835 where Mr. Slaton engaged in planting until his death in 1846; sister of Maj. William F. Slaton, who served in the army of the Tennessee, was wounded and captured at Corinth, served for a time in a Federal prison, and after the war became superintendent of education at Atlanta, Ga., and of Capt. Henry H. Slaton, a veteran of the C. S. Army, who became a member of the Florida legislature, but later moved to Arkansas in which state he died. Children: 1. Mary Tulula, m. W. W. Reynolds; 2. Charles E., a lawyer and planter; 3. Corrine, m. J. L. Alexander; 4. Howard S. (q. v.), editor and proprietor of the Prattville "Progress"; 5. Carrie M. Last residence: Prattville.

DOSTER, HOWARD SLATON, editor, planter, lawyer, manufacturer, and legislator, was born in 1870, at Prattville; son of Charles S. G. and Caroline E. (Slaton) Doster (q. v.); grandson of John and Nancy (Harris) Slaton, of Autauga County; great-grandson of Edmond and Mary Alexander. Senator Doster was educated at the Prattville male and female academy; graduated B. S., 1890, at the Agricultural and mechanical college, Auburn; and spent 1894-95, at Vanderbilt university as a student. He is the editor of "The Prattville Progress," and is a lawyer, planter, and manufacturer. He was a member of the house of representatives, 1898-99, and 1900-01; State senator in 1907 from the fifteenth district; and president of the Alabama press association 1907-08. He is a Democrat; Knight of Pythias; Knight of Honor; and a Methodist. Married: Mrs. Birdie (Inzer) Robinson. Children: a daughter. Residence: Prattville.

DOSTER, JAMES JARVIS, educator, was born December 20, 1873, near Arifton, Dale County; son of Simeon Jarvis and Sarah (Tucker) Doster, the former of whom was born in Mecklenburg County, N. C., 1825 taught school for forty-six years in Midway, Clayton and Troy, retiring in his old age to his farm in Dale County, and represented Dale County in the State legislature in 1876; grandson of Joel and Mary (Winchester) Doster who lived first in Mecklenburg County, N. C., moved in 1836 to Talbot County, Ga., and in 1846 to Dale County where they lived for the rest of their lives, and of James and Eliza (Daniel) Tucker who lived at White Oak Springs, Barbour County. The Doster family originally came from England and settled in North Carolina before the Revolution. Prof. Doster was prepared in private schools taught by his father, in the Bowen School at Ozark, and in the Southeast Alabama Agricultural School at Abbeville. At the age of sixteen he began teaching in the country schools of Dale County; taught for seven years in that county; entered the State Normal College at Troy, becoming principal of the high school department of the college, 1900-1902, and was graduated, Ph.B., 1902; was assistant in Latin and professor of manual arts in that institution, 1902-1907; took the B. S. degree from the Teachers College, Columbia University, New York, 1906, and the A. M. degree from the same college, 1909; served as professor of secondary education in The University of Alabama, 1907-1911; was appointed professor of philosophy and education, and dean of the School of Education of that University in 1911, and has held those positions, as well as that of director of the summer school, from that time to the present. Prof. Doster is a member of the Southern University Commission for the Scientific Study of Race Problems; member of the board of directors of the Alabama Teachers and Pupils Reading Circle; member of the executive committee of the Alabama Educational Association; of the Alabama Text Book Commission; has been secretary and treasurer of the Association of Alabama Colleges since 1910; is a member of the American Association for the Advancement of Science; of the Society of College Teachers of Education; of the Southern Council of Education; of the National Educational Association; of the Southern Educational Association; and of the National Society for the Promotion of Industrial Education. He was state inspector of the county high schools of Alabama, 1908-1911; and is author of a course of study for those schools. He is a Democrat; a Knight of Pythias; and a Methodist. Married: August 11, 1909, at Troy, Mabel Cowart, daughter of Fletcher J. and Martha (Sanders) Cowart, of Troy. Children: James Fletcher, b. December 8, 1912. Residence: University.

DOSTER, JAMES PARKER, teacher, was born December 20, 1879, at Elamville, Barbour County; son of Obed Clay and Lydia Ann (Barr) Doster, natives of Barbour County, the former who was a teacher and farmer in Dale County, moved to Newton in 1885, and established the Newton "Messenger," a weekly newspaper, which he edited and published for five years, studied law and was admitted to the bar in 1887, and practices law at Ozark; grandson of Obed Clay and Mary (Campbell) Doster, who lived near Elamville, the former a native of Union County, N. C., who was taken to Talbot County, Ga., by his parents when quite young, and in 1819 moved to Alabama, and settled in Dale County, and of John Parker Barr, a farmer, who lived at Linwood. He attended the public schools of Newton, and the Baptist collegiate institute, at that place, and was the first graduate of the department of education at the University of Alabama, receiving the degree of bachelor of science in education, 1911. After his graduation, he took special work under Dr. F. B. Dressler of the department of education of the United States. For eight years before entering the University, he taught in the public schools of the state. He was founder and first principal of Aliceville academy; was assistant in physics in the University of Alabama, 1910-1911; and was superintendent of city schools at Florala, 1911-1914. He is a Democrat; a Missionary Baptist; a Royal Arch Mason; a Woodman of the World; and a Knight of Pythias. Married: June 2, 1901, near Campbellton, Fla., to Minnie Frances Powell, daughter of Hosea and Ida Kite Powell, who lived at that place. Children: 1. Percy J.; 2. Rubye Frances; 3. Gilbert Burns; 4. Edwin Lee; 5. Lydia Annette; 6. Ida Kite. Residence: Florala.

DOSWELL, ISAAC MORGAN, farmer and teacher, was born August 25, 1845, near Abbeville, Henry County; son of Thomas and Elizabeth (Morgan) Doswell, the former of Prince Edward Court House, Prince Edward County, Va., the latter of Twiggs County, Ga.; grandson of Thomas Doswell of Prince Edward County, Va.; and of Isaac Morgan of Twiggs County, Ga. Mr. Doswell attended school in Abbeville, and served through the War of Secession as a member of Co. I, Seventeenth Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army. After peace was established, he farmed and taught school. He was elected to the lower house of the State legislature in 1911 as a Democrat. Married: September 26, 1866, at Abbeville, to Eveline Gordon Danzey. Residence: Abbeville.

DOUGHERTY, ROBERT, lawyer, was born 1805, in Clarke County, Ga., and died October, 1868, in Macon County; son of Maj. Dougherty of Georgia, who married a Mrs. Puryear; brother of Hon. Charles Dougherty, distinguished in the legislative and judicial history of Georgia, in whose honor a county of that state has been named, and of William Dougherty, esq., a lawyer of Atlanta, Ga. He was of Irish ancestry. Judge Dougherty was educated at the University of Georgia; read law in Georgia with his brother Charles; located in Troup County to practice law and engage in planting; represented that county in the Georgia legislature; came in 1837 to Alabama, settling in Macon County where he became the law partner of Hon. N. W. Cocke; was elected to the State senate, representing Macon and Tallapoosa Counties, 1843; and when the selection of judges was transferred to the populace in 1850, he was elected to the bench of the circuit court over the incumbent, Hon. John J. Woodward of Talladega. He filled the position for eighteen years, defeating Hon. John T. Heflin of Randolph in 1856, and was finally forced from office by the reconstruction acts in 1868. He was a Whig. Married: Miss Watkins of Georgia. He left several children. Last residence: Macon County.

DOUGLAS, ALVIN MANSFIELD, lawyer, was born August 5, 1876, on a farm near Cordova, Walker County; son of John A. and Georgia Ann (Sumner) Douglas, the former of whom was born at Turkey Creek, Tuscaloosa County, and lived near Jasper, until his marriage, when he moved near Cordova, is a farmer, and for a few years was a merchant; grandson of George and Martha Ann Douglas, who lived near Jasper, and of John Buckner and Emily Sumner, who also lived near Jasper. He received his early education in the country schools in Walker County, at Jasper high school, and at Lamar training school for boys; and attended the University of Alabama, being graduated from the law school there in 1903. He began the practice of law in June, 1903, at Jasper; moved to Gadsden in 1904, and entered a partnership with G. D. Motley; moved to Birmingham in 1906; and since that time has conducted his profession there. He was clerk of the judiciary committee of the lower house of the legislature, 1907-1911; acted as judge of the recorder's court of Birmingham a number of times; and supplied the place of the regular judge while the latter was on his vacation, 1912 and 1913. He is a Democrat; a Missionary Baptist, serving as secretary of the Baptist Young Peoples' Union for some years, and as clerk of the Birmingham Baptist Association; is past chancellor commander of the Knights of Pythias; past chief of Ben Hur; and past commander of the Knights of the Maccabees. Residence: Birmingham.

DOUGLAS, HARTWELL, business man and president of the board of convict inspectors, was born January 20, 1865, on a farm in Lowndes County; son of Dr. James and Eugenia H. (Smith) Douglas, of Lowndesboro, the former served two years in "Stonewall" Jackson's Brigade, C. S. Army, the latter was the niece of Dixon H. Lewis (q. v.); grandson of Archibald and Eugenia H. Douglas, and of Dr. H. V. Smith and his wife a Miss Lewis, also of Lowndesboro. He was educated in the public and private schools of Montgomery. Prior to his appointment as president of the board of inspectors of convicts, April 7, 1913, and for the past twenty-five years he was engaged in the real estate business in Montgomery. He is a Democrat; and an Episcopalian. Married: November 15, 1892, in Montgomery, to Addie J., daughter of William E. and Mary C. (Boyd) McGehee, and granddaughter of Abner McGehee (q. v.), of Montgomery County. Children: 1. Adeline J.; 2. Elizabeth. Residence: Montgomery.

DOW, MRS. J. C., sr., author and writer. Residence: Birmingham.

DOWDELL, ANNE (WHITFIELD), patriotic and civic worker, was born in LaGrange, Troup County, Ga.; daughter of Matthew Staten and Martha Matilda (Broughton) Whitfield, the former also a native of Troup County, Ga., a planter, entered the Confederate Army as a private in the LaGrange light guards April 26, 1861, known as Co. B, 4th Georgia regiment, Doles-Cook brigade, was twice wounded, the second time at the battle of Chancellorsville, transferred to the Co. D, Phillip's legion, cavalry, as sergeant and surrendered with General Lee at Appomattox, 1865; granddaughter of Horatio T. and Ann Taylor (Gibson) Whitfield, and of Edward and Sarah Ann (Lackey) Broughton, all of LaGrange, Ga. Revolutionary ancestors were Captain Luke Whitfield and John Gibson, both from South Carolina, and on the maternal line, John Cookson Davis, a native of Hanover County, Va., who took part in the battles of Valley Forge, Monmouth, and Stony Point, and died in Autauga County, February 3, 1835. Colonial ancestors were Thomas Lackey of Georgia, and Gov. Thomas Broughton of South Carolina, 1735-39. Mrs. Dowdell was educated at the Southern female college, LaGrange, Ga., from which institution she graduated in 1884. She was president of the Alabama division, United daughters of the Confederacy, 1901-03; recording secretary-general, United daughters of the Confederacy, 1906-10; organizer of the Robert E. Lee chapter, United daughters of the Confederacy, Opelika, 1898, and served as its president, 1901; treasurer, Alabama division, Daughters of the American Revolution, 1900-05; corresponding secretary, Woman's missionary society, Alabama conference, 1910. Married: Andrew Lipscomb Dowdell. Residence: Opelika.

DOWDELL, JAMES FERGUSON, lawyer, representative in Congress, was born November 26, 1818, in Jasper County, Ga., and died September, 1871, at Auburn; son of Lewis Jefferson Dowdell, a native of Virginia, of Irish extraction, who at an early age emigrated to Kentucky, and soon after to Georgia. Col. Dowdell's mother, whose maiden name was Farley, was also a Virginian, a native of Powhattan, and a distant relative of Henry Clay. She died when her son was a child, and he was reared in the family of William C. Thomas, his uncle. He studied under Lemuel Robertson, esq., a classical teacher in LaGrange, Troup County, Ga.; entered Randolph Macon college, Virginia, from which institution he was graduated at the head of his class in 1840; returned to Georgia and read law in the office of Gen. Hugh A. Haralson at LaGrange; and was admitted to the bar April, 1841, at Greenville, Ga. In 1846, having determined to retire from the practice of law, Col. Dowdell moved with his family to Chambers County, settled on a farm and devoted himself for some years to agriculture. He was ordained to the Methodist Episcopal ministry in 1848, and during his life, spent much time as local preacher. In 1849, he was induced by Democratic friends to canvass for a seat in the State legislature, and during this canvass, although defeated at the polls, Col. Dowdell established his reputation as debater and stump speaker. He again canvassed the state in 1851, on the issue raised by the compromise measures between the Southern Rights men and the Union party, for a seat in the legislature, was defeated due to his party's minority, but polled a heavier vote than the strength of the party accounted for. The next year, he was made an elector on the Pierce and King presidential ticket; was elected to congress in 1853, defeating Hon. Thomas G. Garrett of Calhoun by more than a three thousand majority; was reelected two years later over Hon. Thomas H. Watts after a close contest; and was returned in 1857 with a majority of eighty votes over Hon. Thomas H. Judge of Montgomery. At the end of his third term in congress, he voluntarily retired from the position. He represented Chambers County in the state convention of 1861, and voted for secession. In the winter of that year, he raised the Thirty-seventh Alabama infantry of which he was elected colonel; led it at Corinth, and shared its privations and dangers up to and through the siege of Vicksburg; but the exposure was too great for him, and when paroled, he was forced by his feeble health to retire. He refused to resign because he thought it an evil example, but was finally retired by a medical board. After the war, Col. Dowdell moved to Auburn, where he was president of the East Alabama Female College until shortly before his death in 1871. He had served for some years as steward of his circuit of the Methodist Episcopal church, and as secretary of the board of trustees of Oak Bowery Female College. Married: In 1842, in Georgia, Sarah H. Render, daughter of Hon. James Render, of Meriwether County, Ga. The oldest of his children was a lawyer in Opelika. Last residence: Auburn.

DOWDELL, JAMES RENDER, lawyer and chief justice Alabama supreme court, was born April 2, 1847, in Chambers County; son of James Ferguson and Sarah H. (Render) Dowdell, the former a Methodist minister, a member of congress, member of the Secession convention of 1861, colonel of the 37th Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army, president East Alabama male college, Auburn; grandson of James Render of Georgia, for many years judge of Meriwether County. Judge Dowdell was educated in the common schools of the towns of Lafayette and Auburn; was at the University of Alabama, 1864-65, and participated in all the exciting events in connection with the burning of the institution by the Federals. He graduated from the East Alabama male college, Auburn, with the degree of A. B. in the close of 1867. He began the practice of law at Opelika, in 1870; was solicitor of the ninth judicial circuit for four years, 1876 to 1880; judge of the fifth circuit; chancellor of the northeastern division, and in 1898 was elected associate justice of the State supreme court, reelected in 1904, and again in 1906; appointed chief justice, February 8, 1909, and elected November 8, 1910, for six years. He resigned his exalted judicial position, January, 1914. He is a Democrat and a Methodist. Married: (1) September 6, 1871, at Lafayette, to Rosie Tuener, (2) December 12, 1878, to Ella May, daughter of Johnathan Ware. Children: by the second wife, 1. Annie Love, m. William A. Denson, Birmingham; 2. Sarah, d. young; 3. Render, deceased. Residence: Opelika.

DOWELL, SPRIGHT, teacher, State superintendent of education, and college president, was born January 2, 1878, at Cary, Wake County, N. C.; son of George James and Tranina (Yates) Dowell, the former a native of Alexandria, Va., but later a resident of North Carolina; grandson of Albert Higgins and Rosina (Duffey) Dowell, the former a native of Alexandria, Va., who moved to North Carolina and both celebrated teachers, and of Alvis and Mary Jane (Harwood) Yates, of Wake County, N. C.; great-grandson of Jeremiah and Elleanor (Violett) Dowell, of Alexandria, Va., and of George, jr., and Rosina (Lotz) Duffey, of the same place, the former a maker of fine brass and dealer in precious metals, the latter the widow of a sea captain, and of Eli and Willie (Baucom) Yates; great-great-grandson of George Duffey, sr., and wife, who was a Madame Diebel, and formerly Lady Mary Hall, of England, the former a native of Cornwall, England, who emigrated to America and settled in Belhaven, now Alexandria, Va., and of William, jr., and Mary (Wimberly) Yates; great-great-great-grandson of Lewis and Martha (Barbee) Wimberly, of Bertie County, N. C., and of William Yates, a private in the North Carolina militia of Wake County during the Revolutionary War; great-great-great-great-grandson of Christopher Barbee, and of John and Sarah Yates who removed from Bedford County, Va., to Caswell County, N. C., about the middle of the eighteenth century. Mr. Dowell received his early education in the public schools of North Carolina; graduated from Wake Forest college, N. C., 1896; attended the summer school of the Southern university of Tennessee, 1900-01; Columbia university, summer school, 1908-11; received the degree of A. M., Columbia university and teacher's college, 1911, and the honorary degree of LL. D., University of Alabama, 1920. He was principal of the elementary school, Shelby, 1900-02; high school, Columbiana, 1902-07; superintendent, East Lake, 1907-10; principal, Barrett school, Birmingham, 1910-14; chief clerk, department of education, 1914-16; director of institutes, department of education, 1916-18; appointed by Gov. Charles Henderson, October 1, 1918, and elected January, 1919, State superintendent of education. He was appointed president of the Alabama polytechnic institute, June 7, 1920. He is a Democrat; a Baptist; Mason; and a Knight of Pythias. Author: "Alabama school code," 1919. Married: December 28, 1898, at Aulander, N. C., to Camille, daughter of Abner Williford and Ella Mary (Watson) Early, of that place. Children: 1. William Burton; 2. Camille Beeman; 3. Edwin Early; 4. Mary Barrett; 5. Spright, jr. Residence: Auburn.

DOWLING, ANGUS, Methodist minister, was born February 20, 1834, near Ozark, Dale County, and died February 8, 1904, at Daleville; son of Noel and Sarah D. (McDonald) Dowling, the former a native of Darlington, S. C., later a resident of Dale County, where he farmed; grandson of Rev. Dempsey and Martha (Stokes) Dowling, of Darlington, S. C., and of John and Sally McDonald of Skipperville; great-grandson of John and Nancy (Boutwell) Dowling; great-great-grandson of Robert and Sarah (Guinn) Dowling, who before the Revolutionary War, moved from Virginia to Jeffries Creek, S. C.; great-great-great-grandson of Robert Dowling, who came to Virginia, probably from Ireland, during the 17th century. Mr. Dowling was a man of classical education, and was for forty years a member of the Alabama conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, South. Married: in 1865, in Montgomery County, to Laura Lavinia, daughter of Dr. Thomas and Sarah Boswell, of that county, the latter a native of Pike County who after her widowhood married Julius C. Alford. Children: 1. Oscar (q. v.); 2. Bascom, m. Calla Mancill, Eufaula; 3. Nettie, d. in childhood; 4. Marvin, deceased, m. Alberta Byrd, Ozark; 5. Mattie, Washington, D. C.; 6. Annie, Washington, D. C.; 7. Angus, d. in childhood; 8. Noel T., m. Elizabeth Malloy, Minneapolis, Minn.; 9. Gus-sie, Washington, D. C. Last residence: Ozark.

DOWLING, DANIEL Y., merchant and leather manufacturer, was born in 1842 in Dale County; son of Noel and Sarah D. (McDonald) Dowling (q. v.), and brother of John W. and Gabriel (q. v.). He attended the public schools of his native county, and enlisted as a private in Co. I, 33rd Alabama infantry regiment, and served throughout the war; was taken prisoner July 3, 1864, at Kenesaw Mountain, Ga., and sent to Camp Morton, Ind., where he was held until the close of hostilities. Upon returning home he engaged in farming, but at the end of one year he began merchandising, and in 1870 established in partnership with his brother Noel, a tannery and leather manufacturing business, and which also made shoes and harness. In 1880 the firm entered upon a general merchandising business. Six years later a branch store was opened at Geneva, but at the end of three years he returned to Ozark, where he devoted himself to his original interests. He assisted in establishing the State bank at Ozark in 1890, and was elected a director, later vice-president; and was a member of the municipal board. He is a Democrat; a Methodist; and a Mason. Married: November 14, 1865, Rebecca J., daughter of William Dick, a native of North Carolina, who settled in Alabama in 1822, and whose wife was a native of South Carolina. Children: 1. Early; 2. Marcus; 3. Hart; 4. Young D.; 5. Lannie; 6. Mertie M.; 7. Irene G. Residence: Ozark.

DOWLING, GABRIEL P., probate judge and banker, was born August 6, 1848, near Ozark; son of Noel and Sarah Delany (McDonald) Dowling (q. v.). He was educated in the common schools; in early manhood entered the store of W. D. Barrow, as a clerk; and from 1870 to 1890 he merchandised in partnership with his brother, John W. Dowling. He was alderman of Ozark about 1874; city clerk, 1882; probate judge of Dale County, 1889-95; president First national bank of Ozark; president Consolidated trading company, New Brockton; president G. B. Dowling hardware company, at Ozark; director Ozark cotton mill company. He is a Democrat; a Methodist; and a Mason. Married: January 13, 1870, in Ozark, to Zilphia Ann, daughter of Rev. Caswell and Susan (Hooks) Smith, of that place. The former was a native of Georgia, who came to Alabama in 1855; was an ardent advocate of church building and founded a number of churches and Sundry schools throughout the section; first settled at Skipperville, Dale County, and enjoyed farming in connection with his ministerial duties; later lived at Haw Ridge for ten years, but finally settled in Ozark. Children: 1. Willie Gertrude, m. H. M. Sessions, of Ozark; 2. Horace O., m. Nora Bowen, of Ozark; 3. Harvey C., m. Grace Newborn, of Ozark; 4. Susan, m. Jesse D. Holman, of Ozark; 5. Sallie C., m. John W. Hilliard; 6. James Rosco, m. Frankie Wilson, of Ozark; 7. Albert T. Residence: Ozark.

DOWLING, JOHN W., merchant, was born December 6, 1832, in Dale County, and died in Ozark; son of Noel and Sarah D. (McDonald) Dowling (q. v.); and brother of Daniel Y. Dowling (q. v.). He received a limited education in the public schools, but evinced a native ability in handling the affairs of life. He was elected tax collector of Dale County; and later entered the mercantile business. He enlisted in the C. S. Army, in 1861, with the "Dale guards," under Capt. W. T. McCall, and was elected second lieutenant, the organization later becoming Co. F, Seventh Alabama infantry regiment. Later he assisted in raising the "Partisan Rangers," mustered into service as Co. E, 53rd Alabama cavalry regiment, of which he was made second lieutenant. He was later put in command of a scouting party under Gen. P. D. Roddy and discovered Col. Cornyne, of the U. S. Army, crossing the Tennessee River, a Federal raiding command that burned the cotton factories of Florence. He afterwards did picket duty and was with Gen. Johnston's command, and was severely wounded in a skirmish preceding the battle of Atlanta. He was furloughed home for convalescence, and there joined the local defense troops. He was elected county superintendent of education during reconstruction times, but was not permitted by the Republican powers to take office. He taught school and bought a farm in 1867. He was elected to the Alabama legislature, 1882-83, and 1884-86, and was nominated for the senate in 1888 but defeated. He was a Methodist; and a Mason. Married: May 11, 1862, at Tampa, Fla., to Anna J., daughter of John Thompson, a seafaring man, and a native of Massachusetts. Last residence: Ozark.

DOWLING, NOEL, farmer, was born December 25, 1809, in Darlington County, S. C., and died June 15, 1892, at Ozark; son of Rev. Dempsey and Martha (Stokes) Dowling, of South Carolina, the former a Methodist minister who removed to Alabama in 1826; and grandson of John W. Dowling of Virginia, a Revolutionary soldier of Irish origin. Mr. Dowling received a common school education in South Carolina and was always the patron of schools and helped build up a religious influence in the pioneer country of his adoption. He was for sixty-one years a farmer in Dale County. Married: in 1831, to Sarah Delany, daughter of John MacDonald, a native of Scotland, who emigrated to America, settled in Jasper County, Ga., and later located in Dale County. Children: 1. John W. (q. v.); 2. Daniel Y. (q. v.); 3. Noel P. of Ozark; 4. Gabriel P. (q. v.); 5. Angus; 6. 7. 8. 9. Last residence: Ozark.

DOWLING, OSCAR, physician and Louisiana State health officer, was born October 29, 1866, near China Grove, Montgomery County; son of Rev. Angus and Laura Lavinia (Boswell) Dowling, the former a native of Dale County, a Methodist minister, for forty-seven years a member of the Alabama conference; grandson of Noel and Sarah (McDonald) Dowling (q. v.), and of Thos. C. and Martha Thomason (Herrin) Boswell, of Montgomery County. He attended school at Ramer, and the Athens collegiate institute, graduated at Vanderbilt university, M. D., 1888, and took post graduate courses at New York, Chicago, and New Orleans polyclinics, New York eye and ear infirmary, and clinics at Paris, Mexico City, London and Berlin. He prepared to be a specialist in eye, ear, nose and throat diseases; was house surgeon, assistant to surgeon in charge, in the Ear, eye, nose and throat hospital, New Orleans, 1896-99; was oculist and aurist in the State charity hospital, Shreveport, La.; member Louisiana State board of health, 1906-08; president State board of health, 1910, reappointed, 1912 and 1916; president Tri-State medical association, 1905-06; president Parish medical society, 1908-09; president Physicians' and surgeons' club, 1909-10; secretary-treasurer Southern medical association, 1907-10; president Louisiana State medical society, 1907-08; editor Medical recorder, changed to Journal Southern medical association, 1908, associate editor, 1910-13; member American medical association; member National drainage congress, 1912-13; president mosquito commission of National drainage congress; member Royal institute of public health, London, England. He is 1st lieutenant U. S. Army reserve corps. He originated the idea of operating the Louisiana health trains, by which demonstrations were made on health subjects to the people of the State and other sections. He is a Democrat; a Methodist; Shriner; Knight of Pythias; Elk; and a Woodman of the World. Unmarried. Residence: New Orleans, La.

DOX, PETER MYNERT, lawyer, representative in congress, was born September 11, 1813, in Geneva, N. Y., and died April 3, 1891, at Huntsville; son of Abraham Dox, a native of Albany, N. Y., born July 7, 1780, married a Miss Nicholas, was a captain in the War of 1812, served in the State legislature in 1813, was a trustee of Hobart College from 1825 to 1850, and died in Geneva, N. Y., August 19, 1862; grandson of John Nicholas, a representative in congress from Virginia, from 1793 to 1801. He was educated in New York, attended Hobart College, and was graduated there in 1833. He remained at Hobart College as a tutor for a year after his graduation; received his M. A. degree there in 1837; studied law and was admitted to the bar. He represented his district in the New York legislature in 1841, and was elected judge of Ontario County, N. Y. He moved to Alabama in 1855, locating in Madison County and represented that county in the state constitutional convention of 1865. He was elected a representative in the Forty-first congress, 1869, and was re-elected by a large majority over Judge Standifer of Cherokee the following year. He declined further service at the end of his term in 1871. He served as a trustee of Hobart College from 1847 to 1856. Married: Miss Pope, of Madison County. Last residence: Huntsville.

DR. BARNEY D. SIBLEY

DOYLE, EDWARD, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 76, and a resident of Blount County; private S. C. Militia; enrolled on July 31, 1833, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $87.50.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in Part 3, vol. xiii, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34.

DOYLE, JOHN DANIEL, business man and legislator, was born May 1, 1854, near Thomasville, Clarke County; son of Bartlett Smith and Eliza S. (Bouler) Doyle, the former served in the 38th Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army; grandson of Jesse and Mary Jane (Barr) Doyle, both of Clarke County, and of John W. and Mary Jane (Abney) Bouler, who came from South Carolina to Clarke County. He was educated in the common schools of Clarke County. He has been a member of the Democratic committee of his county for twenty-five years; in 1892 was elected one of the board of county commissioners and served for several years. He is a Baptist; and a Mason. Married: December 26, 1878, to Irene Elizabeth, daughter of Samuel David and Mary (McClinton) Miller, of near Coffeeville. Children: 1. Clarence E.; 2. Conrad F.; 3. Carlos M.; 4. Commer S. B.; 5. Clodie E. Residence: Salitpa.

DOYLE, WILLIAM BOWLES, farmer, was born August 27, 1839, at Clarksville, Clarke County; son of Bartlett Smith and Eliza S. (Bowles) Doyle; grandson of Jesse and Jane (Barr) Doyle, of Clarksville, who emigrated from South Carolina to Clarke County, and bought the lands on which Uniontown is situated, and of John W. and Mary (Abney) Bowles, also emigrants from South Carolina to Clarke County, and who lived at Choctaw Corner, the former of whom was sheriff of the county for several terms. Mr. Doyle received his education in the schools of Clarke County; served in Co. A., forty-third Alabama regiment, C. S. Army until the surrender; has farmed in Clarke and Marengo Counties; and was elected to the State legislature in 1907. He is a Democrat; a Baptist; and a Mason. Married: to Lillie Ann, daughter of Joel B. and Jane (Dunning) Dixon, of Dixon's Mills. Residence: Dixon's Mills, Marengo County.

DOZIER, ORION THEOPHILUS, physician, was born August 18, 1848, at Glenalter, Marion County, Ga.; son of Dr. Thomas Henry and Martha Starns (Davie) Dozier, the former of whom, a Methodist minister, was born near Wrightsboro, Columbia County, Ga., was a hospital surgeon with the rank of major in the C. S. Army, and died at Rome, Ga.; grandson of Thomas and Kate (White) Dozier, who lived near Wrightsboro, the former a soldier in the Indian War of 1812, and of William and Ruby (Wellborn) Davie, of Lincoln County, Ga.; great-grandson of James and Elizabeth (Staples) Dozier, of Pee Dee River Settlement, the former one of Marion's men who fought at King's Mountain, and of Abraham Marshall, author, missionary and soldier; great-great-grandson of Leonard Dozier, of Luxenburg County, Va., who gave material aid to the Virginia colony in the Revolution, and of Daniel Marshall, an Indian fighter and founder and first pastor of Kiokee church, the first Baptist church established in Georgia. The Doziers were French Huguenots, who emigrated to England and then to Virginia, the first of the name coming to America with Capt. John Smith. Dr. Dozier attended private schools in Atlanta, Ga., and the Male academy at Eufaula; was graduated from the Atlanta Medical college, M. D., 1874, and took a special course of lectures in the medical department of the Illinois university; began to practice at Attalla, 1874; moved to Cherokee County and practiced two years; practiced at Portageville, New Madrid County, Mo., three years, then at Rome, Ga., finally locating at Birmingham in 1890, where he established a medical institute. He served in Co. A, Second regiment, Georgia volunteers, through the War of Secession; is a Democrat and an Odd Fellow. He is author of "Foibles of Fancy and Rhymes of the Times," 1894; "A Galaxy of Southern Heroes and Other Poems," 1905; "Poems by Orion T. Dozier," Neal Publishing Company, New York, 1905. Dr. Dozier invented a railway switch, a nut lock, a portable elevator and fire escape, a hame for harness, an automatic elevator door, a combination bottle and syringe, and a rapid fire gun. Married: April 30, 1874, at Atlanta, Ga., Elizabeth Lewis Powers, daughter of George R. and Tabitha Jane (Williams) Powers, of Campbell County, Ga.; granddaughter of George R. and Mary (Gilmer) Powers, the latter of whom was a sister of Gov. George R. Gilmer of Georgia, and of Mrs. Benn S. Bibb, for whom the Sophie-Bibb chapter, U. D. C., was named; and also granddaughter of John and Lilly (Taylor) Williams, the latter a cousin of President Zachary Taylor, and a relative of the Merryweather and Lewis families. Children: 1. Byron, physician, first lieutenant, Fifth regiment, U. S. Volunteers, in the war with Spain, m. Willie Iduma Doyle, children, one son and one daughter; 2. Martha Lorena, m. Joseph Zinszer, of Birmingham, daughter, Rosa Josephine; 3. Nicholas Fearing, m. Ruby Butler, of Brookhaven, Miss., resides at Valdosta, Ga.; 4. Wellborn Thomas, lawyer, Birmingham; 5. Irma Marie. Residence: Birmingham.

DRAKE, JOHN, member of the constitutional convention, 1865, from Madison County.

DRAKE, JOHN HODGES, physician; graduated at the Atlanta medical college in 1867, and commenced the practice in Lee County in 1881; physician and surgeon of the Alabama polytechnic institute. Residence: Auburn.

DRAKEFORD, THOMAS C., merchant, was born in 1833, in Kershaw District, S. C.; son of John and Sarah A. (Carlos) Drakeford, natives of South Carolina, who farmed in that state until 1836 when they came to Alabama, living in Montgomery and Tuskegee, where Mr. Drakeford became a merchant; grandson of John Drakeford, whose brother William was a colonel in the Revolutionary Army, and of William C. Carlos, a farmer of Montgomery County. The Drakeford family is of English descent, and the Carlos family of Spanish descent, both introduced into America before the Revolution. Mr. Drakeford was educated at Tuskegee; engaged as a clerk in the mercantile business at the age of eighteen; established his own firm under the name of T. C. Drakeford & Company, general merchants, some years later, and has remained in that business. He has also extensive real estate interests. In 1862, Mr. Drakeford joined a company of partisan rangers, which was later attached to the Fifty-sixth Alabama regiment of cavalry, and was known as Co. A; served in northern Mississippi, Alabama, Georgia, North and South Carolina, and was near Greensboro, N. C., at the surrender. Married: November 15, 1870, Mrs. S. C. Dryer, daughter of Benjamin Dryer, a native of North Carolina, who became an early settler of Montgomery County. Mrs. Drakeford was the mother of two sons, Thomas and Benjamin Dryer, by her first marriage. Children: 1. John H.; 2. William C. Residence: Tuskegee.

DREISBACH, JAMES DENNY, planter and legislator, was born May 24, 1816, at Circleville, Ohio, and died in October, 1896, at Little River, Baldwin County. His parents came from Pennsylvania to Ohio on horseback, and settled in the Scioto Valley. His grandparents came from Denmark and settled in Pennsylvania. He came to Alabama about 1843 and acquired lands in Baldwin County where he engaged in farming. In 1861, he organized, and was captain of, a home guard company, which later disbanded and the members entered the regular Confederate service. In 1872-76, he was senator for the district composed of Baldwin, Monroe and Conecuh counties. In collaboration with Dr. Eugene Smith, he prepared much material on Alabama history. He was an Old Line Whig and opposed secession, but after 1865 was a Democrat; a Mason. Married: November, 1844, near Little River, to Josephine Bonaparte, daughter of David and Margaret (Dyer) Tate, of Little River, the former the son of Adam Tate and Sehoy McGilvray, and half-brother to William Weatherford, the Creek warrior, Margaret was the daughter of Reuben Dyer, who was one of the victims of the Fort Mims massacre. Sehoy (McGilvray)

Tate was sister of Alexander McGilvray chief of the Creek Indians. All of these are buried together, near Little River, William Weatherford's home, on the land now occupied and owned by Charles H. Dreisbach, grandson of Sehoy. Children: 1. Ida, m. Henry Clay Staples; 2. Tate Randolph, Confederate soldier, died in Camp Chase; 3. Charles Henry, m. Olivia Barnes; 4. Florence, m. A. B. Nyles; 5. Percy Webb; 6. Arthur Carroll; 7. May, m. Dr. Geo. Ogborne; 8. Hattie; 9. Maude, m. Edward Thring; 10. Dr. Lee; 11. Leila, m. ——— Bunn; 12. Clara, m. Walter English; 13. Annie, m. George McCall; 14. Josephine, 2nd wife of Walter English; 15. Roanna, m. Thadeus Barlow. Last residence: Little River.

DRENNEN, CHARLES, physician, was born September 6, 1842, in Walker County; son of Rev. Walter B. and Matilda H. (Cornwell) Drennen, natives respectively of Tennessee and Alabama, the former of whom was brought to Alabama in infancy by his parents, was reared in that state, and became a Methodist minister, and a leading Republican, active in state and national politics; brother of Walter Melville Drennen (q. v.). The Drennen ancestors emigrated from Scotland to Ireland, and from the latter country to America, where they settled in South Carolina. Dr. Drennen obtained his early education from the schools of Walker County; entered college at Tuscaloosa, leaving his studies in the spring of 1861 to enter the C. S. Army; enlisted in the company of Capt. F. A. Gamble; was elected first lieutenant of Co. F, Twenty-eighth Alabama infantry, which regiment went into service early in 1862 under Col. John W. Frazer and was assigned to the brigade of Gen. Manigault at Corinth, Miss.; served during the siege of Corinth by Halleck's army; took part in Gen. Bragg's invasion of Kentucky in 1862, participating in the battles of Munfordville and Perryville; commanded the company of Capt. Gamble, who had resigned to accept the office of probate judge of Walker County, at the battle of Murfreesboro, December 31, 1862; and for gallant and meritorious conduct on that field was promoted to captain. The Twenty-eighth, in that battle, shared in the assault of Manigault's brigade upon the right of Sheridan's division and was driven back by a heavy fire of artillery and musketry. Though many men had fallen, they returned to the attack a second and a third time, and finally broke the Federal line. In the midst of the fight, Capt. Drennen was wounded in the left arm but continued on the field. He commanded his company at the battle of Chickamauga and during the siege of Chattanooga; was among the captured when Missionary Ridge was taken by Gen. Grant, November 25, 1863, was sent as a prisoner of war to Johnson's Island, and held there until the close of the war. Capt. Drennen had commenced studying medicine in 1867 in his home county, and after the war ended, continued his study, attending lectures in Baltimore and in the Alabama Medical College at Mobile. He was graduated, M. D., 1873; organized the Walker County Medical Society in 1874, being twice elected president of that society; practiced medicine at Arkadelphia for more than ten years; took a post-graduate course at the New York Polyclinic in 1885; and moved to Birmingham the next year, where he has continued his practice. He is a member of the State Medical Association; of the Jefferson County Medical Society; and is a contributor to the medical press. He is a Methodist; a Knight of Pythias; a Knight of Honor; and a Knight Templar. Married: in 1863, Elizabeth M. Wilson, daughter of Col. Washington and Melissa (McCarns) Wilson, natives of South Carolina and Alabama respectively. Children: 1. Dr. C. Travis, physician, Hot Springs, Ark.; 2. Dr. Daniel E., formerly his father's partner, Birmingham; 3. Felix M., merchant, Birmingham; 4. Jesse L., lawyer, Birmingham; 5. Walter Earle, vocalist; 6. daughter, m. J. P. Russell of Birmingham. Last residence: Birmingham.

DRENNEN, HUBERT ALBERTO, merchant, graduate Alabama polytechnic institute, with the B. S. degree, 1896. Residence: Birmingham.

DRENNEN, WALTER MELVILLE, business man, was born at Arkadelphia, Blount County; son of Rev. Walter Blythe and Matilda H. (Cornwell) Drennen, natives, respectively, of Tennessee and Alabama, the former of whom was a Methodist minister; brother of Dr. Charles Drennen (q. v.). The Drennen family is descended from Scotch stock, which emigrated to Ireland, and from Ireland to America, settling in South Carolina. Members of the family were in the Revolutionary war; one was a major at the surrender of Yorktown, others fought with Moultrie, and still others were bushwhackers. The families lived in the country and were landowners. Mr. Drennen attended the common schools at Arkadelphia; settled in Birmingham in early life and entered the business world. He was elected mayor of Birmingham for three terms, is a member of the firm of Drennen & Company, a director of the Birmingham Mutual Fire Insurance Company; president of the Martin Cracker Company; manager of the Palos Coal & Coke Company; and president of the League of Alabama Municipalities. He is vice-president of the National Good Roads Association, and is a member of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks. Residence: Birmingham.

DRESSLAR, FLETCHER BASCOM, teacher and author, for a number of years a resident of Alabama, was born September 21, 1858, at Banta, Ind.; son of Archibald and Elizabeth Ann (Bromwell) Dresslar. He received the degree of A. B. Indiana university, 1889; A. M., 1892; and Ph.D., Clark university, 1894; has taught in Indiana, California and Alabama; was professor of education and dean of the school of education, University of Alabama, 1909-11; and is now professor of school hygiene at Peabody college for teachers, Nashville. Author: "Superstition and education," 1907; "American schoolhouses," 1911; "School hygiene," 1913; and numerous papers in periodicals on psychology and educational topics.

Married: December 28, 1892, to Cornelia Jerould Welborn, of Princeton, Ind. Residence: Nashville, Tenn.

DUBOSE, FRANCIS GOODWIN, physician, was born September 28, 1873, at Maplesville, son of Franklin Davis and Anna (Goodwin) DuBose (q. v.). He was educated in the rural schools of Chilton and Dallas Counties; Orville academy; Marion institute, where he received the A. B. degree in 1891; was certificated at the University of Virginia, 1892; graduated at Tulane University, M. D., 1893; and took post graduate courses at New York, Baltimore, Philadelphia, Chicago, and abroad during 1900 and 1902. He entered upon the practice of his profession at Selma in 1893; built the DuBose sanatorium in 1904; built and opened the Vaughan memorial hospital in 1914. Dr. DuBose is past president, Dallas County medical society; member of the board of censors of Dallas County; past chairman, section on surgery, Southern medical association; president of the staff of the Vaughan memorial hospital; a member of the County State, Southern and American medical associations; and a fellow of the chemical congress of surgeons of North America. He is a Democrat, and a Presbyterian. Author: "Malarial Hematuria," Journal American Medical Association, March 11, 1899, copied in Le Semaine Medicale of Paris, France; "Diffuse Nephritis," Alabama Medical Journal, July, 1902; "Therapeutic Nihilism," Alkaloidal Clinic, July, 1902; "Carcinoma of the Breast," Mobile medical journal, June, 1902; "Tubal Pregnancy; Report of Cases," St. Louis Journal of Medicine, October, 1903; and "High Frequency Currents," Transactions of American Electro-Therapeutic association 1903; "Teratoma of Ovary," Southern Medical Journal, November, 1903; "Duties and Needs of Southern Surgeons," address as chairman of section on surgery of the Southern medical association; "Psychophysics in the hands of the Pseudo-psychopomp," Mobile medical and surgical journal, January, 1909; "An Improved Technique for the Radical Cure of Cancer of the Rectum," American journal of surgery, August, 1908; "Nephronexy, with special inference to an Improved Technique," American journal of surgery, June, 1908. Married: June 11, 1902, at Selma, to Annie, daughter of William Randolph and Octavia La Vert (Owen) Nelson, who resided at Mobile. Residence: Selma.

DUBOSE, FRANKLIN DAVIS, physician, was born September 3, 1845, in Dallas County, and died April 28, 1905; son of Francis Homer and Mary (McGee) DuBose, the former a farmer, born in Wilkes County, Ga., but residing most of his life in Dallas, Autauga and Bibb Counties, formerly a Whig, later a Democrat, and Baptist, grandson of Elisha and Susanna (Leonard) DuBose, and of Davis and Sarah McGee, all natives of Georgia. He was educated in the common schools and at the University of Alabama, 1863-64. During 1869 and 1870 he attended what is now the College of Physicians and Surgeons at Baltimore, graduating in the latter year. In 1864 he enlisted in Co. A, 24th Alabama battalion infantry, C.

S. Army under Major Snodgrass. Dr. DuBose located first at Ash Creek, Lowndes County; thence removed to Orrville, Dallas County, and in 1892 located in Shelby County where he now resides. He is a Democrat; member of the State and county medical societies; a Mason; and a Baptist. Married: January 1, 1873, to Anna, daughter of Turner M. and Nancy E. (McCary) Goodwin, the former was an extensive planter; granddaughter of Young and Pat-sie (Andrews) Goodwin, natives of Georgia who in early life removed to Bibb County, and of Sinclair McCary. Children: 1. Francis Goodwin (q. v.), physician, m. Aimée Nelson, Selma. Residence: Maplesville.

DUBOSE, HORACE MELLARD, bishop of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, was born November 7, 1858, in Choctaw County; son of Hezekiah and Evalina Amanda (Hawkins) DuBose, the former a native of Sumter, S. C., who removed to Eufaula early in life, finally settling in Choctaw County, served in the Black Hawk War, held civil office under Confederate government, was planter, merchant and Methodist minister; grandson of Joel and Anna (Lee) DuBose, natives of South Carolina, the former of French Huguenot ancestry, and of William and Mary (Hill) Hawkins, of Eufaula. Bishop DuBose received his early education in the public schools of Mississippi; attended Waynesboro academy, Miss.; studied languages and classics under tutors; and received the honorary degree of D. D. from Emory and Henry college, Va., 1892. He was licensed to preach, October 1, 1876; ordained 1879; admitted into the Mississippi conference, 1877-80; served as pastor at Galveston, Tex., 1881-82; Huntsville, Tex., 1883-84; Houston, 1885-86; Tyler, Tex., 1887-88; Los Angeles, Cal., 1889-90; Tyler, 1895-96; Jackson, Miss., 1897-98; Augusta, Ga., 1910-11; Atlanta, Ga., 1911-15. He was editor of the Pacific Methodist advocate, San Francisco, 1890-94; of the Epworth era, 1898-1910; book editor of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, and editor of the Methodist quarterly review, since October 1, 1915. He has been a delegate to five general conferences; was a member of the Ecumenical conference of 1901; member of the World's Sunday school convention; president of the Methodist benevolent association; fraternal delegate from Methodist Episcopal church, South, to the general conference of Methodist churches of Canada; delegate to Fourth ecumenical conference, Toronto, 1911; commander for the Ecumenical Methodist conference to be held in London, 1921; and a member of the commission appointed in 1916 for the unification of the Methodist churches, North and South. He was the organizer and secretary of the Epworth league in the Southern Methodist church. During the general conference in Atlanta, Ga., May, 1918, he was elected bishop. Author: "Rupert Wise" a poetic romance, 1889; "Unto the dawn," 1896; "Planting of the cross," 1902; "Margaret, an Idyll," 1905; "The gang of six," 1906; "Life of Barbee," 1906; "The symbol of Methodism," 1907; "The men of Sapio ranch," 1907; "Life at its best," 1908; "Francis Asbury, a biographical study," 1909; "Life of Bishop Joshua Soule," 1910; "History of Methodism," 1916; "Consciousness of Jesus," 1917; also Intermediate graded Sunday school series for the church and numerous pamphlets and booklets on religious subjects. Married: (1) December 6, 1881, to Rosa, daughter of Col. Robert C. and Caro (DuBose) Chaney, of Arkansas; (2) December 20, 1899, to Mrs. Gertrude (Vaughn) Amis, daughter of Thomas Livingston and Eliza (Hedman) Vaughn, of Winston-Salem, N. C. Children: 1. Caro Roberta; 2. Livingston Vaughn; 3. Horace Mellard; 4. Daisye Stedman; 5. Embree Hoss. Residence: Nashville.

DUBOSE, JOEL CAMPBELL, teacher was born December 17, 1855, at Gaston, Sumter County; son of Benjamin Eusebius and Sarah Elizabeth (Horn) DuBose, the former a native of Darlington, S. C., who lived at Mt. Sterling, Choctaw County, Ala., and was a school teacher and a planter; grandson of Benjamin and Susanna (Campbell) DuBose, of Darlington, S. C., and of Isaac and Martha (Vines) Horn, of Kinterbish, Choctaw County. His paternal ancestors were, on the one side, French Huguenots who came to South Carolina in 1685, and on the other side, Scotch; and his mother's people came from North Carolina. He received his early education in Gaston and Mt. Sterling; and was graduated from the University of Alabama, B. A., 1878, and M. A., 1882. He served as principal of the Pushmataha high school, 1878-1883; of the school at Snow Hill, 1883-1886; at Livingston, 1886-1888; at South Highlands, Birmingham, 1888-1898; was in charge of private classes and literary work, Washington, D. C., 1898-1899; conducted a private school at Knoxville, Tenn., 1899-1900; and since that time has been principal of DuBose's school for boys, at Birmingham. Mr. DuBose was elected to the State legislature from Jefferson County, 1903, and served in that body until 1907. He is author of "Sketches of Alabama History"; "Notable Men of Alabama"; "Alabama History"; "Aeschylus and the Seven Against Thebes," Methodist review, September-October, 1899; and "Story of Alabama," Pearson's magazine, June, 1902. Married: August 8, 1883, in Pushmataha, to Alice Vivian, daughter of William Thomas and Eliza Jane (Graham) Horn, of Pushmataha. Children: 1. Frederick Mellen, d. May 15, 1891; 2. Joel Campbell, d. September 23, 1886; 3. Benjamin William, m. Mary Rowena Brust and has a daughter, Mary Amelia; 4. Alice Vivian; 5. Martha Mortimore; 6. Charles Betts, d. August 30, 1899; 7. Rosa Florence. Residence: Birmingham.

DUBOSE, JOHN WESLEY, educator, was born October 31, 1849, in Marengo County; son of Joel C. and Esther G. (Cleland) Du Bose, natives of Darlington District, S. C., the former a merchant in early life in Charleston, removed to Marengo County, Ala., in 1838, turning his attention to farming, a Whig and Methodist, the latter of Scotch-Irish descent. Professor DuBose was educated in the common schools, at Linden, later at Goodman institute, and received the M. A. degree from the Southern university, in 1874. In 1880 he assumed charge of the Gadsden public institute and for many years was at its head. Prior to his removal to Gadsden he was superintendent of education of Sumter County, and later filled the same position in Etowah County. He is a Methodist, and a Mason. Author: "History of Gadsden and of Etowah County," published in Northern Alabama illustrated. Married: in October, 1877, to Lizzie Lake, daughter of Judge James Cobbs, of Mobile. Children: 1. Edgar L., deceased; 2. Maggie C.; 3. John W., jr.; 4. James Guerin. Residence: Gadsden.

DUBOSE, JOHN WITHERSPOON, planter and author, was born March 5, 1836, at Society Hill, Darlington District, S. C., and died by a railroad accident, 1918, in Birmingham; son of Kimbrough Cassels and Elizabeth Boykin (Witherspoon) DuBose (q. v.). He was taught entirely by private tutors, as was the habit of wealthy planters at that time, and studied for one term, 1854-55, under Charles Pelham, professor in the South Carolina college. He inherited the large plantation and numerous slaves of his father and began, at the age of twenty-one, the occupation of a cotton planter in Marengo County and continued at this work for twenty-five years. Anticipating the war, he was commissioned a company officer in the first cavalry organized in Alabama, 1860, and served in non-commissioned staff duty during the remainder of the war. The affliction of deafness which assailed him early in life left him in his later years totally without the sense of sound. He removed to Birmingham in 1886, and engaged in newspaper work, writing historical and economic articles for the Alabama press, and was at one time on the editorial staff of the "Birmingham Age Herald." He was a Democrat; Episcopalian; Ku Klux; and a member of the White Shield. Author: "Mineral wealth of Alabama," 1886; "Report on the internal commerce of the United States as to Alabama," 1886; "History of Jefferson County," 1887; "Life and times of Yancey," 1892; and in MSS., "Life and times of Sanford" and "History of the Bonapartist settlement in the Canebrake," and the story of plantation life in that section. Unmarried. Last residence: Birmingham.

DUBOSE, KIMBROUGH CASSELS, planter, was born July 12, 1809, at Society Hill, S. C., and died at Birmingham, September 30, 1889; son of Isaiah and Gilly Hinton (Benton) Du Bose, of Darlington, S. C., who were among the first settlers of Marengo County, Ala.; grandson of Elias and Lydia (Cassels) DuBose, the former a magistrate before and after the Revolutionary War, of Darlington and Sumter Counties, S. C., and lieutenant of a South Carolina volunteer militia company. Continental Army, and of Col. Lemuel and Elizabeth (Kimbrough) Benton, the former a native of Granville County, N. C., who removed to the Pee Dee region, S. C., entered the Revolutionary Army as major, later appointed lieutenant-colonel, member of the South Carolina house of representatives, 1783-1788, justice of the county court for Darlington County, 1784 and 1791, appointed escheator for Cheraw District, 1786, delegate for the State convention that ratified the Federal constitution, May 12, 1788, elected sheriff for Cheraw District, 1789, and again in 1791, and first representative in the Federal congress from the Peedee District, 1793-99; great-grandson of John Du Bose, who was a descendant of Isaac Du Bose, a native of Dieppe, Normandy, who emigrated with other Huguenots to America and located in the Santee settlement, Craven County, S. C., about 1685. Mr. Du Bose was educated at Mount Zion college, Winnsboro, S. C., and at Union college, N. Y. He removed in 1850 to Alabama with his family and settled in Marengo County, where he had already, 1839, established an interest, and where he became a successful planter. Married: May 8, 1834, to Elizabeth Boykin, daughter of John Dick and Elizabeth (Boykin) Witherspoon, the former a member of the South Carolina house of representatives in 1818 and of the senate in 1828; granddaughter of Captain Gavin and Elizabeth (Dick) Witherspoon, the former a captain in Marion's brigade, Revolutionary Army; great-granddaughter of Gavin and Jane (James) Witherspoon, the former a native of Ireland, who emigrated to America in 1732 and settled in Williamsburg District, S. C.; great-granddaughter of John and Janet (Witherspoon) Witherspoon, both natives of Scotland, moved to County Down, Ireland, emigrated to America, with numerous relatives, and settled in Williamsburg District, S. C., 1698. Children: 1. John Witherspoon (q. v.); 2. Louisa, d. unm.; 3. Rosalie, unm.; 4. Nicholas Williams, served in C. S. Army; 5. Augusta, m. Miles Selden Miller, of Virginia; 6. James Henry, lieutenant in command of Co. I, 51st Alabama cavalry regiment, C. S. Army and killed at Kingston, Tenn.; 7. Eugene, private Co. I, 51st Alabama cavalry regiment, C. S. Army and was shot at Raleigh, N. C., by a prisoner who had surrendered; 8. Lemuel Benton, died in camp in Florida, 1864; 9. Francis Marion, served in C. S. Army, and died in military hospital, July 15, 1864; 10. Edwin Dargan, d. in infancy; 11. Adele, m. Henry Page Burrows. Last residence: Birmingham.

DUDLEY, HOMER ROSWELL, business man and legislator, was born February 4, 1862, in Russell County; son of Charles Hammond and Henrietta Clay (Jackson) Dudley, the former a native of Harris County, Ga., who later removed to Russell County, Ala.; grandson of William and Rachael Dudley, and of Thomas and Arabella Jackson. He was educated in the public and private schools of Columbus, Ga. In 1880 he engaged in the mill business at Fort Mitchell; removed in 1883, to Union Springs, where he lived five years, building a handle factory; thence he removed to Russell County where he now operates a mill. He represented Russell County in the legislature of 1907. He is a Democrat; Mason; Red Man; Odd Fellow; and an Elk. Married: at Union Springs, to Christiana, daughter of William and Hubertina Gertrude Rosenstihl, of that place. Children: 1. Charlie Rosenstihl; 2. Albert Homer; 3. Hugh Joseph; 4. Henritta Gertrude; 5. Alice Catherine. Residence: Seale.

DUDLEY, JEREMIAH SMITH, farmer, was born September 16, 1825, near Eatonton, Putnam County, Ga.; son of Edward and Mary (Thompson) Dudley, the former a native of St. Augustine, Fla., who was reared near Sparta, Hancock County, Ga., became a sadler by trade, moved to Eatonton, Putnam County, Ga., in 1812, and to Lowndes County, Ala., in 1837, settling near Farmersville, where he died in 1873; grandson of John and Elizabeth (Jones) Dudley, of Virginia, who emigrated to Florida in 1790, and to Hancock County, Ga., in 1800, the former who was of Welsh descent and served in the Revolutionary Army, and of Jeremiah Smith and Beatrix (Fleming) Thompson, the former a native of New York, who came to Charleston during the latter part of the Eighteenth century, and later went from South Carolina to Hancock County, Ga., the latter a native of Scotland, who came to America during the Revolution. He received his education in Rockville, Putnam County, Ga., and in the old field schools in Alabama, and in January, 1847, began life as a farmer, at Farmersville, and continued in that occupation for more than half a century. He was justice of the peace of his precinct, 1875-1895, and was a member of the board of revenue of Lowndes County, 1878-1886. He entered the C. S. Army in 1863, and served until the end of the war as a private in Bragg's, Johnston's and Hood's escort, commanded by Capt. E. M. Holloway of Selma, and participated at Chickamauga, Franklin, Nashville, and in all the campaigns from Dalton to Atlanta, surrendering at Greensboro, N. C. He was a Democrat, and was an officer in the Methodist church for more than sixty years. Married: December 22, 1846, near Farmersville, to Ellen, a native of Mobile Point, daughter of Andrew and Elizabeth (Collins) Oliver, the former an Irishman, the latter of Butler County. Children: 1. Edward Andrew, deceased; 2. James Herbert, killed at Collirene in 1881; 3. Mary Elizabeth, m. George W. Bender, Furman; 4. Maria Ellen, m. David H. Middleton, Collirene; 5. Oliver Carlow, Farmersville; 6. William Henry, Orrville; 7. Henry Lewis, Orrville; 8. Hattie, m. John Thomas Eckford, Selma; 9. Smith Hammond, Farmersville. Last residence: Farmersville.

DUFFEE, GEORGE GILLESPIE, cotton merchant, was born January 1, 1835, at Tuscaloosa, and died October 24, 1886, at Mobile; son of Matthew and Martha (Gillespie) Duffee, the former a native of Tipperary, Ireland, who came to America with his parents when quite young, lived with them in North Carolina until grown, moved to Tuscaloosa, Ala., and lived there until just before the war, then moved to Blount Springs where he spent the rest of his life; grandson of John and Margaret (Kerr) Gillespie, who moved from Mecklenburg County, N. C., to Tennessee on pack mules, with Andrew Jackson as one of the guards who protected them from the Indians; great-grandson of David and Naomi (Thompson) Gillespie, who lived in Mecklenburg County, N. C., the former who came from Ulster County, Ireland, and the latter a native of Pennsylvania. John Gillespie was a cousin of President James K. Polk. The name of the Duffee family in Ireland was Duhy, the change in spelling being made on the ship en route to America. Mr. Duffee gained his early education at a private school in Tuscaloosa, taught by Mr. Byington. He served in the C. S. Army during the War of Secession as a sergeant in the Third Alabama regiment under Col. Woodruff. After the war he entered the cotton business in the firm of Montgomery and McCarthy; then became secretary of the Fire and Marine insurance company; returned to the cotton business as a member of the firm of Dunklin and Steiner of Mobile, which later became Dunklin and Duffee; engaged in the importation of Jersey cattle, being one of the first to introduce that stock into the south, and was in that business at the time of his death. In 1877, Mr. Duffee was elected mayor of Mobile and held that office for about a year and a half when Mobile was changed to a port and the mayoralty was abolished. He was a Democrat, and an elder in the Presbyterian church. He contributed many articles, mostly of technical nature, concerning agriculture and the care of Jersey cattle, to magazines and journals. Married: October 10, 1867, in Mobile, Harriet Amanda, daughter of Judge Gustavus and Eliza (Sargent) Horton who lived at Mobile. Children: 1. Hattie Horton, d. in infancy; 2. George Gillespie, jr., Mobile; 3. Ruth, Mobile; 4. Edith, Mobile; 5. Grace, m. Henry Lee Richards, Mobile; 6. Julian, Mobile; 7. Nellie, m. George Jarvis Crossland, Mobile; 8. Winthrop, Mobile; 9. Nona, Mobile; 10. Louis Warren, m. Susie Stocks Sadler, Mobile. Last residence: Mobile.

DUGGAR, BENJAMIN MINGE, university professor and botanist, was born September 1, 1872, at Prairieville, Hale County; son of Dr. Reuben Henry and Margaret Louisa (Minge) Duggar (q. v.); brother of John Frederick Duggar (q. v.). He received his early education at Hedge Hill academy, Prairieville; attended the University of Alabama, 1887-89; received the degree of B. S., 1891, and M. S., 1892, Alabama polytechnic institute; A. B., 1894, and A. M., 1895, Harvard university; Ph. D., 1898, Cornell university; studied at the universities of Leipzig, Halle, Montpelier, Munich and Bonn, 1899-1900 and 1905-06. He was assistant director, Canebrake agricultural station, Uniontown, 1892-93; assistant professor of botany at Radcliffe college, 1893-95; assistant botanist, Illinois State laboratory of natural history, 1895-96; cryptogamic botanist, agricultural experiment station and instructor in plant physiology, 1896-1900, assistant professor botany, 1900-01, Cornell university; physiologist, bureau of plant industry, U. S. department of agriculture, 1901-02; professor in botany, University of Missouri, 1902-07; professor in plant physiology, Missouri botanical garden and Washington university, 1912- to date; and acting professor in biological chemistry, Washington university medical school, 1917-18. He is a fellow, American association for the advancement of science; member Botanical society of America; Deutsche botanische Gesellschaft;

CAPTAIN HICKMAN PIERCE WALKER

Association internationale des botanistes; Society for the promotion of agricultural science; American phytopathological society. He is a Democrat; Episcopalian; and a member of the Sigma Xi honorary scientific society and of the Kappa Alpha college fraternity. Author: "Fungous diseases of plants," 1901; "Plant physiology," 1911; "Mushroom growing," 1911; also contributor to botanical magazines and reports. Married: October 16, 1901, at East Aurora, N. Y., to Marie Livingston, daughter of James Douglas and Anna Richardson (Guerard) Robertson of Bluffton, S. C., later Ithaca, N. Y. Children: 1. Marie Louise; 2. Benjamin M., jr.; 3. Anna Guerard. Residence: St. Louis, Mo.

DUGGAR, JOHN FREDERICK, agriculturist, was born August 24, 1868, near Faunsdale, Marengo County; son of Dr. Reuben Henry and Margaret Louise (Minge) Duggar (q. v.); grandson of Henry and Alice (Goode) Duggar, who lived at Petersburg, Va., and at Prairieville, and of David and Elvira (Adams) Minge, who lived at Norwood plantation, near Faunsdale; great-grandson of Dr. John Adams, at one time mayor of Richmond, Va., and a member of the Virginia house of delegates, and of Reuben Vaughan, a lawyer, who was commissioned captain by Gov. Patrick Henry, October 29, 1777, in the Provisional Army; great-great-grandson of Richard Adams, a member of the Virginia house of burgesses, 1752-1775, and of the Virginia senate, 1779-1782, and of Benjamin Harrison, signer of the Declaration of Independence; great-great-great-grandson of Ebenezer Adams, who came to Virginia before 1714, from Adbridge, County Essex, England, receiving a grant of land in New Kent and Henrico Counties, Va.; and a descendant of John Duggar, the first emigrant to America on the Duggar side, who received from King George a grant of land in Brunswick County, Va.

Prof. Duggar was prepared in the public school at Prairieville; attended Southern university at Greensboro; was graduated from the Mississippi agricultural and mechanical college, B. S., 1887, and M. S., 1888; and subsequently studied in Columbian and Cornell universities. He was assistant professor of agriculture at the Texas agricultural and mechanical college, at Bryan, Tex., 1887-1889; was editor of the "Southern Live Stock Journal," Starkville, Miss., 1890; assistant director, U. S. experiment station, Clemson college, 1890-1892; editor of the department of field crops, "Experiment Station Record," U. S. department of agriculture, 1893-1895; professor of agriculture, Alabama polytechnic institute, since 1896; director of the Alabama experiment station since 1903; and director of Alabama extension service, since 1914. He is author of "Agriculture for Southern Schools," "Southern Field Crops," and about fifty pamphlets and bulletins of the Alabama, Canebroke and South Carolina agricultural experiment stations, and the U. S. department of Agriculture, and for five years edited the agricultural department of the Montgomery "Advertiser." He is a Democrat and a Baptist. Married: June 17, 1891, at Columbus, Miss., to Fannie Camp, daughter of Ambrose and Mattie (Grigsby) Camp, who lived at Louisville, Ky., the former a soldier in the C. S. Army; granddaughter of Joseph and Frances (Weir) Grigsby, and of Thomas and Susan (Magruder) Camp; great-granddaughter of Andrew and Martha (Weir) Weir, first cousins, and descendants of Andrew and Adolphus Weir, both of whom fought in the Revolutionary War, of Elisha Grigsby, and of Ambrose Camp and Enoch Magruder, both of whom fought in the Revolution; great-great-granddaughter of John Grigsby, who fought in the colonial wars and was a captain in the Revolutionary Army. Children: 1. John Frederick, jr.; 2. Frances Camp; 3. Margaret Louise; 4. Ambrose Camp; 5. Llewellyn Goode; 6. Dorothy Melville. Residence: Auburn.

DUGGAR, LLEWELLYN LUDWIG, physician, graduate of the medical department of the University of Alabama, Mobile, 1898, and located there for practice.

DUGGAR, LUKE WHITE, insurance, was born June 3, 1841, and died in 1892, at Van Dorn; son of Henry and Alice Goode (Vaughn) Duggar; brother of Dr. Reuben Henry Duggar (q. v.). He entered the Alabama polytechnic institute, 1858; entered the C. S. Army, 1861, as drill master for the troops in Alabama and Virginia, later lieutenant in Selden's Battery. After the war he was a member of a brokerage and insurance firm of Petersburg, Va. Married: Louisa Boisseau, of Petersburg, Va. Last residence: Van Dorn.

DUGGAR, REUBEN HENRY, physician, was born June 16, 1837, in Petersburg, Va.; son of Henry and Alice Goode (Vaughn) Duggar, natives of Virginia, the former a merchant who removed to Alabama in 1844, and settled in Marengo County, where he became a planter; grandson of John Duggar; great-grandson of John D. Duggar, native of Wales who emigrated to America and settled on land deeded him by George II, in Brunswick County, Va. Dr. Duggar received his early training from tutors; spent one year at Madison college, Pennsylvania; studied medicine under Dr. J. D. Browder, of Marengo County, and under his uncle, Dr. Luke White, of Petersburg, Va.; entered the University of Pennsylvania and graduated in 1858. He practiced his profession for two years before the War of Secession. Governor Shorter appointed him physician in charge of the Alabama State salt works; later appointed a member of the State medical examining board of the Confederate Army and at the same time acting assistant surgeon of the hospital at Talladega. After the war he returned to his home near Gallion and resumed his practice. He is a member of the Hale County medical association; Alabama medical association; a Democrat; Mason; and an Episcopalian. Married: in 1864, to Margaret Louisa, daughter of David and Elvira (Adams) Minge, of Virginia who settled in Marengo County, granddaughter of Dr. John and Margaret (Winston) Adams, of Richmond, Va.; great-granddaughter of Col. Richard Adams, and of Geddes and Mary (Jordan) Winston; great-great-granddaughter of William Essex Winston, of Yorkshire, England, who emigrated to Virginia before 1710, and of Col. Samuel and Ruth (Meredith) Jordan; great-great-great-granddaughter of Samuel Meredith, sr. Children: John Frederick (q. v.); 2. Reuben H., jr.; 3. Benjamin Minge (q. v.); 4. Waverly Goode, mining engineer, New Mexico. 5. Dr. Llewellyn (q. v.), Tuscaloosa. Residence; near Gallion.

DUKE, JOSEPH BROWN, lawyer and member constitutional convention, 1901, was born October 24, 1858, at Mountain Hill, Harris County, Ga.; son of Greene S. and Cornelia P. (Webb) Duke, of that place. He was educated in the common schools and at the high school in Hamilton, Ga.; spent 1878-79, at the Agricultural and Mechanical college, Auburn. On November 20, 1883, he was admitted to the bar at Lafayette, Chambers County, where he has since practiced. He was two terms mayor of Lafayette, 1886-87, and 1887-88, and register in chancery, 1887-1892. He represented Chambers County in the Constitutional convention of 1901. He is a Democrat; and a Missionary Baptist. Married: May 2, 1888, at Lafayette, to Lizzie Lee Dyer. Residence: Lafayette.

DUKE, LUM, lawyer, was born June 30, 1865, at Mountain Hill, Harris County, Ga.; son of Green Stephen and Cornelia (Webb) Duke, the former a native of Upson County, Ga., who was a farmer in Harris County, Ga., and served in the C. S. Army as lieutenant; grandson of Moses Stephen and Sarah (Moore) Duke, who lived at Harris County, Ga., the former a cavalryman in the Mexican War in 1846, who died at Cuernavaca, Mexico, February 24, 1848, and of Fortunatus and Malinda (Almond) Webb, of Harris County, Ga.; a descendant of William Conan, a Revolutionary soldier. Judge Duke is fifth in descent from George Duke, of Wandsworth, England, who lived contemporaneously with Cromwell and Charles II. He was with the Royal army in its defeat at the battle of Worcester. September 3, 1651, and escaped with the king and a few other officers and noblemen to Boscobel. He was one of the few who remained with the king at Boscobel, and was subsequently captured and taken prisoner by the parliamentary army. He was pardoned on condition of his removal to the colonies, and some years after, when Charles II had been restored to the throne, he was granted an augmentation to his crest on account of his services to the king at Boscobel. On his arrival in the colonies, he settled in Virginia. Judge Duke was prepared for college in the country schools of Harris County, Ga., and in the high school at Hamilton, Ga. He entered the Agricultural and mechanical college at Auburn, and was graduated, B. A., June, 1884. He read law with his brother, Hon. Joseph B. Duke at Lafayette; was admitted to the bar at Lafayette, January 17, 1891; became a law partner with his brother in the firm of Duke & Duke; later was a partner of James R. Dowdell, until the latter was promoted to the bench of the supreme court; moved to Opelika and became associated with Hon. Reid B. Barnes for eight years; later was partner of Hon. Thomas D. Samford of Opelika; was elected judge of the law and equity court for Lee County, in November, 1910. He is a Democrat; a Baptist; a Royal Arch Mason; and a Knight of Pythias. Married: November 16, 1899, in Opelika, to Inez, daughter of William Oliver and Fannie (Daughtry) Harwell, of Opelika. Children: 1. Inez; 2. Lum, deceased; 3. William Stephen. Residence: Opelika.

DUMAS, OBADIAH, planter and merchant, was born September 26, 1838, at Dumas store, now Arlington, Wilcox County; and died in Mobile, July 6, 1913; son of Joel and Mary (Dumas) Dumas, both natives of Richmond County, N. C., who settled in Wilcox County, Ala., about 1822, where he was a large planter and leading citizen; grandson of Benjamin and Sarah (Atkins) Dumas, of Virginia, who later located in North Carolina, the former a Revolutionary soldier from that state, and of Zachariah and Elizabeth (Lucy) Dumas also of Richmond County. The Lucy and Dumas families were of French origin and settled in Virginia, later removing to North Carolina, Alabama and other states. Mr. Dumas was educated in the common schools of Wilcox County. He was a large cotton planter and prosperous merchant of Clifton, and Arlington, having opened a store at the former in 1866 under the firm name of Dumas and Watson, later changed to Dumas bros., and finally to Dumas sons. The family moved to Mobile in 1906, and Mr. Dumas and his sons opened a wholesale grocery store there as the Dumas grocery co., which is still carrying on the business. He was postmaster and in consequence exempt from military service during the War of Secession. He was a Democrat; Methodist; and a Mason. Married: (1) January 24, 1863, at Toulminville, near Mobile, to Addie, daughter of William Sumner and Catherine (Bliss) Paine of Newport, R. I., who came to Mobile, where he was sheriff, granddaughter of Rev. William Paine, Baptist, a chaplain in the Revolution; (2) July 22, 1874, in Wilcox County, to Phoebe, daughter of Benjamin and Mary (Watkins) De Van; granddaughter of John and Sarah (Ratcliff) Watkins; (3) September 9, 1884, at Chattanooga, Tenn., to Mary Coffey, daughter of Judge William McDermott and Elizabeth Keys (Inman) Bradford, both families of English ancestry. Children: by first wife: 1. Clarence Paine, m. Anne Mary Cleage, Mobile; 2. Joel, m. (1) Berta De Van, (2) Phoebe De Van, sisters, Mobile; by second wife: 3. Robert Eugene, m. Elizabeth Inman Cleage, Mobile; 4. Obadiah De Van, m. Mattie Harris, Mobile; 5. Mary Ella, m. Rev. Charles Williams. Last residence: Mobile.

DUNAWAY, JOHN EUGENE, business man; was born September 17, 1869, at Lamison, Wilcox County; son of Francis Marion and Elizabeth Mary (Lambert) Dunaway, the former of Lamison and the latter of Perdue Hill; grandson of Jeremiah and Ann (Pope) Dunaway, and Andrew and Martha Jane (Dumas) Lambert, all of Alabama. Representative Dunaway was educated in the public schools of Lamison, and attended Marion military institute for one term. He started his business career as a bookkeeper; later organized the J. E. Dunaway mercantile company; and in 1912 organized the Orrville bank and trust company, of which he is president. He was elected to the State legislature as a representative from Dallas County, in 1919. He is a Democrat; a Baptist; a Mason; Knight Templar; and a Shriner. Married: (1) November 21, 1894, at Orrville, to Pink, daughter of Senator Benjamin Franklin and Josephine (White) Ellis (q. v.), of Orrville; (2) July 20, 1910, at Marion, to Elizabeth Lagree, daughter of William Francis and Julia Helen Hogue, of Marion. Children: 1. Benjamin Ellis, m. Ellie Willson, Orrville; 2. John Eugene, jr.; 3. Elizabeth Lambert; 4. Virginia Sinclair; 5. Helen Hogue; 6. William Hogue. Residence: Orrville.

DUNCAN, ELLIS MADISON, bacteriologist, was born February 15, 1873, near Russellville, Franklin County; brother of George Duncan (q. v.). He received his elementary education in the public schools of Russellville; was graduated from the Alabama polytechnic institute, B. S., 1900, and M. S., 1908; took special courses in the College of physicians and surgeons and in the State bacteriological laboratories, Baltimore, Md.; in the City bacteriological laboratory, Boston, Mass.; and completed a post graduate course in that line of work at the Alabama polytechnic institute. He was instructor in veterinary science and physiology, Alabama polytechnic institute, 1901; bacteriologist and assistant meat and milk inspector for the city of Birmingham, 1903-1905; city bacteriologist and chief meat and milk inspector, 1905 to date; established the bacteriological department for the city of Birmingham; was appointed assistant director of the bacteriological laboratories, state board of health of Florida, and declined appointment, 1909; served as chairman of the committee on the supervision and control of milk supplies, which reported at the meeting of the American public health association, Washington, D. C., September, 1912; is a member of the American public health association and of the Society of American bacteriologists; is a Democrat; Married: January 25, 1910, in Chicago, Ill., to Helen Frances, daughter of Seth Moorar and Josephine (Estey) Dunning, lawyer of that city, a native of New York; granddaughter of Dr. Cephas and Anna (Peabody) Dunning, the former a physician, a native of Vermont, the latter of Middleton, Mass., and of Willis H. Estey, banker, of New Hampshire; great-granddaughter of Dr. Benjamin Peabody of Massachusetts, a lieutenant, promoted to captain in the Revolutionary War, in command of a company of continental militia at West Point, N. Y., when Benedict Arnold betrayed his country. Another ancestor was Mary Estey, one of the witches who lived in Salem, Mass., in 1640. Children: 1. Virginia Estey. Residence: Birmingham.

DUNCAN, GEORGE WEBSTER, teacher, author, and general agent University publishing company, was born October 12, 1866, at Rockwood, Franklin County; son of Thomas Alford and Margaret (Hargett) Duncan, the former a private in Company L., Fourth Alabama cavalry regiment, C. S. Army; grandson of Robert and Martha (Hargett) Duncan, the former a native of Tennessee, and of Richard and Elizabeth (Hartis) Hargett, all of Rockwood; great-grandson of William and Ruth (Gregory) Duncan, of Pendleton District, S. C., who removed to Warren County, Ky., later to Bedford County, Tenn., and finally, in the first quarter of the 19th century located in North Alabama. The Scotch ancestor of the American branch of the Duncan family was the Rev. William Duncan of Dumfriesshire, Scotland, who was a martyr to the Presbyterian faith and who on January 2, 1665, at the age of fifty-two years lost his life on the sands of Dumfriesshire in the reign of Charles II. The original American emigrant of the Duncan family settled in Westmoreland County, Va., January 23, 1722. Mr. Duncan was prepared for college in a private school at Russellville, taught by Prof. Jackson Harris. He graduated at the State normal school, Florence, 1890 and took two years post graduate work at the Alabama polytechnic institute, Auburn, from which he received the degree of M. S., in 1900. He took a special course in law at the University of Virginia, 1892; taught three years as principal of the city schools of Florence, and seven years as principal of the Auburn female institute; was first vice-president of the Alabama educational association, 1902-03; commander, Alabama division, U. S. C. V., and chairman, general historical committee, U. S. C. V. Author: Report of the historical committee, U. S. C. V., for 1906; "Sketch of John A. Campbell," and joint author of "Farm life readers." He is a Democrat; a Baptist; Knight of Honor; Knight of Pythias; Mason; member of the American historical association. Married: January 19, 1893, at Decatur, Julia, daughter of Edward and Emily (Young) Alexander, of Lowndesboro. The Alexanders are of Scotch origin. Children: 1. Frances Alexander; 2. Thomas Edmund; 3. George Webster, jr.; 4. Wilton Burton; 5. Juliett Emily. Residence: Auburn.

DUNCAN, JAMES ARCHIBALD, teacher; graduate Alabama polytechnic institute, B. S., 1894; C. E., 1895; principal of the Columbus high school. Residence: Thomasville.

DUNCAN, JAMES ARMSTRONG, Methodist minister, was born March 8, —, in Richmond, Va.; son of James Armstrong and Sallie Duke (Twitty) Duncan, the former editor of the Christian Advocate, Richmond, during the War of Secession, and president of Randolph-Macon college, Ashland, Va., 1868-77, at which date he died; grandson of David and Alice (Piedmont) Duncan, the former a native of Ireland, educated at Glasgow, and came to America in 1816 to take charge of Norfolk academy, professor of Greek at Wofford college, Spartanburg, S. C., and of Thomas and Evelyn (Fitts) Twitty of Warren County, N. C. Dr. Duncan received his early education in a school for boys at Ashland, Va., his college training at Randolph-Macon, where he graduated in 1884; and received the degree of D. D. from Central college, Mo. He entered the Virginia conference, November, 1884, and served churches in that state, Colorado and Missouri before going to Alabama where he was pastor of the First Methodist church, Birmingham, and had churches at Anniston and Talladega. He was secretary of the north Alabama conference, and is at present serving the Tuscaloosa church. Married: (1) in 1885 at Norfolk, Va., Elizabeth Watts; (2) October 28, 1909, at Carrollton, Miss., to Louise English, daughter of Joseph Reid and Evelyn Bingham, of that place. Children: 1. Sallie Drake, m. Harry Burn, Birmingham; 2. Elizabeth Watts; 3. James Armstrong, III, Talladega; by second marriage, 4. Reid Bingham. Residence: Tuscaloosa.

DUNCAN, JOHN, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 83, resided in Jackson County, June 1, 1840, with Robert Duncan.—Census of Pensioners, 1841, p. 148.

DUNCAN, JOHN W., merchant, was born August 22, 1843, at Kingston, Tenn., and died at Gadsden; son of Robert D. and Nancy K. (Liggett) Duncan, the former a native of Tennessee, who removed to Ft. Payne, Ala., at the close of the War of Secession, and engaged in agricultural pursuits until 1878, when he removed to Attalla, and died there, 1885, a Presbyterian; grandson of Robert Duncan, of Tennessee, and of Henry and Elizabeth (Center) Liggett, natives of Virginia who emigrated to Tennessee where they engaged in the hotel business and merchandising, the former was a Mason and county judge, and died in 1861; great-grandson of ——— Duncan who went from Virginia to Washington County, Tenn., where he was killed by Indians in 1780. He was educated in Tennessee and enlisted at an early age in the cavalry branch of the C. S. Army, serving in Tennessee, Virginia, and Maryland, and was paroled at Kingston, Ga. Upon the cessation of hostilities he removed to Alabama and engaged in farming. He relinquished this calling however, and became a merchant, following the line of construction of the Alabama great southern railroad. He located in Attalla in 1872, and in 1882 removed to Gadsden where he successfully conducted his business until 1887, when he sold out and devoted his attention to other interests. In 1873, in connection with John S. Moragne he entered into a contract to mine and ship the first lot of ore ever sent from that section of North Alabama, acquiring a nice property from his interest in ore lands. He was an incorporator and secretary-treasurer of the Gadsden ice company. He was a Presbyterian. Married: June 1, 1870, to Mary F., daughter of J. S. and Sarah J. (Revel) Moragne. Children: 1. Eula M.; 2. Oscar Dribble, graduate U. S. naval academy, 1897; 3. Charles O'Connor; 4. Myrtle, d. young. Last residence: Gadsden.

DUNCAN, L. ALEXANDER, publisher, civil postmaster, city treasurer, and city clerk of Meridian, Miss., was born February 16, 1829, in New York City; son of William and Louise Augusta (Gardner) Duncan, the former a native of Glasgow, Scotland, who removed to Canada and later located in New York City, removed to Courtland in 1830, where he taught school; took charge of Athens female academy, 1836-38, and opened a school for girls in Grenada, Miss.; became a merchant in 1840; grandson of Alexander and Mary (McFarlan) Duncan, of Scotland, who migrated to New York City about 1808, and of Hiram Gardner, a native of Carlisle, Pa., who located in New York City, where he became a wholesale shoe dealer, and was major in militia home guard regiment; great-grandson of Captain McFarlan of the British navy stationed at Gibraltar at the time of the bombardment by the Spanish. Mr. Duncan received his elementary education in Courtland and Athens, Ala., and in Grenada, Miss., and attended the Collegiate school in New York city which he left in 1846, a few months before graduation. He was a clerk in his father's store in Grenada, 1846-47, and during the latter year entered the book and printing business in New Orleans, La., where he was joint publisher with his brother, Rev. Dr. Cecil Duncan, of the "Southern Baptist Chronicle," until 1850. He was publisher in that city of the "New Orleans Baptist Chronicle," 1852-55; also issued a number of pamphlets; civil postmaster of Meridian, Miss., 1863-64; city treasurer, 1868, and city clerk from 1871 to the present time. He is a Democrat; Mason; and a Baptist. Married: January 21, 1856, in New Orleans, to Annie Battaile, daughter of Edward Conyers and Martha Turbeville (Battaile) Payne, who lived at Hayfield, Va., and later in Winchester, Ky.; granddaughter of Hay Battaile of Hayfield, Va. Residence: Meridian, Miss.

DUNCAN, LUTHER NOBLE, teacher, director junior home economics extension education, U. S. Agricultural department, and author, was born October 14, 1875, at Rockwood, Franklin County; son of Thomas Alford and Margaret (Hargett) Duncan, both of Rockwood, and brother of George W. Duncan (q. v.). He received his elementary education in the common schools of Franklin County and graduated at the Alabama polytechnic institute with the degrees of B. S., June, 1900, and M. S., June, 1907. The following September, he became instructor in agriculture and director of the agricultural experiment station, Fifth district agricultural school, Jackson. He held the same position in the First district agricultural school, 1902-04, and the Eighth agricultural school, 1904-05, since which time he has been associated with his alma mater as assistant in agriculture and director of the junior home economics extension work for Alabama. Joint author: "Farm life readers" and numerous papers, pamphlets and bulletins on agricultural subjects. He is a Democrat; a Methodist; Knight of Pythias and a member of the Kappa Sigma fraternity. Married: February 26, 1903, at Wetumpka, to Annie Elizabeth, daughter of Walter Keirn and Susan (Little) Smith of Livingston. Children: 1. Mary Elizabeth; 2. Margaret Susan; 3. Robert Smith. Residence: Auburn.

DUNGLINSON, JOSEPH, Presbyterian minister, was born May 2, 1880, at Cockermouth, Cumberland, England; son of George and Margaret (Huddart) Dunglinson, natives of Cockermouth, England, who lived in that place until 1889, when they came to America and settled in Talladega, Ala., grandson of Joseph and Mary (Waters) Dunglinson, and of Jonathan and Margaret (Litt) Huddart, all of Cockermouth, England. He attended a private school in Cockermouth, under Miss Harley, 1885-1889; public school in Talladega, 1889-1893; Talladega military academy, under Dr. Wright and Howard Griggs, 1893-1897; entered the Southwestern Presbyterian university, Clarksville, Tenn., in 1897, and was graduated, A. B., 1901, winning the Greek prize in 1897 and 1898, the declaimer's medal in 1898, and the orator's medal in 1901; attended the Union theological seminary, Richmond, Va., 1901-1904, practically completing the course for the B. D. degree, though he did not graduate; was ordained as a minister in the Presbyterian church, 1904; preached for the next six years in a group of churches in Shelby County, located at Columbiana, Calera, and Montevallo; and became minister of the First Presbyterian church at Selma, 1910. Married: June 21, 1911, at Atlanta, Ga., Anne Crusoe, daughter of John and Irene (Crusoe) Moore, who lived at Versailles, Ky. Children: 1. Joseph, jr. Residence: Selma.

DUNHAM, BRADFORD, civil engineer and railroad official, was born June 19, 1838, at "Cedar Point," the family plantation in Liberty County, Ga., and died September 14, 1908, at Montgomery; son of Thomas James and Anne Catharine (Harris) Dunham, the former a soldier in the Seminole War, and a member of the "Georgia Rangers," but too old for service in the War of Secession; grandson of Rev. Jacob and Mary (Baisden) Dunham, and of James and Sarah Hart (Hanes) Harris of Harris' Neck, Ga. "Cedar Point" was the plantation home of five generations of Dunhams, and the birthplace of three generations, and was part of the lands granted Oglethorpe's "Board of Trustees" by George II of England about 1756. Daniel and William Dunham were two of these selected by Oglethorpe from among the Massachusetts colonists to accompany him. Mr. Dunham received limited instruction in the schools, but he acquired a liberal education by contact with the world and through reading. He rose from an humble position in the railroad shops to a railroad presidency. He gained a knowledge of civil and mechanical engineering through practical experience. His loyalty to the South in the War of Secession was shown in faithfully operating troop trains, and as a member of the home guard. He was a Baptist. Married: (1) July 20, 1871, in Montgomery, to Emma Knox, daughter of Michael and Caroline Judith (Payne) Elsberry of that city, and (2) to Sophie Dunnington, of Baltimore, Md.

Children: by first marriage: 1. Annie Grace, m. Wm. Overton; 2. Julius Confey, m. Edith Fitz-Gerald, Pensacola, Fla.; 3. Elizabeth Mills, m. Edward Reese Burton, and resides in Montgomery; 4. Emma Craik, m. John Wall Norwood, of Atlanta; by second marriage: 5. William Bradford, of Wilkinsburg, Pa.; 6. Ethel, m. Thomas Gorsuch Campbell, of Brooklyn, N. Y. Last residence: Montgomery.

DUNKLIN, DANIEL G., merchant and planter, was born October 28, 1823, at Greenville; son of James and Catherine (Lee) Dunklin, natives respectively of South Carolina and Leesburg, N. C., the former of whom came to Alabama in 1818, and was among the first settlers of what is now the town of Greenville; became an extensive planter; was one of the commissioners that laid out the town of Greenville, was afterward commissioner of the county, and died in Greenville in 1828. Mr. Dunklin's education was limited by his father's early death. He attended schools in the neighborhood about three months of the year, until he was fourteen years old; entered a dry-goods house at Montgomery as a clerk at that time, remaining with that firm seven years; set up a mercantile establishment on his own account in Montgomery, 1844; moved to Greenville two years later, establishing himself in that business there, as well as becoming interested in planting; served in the quartermaster department of the C. S. Army during four years of the War of Secession; returned to the mercantile business in Greenville after the close of the war; and became a farmer of extensive plantations in Butler County, giving attention particularly to the cultivation of cotton and the breeding of stock. He was an Episcopalian; a Mason; and an Odd Fellow. Married: (1) January 19, 1847, Susan C. Burnett, of Greenville, who died in 1861; (2) Hannah Patton, of Greenville. Children, by first marriage: 1. Walter J.; by second marriage: 2. Patton Bolling, merchant, b. 1868, d. November 1, 1900, last residence, Greenville. Last residence: Greenville.

DUNKLIN, JAMES HILLIARD, cotton merchant, was born November 15, 1834, at Greenville, Butler County, and died May 20, 1877, at Greenville; son of Joseph and Mary Christian (Judge) Dunklin, the former a native of Greenville, S. C., who lived at Greenville, Ala., served six consecutive terms as county treasurer of Butler County, and died in Montgomery, and the latter a sister of Thomas James Judge, of the supreme court of Alabama; grandson of James and Elizabeth (Bolling) Dunklin, the latter being of the family of Bollings identified with the history of Virginia; great-grandson of Col. Thomas and Mary (Cook) Hutchinson, of South Carolina, the former an officer in Col. William Washington's dragoons; great-great-grandson of Capt. John Cook, who moved before the Revolution from Brunswick County, Va., to South Carolina, and was a captain in Col. William Washington's Light Horse, participating in all its battles. He was the representative of long lines of renowned ancestors in England. Mr. Dunklin obtained his education principally in schools of Alabama, finishing in Montgomery; became a cotton factor in Mobile, and a banker in Greenville, at the same time owning large interests in the mercantile business there; was elected president of the Alabama Board of Commerce; founded the Greenville collegiate institute, chartered in 1872, and acted as president until his death; was appointed colonel of state militia by the governor in 1876; was elected to the State senate, 1876, and died before the expiration of his term. Gen. Dunklin entered the C. S. Army, February, 1862, as captain of the Greenville Light Guards, Thirty-third Alabama regiment, Cleburne's brigade, Johnston's division; rose to the rank of colonel, and by act of congress was made brigadier-general; was wounded at Chickamauga, took part in the battles of Kennesaw Mountain, at Atlanta and elsewhere; was captured in the battle of Franklin, November 30, 1864, and was held a prisoner at Johnson's Island for seven months, being released after the close of the war. He was a Democrat, a trustee and member of the board of stewards of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, and was worshipful master of his lodge of Masons. Married: (1) in 1856, at Greenville, Abigail Reid, daughter of Archibald and Elizabeth Ann (Herbert) Reid; granddaughter of Dr. Hilary Herbert, pioneer settler of Butler County, who named Greenville for his former home in South Carolina; (2) Mary Jane Reid, sister of his first wife. Children: 1. Mary Judge, m. Dr. Aristides Reynolds, Marietta, Ga.; 2. Elizabeth, m. Walter O. Parmer, Edenwald, Tenn.; 3. Anna, m. J. F. Steiner, Greenville; 4. James H., m. Elizabeth Flowers, Greenville; 5. Joseph, Greenville; 6. Erin, Greenville; 7. Jennie, deceased; 8. Lora, deceased. Last residence: Greenville.

DUNKLIN, JOHN THOMAS, educator, was born April 1, 1826, near Selma, Dallas County, and died June 20, 1886, at Auburn; son of William and Nancy Hamilton (Arnold) Dunklin, the former a native of Greenville, S. C., who came from that place to Alabama with the first settlers of Greenville, naming that town in honor of their former home in South Carolina, the latter was from the distinguished Hamilton and Arnold families, a descendant of Alexander Hamilton; grandson of Thomas and Anne (Hamilton) Arnold; cousin of Judge Haralson, of Montgomery. Prof. Dunklin received his collegiate education from LaGrange college under the administration of Dr. Carlos G. Smith and Dr. Henry Tutwiler, and was graduated from that institution, A. M. Later the degree of LL.D. was conferred upon him by the University of Alabama. He chose teaching as his vocation, and pursued it at Selma, Summerfield and Huntsville. On the organization of the East Alabama male college at Auburn, November 31, 1858, Prof. Dunklin was unanimously elected a member of the faculty. He examined and classed the first students who entered the college after its erection and continued to instruct in that institution, being retained as professor of ancient languages when the East Alabama male college gave place to the Alabama agricultural and mechanical college. He declined many offers of positions in other institutions, preferring to remain in his native state, and being devoted to his chair of professor of Latin and Greek. He died in the service of the institution, giving examinations the day before his death. Before he went to Auburn, he was superintendent of education. His philological attainments were recognized by leading scholars of the north. Several of the most widely used text books in the language were submitted to him for criticism by the authors before they were published. He had compiled a complete Latin-English Lexicon for publication, the manuscript of which was destroyed by fire, when the home was burned soon after his death. He was a Democrat. Prof. Dunklin was not a member of any church, but was a regular attendant of the Methodist church, and was the close personal friend of many pastors who conferred with him on the best translation of Greek texts from the Bible. Married: February 7, 1861, Sallie Mitchell, daughter of Jordan H. and Julia Ann (Hardin) Mitchell, the latter a descendant of the Hawkins family of South Carolina, and the Hardins of Virginia, both of which were closely connected with the Revolutionary War. Children: 1. d. in infancy; 2. Ann, educated at Wellesley, m. Jabez Curry Street, Opelika; 3. Janie, educated in Washington, D. C., m. Cyrus W. Ashcroft, Florence. Last residence: Auburn.

DUNLAP, ROBERT ALLEN DORSEY, lawyer, was born October 18, 1843, near Paris, Henry County, Tenn.; son of Samuel Couser and Angeline Charles (Tatum) Dunlap, who were married in North Carolina, emigrated to western Kentucky about 1834, moved from Kentucky to Tennessee, and finally settled in Caledonia, the former a native of Lancaster District, S. C., who was born in 1808, lived in Camden, S. C. during his youth, and in early manhood moved to Guilford County, N. C.; grandson of Harbert and Elizabeth (Ogburn) Tatum, who lived in Guilford County, N. C.; great-grandson of William Ogburn, a physician who came from Virginia to Guilford County. His paternal ancestors were Scotch-Irish, who came to America from Ireland and settled in South Carolina. The maiden name of his maternal grandmother was Couser. Mr. Dunlap received his schooling in Paris, Tenn., and in Caledonia; was graduated from Caledonia College conducted by Prof. E. H. Randle; entered the C. S. Army in 1862; was taken sick at Corinth and returned home; enlisted in the Seventh Tennessee cavalry, Forrest's command, September, 1863; was wounded at Guntown, Miss., and surrendered at Gainesville; taught school for a short time after the war; located in DeKalb County, November, 1866, and read law in the office of David L. Nicholson; was admitted to the bar, 1867, and practiced law for several years with L. A. Dobbs; moved to Chattanooga, Tenn., in 1874, and the next year, to Gadsden, where he practiced law in partnership with Col. Densen and Col. Disque for two years; was a law partner of Mr. Dortch for some years and since January, 1885, had been unassociated. He served for some time as alderman of Gadsden; was appointed register in chancery, November, 1886, and held that position until 1914; was register of the city court of Gadsden, 1895-1914; was commissioned by Gov. William C. Oates special circuit judge to hold Etowah Court, May, 1895, and special chancellor to hold September term of chancery court for Autauga, Elmore, Chilton, Shelby, Talladega, and Clay Counties, 1895; and was chairman of the board of registers for Etowah County, 1901-1911. He holds the commission of assistant adjutant general, with the rank of lieutenant-colonel, Alabama divisional staff, United Confederate Veterans. He is a Democrat; a member of Cumberland Presbyterian Church, Henry County, Tenn.; a Knight of Pythias; and is president of the Etowah County Bar Association. Married: July 30, 1868, in DeKalb County, Susan Gilreath Jacoway, daughter of John Garrett and Nancy (Middleton) Jacoway, who lived at Trenton, Ga., the former a native of eastern Kentucky, born in 1818, who came with his family to Jackson County, spent a few years in Mississippi and Arkansas, and helped in the removal of the Cherokee, Creek and other Indians to Indian Territory, finally locating in Trenton, Ga., where he practiced law. Children: 1. John Darwin, d. October 27, 1913, m. Myrtle Kidd, left two children, Helen and Margaret, who are living at Gadsden; 2. Samuel Devro, d. March 12, 1912; 3. Horace Eugene, general book-keeper, Federal Reserve Bank, m. Emma Hazen Lair, Atlanta, Ga.; 4. Jessie May, b. 1875, d. 1880; 5. Margaret Elizabeth, who succeeded her father as register in chancery, and now holds the office, Gadsden; 6. Robert Hamlin, served in the First Alabama regiment, U. S. Army, Spanish American War, d. June 7, 1908; 7. William Walter, foreman paving and concrete work, Anderson, S. C.; 8. Susie, m. Robert Cowan, chemical engineer, San Francisco, Calif.; 9. Frank Cole, foreman, Goodyear Rubber Company, Akron, O.; 10. Ruth, m. Jackson Robert Murphy, expert salesman, Gadsden and Cleveland, O. Residence: Gadsden.

J. CRAIG SMITH

DUNN, WILLIAM D., lawyer, legislator, and business man, was born in Nashville, Tenn., and came to Alabama about 1832, locating in Mobile, where he practiced law; member of the Alabama legislature, 1842, and twice re-elected; nominated for congress, 1845, but defeated for election, and about this time gave up practicing law, to enter the railroad and insurance business, becoming president of a company in the latter business. In 1853 he received the vote of his party for U. S. senator, but was defeated. He was a Whig in politics, and a member of the home guards during the War of Secession. Married: Louise Horton of Tennessee. Children: among the children of this marriage is William Dickson Dunn (q. v.). Last residence: Mobile.

DUNN, WILLIAM DICKSON, lawyer and legislator, was born October 17, 1857, at Mobile; son of William D., and Louise (Horton)

Dunn (q. v.). He was educated in the private schools of Mobile; studied law at the university of Nashville, (Tenn.) but did not graduate, and thence entered the law department of the University of Alabama, where he received the LL. B. degree, 1881. He entered upon his profession in 1883, at Grove Hill; was for a time deputy solicitor for Clarke County; State senator from the 19th district, 1901-03. He is a Democrat and a Baptist. Married: April 12, 1887, at Grove Hill, to Minnie S., daughter of Hon. James S., and Alice (Savage) Dickinson, of that place, the former a native of Virginia, the latter of Clarke County. Residence: Grove Hill.

DUNSMOOR, JAMES, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 75, and a resident of Morgan County; private N. C. Militia; enrolled on November 15, 1833, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $20.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34.

DUNSTAN, ARTHUR ST. CHARLES, teacher, was born March 25, 1871, at Fredericksburg, Va.; son of John Harris and Louise Medora (Hall) Dunstan, the former who was born at Penweathers, Cornwall County, England, who lived at Truro, England, at Fredericksburg and Roanoke, Va., at Calera and Florence, Ala., and in South America and California, and was mining engineer for a number of English and American companies; grandson of Joseph and Louise (Wood) Hall, of Fredericksburg, Va. He obtained his early education in the public schools of Fredericksburg and Roanoke, Va., in H. W. Griggs academy at Montevallo; was graduated from the Alabama polytechnic institute, at Auburn, B. S., 1889, M. E., 1890, and C. E., 1891; and took graduate courses in Johns Hopkins university and the University of Chicago. He was an assistant in physics, Alabama polytechnic institute, 1891-1892; professor of higher mathematics, Scottsboro college, 1892-1893; associate professor of electrical engineering, University of Kansas, 1894-1899; and professor of electrical engineering, Alabama polytechnic institute, since 1899. He was at one time consulting electrical engineer for Kansas state board charities; is electrical engineer for a number of cities and private companies; was southern representative of the American Engine Company; and is a fellow in the American Association for the Advancement of Science. He has written various technical and scientific articles published in "Electrical World," "American Journal of Science," "Astrophysical Journal," and others. Married: September 8, 1897, at Montgomery, to Boula Pauline Persons, daughter of John Williams and Eliza Pauline Persons, who lived at Auburn. Children: 1. Arthur Mell. Residence: Auburn.

DUPRATZ, ANTOINE SIMON LE PAGE, French historian and explorer. See Indian chiefs and associated characters.

DURR, JOHN WESLEY, JR., wholesale druggist, was born March 14, 1863, at Montgomery; son of John Wesley and Rebecca Hart (Holt) Durr, sr. (q. v.); grandson of Michael and Elizabeth (Pinckard) Durr, who lived at Loachapoka, and of Tournay and Elizabeth (Burke) Holt, of Montgomery. He received his early education in the city schools of Montgomery, and attended the University of Alabama during the year, 1882. He engaged in the wholesale grocery business in 1884 with T. L. Jones, Bradford Hardie, and Charles L. Gay, under the firm name of Gay, Hardie & Co., remaining in that firm for about eighteen years; and in 1896 commenced the wholesale drug business. He has been connected with the latter business continuously since that time, and is now president of the firm of Durr Drug Company. He is a Democrat and has been an elder in the First Presbyterian church at Montgomery for twenty-one years. Married: November 25, 1886, at Montgomery, Lucy, daughter of James Henry and Elizabeth Lumpkin (Johnson) Judkins, who lived at Wetumpka. Children: 1. Kate, m. Stanhope Elmore; 2. John Wesley; 3. James Judkins; 4. Lucy Judkins; 5. Clifford Judkins. Residence: Montgomery.

DURR, JOHN WESLEY, SR., warehouse, banking and commission merchant, was born June 23, 1835, near Warm Springs, Ga., and died June 30, 1909, in Montgomery; son of Rev. Michael and Elizabeth (Pinckard) Durr, of Loachapoka, the former of whom was a Methodist Episcopal circuit rider. He received a common school education, and moved to Montgomery, when he was seventeen years old, starting in business first as a clerk in a grocery store, and afterwards as bookkeeper for a flouring mill. In 1855, he was employed as bookkeeper in the Central Bank of Alabama, remained there five years, then formed a partnership with M. E. Vaughn and E. S. Johnson, and built what is now known as the Alabama warehouse. He was in the warehouse and commission business under the firm name of M. E. Vaughn & Co. until 1863, when his partners sold out to Lehman Brothers. In March of that year he formed a partnership with Lehman Brothers under the firm name of Lehman, Durr & Co., which continued until 1891 when the firm was incorporated as the Lehman Durr Company, of which Mr. Durr was president. He held that office until his death in 1909. He was also president of the Tallassee Falls Manufacturing Company, and a director of the South & North Alabama Railroad Company, at one time; was director of the First National Bank of Montgomery for about eighteen years; and was elected alderman of the city of Montgomery in 1863 and again in 1875. During the War of Secession he served in the commissary department of the C. S. Army under Col. Michael Wand's command with the rank of captain. He was a Democrat, had been a deacon in the Presbyterian church for about forty-five years, and was a Mason. Married: November 25, 1856, in Montgomery, Rebecca Hart Holt, daughter of Tour-nay and Elizabeth (Burke) Holt, who lived at Montgomery. Children: 1. Kate Holt; 2. Elizabeth Burke; 3. John Wesley (q. v.); 4. William Lehman, m. Wilhelmina Lanier. Last residence: Montgomery.

DUSTAN, CHARLES WILLIAM, politician, member constitutional convention 1867, member Alabama legislature, and soldier, was born October 24, 1834 on Staten Island, N. Y., and died June 13, 1892, at Lakewood, N. J.; son of Capt. Isaac Kip and Phoebe Ann (Simonson) Dunstan, of Staten Island, the former a ship captain who lost his life in a storm, November 28, 1846, in the endeavor to secure the safety of the passengers on his ship, an act commemorated by a monument in the old Moravian cemetery of New Dorp, Staten Island; grandson of William and Sara (Martin) Dustan of Elgin, Scotland and of Charles McLean and Mary (Vanderbilt) Simonson, the former a Hollander, the latter the sister of "Commodore" Cornelius Vanderbilt. Gen. Dustan was attending the Columbia grammar school at the time of his father's death; studied later at Newport, R. I., under Dominie Chowles. In 1854, he entered the state militia and at the beginning of the War of Secession was enrolled in Co. F, 71st New York infantry regiment, was at the first battle of Manassas; promoted captain, 53rd regiment, in 1862, assistant adjutant general, Stanley's Division, Army of the Mississippi; participated in the battles of Iuka and Corinth, or Shiloh; in 1864, served as assistant adjutant general, 16th Army corps, at Memphis; later was brigadier-general to command levies for the defense of that city. At the close of the war, he resigned from the army and located in Mobile, and later going to Demopolis as sub-agent for the treasury department to collect confiscated Confederate cotton. In 1867 he was a member of the Alabama constitutional convention, was strongly conservative and offered resolutions "to abolish test oaths and remove political disabilities;" a step that made him conspicuous in American politics and won him friends in Alabama. He was a member of the legislature for several terms and chairman of the committee on internal improvements; major-general of Alabama militia under Gov. Smith and Gov. Lindsay. He retired to his plantation near Demopolis and engaged in farming, until he removed his family, about 1886, to New York, and in 1891, to Lakewood, N. J. He was a Republican and a Mason. Married: in 1865, in Demopolis, to Edith, daughter of Gen. Nathan Bryan Whitfield (q. v.). Children: 1. Edith Louise; 2. a daughter. Last residence: Lakewood, N. J.

DUVAL, GABRIEL BERTRAND, lawyer, was born November 29, 1822, at Washington, D. C., and died October 12, 1864, at Montgomery; son of Edward Washington and Eleanor (Jones) duVal, the former of whom lived at Fort Smith and Spring Valley, Polk County, Ark., where he was Indian agent for the Cherokee Nation, and at Washington, D. C., serving in that place as private secretary to William Loyd Jones, secretary of the navy under Madison's administration; grandson of Benjamin and Sophie (Griffith) duVal, who lived in Anne Arundel County, Md., where their son was born, and of Loyd and Eliza (Loxley) Jones, of Philadelphia. The duVal family came from Nantes, France, about 1650 with the Huguenots. Capt. duVal received his college education from the University of Pennsylvania, where he was graduated, A. B., 1841, and later took his A. M. degree. He studied law; went to Montgomery in 1846, and entered into partnership with his brother-in-law, Rush Elmore, who had retired from the firm of Elmore & Yancey on his return from the Mexican War. Capt. duVal became chief political editor of the Montgomery "Advertiser," later becoming editor, being connected with that newspaper for many years. He was also at one time on the staff of the Atlanta "Constitution." He was appointed superintendent of public education for the state of Alabama, 1858, and held that office until his death in 1864. During his term of office, he inaugurated the system of education now in use in Alabama. At the outbreak of the War of Secession, he was elected captain of the Independent Rifles, a company which was organized with nine others into the Sixth Alabama regiment, Evell's brigade. He marched to Virginia with his regiment, in May, 1861, and was with it at the battle of Manassas, although, being too feeble to march, he had to accompany his men to the field in an ambulance. In 1862, he was forced because of ill health to retire from the army. He returned to Alabama and resumed his editorship of the Montgomery "Advertiser." He was a Democrat, was active in all politics and was at one time nominated for congress. He made contributions to several magazines and papers under the nom de plume of "Quitinan." Married: June 11, 1845, at Columbia, S. C., Julia Ellen Nesbitt, born May 18, 1826, at Limestone Springs, Spartanburg District, S. C., and died September 23, 1860, at Montgomery, daughter of Col. Wilson and Susan Tyler (duVal) Nesbitt, who lived near Columbia, S. C., the former a native of Dublin, Ireland, who came to America, and fought in the Revolutionary War in which he was commissioned colonel. Children: 1. Julia Ellen, deceased; 2. Susan Tyler, deceased, m. duVal Radford; 3. Kate Loxley, m. Charles Scott who is deceased, children, Kate Loxley, Charles Augustus Wingfield, Richard Carlton Radford, John Terrell, resides in Chattanooga, Tenn.; 4. Gabriel Bertrand Julian, sr., m. Jennie Hurt Adams, children, Gabriel Bertrand Julian, jr., Kitty Scott, Richard Adams, Julia Ellen, resides at Lynchburg, Va. Last residence: Montgomery.

DYE, JAMES T., major, 51st Alabama Partisan Rangers, C. S. Army.

DYKES, G. J., machinist, was born January 31, 1815, in Wilkerson County, Georgia. His father was a minister of the gospel. When Mr. Dykes was quite small, his parents moved from his birthplace to another part of Georgia. In consequence of the extremely limited means of the family, he received very little instruction in schools. When he arrived at manhood he devoted himself to the construction and management of machinery. At the age of forty years, he was strongly solicited to represent a county of his native state in the general assembly, but declined. In November, 1853, he moved to Alabama, settling in Cherokee County. He usually cast his vote with the Democratic party, and in 1860, supported Stephen A. Douglas for the presidency. His firm adherence to the Union caused him to repudiate the secession party, and he remained loyal to the U. S. government all during the War of Secession. He was elected to the constitutional convention of Alabama of 1867, from the thirty-sixth election district of Cherokee County.

E

EADS, JOHN, mechanic, was born in Dublin, Ireland, and died in 1830, in Camden; son of Daniel Eads of Dublin, Ireland; uncle of Eads, the civil engineer. He received very little schooling, and began quite young to learn the trade of a mechanic. When he was a young man, he moved from Ireland to Boston, Mass., and engaged in shipbuilding until 1807. That year he moved to what is now Alabama, settling near Carney's Bluff on the Tombigbee River. Together with George Gullette, he engaged in bringing goods from Boston to Mobile Bay by schooner, transferring it to barges and delivering it to established posts on the Alabama River, where they traded it to Indians for furs. One of those posts is now the city of Montgomery, another was near what is now Choctaw Bluff, a third was at Coal Bluff, and the fourth at either Canton Bend or at Cahaba. Married: Mary Ann Fee, in Dublin, Ireland. Children: 1. Margarete, m. (1) Harry Hale, by whom she had a daughter Mary, who married William T. Marshall of Mobile; (2) Jerry Austill of Mobile; 2. Mary Fee, m. (1) George Gullette, to whom were born two sons, John Eads and George Samuel, (2) Sam Ervin, to whom was born one son, Robert H., who represented his county in the state senate and died while chairman of that body, (3) Dr. Grayson, to whom was born one son, William, who served in the C. S. Army, was high priest in his chapter of Masons, was a lawyer, and died in Fairfield, Freestone County, Tex. Last residence: Camden.

EAGER, GEORGE BOARDMAN, Baptist minister and teacher, was born February 22, 1847, at or near Rodney, Jefferson County, Miss., the second of five sons; son of Eleazer Chapin and Harriet (Ide) Eager, the former born at Scranton, Vt., graduated in 1841, at Madison university, Hamilton, N. Y.; in 1842 came South, lived at Memphis, Tenn., and at Grenada and in Jefferson and Warren Counties, Miss., in Clinton, Miss., during the War of Secession was a refugee in Copiah County, Miss., then lived near Crystal Springs, again in Jefferson County, then in Clinton until his death in 1900, the latter lived, during girlhood, at Passumpsic, Vt., was educated at New Hampton, N. H., and in Philadelphia, where in 1841, she was married to the former. Dr. Eager took full course in the preparatory department of Mississippi college, Clinton; 1868-69, in Oakland college, Miss.; 1870-71, in Mississippi college, graduating with degree of A. M. and first honor in 1871; received degree of D. D. from University of Tennessee, 1881, and Howard college, 1882, and that of LL. D. from Georgetown college, Ky., 1908. He entered the ministry of the Baptist church, in 1872; was ordained to its full ministry; took full course at the Southern Baptist theological seminary, at Greenville, S. C., since at Louisville, Ky., finishing in 1876, and post graduate course at Washington and Lee university, Lexington, Va., 1876-8. He has been pastor at Lexington, Knoxville, Tenn., Mobile, Danville, Va., and Anniston and Montgomery; from 1900 has been professor of biblical introduction and pastoral theology in the Seminary at Louisville. In the War of Secession, he was courier, 1863-64, for Gen. William Mahone, Army of Northern Virginia, and sergeant-major, 1864-5 of Powers' regiment, Griffith's brigade, southwestern department, in May, 1865, surrendered at State Line Station, Mobile and Ohio railroad, above Mobile. He is a Democrat; and a Mason. He has written "Lecture Outlines in Biblical Introduction," and many articles for the Homiletic review, Review and expositor, Methodist quarterly and other periodicals, and for Hastings' "Dictionary of Christ and the Gospels," and the "International Standard Bible Encyclopedia." Married: February 20, 1880, at Jackson, Miss., to Annie E., daughter of Dr. William Fenner and Anna (Banks) Coor-Pender, who lived at Clinton; related to the Banks family of Banks' Ford, near Fredericksburg, Va., and through them to the Bruces of Scotland, and the Overtons of Virginia, Tennessee and Kentucky, the former was a member of the "Raymond Fencibles" and was surgeon in the War of Secession; great-granddaughter of John Overton, who served, with Patrick Henry, in the Revolutionary War, was made colonel on the field of Monmouth, and was a member of the original Society of the Cincinnati. Children: 1. William G., graduate Dupont manual training school, Louisville, Ky., 1904, and in mechanical engineering, with degree, University of Pennsylvania, 1908, m. Eugene M. Johnston, Birmingham, resides in Valdosta, Ga., general manager for Municipal service company, Philadelphia; 2. George Banks, graduate Louisville male high school, 1906, and academic and law departments, University of Virginia, 1910, since fall of 1911, adjunct professor of law, University of Virginia; 3. Walter Hillman, graduate Louisville male high school, 1910, finished junior year, Washington and Lee university, 1912, resides Huntington, W. Va., agent Connecticut mutual life insurance company. Residence: Norton Hall, Louisville, Ky.

EAGER, WILLIAM GORONWY, civil and electrical engineer, and packer, was born January 22, 1885, at Mobile; son of George Boardman and Anna Elizabeth (Coor-Pender) Eager, the former a native of Clinton, Miss., a noted Baptist divine who served pastorates in Virginia, Alabama and Kentucky, is now professor in the Southern Baptist theological seminary, Louisville, and was a Confederate soldier; grandson of ——— and Anna (Banks) Coor-Pender who lived at "Greenbank," near Fredericksburg, Stafford County, Va. The Eager ancestry is English, and settled first in Vermont, later moving south. Anna Coor-Pender, was a direct descendant of John Bruce, brother of Robert Bruce of Scotland, and of Col. John Overton of Louisa County, Va. Mr. Eager received his preparatory education at Stark's university school, Montgomery, graduating with first honors, and was valedictorian at the Du Pont manual training school, Louisville, Ky.; graduated from the University of Pennsylvania, 1908, B. S. in M. E., and received, in 1913, from that institution the honorary degree of mechanical engineer. He entered upon his business career in the employ of Birmingham blast furnaces, 1909; superintendent Staunton, (Va.) lighting company, 1910-12; vice-president Valdosta (Ga.) lighting company, 1912-18; consulting engineer, representing northern syndicates in the construction and operation of ice, gas and electric plants; now, 1920, president of the Old South packing company and subsidiary packing plants, at Valdosta, Ga.; sub-chairman for southern Georgia, naval consulting board of the United States, April, 1916, to the close of the World War; an advisory engineer, division of chemicals, U. S. food administration. On America's entrance into the World War, he entered military service, and was during 1918 and 1919, lieutenant of senior grade, U. S. Navy, R. F., officer in charge, field production, bureau of steam engineering, Fourth naval district. He designed the trench shot gun that was adopted by General Pershing and used to some extent by the American Expeditionary Forces in France. He is a member of the national engineering society; American society mechanical engineers; American institute of electrical engineers; American society of refrigerating engineers. He is a Democrat; and a Baptist; a Knight Templar; Shriner; and Rotarian; also a member of the University Club of Philadelphia, Pa.; and of the Kappa Alpha college fraternity. Married: April 25, 1911, at Birmingham, to Eugene Morehead, daughter of General Robert D. and Elizabeth (Evans) Johnston (q. v.) of that city. Children: 1. Johnsie Evans; 2. Hartman; 3. William G., jr.; 4. Anna Banks. Residence: Valdosta, Ga.

EARLE, FRANK SUMNER, professor of biology and horticulture, 1896-1901, at the Alabama polytechnic institute. Residence: Columbia university, N. Y.

EARLE, SAMUEL, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 75, and a resident of Washington County; private Virginia Continental Line; enrolled on January 5, 1833, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $80; sums received to date of publication of list, $200.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xlv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34.

EARNEST, WILLIAM S., lawyer, was born in Tennessee and located in Jefferson County about 1835. He taught school, read law privately, and was admitted to the bar in 1842. He represented his county in the legislature of 1851, and was elected to the constitutional convention of 1861, voting against the Ordinance of Secession; ran for congress during the latter year but was defeated. In 1853 he was a candidate for governor, running unsuccessfully, against Governor Winston, and received more than ten thousand votes, his platform being an advocacy of the internal improvement, with the aid of the State.

EASTERLY, LEWIS ALBERT, business man and examiner of accounts, was born December 31, 1866, in Lowndes County; son of Lewis Anderson and Mary (Dixon) Easterly, the former was born in Greenville, Greene County, Tenn., later located in Lowndes County where he owned a plantation near the village of Sandy Ridge; enlisted in Semples Battery, C. S. Army, and served throughout the war with that command with the exception of a brief period of detached service; grandson of Casper and Elizabeth (Bible) Easterly, and of William J. and Hannah E. (McGinney) Dixon. The Easterly family was of German descent, and came to America about 1743, settling years afterwards in East Tennessee. The Dixons are of Scotch-Irish stock. The original ancestor came to America in its early settlement, and took part in the Revolutionary War. Descendants fought in the War of 1812. Dr. James A. McGinney moved to Alabama and lived to a ripe old age. Senator Easterly was educated in the common schools of Alabama; later attended Smith's commercial college at Lexington, Ky. He spent his youth and early manhood on the farm; later became a book-keeper for a large business concern; on November 3, 1898, entered the office of the probate judge as clerk; elected to the State senate of 1915 from the Sixteenth district; served the unexpired term of Probate Judge Wood; appointed examiner of accounts by Gov. Henderson, and reappointed by Gov. Kilby. He is also cashier of the Hayneville bank. From 1900 for about ten years he edited the "Citizens-Examiner" at Hayneville. He is a Democrat; a Presbyterian; and a Mason. Married: October 15, 1900, at Mount Willing, to Lena, daughter of John M. and Naomi (Maples) Lee. The Maples family came to Alabama from South Carolina. Children: 1. Mary Dixon; 2. Lewis A., jr. Residence: Hayneville.

EASTIS, JAMES ANDREW, business man and legislator, was born September 30, 1848, in Jefferson County; son of Daniel and Nancy (Ellard) Eastis, the former originally from Raleigh, N. C., the latter of Jefferson County; grandson of Willis and Sallie (Cummins) Eastis, and of Johnson and Ruthie (McAdams) Ellard, all of Jefferson County. He was educated in the common schools of his native county. He is a business man. He was one of the representatives from Jefferson County in the legislature of 1911. He is a Democrat; Mason; Odd Fellow; and an Elk. Married: December 16, 1868, in Jefferson County, to Nancy Elizabeth, daughter of John and Mary (Armstrong) Moses, of that county. Children: 1. Ida Vann, deceased; 2. Alice, m. Charles Helm; 3. William Dosier, m. Sallie Armstrong; 4. David Lee, m. Fannie Johnson; 5. Clara Belle, deceased; 6. John Huey, deceased; 7. Daniel McCarty; 8. Jessie Francis, m. Earl Truitt; 9. Odie Alexander, deceased. Residence: Brighton.

EATON, JOSEPH GILES, real admiral, U. S. Navy, was born January 29, 1847, at Greenville, and died March 8, 1913; son of William Pitt and Sarah Farewell (Brazer) Eaton. He was educated in the private schools of Lockport, N. Y.; Union academy; Worcester military academy, and U. S. naval academy, Annapolis, Md. He was appointed mid-shipman, U. S. Navy, 1863; ensign, 1869; master, 1870; lieutenant, 1871; lieutenant commander, 1888; commander, 1896; captain, 1901; and retired with the rank of rear-admiral, June 30, 1905. He was commander of the U. S. ships Enterprise, Resolute, Chesapeake, Oregon and Massachusetts; was engaged in inter-oceanic surveys, Isthmus of Panama and Darien, 1870-74; and member of Steel board, 1893-95. He won medals for the battles of Manzanillo and Santiago, and a medal of honor, Spanish-American War. He was an Episcopalian. Last residence: Boston.

EASTON, THOMAS S., major, 32nd Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army.

ECHOLS, JAMES WALTER, planter, was born in Georgia, and died in 1869, in Tuskegee County. His early advantages were meager, and he was for several years employed in a mercantile house. He came to Alabama, resided for some time at Auburn, and in 1853 came to Tuskegee. He was elected to the State legislature as a representative from Tuskegee County for three terms, and served for some time during the War of Secession as a field officer of the Thirty-fourth Alabama regiment, C. S. Army. He was a wealthy planter. Last residence: Tuskegee County.

ECHOLS, JOHN H., major, 2nd Alabama reserves, C. S. Army.

ECHOLS, WILLIAM HOLDING, cotton factor, was born March 11, 1834, at Huntsville, and died November 13, 1909, at Huntsville; son of William and Mary (Hobbs) Echols, natives, respectively, of Pittsylvania County, and near Lynchburg, Va., the former of whom went to Huntsville at the age of sixteen, served several terms as mayor of that town, and was for some years probate judge of the county; grandson of William and Mary (Farmer) Echols, who emigrated from Pittsylvania County, Va., to Madison County, in 1816, and settled at New Market; and of John Hobbs, who emigrated from Virginia to Huntsville; brother of John H. Echols, secretary of state of Mississippi during the War of Secession; of Larkin W. Echols, who served in an Alabama regiment of the C. S. Army, and was a planter and merchant at Senatobia, Miss.; of David H. Echols, a railroad man who was drowned in the Yazoo River, Mississippi, while on a hunting tour; of James H. Echols, a lieutenant in Russell's regiment, Wheeler's command, who was killed at Atlanta; and of Charles P. Echols, a farmer in Mississippi. He was prepared in Green Academy, Huntsville; then entered business in Huntsville, and in Mississippi; was appointed a cadet, and entered the U. S. Military Academy at West Point, N. Y., 1854; was graduated fourth in his class at West Point, and commissioned second lieutenant of topographical engineers, July 1, 1858. He was retained as an instructor at West Point for two months, then ordered on engineering duty at the army post, San Antonio, Tex. During his service in the U. S. Army in Texas, he was assigned to duty as chief engineer of a party to make preliminary surveys for an available route across the Great American Desert, through Texas, New Mexico, Arizona, to California. The party making this survey made use of camels imported by the government to facilitate the crossing of the unknown and arid country. Lieut. Echols resigned from the U. S. Army, March 21, 1861, and joined the C. S. Army. He was first posted at Fort St. Phillip and Jackson, below New Orleans; then was ordered to Savannah, Ga., where he helped build fortifications, and was employed in organizing and drilling troops. He was elected colonel of the Twenty-ninth Georgia regiment, but could not accept because of the special request of President Davis, under the advice of Gen. Beauregard, that he be retained for service as engineer officer owing to the scarcity of engineers in the army. He was commissioned major of engineers in the C. S. Army and was ordered to Charleston, S. C. After the war, he was for a time civil engineer on the Memphis & Charleston Railroad; then became bookkeeper in the Bell Factory Cotton Mills, near Huntsville, rehabilitated the mills, serving as secretary, treasurer and superintendent from 1874, until they closed down in 1884. He became president of the First National Bank of Huntsville, and held that position until a few months before his death. He was a Democrat; an Episcopalian; a Mason; and a Knight of Pythias. His reports of the assault of the enemy's fleet, on Fort Sumter, are published in the record of the "War of the Rebellion," published by the U. S. government, series 1, vol. 14. Married: January 19, 1859, Mary Beirne Patton, daughter of Dr. Charles Hays and Susan Plunkett (Beirne) Patton, of Huntsville, the former of whom was graduated, A. B., from Yale University, and M. D., from University of Pennsylvania; granddaughter of William and Martha (Hays) Patton, natives respectively of Londonderry, Ireland, and Louisa County Va., who settled in Huntsville; great-granddaughter of Robert and Jane (Ramsey) Patton, natives of Londonderry, Ireland, who came to Monroe County, Va. Children: 1. William Holding, b. December 2, 1859, at San Antonio, Tex., was graduated from the University of Virginia, B. S., C. E., m. (1) Mary Elizabeth Blakey, of Charlottesville, Va., deceased, (2) Elizabeth Mitchell Harrison, of

New York City, now professor of mathematics, University of Virginia; 2. Susan Patton, m. Robert Elias Spregins, of Huntsville; 3. Charles Patton, attended University of Virginia, appointed as cadet from Huntsville to U. S. Military Academy, West Point, was graduated third in his class, 1891, and commissioned lieutenant of engineers, U. S. Army, served as colonel and professor of mathematics, U. S. School of Military Aeronautics, West Point, N. Y., 1914. Last residence: Huntsville.

EDDINS, BENJAMIN, planter, was born in Edgefield District, S. C., and died in Huntsville in 1818; son of Theophilus and Elizabeth Eddins, of Virginia, who later moved to Edgefield, the family being originally from England. He engaged actively in establishing American independence; operating near Ninety-six, with independent bands of patriots and was captured by Col. Cruger, who sought to win him from his loyalty to the patriot cause, but being unsuccessful, finally released him. He immediately joined Gen. Pickens and served to the close of the Revolution. His wife was wounded by a Tory captain, his property confiscated and his home burned. He removed to Madison County prior to 1816, with his son, Joseph Balus. He was a Baptist. Married: in Edgefield, to Judith Norris. Children: 1. William; 2. James; 3. Theophilus; 4. Fanny; 5. Anny; 6. Joseph (q. v.); 7. John; 8. Rebekah; 9. Washington. Last residence: Huntsville.

EDDINS, BENJAMIN FARRAR, planter, was born in Edgefield District, S. C., March 20, 1813, and died in Tuscaloosa, April 10, 1865; son of Joseph Balus and Elizabeth (Walker) Eddins (q. v.); grandson of Benjamin and Judith (Norris) Eddins (q. v.). He was educated in the schools of Edgefield; moved with his family to Madison County, in 1814; in 1817 removed with his father's family to Tuscaloosa County. He was a planter on an extensive scale; a Confederate soldier, taking part in the defense of Tuscaloosa, in 1865; was wounded April 3 and died of his wounds April 10. He was a Whig, and a Baptist. Married: in 1839 in Abbeville, S. C., to Elizabeth McCracken, daughter of ——— and Tabitha (Wilson) McCracken of Abbeville. Children: 1. Alexander McCracken, m. Harriette Neal; 2. Mary, m. Robert Holloway McCallum of Birmingham; 3. Nonie, m. James Austin Ogburn; 4. Lollie, m. H. L. Barefield; 5. Emma, deceased; 6. Harriette, m. James B. Isabelle; 7. Bennie, deceased; 8. Anna, m. James Luther Foster; 9. Marion Banks, m. Hattie Terrell. Last residence: Tuscaloosa.

EDDINS, JOSEPH BALUS, sr., planter, was born in 1781, in Edgefield District, S. C., and died September 14, 1839, in Tuscaloosa; son of Benjamin and Judith (Norris) Eddins (q. v.). He was educated in the schools of his community; was a planter in Edgefield, until his removal to Madison County, previous to 1816. In 1817, he located on a large plantation in Tuscaloosa County, where he engaged in farming. He was a Baptist. Married: in 1803, to Elizabeth, daughter of Samuel and Martha Jef-person (Bell) Walker. Children: 1. Samuel Walker, m. Sarah Shivers; 2. Mary Ann, m. John S. Caldwell; 3. Elvira, m. 1st wife of _____ Jones; 4. Cynthia, m. 2nd wife of _____ Jones; 5. Benjamin Farrar, m. Elizabeth McCracken (q. v.); 6. Joseph Balus, jr., m. (1) Clement Miller, (2) Mrs. Kittie (Palmer) Haley; 7. Simeon, M. D., m. Martha Bealle; 8. James Pleasants, deceased; 9. Patrick Henry, m. Harriette Todd; 10. Eldred, d. unmarried; 11. Elizabeth, d. unmarried. Last residence: Tuscaloosa.

JOHN C. EYSTER

EDDINS, SIMEON JACKSON, married Martha Jane Bealle. Deceased. Last residence: Tuscaloosa.

EDGAR, GEORGE MATHEWS, educator, was born March 1, 1837, at Union, Monroe County, Va., now West Virginia, and died at Paris, Ky., October 18, 1913; son of Thomas and Eliza Alexander (Byrnside) Edgar, natives of Virginia, the former of whom was a merchant at Union, Monroe County, Va.; grandson of Thomas and Ann (Mathews) Edgar, who lived at Greenbrier County, Va.; and of Col. and Elizabeth (Alexander) Byrnside, who lived in Monroe County, Va., the former commanded a regiment, outfitted by himself, in the War of 1812; great-grandson of George Edgar, of Scotch-Irish descent, who lived in Bedford County, Va. He received his elementary education at Union, W. Va.; entered the Virginia Military institute, and was graduated fifth in his class, A. B., 1856; was assistant instructor in that institution, 1857; was appointed professor of natural philology and astronomy in the Military academy at Charleston, S. C., 1859; taught natural science at Tallahassee, Fla.; enlisted as a private in the C. S. Army, near Pensacola, Fla., April 2, 1860; later obtained a discharge and returned to Virginia, where he assisted in raising a company, the Twenty-sixth Virginia regiment, Edgar's battalion, serving first as captain and later as colonel; took part in many engagements, chief of which were the battles of Lewisburg, W. Va., where he was shot through the chest, Rocky Gap, New Market, second Cold Harbor and Winchester; after the war, entered the University of Virginia, taking special work in mathematics, physics and chemistry, 1865-1866; taught at Oakland, Miss., then for fifteen years conducted schools for boys and girls in Kentucky, including Franklin Female college, Edgar institute at Paris, Avehorage Training school for Boys, and Bowling Green Female college; was elected president of the University of Arkansas, 1884; four years later accepted the presidency of the University of Florida, which position he held for five years; became professor of physics and astronomy in the University of Alabama; and from 1898 until his death in 1913, served as professor of science in Occidental college, California, and as principal of training schools. The degree of LL.D. was conferred upon him by the Virginia Military institute, and by Howard college. He was a Democrat, and an elder in the Presbyterian church. Married: November 4, 1867, at Lewisburgh, W. Va., Rebecca Fry, daughter of Judge Joseph L. and Elizabeth Ann (McElhenney) Fry, of Lewisburgh and Wheeling, W. Va., the former of whom was a state senator, and a judge at Charleston, S. C., and Wheeling, W. Va.; great-great-granddaughter of Col. Joshua Fry, Washington's senior in command of Virginia forces in 1754, a commissioner of the Crown in continuing the line between Virginia and North Carolina, a peace commissioner and maker of the map of Virginia, and a professor in William and Mary college. Children: 1. Gertrude Douglas, m. Dr. J. T. Van Sant, Paris, Ky.; 2. Elizabeth Randolph, m. Judge Ormond Somerville (q. v.), Montgomery; 3. George Thomas, b. 1875, d. November 9, 1898, at Mobile; 4. John Blanton, b. July 2, 1877, m. Addie Myers, Memphis, Tenn.; 5. Russell Bliss, b. April 4, 1880, teacher at V. M. I., 1899-1901, law student, 1900, teacher in Tuscaloosa graded schools for several years, now principal of the Edgar school for boys, Montgomery; 6. Dr. Graham, m. Isobel Marshall, Charlottesville, Va. Last residence: Paris, Ky.

EDMONDS, HENRY MORRIS, Presbyterian minister, was born November 23, 1878, at York, Sumter County; son of William and Alice Frances (Morris) Edmonds, the former born at Kilmarnock, Lancaster County, Va., lived at Baltimore, Md., Coatapa, Meridian, Miss., and York, served during last three years of the War of Secession as private in Gen. A. P. Hill's division, Jackson's corps, Army Northern Virginia; grandson of Robert and Elizabeth (George) Edmonds, who lived in Lancaster County, Va., and whose ancestors immigrated from England to Lancaster County, and of Henry and Emma Jane (Sauls) Morris, who lived at Columbus, Ga., Montgomery, Montevallo and Selma. Rev. Mr. Edmonds was educated at York, Meridian, and the Military school at Demopolis; graduated, with degree of A. B., at the University of Tennessee, Knoxville, 1899; president of the Philomathesian, a literary society; president of his class, of the Y. M. C. A., and of the athletic association; editor-in-chief of magazine and annual; captain of the football, baseball and track teams; graduate of Presbyterian theological seminary of Kentucky, located at Louisville, with B. D. degree, 1907. In May, 1907, Mr. Edmonds became pastor of the First Presbyterian church, Montgomery, and in April, 1913, of the South Highlands Presbyterian church, Birmingham. He is a Mason. Married: April 30, 1907, at Louisville, Ky., to Mary Armstrong, daughter of William Bowyer and Susan Armstrong (Harris) Fleming, who lived at Midway and Louisville, Ky. Children: 1. Arnold Harris; 2. Henry Morris, jr.; 3. Mary Fleming. Residence: Birmingham.

EDMONDS, JAMES ANTHONY, merchant and legislator, was born August 1, 1877, at Berry Station, Fayette County; son of John and Manervia (Stoddard) Edmonds, the former of Natural Bridge, served as a private in the U. S. Army, the latter of Stoddard Cross Roads; grandson of Nathaniel and Sarah Edmonds of Tuscaloosa, and of Samuel and Mary (Cooper) Stoddard, of Fayette County. He is a merchant, a miner, and a shipper of stone coal. He was formerly a justice of the peace. He represented Winston county in the legislature of 1911. He is a Republican; Methodist; and an Odd Fellow. Married: December 25, 1899, at Jasper, to Maud, daughter of Joel A. and May (West) King, of Natural Bridge. Children: 1. Amzia; 2. Blanche; 3. Mamie; 4. Laura; 5. James; 6. Ruth. Residence: Natural Bridge.

EDWARDS, JAMES HAMILTON, farmer and legislator, was born May 28, 1857, at Catalpa, Pike County; son of William Franklin and Martha (Reeves) Edwards, the former a Confederate soldier, and native of Butts County, Ga., who removed to Pike County; grandson of Jesse T. and Martha J. (Murphree) Reeves, the former an early legislator from Pike County, and of James Harvey Edwards, of North Carolina, who served in the War of 1812. He received only a limited education. He has always been a farmer. He was one of the representatives from Pike County in the legislature of 1903. He is a Democrat; and a Baptist. Married: December 5, 1879, to Queen Victoria, daughter of Benjamin and Malinda Hickman. Residence: Catalpa.

EDWARDS, JOHN, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 82, and a resident of Perry County; private N. C. Militia; enrolled on September 26, 1833, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $75; sums received to date of publication of list, $225.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34.

EDWARDS, JOHN LITTLETON, farmer; was born May 22, 1861, at Old Town, Dallas County; son of Daniel B. and Love E. (Traylor) Edwards, the former a native of Dallas County, who served three years as lieutenant and captain in the C. S. Army, was a magistrate of Dallas County and a member of the board of education; grandson of Littleton and Linna Edwards and of John and Mary Traylor, all of Dallas County. Both grandfathers were from Edgefield District, S. C., coming to Alabama during the early settlement of the State. Representative Edwards received his early education in the country school near Old Town, and at Pleasant Hill, later attending Howard College at Marion, 1878-9. He has been a farmer in Dallas County since about 1880. He served as magistrate from 1900 to 1910; and has been a member of the county board of education since April, 1911. He was elected to the State legislature from Dallas County in 1919. He is a Democrat. Married: November 30, 1884, near Old Town, to Lula, daughter of Calvin and Leonora Young, the former of whom served in the C. S. Army as a private in the second Mississippi battalion and later in the forty-eighth Mississippi infantry regiment, and was elected to the State legislature, 1900 and 1902. Children: 1. George Traylor, physician, m. Annie Lou Edwards, Birmingham. Residence: Tyler.

EDWARDS, JOSEPH H., physician, was born November 24, 1874, at Willenhall, England, and died April 16, 1908, in Birmingham. He came to Alabama from England about 1887 with relatives; attended Birmingham medical college, graduating M. D., 1897. From 1897 until his death he practiced his profession at Wylam. He was president of the Wylam board of education; an Episcopalian; and a Mason. Married: September 13, 1900, to Edith Thomas. Two children were born of this marriage. Last residence: Wylam.

EDWARDS, M. P., Missionary Baptist minister; living in 1913. Residence: Auburn.

EDWARDS, PERRY, merchant, was born October 8, 1839, near Maplesville, in Bibb, now Chilton, County; son of John Sandford and Mary Ann (Cox) Edwards, the former a native of Randolph County, N. C., who moved to Tyler, Tex., where he taught school and served as a justice of the peace for a number of years; grandson of Isaac and Nancy (Lawrence) Edwards, and of Mathew and Nancy (Lawley) Cox, all of whom lived near Mapleville; great-grandson of Benjamin Lawrence, and of William Edwards, an English emigrant, who settled in North Carolina. Mr. Edwards was educated by his father in Texas until his fourteenth year, and then attended country schools. He enlisted in Co. F, Eleventh Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army, and served in all the principal battles of the army of Northern Virginia until the surrender at Appomattox. After the war, he taught school in Clarke County, Miss., and in Alabama in Washington County for fifteen years; served as justice of the peace in the latter county for thirty-five years; and served for two terms as county commissioner. He was elected to the house of representatives from Washington County in 1907; and is now engaged in mercantile business at Escatawpa. He is a Democrat and a Methodist. Married: (1) to Susan B. Doster, daughter of Absalom Doster of Prattville; (2) to Mrs. Mary A. (Anderson) Thompson, from near Talladega; (3) at Louisville, Miss., to Mrs. Julia A. (Green) Turner, daughter of Joel and Easter (Baxter) Green, of Leaksville, Miss. Children: 1. and 2. Moses and Aaron, twins, both deceased; 3. Mattie Belle, m. James D. Anthony; 4. Fanny, m. J. W. Weidman. Residence: Escatawpa.

EDWARDS, WILLIAM H., member constitutional conventions, of 1861 and of 1865 from Blount County.

EFA HADJO, EFAN HANJO, or MAD DOG, Creek Chief. See Indian chiefs and associated characters.

EHRENREICH, BERNARD C., rabbi, was born June 11, 1876, in Hungary; son of Henry R. and Hannah (Weiss) Ehrenreich, of Hungary, who came to New York in 1879; grandson of Calanimus and Annie Weiss, who lived in Hungary. He attended the public schools of New York City, the College of the City of New York, and the University of New York, from which latter institution he was graduated, Ph.B., 1900. He took a postgraduate course in semetics at the University of Pennsylvania, and entered the Jewish theological seminary of America, where he was graduated with the degree of rabbi. He occupied his first position in 1900, as rabbi at Atlantic City, remaining there one year, although he had been elected for two years. He was released from his contract by the Atlantic congregation upon the request of the congregation Adath Jeshurun of Philadelphia, to which position he was called. He remained with that congregation until the summer of 1906, when he was called to his present position of Rabbi Kahl, Montgomery. Rabbi Ehrenreich conducts a camp for boys during the summer months at Minocqua, Wis. The camp was established in 1915, and opened for its first session in 1916. He was a member of the Jewish congress, having been elected to represent the Jewish people of Alabama; and during the European War, was active in Jewish Welfare Board work, being stationed at Camp Sheridan. He is a thirty-second degree Mason, and for a number of years was director of the Scottish Rite work in Montgomery for the lodge and the chapter; and is chaplain of his lodge of Elks. Married: December 17, 1902, New York City, Irma S. Bock, daughter of Louis and Rose (Waterman) Bock, of that city; granddaughter of Dr. S. Waterman, a surgeon in the U. S. Army during the War of Secession, and later, surgeon to the police department of New York City, and professor of medicine in Eclectic medical college, New York City. Children: 1. Louis S., b. March 17, 1904, Philadelphia, Pa.; 2. Rosemary, b. May 18, 1906, Philadelphia, Pa. Residence: Montgomery.

ELEY, BENNET TILMAN, banker, was born April 6, 1842, at Union Springs, Bullock County; son of Micajah Norflette and Ann Thomas (Moore) Eley, the former a native of North Carolina, lived from 1837 to 1899, the year of his death, at Union Springs, was school teacher, surgeon, intendant of Union Springs, County commissioner, planter, and Baptist minister; grandson of Michael and Martha (Hilsman) Cody, who lived at Union Springs, and whose earliest known ancestors immigrated in 1620 to America, this branch coming from England to North Carolina; grandparents both born, in 1773, in North Carolina, and married there in 1793 or '94, moved about 1814 to Hancock County, Ga., and thence in 1835 or '36 to Union Springs, finishing their lives there, and of Jefferson and Elizabeth Moore, who lived in Wilkes County, Ga.; great-grandson of James Hilsman, captain in the Revolutionary War, serving to its close. He was educated at schools in Union Springs and its vicinity. He was in mercantile business from 1870 to '94; from the latter year has been president of Bullock County bank, Union Springs. In 1902-4, he was mayor of Union Springs; was member of constitutional convention, 1901. At the age of twenty, he enlisted in the C. S. Army; from April, 1862, to April, 1865, was first sergeant Co. L, Third Alabama infantry regiment, Army North Virginia. He is a Democrat; and a Baptist. Married: March 22, 1876, at Union Springs, to Wilella, daughter of James H. and Elvira S. (Noble) Fielder, who lived at Union Springs; ancestry traced to and beyond the American Revolution. Children: 1. Ione Hilsman, m. Christopher Lewis Gholston, resides Union Springs. Residence: Union Springs.

ELKOURIE, HAICKEL ALEXANDER, physician, was born March 6, 1880, at Wadi El Haraish, Syria; son of Alexander Estephen and Badora (Ead) Elkourie, the former born at Wadi El Haraish, Syria, brother of Rt. Rev. Elias Elkourie, orator and evangelist, protector of Christians, handsome stone church, "St. Elias," in the Wadi, bears above its entrance a poem reciting that he built and paid for the church; grandson of Rev. Father Estephen and Badora Elkourie, who lived at Wadi El Haraish, the former noted Catholic priest and orator, died in 1861, in the course of the war between the Druses and Christians at Mt. Lebanon, his body being cut into pieces by the Druses, and of Saseen and Mary Ead, who lived at Wadi El Haraish. Dr. Elkouri received his early education at the Jesuit college in Zobla, Syria; attended the University of Nashville, 1897-1901, graduating with the degree of M. D. He is a physician by profession; practiced in Todd, Ky., 1901-04; in 1903, was elected to the vice-presidency of the South Kentucky medical association; 1904-05, practiced in Nashville, Tenn., and now practices in Birmingham. He is a Democrat; a Roman Catholic; Knight of Columbus; Knight of Pythias; Red Man; and member of the Woodmen of the World. He translated "The Clansman" into Arabic, the translation being published in 1904, wrote a pamphlet entitled "In Defense of the Semitic," and presented to the immigration commission of congress, a protest against the educational test. He is interested in the movement for good roads; made address before the National Child Labor Conference, on the "Assimilation of the Immigrant;" favors local option; presided, in 1908, at the meeting in Carnegie Hall, N. Y., in celebration of the Turkish Constitution. Married: at Russellville, Ky., Enna, daughter of Pressley and Millie Rajor, who lived at Clifty, Ky. Children: 1. Leo Alexander. Residence: Birmingham.

ELLERBE, J. A., superintendent of education of Hale County; living in 1913.

ELLETT, JARVIS, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 75, resided in Lawrence County, June 1, 1840, with Jon. Wilson.—Census of Pensioners, 1841, p. 148.

ELLIDGE, ABRAHAM, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 74, and a resident of Lawrence County; private S. C. Militia; enrolled on October 19, 1833, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $30; sums received to date of publication of list, $90.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34. He resided in Lawrence County, June 1, 1840, aged 80.—Census of Pensioners, 1841, p. 148.

ELLIOTT, EDGAR MEADOR, merchant and legislator, was born December 9, 1869, at Carthage, Hale County; son of Joseph Alexander and Louisa Ann (Meador) Elliott, the former a native of Havana, Hale County; grandson of M. B. and Priscilla Meador, of Tuscaloosa. He was educated in the common schools of Havana; and graduated, B. S., 1889, from the Southern university. Since 1890 he has been a merchant at Moundville; since 1900 postmaster of that place; and was elected a representative from Hale County in the legislature of 1903. He is a Democrat; and a Mason. Married: October 15, 1902, to Minnie Friend, daughter of Albert G. and Sarah Augusta (Beck) Barnes, of Demopolis. Residence: Moundville.

ELLIOTT, JAMES KELLY, Confederate soldier, was born August 28, 1837, at Talladega, Talladega County, and died March 22, 1908; son of Dawson Burgess and Didama (Kelly) Elliott, the former a native of Franklin County, Tenn., a resident of Talladega from 1833 to 1849 at which time he died; grandson of Capt. Thomas and Elizabeth (Bledsoe) Elliott, and of Thomas Kelly, both of Bedford County, Tenn. He was educated in the public schools of Talladega; enlisted in Co. E, 10th Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army, in 1862, and after six months' service was discharged on account of ill health; reenlisted as first lieutenant, Co. I, 30th Alabama infantry regiment, March, 1864, and served with distinction, being promoted to lieutenant-colonel of his Regiment. He was a Democrat; and a Baptist. Married: In 1866, at Talladega, Parisina, daughter of Randolph Newsum of Franklin, Tenn.

ELLIOTT, JAMES MADISON, manufacturer, was born November 12, 1854, at Rome, Ga.; son of James M. and Emily J. (Hoss) Elliott, natives respectively of North Carolina and Alabama, the former the owner of steamboats plying between Rome, Ga., and Gadsden, merchant, cotton compress manufacturer, and builder of the Round Mountain furnace, who died May, 1899, the latter a descendant of Daniel Boone; grandson of Daniel A. Elliott, a tobacco grower and farmer of North Carolina, and of Jacob Hoss, a farmer of Johnson City, Tenn.; great grandson of Christopher Columbus Stanley, an officer in the Revolution. He was educated in the schools of Rome, Ga., and at Emory and Henry college, Virginia. He became clerk on one of the steamboats plying between Rome and Gadsden, on the Coosa River; after a year became captain of the boat for four years; removed to Gadsden, where he was made general manager of the Gadsden Steamboat Company, which soon had full control of the transportation between the two cities; at the same time was operating several sawmills in partnership with R. B. Kyle, and was dealing in cotton in Gadsden, where he had a large warehouse. In 1883, he disposed of his interests in Alabama and went to Kansas City, where he entered the lumber business. Four years later he returned to Gadsden, built the Elliott car works, which after twelve years was reorganized and went under the name of the Southern Car & Foundry Company, with Mr. Elliott as president and general manager. In December, 1902, he resigned and disposed of his stock to devote his time to the Elliott-Chapman Coal & Coke Company, of which he is president. He is also president of the Alabama Iron & Steel Company; of the Alabama City Land & Development Company; of the Elliott Fruit Company, and of the Elliott Live Stock Company. He served as mayor of Gadsden, 1897-1898. He is a Democrat and a Presbyterian. Married: January 15, 1878, Nena Kyle, daughter of Col. R. B. and Mary (Nichols) Kyle. Children: 1. Kyle; 2. Harvey; 3. Cornelia; 4. Milton, killed while in U. S. Army; 5. James M., jr. Residence: Gadsden.

ELLIOTT, JOHN, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 79, and a resident of Morgan County; private N. C. Militia; enrolled on July 10, 1834, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $80.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34.

ELLIOTT, JOHN, circuit judge, 1868.

ELLIOTT, JOHN, deputy grand high priest, grand chapter, Masons, 1823-28.

ELLIOTT, JOHN DICK, banker, was born October 22, 1862, at Huntsville; son of Richard Inge and Mary Elizabeth (Stainback) Elliott, the former a native of Tuscaloosa, who was a sergeant of Co. E, Thirty-fifth Alabama regiment, Buford's brigade, Loring's division, Polk's corps, was captured while on furlough near Whitesburg, and was a prisoner at the time of the advance into Tennessee and the battles around Nashville and Franklin, where his major, John S. Dickson, was killed; grandson of Enoch and Elizabeth (Webb) Elliott, who lived at Guilford, N. C., before they came to Alabama, and of John and Elizabeth (Duggan) Stainback, who lived at Columbia, Tenn., and at Huntsville. He received his education in the private schools of Huntsville, mainly in Capt. Charles O. Shepherd's school for boys. His first work was done for the Huntsville "Democrat," when J. Withers Clay was editor. He learned telegraphy at the Western Union Telegraph office in Huntsville, starting as a messenger boy; went to Birmingham in 1880, where he worked for a year for his brother in the Elliott Hardware Company; went to Bryant & Stratton Business College, Louisville, Ky., 1881; returned to Birmingham and kept the books for the Elliott Hardware Company until 1888; became bookkeeper of the People's Savings Bank & Trust Company in the year of its organization; remained there seventeen years, serving as bookkeeper, teller, assistant cashier, and cashier; became president of the Commercial State Bank, 1905-1912; and went into business as a stock and bond broker. He joined the Birmingham Rifles as a private in 1880, was promoted to second lieutenant, first lieutenant, captain, and is now on the retired list with rank of major. He is a Democrat; a steward and trustee of the Methodist church; a Mason; and Knight of Pythias. Married: (1) December 17, 1884, in Birmingham, Ella Mewbourne, daughter of James and Emma Brown Mewbourne, and adopted daughter of Dr. and Mrs. J. W. Sears, of Birmingham; (2) May 8, 1901, in Gaylesville, Carolyn Brandon, daughter of Rev. Francis T. J. and Carolyn (Woodward) Brandon (q. v.); granddaughter of Francis Lawson and Zillah (Haynie) Brandon, natives of Halifax County Va., and South Carolina, who lived in Gwinnett County, Ga., and of Edward L. and Malinda J. (Francis) Woodward, natives of Stafford County, Va., and Knoxville, Tenn.; great-granddaughter of William Brandon, who married Miss Langley, of Virginia, and of Miller Woodson and Hannah (Henry) Francis, the former, of Knoxville, Tenn., the latter a cousin of Patrick Henry; great-great-granddaughter of William Brandon, one of the three brothers who moved from Pennsylvania and settled in Halifax County, Va. Children, by first wife: 1. Theoleen Elizabeth, b. March 17, 1890, in Birmingham, m. December 23, 1912, in Birmingham, William Edward Gantt, jr., Charleston, S. C. Residence: Birmingham.

ELLIOTT, WILLIAM G., commandant of the University of Alabama, 1894-95; 1st lieutenant 20th infantry, U. S. Army.

ELLIOTT, WILLIAM JACKSON, Baptist minister, was born September 15, 1860, at Vincent, Shelby County; son of Charles Franklin and Elizabeth (Elliott) Elliott, the former born at Brownsboro, Madison County, March 25, 1827, when eight years old came with his parents to Talladega County, in 1849 moved to Shelby County, has occupied the same house, near Vincent, for sixty-three years, was county commissioner and justice of the peace, in November, 1862, joined Co. F, 32nd Alabama infantry regiment, consolidated with 58th regiment, disabled by wound at Resaca, Ga., first lieutenant in Capt. West's company of home guards in Shelby County to close of war; grandson of Willis and Patsie (Carter) Elliott, the former born in Edgefield District, S. C., and the latter in Jamestown, Va., and of William and Polly Elliott, who lived in Shelby County, the latter dying at the age of eighty-four. Both grandfathers served in the War of 1812. Rev. Dr. Elliott obtained his early education in public schools at Spring Creek and Harpersville; attended Howard college, in 1882-84, receiving gold medal for oratory and second honor for best essay in 1883; teacher of elocution in Howard college, 1884-85; in vacation taught in Shelby and St. Clair Counties; in summer 1886, finished English course in Southern Baptist theological seminary at Louisville, Ky. He was ordained to full rank in ministry of Baptist church, July, 1886, at Harpersville; has been pastor of churches at Pine Apple, Forest Home, and Monterey; in 1891, moving to Montgomery, and from there having charge of churches at Lowndesboro, Wetumpka and other places. He has long been a member of the State Board of Missions; from 1906 to 1913 has been superintendent of Alabama Bible society. Married: May 7, 1890, at Montgomery, to Josie, b. 1871, daughter of James A. and U. J. (Hancock) Stewart, who lived in Montgomery, the former born in Conyers, Ga., and the latter in Edgefield, S. C., a relative of John Hancock. Children: 1. William Gerald; 2. Mark David; 3. Ruth. Residence: Montgomery.

ELLIS, BENJAMIN FRANKLIN, retired business man and State senator, was born April 21, 1838, at Orrville, Dallas County; son of Moody Rollins and Nancy (Dunaway) Ellis, natives of Milledgeville, Ga., the former left an orphan at an early age, and was reared by his grandparents, removed to Alabama from Georgia in his early manhood and lived at Cahaba at the time it was the capital of the State, and at Orrville from 1838 to his death in 1855. Senator Ellis had the advantage of a good village school, and also of Orrville academy. At the age of seventeen he entered his father's store, and when he became of age he went into the mercantile business for himself. For forty years he has been a merchant and planter but has now retired from active business. He was a captain in the Alabama militia, 1860 and 1861, and entered the C. S. Army, 1862, as sergeant, of 1st Alabama infantry regiment, and afterwards with the 58th Alabama infantry regiment as quartermaster sergeant. He was severely wounded, July 28, 1864, at Atlanta. He was a member of the house of representatives, 1886-87; and senator, 1915. He is a Democrat; a Baptist; and a Mason. Married: May 16, 1861, at Lowndesboro, to Josephine White, daughter of Madison M. and Martha (Sinclair) Weaver, of that place. Children: 1. James B. (q. v.), m. Mamie Shields; 2. Mattie, m. Dr. Robert Lee Sutton (q. v.); 3. Pink, m. John E. Dunaway, (q. v.); 4. Zaidee, m. C. W. Ashcraft, (q. v.); 5. Maud, died in infancy. Residence: Orrville.

ELLIS, GEORGE WASHINGTON, business man and State treasurer, was born March 10, 1853, at Orrville, Dallas County; son of Moody Rollins and Nancy (Dunaway) Ellis, the former born in Georgia in 1824, moved to Alabama, lived at Cahaba until he moved to Orrville; and grandson of Jeremiah Dunaway, lived at Clifton, Wilcox County, and died at age of 83 years. He was educated at a country school and at Orrville academy, was employed early by firm in Orrville; January 1882, moved to Selma, was in employ of firm there until February, 1892; then accepted position in office of State treasurer, Montgomery; in December 1892, reentered mercantile life; in September, 1893, accepted position in office of State auditor, held this until December, 1896, then assumed duties of State treasurer to which office he had been elected; in December, 1900, returned to mercantile life, continued therein till June 11; again 1913 returned to business with company at Orrville, and is at present chief clerk of the board of control and economy. He is a Democrat; and a Baptist. Married: June 28, 1881, at Uniontown, to Helen, daughter of Richard Paul and Mary V. Anderson, who lived at Prairie Bluff, Wilcox County, the former born September 28, 1828, died October 5, 1860, married June 29, 1858, the latter born December 18, 1837, married (2) Dr. McGowan (deceased), now living with daughter in Montgomery, granddaughter of Lewis and Elizabeth (Guess) Anderson, the former born in Oglethorpe County, Ga., and the latter born in Georgia, and of Green Ervin and Ann (Vernon) Jones, the former born in Georgia, the latter born, August 15, 1810, in North Carolina, married November 27, 1833; all grandparents lived to advanced ages. Children: 1. Pauline Anderson, educated in city schools of Montgomery and Judson female college, Marion, residence Montgomery; 2. John Jones, educated in city school and Barnes high school, Montgomery, graduating from the latter, m. Mamie Hunter, one child, Hunter, residence, Richmond, Va.; 3. Nancy, and 4. May, twins, of Montgomery; 5. Benjamin Franklin, educated in city schools and Barnes high school, State highway commission, Montgomery. Residence: Montgomery.

ELLIS, HARVEY W., lawyer, was born in Kentucky, and died in 1842, en route to his home in Tuscaloosa. He studied law in Kentucky, came to Alabama in 1823, and settled in Tuscaloosa where he engaged in the practice of law, entering partnership first with E. W. Peck, and later with John D. Phelan. In 1826 he represented Tuscaloosa County in the legislature, was four times re-elected, and also served as attorney of the state bank for some time. In 1838 and again in 1839, Mr. Ellis was the Democratic candidate for congress in opposition to Gen. George W. Crabb, and although defeated, established a high reputation upon the stump as a debator. For several years his health had declined, and in the summer of 1842, he visited Kentucky in search of relief. Failing to realize the benefit to his health that he had hoped for, he started home in the fall of the year, but died before reaching Tuscaloosa. He was a Democrat, and a leading man of his party in middle and west Alabama. Married: Catherine Kornegay, a niece of Col. William R. King, who in 1844 accompanied her uncle, upon his appointment by President Tyler, as minister to France, and presided over the domestic establishment of the American embassy in Paris. Last residence: Tuscaloosa.

ELLIS, HENRY CLAYTON, planter, miller and legislator, was born October 28, 1849, at Good Hope, Coosa, now Elmore County; son of Green Blunt and Ann Nichold (Lett) Ellis; the former of Virginia and Georgia, at one time magistrate and clerk of the court of Hancock County; grandson of Stephen and Lucy (Shell) Ellis, of White Plains, Va., and of Robert and Sallie (Simms) Lett, of Hancock County, Ga., later of Coosa County. He was educated in the schools of Good Hope. He is a planter and miller. He was a member of the legislature, 1892-93, 1894-95, and again in 1919. He was very active in war fund campaigns, 1917-19. He is a Democrat; a Methodist; and a member of the Alliance. Married: November 22, 1898, at Eclectic, to Sophia, daughter of J. D. and Nancy Barton (Kidd) Whetstone, of that place. Residence: Eclectic.

ELLIS, JAMES BACHELOR, business man; war born at Orrville, Dallas County, March 7, 1863; son of Benjamin Franklin and Josephine White (Weaver) Ellis (q. v.). Senator Ellis was educated at Orrville, at the Agricultural and Mechanical College, Auburn, 1877-78, and at Paynes college, New York, 1882-83. He entered business with his father in 1884, removing to Selma in 1904. He is president and active manager of the Dallas Compress Company, the Union Iron Work Company, J. B. Ellis Company, Ellis Investment & Insurance Company, Ellis Securities Company, and North Highland Land Company. He was elected to the State senate from the thirtieth district. He is a Democrat, a Baptist, being a trustee of Howard college, Central Female college, the Baptist State Mission Board, and of the Educational Commission of the Orphanage Board. He is a Mason; a Knight of Pythias; and an Elk. Married: May 7, 1884, near Orrville, to Mary Shields, daughter of William Bryan and Elizabeth (Cochran) Shields of Crumptonia, granddaughter of John and Elizabeth (Paulding) Shields, and of Claudius M. and Eleanor (Pouncy) Cochran, all of North Carolina. Residence: Selma.

ELLIS, JOSEPH MATHEWS, planter and legislator was born June 28, 1852, at Howard, Talbot County, Ga.; son of James W. and Nancy (Willis) Ellis, the former was a soldier in the Indian and Mexican Wars; grandson of Isaac and Peggy (Jones) Ellis, and of Dempsey and Margurite Willis. The Ellis family is of Dutch descent, the Willises are Scotch-Irish, and the Jones family is Irish. He was educated in the public schools of Crenshaw County. He was reared on a farm; entered business in Union Springs in 1875; and two years later began farming at that place. He represented Bullock County in the legislature of 1915. In 1890 he was ordained a deacon in the Baptist church. Married: December 4, 1879, at Fitzpatrick, to Lula Alice, daughter of Spillman and Eveline (Jones) Latham, of Union Springs, the former was a native of Fredericksburg, Va., the latter of Forsyth, Ga. Children: 1. Neatwood Croom, deceased; 2. Annie Warren, m., Andrew L. Hixson, Birmingham; 3. William Clyde, m. Elizabeth Thomas, Union Springs; 4. Henry Oscar, m., Julia Walker; 5. Bessie Lena, m. Joe G. Arnall, Newnan, Ga.; 6. Irving Horace, m. Bertha Dickinson, Union Springs; 7. Joseph Dalbey, m., Janise Baskin, Union Springs; 8. Lena Belle; 9. died in infancy; 10. died in infancy. Residence: Union Springs.

ELLIS, RICHARD, lawyer, was born in Virginia, and died in 1835, in Texas. He received a common school education, studied law, came to Alabama and located in Huntsville in 1817. The next year he moved to Franklin and began to practice law. He represented Franklin in the constitutional convention of 1819; and at the organization of the circuit courts, was elected over John McKinley and Beverly Hughes, to a judgeship. He held that office for six years, and on the expiration of his term in 1825, went to the Southwest. He was a principal figure in the incipient events of the Texas rebellion, and presided over the congress which adopted the declaration of independence of Texas in 1835. Married: Miss Dandridge, of Virginia, a sister-in-law of Gen. Garth. Last residence: Texas.

WILLIAM F. VANDIVER

ELLISON, HENRY SAMUEL, Methodist minister, was born March 11, 1862, at Columbus, Ga.; son of Rev. John Francis and Mary (Robison) Ellison, the former of whom was born at LaGrange, lived during his boyhood at Macon, Ga., was graduated from Emory college, Oxford, Ga., taught for several years in Chunnenugee college, and was pastor of the Methodist church, South, at Savannah, and Dalton, Ga., and Union Springs, Ala.; grandson of Rev. William Holmes and Anna (Capers) Ellison (q. v.), and of Rev. W. W. and Susan (Ellison) Robison. He became a minister of the Methodist Episcopal church, South; was admitted into the Alabama Conference, at Eufaula, December 5, 1892, and was ordained elder at Montgomery, December, 1896. He was in charge of the station at Evergreen for several years, and is now located at Midway. Rev. Ellison is a Mason, an Odd Fellow, a member of the Woodmen of the World, of the Columbian Woodmen, and of the Knights of Pythias, of which latter organization he is prelate. Married: Emma Clara, daughter of William H. and Nannie Hawkins, who lived at Evergreen. Children: 1. John Curtis; 2. Mary Emma; 3. Anne Leigh; 4. Lillian Cox; 5. Julia Capers; 6. Henry Samuel; 7. Frances Llewellyn, deceased. Residence: Midway.

ELLISON, ROBERT ROSS, Methodist minister, was born February 25, 1879, at Creek Stand, Macon County; son of Joseph Manassas and Camilla Searcy (Key) Ellison, the former a lieutenant in the C. S. Army, who served throughout the entire war, part of the time under Gen. Joseph Wheeler, a native of Shiloh, Ga., who lived at the old Ellison place near Shiloh until he was twenty-one years of age, then moved to Creek Stand, Macon County, where he lived until his death; grandson of John and Elizabeth (Patterson) Ellison, of Shiloh, Ga. The Ellisons were first introduced into this country by several Irishmen of that name who settled at Charleston, Ga., as merchants. Rev. Mr. Ellison's maternal grandparents lived at Talbotton, Ga., before moving to Alabama. They were of French and English descent, whose ancestors had settled in Georgia. Rev. Mr. Ellison received his early education in the country school at Creek Stand, and in the high school at Hurtsboro. He was graduated from Southern university, A. B., 1902, and A. M., 1903, and during his senior year was tutor in English. In the fall of 1903, he entered the Biblical department of Vanderbilt university, and was graduated, B. D., June, 1906. He became a member of the Alabama Conference, at Dothan, December, 1905, and since that time has had charge of the pastorate at Forest Avenue church, Montgomery, December, 1905-December, 1908; at Notasulga, 1908-1909; at LaFayette Avenue church, Dothan, 1909-1911; at Geneva, 1911-1913; and is now stationed at Andalusia. He is a Democrat, a Mason and an Odd Fellow. Married: October 2, 1906, at Greensboro, Mary Alice, daughter of Prof. C. A. and Flossie (Smith) Grote, who lived at that place; granddaughter of Dr. Luther Smith, who was president of Emory college, Georgia, then came to Alabama and was president of Southern university at the time of his death. Her paternal grandparents both came from Germany in early life, were married in this country and lived in New Orleans and Texas. Children: 1. Elizabeth La Prade; 2. Minna Grote, deceased. Residence Andalusia.

ELLISON, WILLIAM HOLMES, Methodist minister and teacher, was born December 5, 1805, in Orangeburg District, S. C., and died December 20, 1884, at Clayton; son of John and Susan (Milligan) Ellison of Orangeburg who, between 1825-30, settled in Talbot County, Ga. Dr. Ellison graduated with honors from Wofford college, Spartanburg, S. C., and entered the Methodist ministry in his native state. While stationed at Wilmington, in 1832, he was transferred and appointed to a professorship in the La Grange college, Colbert County, Ala. When the Wesleyan female college was founded at Macon, Ga., he was elected to the chair of mathematics and transferred to the Georgia conference. Two years later he was elected president of this college, and continued in that position for ten years. He then returned to Alabama, as president of the Chunnenugee female college, where he taught until the outbreak of the War of Secession. He returned to the ministry at this time and spent the remainder of his active life as pastor and presiding elder in the Alabama conference. After more than fifty years in the itinerant ministry of the Methodist Episcopal church, he was superannuated. Married: (1) In Charleston, S. C., to Anna, daughter of Bishop William Capers, of the Methodist Episcopal church, South; (2) Mary Jane Oliver. Twelve children were born of his first marriage, several of whom died in childhood. There was no issue from the second marriage. Children: 1. William Capers; 2. Rev. John Francis; 3. Capt. James Henry, Confederate soldier, killed at Gettysburg; 4. Anna Susan; 5. Julia Margaret, m. J. M. Carter, Enon; 6. Jamie, m. Dr. J. T. Floyd, Clanton; 7. Charles. Last residence: Clayton.

ELLSBERRY, ABNER FOSTER, farmer, was born December 25, 1833, in Montgomery County; son of Michael and Eliza (Ponder) Ellsberry (q. v.). He received a good common school education in the schools of Montgomery County, and attended school at Florence, in 1850; began life as a farmer, which occupation he followed all his life; was a lieutenant in C. S. Army, but did not see actual service, as his company was detailed for patrol duty in Montgomery County. He was a Democrat; Methodist; Mason; and Knight of Pythias. Married: February 10, 1860, at the Arrington plantation, Montgomery County, to Eliza, daughter of Lewis and Eliza (Nicholson) Arrington (q. v.). Children: 1. Samuel Arrington, m. Palmer Ready; 2. Michael Earnest; 3. Edward Foster, m. Cora Underwood; 4. Lida Arrington, m. B. Hervey Brown; 5. Mary Laura, m. Ed. R. Malone; 6. Benjamin Richard. Last residence: Montgomery County.

ELLSBERRY, MICHAEL, planter, was born September 25, 1802, near Lexington, Oglethorpe County, Ga., and died near Snowdown, Montgomery County, April 19, 1849; son of Benjamin and Margaret (Luckie) Ellsberry, the former of whom was born in Rowan County, N. C., in 1777, and later lived in Georgia, died at Winterville, Ga., 1853, was a prominent Presbyterian, rearing a large family, three sons living at one time in Alabama; grandson of Capt. Michael E. and Ann Ellsberry, the former moved from Rowan County, N. C., in 1784, to Wilkes County, Ga., settling about nine miles north of Lexington in the portion of Wilkes County, which was in 1793 formed into Oglethorpe County, was a soldier in the Revolution, serving as sergeant in the Rowan, N. C., troops at the battle of King's Mountain, later promoted lieutenant under General Davidson, made captain of a volunteer company in the Indian War, and was killed at Jack's Creek, near Gainesville, September 10, 1787, and of John Luckie, of Oglethorpe County, Ga.; great-grandson of Benjamin and Francena Ellsberry, the former emigrating in 1784 to Wilkes County, Ga., with his son, settling near Lexington; great-great-grandson of Frederick Ellsberry; great-great-great-grandson of Thomas Ellsberry who received in 1723 a grant of land in Maryland from Charles II of one hundred acres, "on the east side of the main branch of the Choptank River, and known as Dogwood Ridge." Michael Ellsberry received a good common school education in the schools of his native county, whence he removed, 1830, to Montgomery County, settling near Snowdown, where he operated for many years a large plantation. In 1845 he represented Montgomery County in the State legislature. He assisted in organizing the Montgomery True Blues for the Seminole Indian War of 1836, was orderly sergeant of the company, and a member of the committee of three which selected the company name. He organized a company for the Mexican War of 1846, but that company was never ordered to the front. He was a Democrat; and Methodist, assisting in the erection of one of the first Methodist churches in the State, at Robinson's Cross Roads, Montgomery County, in 1832. Married (1) in 1827, to Elizabeth, daughter of Dr. Abner and Jane (Knox) Ponder, of Oglethorpe County, Ga., (2) in 1838, to Judith Chamberlaine, daughter of John Payne of Robinson Springs, Elmore County. Children: by first wife, 1. Lorena; 2. Sarah; 3. Benjamin, m. Bettie Boykin; 4. Abner Foster, (q. v.) m. Eliza Ann Arrington; by second wife, 5. Dr. John Payne, m. Mary Dillard, Spring Hill; 6. Virginia; 7. Emma, m. Bradford Dunham (q. v.); 8. Caroline Judith, m. Julius Alford. Last residence: Near Snowdown.

ELMORE, ALBERT STANHOPE, planter, was born June 12, 1827, and died June 11, 1909 in Elmore County; son of Gen. John Archer and Ann (Martin) Elmore (q. v.). Major Elmore was educated in the institutions of Alabama and served through the Mexican war with the Fifth Louisiana infantry regiment. In 1847, he was elected major of the State militia; assistant clerk of the house of representatives, 1853-54; private secretary to Gov. John A. Winston, 1855; again clerk of the house through each annual session of the legislature from 1855 to 1864. In 1865 he was appointed secretary of State under Gov. Lewis E. Parsons; elected to that office 1866; appointed by Pres. Andrew Johnson, collector of the port of Mobile, 1867. He removed later to his plantation, "Huntington," Elmore County, where he resided until his death. Married: in 1853, at Montgomery, to Mary Jane, daughter of Col. William Henry and Mary E. (Hails) Taylor (q. v.). Children: 1. William Trezevant, physician, m. Elizabeth Tinker of Wisconsin, no children; 2. Annie Bozier, deceased; 3. infant, deceased; 4. Josiah Morris, deceased; 5. Benjamin Fitzpatrick (q. v.); 6. Mary, m. David B. Anderson, of Sumter, S. C., residing in Memphis, Tenn., one child, deceased; 7. Marshall, m. Judge Henry Chamberlain of Mobile who died March 1920, two children, Josephine, m. (1) Frank Lochran of Atlanta, and (2) Stanhope. Last residence: Elmore.

ELMORE, BENJAMIN FITZPATRICK, lawyer, was born in Montgomery, July 22, 1861; son of Maj. Albert Stanhope and Mary Jane (Taylor) Elmore (q. v.); grandson of Col. William Henry and Mary Elizabeth (Hails) Taylor (q. v.), of the Taylor family of South Carolina; great-grandson of Capt. Robert Hails, Revolutionary soldier of South Carolina, and Gen. John Archer Elmore (q. v.). He was educated in the schools of Canada, graduating at St. Michael's college, Toronto, and was a student in the Agricultural and mechanical college, Auburn, from 1879 to 1881; graduated from the law department, University of Alabama, 1882, A. B., and was admitted to the bar, July 22, 1882; practiced at Grove Hill, and Butler until 1890, when he removed to Demopolis, where he continues to reside. He was assistant clerk of the house of representatives, 1886-87; clerk, 1888-91; solicitor, first judicial circuit, 1892-98, member board of education of Demopolis; member of congressional committee and of State committee to organize for constitutional convention, 1900, State committee to ratify same. He is a Democrat; a Mason; Knight of Pythias; Maccabee; a Methodist; and a member of the Phi Delta Theta college fraternity. Married: January 3, 1894, in Carrollton, to Eliza Bostick, daughter of Maj. Elbert Decatur and Candace Mentora (Bostick) Willett (q. v.). Children: 1. Benjamin Fitzpatrick jr., d. 1899; 2. Willett, captain, U. S. marine corps at age of twenty-one, graduate of U. S. naval academy, March 1917, m. Alan Morris, of Leeland, Md.; 3. Albert jr., Mobile; 4. Elizabeth Bostick. Residence: Demopolis.

ELMORE, JOHN ARCHER, officer of the American Revolution, was born August 21, 1762, in Prince Edward County, Va., and died April 24, 1834, in Autauga, now Elmore County; son of Archelas and Susannah (Morris) Elmore, the former a Quaker; grandson of Thomas and Cicely (Ellison) Elmore, of New Kent County, Va. General Elmore entered the Continental Army while still a youth, and served under General Greene. He settled in Laurens District, S. C., after the Revolution, residing there for many years and serving in the legislature. In 1819 he removed to Alabama, settling in Autauga County, and in 1821, represented that county in the legislature. When Autauga County was subdivided the new county was named in his honor. The station of that name being also named for his family. Married: (1) March 1, 1788, to Mary Ann Sarah Saxon; (2) March 14, 1805, to Mary Martin, a descendant of the noted Martin family of South Carolina, also of the Marshall family of Virginia, and of Lieut. Nathaniel Terry, of Virginia. Children: by first wife, 1. Benjamin F., treasurer of South Carolina, m. Sarah Aurora Brevard; 2. Narcissa; 3. Sophia Saxon, m. George Ross; 4. Charlotte Perry, m. Abner Crenshaw; 5. Franklin Harper, who succeeded Calhoun in the U. S. senate, m. Harriet Chestnut; by second wife, 6. Elizabeth S., m. Dixon H. Lewis (q. v.); 7. Sarah Terry, m. Benjamin Fitzpatrick (q. v.); 8. John Archer (q. v.), m. Laura Maria Martin; 9. Morris Martin; 10. William Augustus, m. (1) Mary Ann Morrison, (2) Julia Minor; 11. Luther Alfred; 12. Henry Marshall, m. Elizabeth Harris; 13. Laurence Ludlow; 14. Physick Rush, m. Susan T. Nesbitt; 15. Winfield Scott; 16. Infant; 17. Mary Martin, m. (1) Hamlin F. Lewis; (2) James Scott; 18. Albert Stanhope (q. v.), m. Mary Jane Taylor; 19. Ann Harriet, m. Joseph T. Hearn. Last residence: Autauga County.

ELMORE, JOHN ARCHER, jr., lawyer, member constitutional convention, 1865, was born April 1, 1809, in Laurens District, S. C., and died August 1, 1878, in Montgomery; son of Gen. John Archer and Ann (Martin) Elmore (q. v.). He began his education in South Carolina, and continued his studies in Alabama, until 1820, when he was sent to South Carolina college, where he graduated with distinction. He studied law in 1834, but removed to Lowndes County, where he temporarily engaged in agriculture. In 1836, he commanded a company in the Creek Indian War; represented Lowndes County in the State senate in 1837. After his removal to Montgomery, in 1840, he was made attorney for the State bank. Later he formed a legal partnership with William L. Yancey. At the time of his death he was practicing his profession in partnership with William A. Gunter, sr. In 1861, he was sent to "the republic of South Carolina," to represent Alabama in council; was a member of the State constitutional convention of 1865; an ardent State Rights Democrat, and an Episcopalian. Married: in South Carolina, to Laura, his cousin and daughter of John and Henrietta (Williamson) Martin; granddaughter of Dr. Peter W. and Eliza (White) Williamson, of North Carolina and of John and Elizabeth (Terry) Martin, both grandfathers were soldiers of the American Revolution. Children: 1. Vincent Martin, sr. (q. v.); 2. Mary, m. Col. Warren S. Reese (q. v.); 3. Franklin H., m. Nellie Gunter; 4. William, m. ——— Smoot. Last residence: Montgomery.

ELMORE, LAURA (MARTIN) patriotic worker, was the daughter of William D. and Henrietta (Williamson) Martin, the former a famous jurist of South Carolina; granddaughter of John and Elizabeth (Terry) Martin, of South Carolina, and of Dr. Peter W. and Eliza (White) Williamson, of Randolph County, N. C., the former a surgeon in the Revolutionary War. She was an enthusiastic worker for the Soldier's Home and was third vice-president of the Ladies' Memorial association, of Montgomery. Married: John A. Elmore, jr. (q. v.). Last residence: Montgomery.

ELMORE, VINCENT MARTIN, lawyer, planter, and major, C. S. Army, was born July 18, 1840, in Lowndes County, and died January 12, 1908, in Montgomery; son of John Archer, jr., and Laura Maria (Martin) Elmore (q. v.). He was educated in the schools of Lowndes and Montgomery counties and attended the University of Alabama, 1859-60. He entered the Confederate Army as a private in the 3rd Alabama infantry regiment; was promoted second lieutenant, Co. H, captain, Co. H and E, and then major of 1st Alabama cavalry regiment. He was a lawyer, planter, and register in chancery, Montgomery County, 1875-99. He was a Democrat and an Episcopalian. Married: December 10, 1867, in Montgomery, to Rebecca, daughter of George and Sarah (Bozier) Hails. Children: 1. John Archer, m. Belle Peeler; 2. Mary Vincent, m. Dr. Henry Stanford Persons (q. v.); 3. Laura Martin; 4. Vincent Martin, major, U. S. Army, m. Minerva Hawthorn Buck; 5. Sarah Bozier; 6. William Baldwin. Last residence: Montgomery.

ELROD, WILLIAM HARVEY, public official and legislator, was born September 24, 1855, at Golden Springs, S. C.; son of David Daniel and Jane (Owen) Elrod; grandson of Philip and Tempie Elrod, of South Carolina and of Lewis and Dorcas Owen of the same state. He was educated in the common schools of his native county. He served as postmaster at Ft. Payne, 1880-1904. He was a member of the house of representatives from DeKalb County, 1907; and State senator, 1915, from the Twenty-ninth district. He is a Democrat; Methodist; Mason; and a Knight of Pythias. Married: January 12, 1879, at South Hill, DeKalb County, to Martha G., daughter of Philip and Annie Gilbert, formerly of North Carolina. Residence: Ft. Payne.

ELSBERRY, JOHN, planter, was born February 23, 1805, near Lexington, Oglethorpe County, Ga., and died May 8, 1883, at Benton; son of Benjamin and Margaret (Luckey) Elsberry, who lived in Oglethorpe County, Ga. Mr. Elsberry came to Montgomery County about 1840, with his brothers, Michael and James, and devoted himself to teaching for two years after which he became a planter. He was a Methodist. Married: (1) Mrs. Patience Sankey, née Stephens, (2) November 25, 1844, at Hayneville, Lowndes County, to Martha Louisa, daughter of James Parks and Mary Allen (Dunn) Rogers, of that county, but natives of near Charlotte, Mecklenburg County, N. C. Children: by first wife, 1. John Stephens, member 59th Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army, m. (1) Eliza Blair of San Antonio, Texas, and after the death of this wife and her two children he married (2) Mrs. Doole, from near Waco, Texas, through which union there were no children; by the second wife, 2. Mary Margaret, the only surviving child, never married; the following all died in childhood: 3. James Michael; 4. James Michael, jr.; 5. Benjamin; 6. Sarah Jane; 7. Rebecca Parks; 8. Louisa Patience; 9. Dunn Rogers. Last residence: Benton.

ELSBERRY, JOHN PAYNE, physician, was born in Montgomery County; son of Michael and Judith Chamberlayne (Payne) Ellsberry, (q. v.), the former a native of Oglethorpe, Ga., who moved to Montgomery County with his first wife, Eliza Ponder, and was a member of the Alabama legislature at Tuscaloosa, the latter a native of Virginia; grandson of Benjamin and Margaret (Luckie) Elsberry, who lived near Milledgeville, Ga., and of William and Sarah (Scott) Payne, who lived first in Virginia, then in North Carolina, and finally settled in Alabama, the latter a relative of Gen. Winfield Scott. The Elsberryys are of Irish descent; the Paynes and Scotts are of English ancestry. Dr. Elsberry obtained his early schooling at Robinson Springs, at Summerfield, and at Tuskegee; attended the Military school at Marietta, Ga.; the literary course at the University of Virginia, 1856-1858; Jefferson medical college, Philadelphia, Pa., 1858-1860; and finished his course in the school of McGuin and Luckett, Virginia medical college. He began to practice medicine, October, 1860, in Lowndes County. In April 1861, he volunteered in the C. S. Army, served as corporal and sergeant of Co. F, Third Alabama infantry; was commissioned hospital steward; was assigned to duty in 1863 with the field infirmary of Stonewall Jackson, Second army corps, and served as assistant surgeon. He took part in the Seven Days battle around Richmond, was at the battles of South Mountain, Md.; Sharpsburg; Chancellorsville, Va.; Spottsylvania Court House, Va.; Gettysburg; and Cedar Creek, Va. After the war, he resumed the practice of medicine, and is now located at Mountain Creek. He is a Democrat, a Methodist, and a Mason. He is author of "Whispering Tongues," a romance published in the "Union Springs Herald," 1871. Married: December 13, 1881, in Montgomery County, Mary Tompkins, daughter of James Richard and Sarah (Falconer) Dillard, who lived at Robinson Cross Roads, a descendant of the Ponder and Luckie families of Georgia. Children: 1. Nannie Arrington, m. David T. Buell, Mobile. Residence: Mountain Creek.

ELVAS, GENTLEMAN OF, supposed to have been Alvaro Fernandez, chronicler of the De Soto expedition, 1539-41. Thought by some students, to have been a member of the expedition traversing our State in 1540, but the present day student is not disposed to credit this belief and thinks him to have been a writer who secured the material for his story of the expedition from members who had returned to Spain. His narrative was first published at Elvora, in 1557, reprinted at Lisbon in 1844. A French edition appeared in 1685, and an English translation of this edition in 1686. The first English version, by Hakluyt, had appeared in 1609, reprinted in 1611. Dutch editions appeared at Rotterdam in 1658, and Lyden 1706. It appears in Force's "Tracts," volume four, 1846. French's collections of Louisiana, part two, also included it. An abridged edition appears in "Pilgrims." The Buckingham Smith translation was published by the Bradford Club in 1866, under the title of "Career of Hernando DeSoto in the conquest of Florida." It is also included in the Bourne edition of the "Narratives," 1904. Last residence: Spain.

ELY, GEORGE, member of the constitutional convention of 1867, from the thirteenth election district. Deceased. Last residence: Montgomery.

EMENS, FRANK, physician; graduate of the medical college of Louisville, Ky., 1898; licensed to practice that year by the board of Morgan County and located at Trinity.

EMRICH, JOHN P., major and later lieutenant colonel, Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army.

ENGLAND, WILLIAM, soldier of the American Revolution, and a resident of Perry, but later of Dallas County; private, particular service not disclosed; enrolled on March 16, 1835, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $30.—Pension Book, State Branch Bank, Mobile.

ENSLIN, CHRISTIAN F., banker, was born March 30, 1830, in Wurtemberg, Germany. He was educated in that city, and emigrated to America in 1845, landing at New Orleans. He located in Montgomery, joining the Alabama rifles, a volunteer regiment, and went as a private to the Mexican War in 1846. On his return to Montgomery, he learned the trade of a blacksmith, and moved to Wetumpka where he opened a blacksmith's shop. He entered the C. S. Army before the secession of Alabama, and was sent to Pensacola, under the command of Col. Tennant Lomax, remaining there until the reorganization of his command into the Third Alabama regiment. Then, after discharging an important military duty at Norfolk, Va., he was placed in charge of the arsenal as foreman, at Montgomery, and continued there until the close of the war. After the war, he returned to Wetumpka, and continued in blacksmithing until 1871, when he moved to Birmingham. He worked for the North & South railroad for two years; embarked in a mercantile business in Birmingham until 1885, when he organized the Jefferson County savings bank, of which he was made president. He served for two years as alderman of Birmingham. He was a Mason, an Odd Fellow, having organized, in 1872, the first Odd Fellow lodge in Jefferson County, and serving as its presiding officer. He was a member of the Baptist church. Married: in 1849, Elizabeth Flynn, of Columbus, Ga. Children: 1. Charles; 2. Emily; 3. Eugene Flynn, b. 1858, in Wetumpka, was educated there, came with his father to Birmingham in 1871, was bookkeeper in his father's store, attended a session of the Poughkeepsie business college, New York, 1877, became cashier of the Jefferson County savings bank, m. 1878, Della W. Evans, of La Grange, Ga., children: (1) Julia, (2) Eugene Flynn, jr., who was graduated from the University of Alabama B. S., 1901, and from Cornell University, M. E., 1902, and is now electrical engineer with Ford, Bacon & Davis, New York, (3) Minnie Gip; 4. John; 5. Minnie. Residence: Birmingham.

ENSLIN, EUGENE FLYNN, banker, was born February 11, 1858, at Wetumpka, Elmore County; son of Christian Frederick and Elizabeth (Flynn) Enslin (q. v.); grandson of John and Wilmina (Moser) Enslin of Germany, and of Patrick and Margaret (Bibby) Flynn, of Wetumpka, the former a civil engineer and native of Ireland; great-grandson of Christian and Joanna Moser, of Stettin, Germany. Mr. Enslin received his early education in Wetumpka and in the public schools of Birmingham. He completed a commercial course at Eastman college, Poughkeepsie, N. Y., 1877, and entered into the mercantile business. In 1885 he became a banker and is now president of the Jefferson County savings bank. He was alderman of Birmingham, 1892-96; first lieutenant, Birmingham artillery 1878-84. He is a Democrat; Baptist; Knight of Pythias, and Woodman of the World. Married: December 5, 1878, in Birmingham, to Della W., daughter of John and Charlotte Evans of that place, natives of South Carolina, located in La Grange, Ga., about 1850, and removed to Birmingham, 1872. Children: 1. Julia Velma, m. Dr. Benjamin E. Kidd; 2. Clyde, m. John M. Lutz; 3. Eugene, jr., m. Jennie Rogers, all living in Birmingham. Residence: Birmingham.

EPES, JOHN W., merchant, was born May 8, 1836, in Lunenburg, Va.; son of John C. and Sarah A. (Smith) Epes, the former a native of Prince George County, Va., a planter and a captain in one of the early wars, a justice of the peace for several years, who died in 1859, the latter a native of Lunenburg County, Va., who died in 1836 when her son was a few months old; grandson of Peter Epes, born in England, who came to America in 1717 with his people who located at City Point, Va., and of James Smith, a Virginian by birth, a wealthy planter who represented Lunenburg County in the Virginia general assembly for twenty-one years. He was reared on the family plantation, attended Hampden-Sidney college, Virginia; then the South Carolina medical college at Charleston; and in 1858 was graduated from Jefferson medical college in Philadelphia. He came to Alabama the same year and located at Jones Bluff, now Epes, so named in honor of Dr. Epes. He engaged in mercantile pursuits and farming until 1862, when he joined Co. A., Thirty-sixth Alabama regiment as a private, and served on the coast for some months; in 1863, he joined Forrest's cavalry and saw service in northern Mississippi. After the war he resumed merchandising, in which business he continued until he retired some years ago. He is a Democrat; a Presbyterian; a Royal Arch Mason; and a Knight of Honor. Married: October, 1858, Martha J. Thomas, daughter of W. R. and Melicent Thomas, natives of Edgecombe County, N. C., who came to Sumter County in 1833, and finally moved to Meridian, Miss., where they died. Children: 1. John P.; 2. James V.; 3. Una E., m. George P. Kinkle, Birmingham, children, Una E., and Mattie May; 4. Mattie S.; 5. Minnie M.; 6. Junie W. Residence: Epes Station.

ERSKINE, ALBERT RUSSELL, physician, was born January 17, 1827, in Huntsville; son of Dr. Alexander and Susan Catherine (Russell) Erskine, natives, respectively of Monroe and Loudoun Counties, Va., who located in Huntsville, Ala., in 1817, the former for many years president board of medical examiners, State medical association, descendant of the Rev. Ebenezer Erskine of Scotland, who was born 1680, and founder of the Secession church; grandson of Michael and Margaret (Hanley) Erskine, of Monroe City, Va.; great-grandson of Henry and Jean (Thompson) Erskine of Stirling, Scotland, who settled in Cecil County, Md. Dr. Erskine received his preparatory and college education at Huntsville, Georgetown college, D. C., and West Point military academy which he attended for two years. He began the study of medicine in 1849 under his father, and entered the University of Virginia. He was graduated from the University of Pennsylvania, 1851, and located the same year in Huntsville, where he began the practice at once. In 1862 he entered the Confederate Army, and was assigned to the 5th Tennessee regular infantry as surgeon. Eight months later he became Gen. Pat Claiborne's medical inspector. Several months later he was assigned to the 45th Alabama infantry regiment as surgeon; was later assigned to Convalescent Camp Wright, and finally to Marion hospital. He was for three years president of Madison County medical society; for several years a member of the American board of health association; member of county board of health and secretary county board of censors many years. He is a Presbyterian; and a Mason. Married: October 5, 1854, to Maria D., daughter of Luke and Judith (Peete) Matthews of Huntsville, the former a native of Campbell County, Va., and one of the largest planters in Madison County. Children: 1. Alexander; 2.

Luke Matthews; 3. Janet. Residence: Huntsville.

ERVIN, ROBERT HUGH, lawyer, was born September 11, 1822, at Coal Bluff on the Alabama River, and died January 11, 1875, in Wilcox County; son of Samuel and Mary (Eades) Ervin, the former a native of Marion District, on the Big Pee Dee River, S. C., who lived in Darlington District, S. C., until he moved to Alabama; grandson of Col. John and Jane (Witherspoon) Ervin, the former an officer in Marion's brigade, and of John and Jane (Fee) Eades, who lived at Coal Bluff; great-grandson of Gavin and Jane (James) Witherspoon, the former a captain in Marion's brigade whose exploits are mentioned in history, and of John Ervin who came with his wife and brother, Hugh, from Ireland, and settled on Black River near a little place called King's Tree, in Williamsburg District; great-great-grandson of John and Janet Witherspoon.

The Fees emigrated from Ireland and settled in Clarke County. It is said that theirs was the first piano in that part of Alabama and that people came from miles away to see the curiosity. Dr. Ervin received his preparatory education in private schools; studied medicine at Jefferson Medical college in Philadelphia, and was graduated, M. D., from Transylvania university, Lebanon, Ky., 1845. He practiced medicine in Wilcox County until 1853, when he was elected to represent the county in the State legislature. From that time on his property and political interests occupied his full time, and he retired from the practice of medicine. He enlisted in the C. S. Army, was made lieutenant of Wilcox cavalry, and served under Gen. Braxton Bragg, taking part in the battle of Shiloh. From 1863 until 1865, he represented Dallas and Wilcox Counties in the State senate. After his term of office had expired he became a cotton commissioner in Mobile, and took personal charge of his planting interests. He was again elected to the State senate, and was serving in that body at the time of his death in 1875. He was credited by Gov. Houston with being the author of the plan for the settlement of the state debt. He was a Democrat; a member of the Baptist church, and for years was moderator of the Pine Barren Association. He was grand master of Alabama Masons in 1858. Married: January 5, 1848, Sarah Asbury (Tait) Rives, daughter of James Asbury and Elizabeth (Goode) Tait, who lived at Dry Fork, the latter a cousin of Thomas Jefferson; granddaughter of Judge Charles Tait (q. v.), of Burnt Corn, Monroe County, one of the earliest federal judges in the state. Children: 1. Albert Goode, m. Elizabeth Cumming, Amboy, Clarke County, Wash.; 2. Jennie Fee, m. Dr. W. C. Larkin, Athens, Tex.; 3. Aurora Roberta, m. Judge H. Austill, Mobile; 4. Lina, m. A. J. Phillips, Saltillo, Miss.; 5. Leila Grayson, m. Dr. A. S. McDaniel, San Antonio, Tex.; 6. Martha Beck, m. J. W. Pharr, Catherine; 7. Samuel James, m. Madison McWilliams, Camden; 8. Robert Tait (q. v.). Last residence: Wilcox County.

ERVIN ROBERT TAIT, federal district judge at Mobile, was born May 27, 1863, at Camden, Wilcox County; son of Robert Hugh and Sarah Asbury (Tait) Ervin (q. v.); grandson of Samuel and Mary (Eades) Ervin, who lived at Possum Bend, near Camden, and of James Asbury and Caroline Elizabeth (Goode) Tait, who lived at Dry Fork, Wilcox County; great grandson of Col. John and Jane (Witherspoon) Ervin, and of John and Jane (Fee) Eades, and of Judge Charles Tait (q. v.), one of the first federal district judges in Alabama; great-great-grandson of Gavin and Jane (James) Witherspoon, and of John Ervin. He obtained his early education in the country schools; spent one term at Marion institute under the late Col. J. T. Murfee; studied law, and was admitted to the bar in Mobile in 1883; practiced in Mobile until 1887, when he entered the law course at the University of Alabama, and was graduated, B. L., that same year. He has since practiced law, and is now serving as federal district judge at Mobile. He served as first lieutenant of the Gulf City guards, Co. E, First regiment, A. S. T., 1890-1892; first lieutenant of the Mobile Rifle Company, Co. F, First regiment, A. S. T., 1892-1894; captain, 1894-1895; and major, First regiment, A. S. T., 1895. He is a Democrat, and has been a member of the state executive committee for six or seven years, and is a Baptist. Married: June 8, 1897, in Jackson, Tenn., Frances Patterson, daughter of James Clark and Adaline Marina (Clark) Pybas, of Jackson, Tenn. Residence: Mobile.

ERWIN, GEORGE, planter, was born February 4, 1835, at Greensboro, Hale County, and died January 15, 1910, at Greensboro; son of John and Eliza Margaret (Chadwick) Erwin (q. v.); grandson of John and Jane (Peebles) Erwin, of Mt. Sterling, Ky., and of John and Keren Happuch (Shortridge) Chadwick who lived in the old fort at the mouth of Big Sandy Creek, Ky., the latter of whom was said to have been the first white child born in the state of Kentucky; great-grandson of Judge Eli Shortridge, of Alabama. The Erwin family is of Scotch-Irish ancestry; the Chadwicks emigrated from England to Pennsylvania, from there to North Carolina, and then to Kentucky with Daniel Boone. Mr. Erwin gained his early schooling at Greensboro and at Green Springs, under the instruction, at the latter place, of Henry Tutwiler; and attended the University of Virginia, 1854-1856. He devoted himself to planting until the outbreak of the War of Secession, when he joined the C. S. Army as second lieutenant of the Greensboro guards, assigned to Fort Morgan. He was a member of the State legislature, 1883-1884; and was elected president of the school board of Hale County from 1895 to 1901. He was a Democrat; an Episcopalian; and a Royal Arch Mason. Married: October 14, 1856, at Hillsboro, N. C., Frances Iredell, daughter of Col. Cadwallader and Annie Isabella (Iredell) Jones, of Raleigh, N. C., the former colonel of the Fifth Alabama infantry, in whose honor is named the Confederate Veteran camp at Greensboro; granddaughter of Col. Cadwallader Jones, and of Gov. James Iredell, of North Carolina; great-granddaughter of Maj. Cadwallader Jones, who fought in the Revolution, and of Judge James Iredell, a native of England, associate justice of the first supreme court of the United States, appointed by George Washington in 1790; great-great-granddaughter of Frederick Jones, and of Francis Iredell; great-great-great-granddaughter of Maj. Peter Jones, and of Rev. Francis Iredell, of Dublin, Ireland. Children: 1. John, m. Mary Griffin Wilkins, Greensboro, child, George, lives at Akron, O.; 2. Annie, Greensboro, m. Alphonse L. Stollenwerck, who is deceased; 3. Margaret, m. Henry Watson Parrish, both deceased; 4. Rebecca Frances, m. Madison Jones, who is deceased, child, Madison Jones III, Greensboro; 5. Ethel, deceased, m. Leonidas Bryan Sledge, Greensboro; 6. Cadwallader, m. Ida Vernon Seawell, Greensboro, child, Ida Vernon. Last residence: Greensboro.

DR. MORTIMER H. JORDAN

ERWIN, JOHN, lawyer, was born September 10, 1799, at Union, Pendleton County, Va., and died December 10, 1860, at Greensboro; son of John and Jane (Peebles) Erwin, the former who was born March 7, 1769, in Augusta County, Va., and died September 10, 1810, lived at Union, Pendleton County, Va., and was a major in the Revolutionary War, serving with Washington at Yorktown, the latter was born March 9, 1773, in Augusta County, Va., and died July 9, 1831, moved with her husband to Mt. Sterling, Ky., in 1808. The Erwin family is of Scotch-Irish ancestry. Col. Erwin moved with his parents to Kentucky when he was seven years of age. His father died when he was eleven years old, and he received very little schooling. Two years after his father's death he became a clerk in a store, studying in his spare moments, so that when he grew to manhood, he had a reputation for scholarship, was a master of pure English, and conversant with Latin and French. By the time he was nineteen years of age, he had amassed the means to study law. He entered the law office of Maj. Trimble at Mount Sterling, Ky., and was a fellow student with Garret Davis, afterwards U. S. senator. In 1821, he came to Perry County, Ala., but after practicing a short time in Marion, opened an office in Erie, and then in Greensboro, where he began a practice which covered about twenty-eight years. He was elected a justice of the peace, and his devotion to his duties soon concentrated the business of the community upon himself. He was elected to the State senate from Greene County in 1831, and was chosen president of that body the following year. In 1836, 1837 and 1842, he was a member of the lower house of the legislature, and served as speaker during the latter year. In 1845, he was a candidate for congress, opposed to Mr. Payne, the regular nominee of the Democratic party, and was defeated. In 1851, he was again a candidate in opposition to Judge William R. Smith, both Democrats, and was defeated by a few votes.

Col. Erwin was a delegate to the Nashville convention of 1850, and presided over the national convention which nominated Franklin Pierce and William R. King for president and vice-president at Cincinnati in 1852. He was presiding officer of the Charleston Convention which met in Richmond, 1860, and led the bolting wing of the Democratic party. His last public appearance was at the Richmond convention which nominated Breckenridge and Lane for president and vice-president. Col. Erwin was made president of the convention. In the early fifties, Col. Erwin retired from the practice of law, to a secluded home life at "Glencairn," the family estate at Greensboro. Married: October 5, 1822, at Mount Sterling, Ky., Eliza Margaret, daughter of John and Keren Happuch (Shortridge) Chadwick, who lived at the old Fort, at the mouth of Big Sandy Creek, Ky. The Chadwick family emigrated from England to Pennsylvania, from there to North Carolina, at the head waters of the Yadkin, and from North Carolina to Kentucky with Daniel Boone. Keren Happuch Shortridge, daughter of Judge Eli Shortridge (q. v.), of Alabama, is said to have been the first white child born in Kentucky. Children: 1. Catherine, m. Col. Allen C. Jones, both deceased; 2. Margaret, m. Judge Porter King (q. v.) both deceased; 3. Julia, deceased; 4. John, deceased; 5. George (q. v.), deceased, m. Frances Iredell Jones, who resides at Greensboro. Last residence: Greensboro.

ESDALE, JAMES, deputy grand master, grand council, 1901-02.

ESPY, JAMES BUHRMAN, teacher, was born October, 1871, at Lawrenceville, Henry County; son of Joseph Samuel and Sarah Elizabeth (Dawkins) Espy (q. v.); grandson of Robert and Elizabeth (Watts) Espy, who lived in Cherokee County, and of Robert and Mary Dawkins, who lived at Lawrenceville; great-grandson of Captain Samuel Espy, a Revolutionary soldier, who was wounded at the battle of King's Mountain. J. B. Espy received his early education at Lawrenceville; in 1893 graduated with the degree of A. B., at Howard college; graduated, 1894, M. S., at the Alabama polytechnic institute, Auburn; and also attended summer schools at the University of Tennessee. He is a teacher; has been agriculturist of the South East Alabama agricultural school since 1895; in 1898 was elected to the position of superintendent of education for Henry County, and again in 1900. He is a Democrat; a Baptist; and a Mason. Married: February 15, 1899, at Abbeville, to Ella Carrie, daughter of Christopher and Nancy Ward, of that place. Children: 1. Christopher Ward. Residence: Abbeville.

ESPY, JOHN JOLLY, business man and State legislator, was born April 11, 1878, in Henry County; son of Thomas F. and Francis (Searcy) Espy, and brother of Thomas Marion Espy (q. v.). He was educated in the common schools of Henry County; studied law and was admitted to the bar by the supreme court of Alabama, 1899; practiced law at Dothan from 1900 to 1902; removed to Headland and engaged in the mercantile business; established the First national bank of Headland in 1904; and has been interested in live stock, agriculture and the fertilizer business. He served as council man of Headland, 1906-1908, and as mayor 1909 and 1910. In 1911 he was senator from the thirty-fifth district, comprising Henry and Houston Counties, and in 1915 he was a representative from Henry County in the house. He is a Democrat; Baptist; Mason; Odd Fellow; Knight of Pythias; Woodman of the World; and a Columbian Woodman. Married: December 18, 1901, at Ozark, to Emma, daughter of Major and Sarah Carroll (q. v.). Children: 1. Sarah Frances; 2. John J., jr.; 3. Major W.; 4. Josephine. Residence: Headland.

ESPY, JOSEPH SAMUEL, teacher, was born January 18, 1844, in Tallapoosa County; son of Robert Marion and Elizabeth (Watts) Espy, the former a native of Lincoln, N. C., who emigrated to Alabama and lived in Tallapoosa and Barbour Counties; grandson of Capt. Samuel and Elizabeth (Stone) Espy, the former the commander of a company in Graham's regiment during the Revolutionary War, who was wounded at the battle of King's Mountain. When he was ten years old, he moved with his parents to Barbour County, where he attended school while working on his father's plantation. Later he attended Old Field academy, near Hilliardsville, and a school at Cotton Hill, Ga. In 1862, he started a school at Eufaula, Barbour County, but soon gave it up to join the C. S. Army; enlisted in the light artillery commanded by Capt. Clark at Eufaula, with which company he served until the surrender. He then settled at Lawrenceville; attended school for a short time; taught a country school for a short time in 1866; and in the fall of that year entered Emory and Henry college, Virginia, from which institution he was graduated, A. M., 1870. He returned to Lawrenceville, Henry County, and taught a school there for eighteen consecutive years. In 1889, he accepted the principalship of the Southeast Alabama agricultural school and experiment station, located at Abbeville, and held that position for many years. He is a Democrat and a Baptist. Married: October 2, 1870, Sarah Elizabeth, daughter of Robert Hardy and Mary Dawkins, who lived at Lawrenceville. Children: 1. James Buhrman (q. v.), m. Ella Ward, Abbeville; 2. W. W., Cordele, Ga.; 3. A. C., m. Lela Wright, Savannah, Ga.; 4. Clara Elizabeth, m. C. H. Strickland; 5. Lulu Vivian, m. John W. Daniels, Americus, Ga.; 6. Joseph Samuel, m. Miss A. J. Fenn, Cordele, Ga.; 7. Daisy Mary, m. John T. McArthur, Moultrie, Ga.; 8. William D., Dothan. Residence: Abbeville.

ESPY, THOMAS BENTON, Baptist minister, was born February 13, 1837, in Cass, now Bartow County, Ga., and died February 7, 1881, at Little Rock, Ark.; son of Thomas Espy, of Lincoln County, N. C., who moved to Cherokee County in 1849; grandson of Samuel Espy, of Lincoln County, N. C., who was a captain in the Revolutionary Army, and was wounded at the battle of King's Mountain. He received his education in the common schools of Cherokee County, and spent two years at Howard college, at Marion. He left college at the time of the death of his father, in order to take charge of the estate. He engaged in the mercantile business until 1858, when he entered the ministry of the Baptist church. He was ordained in December, 1861, and in February of the following year entered the C. S. Army, as a private in Co. A, Thirty-first Alabama infantry regiment. On the reorganization of the regiment, he was elected chaplain, and held that position until the close of the war, surrendering with Gen. Johnston. He was pastor at Athens for two years; moved to Little Rock, Ark., in 1868, and became pastor of the First Baptist church; moved to Pleasant Hill, Lonoke County, Ark., in 1871, and was pastor there until 1874; in 1873, in connection with Elder T. P. Boone of Searcy, established the "Western Baptist," which was then printed at Searcy; moved to Cabot in 1874, preached one Sunday a month, and continued his editorial work; returned to Little Rock, Ark., in 1876, where the paper was afterward published; subsequently was engaged in travelling in the interest of the paper and the State work; served the church at Conway about three years, until the close of 1879, preaching only one Sunday a month; gave up pastoral work entirely in 1888, and devoted his whole time to travelling for the paper, the publication of which had been suspended in 1879, and which was to come out again under the name of "The Evangel." He had been elected editor of "The Evangel" by the board of directors, but died before the first issue of the paper. During the time of the suspension of the "Western Baptist," he was connected with the "Baptist Reflector," and with the "American Baptist Flag," at St. Louis, Mo. He was a Democrat. Married: December 4, 1861, in Cherokee County, to Elizabeth Mercy Reeves. Children: 1. Adonirom Judson; 2. James; 3. Bessie Reeves; 4. Sarah Rousseau; 5. Alabama Georgia. Last residence: Little Rock, Ark.

ESPY, THOMAS MARION, lawyer, member constitutional convention and legislator, was born April 2, 1862, in Henry County; son of Thomas Franklin and Frances B. (Searcy) Espy, the former a farmer and teacher, served four years in the C. S. Army, and was a member of the house of representatives, 1876 and 1896; grandson of Robert and Elizabeth Espy and of James and Axia (Norwood) Searcy, the latter a member of the Alabama senate in 1853; brother of John Jolly Espy (q. v.). Mr. Espy was educated at Lawrenceville; admitted to the bar in 1885, and has practiced at Columbia and Dothan; delegate to the constitutional convention of 1901, and served as a member of the judiciary committee; represented Henry County in the house, 1903. He is a Democrat. Married: (1) October 18, 1892, in Henry County, to Anna Clark, daughter of Thomas J. and Jane Farmer, of Shorterville; (2) September 10, 1899, to Marie Louise, daughter of Rev. George E. Brewer, at one time chaplain for convicts. Residence: Dothan.

ESSELMAN, GEORGE W., deputy grand high priest, grand chapter Masons, 1837.

ESTES, JAMES ALBERT, lawyer, was born October 14, 1860, in Fayette County; son of C. B. Estes. He was raised on his father's farm, and attended school only about five or six months. When he was fifteen years of age, he practically took charge of the farm, working there in the daytime, and sitting up until the dead hours of the night to study in a little house at the edge of the yard prepared especially for his use. He soon mastered the essentials of an education; taught school for a time; moved to Walker County in 1884 with an elder brother and started the town of Day's Gap, now known as Oakman, where he engaged in the merchandising business; retired from that business to assist in the construction of the Kansas City, Memphis & Birmingham railroad; returned to the merchandising business at Day's Gap upon the completion of his engagement, and at the same time taught school. He remained in that place until 1890, when he removed to Bessemer with his business. His wife took charge of the store, releasing Mr. Estes to take up the study of law undisturbed. He was admitted to the bar, July 1, 1893, and closed out the merchandising business soon after. Upon the establishment of the city court at Bessemer, he received the appointment of solicitor, which position he held in addition to conducting an extensive common law practice. He is a Democrat. Residence: Bessemer.

ETHERIDGE, JOHN W., farmer, was born July 30, 1810, in North Carolina, and died January 4, 1897, at Belleville, Conecuh County; son of Malachi and Margaret (Wheatly) Etheridge, natives of Edgefield District, S. C., and Georgia, respectively, who moved to Alabama in 1818, and were the first inhabitants of a small settlement eleven miles below Brooklyn, founded on the Conecuh River. He became a farmer and stock raiser on the old homestead until 1860, when he moved with his family to Belleville. He took an active part in defeating the Republicans in the last days of reconstruction, and in 1870 was regarded as the most available man to defeat the Republican party for the legislature. He defeated William P. Miller in the ensuing election, representing Conecuh County in the State legislature during the sessions of 1870 and 1872. He held the office of census enumerator of the county in 1870. He was a Democrat and a Master Mason, having been a member of the Masonic order for more than forty years. Married: October 7, 1841, near Brooklyn, Lucinda Susan, born October 8, 1824, daughter of Thomas and Mary (Caldwell) Mendenhall, granddaughter of Sarah Underwood. Children: 1. Mary Jane, m. Mack Thomas Johnston, both deceased, last residence, Brooklyn; 2. Malachi Wheatly, deceased, m. Sarah Adelaide Darby, Evergreen; 3. Margaret Eliza, m. Batts Mitchel Johnson, Castlebury; 4. Sarah Elizabeth, Evergreen, m. John Absalom McCreary, deceased; 5. Nancy Josephine, m. William Elihu Liverman, Arkadelphia, Ark.; 6. Thomas William, deceased, m. Nannie Beadley, Pensacola, Fla.; 7. James Walter, m. Maggie Donald Burnett, Belleville; 8. George Washington, m. (1) Anna Coker Lide, (2) Martha Smith, Panama, Fla.; 9. Martha Eugenia, m. John Samuel Beadley, Belleville; 10. Lulu Bell, m. Percy Walker Johnston, Brooklyn. Last residence: Belleville.

ETHRIDGE, E. R., first president of the State normal college, Troy. Residence: Fort Payne.

EUBANK, ALFRED, dentist, was born September 18, 1851, in Jefferson County; son of William Carroll and Eliza (Hickman) Eubank, natives of Jefferson County, members of early pioneer families, the former of whom is said to have been the first white child born in that county. He received his early education in the common schools of the county, and at the age of seventeen, began to study medicine under Dr. M. H. Jordan. He entered the Dental college of Baltimore, and was graduated from that school in 1874. He located in Birmingham, where he opened his dental practice. Since 1882, he has been associated with his brother, George Eubank (q. v.), under the firm name of Eubank brothers. He helped organize, and has served as president of the Alabama State dental association; and was a member and organizer of the first dental examining board in the state. He is a member of the Southern dental association; is a Democrat; an Episcopalian; and a Mason. Married: June, 1873, Sarah E., daughter of James and Sarah Brown, of Jefferson, a descendant of the Rutledge family who emigrated to America during the early colonial period. Children: 1. Minnie B.; 2. Kate; 3. Lucy; 4. Emma; and two children who are deceased. Residence: Birmingham.

EUBANK, GEORGE, dentist, was born August 17, 1861, near Birmingham; son of William Carroll and Eliza (Hickman) Eubank, natives of Jefferson County, members of pioneer families of that county, the former of whom was one of the first white children born in that territory, and served as sheriff, tax collector and assessor of Jefferson County. He obtained his early education in the common schools of the county, studied dentistry under his elder brother, Dr. Alfred Eubank (q. v.), for two years; entered Harvard university in the fall of 1879, studied both dentistry and medicine in that institution, and was graduated in 1882. The same year he formed a co-partnership with his brother, under the firm name of Eubank brothers, in Birmingham. He was vice-president of the Dental association of Alabama and Tennessee in 1885; has served two terms of five years as president of the Alabama State dental association; and is a member of the state board of dental examiners. He is president of the Birmingham

Rod and Gun club; is a member of the Episcopal church; a Mason; and an Elk. Married: April 29, 1885, Cammie C., daughter of Crawford Blackwood, of Mobile. Children: 1. George, jr.; 2. William C. Residence: Birmingham.

EVANS, AURELIUS AUGUSTUS, lawyer, judge third judicial circuit, justice Alabama supreme court, member of State board of equalization, was born December 24, 1862, near Seale, Russell County; son of John Quincy and Frances Elizabeth (Collier) Evans, the former a native of Edgefield District, S. C., came to Georgia and lived in Greene and Monroe Counties until the winter of 1859, when he removed to Russell County, Ala., where he lived until his death in 1883; grandson of John Evans and of Vines and Sarah Collier, the former came to Greene County, Ala., prior to 1830 with his family, the latter came from Virginia to Upson County, Ga. Judge Evans was educated in the common schools of Russell County, and at the University of Alabama, where he graduated A. B., 1885, receiving the honorary A. M., in 1888. For four years following graduation he was engaged in teaching, reading law in the meantime. On November 1, 1889, after an examination in open court by Chancellor John A. Foster, was admitted to the bar and has since practiced at Clayton and Montgomery. He was a member of the town council of Clayton for several years, and mayor of the same place, 1896-98. In the latter year was elected judge of the third judicial circuit, and re-elected in 1904, serving until his appointment to the supreme court in 1909. At the expiration of his term in 1911, he was appointed a member of the State tax commission, serving in this capacity until 1915. He is now a member of the State board of equalization. He is a Democrat, and has served as a member of his county executive committee, delegate to the State conventions of his party, and of the Democratic national convention of 1904. He is a Methodist and a Mason. Married: December 27, 1888, at Opelika, to Celeste Victoria, daughter of Judge George H. and Celesta Roberta Waddell, of Crawford, Russell County, the former was at one time probate judge of Russell County, and was killed at Columbus, Ga., while the Federal troops were occupying that city in 1865. Mrs. Evans is the great-great-granddaughter of Gen. Francis Nash, a Revolutionary patriot from North Carolina, and a cousin of the late James Tredell Waddell, commander of the "Shenandoah" during the war of Secession. Children: 1. Frances Isabelle; 2. Robert; 3. Aurelius Augustus, Jr.; and three other adopted children of his brother Thomas H. Evans who married his wife's sister. Residence: Montgomery.

EVANS, FRANK VALLATLON, accountant, journalist, and mayor, was born November 25, 1850, near Fayetteville, Cumberland County, N. C.; son of John and Frances (Knight) Evans, the former of Cumberland County, N. C., the latter of Augusta County, Ga.; grandson of Enoch and Elizabeth (Vallatlon) Knight, who were of French descent, but who lived at Augusta, Ga.; great-grandson of Jonathan Evans, who came from Wales to Pennsylvania early in the eighteenth century, later moving to North Carolina. He received his education in the primary schools of Florida and later attended the Florida military academy and Bowdon college. He is a journalist and accountant. He founded the "Daily-Age" the predecessor of the "Age-Herald" in Birmingham in 1882; the "Birmingham Chronicle" in 1886; the "Meridian, Miss., Press," in 1903, and was formerly one of the proprietors of the "Walker County News" of Jasper. He served as city clerk and treasurer of Albany, Ga., 1878-1880; was city clerk, treasurer and auditor of Birmingham, 1885-1895; and mayor of Birmingham, December, 1896, to May, 1899. In 1911 he was appointed an examiner of accounts by Governor O'Neal, resigning in 1913, to enter business in Birmingham. He is a Democrat; a Presbyterian. Author: a number of descriptive pamphlets and booklets and contributions to the newspapers. Married: (1) January 14, 1875, at Statesboro, Ga., to Louisa C., daughter of George W. and Adeline (Greene) Hill of Cartersville, Ga., the latter a direct descendant of Gen. Nathaniel Greene of the Revolution; (2) to Sarah E., daughter of Gaston H. and Sarah E. Wilder. Children: by first wife: 1. Frank, d. unmarried; 2. John; 3. George; 4. Addie; 5. Callie. Residence: Birmingham.

EVANS, GEORGE ALEXANDER, lawyer, was born March 31, 1849, at Columbus, Lowndes County, Miss., and died June 9, 1908, at Birmingham; son of Richard and Hannah Sherman (Stanton) Evans, the former a native of Greenville, Pitt County, N. C., was a lawyer at Columbus, Miss., and served as school commissioner for several years; grandson of Benjamin and Sarah (Sheffield) Stanton, who lived at South Kingston, R. I. Thomas Stanton, the progenitor of the Stanton family in this country, was an early settler of Rhode Island, where he was granted large tracts of land in King's Province, now Narragansett, by the Crown. The Evans family was introduced into America by two brothers, Richard and George Evans, who emigrated from Wales about 1830, to Bath, Beaufort County, N. C., bringing with them from England the materials for an Episcopal church, the ruins of which are still to be found in North Carolina. Mr. Evans obtained his schooling in Columbus, Miss., and in Hillsboro, N. C. He enlisted in a cavalry company of the C. S. Army when he was fourteen years old, and was captured with the company, en route from Columbus. He entered the law office of his father when he was fifteen years old, was admitted to the bar in Columbus, Miss., and practiced law in that city in partnership with Judge James M. Arnold, who resigned the position of chief justice of Mississippi to enter the firm. After practicing in that city for twenty-five years, the firm of Arnold & Evans moved to Birmingham and opened a law office in that place. Mr. Evans was a Democrat; an Episcopalian; a Knight Templar; a Knight of Pythias; and an Odd Fellow. Married: in 1869, in Vaiden, Miss., Emily, daughter of John E. and Elizabeth (Vaiden) Phillips; granddaughter of Joseph C. M. Vaiden, who moved from Virginia to the Delta country of Mississippi, accumulating vast areas of delta land and hundreds of slaves. Children: 1. Richard Vaiden (q. v.); 2. John Phillips, m. Fannie Randolph. Last residence: Birmingham.

EVANS, GEORGE RYAN, lawyer, was born January 1, 1807, in Greene County, N. C., and died June 18, 1850, at Cahaba; son of Benjamin and Catharine (Sheppard) Evans, who came to Alabama about 1818, and settled in Claiborne, Monroe County. He acquired a fair education in Claiborne, and after his father's death in 1824, obtained a situation as a school teacher. He taught for three or four years; studied medicine for two years; resumed his teaching, and read law during the same time. Admitted to the bar, he opened a law office in Cahaba in 1834. The same year, he was elected by the general assembly judge of the county court to succeed Judge Clinton. He held that office for two years; succeeded B. C. Yancey as register in chancery for that district in 1839; held that office until 1843 when he was elected to represent Dallas County in the State legislature. Following his term in that body, he devoted all his time to his profession until his death in 1850. Married: Miss Arthur, who resides with his daughters in Dallas County. Last residence: Cahaba.

EVANS, MAT RYAN, planter, was born April 23, 1809, in Union District, S. C., and died August 27, 1868, in Mobile; son of Thomas and Martha (Crenshaw) Evans, of South Carolina. He was educated in the schools of his community, and removed to Muscogee County, Ga., in the early thirties, where he engaged in planting, and later built, in the suburbs of Columbus, a large residence which is now occupied by the Howard family. He acquired an extensive plantation on the Chattahoochee River, near Oswitchee, to which he removed. In 1848 he located near San Antonio, Tex., to engage in sheep raising. In 1852 he returned to Alabama, and established a residence at Mobile, where he engaged in the cotton business. He was a Democrat; and a Methodist. Married: July 15, 1834, Sarah Skrine, daughter of John and Jane (Crenshaw) Howard, who moved from Milledgeville to Columbus, Ga., and were the descendants of the Crenshaw and Howard families of South Carolina and Georgia. Children: 1. Augusta Jane (q. v.), m. L. M. Wilson, of Mobile; 2. John Howard, unm. lives in Mobile; 3. Vivian Rutherford, m. Fannie White; 4. Carolina Cooper, m. Col. Bush Jones (q. v.); 5. Sarah, m. J. W. Bush (q. v.), of Birmingham; 6. Mary Eliza, m. Leo Tarleton, N. Y.; 7. Randolph Crenshaw, m. Claire Hamlin, of Mobile; 8. Anna Virginia, m. Braxton Bragg, son of Judge John Bragg (q. v.). Last residence: Mobile.

EVANS, OWEN, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 78, and a resident of Morgan County; corporal S. C. Continental Line; enrolled on September 17, 1825, under act of Congress of March 18, 1818; payment to date from November 4, 1825; annual allowance, $96; sums received to date of publication of list, $128.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34.

EVANS, RICHARD VAIDEN, lawyer and circuit judge, was born August 16, 1871, at Vaiden, Carroll County, Miss.; son of George Alexander and Emily (Phillips) Evans (q. v.), the former a lawyer of Columbus, Miss., later of Birmingham; grandson of Richard and Hannah (Stanton) Evans, the former a native of North Carolina who removed to Columbus, Miss., where he practiced law, and of Edmund and Elizabeth (Vaiden) Phillips, the former a native of Charles City County, Va., who later removed to Vaiden, Miss., and who served from Mississippi in the C. S. Army. Judge Evans received his early education in the public and private schools of Columbus, Miss.; attended a preparatory school at Oxford, Miss.; and spent three years, 1887-90, at the University of Alabama. He later studied law in the offices of his father. He commenced the practice in Birmingham, 1892; removed to New York City, 1898, and returned to Birmingham, 1909. He was city attorney of Birmingham, 1895-96; appointed judge of the court of appeals, 1916; appointed special assistant attorney general of the State, 1919; appointed November 22, 1919, and elected in May, 1920, circuit judge of Birmingham. He is a Democrat; an Episcopalian; Mason; Knight Templar, and an Odd Fellow. Author: the compiler of a number of the early volumes of North Carolina reports. Married: September 6, 1905, at Birmingham, to Rebecca Durr, daughter of William and Elizabeth (Talar) Berney; great-granddaughter of Dr. James and Jane (Safford) Berney; great-great-granddaughter of Chief Justice Reuben Safford (q. v.). Children: 1. William Berney; 2. Richard Evans. Residence: Birmingham.

EVANS, WILLIAM AUGUSTUS, physician, was born August 5, 1865, at Marion, Perry County; son of William Augustus and Julia Josephine (Wyatt) Evans, the former born near Madison, Morgan County, Ga., who lived at Aberdeen, Miss., from 1840 until his death, and was a surgeon in the C. S. Army, attending the army hospital at Marion; grandson of William Gilbert and Adaline (Heard) Evans, natives respectively, of Wilkes and Morgan Counties, Ga., who lived at Aberdeen, Miss., the latter a member of the Stephen Heard family which settled in Georgia from Ireland, before the Revolutionary War; and of William Newton and Elizabeth (Miller) Wyatt, who lived at Marion, the latter a descendant of the Millers, Blasingames and McGowans, English and Scotch families who settled in North Carolina; great-grandson of William Evans, of the Evans family which came to Virginia from Wales in the seventeenth century, and whose descendants went to Georgia at the beginning of the nineteenth century, and of Elijah Wyatt, a native of Abbeville District, S. C., whose family came from England and settled in Virginia in the early colonial days. Dr. Evans attended the public schools of Aberdeen, Miss.; graduated from the Agricultural and Mechanical college of Mississippi, B. S., 1883, and M. S., 1898, from Tulane university, Louisiana, M. D., 1885, from the medical department of the University of Illinois, M. D., 1889, from the University of Michigan, D. P. H., 1911; and received the degree of LL. D. from Tulane university, 1909. He practiced medicine at Aberdeen, Miss., 1885-1891, and has practiced in Chicago, Ill., since that time. He was demonstrator of pathology, 1891-1895, and professor, 1895-1908, at the University of Illinois college of medicine, Chicago, Ill.; health commissioner of Chicago, 1907-1911; professor of hygiene, Northwestern university medical school since 1908; pathologist, Cook County Hospital; consulting pathologist, Alexian brothers hospital; health editor of the Chicago "Tribune"; member of the National society for the study and prevention of tuberculosis; of the Columbus medical laboratory; of the American medical association; member and president, 1892-1893, of the Chicago medical society; former president of the Illinois society for the prevention of tuberculosis; president, 1916-1917, of the American public health association; member of the National drainage congress; of the National mouth hygiene association; of the American association for the prevention of infant mortality; of the Lake Michigan water association; of the Committee of Fifteen of Chicago; of the Committee on Smoke abatement of Chicago; of the Chicago tuberculosis institute; secretary of the Infant welfare association of Chicago; chairman of the National commission on milk standards; member of Chicago vice commission. Dr. Evans served as first sergeant of the Aberdeen Guards, 1885-1886, and as major and surgeon, First cavalry, Illinois national guard, 1908-1911. He is author of "Notes on Pathology," "Practical Medicine Series," "Pathology," and "How to Keep Well." He is a Progressive; a Baptist; a Knight Templar; and a Shriner. Married: November 20, 1907, in Chicago, Ill., to Idamay, daughter of Richard Crump and Kate (Robertson) Wilkinson, who lived at Bolivar, Tenn., the former of whom served four years in the C. S. Army; granddaughter of Martha (Wynne) Wilkinson, and of Amanda (Craig) Robertson, of near Franklin, Tenn. The Wilkinson family came from South Carolina to Bolivar, Tenn., and the Robertsons came to central Tennessee from Georgia. Residence: Chicago, Ill.

EVERHART, ADELAIDE, artist, was born in Charlotte, N. C.; daughter of Rev. George Marlow and Cornelia Adelaide (Banner) Everhart (q. v.); granddaughter of William and Susan (deKalb) Everhart, of Leesburg, Va., the former a planter, and brother of Lawrence Everhart who served with distinction in the Revolutionary Army, the latter a kinswoman of Baron deKalb, and of Constantine Ladd and Mary (Bowman) Banner, of Salem, N. C., the former a planter and one of the first promoters of public schools in North Carolina, the latter a first cousin of Judge William Preston Bynum, a judge of the supreme court of North Carolina; great-granddaughter of Christian Everhart who came to America from Wurtemberg, Germany, a descendant of Duke Eberhardt of the reigning house, and Dr. Andrew Bowman, a graduate of the University of Dublin, Ireland, whose ancestors were Huguenot refugees from France, of the original name of Beaumont; great-great-granddaughter of Margaret (Hampton) Bynum, sister of Gen. Wade Hampton of the Revolutionary Army. Miss Everhart was educated at Kemper hall, Kenosha, Wis.; was graduated at Hamner hall, Montgomery, Ala., and at Bartholomew school, Cincinnati, O.; and obtained her professional education at the Cincinnati art school, and at the Art students' league, New York City. She opened an art studio at Montgomery, later moved to Atlanta, Ga., and still later, located in Decatur, Ga. She has painted portraits of Gen. William Wirt Allen, major general of the C. S. Army, and of Maj. Henry R. Shorter, both owned by the Department of archives and history, and located in the Alabama State Capitol; of Hon. Charles F. Crisp, speaker of the national house of representatives, of Gov. John Marshall Slaton, in 1910, as ex-speaker of the Georgia house of representatives, and of Gov. Slaton, in 1911, as ex-president of the senate, all owned by the State of Georgia, and located in the Georgia State Capitol; of Mrs. Livingston Mims, Christian Science leader, owned by the Prospective museum of art in Atlanta, and located in the Carnegie Library; of Capt. Austin Davis, naval officer killed on duty at Tien Tsin, in 1898, owned by the City of Atlanta, and located in the Carnegie Library; of Mrs. Jennie L. Byers, a prominent daughter of the Revolution, owned by the Atlanta Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution, and located in the chapter house; of Robert F. Maddox, and Stewart Woodson, both ex-presidents chamber of commerce, owned by and located in the Atlanta chamber of commerce; of J. W. Rucker, president Maddox Rucker bank, owned and located in the American national bank; of Dr. A. W. Calhoun, oculist, owned by Dr. Phinzy Calhoun, and located in the office of the latter in Atlanta; and of William Preston Bynum, former student of the University of North Carolina, owned by the University of North Carolina, and located in the Bynum memorial gymnasium. Her original paintings include the "Feast of Roses," owned by and located in the Capital City club of Atlanta; the "Betrothal of Pomona and Vertumnus," "Ceres and Proserpine," "Nymphs of Bacchus," "Hebe," and "Dream Lilies," owned by Mrs. Delos A. Blodgett, of Grand Rapids, Mich., and Daytona, Fla.; copy of Guida's "Aurora," owned by and located in the Capitol City club of Atlanta. She has illustrated "Roses of Saint Elizabeth," by Jane Scott Woodruff; "Gabriel and the Hour Book," by Evaleen Stein; "Clementina's Highwayman," by Robert Neilson Stephens; and "Miss Billy, Married," by Eleanor H. Porter. Residence: Decatur, Ga.

GENERAL LOUIS V. CLARK

EVERHART, GEORGE MARLOW, Episcopal minister, was born February 9, 1826, in Loudoun County, Va., and died in 1891, at Decatur, Ga.; son of William and Susan (Kalb) Everhart, natives of Loudoun County, Va.; grandson of Christian and Maria Labilla (Greier) Everhart, who lived at Frandenthal, Germany, until they emigrated to this country where they lived first in Pennsylvania, and later in Virginia, and of John and Susannah Kalb, who lived at Loudoun County, Va. He was prepared at Dr. Hagerty's academy, Leesburg, Va., and at Dickinson college, Carlisle, Pa.; was graduated from Emory and Henry college, Virginia, A. B., 1852, and later, A. M. He studied theology under Rt. Rev. A. C. Cox in Baltimore, 1859-1860, and was ordained a priest in the Episcopal church in 1861. The degree of S. T. D. was conferred upon Dr. Everhart by Columbia college, New York, in 1871. He was principal of the Masonic institute at Germantown, North Carolina, 1852-1854; was president of Huntsville female college, 1854-1859; president of the Nashville female academy, Tennessee, in 1860; rector of Calvary church, Louisville, Ky., until the beginning of the War of Secession; rector of St. Peter's Episcopal church, Charlotte, N. C., during the war, and served as an irregular in hospital work and on battlefields, joining the army whenever a big battle was imminent; was rector of St. John's church, Louisville, Ky., 1868-1872; organizer and rector of Kemper Hall diocese school for Girls, Kenosha, Wis., 1872-1878; rector of Hammer Hall diocese school for girls, Montgomery, 1879-1889; did mission work and established churches during this time at Greenville, Prattville, Opelika; moved permanently to Decatur, Ga., in 1899, but continued his work in Opelika and his connection with the Diocese of Alabama until the time of his death.

On April 23, 1865, Dr. Everhart preached before Jefferson Davis, his cabinet, and many of the chief officers of the C. S. Army, who at that time sought refuge in Charlotte, N. C. It was the last sermon heard by President Davis previous to his capture. During the war, Dr. Everhart published and edited the "Church Intelligencer," at Charlotte, the only church paper published in the South during that period. He was author of "Josephine and Other Poems," published by Harper & Brothers, New York, 1858. He was a Knight Templar. Married: in 1853, at Germantown, N. C., Cornelia Adelaide, daughter of Constantine Ladd and Mary (Bowman) Banner, who lived at Salem, N. C.; granddaughter of Dr. Andrew Bowman of North Carolina; cousin of Gen. Wade Hampton of South Carolina, who fought in the War of Secession, and of W. P. Bowman, a justice of the supreme court of North Carolina; and a descendant of William Hampton who came to Virginia from England in 1620. Children: 1. Dr. Edgar, A. M., Ph. D., m. Elfrida Keller, Atlanta medical college, Atlanta, Ga.; 2. Mary Sue (q. v.), m. Robert Cunningham, Decatur, Ga.; 3. George Marlow, jr., deceased; 4. Henry Banner, Decatur, Ga.; 5. Adelaide (q. v.); 6. Lay Hampton, lieutenant commander, U. S. Navy, Decatur, Ga.; 7. Emily Ethel, deceased; 8. Lawrence, m. Mary Pearl Powell, Atlanta medical college, Atlanta, Ga. Last residence: Decatur, Ga.

EVERITT, JOHN FAGAN, public official, was born March 15, 1784, in Georgia, and died June 23, 1842, in Mobile; son of John and Sarah Everett. After his first marriage, Mr. Everitt moved to what was then the Territory of Alabama, and took an active part in the Creek Indian War, in the southern campaign of which he served as a captain in the regular army. He resided for several years at St. Stephens, the territorial seat of government, and afterwards moved to Mobile where he resided until his death. He was elected mayor of Mobile three different times; frequently represented Mobile County in the State legislature; and at the time of his death was serving as judge of the county court and judge of probate in Mobile. He was a Whig. A contemporary has said of him, "He was a martial man. He had one fault; he never knew when he was whipped. He had an indomitable will and energy and only needed a larger field to become a man of great renown. He could not tolerate the least tendency toward an untruth, and was of the strictest integrity." An instance of his hardy common-sense and love of justice is often referred to at the present day in the Alabama courts. A bank brought a suit in his court on a promissory note. Being without any defense, the counsel for the defendant pleaded the unconstitutionality of the bank's charter. Judge Everitt heard the argument for a while, but getting out of patience, interrupted the counsel, saying he did not want to hear any more. "The defendant," said he, "borrowed the money from the bank and gave his note for it, didn't he?" "Yes, your honor," was the reply, "but——" "Well," said the judge, again interrupting, "if it was constitutional for him to borrow the money, it's constitutional for him to pay it back."

Married: (1) Sarah Ann Lester Mitchell; (2) Sarah, born May 11, 1797, died July 2, 1824, daughter of Obadiah and Sarah (Britton) Hand, granddaughter of Capt. Samuel Hand, of New Jersey and New Brunswick; (3) Ann Blount Slade. Children, by first marriage: 1. Hannah, m. Dr. J. F. Roberts, Mobile; 2. Jane Independence, m. John W. Townsend, of New York, children, Amelia, m. Bishop H. N. McTyeire, D. D. (q. v.), and Emma J., m. H. P. Vass; by second marriage, 3. Mary Elizabeth, b. November 6, 1816, m. Augustus Brooks, d. of paralysis in 1878, leaving eight children; 4. Enoch, b. September 8, 1818, d. 1854, m. Florida Duval, daughter of Gov. Duval of Florida; 5. Martha Eliza, b. March 22, 1820, m. February 5, 1835, Robert L. Crawford, daughter, Frank A., resides in New York, m. Commodore Cornelius Vanderbilt, deceased; 6. Jack Ross, b. March 10, 1822, m. Antionette Garcia, daughter of a Spanish captain whose life he caused to be spared when taken prisoner, died leaving eight children; 7. Dinkins, d. June 20, 1824; by third marriage, 8. Margaret, m. Simon Jones, a tea merchant of California; 9. Helen B., m. Mr. Potter, a lawyer of Texas; 10. Fannie M., m. Mr. Shallenberger, of California; 11. John F., d. in childhood. Last residence: Mobile.

EVINS, ROBERT BENSON, lawyer and legislator, was born March 31, 1875, near Marion, Perry County; son of Robert Hamilton and Martha Amelia (Thompson) Evins (q. v.); grandson of James Gilliland and Mary (Moore) Evins, the former a native of South Carolina, who came to Perry County in 1830, was a planter and member of the Alabama legislature, and of John Ford and Mary Eleanor (Benson) Thompson, the former a surveyor, business man, brigadier-general, Alabama State troops; great-great-grandson of Alexander Evins, who came to America from Wales, settled in Spartanburg County, S. C., soldier in the Revolutionary War, serving under Anthony Wayne at the capture of Stony Point, where he was severely wounded, and of Thomas Moore, of Spartanburg County, S. C., major-general in the War of 1812, served for many sessions in both houses of the South Carolina legislature, and as a representative in congress from South Carolina, 1815-17. He is the great-nephew on his mother's side of Gov. Andrew Barry Moore of Alabama. Mr. Evins received his early education in the country schools of Perry County, and attended Marion institute, Marion, 1887-89, but did not complete the graduate course. He took a course at Eastman business college, Poughkeepsie, N. Y., 1891, later read law privately, was admitted to the bar before Judge John Moore, at Marion, March 8, 1895, and located at Greensboro. He is a member of the bar of the supreme court of the United States, and during 1911-15, was legal adviser to the governor. He was elected to the State senate from the thirty-second senatorial district composed of Greene and Hale counties, 1919, and is the author of the present child labor law of Alabama, of the anti-strike law; and the resolution to reject the proposed 19th amendment to the U. S. constitution granting woman suffrage. He was of counsel in litigation that successfully attacked the constitutionality of the income tax law passed by the legislature of Alabama, 1919; chairman of all war activities in Hale County, 1917-18. He is a member of the American bar association. He is a Democrat; Episcopalian; and Mason. Married: November 12, 1913, at Bluefield, West Va., to Florence Elizabeth, daughter of James Edward and Amanda (Hutchinson) Mann, of that place, the former organizer and president of the First national bank of Bluefield, the bank of Bramwell, and other banks in Virginia and West Virginia. Her father is descended from Sir Walter Mann of England, and her great-great-grandfather Hutchinson was aid on General Washington's staff during the Revolutionary War. Residence: Greensboro.

EVINS, ROBERT HAMILTON, planter, was born March 27, 1845, at Marion; son of James Gilliland and Mary Barry (Moore) Evins. He was educated in the schools of Marion and spent 1862-63 at the University of Alabama; served as corporal in the "Cadet Troop" Rucker's escort, Forrest's cavalry, C. S. Army. From 1886-88, he was deputy collector of internal revenue; and from 1888 to 1904 was circuit clerk of Perry County; is now a planter in Perry County. Married: January 20, 1874, at Marion, to Martha Amelia Thompson of that place. Residence: Marion.

EWING, WHITLEY THOMAS, physician, was born December 28, 1823, in Washington County, Va.; son of Samuel and Mary (Davis) Ewing who lived in Virginia, the former of whom died in that state in 1825. When he was fifteen years of age, he went west, stopping first at Rogersville, Tenn., then traveling through Alabama to Memphis, and down the river to Arkansas. From Arkansas, he drifted into Louisiana, then joined his brother, William Ewing, at Quincy, Ill. He attended the Manual labor school at Quincy for four years, then entered Marietta college, Ohio. To pay his expenses while at college, he kept books and taught school in the neighborhood of Marietta. After he finished college, he returned to Quincy and began to study medicine under Dr. Stahl. He took a course of medical training at Jacksonville, Ill., and was graduated from the St. Louis medical college, M. D., 1848. He practiced in St. Louis, Mo., for two years, then went to California, where he entered practice, and for some time conducted a hospital between Hangtown and Cold Springs. He returned to St. Louis in 1855, remained there for eight months, then moved south to Cass County, Ga., where he practiced medicine for eight years. Before the War of Secession he was a Democrat of the old Jackson school, and during the canvass of 1860 took strong ground in favor of Stephen A. Douglas for the presidency. When the question of secession came up, he took an active stand in favor of the Union. Because of his support of the Union, he was compelled to leave Georgia in 1862, and from that time until his death, resided in Gadsden. He was a representative in the constitutional convention of 1867 from the thirty-fifth elective district, Etowah County; served as postmaster from 1866-1885, and was chairman of the executive committee of the Republican party for the seventh congressional district during almost that entire period. His chief deputy during his entire incumbency as postmaster, was an old line Whig, acting with the Democrats. He was a Presbyterian and a Mason. Married: August 24, 1855, in St. Louis, Mo., Hannah I. Pettengill, who was born in Massachusetts and died June, 1886. Children: 1. Arthur E., a graduate of Dartmouth college, who finished his education in Germany, a member of the firm of Green, Post and Ewing, oculists and aurists, St. Louis; 2. Munetta J., m. William P. Shaban, merchant, Attalla; 3. Charles W., in company with J. S. Paden, merchant, Gadsden; 4. Stella M.; 5. Thomas G., broker, Gadsden. Last residence: Gadsden.

EYSTER, JOHN CHARLES, lawyer, was born April 22, 1863, at Allegheny City, Allegheny County, Pa.; son of William S. and Alice (McKerahan) Eyster. He spent two sessions at the third ward school in Allegheny, Pa., and attended common schools at Moulton, Ala. He worked on a farm until he was seventeen years of age; read law under Judge Peters and was admitted to the bar on April 25, 1881; practiced at Moulton until March, 1888, when he removed to New Decatur, now Albany, where he has since resided. He was appointed register in chancery for Lawrence County, February, 1885; reappointed in March, 1886, and resigned March 12, 1888; was elected a delegate from Morgan County to constitutional convention of 1901. He is a Democrat; a Methodist. Married: June 16, 1887, at Verona, Miss., to Annie Laura Daugherty. Residence: Decatur.

F

FABER, H. E., mayor of Montgomery, 1870 to 1875; father of Charles D. Faber. Deceased. Last residence: Montgomery.

FABER, WILLIAM, soldier of the American Revolution, private, particular service not disclosed; enrolled on December 27, 1836; annual allowance, $100; no record of any payment having been made.—Pension Book, State Branch Bank, Mobile.

FAGAN, WILLIAM LONG, teacher and farmer, was born November 20, 1839, at Wetumpka, and died May 27, 1914, in Havana; son of Enoch and Penelope Blount (Long) Fagan, the former a native of Plymouth, Washington County, N. C., at which place he resided until he removed to Wetumpka, Ala., 1834, and from there to Marion, Perry County; grandson of Thomas and Mary (Turner) Fagan, and of William and Charlotte (Blount) Long, the former a Revolutionary soldier, and his wife, Charlotte Blount, was a descendant of early Pilgrim settlers in New England; all of Washington County, N. C.; great-grandson of Bedford Fagan, and Capt. Arthur Turner, who was a soldier of the Revolution and severely wounded in the knee at Bunker Hill, from which he was a cripple for life. The founder of the American branch of the family was Bedford Fagan, who came to the United States from Ireland in company with his brothers, Enoch and Stephen, and who settled in Washington County, N. C. He received his primary education at Judson college, and graduated from Howard college, with the degree of M. A., 1859. He was a teacher and a farmer. On May 16, 1861, he entered the Confederate service, enlisting in what was afterwards Co. K., Eighth Alabama infantry regiment, and was mustered into active service at Richmond, Va., June 9, 1861, as second lieutenant. He was severely wounded in the battle of Manassas. With the exception of the battle of Sharpsburg, he was in every battle of the Army of Northern Virginia in which his company participated. He was present at the surrender at Appomattox, April 9, 1865. In 1864, he was promoted captain of his company, and was a member of Gen. Wm. Mahone's military family from May to October, 1864. For twenty years prior to his death, he resided on his farm near Havana. He was a Democrat and a Baptist. Author: contributed much data to Col. H. A. Herbert's "History of the 8th Alabama Infantry Regiment," and wrote a series of war articles, published in the "Philadelphia Times." In 1889, he compiled and published "Southern War Songs," one of the most complete collections yet published. Married: November 30, 1874, near Greensboro, to Annie, daughter of David and Elizabeth (Williams) Avery of that place. The Avery family is of English stock, and settled in North Carolina, before the American Revolution. William Avery, the great-grandfather of Mrs. Fagan, was a captain of infantry in the Revolutionary War from Cumberland County, N. C. His brother, Alexander, was captain of cavalry and the founder of Averysboro, N. C. Children: 1. Julia, resides at Havana; 2. Albert Avery, m. Mary Elizabeth Morrison, auditor of the Gulf pipe line company, Tampico, Mexico; 3. Willie, Montevallo. Last residence: Havana.

FAIR, BARNABAS, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 76, and a resident of Tuscaloosa County; private N. C. Militia; enrolled on October 7, 1833, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $80.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34.

FAIR, DRURY, physician, was born November 20, 1811, near the town of Newberry, S. C., and died December 14, 1855, at Selma; son of William and Elizabeth (Young) Fair, the former a native of County Antrim, Ireland, who came to America with his parents in 1772; grandson of Samuel and Jane Fair and of James and Mary (Thompson) Young, all natives of Ireland. Drury Fair was one of eleven children born to his parents, several of whom became distinguished in the professional annals of Alabama and South Carolina, including Gen. Elisha Y. Fair (q. v.). He was educated at South Carolina college and graduated in medicine from the University of South Carolina, in Charleston. He located in Selma in 1839, and quickly became one of the leading physicians of that section. He was deeply sympathetic with the afflicted, and felt an especial pity for the mentally unsound. About the year 1850 he and his partner, Dr. A. G. Mabry, brought the subject of a hospital for the insane before the Medical society of Selma, which is said to have been the first effort ever made in that direction in Alabama. Dr. Mabry, who was at the time corresponding secretary of the society, entered into extensive correspondence with other medical societies of the State, and succeeded in securing a delegation from among the members to present the matter to the legislature at its approaching session. This commission met with encouragement but not success. Dr. Mabry was sent a second time, and there met a Miss Dorothy Dix, who had been long engaged in similar enterprises. Dr. Fair was a Democrat, Presbyterian, Mason and Odd Fellow. Married: May 8, 1844, in Tuscaloosa, Laura Evelyn, daughter of Wm. and Martha Ann (Posey) Aylett; granddaughter of Col. William and Mary (Macon) Aylett, descended from Sir Benjamin Aylett, confined in the Tower of London for his adherence to Charles I, and from his son, Capt. John Aylett, high sheriff of Essex, England in 1642, and who located in King William County, Va., in 1656. Col. Wm. Aylett was a member of the Virginia convention, and was commissary general of the southern department during the Revolutionary War. The mother of his wife, Mary Macon, was a daughter of Col. Augustine Moore, and seventh in descent from Sir Thomas Moore. The maternal grandmother of Col. Wm. Aylett was Unity Dandridge, nee West, who was a grand-niece of Lord Delaware and was ninth in descent from Thomas Howard, Duke of Norfolk, "Surry of Fladden Field." Her daughter, Anna, married Augustine Washington, brother of George Washington. Her daughter, Mary, married Thomas, 9th Lord Fairfax. Children: 1. William; 2. Lucy Ann, m. Capt. Augustus Poin-dexter Pifer, a Confederate soldier, lawyer, educator, president Female college at Norfolk, Va.; 3. Phillip Augustus; 4. Dandridge Young; 5. Mary Elizabeth; 6. Caroline Fitts; 7. Elizabeth White, m. (1) — Clawson, a lawyer of Yorkville, S. C., (2) — Clarke, lawyer of Atlanta, Ga.; 8. Laura Aylett, m. C. D. Barksdale, a lawyer of Laurens, S. C. Last residence: Selma.

FAIR, ELISHA YOUNG, lawyer, and minister to Belgium, was born July 4, 1809, at Prosperity, Newberry District, S. C., and died December 23, 1886, at Montgomery; son of William and Ann (Young) Fair, the former a native of Ireland, who was brought when a very young child by his parents to South Carolina, where he grew to manhood and became a wealthy planter. He was educated in the schools of his native county, and graduated from the South Carolina college, Columbia, about 1830. He was educated for the bar at the same institution. He entered upon the practice in Montgomery about 1835, and attained success in his profession. In 1856 he was appointed minister to Belgium by President Pierce, a position in which he was continued by President Buchanan. In 1865 he and John A. Elmore represented Montgomery County in the constitutional convention. This was his last public service. In a few years he removed to Autauga County, where he spent his last years as a planter. Prior to his appointment as minister to Belgium he had served as a brigadier general of militia and at an earlier date he had served in the Creek and Seminole Wars. He was a Democrat; and after the war he refused an appointment as federal judge tendered on condition that he would transfer his allegiance to the Republican party. Married: Martha Ann, daughter of William and Ann (Robinson) Wyatt, of Autauga County, a descendant of Sir Francis Wyatt, colonial governor of Virginia; granddaughter of Todd Robinson, a pioneer planter of Autauga County. Children: 1. Wyatt; 2. Marie L., m. Judge James Q. Smith (q. v.); 3. Lucile M.; 4. William Simeon, m. Jessie C. —, Prattville. Last residence: Montgomery.

FAITH, LYMAN HALL, lawyer, was born August 31, 1846, near St. Stephens, Washington County; son of Jackson Walter and Mary Virgin (Womack) Faith, the former born in 1816, at Old Court House, Washington County, lived near St. Stephens, was major of militia, sheriff of Washington County, receiver of land office at St. Stephens, where he died; grandson of Alexander and Nellie (Wells) Faith, the former a soldier with Gen. Andrew Jackson in the Creek Indian War of 1813-14, and who after the war located in Washington County; and of John and Frances (Coleman) Womack, who lived at Pleasant Valley, Washington County; great grandson of Henry Faith, who went from Virginia, with Daniel Boone to Kentucky, where he was massacred by the Indians, but three of his sons escaped. It is the family tradition that the Faiths are of Irish origin and the Womacks of Welsh stock. He received his early training in schools near St. Stephens and at Pleasant Valley; was a state cadet in Glennville collegiate and military institute, September, 1861, to April, 1862, left the institute with other cadets to join C. S. Army; enlisted in Co. A, 32nd Alabama infantry regiment, and discharged March, 1863, on account of ill health; in October, 1863, enlisted in Co. K, 15th Confederate cavalry regiment, under Col. Harry Maury, serving to the close of the war. He resided on his father's plantation till November, 1867; read law under Col. William Bayles at Mobile; licensed to practice in October, 1868; and has since practiced in Mobile. He is a Democrat, and a Methodist. Married: August 5, 1873, at Mobile, to Pauline Elizabeth, daughter of Rudolph Edward and Elizabeth Priester, of Jackson, Clarke County. Children: 1. Edward Walter, m. Sue Bryce Clarkson, B. S., 1895, LL. B., University of Alabama, practiced law with his father in Mobile; 2. Nannie May, m. Rev. John Renfro Curry, Tuskegee; 3. Lillian, m. Allan Ross Holland, Mobile; 4. Mabel, m. George Geiger White, Nashville, Tenn.; 5. Willa, m. William Spears Randall, Marion Junction. Residence: Mobile.

FALCONER, JOHN, first postmaster of Montgomery and business man, was born in 1778, in Queen Ann County, Md., and died July, 1854, near Montgomery, and is buried in Oakwood cemetery. The Falconer family were Scotch Quakers, the first to come to America being Sir Gilbert Falconer who arrived with William Penn. He married Jane Massey of English ancestry, herself a native of Kent County, Md. John Falconer had three brothers and a sister. John and William moved to Manchester, S. C. in 1804, the younger brother Joshua, after going west for a while, located in Montgomery. In 1817, John and William joined him there. John was associated with Andrew Dexter in laying off the city of Montgomery, being one fourth owner of the original plat, and built the first house in the town. He was the first postmaster of Montgomery, a position held by him for many years. Later in life he retired from business and resided with the widow of his brother, William, who was Nancy Wilder before her marriage. Last residence: Montgomery.

FALCONER, JOSHUA, merchant, was born in Maryland and died in Montgomery, in 1832, brother of John Falconer (q. v.). He came to Alabama early in the State's history having for a while resided in Missouri. He was one of the first merchants in Montgomery and was a citizen of great merit. Married: in Nashville, Tenn., to Miss Irby. Children: 1. Fanny, m. Wm. Ledyard; 2. John. Last residence: Montgomery.

FALCONER, WILLIAM, planter, was a native of Maryland and among the early settlers of Montgomery County. He first located on Mt. Meigs road near the city, but later moved to the headwaters of Ramer Creek. He came to Alabama in 1817 with his brother John Falconer (q. v.) having previously dwelt for a while in Manchester, S. C. He was a Presbyterian. Married: while residing in South Carolina: (1) Anne Singleton; (2) Nancy Wilder. Children, by first wife: 1. Catherine, m. James Belser, (q. v.); 2. Martha, m. Dr. Hugh Miller Henry (q. v.); 3. Nancy, m. Benjamin Hart; by the second marriage: 4. Sarah, m. James Richard Dillard; 5. Henrietta, d. young; 6. Caroline Ellen, died unmarried; 7. John Peregrene, d. young; 8. Stuart Wilder, d. young; 9. Jane Elizabeth, m. Dr. Charles McEachern; 10. Joshua, Pisgah, Ky.; 11. Eleanor Henrietta, m. Peter George Powell. Last residence: Montgomery.

FALCONNETT, EUGENE F., major, 9th Alabama cavalry regiment; major, 14th battalion Alabama cavalry regiment, C. S. Army.

FALKNER, JEFFERSON, lawyer, and Baptist minister, was born April 22, 1810, in Anson County, N. C., and died April 22, 1895, at Montgomery; son of Job and Mary (Gulledge) Falkner, of Anson County. His ancestors were of Welsh origin, the earliest representatives in America, having emigrated to Maryland in the 18th century. He was educated in Randolph County, read law in a private office and was admitted to the bar in Wedowee in the early forties. He served as both clerk and judge of the county court of that county. In 1845 he represented Randolph and Tallapoosa Counties in the Senate, and about forty years later, 1884-85 and 1886-87, he represented the district composed of Coosa, Elmore and Chilton in the same body. In 1851 he was an unsuccessful candidate for congress from the Talladega district against Alexander White. Although exempt from active military service he raised a company which became Company B, Eighth Confederate cavalry regiment, in which he was promoted lieutenant-colonel. He took much interest in progressive agriculture and with his son, Capt. J. M. Falkner, was editor and proprietor of "The Southern Planter," a weekly farm paper published in Montgomery. He was a Democrat, and for fifty years a Baptist minister, and a Mason. Married: (1) in 1828, in Randolph County, to Sarah Ann, (2) February 8, 1838, at the same place, to Samantha, both daughters of William and Frances (Brantley) Breed, of that county. The Breed family was of English ancestry, seated in Lynn, Mass., as early as 1630. Breed's Hill, near Bunker Hill, took its name from this family. Members of the family removed from Massachusetts to Georgia and thence to Alabama. Children: 1. William Avery Breed, m. Mary Jane Usery, of Birmingham; 2. Emily, deceased; 3. Mary Frances, m. James Chatham; 4. Sarah Ann, m. Frank Cotter May, of Birmingham; 5. Jefferson Manly (q. v.), m. Elizabeth Cameron; 6. Samantha, m. W. W. Beasley; 7. Elizabeth Ann, deceased. Last residence: Montgomery.

FALKNER, JEFFERSON MANLY, lawyer and planter, was born July 14, 1843, at Arbacoochee, Randolph County, and died May 18, 1907, at his country home, Mountain Creek, and is buried at Marbury; son of Jefferson and Samantha (Breed) Falkner (q. v.). At the age of sixteen he entered Mercer university, Penfield, Ga., and two years later, when the war came on, he left college and enlisted in his father's cavalry troop, the "Chambers Cavalry," Co. B, Eighth Confederate cavalry regiment. He served thirteen months as a private, and rose subsequently to the rank of second lieutenant and captain of his company. He was in all the movements of Wheeler's cavalry from organization to the close of the war. Although he was hit many times by stray bullets, and on more than one occasion had his horse shot under him, he was never seriously injured. Following the close of hostilities he engaged in farming and milling for two years. He then entered upon the study of law, was admitted to the bar at Montgomery in 1868, and at once formed a partnership with his father. This continued until the latter retired in 1875. He then associated himself with Thomas G. Jones, as Jones and Falkner, a relation that continued until 1890, when Mr. Jones was elected governor. In 1890 he was appointed district attorney for the Louisville and Nashville railroad company, a position he filled until his death. He always took a lively interest in politics, although never an office seeker. For four years he was an alderman of Montgomery, and in June, 1885, he was elected city attorney, serving two terms. He was national committeeman from Alabama, and member of the national executive committee of the Democratic party during the campaign of 1896. As a tribute to Captain Falkner, as well as in recognition of his numerous kindnesses to his Confederate comrades, when a second camp of Confederate veterans was organized at Montgomery, in 1901, by unanimous vote it was named "Camp Jeff Falkner." This camp at once went energetically to work to provide at Mountain Creek a soldiers' home for indigent worthy Confederate veterans. Captain Falkner donated the land on which this home was erected, and was himself chairman of the ways and means and the building committees. When the State made provision for taking over the home, he was appointed by the governor as chairman of its board of trustees. Liberal donations were made to the home from all portions of the state, and the legislature in 1903 made an appropriation of $25,000.00 to complete the buildings, and an additional appropriation of not exceeding $12,500 per annum for its support and maintenance. Additional sums were voted by the legislature of 1907. Capt. Falkner took a wide and intelligent interest in all public affairs, in which it is proper to mention agriculture, horticulture, blooded stock, education and good roads. He was the first member from the second district on the board of trustees of the Alabama Department of Archives and History. He was a Democrat and a Baptist. Married: July 19, 1887, at Mountain Creek, to Elizabeth, daughter of Andrew and Eliza Jane (Crozier) Cameron, of that place, and a sister of William J. Cameron (q. v.). Children: 1. Jefferson Cameron, Lisbon, Ohio; 2. Robert Molton, Schenectady, N. Y. Last residence: Montgomery.

FARISS, ROBERT CLEMENT, colonel in Confederate Army, was born in February, 1830, at New Canton, Buckingham County, Va., and died November 19, 1905, in Montgomery; son of Thomas Randolph and Juriah (Blanks) Fariss, the former a native of Henrico, and the latter of Goochland County, Va.; grandson of William and Elizabeth (Johns) Fariss, of Henrico County, the former a soldier in the Revolutionary War, and of Robert and Jane (Pleasants) Blanks, of Goochland County; great-grandson of Richard and Anna (Laprade) Pleasants, jr., and lineal descendant of John Pleasants who came to Virginia, in 1665 from Norwich, England. The ancestors of Colonel Fariss include the Woodson, Cocke, Aston and Farrar families, among the oldest in Virginia. The Fariss, Blanks, and Laprades are of Norman origin. Colonel Fariss attended schools in New Canton and Richmond, Va.; studied medicine under Dr. James Hill at the former place. Owing to declining health at the age of twenty-one, he joined his brother, William Blanks Fariss, a planter of Montgomery. He served as captain in the 17th Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army, and was promoted colonel. He was a Democrat; a Mason; and a Presbyterian. Married: August 1, 1855, at Montgomery, to Catherine Elizabeth, daughter of William and Lucy (Bell) Dickenson, and granddaughter of William and Elizabeth (Ratcliffe) Bell all of Falmouth, Stafford County, Va. Children: 1. Mary Blanks, Montgomery; 2. Lulie Bell, m. Harrison Eldridge Stringfellow, Birmingham; 3. Kate, m. Prescott Southall, Blanton; 4. Nannie Bell; 5. Robert C.; 6. Thomas Randolph, Montgomery; 7. Hugh Hill, m. Elizabeth Mann, New York City. Last residence: Montgomery.

FARLEY, JAMES ALFRED, banker, was born February 18, 1824, in Halifax County, Va., and died December 27, 1888, in Montgomery; son of James and Eliza (Davis) Farley, both natives of Virginia. At the age of fourteen he moved to Montgomery and became an employee in a dry goods store owned and conducted by his older brother, Henry W. Farley; he was promoted general manager and eastern buyer; resigned and took a position in Winter's iron works; and in 1850 entered upon his career in the banking business as bookkeeper in the banking house of John Henly & Co.; during the following year, was taken into this firm as a partner; and in the late fifties, upon the death of Mr. Henly, he was left in entire charge of the business. In 1861, with his brother, William G. Farley, he established the Farmer's bank of Alabama, of which he was president; in 1865, James R. Smith was admitted to partnership and the name changed to Farley, Smith & Co.; and in 1870 this firm was succeeded by Farley, Spear & Co. In 1861 he was appointed, by President Jefferson Davis, agent of the produce loan of the Confederacy with the rank of colonel, which office he held until the close of the war. This position gave him authority not only to pay and settle for all cotton, corn and other produce for the Confederate States government, but to negotiate bonds in payment. Married: Sarah Elizabeth, daughter of Dr. Thomas and Mary (Gaither) Hoxey, a prominent physician of Columbus, Ga., and a descendant of a distinguished family of that State. Children: 1. Mary Eliza Leonora, m. Charles Spear, deceased; 2. Cora Annulette, m. John Metcalf, of Montgomery; 3. Louis Bulow, educated at the University of the South, cashier Farley national bank, president Capital city national bank, and promoter, m. Annie Jette, daughter of Dr. Thomas A. Means (q. v.), and have one daughter Jette Aileen Farley, m. Harry Bandy, great-grandson of Dr. Carnot Bellinger (q. v.); 4. Hoxey Carter, m. (1) Annie De Bardelaben, of Montgomery, and (2) Ethel Smith, of Mississippi. Last residence: Montgomery.

FARLEY, JOHN GALLAGHER, business man, was born January 25, 1835, at Hayneville, Lowndes County, and died July 8, 1913, at Anniston; son of Stewart and Susan (Waldron) Farley, the former a native of Monroe County, and later a resident of Hayneville, a well to do planter; grandson of Daniel Farley. The family was of Scotch-Irish descent, the original immigrants to America settling in North Carolina. Mr. Farley was educated in the common schools of his native county, and without the advantage of a college or professional training, entered upon his life work at the early age of sixteen. For two and a half years he did general work in a blacksmith shop at Hayneville, where he hardened himself physically and got in touch with the wide and varied interests of the planters. He then entered the office of "The Watchman" at Hayneville, a weekly paper, where he remained six months. Then in partnership with I. A. Pruitt, edited and published "The Young American," at Benton, a venture which continued about a year. Despairing of his interest, and not yet twenty years of age, he became a clerk in the mercantile establishment of Greenwood & Nichols at Benton, where he remained until the beginning of the War of Secession. In this position he received full training and equipment which were to be of great service in all his subsequent business career. He entered the Confederate Army in the spring of 1862 as a member of Co. A, 44th Alabama infantry regiment, and served six months as a private soldier. He was then detailed as secretary to Gen. E. M. Law, with whom he remained until the spring of 1864, and he continued in the same relation to Gen. Wm. F. Perry, Third brigade, Hood's division, Longstreet's corps, Army of Northern Virginia. He was within twenty yards of Gen. Robert E. Lee at Appomattox, April 9, 1865. He returned to Benton with his parole, walking almost the whole distance. He soon formed a mercantile partnership with Col. Wm. S. May, who shortly thereafter died, after which he successfully conducted the business alone. In 1885 he retired from active business, sold out all his holdings in Lowndes County, and removed to Verbena. He now invested his means in real estate in Montgomery and Birmingham. When seventy years of age, alone he planned, financed and built the Farley building in Birmingham. He later removed to Anniston. It is said that he had remarkable judgment, foresight and indomitable will power. He was a Democrat and aided in maintaining white supremacy in Lowndes County in the dark days of reconstruction. He was a Methodist for many years, but on removing to Anniston, he joined the Presbyterian Church, and a Mason. Married: (1) June 20, 1860, at Benton, Jodie M. Goff, by whom he had five children, none of whom survive; (2) October 28, 1877, also at Benton, Annie Cole Dulany; and (3) September 24, 1900, in Montgomery, Alice Hereford, but no issue. Children: by second wife, 1. Viola, m. A. J. Goodwin, of Anniston; 2. John G., jr., of Birmingham; 3. Annie, m. H. P. Bellenger, Gadsden. Last residence: Anniston.

JAMES B. GREENE

FARMER, ROBERT, British commandant of Mobile, was born in England in 1718, and died in Mobile in 1778. On October 20th, 1763, he "took possession of Mobile in the name of his Britannic majesty," (Gayarre). From 1765 until 1767 he is said to have also served as commandant of the Illinois district. On May 16, 1765, M. Aubry wrote from New Orleans to the French government: "the correspondence which I am obliged to have with the English and particularly the governor of Mobile, gives me serious occupation. This governor is an extraordinary man, as he knows that I speak English, he occasionally writes to me in verse. He speaks to me of Francis I and Charles V. He compares Pontiac, an Indian chief, with Mithridates. He says he goes to bed with Montesquieu. When there occur some petty difficulties between the inhabitants of New Orleans and Mobile he quotes to me from Magna Charta, and the laws of Great Britain. It is said the English university sent him to Mobile to get rid of him because he was one of the hottest in the opposition. He pays me handsome compliments, which I duly return him; and upon the whole he is a man of parts, but a dangerous neighbor, against whom it is well to be on one's guard." Hamilton, "Mobile under five Flags" says, "He superintended everything for the British in these parts, buying lands for public purposes, making contracts and paying troops. Farmer's Island north of the city was owned by him and he was the first resident on the Tensaw Bluff, now called Stockton. In Mobile he lived at the northeast corner of St. Emanuel and Government streets, adjacent to the lands used under the French and also under the British for a royal bakery and other public purposes."

Maj. Farmer was not wanting in courage, and he often dared to run counter to the opinions of those superior in rank. This resulted in a court martial, which became a cause celebre, lasting from September 1766 to August 1768. The charges were voluminous and the records fill volumes. The result was the acquittal of Maj. Farmer, greatly to the joy of the people in the British possessions on the Gulf. The major apparently retired during the trial, but in 1769 he was recommended as governor of West Florida. On August 5, 1778 the celebrated naturalist, William Bartram, visited Maj. Farmer at his home on Tensaw Bluff, and there he inspected his extensive plantations, cultivated by French tenants. The Major was elected as one of the representatives from Mobile and Charlotte County to the West Florida legislature, 1772, but the Mobile members never took their seats. In 1777 he was again chosen, but he died in 1778, the record reciting that another was "elected in the room of Robert Farmer, deceased." On the capture of Mobile by Don Galvez, the Spanish governor, many houses were burned, including "the late home of Major Farmer, with valuable papers." (Hamilton). He was buried in Mobile, but his last resting place is unknown. "His family consisted of his wife Mary and five children, of whom Elizabeth Mary will meet us later. Through her marriage with Louis Alexandre de Vauxbercy, the Farmer blood has survived until the present day." She had a daughter who became the wife of Curtis Lewis, an early American settler.

FARNHAM, GEORGE ROBERT, lawyer, was born January 23, 1845, at Belleville, Conecuh County, and died February 13, 1911, at Evergreen; son of John Hilton and Nancy (Crosby) Farnham (q. v.). He received his early education at Belleville academy. When only sixteen, he enlisted as a private in Company D, 5th Alabama infantry regiment, but his health failed and he was discharged. He resumed his studies in the academy, and in the fall of 1862, entered the University of Alabama, but did not graduate owing to war conditions. His course at the university was marked with distinction. He was appointed first a sergeant in the corps, then promoted to a second lieutenant, afterwards to the adjutancy, and when he left the university he was senior first lieutenant. While at the university the corps of cadets did service, as soldiers, for three weeks in Mobile, and again at Jacksonville. In 1864, while going home upon a tour of vacation, about fifty or sixty of the cadets reached Montgomery, where they found the city in the midst of the most intense excitement, growing out of the threatening demonstrations of General Rousseau. Governor Watts ordered the cadets to remain in Montgomery and assist in its defense against Rousseau, who was then at Chehaw. Arms having been furnished them, a soldier of the regular army was appointed to the command, and they were permitted to elect their other officers. Mr. Farnham was at once chosen 1st lieutenant, and the buoyant cadets leaped upon the train and started at once for Chehaw. They were accompanied by some regulars, who happened to have been in Montgomery at the time, and also by some raw reserves. But for the military training and thorough efficiency of the cadets, the entire command would have been captured, and the city of Montgomery would have fallen. Subsequent to this, Mr. Farnham served as adjutant in the corps of cadets, near Spanish Fort. In the early part of 1865 he raised a cavalry company among the students at the university, which was designed to serve as a body-guard to General Buford, and the company left the university, to return to their homes to secure horses and equipments; but just at this juncture the State was overrun by the Federal troops, and before a thorough organization could be effected, the war closed. In 1866 he entered upon the study of the law in the office of Gen. Edmund W. Martin at Sparta; was admitted to the practice in September of that year; served for ten years from 1868 on the Democratic executive committee of Conecuh County; in 1870 defeated as solicitor for Conecuh County by the Republicans; served in the State senate, 1880-84, and was president of the State Sunday school convention, 1880-81. He was a Baptist. Married: October 24, 1866, at Burnt Corn, Maria, daughter of Dr. William and Sarah (Fox) Cunningham of that place, the former an emigrant to Alabama in 1809, from Mecklenburg County, Va., and a planter and physician. No children. Last residence: Evergreen.

FARNHAM, JOHN HILTON, merchant and planter, was born January 21, 1820, at Exeter, Rockingham County, N. H., and died December 2, 1907, at Evergreen; son of John and Eliza (Hilton) Farnham of Newmarket, N. H.; grandson of David and Abigail Smith (Donald) Farnham and eighth in descent from Ralph, the founder of the family in America, who sailed from Southampton, England, April 6, 1635, in the brig "James." After a voyage of fifty-eight days he landed in Boston, Mass., June 3, 1635, aged thirty-two years, and wife, Alice, aged twenty-eight. John H. came south in 1840, located in Belleville, ten miles west of Evergreen, in 1844; was a planter until the close of the war, after which he merchandised, although holding his agricultural interests. During the War of Secession he was collector of "tax in kind," for the Confederate government and was held in great respect and esteem. He was a Democrat, a Methodist, and a Mason. Married: January 24, 1844, near Belleville, Nancy, daughter of Chesley and Sarah (Hughes) Crosby of that place. Children: 1. George Robert, m. Maria Cunningham (q. v.); 2. John Hilton, d. young; 3. Chesley Crosby, d. unmarried; 4. Frank Albert, d. young; 5. Augustus Battles, m. Hermione Stoudenmeyer. Last residence: Evergreen.

FARRAR, THOMAS W., grand master of the grand lodge, Masons, 1821, 1822, and 1824.

FAULK, TIMOTHY SAULS, merchant, was born September 15, 1866, near Troy, Pike County; son of Joseph Travis and Mary Frances (Lee) Faulk, of Troy, the former, born in Tennessee, was taken to Pike County when an infant, and became a successful pioneer farmer in that county; grandson of Philip Lemuel and Sarah (Souls) Faulk, and of Benjamin and Sarah (Goodman) Lee, all of Pike County. The Faulk family is of German descent, having come to America in the seventeenth century; and the Lees are of English stock. Mr. Faulk was educated in the common schools of Pike County. He farmed until 1898, when he entered the mercantile business in Troy. He moved to Samson in 1904, and continued in the same occupation. He served two terms as councilman in the latter town, which he aided in incorporating; was a member of the board of education of Samson; was elected to the State senate from the twenty-third district, 1915; and was re-elected to the legislature in 1919. He is a Democrat and a Primitive Baptist. Married: (1) December 27, 1887, in Pike County, to Mary Frances Roling, daughter of John R. and Frances Jane (Hendron) Roling, who live near Orion; (2) December 27, 1894, to Ada E. Roling. Children: 1. Joseph Erastus, m. Jessie Lee Johnson; 2. John Pratt, m. Tessie May Campbell; 3. Clem Cleveland; 4. Archie Lee; 5. Queen Esther; 6. Roling R.; 7. Timothy Houston; 8. Edna Warre. Residence: Samson.

FAULKNER, THOMAS L., lieutenant colonel, 8th, Livingston's Alabama cavalry regiment, C. S. Army.

FEAGIN, ISAAC BALL, public official, was born July 17, 1833, in Jones County, Ga., and died May 2, 1900; son of Samuel and Mary (Ball) Feagin; grandson of Isaac Ball, of Warren County, Ga. He received a brief education in the old field schools of Barbour County, and on his father's death in 1847, assumed the responsibilities of the head of the family, being at the time but fourteen years old. In 1854, he was elected chief deputy sheriff of Barbour County, and after serving his term of office, entered the mercantile business at Midway. At the outbreak of the war, he was one of the organizers of the Midway Guards, and was elected first lieutenant. On July 3, 1861, the regiment was mustered into service in the C. S. Army, at Fort Mitchell, and Lieut. Feagin was elected captain of Co. B. The regiment was ordered to Virginia as a part of Gen. Trimble's brigade of Stonewall Jackson's corps. Near the close of 1862, Capt.

Feagin was promoted to lieutenant colonel, and at the battle of Sharpsburg, was wounded by the bursting of a shell. He rejoined his regiment in January, 1863; commanded it at the battle of Suffolk and in the campaign of Pennsylvania; was severely wounded, losing his right leg, at the battle of Gettysburg, and was captured. He was confined to a Federal prison for eleven months before his exchange, and was then invalided home on a leave of absence. Col. Feagin was elected sheriff of Barbour County in 1866; and in 1876, having become a resident of Bullock County, was elected sheriff of that county for a term of four years. In 1880, he was elected probate judge of Barbour County. He was a Democrat, a Baptist, a Royal Arch Mason, and a member of the Ancient Order of United Workmen.

Married: December 17, 1862, while home on furlough, recuperating from the wound received at Sharpsburg, Sallie Hall, daughter of Joel and Elvira (McKinney) Hall, the former a planter and slave owner of Warren County, Ga., and county judge of that county; granddaughter of Samuel Hall, whose father, a native of Ireland, came to Georgia with Gen. Oglethorpe, and of Moses and Harriet (Burkhalter) McKinney, who lived near Warren, Ga. Children: 1. Minnie Lee, deceased, a graduate of Wesleyan College, Macon, Ga., m. March 12, 1884, Sterling Price Rainer, a merchant at Union Springs, children, Sterling Price, jr., James Walton, Minnie Lee, Isaac Feagin, and Joel Herron; 2. Harriet Zenobia, a graduate of Judson institute, m. February 26, 1896, Ernest Lee Blue, a lawyer at Union Springs, children, Sarah, Ernest Lee, jr., Isaac Feagin, and Harriet; 3. Jefferson Davis, A. B. University of Alabama, 1891, superintendent of the Kirby Lumber Company, Silsbee, Tex.; 4. Joel Daniel, member of the firm of Feagin Brothers, merchants, Union Springs, m. Mabel Lightner, children, Loel Lightner and Ruth; 5. Lucy Harris, a graduate of Hollins Institute, Virginia; 6. Arthur Henry, who graduated with highest honors from the Alabama Polytechnic institute, C. E., 1898, is civil engineer for all the mines of the Tutwiler Mining Company, Birmingham; 7. Clarence, E. E., Alabama Polytechnic institute, 1900, employed by the government at Beaumont, Tex.; 8. Isaac Ball, member of the firm of Feagin Brothers, Union Springs, m. January 6, 1904, Maggie Lou Hanson of Union Springs. Last residence: Union Springs.

FEAGIN, JAMES MADISON, farmer, was born in 1814, in Jones County, Ga.; son of Samuel and Nancy (Wadsworth) Feagin, the former a native of Feaginsville, now Carthage, N. C., a village named in honor of his family, the latter a native of Warren County, Ga.; grandson of Richard Feagin, who was born in North Carolina, of Irish parentage, and of James Wadsworth, of English descent, a planter in Jones County, Ga. Maj. Feagin's father moved from North Carolina to Georgia when a young man, married his first wife who died in 1827, in 1813, was sheriff of Jones County during the War of 1812 and for several years afterward, served as county commissioner and as justice of the peace for several years, moved to Alabama in 1836, settling in the woods of Bullock County in what is now Midway township, influenced the establishment of a postoffice at Midway, was appointed postmaster, and filled that position, carrying on the office in his own store, until his death in 1848. Maj. Feagin was reared on a farm, and attended the common school of the district until the death of his mother in 1827. In 1836, he moved to Alabama with his family, in the midst of the Indian uprising in that territory. Maj. Feagin was made sergeant of a company organized for the protection of the settlers, and for a time stationed the company at his father's house. When hostilities began in earnest, Maj. Feagin was promoted to lieutenant, and served as scout and pilot for various companies of the United States troops and volunteers during the summer of 1836. He was made lieutenant of the Cowikee spies the next year, and with that force served throughout the entire two years' subsequent Indian hostilities. The title of major was conferred on him in 1838 by his election to command the Second battalion of the Forty-seventh regiment of Alabama militia. After peace was restored, he resumed his farming.

Married: in 1840, Almira C. Cole, daughter of Noah B. Cole, who was born in South Carolina, moved to Covington County, where his daughter was born, and later settled in Louisiana, in Caddo Parish. Children: 1. Samuel J., a sergeant in the Fifteenth Alabama infantry, C. S. Army, who was killed at Cold Harbor; 2. Capt. Noah B. (q. v.); 3. Martha, m. Calvin W. Fenn, of Clayton; 4. Wealthy M., m. Dr. W. U. Morton, of East Lake; 5. Mary, d. in infancy; 6. Missouri Amazon, m. F. H. Tompkins; 7. Almira C., m. A. G. Jordon; 8. James, jr.; 9. Beauregard, d. in infancy; 10. Lavinia I., m. Rev. James M. Kelly, of Jefferson, Ga.; 11. Nancy Dixie, m. Gus A. Orum, of Union Springs; 12. George Wadsworth, B. E., civil engineer in the expert department of the General Electric Company, Schenectady, N. Y., 1893-1894, engineer at Montgomery, m. Nora Belle Baker, at Midway, April 15, 1896. Last residence: Midway.

FEAGIN, NOAH BAXTER, lawyer, was born July 7, 1843, in Midway, Barbour County; son of Maj. James Madison and Almira (Cole) Feagin (q. v.); grandson of Samuel T. Feagin, a native of North Carolina who had nine great-uncles in the Revolutionary War, eight of whom fought in the Continental Army, and one in the British, and of Noah B. Cole, whose parents were French Huguenots, who first settled in Charleston, S. C. Judge Feagin was at school at the Nashville Military institute, Tennessee, at the outbreak of the War of Secession. He left school, and entered the C. S. Army, July, 1861, joining Co. B., Fifteenth Alabama infantry regiment, which arrived at Richmond, Va., just after the first battle of Manassas. He enlisted as a private, but had rapid promotions to the captaincy of his company; rendered conspicuous services in the army of northern Virginia; was called the "boy captain" of his regiment; was wounded five times; served under Stonewall Jackson in the first Shenandoah Valley campaign, under Gen. Longstreet at Chickamauga, and under Gen. Lee in the Virginia campaigns; never lost a day's service from sickness, nor missed a battle in which his company was engaged except when wounded. After the war, he farmed for a year in Bullock County; then went to Washington college, Virginia, for three years, during the presidency of Gen. Robert E. Lee, and was graduated from several of the departments, including law, B. L., 1870. For a year he edited the "Union Springs Times," at Union Springs, and began to practice law, at that place, February, 1871. He was elected mayor of Union Springs, 1875; moved to Anniston, 1884; was elected mayor of Anniston, 1886, moved to Birmingham, October, 1886, was appointed judge of the inferior criminal court in Birmingham, April, 1885, was elected to the same position by the legislature three times; and under the recent act, was elected to the same by the city council as "recorder." Judge Feagin established in 1898, without legal enactment, a juvenile court for the city of Birmingham after the model instituted in Chicago by Judge Hurd, which movement resulted in the adoption of the juvenile court law by the legislature of Alabama in 1907. He introduced the suspension sentence for first offenders in 1908, after the French model; organized a club for white working and street newsboys which now numbers over two hundred seventy-five members. At Judge Feagin's suggestion, negro men and negro women are maintaining each a reformatory for wayward negro boys committed from the recorder's court. Upon the invitation of President Roosevelt, he attended the Children's Conference at Washington, January, 1909, and made an argument before a committee of congress for the establishment of a children's bureau by the national government, 1909. Married: February 9, 1876, Annie Martin Phillips, of Montgomery, daughter of Cyrus Phillips. Children: 1. Jewett Whatley; 2. Alma; 3. Carolyn. Residence: Birmingham.

FEAGIN, WILLIAM FRANCIS, educator and State warden general, was born December 26, 1869, at Midway; son of Daniel and Zilpha Z. (Danforth) Feagin; grandson of George and Mary (Ball) Feagin, and of William Danforth, the former came from Ball County, Ga., to Midway, then in Barbour, now in Bullock County. The Feagins are of Irish origin, locating first in North Carolina. The Danforth family is Scotch, and resided in Columbus, Ga. Mr. Feagin received his early education at Enon and Midway; entered the Alabama polytechnic institute, and graduated in 1892, with B. S. degree; tutor at that institution, 1892-93, in which year he received the M. E. degree. He was an assistant professor, Alabama polytechnic institute, 1893-94; first assistant to the president, 7th district agricultural school, Albertville, 1894-97, and president of that institution, 1897 to January, 1903. He was a member and secretary of the State board of teachers' examiners, January, 1903, to January, 1907. On the latter date he became chief clerk in the department of education which position he held until November 20, 1913, when he was appointed to fill the unexpired term of H. J. Willingham as State superintendent of education. On January 18, 1915, he entered upon his term of four years as superintendent to which he had been elected November 3, 1914. On October 1, 1918, he resigned to become superintendent of education of Montgomery County. On July 1, 1920, he succeeded Hon. C. B. Rogers as State warden general. He has been prominent in the work of the National education association; the Southern education association, and the Alabama education association. He is a Democrat; Methodist; Mason; Odd Fellow; Knight of Pythias; Elk; and is a member of the Phi Delta Theta college fraternity. Married: February 10, 1897, at Jonesboro, Ga., to Elizabeth Chappell, daughter of William B. and Lavinia (Bennett) Stuart. Children: 1. Frances. Residence: Montgomery.

FEARN, JOHN WILLIAMS WALKER, lawyer and diplomat, was born January 13, 1832, in Huntsville, and died April 8, 1899, at Hot Springs, Va.; son of Richard Lee and Mary Jane (Walker) Fearn, the former a physician of Mobile; grandson of John Williams and Matilda (Pope) Walker (q. v.). He was graduated from Yale university, in 1851; took a degree from the College de France, in France; studied law and was admitted to the Mobile bar in 1853 where he practiced for a short while. Soon afterwards, in 1854, he was appointed charge d'affaires to Belgium, remaining at this post for several years; spent several years in the same capacity in Spain, later being sent to Mexico as secretary of the United States legation where he remained until 1860. He was entrusted as secretary of the first Confederate commission with several very important diplomatic missions to Europe, in behalf of the Confederate government, during the War of Secession, and attained the rank of lieutenant colonel while serving on the staff of General Preston. He practiced law in New Orleans, La., until 1885, when he was appointed minister to Greece, Roumania, and Servia, remaining at this post for five years. He was then appointed one of the judges of the court of first instance, international court, at Cairo, Egypt. Married: in 1865, to Frances Hewitt. Children: 1. Mary Walker, m. S. Barton French, New York City; 2. Percy Le Roy, mining engineer, graduate School of Mines, Columbia university, m. Eva Onderdonck, of New Jersey, resides in Costa Rica, Central America; 3. Hewitt, deceased; 4. Clarice, deceased. Last residence: Cairo, Egypt.

FEARN, RICHARD LEE, newspaper correspondent, was born August 31, 1862, in Mobile, son of Richard Lee and Sarah Elizabeth (Spear) Fearn. He was educated at the University of South, Sewanee, Tenn., University of Alabama, and received the M. E. degree from Steven's institute for technology, 1884. He served on the staff of the "Brooklyn Eagle," 1886-91; secretary foreign affairs, Chicago exposition, 1891-93; Washington correspondent, 1893-97 and London correspondent 1896, United press; on the staff since 1896 and chief of the Washington bureau, 1902-09 of the "New York Tribune." Married: April 21, 1887, to Mary Eleanora Egerton, of Baltimore, Md. Residence: Mobile.

FEARN, ROBERT, jr., lawyer, was born February 20, 1830, at Memphis, Tenn., and died March 12, 1873, at Huntsville; son of Robert and Maria (Henderson) Fearn, sr., the former a native of Danville, Va., who was a commission merchant in New Orleans, and afterwards in Memphis, Tenn., where he owned a large part of the original site of the city, finally locating in Huntsville, where he died September 7, 1856; grandson of Thomas and Mary (Burton) Fearn, of Pittsylvania County, Va., the former a lineal descendant of the first Richard Lee, who came to America and settled in Virginia, and of William and Locky (Trigg) Henderson; great-grandson of John and Leeanna (Lee) Fearn, and of Dr. Robert and Judith (LaForce) Burton; great-great-grandson of René LaForce, a French Huguenot. The Fearns were originally from Scotland, records from the family Bible designating the place as "Fearn Castle." Col. Fearn received his early schooling at the old Green academy at Huntsville under Dr. Davidson; was prepared for college by a private tutor; entered Harvard university, where he was a close friend of Edward Everett and of Henry Wadsworth Longfellow, and was graduated from the institution, A. B. and A. M., 1855. He studied law under Gen. LeRoy Pope Walker at Huntsville; was admitted to the bar, and practiced law until the outbreak of the War of Secession, when he was appointed colonel on Gen. D. M. Bradford's staff, Alabama militia; was prevented from active duty by a breakdown in his health; was arrested by the Federals for his outspoken Southern sentiments during the war, and not allowed to leave his home; resumed the practice of law until his death in 1873. He was a Democrat. Married: July 24, 1858, at Huntsville, Elizabeth Lee Coles, daughter of Dr. Robert Thompson and Elizabeth Fearn (Patton) Coles, who lived at Pittsylvania Court House, Va., until they moved to Huntsville in 1846; granddaughter of Col. Isaac and Katherine (Thompson) Coles, the former of Halifax and Pittsylvania Counties, Va., who was a member of the house of burgesses in 1774, a member of the convention at Richmond, Va., in 1788, to ratify the constitution of the United States, and a member of the first congress of the United States, the latter a sister of Mrs. Elbridge Gerry; great-granddaughter of James and Katherine (Walton) Thompson, of New York City. Children: 1. Maria Henderson, d. at the age of four; 2. Kate Coles, d. at the age of eighteen; 3. Elizabeth Lee, m. John A. Lusk, Guntersville; 4. Mary Burton, m. Malcolm R. Murray, Huntsville; 5. Robert, d. in infancy; 6. Thomas, d. at age of twelve; 7. Robert Coles, d. at age of ten; 8. Pauline Henderson, deceased, m. Bruce Armstrong, Knoxville, Tenn. Last residence: Huntsville.

FEARN, THOMAS, physician, was born November 15, 1789, near Danville, Va., and died January 16, 1863, at Huntsville; son of Thomas and Mary (Burton) Fearn, the former a native of Buckingham County, Va.; grandson of John and Leeanna (Lee) Fearn, who lived at Gloucester County, Va., and of Dr. Robert and Judith (LaForce) Burton, who lived at Middlesex County, Va.; great-grandson of Thomas Fearn, of Thomas Lee, and of Dr. René LaForce, a wealthy Huguenot, who settled in North Carolina and Virginia; great-great-grandson of John and Mary (Lee) Fearn, who were married in Lancaster County, Va., in 1688, and of Charles Lee, of Cobbs Hall; great-great-great-grandson of Richard Lee, the emigrant, of Westmoreland County, Va., secretary of the colony of Virginia, first attorney general of Virginia, and the ancestor of Henry Lee, Light-Horse Harry Lee, and of Robert E. Lee. Dr. Fearn obtained his early schooling at Danville, Va.; entered Washington college, Lexington, Va., 1806; was graduated from the Old Medical college at Philadelphia, 1810; settled in Huntsville that same year and began to practice medicine; went to Europe in 1818 and studied surgery in many of the hospitals in London and Paris; studied at the Royal college of surgeons, London, and at St. Thomas'; remained in Europe three years, returning to Huntsville in 1820; continued his practice from that year until 1837; was offered the chair of surgery at Transylvania university, Lexington, Ky.; at Center college, Kentucky; at the School of medicine, Louisville, Ky., 1831; and at the University of Cincinnati, all of which he refused; was a member of the board of state medical examiners from 1823, until he resigned in 1829; served in the State legislature as a representative from Madison County, 1822-1829; was a trustee of the University of Alabama until 1829; a trustee of Green academy, Huntsville, from its foundation until its close; was a director of the Planter & Merchants Bank, Huntsville, 1822-1826; owner of the water supply at Huntsville until he sold it to the city, and built a canal from the Tennessee River to Huntsville for the operation of steamboats, which was abandoned when a turnpike was made along the same course, 1830-1835. Degrees were conferred upon Dr. Fearn by Rutgers college, April, 1827, and by Transylvania university, March, 1827. He had served in the British and Creek Wars of 1812-1814, first as surgeon of a battalion, then as surgeon of a regiment of Tennessee and Alabama troops. During this period he dressed the wounds of Gen. Andrew Jackson; and later was appointed by Gen. Jackson "surgeon's mate," in charge of a hospital at Huntsville, and of "all the sick and wounded of the army." He was a presidential elector, and was a member of the first Confederate congress. Dr. Fearn's articles on medicine were extensively copied in medical journals of this country and of foreign countries. He is said to have been the first on this continent or in Europe to discern the true nature of quinine, and to use it accordingly, making his own quinine from the bark.

Married: February 26, 1822, near Huntsville, Sallie Bledsoe Shelby, born 1806, died May 2, 1842; daughter of David and Sarah (Bledsoe) Shelby, who lived at Gallatin, Tenn., in a stone house still standing, the former a native of Virginia, who fought with his cousin Isaac Shelby at the battle of Kings Mountain, and after the Revolution, moved to Tennessee with Col. Anthony Bledsoe and his family; granddaughter of Maj. John Shelby, a native of Maryland, who emigrated to Holston County, Va., was commissioned major by Gov. Caswell, of North Carolina, and served in the battle of Kings Mountain, and of Col. Anthony Bledsoe, a native of Orange County, Va., a surveyor who was commissioned to run the line between Virginia and North Carolina, was captain of colonial troops, resigned a major's commission to become a member of the Virginia legislature, moved to Tennessee and was elected colonel of Davidson County militia in 1783, was killed by Indians in 1788, and has a county in Tennessee named in his honor. Children: 1. Mary Eleanor, m. Gustavus L. Masters, Huntsville, both deceased; 2. Sarah Leeanna, m. Hon. William S. Barry, Columbus, Miss., both deceased; 3. Katherine Erskine, m. Matthew W. Steele, Huntsville, both deceased, child, Maj. Mathew Forney Steele, graduated from West Point in 1882, served as major of volunteers on staff of Gen. Joseph Wheeler, Spanish-American War, was three times sent to the Philippines, taught in the School of Art of War at Fort Leavenworth, Kas., had his lectures ordered published by the U. S. War Department under the caption "American Campaigns"; 4. Ada, m. (1) Dr. George Steele, Huntsville, deceased, (2) Judge Hook, Chattanooga, Tenn., both deceased; 5. Maria Eliza, m. Hon. William Willis Garth, Huntsville, who is deceased; 6. Berenice Shelby; 7. Lucie Lee, resides in Florida, m. George Miller, Georgia. Last residence: Huntsville.

FELDER, ADAM CHRISTOPHER, lawyer and chancellor, was born September 3, 1819, at Orangeburg Township, Orangeburg District, S. C., and died August 25, 1880, at Montgomery; son of Adam and Harriet (Felder) Felder, natives of Orangeburg, who removed to Montgomery County in 1825, the home place now owned by their great-great-grandchildren; grandson of John Henry and Mary Elizabeth (Snell) Felder, the former was justice of the peace and justice of the quorum for Orangeburg District, in 1775, and in the same year was elected to the second provisional congress from St. Matthews Parish, and was a member of that body when on March 26, 1776, it adopted a constitution and formed an independent government for the State; was employed by that congress to manufacture gunpowder for the Revolutionary government; was a member of the grand jury of Orangeburg District in 1776, that addressed Chief Justice Drayton in favor of the Revolution; was manager of election and member of the grand jury again in 1778, and had his house plundered and burned by the Tories the same year; was captain of militia, and rendered good service during the Revolution, and was killed in a fight with Tories about the close of the war; and of Henry and Margaret (Stoudemire) Felder, all of Orangeburg, and the great-grandson of Hans Heinrich and Ursula Felder, natives of Zurich, Switzerland, who emigrated to South Carolina in 1735. Chancellor Felder was graduated at the South Carolina college; read law under Nathan Harris in Montgomery; was admitted to the bar in 1845; in 1848 was appointed county court judge to succeed Judge Thomas S. Mays, and held that office two years; in 1868 was chosen as chancellor and served six years. He joined Capt. Rush Elmore's company for the Mexican War, serving three months. He entered the C. S. Army as a private in Capt. J. J. Cox's company, but subsequently became captain of a company in the 53rd Alabama infantry regiment. In 1855 he was elected to the State senate from the district composed of Montgomery and Autauga Counties; re-elected in 1857; and again in 1865. Married: September 20, 1851, at Perry, Houston County, Ga., to Anna Davis, daughter of Dr. John Lawson and Susan (McDonald) Felder, of Sumter, S. C. Children: 1. Susan Anna, educated at Dr. Cox's school for girls in Georgia, and at Miss Lavinia Chilton's school in Montgomery, from which she graduated in 1876; m. May 8, 1878, in Montgomery, to Robert Hails, son of George Willoughby and Sarah (Bozier) Hails of that city; children: (1.) Emily Semple, m. Thomas J. Scott, of Montgomery, brother of Charles H. Scott (q. v.); (2.) Susan Felder, m. Joseph Anderson Cobb; (3.) Annie Bozier, m. George W. Hails, jr.; (4.) Mary Benson, m. Umphrey Bowling; (5.) Adam Felder; (6.) Catherine Louise; (7.) Roberta. Last residence: Montgomery.

FELDER, RICHARD, public official, was born May 10, 1845, at Montgomery, and died at Mobile; son of Richard and Jane P. (Duggan) Felder, natives of South Carolina, the former, a farmer, and a captain of militia under Gen. Jackson, in the Indian War; died in 1859; nephew of Adam C. Felder (q. v.). He was educated in private schools at Montgomery and Tuscaloosa, and in 1861, when he was sixteen years old, enlisted as a private in the Montgomery True Blues, Third Alabama infantry, C. S. Army. He served with that company throughout the war and participated in the battles of Malvern Hill, Newbern, and Plymouth. After the war he followed farming in Butler and Montgomery Counties for five years, then located in Mobile, where he engaged in the storage and commission business. In 1881, he went to New Orleans to accept a position under the New Orleans stock exchange, and was influential in breaking a strike of the employees at that place. For two years he acted as bookkeeper for Capt. A. C. Danner, in New Orleans, and in 1883, returned to Mobile. He was agent for the New York Loan & Trust Company until 1885, when he was appointed by Gen. William W. Allen, deputy for the southern district of Alabama. He held that position for four years, and during his last year in that office served as chief of police of Mobile. He retained the position of chief of police after his term as deputy had expired. He was a Democrat, a member of the Trinity

LEE C. BRADLEY

Protestant Episcopal church of Mobile, of the Knights of Honor, the Odd Fellows, the Ancient Order of United Workmen, and was president and treasurer of St. Martin's Guild. Married: (1) in 1871, Mary E. Monette, who died in 1876; (2) in 1881, Antoinette O. Belknap. Children: by first marriage, two sons, both deceased; by second marriage, one son and daughter, deceased, and one son and daughter living. Last residence: Mobile.

FELL, RICHARD, iron manufacturer and coal operator, was born August 26, 1844, at Wheeling, W. Va., and died February 12, 1914, in Birmingham; son of Richard and Harriet (Standiford) Fell, the former a native of Baltimore, Md. The Fell family came from England with Lord Baltimore and settled Fell's Point, near the city of his name. From this place, where he was born, Richard Fell, sr., moved to Wheeling and thence to Nashville, Tenn., where he became a pioneer in the iron interests of the South. His work carried him over a wide territory, including Shelby iron works, Brierfield and Montgomery. In 1872 he located at Helena and organized the Central iron works, successfully operated until 1889, when it became by reorganization the Shelby rolling mill company. In this year the senior Fell died. His son had been with him during his entire career. Richard Fell, jr., was educated at Jackson college, Tenn. He enlisted as a member of Selden's battery in 1861, but was detailed to Brierfield to superintend the erection of an iron works for the manufacture of munitions. He was a Democrat, Methodist, Mason, Odd Fellow and Knight of Pythias. Married: June 28, 1882, at Helena, Dora, daughter of Gov. Rufus W. and Margaret (McClung) Cobb (q. v.) Children: 1. Frances Cobb, m. Nephanus E. James, of Birmingham; 2. Margaret McClung, m. Mitchell Flanders Johnson, of Birmingham; 3. Charles Albert, of Atlanta, Ga.; 4. Rufus Cobb, m. Gretta Laverty, of Birmingham. Last residence: Birmingham.

FELLOWS, WILLIAM HENRY, lawyer, was born November 10, 1808, at Troy, N. Y., and died in Marengo County, July 16, 1880, while temporarily absent from his home in Selma; son of John Philip and Catherine (Mildollar) Fellows, who lived in Troy and New York City; grandson of Philip and Hannah (Mildollar) Fellows of Rhinebeck. The American progenitors of the Fellows family were Huguenot immigrants from Holland in 1710, who settled in Dutchess County, N. Y. Mr. Fellows, the oldest of the nine children, received his early education at Troy and at Saratoga Springs. When a youth he learned the trade of silversmith, and upon arriving in Selma in 1832 he engaged in the jewelry business in partnership with his brother. Subsequently he read law and retired from business. After being admitted to the bar, he became active in public affairs and was one of three, John W. Lapsley, George W. Parsons, and himself who issued a call in 1833 for the first railroad meeting ever held in Selma. It met at the law office of Mr. Lapsley, the three named constituting the meeting and out of which has grown all the railroad development centered at Selma. He was a Whig in politics, and opposed to Secession, but after hostilities were begun he acquiesced cheerfully in the action of the State; was a member of the State militia; and for a short time was in charge of the Confederate prison at Cahaba. On April 2, 1865, when Selma was besieged by Wilson's raiders, he, with his pastor, Rev. A. W. Small, and many neighbors, went into the trenches, where all of them, not killed or wounded, were captured, and imprisoned in a stockade for several days. He was appointed by Gov. Lewis E. Parsons chancellor of the middle chancery division at the close of the war, and held that position until 1868. He then returned to the practice of the law, in partnership with Joseph R. and Samuel Will John, a connection that lasted until his death. He administered more trust estates than any man in Dallas County, and was commended by the supreme court for his fidelity and judicious management. After the war he associated himself with the Democratic party; and was a Presbyterian. Married: in 1850, to Mrs. Jane (Craig) Thomas, daughter of James and Katherine (Kilpatrick) Craig, the former a pioneer settler from Tennessee, who in 1818 located at Craig's Hill, near Craig's Ferry, on the Cahaba River, about eight miles from Selma. He served through the War of 1812 with Gen. Andrew Jackson. Children: 1. Alexina, m. Ford J. Hooper, 2. William Craig, a business man, m. Margaret Walker, daughter of Mims Walker, and had several children; 3. John James, d. unm. Last residence: Selma.

FENNELL, CAIUS GRATTAN, editor and publisher, was born March 8, 1854, at Deposit Ferry, Marshall County; son of James Watkins and Matilda (Allison) Fennell, the former a native of Winchester, Va., and a practicing physician, who lived at Deposit Ferry for twenty years prior to his death in 1864, the latter a native of Londonderry, Ireland, who came with her father's family to America in 1822; grandson of James Clark and Elizabeth (Hobbs) Fennell, who were married in Virginia, and lived near Winchester until they moved to Madison County, the former a soldier in the Revolution who fought under Washington, and of William and Isabella (Moore) Allison, of Londonderry, Ireland; great-grandson of Isham Fennell, born in 1740, one of three sons of Jean Victor Jules Fennellé, Count de Valois, of Lyons, France, the founder of the American family, who was exiled from France because of his religious faith. The name was changed to Fennell when the family became Americans. Mr. Fennell received his academic education at Etowah seminary at Gadsden, then attended a business college at Nashville, Tenn. He was bookkeeper for Col. Samuel Henry for several years, then engaged in farming in Marshall County. In 1887, he moved to Madison Station where he was elected secretary and treasurer of the Wise Mercantile Company. He resigned from that position after several years, moved to New Decatur, and engaged in the manufacture of hickory furniture.

In March, 1903, he became editor and publisher of the Guntersville Democrat, the former owner, E. O. Neely, having died the previous December. In 1909 he was elected president of the Alabama Press Association, served that term, but declined re-election. He is a Democrat; a member of the Methodist Episcopal church, South serving as steward in the church for many years; has occupied all the offices in the Knights of Pythias; and has held every office in the local camp of the Woodmen of the World. Married: June 26, 1876, near Marion, Perry County, Mattie Foster, daughter of Dr. Robert and Juliett (Moore) Foster, natives of South Carolina, who lived in Marion; niece of Andrew Moore, governor of Alabama when the state seceded from the Union. Children: 1. Erin, b. February 19, 1878, m. November 25, 1909, Sam Henry III; 2. Robert Foster, b. December 16, 1881, in Marshall County, was graduated at Tulane university, 1909, is a practicing physician, m. June 24, 1916, Margaret Street; 3. Mary Caius, b. December 25, 1884, in Marshall County, m. December 27, 1915, Owen G. Hulsey. Residence: Guntersville.

FENOLLOSA, MARY McNEIL, author, was born in Mobile; daughter of William Stoddard and Laura (Sibley) McNeil, the former an architectural draughtsman, poet and botanist. She received her education in her native city where she graduated from Irving academy. Her first published work was a small volume of poems: "Out of the West" which appeared in 1899. A volume of "Children's verses on Japanese subjects," followed. Her first novel "Truth Dexter," was published in 1906, under the pseudonym of "Sydney McCall," and achieved an instant and wide popularity. That same year she produced two other stories, "The dragon painter," and "The breath of the gods." In 1909 another novel, "Red horse hill," was published. Besides the foregoing, poems, short stories and sketches from her pen have appeared in current magazines and the press. She has traveled in Europe and resided in Japan, the latter country making a deep impression on her literary tastes and feelings. Married: (1) Ludolph Chester, Mobile; (2) Ledyard Scott, Mobile; (3) Prof. Ernest F. Fenollosa, the eminent authority on oriental art, and an author of distinction who was signally honored by the government of Japan following his death in 1905. Children: There were children by the first two marriages, but none by the third. Residence: Spring Hill.

FERGUS, W. C., major, 42nd Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army.

FERGUSON, CHARLES WESLEY, lawyer, solicitor tenth judicial circuit, judge city court of Birmingham and member of constitutional convention, 1901, was born May 18, 1855, at Summerfield, Dallas County, and died in Birmingham; son of Frederick Guthrie and Lucinda (Hale) Ferguson (q. v.). His early education was obtained in Tuskegee, Huntsville, Montgomery and Tuscaloosa. He attended the University of Alabama several months, but did not complete his course. However, he studied law at that institution and entered upon the practice, February, 1878, at Montgomery. He was solicitor for the tenth judicial circuit for three terms, beginning February, 1889, and ending 1903. He was appointed judge of the city court of Birmingham, July 8, 1903 and elected for that same position, November, 1904, for a term of six years and successively re-elected until his death. He was a member of the constitutional convention from Jefferson County, 1901. At one time he was a member of the "Montgomery True Blues." He was a Democrat, and chairman of the Jefferson County committee. He was not a church member but belonged to a Methodist family; was a Mason, and Elk. Unmarried. Last residence: Birmingham.

FERGUSON, FREDERICK GUTHRIE, Methodist minister and college president, was born April 4, 1809, in Spartanburg District, S. C., and died September 4, 1863, at Tuskegee; son of James and Rebecca (Guthrie) Ferguson, also of Spartanburg District, who removed to Lawrence County in 1810, and to Woodruff County, Ark. about 1836, a farmer, who died at the home of his son, F. G. Ferguson, in Macon, Miss.; grandson of Adam Ferguson, a native of Scotland, who emigrated to America about 1760, a Revolutionary soldier who was wounded at Fishing Creek, S. C., and of Frederick Guthrie of South Carolina. Col. Patrick Ferguson who commanded the British forces at the battle of King's Mountain, N. C., was a member of the Scotch branch of the family. Rev. Mr. Ferguson was self educated and entered the Methodist ministry, Holston conference, Tenn., in the early thirties of the 19th century. He was a missionary to the Cherokee Indians in what is now called Wills valley; presiding elder of the Marianna district, Fla., comprising all of southeast Alabama, at the time of his death; one of the incorporators of Athens female college; president of the Female college of Summerfield, 1852-56; and served pastorates at Huntsville, Athens, Tuscaloosa, Summerfield and Tuskegee, and at Pulaski and Columbia, Tenn., and Macon, Miss. He was colonel of militia in Macon County, and a staunch advocate of Secession. He was a Democrat, and a Mason. Married: Lucinda, daughter of William and Katherine (Stone) Hale, who lived at Huntsville; granddaughter of John and Margaretta (Leibold) Stone, the former a captain in the 6th line, Pennsylvania troops during the Revolution and later a companion in arms with John Sevier who was a kinsman, and of John and Nancy (Meade) Hall of Bedford County, Va., the former being with Andrew Jackson during the War of 1812, and co-founder with Hunt of Huntsville. Children: 1. William Joseph; 2. James Shaw Arminins, m. Mary Raglan of Kushla and Mobile; 3. Frederick Summerfield (q. v.); 4. Rebecca Katharine, m. Nicholas Lewis Redd, Columbus, Ga.; 5. Mary Collier; 6. John Hale; 7. Anne Maclin; 8. John Randolph; 9. Charles Wesley (q. v.); 10. Virginia Frye, m. Lorenzo Woodruff, Montgomery; 11. Frances Edmund. Last residence: Tuskegee.

FERGUSON, FREDERICK SUMMERFIELD, lawyer, was born May 2, 1841, at Huntsville, Madison County, son of Frederick Guthrie and Lucinda (Hale) Ferguson, (q. v.). He received his elementary education at Summerfield, and was graduated from the Florence Wesleyan university, July, 1859, with the degree of A. B.; studied law while in college under Gen. E. A. O'Neal and after the war with Hon. David Clopton, at Tuskegee. He was admitted to the bar in the circuit court at Tuskegee, September, 1865, and soon afterward entered Mr. Clopton's office as a member of the firm. Later he removed to Montgomery, and formed a partnership with D. F. Blakey. He was a member of the legislature from Macon county, 1866-67; solicitor second circuit, 1876-86; member of the legislature from Jefferson County, 1892-93; and was chairman of the judiciary committee. He organized a military company at Tallassee in 1859 and was in the expedition to Pensacola in 1861; was second lieutenant artillery, C. S. Army, 1861; and first lieutenant, 1862, and for gallantry in the field was promoted captain in 1864. He was captured at Ft. Morgan, 1864, and held at Ft. Lafayette, N. Y., until January 12, 1865. He served as a staff officer during the war with Gens. Page, Higgins, Maury and Gardner. He was major-general Alabama division, U. C. V., 1893-99, and appointed a member of the State board of pension examiners by Gov. Emmet O'Neal. In the last position he served until the summer of 1915, shortly before his death. He was a Democrat; a Methodist, a Mason, and a member of the Ku Klux Klan, without which organization he believed that the years following the war and the emancipation of millions of slaves, who were guided by partisan hatred from the outside, would have brought to Southern civilization a fate too awful to contemplate. He left his unpublished memoirs; and among his writings was a legal criticism of the trial of Mrs. Surratt and others, also unpublished. Married: October 18, 1871, at Franklin, Tenn., to Laura, daughter of Rev. William and Mary Elizabeth (Hill) Burr of Williamson County, Tenn. She is descended from an uncle of Aaron Burr, who settled in Virginia before the Revolution and whose children migrated to Kentucky. Her father was born in Logan County, Ky., in 1820, and was a distinguished member of the Tennessee Methodist conference until his death in 1887. Her mother was descended from Hon. Green Hill of North Carolina, member of the Mecklenburg convention and treasurer of that state for many years, also a major in the Continental Army. Children: 1. Burr, m. Anne Lewis, Nashville, Tenn., and now lives in Birmingham; 2. Hill, m. Louise Walker, daughter of Hon. William Walker, Birmingham; 3. Laura, m. Rev. Arthur R. Gray, New York; 4. Fredrika, m. Pelham Anderson, Birmingham. Last residence: Birmingham.

FERGUSON, HARVEY BUTLER, lawyer and member of congress from New Mexico, was born September 9, 1848, on his father's farm on the Sipsey River, Pickens County, and died June 10, 1915; son of Dr. Sampson

Noland and Mary de Liesseline (Poyas) Ferguson, natives of South Carolina who settled at Pickensville, where he farmed and practiced medicine, was captain of the "Pickensville Blues," the first military company that left the county to join the Confederate Army, and joined the Fifth Alabama infantry regiment, going immediately to Virginia where it participated in the first battle at Manassas, and served throughout the war; grandson of James and Elizabeth (Noland) Ferguson, the former the brother of the British Gen. Ferguson who was killed at the battle of King's Mountain, N. C., in the Revolutionary War, and of Francis de Liesseline and Martha S. Poyas, the former a Methodist minister, the product of a marriage of two French Huguenot families named respectively, de Liesseline and Poyas, all of South Carolina who later lived in Pickens County. The Poyas family were merchants for the most part. The de Liesseline branch was descended from Marquis de Liesseline, whose sister, Marie, was subjected to torture in France before the revocation of the Edict of Nantes. Mr. Ferguson received his education in private schools in Pickensville, in a boarding school near Macon County, Miss.; in a boarding school in Carrollton; and graduated from the Washington and Lee university, Lexington, Va., with the highest honors and the M. A. degree in 1873. In 1874 he graduated at the same institution in law under John Randolph Tucker. For two years he taught in the Shenandoah Valley academy, Winchester, Va. In 1876 he entered upon the practice of law at Wheeling, W. Va., and in 1882 removed to Albuquerque, N. M. He was district attorney for the 2nd judicial district, Territory of New Mexico, 1885-87, appointed by Gov. Ross; was special U. S. attorney, under appointment of attorney Gen. Olney, 1894-5, to prosecute two national bank presidents, who were convicted; member for New Mexico of the Democratic national committee, 1896-1908; delegate in congress from New Mexico, 55th congress, 1896-98; member of the first constitutional convention the State of New Mexico, 1910; elected to congress in 1911, on admission of New Mexico as a State, in the 62nd congress and re-elected to the 63rd congress. He was an Elk. Married: April 14, 1887, at Albuquerque, N. M., to Clara Maria, daughter of Franz and Ernestine Huning, of that place, but both natives of Germany. Children: 1. Erna Mary; 2. Harvey Butler; 3. Lena Huning; 4. Francis De Liesseline. Last residence: Albuquerque, N. M.

FERGUSON, HILL, real estate and insurance, was born January 6, 1877, in Montgomery; son of Frederick Summerfield and Laura (Burr) Ferguson (q. v.). He received his early education from Miss Gussie Woodruff in Montgomery, in the public schools of Birmingham and in the South Highland academy under Profs. Edwin H. Foster and Joel C. DuBose. He attended the University of Alabama, 1893-96, and graduated the latter year with the A. B. degree. He was, while a student at the University, president of the athletic association; business manager of the "Corolla"; member of the football team; and participant in other college activities. In 1897 he graduated in law at the University of Alabama, and in 1915 was elected to membership in the Phi Beta Kappa at that institution. He was a reporter on the Birmingham "Age-Herald," 1897-99, and from the latter date to 1906, he was connected with Gen. Louis V. Clark in the insurance business. During 1906-13 he was engaged in the real estate business and on the latter date became vice-president of the Jemison real estate and insurance company. He was president of the society of the alumni of the University of Alabama, 1904-17, and was among that small group who originated the "Greater University" movement which culminated in the $500,000 appropriation by the legislature of 1907, and $3,000,000 in 1911. He was active in the life of the Birmingham athletic club from 1899-1910, and later was the first president of the reorganized Birmingham real estate exchange, 1914-15; secretary of the National association of real estate boards, 1913; originator of the Altamont Road development in Birmingham and as an associate with Robert Jemison, jr., was active after 1905 in the development of the Mountain Terrace Cliff Altamont road district of Birmingham. He is a Democrat and member of the Sigma Nu college fraternity. Married: December 15, 1909, at Birmingham, to Louise Martin, daughter of William Augustus and Virginia Taylor (Mudd) Walker, jr., (q. v.). Children: 1. Louise; 2. Hill, jr. Residence: Birmingham.

FERGUSON, HUGH, merchant and planter, was born December 9, 1800, in Chester District, S. C., and died May 30, 1868, in Selma; son of James and Elizabeth (Porter) Ferguson, natives of Scotland, who came to America early in the 17th century, along with the Scotch-Irish colony that settled in Chester District, the former removed to Shelby County, Tenn., where he lived for many years, having married a second time. Hugh Ferguson received his education in his native state and earned by teaching, the money on which he came to Alabama in 1819. He found work as a clerk in a dry goods store upon arriving in Selma and by diligent attention to business rose to a partnership in the firm. He prospered as a merchant, acquired land and slaves and entered upon the life of a planter. On account of his sterling integrity, he was highly esteemed by those needing the services of a treasurer, and he was Secretary-treasurer for years of the Dallas academy. He was a Whig in politics; and a Presbyterian. Married: January 19, 1832, in Dallas County, to Caroline, daughter of Antony Morgan and Elizabeth (Harris) Minter of Milledgville, Ga.; granddaughter of Robert and Dorothy (Brooks) Rutherford, the former a member of the house of burgesses, Virginia, later a member of the First provisional congress in Hillsboro, N. C. She was related to William Townsend Minter (q. v.). Children: 1. Ann Eliza, m. Dr. Russell McCord, of South Carolina; 2. Antony Minter; 3. Emily Florence, teacher in the Dallas academy for thirty-five years; 4. Joan Elizabeth, m. Prelate D. Barker, of New York; 5. Thomas Center, m. Lucy M. Jones; 6. John James; 7. Joseph Pickens; 8. Gray Chandler, m. Mrs. M. Jameson; 9. daughter, m. Dr. R. M. Robertson, Demopolis. Last residence: Selma.

FERGUSON, SAMUEL M., pioneer physician of Pickens County; father of Hon. H. B. Ferguson, representative in the congress from New Mexico. Deceased. Last residence: Pickensville.

FERREL, MICKELBERRY P., major, 14th Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army.

FERREL, WILLIAM A., grand master, grand council of Alabama Masons, 1852; grand high priest, grand chapter of Alabama, 1854-55.

FERRELL, CHILES CLIFTON, author, was born August 20, 1865, in Greenville, S. C.; son of James Overton and Elizabeth Ann (Austin) Ferrell. He was prepared in his father's private school at Hopkinsville, Ky., from 1875 until 1880; entered Vanderbilt university, and was graduated, A. B., 1885, and A. M., 1886; served as a fellow and instructor in Greek at Vanderbilt university, 1885-1889; became a student at the University of Leipzig, 1889-1892, in which latter year he received the degree of Ph.D.; traveled in Great Britain, Germany, Switzerland, Austria and Italy; was a student at Paris during the summer of 1894; and at the University of Berlin during the summer of 1902; served as professor of modern languages, 1893-1905, and of Germanic languages, 1905-1908, at the University of Mississippi; and engaged in literary work from 1908 until his death. He is author of "Teutonic Antiquities in the Anglo-Saxon Genesis," Halle, 1893; and edited, with introduction and notes, "Sappho-Trauerspiel in fünf Aufzügen von Franz Grillparzer," 1899. He was a contributor to "Modern Language Notes," the "Sewanee Review," and other publications. He was a member of the Authors' club, London, and of Phi Beta Kappa, since the founding of the Vanderbilt chapter in 1902. Married: Tenney Marr Taliaferro, of Birmingham, August 16, 1899. Last residence: Birmingham.

FIELD, LAMAR, lawyer and assistant attorney general of Alabama, was born December 16, 1878, at Edinburg, Leake County, Miss.; son of William Harrison and Mary Jane (Graves) Field, the former a native of Heard County, Ga., and later lived in Madison, Miss., member of Forrests' cavalry, C. S. Army; grandson of Richard T. and Martha E. (Spivey) Field, of Heard County, Ga., and of J. W. and Eliza (Allison) Graves, of Clark County, Ark. The Field family in America is of English ancestry and traces its origin to Huberturs de la Feld afterward changed to Field, a member of the family of the Count de la Feld, who traces back to the Sixth century, and who went from Alsace, on the German border of France, to England with William the Conqueror in 1066. Mr. Field was educated in the public schools of his native state and spent one year at Millsaps college, Jackson, Miss., and three years at the University of Mississippi, at Oxford, graduating with the degree of B. A., 1903. He was sophomore, junior and senior speaker, winner of two state medals and the Gulf States medal for oratory. He read law in the office of Knox, Acker and Blackmon, at Anniston, and with Henry A. Jones of Tuscaloosa; admitted to the bar June 14, 1905, by examination in the circuit court of Tuscaloosa County and entered upon the practice at that point immediately. In December, 1905, he entered the service of the Louisville and Nashville railroad in the legal department; appointed assistant attorney general of Alabama, October 1, 1919; commissioned captain through the department of the judge advocate general of the U. S. Army, October 18, 1918, and served in France for several months; discharged from the service September 3, 1919. He as a Democrat; alternate delegate from the State-at-large to the Democratic national convention at St. Louis, 1916; secretary of Wilson-Marshall convention, Birmingham, 1913. He is an Episcopalian; Mason; Odd Fellow; Knight of Pythias. Author: Editor-in-chief "University Record," exchange editor "Ole Miss," all of University of Mississippi, and an address before Alabama bar association, January, 1909. Married: July 27, 1915, in Montgomery, to Nelle, daughter of William Lowndes and Ella (Henderson) Brock of Montgomery, and niece of Governor Charles Henderson (q. v.). No children. Residence: Montgomery.

FIELDS, BARTHOLOMEW, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 79, resided in Dale County, June 1, 1840.—Census of Pensioners, 1841, p. 149.

FIELDS, GEORGE, major, C. S. Army, was born in Greene County, and died in 1866, at Eutaw; son of Stephen G. Fields, who was born October 9, 1793, in Greene County, lived at Eutaw, died June 23, 1853, and is buried in Oak Hill Cemetery at Eutaw. Maj. Fields enlisted in the C. S. Army, was made captain of Co. B, Eleventh regiment of Alabama volunteers, and was soon after promoted to major. Last residence: Eutaw.

FIGH, JOHN POSTON, contractor, was born September 16, 1800, in Maryland, and died December 25, 1865, in Montgomery; son of Mr. Figh, who emigrated from Ireland and located in Maryland, where he married Miss Poston. His education was limited as he helped support his mother and sisters after he reached the age of twelve. He removed to Alabama and finally located in Montgomery; was the contractor for work done in the Capitol that was then in process of construction. He also built many other houses in Montgomery. He and his brother, George, were awarded the contract to rebuild the University of Alabama after the War of Secession. He was commissioned by the government to conduct the last of the Choctaw Indians out of the State; was opposed to secession at the beginning of the war but gave his entire support to the Confederacy. He was a Baptist; and a Mason. Married: December 23, 1829, to Jane, daughter of George and Rebecca Jane McCain. Children:

1. George McCain, m. Georgia Clarke; 2. Rufus, m. Susie McDowell; 3. Mary Elizabeth, d. young; 4. Rebecca Jane, d. young; 5. Martha Ann, m. David Hinkle; 6. John Poston, contractor, student University of Alabama, 1859-62, m. Maggie L. Hale; 7. Lewis Drewry, d. in infancy; 9. Juliette Eveline, d. young. Last residence: Montgomery.

FIGURES, WILLIAM BIBB, publisher and editor, was born March 6, 1820, at Coffeeville, Clarke County, and died October 1, 1872, at Huntsville; son of Thomas and Elizabeth Walker (Coleman) Figures, who came to Alabama in 1810 and settled in Coffeeville, where they lived for the rest of their lives, the former was a major in Gen. Coffee's command in the Indian War of 1816, the latter lived in Elbert County, Ga., and later in Maury County, Tenn., before her marriage; brother of Charles Coffee Figures, who was born in Fort St. Stephens where his mother had fled for protection from the Indians; grandson of John and Mary (Walker) Coleman, who moved from Virginia to Elbert County, Ga., then to Maury County, Tennessee, and finally to Alabama, the former was born March 6, 1765, and the latter, June 30, 1767. Mr. Figures received his education from an old log school in the country near Coffeeville; and when he was twelve years old, went to Huntsville to live with his uncle, John James Coleman, serving an apprenticeship in his uncle's newspaper office. During his apprenticeship, he read a course of law, and when he was nineteen years old, bought the paper from his uncle, becoming sole proprietor and editor. The paper was issued under the name of the "Southern Advocate," before the War of Secession, and after the war was known as the Huntsville "Advocate." Mr. Figures remained the editor until his death in 1872, with the exception of that period during the war when the Federal troops occupied Huntsville, at which time the publication was suspended. He was mayor of Huntsville before the war, and for two terms after the war; and served as State senator from Madison County during the Confederacy. He was a presidential elector on the Douglas ticket for Alabama, and was registrar in chancery at the time of his death. He was restrained from taking part in the War of Secession by ill-health, but gave his eldest son to the Confederate cause. He was an old school Whig, and after the war accepted the provisional government during the first term of President Grant, but turned against the reconstruction policy, supporting Horace Greeley for president in the next campaign. He was a member and elder in the Presbyterian Church. Married: February 1, 1843, at Huntsville, Harriet Stokes Mitchell, daughter of William and Mattie (Powell) Mitchell, who lived at Shelbyville, Tenn. Children: 1. Henry Stokes, who served in the C. S. Army and was killed in the battle of the Wilderness; 2. Otey, m. (1) Helen Steele, (2) Minnie Steele, Tuscumbia; 3. Claude, m. Carrie Dill, Savannah, Ga.; 4. Mattie, m. James Sanders Allison, Huntsville; 5. Frank, Lexa, Ark.; 6. Norman Gayle, m. Addie Noble, New Orleans, La.; 7. Daisy, m. A. Ewing Echols, Huntsville; and five others who are deceased. Last residence: Huntsville.

FILES, ADAM J., soldier of the American Revolution, aged 78, resided in Macon County, June 1, 1840.—Census of Pensioners, 1841, p. 149.

FILES, JEREMIAH, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 70, and a resident of Blount County; private S. C. Militia; enrolled on September 26, 1833, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $80; sums received to date of publication of list, $240.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in part 3, vol. xiii, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34. He resided in Blount County, June 1, 1840, aged 75.—Census of Pensioners, 1841, p. 148.

FINCH, JULIA (NEELY), author and writer. Residence: Birmingham.

FINCH, NATHANIEL PATRICK TALMADGE, editor, was born June 10, 1839, at Hornellsville, Steuben County, N. Y.; son of Nathaniel and Semanthe Marvin (Patrick) Finch, the former a native of Greenwich, Conn., who lived at Hornellsville, N. Y., was a teacher, surveyor, and lawyer, and when the Erie Railroad was built became its claim agent and its attorney, and was appointed general land agent of the Erie Railroad, a position which he held at the time of his death; grandson of Rev. Nathaniel and Sarah Finch, who lived at Greenwich, Conn., the former a Baptist minister, who preached in one church for forty years and was left almost alone during the Revolutionary War to care for the members of his congregation, and of John Patrick of Fishkill, Dutchess County, N. Y., who was an officer in the Revolution; cousin of Francis Miles Finch of Ithaca, N. Y., author of "The Blue and the Gray." He was educated in the public and private schools of Hornellsville, N. Y.; read law and was admitted to practice in the courts of New York. He did not practice law, but became assistant general land agent of the Erie Railroad, until he went South to take up newspaper work in Atlanta, Ga. He entered the War of Secession as second lieutenant of Co. C, One hundred seventy-ninth New York Volunteers, U. S. Army; was promoted to first lieutenant and R. Q. M., and served in that capacity to the end of the war. His regiment was a part of the army of the Potomac, and was thrown into the crater at Petersburg, Va., where it suffered heavily. Mr. Finch was an editorial writer on the Atlanta "Constitution" for sixteen years, during which time his associates on the paper were Joel Chandler Harris, Samuel Small, and Henry W. Grady. He remained in Atlanta until 1886, when he went to Plainfield, N. J.; was engaged in business until 1897; returned to the South and became an editorial writer for the Birmingham "Age-Herald." While he was employed in the land office at Hornellsville, N. Y., Mr. Finch led the movement to organize the Hornell Public Library, and to get money for that purpose lecture courses were organized. He conducted the correspondence and met the lecturers, among whom were Henry Ward Beecher, Ralph Waldo Emerson, Bayard Taylor, Horace Greeley and numerous other prominent men of the period. The funds were successfully secured, and the library established. Mr. Finch was director and finally president of the Young Men's Library Association of Atlanta, Ga. He is a progressive Democrat, and a vestryman in the Episcopal Church. Married: December 4, 1874, at Susquehanna, Pa., Mary Isabelle Badger, daughter of Theodore P. and Julia A. Badger, who lived at Hornellsville, N. Y.; a descendant of the Averys of Connecticut, who were prominent in the early history of that state and in the revolution. Children: 1. Edward Badger, b. at Atlanta, Ga., September 28, 1875, employed in the census bureau, Washington, D. C.; 2. Ethel, b. at Hornellsville, N. Y., Birmingham; 3. Albert Patrick, b. at Atlanta, Ga., resides at Birmingham; 4. Robert Hemphill, b. at Atlanta, Ga., d. in 1889, at Nantucket, Mass.; 5. Arthur Talmadge, b. at New Milford, Pa., Birmingham. Residence: Birmingham.

FISHER, GEORGE, planter and sheriff, was born in Virginia or Rowan County, N. C., about 1735, and died in Rowan County, about 1797; son of Frederick and Ann (McBride) Fisher, the former moving from Shenandoah County, Va., about 1770, to Rowan County, N. C.; served in the Revolutionary War as a militia officer, was a private at the battle of King's Mountain, where he was wounded, and was the owner of a large tract of land and many slaves. George Fisher removed to the Mississippi Territory, 1812, now a part of the State of Alabama, but left his family in Georgia until the Indian troubles were over. The Indians and later the United States troops made use of most of his crops and stock, for which he filed claims with the government, but payment was not made until after the death of Col. Fisher. The Fisher home was about three miles south of Suggsville, first in Clarke, then in Monroe, and again in Clarke County. He was the first sheriff of Monroe County after its formation by proclamation of Gov. Holmes, June 29, 1815. He was a man of great prominence and character. Married: (1) Catherine Sossaman; and (2) the widow Gordon. There were no children by the second marriage. Children: 1. Anne Amelia m. Jack Ferrill Ross (q. v.); 2. Sarah Maria, m. Henry H. B. Hayes, and is buried at Old St. Stephens; 3. Mary, m. Robert G. Hayden, the owner of one of the first tanneries and shoe factories in Clarke County, and descendants are believed to live in Montgomery and Macon Counties; 4. Rosanna, m. James Gaines Lyon (q. v.). Last residence: Clarke County.

FITE, ARTHUR FREEMAN, lawyer, was born February 29, 1880, in Franklin County; son of Bloomer Rankin and Jennie (Hogue) Fite, the former a native of Gainesville, Hall County, Ga., for many years a lawyer of Hamilton, Marion County, and was register in chancery of that county for fifteen years, the latter was from Collinsville; brother of Ernest Baxter Fite (q. v.). Mr. Fite was educated in the West Alabama agricultural college, and read law under his father. He was admitted to the bar at Hamilton, where he practiced until 1902, when he removed to New Decatur. He was elected city attorney of New Decatur by the city council in 1903. He later removed to Hamilton. He is a Democrat; Methodist; and a member of the Odd Fellows. Residence: Hamilton.

RICHARD V. TAYLOR

FITE, ERNEST BAXTER, lawyer and legislator, was born February 21, 1882, at Belgreen, Franklin County; son of Bloomer R. and Jennie (Hogue) Fite; and brother of Arthur F. Fite (q. v.). He is a practicing lawyer of Hamilton; was a member of the State senate in 1911, from the thirty-first senatorial district, and of the house of representatives from Marion County, 1915. He is a Democrat. Married: December 30, 1914, at Montgomery, to Minnie Watt, daughter of Capt. Hubbell and Mary C. (Myers) Pierce, of that place. Residence: Hamilton.

FITE, FRED, lawyer and member Alabama legislature, was born May 2, 1891, at Hamilton, Marion County; son of Bloomer R. and Jennie (Hoge) Fite, and brother of Arthur F. Fite (q. v.). He was educated in the public schools of Alabama; at the West Alabama agricultural college; and at the University of Alabama, where he graduated, LL. B., 1912. He located in Tuscaloosa for the practice of his profession, but later removed to Birmingham. He enlisted in Battery C, Alabama national guard, and later became second lieutenant in Troop B, 1st Alabama cavalry, but resigned before the troops were ordered to Texas for border duty. He re-entered the service when war was declared against Germany and served in the air forces of the United States. After the war ended he returned to his law practice in Birmingham. Mr. Fite was a member of the house of representatives of 1915, from Tuscaloosa County. He is a Democrat; a Methodist; a Mason; a Knight of Pythias; and a member of the Delta Kappa Epsilon college fraternity. Married: in Birmingham, to Wilbur Leake. Residence: Birmingham.

FITTS, ALSTON, physician, was born in Tuscaloosa, March 10, 1867; son of James Harris and Mary Elizabeth (Burgess) Fitts (q. v.). Dr. Fitts graduated from the University of Alabama, A. B., 1886, and LL. B., 1887. He had chosen teaching as his profession, therefore he spent one year at the University of Liepsic, Germany, receiving a certificate of proficiency in the German language in 1888. He was called home by the death of his sister, Mary, and entered the banking business as exchange clerk in the bank of J. H. Fitts & Co. He became dissatisfied with this profession and spent one year, 1891, studying medicine under Dr. James L. Williams, and in October, 1892, entered the medical department of Columbia college, New York; was house surgeon of the Woman's hospital, New York, 1898-99, and is now practicing medicine at Tuscaloosa. He served as a captain in the European War. Married: October 30, 1901, to Mary Shiras, of Ottawa, Kans. Residence: Tuscaloosa.

FITTS, JAMES HARRIS, sr., planter, was born March 12, 1796, in Warren County, N. C., and died in Marengo County July 16, 1832; son of Judge Oliver and Sarah (Harris) Fitts (q. v.), and brother of John Harris (q. v.). He received his education in the common schools of Warren County, removed to Alabama, about 1816, and settled on Bassett's Creek, Washington County, near Old St. Stephens, later, 1821, removing to Clarke County, near Jackson, where he had purchased a large tract of land. He represented this county in the legislature, 1822-23. He commenced the business of salt making near his place, but soon abandoned the works on account of salt becoming such a cheap article. Later, during the War of Secession, these salt works proved of great value to the State. He bought a tract of some 1,200 acres, three miles west of Woodville, near Uniontown, and devoted his time and energy after 1832 until the date of his death to the management of his two plantations, one in Clarke and the other in Marengo. He was assassinated by a discharged superintendent on his plantation in Marengo County. Married: June 30, 1814, in Warren County, N. C., to Rebecca Emily, daughter of Samuel and Elizabeth (Faulcon) Alston, of North Carolina; granddaughter of Philip and Winnefred (Whitmell) Alston, of North Carolina, and of Nicholas and Lucy W. Faulcon, of Surry County, Va. Children: 1. Samuel Alston (q. v.), m. Sarah Elizabeth Alston; 2. Oliver Henry, d. young; 3. Sarah Harris, d. young; 4. Elizabeth Faulcon, m. Sewell Jones Leach (q. v.); 5. Rebecca Emily, d. young; 6. Caroline Medora, m. Josiah James Pegues (q. v.); 7. John Henry, unm. physician, University of Alabama, B. A., 1847, M. A., 1850; Jefferson medical college, Philadelphia, M. D., 1849; practiced and died in Mississippi; 8. William Faulcon, m. Jersey Annie Foster (q. v.); 9. James Harris, m. Mary Elizabeth Burgess (q. v.); 10. Susan Virginia, m. Lucien Van Buren Martin (q. v.). Last residence: Marengo County.

FITTS, JAMES HARRIS, jr., lawyer and banker, was born at Jackson, Clarke County, October 12, 1830; son of James Harris and Rebecca Emily (Alston) Fitts (q. v.), and brother Samuel Alston (q. v.), and William Faulcon Fitts (q. v.). He received his early education in the private schools of Tuscaloosa; graduated from the University of Alabama, A. B., 1849; taught at Foster's settlement, in Tuscaloosa County, 1850-51; and in the city of Tuscaloosa, 1852; received the degree of A. M., 1852, from the University of Alabama and subsequently LL. D.; was admitted to practice law, 1853, and immediately began the practice at Tuscaloosa, continuing until 1861; was city attorney 1854. He was elected, 1863, by the congress of the Confederate States, the Confederate States depository, at Tuscaloosa, which office he held until 1865. He established the first bank, 1865, in Tuscaloosa since the failure of the State bank, 1837, and this bank was the only one in the city until 1872. Mr. Fitts was interested in banking, 1870-90, and at the same time organizing and becoming connected with many important enterprises. He was elected president of the Alabama bar association at its first meeting, 1890. He was appointed trustee of the University of Alabama, 1865-68, by the governor, and served as secretary during the trying days of reconstruction; becoming fiscal agent 1866-69; treasurer 1872; and continuing in this office until 1912. He is an Episcopalian and a Democrat. Author: "Usury," published in the proceeding of the Alabama bankers association, 1890; "History of banks and banking in Alabama," published in the proceedings of the Alabama bankers association, 1891; "History of the State bank of Alabama," published in the Bankers law journal, June, 1895; "Free coinage of silver," published in proceedings of the Alabama bankers association, 1892; "Genealogy of the Fitts or Fitz Family in America," 1897. Married: May 2, 1855, to Mary Elizabeth, daughter of Lovat and Fannie (Cox) Burges, of Bayou Huffer, Avoyelles Parish, La. Children: 1. William Faulcon, m. Annie Spiller, daughter of James Spiller, of Tuscaloosa, attended the University of the South, 1872, graduated from the University of Alabama, 1875; president of the Tuscaloosa cotton mills until 1897, banker; 2. James Harris, d. in infancy; 3. Festus, m. Annalee, daughter of John T. and Nancy (Curry) Taylor, of Mobile, University of Alabama, A. M., 1878, secretary and treasurer, 1895-96, and president and general manager, 1892-96, Tuscaloosa cotton mills, assistant cashier of bank of J. H. Fitts & Co., 1886-96, member of the first board of education, Tuscaloosa, 1890-91, d. August 6, 1896; 4. Fannie, m. Samuel Fitts Alston (q. v.); 5. Arthur, student at the University of Alabama, 1878-80, superintendent of Tuscaloosa cotton mills, d. July 29, 1889; 6. Alice m. Walton W. Hill, son of Rev. Leonidas and Mary Helener (Walton) Hill, student at the University of the South, University of Virginia, LL. B., representative from Montgomery in the legislature 1889, 1892 and 1894. 7. Alston, m. Mary Shiras, Ottawa, Kans. (q. v.); 8. Mary, d. young. Last residence: Tuscaloosa.

FITTS, JOHN, planter and merchant, was born in 1804, in Warren County, N. C., and died in Clay County, Miss., on December 13, 1882; son of Judge Oliver and Sarah (Harris) Fitts (q. v.), and brother of James Harris Fitts (q. v.). He was educated at the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill; removed to Alabama after his education was finished, 1832, and settled at St. Stephens, where he amassed a large fortune by planting, merchandising and trading. He owned stores at Arcola, on the Warrior River, at Woodville, now Uniontown, Perry County, and at Prairie Bluff, on the Alabama River. He was at one time clerk of the U. S. district court, sitting at Mobile, where he resided for many years, and was a member of the house of representatives from Washington County, 1829. His start in life was made by borrowing $10,000 from the bank of St. Stephens and investing this money in negro slaves. Married: in 1830, to Virginia Wilmonia, daughter of Col. William Aylette, of Tuscaloosa. Children: 1. Martha Aylette, m. Dr. La Fayette Guild (q. v.); 2. Oliver Henry, unm. member of Texas Rangers, served as a member of the Sixth Texas cavalry regiment, C. S. Army, wounded at the battle of Corinth; sheriff of Tuscaloosa County, 1871, d. in Birmingham July 30, 1890; 3. William Aylette, m. Eliza J. Watt, joined the Jeff Davis artillery, C. S. Army, later organized and became captain of Co. I, Alabama volunteer regiment, planter, cotton broker and real estate dealer; 4. Philips Augustus, m. Sophia Holland Cochran (q. v.); 5. Margaret Louisa, m. John James Harris (q. v.); 6. Tempe, m. James E. Hawkins (q. v.); 7. Sallie, d. young. Last residence: Clay County, Mississippi.

FITTS, OLIVER, Federal judge, was born about 1771, in Dinwiddie County, Va., and died at St. Stephens, in 1816; son of Henry and Susannah (Sturdivant) Fitts, the former born in Prince George County, Va., about 1730, and who removed to Warren County, N. C., about 1773, where he acquired much property. Judge Fitts removed with his family to Warren County, N. C., and there received his education. He was a member of the house of commons from Warren County, 1798-99; attorney general of North Carolina, 1808-10; was nominated by President James Madison on April 17, 1810, as judge of the Mississippi Territory, and the nomination was confirmed on the next day by the senate. Alabama was at this date included in the territory of Mississippi, and the federal courts were held at Vicksburg, Miss., and St. Stephens. He removed his family from North Carolina and settled at the latter place, where he continued to discharge the duties of Federal judge until his death. Married (1) in 1795, to Sarah Harris, of Surry County, N. C.; (2) to a widow thought to be a Mrs. Ashe. Children: 1. James Harris, m. Rebecca Emily Alston (q. v.); 2. Susan Brown, m. (1) Daniel B. Ripley, v.; and (2) Edward F. Comegys (q. v.); 3. Henry, d. unm; 4. Temperance Winnefred, m. William Crawford (q. v.); 5. John, m. Virginia Wilmonia Aylette (q. v.); 6. Oliver Harris, m. Nancy Moore. Last residence: St. Stephens.

FITTS, PHILIP AUGUSTUS, Episcopal clergyman and lawyer, was born April 19, 1839 in Tuscaloosa County; son of John and Virginia Wilmonia (Aylette) Fitts (q. v.). His elementary education was received in the Tuscaloosa schools; was a student at the University of Alabama, 1856-57; and began the study of law in the office of Whitfield and Fitts, 1857. Although under age, his friends procured the passage of an act by the legislature, 1857-58, authorizing him to practice provided he should stand an approved examination before the supreme court. The following year, 1859, he passed the examination and was admitted to the bar. He began the practice of law in Tuscaloosa in partnership with J. H. Fitts and later with Col. A. C. Hargrove, the latter for several years a State senator and later president of the senate. He continued his practice until the beginning of the War of Secession, when he volunteered and served for two years as a private in Lunsden's battery, C. S. Army. After the war he resumed the practice of his profession, but having joined the Protestant Episcopal church, he was soon induced to become a lay reader and was afterwards admitted to the charge of the diaconate and was ordained to the priesthood, 1873. He was called to the charge of the Church of the Advent, Birmingham, remaining there until November, 1875, where he removed to Clarksville. After eleven years of service in Clarksville, he accepted the charge of Grace church, Anniston. The University of the South conferred the degree of D. D. upon him 1893. Married: April 10, 1861, to Sophia Holland, daughter of William and Sophia L. (Perkins) Cochrane, of Tuscaloosa. Children: 1. Louise, d. young; 2. William Cochrane (q. v.) m. Eleanor Hewitt; 3. Philip Augustus, d. young; 4. Aylette, d. in infancy; 5. Sophia; 6. Henry John, m. Florence Dallam Dudley, of Henderson, Ky., student at the University of Alabama, 1891-92, lawyer and teacher; 7. Hardin Holland; 8. Fairfax; 9. Virginia Aylette. Last residence: Anniston.

FITTS, SAMUEL ALSTON, planter, was born May 15, 1815, in Warren County, N. C., and died in Marengo County, April 2, 1869; son of James Harris and Rebecca Emily (Alston) Fitts (q. v.), and brother of James Harris (q. v.) and of William Faulcon (q. v.). He was brought to Alabama as an infant by his parents and was educated in the best schools of Washington and Clarke Counties. By the death of his father he was left, at the age of eighteen, in charge of his widowed mother and her eight young children. He was appointed administrator of his father's estate, having been required to furnish a bond of $90,000, and managed the large estate with skill and fidelity for nineteen years. He was a very successful planter and accumulated a large estate for his family. Their beautiful home "Roseland" was built in Marengo County, near Uniontown, Perry County. He was a Methodist and a Mason. Married: November 29, 1838, to Sarah Elizabeth, daughter of Col. William Williams and Mary Haywood (Burgess) Alston, of Clarke County, but originally from North Carolina. Only one of their eleven children married. 1. Mary Emily; 2. Sarah Olivia; 3. Samuel Thomas; 4. James Oliver, b. December 19, 1846, student University of Alabama, 1863, but left to join Gen. Loring's division, C. S. Army, later courier, student University of Virginia, lawyer, planter, d. February 25, 1892, at "Roseland"; 5. Edward Alston, planter, Marengo County; 6. John Henry, A. M., University of Alabama, 1874, planter, Marengo County; 7. Cornelia, m. Frank Wharton Gaines; 8. Walter Emmett, d. young; 9. Haywood, planter, Faunsdale; 10. Haywood, student University of Alabama, 1880-81, planter, Faunsdale; 11. Herbert. Last residence: Marengo County.

FITTS, WILLIAM COCHRANE, attorney general of Alabama and lawyer, was born in Tuscaloosa, January 29, 1866; son of Rev. Dr. Philip Augustus and Sophia Holland (Cochrane) Fitts (q. v.). He received his early education at the old academy at Elyton and the first public school in Birmingham, later removing to Clarksville, Tenn., with his parents he continued his education in this place; spent one year at the University of the South; graduated from the Southwestern Presbyterian university, Clarksville, Tenn., 1884. He accepted a position as clerk in the National bank of Clarksville, but soon began the study of law in the office of Hon. Polk Johnson. He graduated from the University of Alabama, LL. B., 1886, and later attended a summer course of law at the University of Virginia. He practiced law at Tuscaloosa 1886-94; was elected attorney general 1894, and re-elected 1896. He was a member of the constitutional convention, 1901, from Tuscaloosa County; removed to Mobile and practiced there until 1910 when he removed to Birmingham. He has been U. S. assistant attorney general since 1917. He is a Democrat; and an Episcopalian. Married: April 23, 1890, in Birmingham to Eleanor, daughter of Col. G. W. and Harriet (Earle) Hewitt, of Birmingham (q. v.). Children: 1. Harriet Earle; 2. Sophia Holland; 3. Eleanor Fitts; 4. William Cochrane. Residence: Birmingham.

FITTS, WILLIAM FAULCON, physician, was born February 14, 1829, near Jackson, Clarke County, and was killed in repulsing the attack of the Federal army, December 27, 1862; son of James Harris and Rebecca Emily (Alston) Fitts (q. v.), and brother of James Harris (q. v.), and of Samuel Alston Fitts (q. v.). He was educated in the schools of Tuscaloosa County; attended the University of Alabama for two years; read medicine under Dr. James Guild, 1848-49; attended lectures at the Medical college at New Orleans, 1849-50; and was graduated from the Jefferson medical college, Philadelphia, 1851. He settled in Marengo County, 1852, and began the practice of his profession, at the same time supervising his planting interests. In a few years he gained the reputation of being a skillful physician. Realizing that the South was in need of all her men, in the spring of 1862, he joined a company of cavalry, then forming in Northport, under Capt. H. S. Whitfield. This company was mustered into service as Co. G., 51st Alabama cavalry regiment, Col. John T. Morgan commanding. Dr. Fitts was elected second lieutenant and later made first lieutenant upon the resignation of Capt. Whitfield. He was killed at Stewart's Creek just preceding the battle Murfreesboro, Tenn., while leading his men in an effort to check the advance of the enemy. He was buried where he fell by the Federals, the body being moved by friends later to a grave-yard, some five miles distant, and later still, December, 1865, removed to Tuscaloosa. Married: October 13, 1857, to Jersey Annie, daughter of Charles M. Foster, of Tuscaloosa. Children: 1. Charles, m. Flora Damer, of Hale County, student at the University of Alabama, 1874-77, merchant of Tuscaloosa; 2. Lizzie Faulcon, m. Benjamin Flinn of Montgomery, University of Alabama, A. B., 1880, LL. B., 1881, member of the house of representatives, Montgomery County, 1886-87; 3. William Faulcon, m. Helen Wallace McEachin, daughter of Col. A. B. Mc-

Eachin of Tuscaloosa; student at the University of Alabama, 1878-80; cattle merchant of Tuscaloosa. Last residence: Marengo County.

FITZGERALD, JOHN, soldier of the American Revolution, a resident of Washington County; private 7th Regular U. S. infantry; enrolled on September 27, 1818, payment to date from August 26, 1818; annual allowance, $96; sums received to date of publication of list, $1,058.63; acts military establishment.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong. 1st sess., 1833-34.

FITZPATRICK, BENJAMIN, lawyer, ninth governor of Alabama, U. S. senator, was born June 30, 1802, in Greene County, Ga., and died November 21, 1869, at Wetumpka, son of William and Anne (Phillips) Fitzpatrick, the former who emigrated from Fluvanna County, Va., to Georgia with his mother and brothers and sisters in 1784, was a lieutenant in the Third South Carolina regiment, was presented with a sword for services rendered at Savannah where he was wounded, served in the Georgia legislature for nineteen consecutive years, and has his name on the roll of honor in the Lineage Book, 1901, volume 5, 1893-1894, the latter a sister of Col. Joseph Phillips of Clarke County, who, at great personal risk to herself, carried over the country on horseback valuable government papers which she delivered safely at Savannah; grandson of Joseph and Mary Perrin (Woodson) Fitzpatrick, who lived at Fluvanna County, Va., the former of whom came from Ireland to Virginia about the year 1720, with his father and brothers, William and Thomas, when he was about five years old, and of Joseph and Anne Phillips; great-grandson of William Fitzpatrick, the emigrant, a native of the north of Ireland, who is the progenitor of the Fitzpatricks living in the southern, southwestern and western states, and of Boothe and Mary (Perrin) Woodson, of Virginia; great-great-grandson of Miss Napier, daughter of Rene Napier of Virginia, who was of French descent.

Gov. Fitzpatrick was left an orphan when he was seven years old, and though well cared for by a sister and elder brothers, received a limited education. He went to Alabama about 1816 to manage the interests of his brothers, Joseph and Phillips, who had acquired land on the banks of the Alabama River, north of Montgomery. He served as deputy under the first sheriff of Autauga County; and afterwards was clerk in a trading house on the site of the present town of Wetumpka. He read law in the office of Judge Nimrod E. Benson in Montgomery; was admitted to the bar at that place and formed a professional partnership with Henry Goldthwaite. He was elected solicitor of the Montgomery circuit in 1819; re-elected in 1822; practiced his profession from 1823 until 1827; and retired to his plantation in Autauga County to engage in agriculture in the latter year. He was in retirement for about twelve years. Upon the election of Gov. Clay to the senate of the United States at the extra session, June 30, 1837, provision had to be made by the Democratic party for a candidate to succeed him as the executive, by election, on the first Monday in August, only one month ahead. There was not time for a convention, hence a caucus of the Democratic members of the legislature was resorted to, to make the nomination. In the caucus, the claims of Mr. Speaker Bagby and Gov. Fitzpatrick were urged, the former succeeding by a few votes only. This demonstration in his favor brought Gov. Fitzpatrick before the people, and at the convention of 1839, he was placed at the head of the Democratic electoral ticket for the state at large, and the next year canvassed the state for President Van Buren. In 1841, he was elected governor of Alabama, defeating James W. McClung of Madison; and on the expiration of his term, was re-elected without opposition, retiring from the position in 1845. The most important event of his administration was the overthrow of the state banking system, which owing to mismanagement, had fallen into disfavor and disrepute. The state became liable for the indebtedness of the banks and for a time was on the brink of financial ruin. A commission was appointed to adjust the affairs of the banks, and ably fulfilled the trust. Upon the retirement of Gov. Fitzpatrick from office, a resolution of approval of his course was unanimously adopted by the legislature.

By appointment of Gov. Chapman, Mr. Fitzpatrick became U. S. senator, 1848-1849, to fill a vacancy caused by the death of Senator D. H. Lewis; and again, in 1853, was appointed to the senate by Gov. Collier to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Senator William R. King, elected vice-president of the United States. Senator Fitzpatrick was re-elected by the legislature of Alabama in 1855 to a full term expiring March 3, 1861. He was chosen president pro tempore of the U. S. Senate in the absence of the vice-president of the United States, and served in that capacity during the Thirty-fifth and Thirty-sixth congresses, from December 7, 1857, to June 12, 1860. He was nominated the Democratic candidate for vice-president of the United States by the national convention held in Baltimore in 1860, but declined the nomination. Upon the secession of Alabama in 1861, Senator Fitzpatrick left the senate and returned to his home. At the close of the war he was chosen to represent Autauga County in the constitutional convention of 1865, and was unanimously elected president of that body. This was his last official position as he was disfranchised shortly afterward. He retired to his plantation in Wetumpka, where he died November 25, 1869.

Married: (1) July 19, 1827, at "Huntingdon," Autauga County, now Elmore County, Sarah Terry Elmore, died in 1837, daughter of Gen. John Archer and Anne (Martin) Elmore, who lived at "Huntingdon," Autauga County, formerly of South Carolina; granddaughter of Gen. John and Sarah Elizabeth (Terry) Martin; great-granddaughter of Capt. Abram and Elizabeth (Marshall) Martin, and of Lieut. Nathaniel Terry, first lieutenant, Fourteenth Virginia regiment; sister of Hon. John A. Elmore of Montgomery, of Hon. Franklin Elmore, subsequently a senator in congress from South Carolina, of William Elmore, attorney-general of Louisiana, of Hon. Henry M. Elmore, of Macon County, of Hon. Rush Elmore, judge of the United States court in Kansas, and of Albert Elmore, secretary of state of Alabama, and collector of the port of Mobile; sister-in-law of the Hon. Dixon H. Lewis; (2) November 29, 1846, Aurelia Rachel Blassingame, of Marion, born January 3, 1825, and died August, 1872, daughter of William E. Blassingame. Children, by first marriage: 1. Elmore Joseph (q. v.); 2. Phillips (q. v.); 3. Morris Martin, b. November 20, 1831, d. September, 1853; 4. James Madison, b. December 6, 1833, d. April 29, 1852; 5. Thomas Sumpter, b. November 13, 1835; 6. John Archer, b. December 14, 1836; by second wife, 7. Aurelia, b. and d. April 20, 1848; 8. Benjamin, b. December 29, 1854, a lawyer, Wetumpka. Last residence: Wetumpka.

FITZPATRICK, CLEMENT TRANUM, merchant, was born December 28, 1857, in Bullock County; son of Clement and Fanny (Tranum) Fitzpatrick, the former a native of Georgia who removed to Bullock County where he practiced medicine, the latter a member of a prominent Virginia family; grandson of Philip and Nanny Fitzpatrick who came to Alabama from Georgia about 1817, with his brother Benjamin, who was afterwards governor of the state, and with four other brothers, Joseph, Alva, William and Bird. They separated and settled in Pike, Macon, Montgomery and Autauga counties, and found their Indian neighbors for a long while friendly and helpful. Mr. Fitzpatrick received his only education in the Littlepage old field school, and in 1890, began merchandising. He is a Democrat; Presbyterian; and an Elk. Married: (1) April, 1882, at Columbus, Ga., to Fanny Graves, daughter of Graves and Roberta (Gibson) Fitzpatrick of that place, paternal ancestry is the same as that of her husband, the latter was a member of the Gibson family of Virginia; (2) April 22, 1903, at Montgomery, to Caroline Goodwyn, daughter of Abram Jones and Margaret Ella (Durham) Lamar of Garfield County, S. C. Mrs. Fitzpatrick belongs to the distinguished southern family of Lamars, jurists, lawyers and soldiers. Children: by the first wife, 1. Benjamin, physician; 2. Annie Roberta; 3. Lona Cecile, m. Richard Edward Patten, Lancaster, S. C.; 4. Dorothy Graves; by the second wife, Clement LeGrand; 5. Jean Lamar. Residence: Montgomery.

FITZPATRICK, ELMORE JOSEPH, lawyer, was born June 3, 1828, in Autauga County, and died July 27, 1884, at Montgomery; son of Gov. Benjamin and Sarah Terry (Elmore) Fitzpatrick (q. v.); grandson of William and Anne (Phillips) Fitzpatrick who lived in Greene County, Ga., and of Gen. John Archer and Anne (Martin) Elmore, who lived at the family homestead "Huntingdon," Elmore County; nephew of John A. Elmore and Dixon H. Lewis. William Fitzpatrick, the emigrant, came from the north of Ireland to Virginia with his three sons in 1710. Of the sons, Joseph Fitzpatrick, ancestor of this branch of the family, located in Greene County, Ga. Capt. Fitzpatrick was educated in schools around his home, and was graduated from the University of Alabama, B. A., 1847. He read law in the office of Judge John A. Campbell of Mobile; was admitted to the bar in Montgomery, 1851; and entered upon the practice of law that same year in Montgomery. When the War of Secession began in 1861, he entered the C. S. Army as first lieutenant in Semple's battery, Alabama light artillery, and was mustered into service March 7, 1862, at Montgomery. He was in active service in the field until after the battle of Murfreesboro, when he was appointed captain of cavalry and judge advocate of Gen. Buckner's military court. The next year, he was stationed at Mobile as judge advocate of Gen. Maury's court, and remained in that service until the end of the war. He distinguished himself in the battle of Perryville, December 31, 1862, and at Murfreesboro, January 2, 1863. Capt. Fitzpatrick was elected solicitor of the Montgomery judicial circuit by the legislature in 1865, and served until 1867 when he was thrust out of office by the Reconstruction Acts. While holding the office, he had a public controversy with Gen. Wager Swayne, a Federal general commanding the district of Alabama, in which he resisted the efforts of that general to interfere with the administration of public justice in the courts of the state. After that time, he held no public office, but in the different canvasses which occurred for the redemption of the state from radical rule, he was an active participant. He frequently made speeches during those canvasses; with a member of the state executive committee of the Democratic and Conservative party of Alabama, and was often a delegate to the state and county conventions.

Married: (1) December 6, 1854, at Montgomery, Virginia, Rosalie Armistead, died May, 1864, daughter of Col. William and Lucy (Boyd) Armistead, who lived at New Kent County, Va., and moved to Alabama in 1833, where they settled on a plantation in Greene County, the former whose ancestors came from Kirk Deighton, Yorkshire, England, to Virginia in 1635; sister of Dr. William B. Armistead (q. v.); (2) August 6, 1868, at Frederick, Md., Elizabeth Thornton Marks, of Montgomery, who died in 1911. Children, by first marriage: 1. William Armistead, d. in infancy; 2. Sarah Terry, d. in infancy; 3. Robert Armistead, b. 1859, d. 1907; 4. Rosalie Virginia, b. 1861, m. 1881, Simeon Shy Higgins, of Franklin, Tenn., resides in Montgomery, children, Elmore Fitzpatrick, m. Mary Shepherd Knowles, Rosalie Armistead, Elizabeth Sayre, and Herbert Armistead d.; 5. Benjamin James, b. 1864, d. November 6, 1894, at Montgomery, A. B., University of Alabama, lawyer; by second marriage: 6. William Marks, b. 1870, killed by the accidental discharge of a gun in the hands of a friendly comrade his own age, June 21, 1881. Last residence: Montgomery.

FITZPATRICK, PHILLIPS, physician, was born March 15, 1830, at Wetumpka, and died April 29, 1901, at Wetumpka; son of Gov. Benjamin and Sarah Terry (Elmore) Fitzpatrick (q. v.); grandson of William and Anne (Phillips) Fitzpatrick, of Greene County, Ga., and of Gen. John Archer and Anne (Martin) Elmore, of Elmore, Elmore County, natives of Virginia and South Carolina, respectively; nephew of Hon. Benjamin Thomas Elmore, an officer in the U. S. Army, auditor of the state of South Carolina and a candidate for governor, of Hon. Franklin Harper Elmore, who succeeded John C. Calhoun in the U. S. senate, of John Archer Elmore, a lawyer of Montgomery and a member of the state legislature, of Hon. William A. Elmore, a lawyer of New Orleans, superintendent of the mint under President Buchanan, a circuit judge and attorney-general of Louisiana, of Hon. Henry M. Elmore, probate judge of Macon County, who commanded a Texan regiment during the War of Secession, and of Hon. Rush Elmore, captain in the Mexico War, and territorial judge of Kansas under Buchanan; brother of Elmore Fitzpatrick (q. v.). Thirteen of Dr. Fitzpatrick's ancestors were soldiers in the colonial army during the Revolution: William Fitzpatrick, a lieutenant in the Third South Carolina regiment, was brevetted colonel, presented with a sword for services rendered at Savannah, Ga., and served nineteen consecutive years in the Georgia legislature; John Archer Elmore, a private in the ranks under General Greene, was present with Greene at Yorktown, was general of the state militia of South Carolina, one of the first judges in that state, and has Elmore County named for him; Joseph Phillips, private; Gen. John Martin; William Phillips, private; Abram Martin and six brothers were American soldiers; and Nathaniel Terry was first lieutenant of the Fourteenth Virginia regiment.

Dr. Fitzpatrick obtained his early schooling from a Scotchman named MacDougall, near the present town of Elmore; was graduated from the University of Alabama, A. B., 1849, A. M., 1853; and from the University of Louisiana, New Orleans, M. D., 1854. He practiced medicine and engaged in planting until the beginning of the War of Secession; enlisted in Semple's battery early in 1862, and was soon afterwards transferred to the medical department as acting surgeon, which position he held until the end of the war. He resumed his profession and planting in Talladega County, and after a number of years, moved to Elmore County where he practiced until his death. He was a member of the State Medical Association, president of the Elmore County Medical Society; was appointed physician at the state penitentiary during Gov. Johnston's administration; and was a member of Delta Kappa Epsilon college fraternity. Married: (1) March 3, 1858, at Montgomery, Mary Ann Bethea, who died in 1878, daughter of Col. Tristram B. and Eugenia (Volante) Bethea (q. v.); (2) January 5, 1882, at Kellyton, Jennie Kelly, daughter of Dr. James Alexander and Margaret McNeil (Patterson) Kelly, who lived near Kellyton, for whom the town was named. Children: 1. Eugenia Bethea, deceased; 2. James Madison, b. November 14, 1860, d. August 9, 1900, in Wetumpka, lawyer, county solicitor of Elmore County at the time of his death, m. February 23, 1893, Mary A. Cantalou, daughter of Lamar and Mary Graham (Campbell) Cantalou, of Wetumpka; 3. Cornelia, deceased; 4. Sarah Elmore, deceased; 5. Sarah Elmore, Montgomery; 6. Mary Phillips, m. Richard William Skehan, deceased, and resides in Montgomery; 7. Anne Aurelia, deceased; 8. Phillips, jr., deceased; 9. John Kelly, Wetumpka. Last residence: Wetumpka.

FITZSIMMONS, OWEN P., Episcopal clergyman, was born June 27, 1851, in Augusta, Ga., and died September 17, 1901, at Asheville, N. C. He was educated at the University of Virginia and received his theological training in Scotland and Germany. He served as rector of St. Mary's Episcopal church, Birmingham, 1890 until his death, and was chaplain on the staff of Col. E. L. Higdon, 1st Alabama regiment, volunteers, Spanish-American War. He was a Mason. Last residence: Birmingham.

FLANAGAN, JAMES ALEXANDER, farmer and legislator, was born December 21, 1843, at Pontotoc County, Miss.; son of Phillip Pinkney and Elizabeth (Meadows) Flanagan, the former of Georgia, was a soldier in the War of 1812, and also of the Indian War, the latter a native of North Carolina. He was educated in the common schools. He served in Co. B, 36th Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army, throughout the War of Secession. He was commissioner of Greene County twelve years; and in the legislature of 1911 was one of the representatives of that county. He is a Democrat; and a Presbyterian. Married: March 25, 1859, to Maranda, daughter of Berry and Martha King, of North Carolina. Children: 1. Molsey Elizabeth, m. A. R. Hester, Greenville; 2. Mary Lula, m. Edward Norris, Tuscaloosa; 3. Albert Beston. Residence: Clinton.

FLASH, HENRY LYNDEN, author, was born in Cincinnati, O., July 20, 1835. In 1839, his family moved to New Orleans, and in 1849 he entered the Western Military institute in Kentucky, and was graduated there in 1852. He first wrote and published verses while at college. When he left school, he went to Mobile, entered a branch of his father's commercial house for some years, but was continually composing verses during that time. He went to Europe in 1857, spent a year in Italy, and while abroad was correspondent of the "New Orleans Delta" and the "Montgomery Mail." Before going to Europe he was for a few months one of the editors of the "Mobile Register." On returning from Italy, Mr. Flash went into a cotton commission house in Mobile, and in 1860 moved to Galveston, Tex., entering in the wholesale produce business. In the summer of 1860 his first volume of poems was published by Rudd & Carleton, New York. It was sold out in two or three months, and another edition was to have been published, but the war prevented. During the War of Secession, Mr. Flash served as a volunteer, and was aide-de-camp to Gen. W. J. Hardee and Gen. Joseph Wheeler. Through the last year of the war, he owned and edited the "Macon Telegraph." In 1865, he returned to his business in Galveston, Tex., but left there three years later to enter the same business in New Orleans. He lived in that city until 1884, when he moved to Los Angeles, Calif. His second volume of poems appeared in 1906 with an introduction by Gen. Wheeler. Several of his better-known poems are: "Confederate Flag," "Zollicoffer," "Leonidas Polk," "The Shadow of the Valley," and "Love and Wrong." Married: in 1870, Clara Dolson of New Orleans. Residence: Los Angeles, Calif.

DR. RHETT GOODE

FLEMING, PORTER THOMAS, physician, was born November 3, 1868, at Clintonville, Coffee County; son of Edmund D. and Lucy A. (Flowers) Fleming, the former of whom lived around Clintonville from the time he was a small boy, served as a private in the Thirty-third Alabama regiment, Co. K., and in the Fifteenth Confederate cavalry, Co. D.; grandson of William Walker and Henrietta (Dis-mukes) Fleming, who lived at Clintonville, and of Jacob and Pennie (Johnson) Flowers, of Smithfield, N. C. He received his academic training in Clintonville under the instruction of J. J. Johnson, J. M. Sanders, and J. J. Langham, and was graduated from the Louisville medical college, Kentucky, M. D., 1894. He began to practice medicine at Clintonville, in 1894, and continued his profession there for five years; practiced at Dothan, Houston County, for a year; and at Enterprise, Coffee County, since that time. Dr. Fleming has for a number of years conducted an extensive surgical practice at the Coffee County sanitarium in Enterprise. He is a Democrat, a steward in the Methodist Episcopal church, south, a Mason and a Knight of Pythias. Married: July 21, 1907, at Enterprise, Carrie Hutchison, daughter of Louis Pink and Nettie (Law) Hutchison, of Clintonville. The Laws came to Alabama from South Carolina and the Hutchisons from North Carolina. Residence: Enterprise.

FLEMING, SAMUEL, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 85, resided in Montgomery County, June 1, 1840.—Census of Pensioners, 1841, p. 149.

FLEMING, SAMUEL, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 75, and a resident of Autauga County; private Georgia Militia; enrolled on January 12, 1833, under Act of Congress, June 7, 1832; payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $40; sums received to date of publication of list, $120.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in part 3, vol. xiii, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34.

FLEMING, WALTER LYNWOOD, educator, was born April 8, 1874, near Brundidge, Pike County; son of William Leroy and Mary Love (Edwards) Fleming, the former a Georgian; grandson of John Alexander Fleming and Leroy M. and Martha (Mizell) Edwards, of Dale County. He received his preparatory training in the public schools of Pike County, and at Brundidge academy; was graduated with honors at the Alabama polytechnic institute, B. S., 1896, and M. S., 1897, and from Columbia university, New York, M. A., 1901, and Ph. D., 1904. He farmed until 1894, and during the next two years, when not in college, taught in the public schools. He was instructor in history, English and mathematics, 1896-1897, assistant librarian, 1897-1898, 1899-1900, Alabama polytechnic institute; lecturer in history, Columbia university, 1902-1903; professor of history, West Virginia university, 1903-1907; professor of history, Louisiana State university, 1907-1917; and at Vanderbilt university, Nashville, Tenn., since 1917. He was private, corporal, and first sergeant in the Second Alabama volunteer infantry, U. S. Army, and second lieutenant, Third Alabama volunteer infantry, 1898-1899, during war with Spain; and quartermaster with the field hospital, Second division, Fourth Army corps, 1899. He is a member of the Alabama, Louisiana, and Mississippi Valley historical associations; of the American Historical Association; of the American Political Science Association; and of the National Geographic Society. He was one of the editors of the "Historians' History of the World," 1907; editor of Lester and Wilson's "History of Ku Klux Klan," 1905; "Documentary History of Reconstruction," two volumes, 1906, 1907; was editor-in-chief of section vi. of "The South in the Building of the Nation," twelve volumes; contributed historical articles to "Encyclopedia Americana," "Encyclopedia Britannica," "Nelson's Encyclopedia," "Cyclopedia of American Government," "Photographic History of the Civil War," and historical papers and revues to various publications. He is engaged in research in American social and economic history, especially of the Southern States, and has in preparation a biography of Jefferson Davis and a history of the reconstruction period. He is author of "Reconstruction of the Seceded States," 1905; "Civil War and Reconstruction in Alabama," 1905; "William Tecumseh Sherman as College President," 1912. He is a member of the board of editors of the Mississippi Valley Historical Review; is a Democrat, and a member of Pi Kappa Alpha college fraternity. Married: September 17, 1902, at Auburn, to Mary Wright Boyd, daughter of David French and Esther (Wright) Boyd, who lived at Baton Rouge, La., and at Auburn. Children: 1. Mary Esther; 2. William Leroy; 3. Mary Boyd; 4. Eleanor Louise. Residence: Nashville, Tenn.

FLEMING, WILLIAM, public official, was born about the year 1790, in Botetourt County, Va., and died in 1865 in Madison County. He came to Alabama in 1818, settling in Madison County as a planter. He was elected to the State legislature first in 1821, and continued, with occasional intervals, to occupy a seat in one branch or the other of the legislature until the close of the session of 1862. His public life, including the serving of eight years in the lower house and fourteen years in the senate, covered a period of more than thirty years. The journals of the general assembly show his name oftener than any other. He was a presidential elector for Gen. Andrew Jackson, and was a staunch Democrat. During the war, he was harshly treated by Federal troops when they occupied the county. Married: Miss Lewis of Virginia. Last residence: Madison County.

FLETCHER, ALGERNON SIDNEY, banker, was born April 8, 1833, at Manchester, Chesterfield County, Va., and died at Huntsville; son of James N. and Matilda Golden (Cheatham) Fletcher, natives of Virginia, the former early emigrated to North Alabama, and at the time of his death lived in Limestone County. He was educated at Green academy of Huntsville, LaGrange college, where he graduated in 1855. He began the practice of law in Huntsville, 1858. In April, 1861, he enlisted in the 4th Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army, and was appointed quartermaster of the command with the rank of captain and served until the end of the war. Gov. L. E. Parsons appointed him alderman in 1868, and he was alternately alderman and councilman of his city for over fifteen years; represented Madison County in the legislature in 1876-77, 1878-79, 1892-93, 1894-95, and was re-elected in November, 1902. He was elected a delegate from Madison County to the Constitutional convention of 1901, serving on the committee of municipal corporations, and as chairman of the committee on banks and banking in that body. At the time of his death he was vice-president of the First national bank of Huntsville. He was a Democrat; and a Presbyterian. Married: April 24, 1867, at Huntsville, to Mrs. Robert J. Lowe (nee Matilda Holding). Children: 1. Shelby Sidney, (q. v.). Last residence: Huntsville.

FLETCHER, N. W., grand master, grand lodge of Alabama, Masons, grand master, grand council of Alabama, 1841.

FLETCHER, RICHARD J., major, 11th Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army.

FLETCHER, RICHARD MATTHEW, physician, was born April 1, 1831, in Richmond, Va.; son of James M. and Matilda G. (Cheatham) Fletcher, the former a native of Brunswick County, Va., who served several times in the Virginia legislature, and moved with his family to Alabama in 1833. He was educated at the Green academy at Huntsville; left school in 1849 to read medicine under Dr. A. S. Harris; attended the medical course at the University of Pennsylvania, 1852-1854, and was graduated, the latter year, M. D. He returned to Alabama and practiced medicine in Madison County. During the War of Secession, he gave important medical service among the sick and wounded soldiers at Richmond and Culpeper Court House, Va., and in Madison and Limestone Counties. He was a member and president for one term of the Limestone County Medical Society; a member and three times president of the Madison County Medical Society; a member, vice-president, junior and senior counsellor, and grand counsellor of the Alabama State Medical Society; and a member of the Methodist Episcopal church. He read a paper on puerperal convulsion before the state medical association in Mobile, 1888, which attracted much attention, and was a frequent contributor to medical journals. Married: August 2, 1855, Rebecca Mason, daughter of William Mason of Virginia. Children: 1. Thomas J.; 2. Eldred; 3. Sidney; 4. Branch; 5. Leslie; 6. Richard Mason, jr., A. B., A. M., b. May 22, 1872, physician, Mobile, 1894, health officer, Madison County, 1895-1898, first lieutenant and quartermaster then assistant surgeon, First Alabama volunteer infantry, U. S. Army, during the Spanish-American War, 1898, assistant surgeon, U. S. Army; 7. Mary G.; 8. Octavia; and two others, deceased. Residence: Madison.

FLETCHER, SHELBY SIDNEY, planter, was born March 28, 1874, at Huntsville; son of Algernon Sidney and Mattie (Holding) Fletcher (q. v.). He was educated in the Shepard school at Huntsville, and graduated A. B. 1892, from the University of Alabama. In 1893 he received the degree of LL. B. Although admitted to the bar he has never practiced law. He is a planter and a cotton merchant, at Huntsville. He was a member of the house of representatives from Huntsville, 1911. He is a Democrat; Elk; and a member of the Delta Kappa Epsilon college fraternity. He is unmarried. Residence: Huntsville.

FLETCHER, WILLIAM, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 76, and a resident of Jackson County; captain N. C. Militia; enrolled on January 2, 1834, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $420; sums received to date of publication of list, $1,260.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34.

FLEWELLEN, JAMES THWEAT, planter, was born November 8, 1828, at Clinton, Jones County, Ga., and died February 24, 1889, at Washington, D. C.; son of William and Mary (Thweat) Flewellen, natives of Georgia, who lived at Clinton, Ga.; grandson of James and Mary Thweat, of Milledgeville Ga. The Flewellen family came to America from Wales in 1634, and settled in Virginia. They are said to be descendants of Prince Llewellyn the Great, of Wales. The name was originally written Llewellyn but was merged into Flewellen, because of the Welsh pronunciation. The American branch of the family is derived from Betsy and Dick Flewellen, who were rescued when they were small children from a shipwreck off the coast of Virginia in which their parents were drowned. Mr. Flewellen received his early schooling in Georgia, at Clinton and Columbus; attended Oxford college, Georgia; William and Mary college, Virginia; and the law school of Harvard university. He practiced law for a short time, then turned his attention to his extensive planting interests. He was living in Eufaula at the beginning of the war; raised and equipped a regiment in 1862, at his own expense, and became colonel of the Forty-ninth Alabama regiment, C. S. Army. His estates were confiscated during the war, and he returned to Georgia, was appointed solicitor general of the Pautaula Circuit of that state by Gov. Alf H. Colquitt, and held that position for eight years. He was a Presbyterian, a Democrat and a Mason. Married: (1) in 1849, at Columbus, Ga., Henrietta Fontaine; (2) March 12, 1861, Margaret Crawford, daughter of Hon. Joel and Sarah Ruffin (Rhodes) Crawford, of Sparta, Ga., the former a member of Congress, who served on Gen. Floyd's staff with the rank of major in the Seminole War in Florida; a descendant of the Crawfords of Scotland who came to America in 1630, whose ancestor, John Crawford, was knighted by King David I of Scotland at Craw's Ford, Scotland; relative of William H. Crawford, once candidate for president of the United States, for years secretary of state, and minister to France from the United States, of Martin J. Crawford, judge of the supreme court of Georgia, and of George W. Crawford, governor of Georgia for two terms, and secretary of the U. S. treasury under Fillmore's administration. Children, by first marriage: 1. Mary Fontaine, m. Dr. W. P. Copeland of Eufaula, deceased; by second marriage, 2. Lucie Terrell, m. Prof. James T. Newton of the military branch of the Georgia State college, Cuthbert, Ga., later assistant commissioner of the U. S. patent office at Washington, D. C.; 3. Walter Crawford, deceased; 4. Arthur Crawford, deceased; 5. Crawford, d. in infancy. Last residence: Washington, D. C.

FLOURNOY, JOSEPH E. P., member of the constitutional convention of 1875, from Coffee County.

FLOURNOY, ROBERT, planter, was born May 6, 1826, at Eatonton, Putnam County, Ga., and died October 26, 1896, at Brickyard; son of Josiah and Martha (Manley) Flournoy, who lived at Eatonton, Ga., the former a native of Petersburg, Va., a planter and mill man, who was local preacher in the Methodist church and a pioneer of the temperance movement in Georgia; grandson of John F. and Mary (Ashurst) Flournoy, who lived at Petersburg, Va., and of John and Mary Manley, of Eatonton, Ga. The Flournoys were French Huguenots. Laurent Flournoy fled from France to Geneva, Switzerland, after the massacre of the Huguenots. His son, Jean Jacques Flournoy, came to America and settled in Henrico, now Powhatan County, Va. From him are descended all the Flournoys in America. Mr. Flournoy obtained his early education at Eatonton, and attended Transylvania college, Ky. He was a progressive, scientific farmer, and began the culture of Johnson grass for hay before its value was appreciated in the surrounding country. He was a Democrat. Married: October 16, 1855, in Columbus, Ga., the Rev. Walter R. Branham, his brother-in-law, officiating, Eugenia Moffett, daughter of Henry and Dorinda (Phillips) Moffett, who lived in Muscogee County, Ga., and later, in Russell County, near Crawford, the former of whom was a large land owner, who at one time represented Russell County in the Alabama legislature. Children: 1. Dora, resides at Glenwood, N. C., m. Henry H. Epping, deceased; 2. Thomas Moffett, d. November 28, 1913, m. Minnie L. Long, who moved with her children from Russell County to Columbus, Ga., after her husband's death. Last residence: Brickyard.

FLOURNOY, THOMAS F., deputy grand high priest, grand chapter Masons, 1859-60.

FLOWERS, JAMES D., lumber business, was born March 2, 1844, in Fayette County, Ga.; son of W. H. and Sarah T. (Thomas) Flowers (q. v.); grandson of Rev. Drury and Catherine (Sullivan) Flowers, who lived in Georgia, then in Randolph County, and of Rev. William Thames, of Georgia; brother of John J. Flowers (q. v.). Mr. Flowers enlisted in the C. S. Army when he was seventeen years old, serving in Col. Carter's cavalry regiment, Second Alabama, from April, 1861, until May, 1862, when he was transferred to the Seventeenth Alabama infantry, and took part in the battles around Atlanta and in Hood's Tennessee raid. He was captured at the battle of Nashville and sent north to Camp Douglas, where he was kept a prisoner until the close of hostilities, when he returned home. He attended school in Butler County for some time; was employed in a saw mill, and in 1866 moved to Bolling, subsequently becoming connected with the firm of Milner, Caldwell & Flowers Lumber Company. He is a Democrat; a Mason; steward and Sunday School superintendent of the Methodist church at Bolling. Married: June 9, 1866, Emma Rutledge, daughter of D. A. Rutledge. Children: 1. Bettie, m. J. H. Dunklin; 2. William R.; 3. James Henry; 4. John J.; 5. Mary; 6. Emma; 7. Ruth, who was accidentally shot and killed, July 26, 1889. Residence: Bolling.

FLOWERS, JOHN J., planter, manufacturer and lumberman, was born October 3, 1837, in Fayette County, Ga., died April 7, 1905, in Jakin, Ga., where he had gone on business, and was buried in Montgomery; son of W. H. and Sarah T. (Thames) Flowers (q. v.). He received a practical education in the common schools of Georgia and in 1858 removed to Alabama. Locating in Greenville, he formed a partnership with Mr. Thames engaging in the mercantile business. Three years later he withdrew from the partnership, and devoted his attention to farming for the next decade. In 1872, he moved to Bolling, becoming a member of the lumber company of Milner, Caldwell and Flowers, of which he was general manager, secretary and treasurer. This firm was practically the pioneer lumber company of Alabama. He was the first postmaster of Bolling. During the administration of Gov. W. J. Samford he tendered the position of president of the convict board to Mr. Flowers, which he decided to refuse after due consideration. He was especially interested in the promotion of union in Alabama Methodism for a great education system. His conditional offer of $50,000 for the woman's college, Montgomery, was an inspiration throughout the whole movement. Though he did not live to see his plans materialize, his widow and children were in full sympathy with the cause. They have built as a memorial to him the John J. Flowers memorial hall which was erected at a cost of $150,000 and which stands as an enduring monument to the man who encouraged and supported the education of young women in the South. Married: (1) April 11, 1861, to Kate, daughter of Sawyer Brooks; (2) in October, 1881, to Mrs. Lizzie (Hill) Brown, daughter of John G. Hill, of Griffin, Ga. Children: by first marriage, 1. May, m. Gen. R. E. Steiner (q. v.); 2. Sallie, m. Bernard Steiner; 3. Edward P., wholesale lumber dealer, m. Mary Ross; 4. William H., bookkeeper, E. P. Flowers & Co.; 5. Brooks, lumber dealer, Brooks Flowers lumber co., m. Lucy Bishop; 6. Marvin, deceased; by second marriage, 7. John J., paying teller, Capital national bank, m. Kate Nettles, of Montgomery; 8. Arthur H., member of Brooks Flowers lumber co., m. Ailee Snyder. Last residence: Montgomery.

FLOWERS,, W. H., lumber business, was born January 7, 1813, in Darlington District, S. C.; son of Rev. Drury and Catherine (Sullivan) Flowers. His father was a native of South Carolina, born May 1, 1780; was a farmer by occupation, and for a number of years a preacher in the Methodist church, the interests of which religious body he was largely influential in promoting throughout many sections of the South; was married February 15, 1801; emigrated in 1826 to Georgia, settling in Jasper County; moved to Henry County, Ga., in 1833, and to Fayette County in 1844; emigrated to Alabama in 1859, settling in Randolph County, and died there during the same year, his wife surviving him only a short time. Mr. Flowers was reared on a farm, and began life for himself as a farmer in his native state. Soon afterward he moved to Georgia, where he was married, and in 1840 moved to a farm in Fayette County. He devoted his time to his plantation there until he became a resident of Butler County in 1857. He lived for some years in Greenville, became engaged in the milling business in 1860, and eventually became the executive head of the firm of Milner, Caldwell & Flowers Lumber Company. He moved to Bolling in 1885. He was a Democrat, a member of the Methodist church, and a Mason.

Married: January 5, 1837, in Henry County, Ga., Sarah T. Thomas, who died October 7, 1885, in Greenville, daughter of Rev. William Thames. Children: 1. John J. (q. v.); 2. Cassie, m. Charles H. Chandler; 3. Lizzie, m. A. Hamil; 4. William M.; 5. James D. (q. v.); 6. F. A., b. February 2, 1846, in Fayette County, Ga., moved to Butler County in 1857, farmed with his father two years, entered the lumber business first as sawyer for the lumber firm of Milner & Caldwell, in whose employ he continued until 1867, went to Bluff Springs, Fla., where he operated a saw mill for two years, for Evans & Tait, moved back to Alabama in 1873, becoming a member of the firm of Milner, Caldwell & Flowers in Bolling, Butler County, m. March 4, 1869, Carrie Wood, daughter of J. S. Wood, a merchant of Greenville, children, Mamie and Maude; 7. Mary Ellen, d. in infancy; 8. Josephine, m. J. Reed; 9. Susie, deceased, m. Mr. Vinson; 10. Sarah, d. at the age of fifteen; 11. Joseph H.; 12. Emma, m. Dr. Perry. Last residence: Bolling.

FLOYD, CHARLES LEWIS, teacher, for many years a resident of Montgomery, was born January 27, 1858, at Forsyth, Monroe County, Ga.; son of Archibald Benton and Jane Elizabeth (Butler) Floyd, the former a soldier in the commissary department, C. S. Army. Prof. Floyd received his early education in the schools of Monroe County, and at Gordon institute, Barnesville, Ga.; graduated from the University of Georgia, A. B., 1878; taught for two years at Culloden, Ga.; opened a private school, 1881, in Atlanta, and after two successful years entered the service of the Atlanta public schools; in 1889 removed to Montgomery and held the position of superintendent of the city schools until 1914. On retiring from school work Prof. Floyd returned to his old home. He is a Democrat and a Presbyterian. Married: December 24, 1885, at Atlanta, Ga., to Rosa, daughter of John Alexander and Lucy (Smith) Bowie, of that place. No children. Residence: Forsyth, Ga.

FLUKER, GEORGE, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 74, and a resident of Wilcox County; private S. C. Militia; enrolled on February 11, 1834, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $80.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34.

FOLMAR, FELIX, business man, was born December 4, 1872, at Goshen Hill, Pike County; son of George Anderson and Sarah Emma (Walker) Folmar, the former merchant of Troy and Luverne; grandson of James and Mary Ann (Sikes) Folmar (q. v.), and of Felix and Anne Eliza Walker, of Pike County. He received his education in the public schools of Troy, among his teachers being George W. Macon, I. J. Doster, J. M. Dill and E. M. Shackelford; attended Marion institute, 1889, and the University of Virginia, 1889-90, but did not complete the graduate course. He read law in the office of Judge J. C. Richardson, Greenville, in 1896, was admitted to the practice in the supreme court of Alabama, January, 1897, and practiced for four years in Troy. He was elected senator from the 25th district, 1911. He is a Democrat; Methodist; and Knight of Pythias. Married: December 3, 1893, at Luverne, to Mary, daughter of John Irving and Harriet (Cope) Coston of China Grove. Children: 1. Mildred; 2. Ellen Davis; 3. Tommie Coston; 4. Gordon Anderson; 5. John Halifax; 6. Harriet. Residence: Luverne.

FOLMAR, JAMES, teacher, planter, merchant and member constitutional convention, was born February 8, 1822, at McGehee's Switch, Montgomery County, and died in Luverne, October 29, 1903; son of John Nicholas and Elizabeth (Lansdale) Folmar; grandson of Isaac Lansdale and nephew of Abraham Lansdale, the latter a member of the State legislature from Pike County, and both of whom were in the reception committee when Gen. Lafayette visited Montgomery. When a young man Mr. Folmar located in Pike County, where the present town of Goshen is situated, and engaged in teaching and later in planting. In 1876 he removed to Troy and for years was associated with his sons, George A. and W. B. Folmar, in the mercantile business, and was mayor of the town. In 1892 he removed to Luverne, Crenshaw County, and was elected mayor of that town. Mr. Folmar was opposed to secession and used his influence to prevent the disruption of the Union. He was in favor of accepting President Lincoln's proposition to Alexander H. Stephens of Georgia for the cessation of war and the preservation of the Union. After the close of hostilities he made every possible effort looking to public tranquillity and was elected a delegate to the constitutional convention of 1867. He was a member of the Primitive Baptist church. Married: in Pike County, to Mary Ann Sikes. There were children to this union, among these, George A. and W. B. Last residence: Luverne.

FONDE, GEORGE HEUSTIS, physician, graduate of the medical department of the University of Alabama, Mobile, 1897, licensed to practice, 1905. Residence: Mobile.

FONTAINE, GEORGE PETER COSBY, Methodist minister, was born June 30, 1836, near Choctaw Corner, Clarke County; son of William Maury and Elizabeth Garnett (Pearson) Fontaine, the former a native of Louisa County, Va., who served as quartermaster's sergeant and agent for the contractors in Mobile during the War of 1812, taught school in Clarke County for several years, was justice of the peace, and farmed in Clarke County until his death; grandson of Aaron and Barbara (Terrell) Fontaine, who lived at Louisville, Ky., and of John and Nancy (Leonard) Pearson, who moved from Wilkes County, Ga., to Clarke County in 1808, living for a while in one of the forts during an outbreak of the Indians. The Fontaines were introduced into this country by the great-grandparents of Rev. Fontaine. They were French Huguenots, who came to America under the revocation of the edict of Nantes, and settled in Virginia. Rev. Fontaine was educated in the common schools and academies of Clarke County. He taught for two years after leaving school; was elected justice of the peace, 1858-1860; joined the C. S. Army, serving as second lieutenant in the Grove Hill guards, State troops, in 1862, and as second lieutenant of Co. B, Thirty-eighth regiment, Alabama volunteer infantry in 1864. He merchandised after the close of the war; went into the Methodist itinerant ministry, being licensed to preach in 1881; and joined the Alabama conference in 1885. He served as tax assessor of Wilcox County, 1880-1884, while he was preaching on the Lower Peach Tree circuit. Rev. Fontaine is a Democrat, and was a member of the county executive committee during the reconstruction in Wilcox County. He is a Master and a Royal Arch Mason. Married: (1) January 29, 1860, Margaret A. Dumas of Clarke County, daughter of Dr. Jeremiah E. and Isabella (McIver) Dumas, who came from North Carolina to Alabama about 1835; (2) March 14, 1878, at Selma, Martha Duncan Miers, daughter of Pierson and Mary Elizabeth (Fowler) Miers, the former a soldier in the Mexican War. Children: 1. Isabella Garnett, m. William B. Shamburger, Lower Peach Tree, Wilcox County; 2. Mary Caroline, m. Daniel McLean, jr., New Orleans, La.; 3. Owen Powers, m. Stella Hayney, Birmingham; 4. Ida Fannie, m. Jesse O. Warren, Opelika; 5. Maggie Gertrude, m. William Warren Johnson, Birmingham; 6. Paul Pearson, m. Georgia Buchanan, Montgomery; 7. Jessie Vernon, m. William Quincy Waite, Grove Mill; 8. Walter Kennon, m. Kate Barbee, Nashville, Tenn.; 9. George, jr., m. Willie McIsaacs, Chattanooga, Tenn.; 10. Naome, Opelika; 11. Mary Louise McCurdy, Opelika. Residence: Opelika.

FONVILLE, JOHN AVERETT, Missionary Baptist minister and planter, was born July 21, 1809, in Orange County, N. C., and died April 7, 1870, in Lowndes County; son of Rev. Frederick and Mary (Polly) Everet Fonville, the former a native of Craven County, N. C., who later lived upon his plantation in Orange County, author of several volumes of sermons and song books, copies of which owned by the family were destroyed by fire; grandson of Frederick Fonville of Craven County, N. C.; great-grandson of John and Elizabeth (Brice) Fonville, the former a member of the colonial assembly of N. C., 1754 to 1760, representing Craven county; great-great-grandson of John Fonville, a French Huguenot who located with a colony of co-religionists first on the James River, Va., finally in North Carolina, where New Bern now stands. His brother Peter and family were killed in the Indian massacre of 1711. Rev. Mr. Fonville received a sound education and entered upon the Baptist ministry in 1834, laboring in his calling in North Carolina, South Carolina and Alabama. In the latter state served pastorates at Hickory Grove, Lowndes County, Greenville, Pine Level, Midway, Orion, Mt. Lebanon and other churches of the section. He was too old to serve in the War of Secession, but contributed largely to the support of the cause, and gave three sons to the army. He was a large land owner and slave holder, the friend of education and labored with the great Culpeper in the temperance movement in its inception. He was a Democrat and a Mason. Author: Sermons and articles on temperance, ready for publication in book form were burned when his home was destroyed by fire. Married: in May, 1833, in Duplin County, N. C., to Rachel, daughter of Judge Gibson and Rachel (Bryan) Sloan of that place; granddaughter of Judge Kedar and Mary (Whitfield) Bryan of Sampson County, N. C., and of David and Margaret (Jones) Sloan, natives respectively, of Duplin and Hanover Counties, N. C., the former a Revolutionary soldier; great-granddaughter of Col. Needham and Nancy (Smith) Bryan of Johnston County, N. C., prominent in the Colonial, Revolutionary and the War of 1812 periods, and of Joe and Margaret Sloan, of North Carolina; great-great-granddaughter of Needham and Annie (Rambeau) Bryan of Bertie County, N. C., the former a member of the Colonial assembly of 1750-59, justice of the peace, sheriff and commissioner, and of Caleb and Nancy Jane Sloan of North Carolina; great-great-great-granddaughter of Marquis William and Lady Alice (Needham) Bryan of England, who settled in Isle of Wight County, Va.; and removed to Albemarle Sound in 1722, member of the Colonial assembly of North Carolina from Pasquotank County, high sheriff, justice of the peace; and great-great-great-great-granddaughter of Lord Needham of Castle Kilmorey, Ireland. The Sloans were of Scotch-Irish descent, having removed from Scotland to Ireland, thence to Pennsylvania, Virginia, and Duplin County, North Carolina. Children: 1. Mary Sloan; 2. Margaret Edna; 3. Susan Frances, m. Capt. Samuel Smith Stakely; 4. Frederick Gibson, Confederate soldier, lieutenant and adjutant Co. B, 14th infantry regiment, killed in the battle of the Crater, before Petersburg, Va., July 1864; 5. John Culpeper (q. v.) m. Florence Clifton; 6. Sarah Medora, m. Dr. Tillman Peurifoy Burgamy, of Birmingham; 7. James Bryan, physician, m. Dolisca Willingham, member of 17th Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army; 8. Col. William Drakeford (q. v.) m. Minnie Yancey, Tuscaloosa; 9. Atlanta Theodosia. Last residence: Lowndes County.

FONVILLE, JOHN C., farmer, was born April 3, 1842, in Darlington District, S. C., and died in Crenshaw County; son of Rev. John A. and Rachael (Sloan) Fonville (q. v.). He was reared on the farm and received a good elementary education. In July, 1861, he entered the Confederate Army as first sergeant, Co. B, 14th Alabama infantry regiment, joined the 56th Alabama cavalry regiment in 1862 and participated in many hard fought campaigns. He was a member of President Jefferson Davis' escort from Greensboro, N. C. until he reached Washington, Ga., during the so called "flight" of the Confederate president at the capture of Richmond, April, 1865. In 1878-79, he represented Crenshaw County in the Alabama legislature, and in 1892 was nominated on the Kolb ticket, for secretary of State, but was defeated. He was a Baptist and a Mason. Married: in 1869, to Florence, daughter of Judge Caswell and Eliza Clifton, natives of Huntsville, and of Warrenton, N. C., respectively, the former a lawyer, at one time clerk of the supreme court of Mississippi, a position later held by his son. Children: there were several children born of this union. Last residence: Crenshaw County.

FONVILLE, WILLIAM DRAKEFORD, teacher and college president, was born October 14, 1849, in Darlington, S. C.; son of Rev. John Averett and Rachael (Sloan) Fonville (q. v.). He was graduated from Howard college, Marion, with the degrees of A. B. in 1873, and A. M. in 1875; was made tutor of Greek in his alma mater upon graduation, and in 1876 was elected to the chair of mathematics and appointed commandant of cadets with the rank of lieutenant colonel in the same institution. In 1878 he became superintendent of the Tuscaloosa male high school; in 1883 he bought the Park high school property in Tuskegee, and the institution was chartered by the legislature under the name of the Alabama military institute. He was proprietor and superintendent of this school until 1900, when the buildings which he had erected at great expense were destroyed by fire. He removed to Mexico, Mo., to rebuild the Missouri military academy which had been burned in 1896. This school at once prospered and drew patronage from more than twenty states. It was chartered by the state and the superintendent was given the rank of Colonel. In 1911 Col. Fonville sold the school and accepted, in 1916, the presidency of the Alabama central female college, Tuscaloosa. Married: September 18, 1883, to Mary Winn Yancey, of Richmond, Va. Residence: Tuscaloosa.

FORBES, A. G., colonel and business man; officer of the Alabama State troops. He resided in Montgomery for a number of years and later removed to Birmingham, where he is manager of the Starr piano company. Residence: Birmingham.

FORBES, SHERMAN G., pioneer settler, was born 1813, in Canton, Conn., and died in 1876, at Sparta, Conecuh County; son of a native of Canton, Conn.; grandson of Abisha Forbes, a native of Scotland who emigrated to America and located at Canton, Conn., brother of Dr. Solomon Forbes (q. v.). Sherman G. Forbes removed to Alabama when a young man and located at Sparta; he was a clerk in a mercantile establishment; postmaster of Sparta; clerk in land office; justice of peace for thirty years; tax assessor; clerk of circuit court, 1845-46; and revenue assessor after the War of Secession. He was a Democrat. Last residence: Sparta.

FORBES, SHERMAN GUY, graduate of the Alabama polytechnic institute, with the B. S. degree, 1900; electrical superintendent in charge of power plant and electrical work at Gatun, Canal Zone, Panama.

FORBES, SOLOMON S., physician, was born in 1827 in Canton, Conn.; son of a native of Canton, Conn.; brother of Sherman G. Forbes (q. v.). Dr. Forbes located at Sparta about

MITCHELL B. HOUGHTON

1852 and engaged in teaching. After six months he began the study of medicine under Dr. John Anderson, later attended the Union medical college, New York, from which he graduated. He began the practice of his profession at Sauk Rapids, Minn.; but soon returned to Alabama and located, 1856, at Belleville. In 1872 he removed to Milton, Fla., where he continued the practice of medicine. He was a member of the State and county medical associations.

FORD, ALGERNON SYDNEY, educator, was born December 19, 1880, at Troy; son of Elchana Gardner and Sarah Eliza (Culver) Ford, the former a native of Crawford Ga., reared in Mississippi, educated at Auburn, and a graduate of the Charleston medical college, member of the 15th Mississippi regiment, C. S. Army, and served through the whole period of the war; grandson of James Ford and wife, Miss Sawyer, and of Levin Ellis and Frances Anne (Brodnax) Culver, of Culverton, Ga.; great-grandson of William B. and — (Brookin) Brodnax. The Sawyers, Fords and Holstons, the latter being a related family on the paternal side came from South Carolina. The maternal ancestry came to Alabama from Virginia and Maryland. Among other progenitors was a Vivian, a lineal descendant of the noble English line. The Brodnax family is of English origin and traces back to France, through the Norman conquest. Mr. Ford graduated from the State normal school, Troy, 1900, and from Harvard university, with the A. M. degree, 1910, completing his Ph. D. in 1911. He was awarded the Price Greenleaf and Thayer scholarships, and the Francis Parkman traveling fellowship. He has taught in several schools in Alabama since 1900, and is now president of the 5th district agricultural school, Wetumpka. Author: an article "The pendular whip-lash illusion" in the Psychological Review, and has lectured before the association of experimental psychologists at Cornell university. He is a Democrat; Methodist; Mason; Knight of Pythias; and a member of the Sigma Alpha Epsilon college fraternity. Unmarried. Residence: Wetumpka.

FORD, JONATHAN, member of the constitutional convention of 1861, from Morgan County.

FORMAN, WILLIAM SAMUEL, probate judge, was born September 14, 1851, at Beaver Valley, St. Clair County, and died January 5, 1913, at Springville; son of James and Parthenia (Dean) Forman, the former a native of South Carolina; grandson of William and Elizabeth (Owen) Forman, who came from England to Chester County, South Carolina, and moved to Alabama in 1833, and of Samuel and Parthenia (Edmunson) Dean, of Springville; great-grandson of Benjamin Edmunson, a lieutenant in the Continental Army during the Revolutionary War, who served under Gen. Putnam in the siege at Boston, Mass., then under Gen. Muhlenberg, and finally under Anthony Wayne. He obtained his schooling in Springville, under the guidance of Mortimer Lovett and Peyton Montgomery; became a real estate dealer; was elected mayor of Spring-ville; and represented St. Clair County in the State legislature three terms. He served as probate judge from January, 1900 until January, 1912, being twice the successful candidate in two of the fiercest campaigns in the history of the county. He was a Democrat, a deacon in the Cumberland Presbyterian church, president of the St. Clair Sunday School Association for years, and a Mason. Married: October 15, 1873, in Springville, Ella E. Wood, daughter of Jacob Ross and Betty (Buchanan) Wood, who lived at Ten Island, the former a first lieutenant in the Ninth Alabama Battalion, infantry volunteers, C. S. Army; great-granddaughter of Zachariah White, who fought in the War of 1812. Children: 1. Betty, m. Eugene Smith, resides at Sylacauga; 2. James Ross, lawyer, resides at Gadsden; 3. Nell, m. Borden Burr (q. v.), resides at Birmingham; 4. William Samuel, resides at Birmingham. Last residence: Springville.

FORNEY, ALEXANDER BREVARD, lawyer, was born September 15, 1819, in Lincoln County, N. C., and died in Hayneville, in 1848; son of Maj. Daniel Morgan and Harriet (Brevard) Forney (q. v.). He graduated from the University of Alabama, A. M., 1838; took a law course at the University of Virginia; and in 1842 located at Hayneville for the practice; in 1847-48 represented Lowndes County in the legislature; in 1848 was solicitor for the 2nd judicial circuit, and died while performing the duties of this office. He was a Democrat. Unmarried. Last residence: Hayneville.

FORNEY, DANIEL M., public official, was born May, 1784, in Lincoln County, N. C., and died October, 1847, in Lowndes County; son of Hon. Peter Forney, a soldier in the American Revolution and a representative in the Thirteenth U. S. congress. He was a major in the U. S. Army during the War of 1812; was elected representative from North Carolina in the Fourteenth Congress, and was reelected to the succeeding congress, but resigned his seat in that body in 1818. He was appointed a commissioner to treat with the Creek Indians by President Monroe in 1820; and was elected to the State senate, serving from 1823 until 1826. He moved to Alabama in 1834, and settled in Lowndes County, where he died thirteen years later. Last residence: Lowndes County.

FORNEY, DANIEL P., major, 2nd Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army.

FORNEY, GEORGE H., major and later lieutenant colonel, 1st battalion, infantry, C. S. Army.

FORNEY, JACOB, educator, was born October 8, 1868, at Jacksonville, Calhoun County, and died December 24, 1902, at Springville; son of Maj. Gen. John Horace and Septima Sexta Middleton (Rutledge) Forney, the former a native of Batley Forge, Lincoln County, N. C., who moved to Alabama with his family when six years old and settled at Jacksonville; grandson of Jacob and Sabina Swope (Hoke) Forney, who lived at Jacksonville, and of Henry Adolphus and Caroline Bell (Nicholson) Rutledge, who lived in Talladega County; great-grandson of Peter and Nancy (Abernathy) Forney, and of Daniel Hoke; great-great-grandson of Jacob and Maria (Bergner) Forney, the former the emigrant who first settled in Pennsylvania, where he was married, then moved to Tryon, and later to Lincoln County, N. C., the latter a native of Canton Berne, Switzerland. The Rutledges and Middletons are among the most honored names in the history of South Carolina. His ancestors, Edward Rutledge and Arthur Middleton, were signers of the Declaration of Independence. Peter Forney was a patriot partisan officer in the War of the Revolution, and his grandson, John Horace Forney, a graduate of West Point, 1852, was a major general in the C. S. Army. Prof. Forney received his education in the schools of Jacksonville, and at the University of Alabama, where he was graduated in 1889, with the degree of A. B. He entered the profession of teaching, and was principal of Noble institute for Boys at Anniston, 1891-1892; was president of the State normal school at Jacksonville, 1893-1899; and was instructor in pedagogy and psychology at the University of Alabama from 1899, until his death in 1902. The honorary degree of Master of Arts was conferred upon him in 1892 by the University of Alabama. He was a member of the Alabama Educational Association and was president of that association, 1901-1902; served as an officer in the Third Alabama regiment, State militia, for some years; was a Democrat; a Protestant Episcopalian; and a Woodman of the World. He was killed by the accidental discharge of a gun, December 24, 1902, while on a visit to the home of his wife's parents in Springville, during the Christmas holidays. Married: June 7, 1899, at Springville, to Katherine Burt McLaughlin, daughter of James Madison and Isadore (Forman) McLaughlin, who lived at Springville, St. Clair County, the former a grandson of a Scotch emigrant to Nashville, Tenn., the latter a daughter of James Forman who came from Chester, S. C., in the early settlement of Alabama, and located in Beaver Valley, St. Clair County. Children: 1. Caroline; 2. John McLaughlin. Last residence: University.

FORNEY, JOHN HORACE, planter and major general, C. S. Army, was born August 12, 1829, in Lincoln County, N. C., and died September 13, 1902, at Jacksonville; son of Jacob and Salina Swope (Hoke) Forney; brother of William Henry Forney (q. v.). He entered school at the age of seven, studying under private tutors until his entrance into the U. S. military academy at West Point, in 1848, graduated July 1, 1852, as brevet second lieutenant in the 7th infantry; promoted second lieutenant, October 24, 1853; transferred to 10th infantry, March 3, 1855; promoted first lieutenant, August 25, 1855; served in garrison in Kentucky and accompanied Col. A. S. Johnston on his expedition to Utah. He was instructor in tactics at West Point, in 1860, resigning January 23, 1861, in order to enter the C. S.

Army. Governor Moore commissioned him colonel in the State forces upon his arrival in Montgomery, and sent him to Pensacola to take command. General Bragg when assigned to the command of the troops at and near Pensacola, appointed Colonel Forney acting inspector-general. On June 4, 1861, when the 10th Alabama was organized, he was appointed and commissioned its colonel, proceeded to Virginia and assigned to the brigade of Gen. Kirby Smith, of which Colonel Forney was in command for three months after Manassas. He was wounded in the arm at Drainesville and received special commendation from Gen. J. E. B. Stuart. On March 10, 1862, Colonel Forney was commissioned brigadier-general and was ordered on April 2, by the secretary of war, to proceed to Mobile and report for duty to Major-General Jones, commanding, receiving the assignment, on July 2, to the command of the District of the Gulf. On October 27, 1862, he was commissioned major-general, and on December 14, relinquished the command of the District of the Gulf, in obedience to orders from department headquarters, to Brigadier-General Mackall. He was in command of a division in General Pemberton's army before and during the siege of Vicksburg, and relieved Major-General Stevenson, on May 4, 1863, of the command of the Second military District of Vicksburg. General Forney reassumed the command of his division proper on May 17, and bore his full share in the defense of Vicksburg, where he, with all the other Confederate officers, surrendered and were exchanged July 13, 1863. General Forney assumed command of all exchanged and paroled prisoners at Enterprise, Miss., organizing these troops into two brigades. He assumed command of Demopolis, on February 13, 1864, with discretionary powers in the movement of troops and supplies across the river to the eastward. On May 6, 1864, he was ordered to proceed to Shreveport, La., where by the orders of Gen. Kirby Smith, he was placed in command of a division that had been under the command of Gen. John G. Walker, and who upon his return after several months service in the District of Texas, relieved General Forney. He was in command of a division under General Magruder at the close of the war. He returned to Alabama and resumed his planting interests. Married: February 5, 1863, in Talladega County, to Septinia Sexta Middleton, daughter of Henry Adolphus and Caroline Bell (Nicholson) Rutledge, of Tennessee and Talladega; great-great-granddaughter of Henry Middleton, one of the fourteen continental presidents and whose son Arthur Middleton, and son-in-law, Edward Rutledge, were signers of the Declaration of Independence. Children: 1. Emma Rutledge; 2. Henry Fogg; 3. Jacob; 4. Mary Caroline; 5. Sabina Swope, m. Macon A. Stevenson, Jacksonville; 6. Annie Rowan, m. Clarence W. Dougette (q. v.); 7. Kathleen Theresa. Last residence: Jacksonville.

FORNEY, WILLIAM HENRY, lawyer, representative in Congress, and brigadier general, C. S. Army, was born November 9, 1823, at Lincolnton, N. C., and died January 16, 1894, at Jacksonville; son of Jacob and Sabina Swope (Hoke) Forney, the former a native of Lincoln County, N. C., who removed to Alabama in 1835, and settled in Jacksonville; brother of Lieut. Col. George Hoke Forney, of the 1st Confederate battalion, who fell at the battle of the Wilderness, and of Maj. Gen. John Horace Forney (q. v.); grandson of Gen. Peter and Nancy (Abernathy) Forney, the former a native of Lincoln County, N. C., a soldier and patriot of the Revolution, commanding a partisan corps, member of North Carolina house of commons, 1794-96, and of the State senate, 1801-02, representative in congress, 1813-15, elector during the presidential campaigns of Jefferson, Madison, Monroe, and Jackson, associated with a company in the making of iron, later purchasing lands on Leeper Creek, commenced business on his own account and whose home, "Mount Welcome," was noted for its hospitality, and of Daniel and Barbara (Ramseur) Hoke, also of Lincoln County; great-grandson of Jacob and Maria (Bergner) Forney, the former a native of France, left an orphan at the age of four, went to Amsterdam in youth, and delighted by the accounts of the new world soon set sail for America, located in Pennsylvania where he was employed until reaching the age of maturity, returned to Germany in order to procure a small legacy, again locating in Pennsylvania, but remained there only about two years, removed to Carolina, settled in Lincoln County about 1754, where he had many encounters with the Cherokee Indians, and during the Revolution was a strong and zealous Whig, though too old to bear arms, and in consequence suffered great loss at the hands of the Tories, his wife an emigrant from the Canton of Berne, in Switzerland, who sailed on the same vessel with her husband on his return voyage from Germany and married shortly after their arrival in Pennsylvania; great-great-grandson of Jacob Forney, a French Huguenot who fled to Alsace on the Rhine, at the revocation of the Edict of Nantes, remaining there until his death. William H. Forney removed to Alabama with his parents in 1835, locating in Calhoun, then Benton County. He graduated from the University of Alabama in 1844, with the A. B. degree later studying law in the office of his brother, Capt. D. P. Forney, in Jacksonville. He enlisted in Col. John R. Coffee's 1st Alabama volunteers, for the Mexican War, and served as a lieutenant in the siege of Vera Cruz. Returning to his home at the expiration of his service of twelve months, he resumed the study of law under T. A. Walker; was admitted to the bar in 1848, and formed a partnership with James B. Martin of Talladega. He represented Calhoun County in the State legislature in 1859; entered the Confederate service as captain of a company in the 10th Alabama infantry regiment, which was organized June 4th, and was at the seat of war in Virginia on July 3, 1861. In its first engagements at Drainesville he was wounded in the leg and on the following day was commissioned major. On March 16, 1862, he was promoted to lieutenant-colonel. He was under fire at Yorkstown and was severely wounded in the right shoulder at Williamsburg. While a patient in William and Mary college, he was captured and held a prisoner for four months. He found on his return to his regiment that he had become colonel by the death of his brother-in-law, Col. John J. Woodward. His regiment bore an active part in the battles of Fredericksburg, Chancellorsville, and at Salem Church, where he was slightly wounded in the leg. At Gettysburg he received flesh wounds in the arm and chest, his right arm was shattered, and a third of a heel bone was carried away by a shell. He was taken prisoner by the enemy, and this time was held for thirteen months. Colonel Forney while a prisoner in Fort Delaware was one of the fifty officers selected to be placed on Morris' Island within range of the Confederate batteries, was later brought to Port Royal for the same purpose, but the matter was adjusted and the prisoners were exchanged. He commanded the 10th Alabama infantry regiment, August 31, 1864, in the organization of the Army of Northern Virginia. On February 23, 1865, he was made brigadier-general, to take rank from February 15, and surrendered with General Lee at Appomattox. He returned to Jacksonville, resumed the practice of law, and was elected a member of the legislature from Calhoun County, 1865. He was elected as a Democrat to the Forty-fourth congress and to the eight succeeding Congresses, serving from March 4, 1875, to March 3, 1891. Married: October 4, 1854, to Mary Eliza, daughter of E. L. Woodward, a merchant of Calhoun County. Children: 1. Mary, m. R. J. Baker, of Baltimore, Md.; 2. Fannie; 3. George, graduate of the University of Alabama, A. B., 1887, m. Jessie D. Groverman, of Tiget Bay, Fla.; 4. Ida; 5. John Cortlan, graduate University of Alabama, A. B., and A. M., 1893, LL. B., 1894, m. Anne Lee Bonholzer, of Birmingham. Last residence: Jacksonville.

FORRESTER, BENJAMIN ALBERT, merchant, was born April 28, 1843, in Beaufort County, S. C.; son of Henry Allen and Lucy A. (Knight) Forrester, both natives of Beaufort County, S. C. He enlisted in April, 1861, and served as a private in the 37th Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army. He was a member of the legislature of 1898-99, and was postmaster of Cowarts for twenty years. He was elected to the State senate in November, 1906. He is a Democrat, and a Baptist. Married: December 4, 1865, in Henry County, to Rebecca Ann, daughter of Emanuel and Margaret (Crosby) Autley, the former a Confederate soldier who fell mortally wounded at Vicksburg. Children: 1. Theodosia, m. James Folkes; 2. Reading Beacham, m. Willie Crozier; 3. Stirling S., m. Mattie Jester; 4. Vincent T., m. (1) Tip Beall, (2) Mary Moore; 5. Oliver Allen, m. Jessie Guest; 6. Escenith, m. George Pilcher; 7. Harvie G.; 8. Whitfield R.; 9. Fernando Copeland; 10. Fred F.; 11. Libbie Ella; 12. S. Otto. Residence: Cowarts.

FORRESTER, GEORGE, member of the constitutional conventions of 1861, and of 1865, from Randolph County.

FORSYTH, JOHN, editor and public official, was born October 31, 1812, in Augusta, Ga., and died May 2, 1879, in Mobile; son of Gov. John Forsyth, Georgia statesman, who was attorney-general and Governor of Georgia, a member of congress for fifteen years, minister to Spain where he negotiated the cession of Florida, and secretary of state of the United States for six and a half years during the administrations of Jackson and Van Buren; grandson of Robert Forsyth, an Englishman who came to America in colonial times, served in Washington's army during the revolution, and was killed by Rev. Beverly Allen, whom, as federal marshal, he had under arrest in Augusta, Ga. Mr. Forsyth spent two years in Madrid, Spain, with his father when he was a boy; was educated abroad and at Princeton university, from which institution he was graduated as valedictorian of his class in 1832. He studied law, and in 1834 was admitted to the bar of Augusta, Ga. He at once located in Columbus, Ga., to practice law, but came to Mobile the next year. He was soon after appointed United States attorney for the southern district of Alabama. After the death of his father in 1841, he returned to Georgia, remaining there twelve years, planting, practicing law and editing the Columbus "Times." During the Mexican War he served as adjutant of the First Georgia regiment. Returning to Mobile in 1853, he built lumber mills on the island in front of the city, which were destroyed by fire before they were completed. Following this loss, Mr. Forsyth returned to journalism, purchasing the Mobile "Register" from T. Sanford. In 1856 he was appointed by President Pierce minister to Mexico. He reached the capitol in October, remained there two years, and resigned because of non-support of his policy by the Washington authorities. His whole time was spent in the effort to get satisfaction for the imprisonments, murders, and confiscations practiced upon his countrymen by Mexican authorities. In 1859, he represented Mobile in the State legislature, and the following year was elected mayor of Mobile. He was a delegate to the Charleston convention in 1860, and supported Stephen A. Douglas for president. Soon after the Confederacy was formed, President Davis appointed Mr. Forsyth, ex-Gov. Roman of Louisiana, and the Hon. Martin J. Crawford of Georgia peace commissioners to Washington. During the war, Mr. Forsyth served for a time on the staff of Gen. Bragg, but his most efficient service was rendered by his writings at that time and through the period of reconstruction. He was appointed mayor of the city by Gov. Parsons, and about the same time received a strong support for federal senator. Married: a Miss Hull of Georgia. Children: 1. Col. Charles, deceased, who commanded the Third Alabama infantry, C. S. Army during the War of Secession; 2. Col. Robert, an officer in the C. S. Army. Last residence: Mobile.

FORSYTH, ROBERT C., lieutenant colonel, 1st battalion Alabama artillery, C. S. Army.

FORT, WILLIAM EDWARDS, lawyer, jurist, was born April 8, 1875, near Keyser, Robeson County, N. C.; son of James Wilson and Mary Elizabeth (Mims) Fort, the former a native of Darlington, Darlington County, South Carolina, planter, merchant and manufacturer, served in the artillery branch of the Confederate army, afterwards removed to North Carolina and in 1886 to Early County, Georgia; grandson of Josiah Albert and Anne (Kirven) Fort, of Darlington, the former a planter, and of James Sessions and Sarah (McIver) Mims, of Greenville, South Carolina, the former professor in the Southern theological seminary, and Baptist minister. The Kirvens were originally from Dublin, Ireland. Judge Fort received his primary education in the graded schools of Fayetteville, N. C., and in Cedar Springs academy, Georgia, and Blakely institute, Blakely. He attended college at Mercer university, Macon, Ga., from 1902 to 1904, where he won distinction for general excellence and oratory in his junior year; attended the Columbia law school, now George Washington university, 1904 to 1906, and graduated with the degree of B. L., having also won the first debaters' prize in his senior year. He located in Dallas, Tex., in 1896, where he practiced his profession for two years and served as assistant county attorney. In 1899 he removed to Birmingham, where he has since resided. In January, 1907, he was named private secretary by Governor Comer, and in 1909 was given the appointment of judge of the criminal court of Jefferson County to fill an unexpired term. In the election following he was defeated, but was elected for a six year term in the regular election of 1912. He is an Episcopalian; a Democrat; Mason; Knight of Pythias; Red Man. Married: October 22, 1904, at Baltimore, Md., Mary Adele, daughter of George Roberts and Mary Adele (Robertson) Brooks, and the granddaughter of Nathan and Mary (Gobrecht) Brooks, all of Maryland. Children: 1. William E., jr.; 2. Adele; 3. Robertson Mims. Residence: Birmingham.

FORWOOD, SAMUEL, was born in May, 1799, about twenty-five miles from Baltimore, near the Susquehanna River, not far from the Pennsylvania line; son of John Forwood, who represented his county in the Maryland legislature for seventeen consecutive terms. He visited the west in 1824, looking for a favorable location to establish a merchandising business, but thought Ohio too far from market. Next, he travelled over the southeast, and, fancying the navigable rivers of Alabama, came to Claiborne, and in 1826 began to sell goods in what has become a part of Clarke County, establishing a store in Suggsville. In 1831, Col. Forwood bought the Murphy estate at Gosport, the landing, and the lands of the Wiggins estate, which had been university land. He opened a store and built a warehouse on the landing, making that place his home. He visited Maryland in 1835, and the next year moved to Gosport Retreat. In 1839 and 1840, he represented Clarke County in the State legislature; was a member of the state constitutional convention in 1865, and of the legislature in 1876. The War of Secession swept away all of Col. Forwood's property except his landed estate. Married: in 1834, Miss Morriss, daughter of John Morriss. Children: four sons, one of whom married a daughter of S. Coale, one married a daughter of Judge H. W. Coate; Dr. W. S. Forwood, of Darlington, Md., is author of a volume on the Mammoth Cave of Kentucky, published in 1870; and one of the younger sons engaged in mining in 1879, at Crescent Butte, out from Denver, Colo. Last residence: Gosport Retreat, Clarke County.

FOSHEE, JAMES M., lumberman and member of the constitutional convention, 1901, was born December 13, 1855, at Andalusia, Covington County; son of David J. and Mary L. (Barrow) Foshee, who lived at Andalusia. He was educated in the common schools. He is engaged in the saw mill and lumber manufacturing business, most of his products being exported. He was a member of the constitutional convention of 1901, from Conecuh County. Married: February 3, 1881, at Humbert, to Isabella C. Harper. Residence: Evergreen.

FOSTER, AGNESS GREENE, author and lecturer, was born December 6, 1863, at Athens; daughter of John and Mary (Stuart) Greene; and granddaughter of Lady Agness Stuart, of Belfast, Ireland. Mrs. Foster received her early education in the public schools of Stillwater, Minn., attended the College of oratory, Jacksonville, Ill., Woman's department of belles lettres, Trinity college, Dublin, and Mlle. Pi-quot's finishing school, Blois, France. She was the pioneer in writing personal messages in card form, which have become so popular to send to friends on holidays. Author: "By the way," 1903; "Promises," 1905; "Answers," 1906; "My wish for you," 1906; "The weaving of life's fabric," 1907; "You and some others," 1907; "Life," 1907; "Blessings," 1910; "A king's birthday"; "A royal road"; "Eyes of a child"; "Christmas chimes"; "Alpha and Omega"; "Love is best," 1915; also songs, "You," 1904, and "God bless you, dear," 1910. Married: August 30, 1886, at Stillwater, Minn., to William Clarence Foster, of that place. Residence: Chicago, Ill.

FOSTER, ARTHUR, lawyer and president State bank, was born about 1794, in Columbia County, Ga., and died about 1851, in Tuscaloosa; son of John and Elizabeth (Savidge) Foster; brother of Hardy Foster (q. v.). He was educated and trained in the law, and became noted by his published digest of the laws of Georgia, in whose senate he served several terms before he removed to Tuscaloosa County. After locating there, he was elected president of the State bank, which was in process of liquidation, but required a legally trained officer. In 1847 he was elected judge of the Tuscaloosa county court, which position he held at the time of his death. Unmarried. Last residence: Tuscaloosa.

FOSTER, ARTHUR BORDERS, lawyer, member Alabama legislature, register in chancery, was born October 19, 1872, at Clayton, Ala.; son of John Arthur and Mary (Borders) Foster; grandson of A. H. and Mary (Lee) Borders, of LaGrange, Ga. His education was received in the schools of Clayton, and he entered the University of Alabama, 1887, from which he graduated 1890, with the degree of A. B.; in 1891 he graduated in the law department of that institution with the degree of LL. B. and was admitted to the practice at Troy, that same year; register in chancery, 1892-98; representative in the legislature, 1902; appointed circuit judge, by Gov. Charles Henderson in 1916. He is a Democrat; Mason; Woodman of World; and a Baptist. Married: November 21, 1894, to Jessie, daughter of C. N. and Jessie B. (Key) Simpson, of Cuthbert, Ga. Children: 1. Arthur Key; 2. Martha. Residence: Troy.

FOSTER, BENJAMIN C., hotel man, was born October 30, 1790, in South Carolina, and died October 29, 1871, at Tallahatta Springs. He removed from South Carolina to Clarke County about 1817 residing near Suggsville. In 1840, he removed to Bashi, later he took charge of Tallahatta Springs, a noted health resort of its day. Children: 1. Benjamin C. jr., died in the Confederate service; 2. Mrs. P. Davis; 3. Mrs. W. Danzie; 4. Mrs. J. M. Finch; 5. Mrs. H. Hurd; 6. Mrs. T. Shields. 7. Mrs. S. H. Barnwell. Last residence: Tallahatta Springs.

FOSTER, DAVID L., physician, was born October 27, 1831, at Monticello, Ga., and died September 9, 1891, at Tuscaloosa; son of John L. S. and Susan (Hollifield) Foster (q. v.); grandson of John and Elizabeth (Savidge) Foster. He was brought by his parents at an early age to Tuscaloosa where he was prepared for college. He graduated in 1853 at the University of Alabama; studied medicine at the Jefferson medical college, Philadelphia, where he received the degree of M. D. in 1857. He commenced the practice of medicine in Mobile; in 1860, returned to Tuscaloosa where he located; was elected surgeon of the University, in 1877, which position he held until his death. He was a member of the State medical society and the board of health of Tuscaloosa; a Knight Templar; and a Baptist. Married: December 14, 1864, at Foster's, to Maria Bealle of Maryland. There were four children, among these: 1. Glenn, m. Julia Martin. Last residence: Tuscaloosa.

FOSTER, FELIX W., farmer, merchant and lumber man, was born March 12, 1845, in Union County, S. C.; son of Rev. W. S. and Jane (Hancock) Foster, who removed to Cherokee County, Ga., 1852; great-grandson of Dr. Hancock, a native of England, who emigrated to South Carolina and was one of the original importers of negro slaves into that colony. Mr. Foster's education was obtained in the schools of his community and at an early age he entered the Confederate service as member of Co. E, Cobb's Georgia legion of cavalry; served through the war; surrendering at Greensboro, N. C., 1865. He farmed and merchandised, removing for a while to Mississippi. In 1882 he located in Anniston and engaged in the real estate business, changing to the lumber business in 1885, and in 1888 he was elected mayor of Anniston. He is a Mason and a Methodist. Married: August 10, 1885, to Emma, daughter of Major T. D. Evans. Children: 1. Minnie G.; 2. Mattie B.; 3. Thomas W.; 4. Jennie J.; 5. Emmet E.; 6. Ella May. Residence: Tarsus, near Anniston.

FOSTER, GEORGE W., physician, was born December 19, 1856, in Jackson County; son of T. Boyd and Sarah Mumford (Mason) Foster, of Virginia, the former a civil engineer and surveyor of Jackson County for forty years. Dr. Foster was half-brother to William and Samuel C., who were killed in the Confederate defense of Atlanta; also of Thomas T., who lost a leg in the battle of Peach Tree Creek. He was educated in the public schools, finishing in the Austin academy of Stevenson. He studied medicine under Dr. William Mason of Jackson County and graduated from Vanderbilt university, 1882. He located in Stevenson, and has practiced his profession there since. He is a member of the Alabama State, Tri-State, and the Jackson County medical societies. He is a Mason and a Cumberland Presbyterian. Married: December 5, 1883, to Jennie Graham, daughter of F. J. Graham. Children: 1. Mary; 2. Sarah; 3. Jennie. Residence: Stevenson.

FOSTER, GURDON ROBINSON, Presbyterian minister, was born February 6, 1827, at Claiborne. Monroe County, and died October 26, 1887, Tuskegee; son of Charles Orn Foster, a native of Wrentham, Mass., who lived at Boston until after his marriage to a Miss Lenon, then moved to Alabama. His paternal grandfather was an Englishman, who married Lenoira Hall, and came to America, settling in Sumter District, S. C. His mother's father, Capt. Lenoir, was an Englishman, and his wife was a French Huguenot. They lived at Lenoir, N. C. Rev. Foster was prepared in the high schools of Alabama; was graduated from Oglethorpe university, A. B., 1848, with first honors; and from the theological course at Columbia theological seminary, South Carolina, 1851. He was licensed to preach by the Presbytery of east Alabama in the fall of 1851; served as pastor of the Prattville and Wetumpka churches until 1871, when he was chosen evangelist of the East Alabama Presbytery; and continued the work of evangelist until November, 1880, when he was appointed superintendent of the Orphans' Home, by the Synod of Alabama, the home then being located at Tuskegee. He was superintendent of the home at the time of his death in 1887, and had been a minister of the gospel for thirty-six years. Married: December 1, 1858, near Dadeville, Tallapoosa County, Annie Elizabeth Slaughter, daughter of John Robins and Temperance (Harris) Slaughter, who lived near Dadeville, the former of Irish descent, the latter of Scotch. Her maternal grandfather was a colonel in the Revolutionary Army. Children: 1. Laura Amelia, m. Rev. M. Kirkpatrick, Memphis, Tenn.; 2. Harriett Cooper, m. W. M. Jones, Talladega; 3. John Harris, deceased; 4. William Clark Coolidge, m. Marget E. Flow, Barium Springs, N. C.; 5. Gurdon Robinson, m. Irene Burt, Talladega; 6. Margaret Holman, deceased; 7. Alfred Slaughter, m. Elise Whitner, Sanford, Fla.; 8. Theron Rice, deceased; 9. James Hazen, New Orleans. Last residence: Tuskegee.

FOSTER, HARDY, planter, was born May 29, 1792, in Columbia County, Ga., and died August 18, 1848, at Foster's, Tuscaloosa County; son of John and Elizabeth (Savidge) Foster of Georgia; grandson of Arthur and Martha (Collier) Foster of Southampton County, Va., and of Lovelace and Elizabeth (Harris) Savidge, of Columbia County, Ga. He was educated in the schools of his community. In 1820, he removed to Tuscaloosa County and became one of the frontier settlers. In 1848, he became a leader in the first temperance movement in Alabama, joining, "Grant's Creek Division, No. 105, Sons of Temperance" October, 1848. He was a Whig and a Baptist. Married: August 12, 1813, to Elizabeth Wyatt, daughter of Joshua and Nancy Wyatt (Collier) Hill, of Abbeville, S. C., the former a Revolutionary soldier. Children: 1. William; 2. James Collier, m. Jane E. Ware; 3. Sarah, m. E. C. Morris; 4. Susan; 5. Martha, m. Thomas Jefferson Hill; 6. Robert Hill, m. Mary Mobley; 7. Joshua W., m. Sarah E. Jordan; 8. Elizabeth; 9. Mary Ellen, d. in infancy; 10. Augusta; 11. Mary Ellen. Last residence: Foster's.

FOSTER, HENRY BACON, lawyer, judge of County court and member Alabama legislature, was born May 9, 1863, at "Glenwood," Tuscaloosa County; son of Rev. Joshua Hill and Frances Cornelia (Bacon) Foster (q. v.); nephew of John Collier Foster (q. v.). He was educated in the schools of Tuscaloosa and graduated from the academic department of the University of Alabama in 1882, with the degree of A. M., and from the law department, 1884, with the degree of LL. D. He was county solicitor, 1896-90, 1901-03; mayor, Tuscaloosa, 1890-92; member of the legislature, 1898-99, 1900-01; was appointed judge of the law and equity court of Tuscaloosa County to succeed Judge J. J. Mayfield, resigned, in 1903 and later was elected to that position. He was elected judge of the 6th judicial circuit subsequently, and still holds that office. Judge Foster was active in the military affairs of the Alabama national guard during 1886-98. He served as a major during the Spanish-American War. He is a Baptist; Democrat; Knight of Pythias; Odd Fellow; Elk; and Woodman of the World. Married: July 24, 1895, in Tuscaloosa, to Jennie, daughter of Dr. William and Sallie (Hayes) Hester of that place. Children: 1. Henry Bacon, jr., officer of the European War, m. February, 1917, in San Antonio, Texas, Helen Driscoll of New York, one child, residence Tuscaloosa; 2. William Joshua; 3. Sallie Olivia. Residence: Tuscaloosa.

GEORGE A. BEAUCHAMP

FOSTER, IRA ROE, state senator, physician, lawyer and planter, was born January 13, 1811, on the Tiger River, Spartanburg County, S. C. and died November 19, 1885, at Gadsden; son of Ransom and Nancy (Foster) Foster, the former a native of Amelia County, Va., who later lived at Spartanburg, S. C., and in Georgia, a soldier of the War of 1812; grandson of Col. Isham and Jane Hollenberry (Hawkins) Foster of Spartanburg, S. C. Dr. Foster was educated in schools of his native state and acquired sufficient knowledge at an early age to teach school. Through this means he secured the funds with which to study medicine, which profession he practiced successfully. In 1841 he was granted a license to practice law by the superior court of Cherokee County, Ga. He served in the legislature of Georgia and was senator in Alabama after his removal to this State, holding that office at the time of his death. In 1836, during the Seminole Indian War in Florida, he served as colonel of a regiment of mounted infantry. He was seriously wounded and carried fifty miles on a stretcher. In 1842, as a member of the Second brigade, Seventh division Georgia militia, he was appointed aide-de-camp to the commander-in-chief with the rank of colonel. In 1844 he was appointed by the governor of Georgia, George W. Crawford, brigadier general, Independent brigade, Seventh division. At the outbreak of the War of Secession he placed himself at the service of the Confederacy and was appointed quartermaster general by Gov. Joe Brown of Georgia, and looked after the wants of the soldiers of that state with devoted interest. Early in 1865, after the surrender he went to Virginia to distribute clothing to the Georgia troops, was taken prisoner but soon released and appointed by Gen. Wilson, U. S. Army, to collect all Confederate States mules, horses, wagons, all supplies and to distribute them to the families of the destitute in Georgia. From Atlanta he removed to Dodge County, Ga., where he practiced law, but on account of his health again removed and located in Gadsden in 1874, where he had made extensive investments in lands some years previous. Married: (1) October 9, 1842, in Cumming, Forsyth County, Ga., to Mildred Arthur Creighton Crooks, widow of Robert Haynes, and daughter of Andrew and Sarah (Barber) Crooks of Rutherford, N. C. Andrew Crooks was born in Ireland in 1775. His mother was a Creighton. His wife was the daughter of James and Mildred (Arthur) Barber, who lived near Monticello, Va., the former a soldier of the Revolutionary war. The Creightons were originally from Scotland. Children: 1. Amalthea C., m. (1) Arthur C. Page of New Hampshire at Eastman, Ga., in 1873, and (2) in 1886, to J. J. Foster of Alabama; 2. Eryclina P., m. O. H. Alford of Griffin, Ga., and later removed to Alabama; 3. Nannie C., m. Albert M. Ayers of Macon, Ga., later Guntersville; Marcus L., m. (1) Mary A. Kyle, of Gadsden, and (2) Willie Sampler, Gadsden. Last residence: Gadsden.

FOSTER, J. H., member of the constitutional convention of 1861, from Macon County.

FOSTER, J. S., Methodist minister; member of the North Alabama conference; living in 1913.

FOSTER, J. T., member of the constitutional convention of 1875, from the twenty-third district.

FOSTER, JAMES HENRY, lawyer and superintendent of city schools, was born October 17, 1862, at Foster, Tuscaloosa County, and died October 16, 1919, in Tuscaloosa; son of John Collier and Georgia Ann (Maharry) Foster (q. v.); brother of John Manly Foster (q. v.). He received his early education in the neighborhood schools of his native place and graduated from Howard college with the A. B. degree, in 1883, and from the law department of the University of Alabama, 1887. He practiced that profession at Ft. Payne and at Tuscaloosa, but in 1894 was elected superintendent of the city schools of Tuscaloosa and thereafter devoted his entire time to that position. He was a Democrat and a Baptist. Married: (1) April 26, 1892, in Los Angeles, Calif., to Alida S., daughter of A. S. and Mary C. Van de Graff; (2) December 26, 1899, at Tuscaloosa, to Mary Adair, daughter of Dr. William Allen and Ann (Coleman) Cochrane, of that place. Children: by the first wife, 1. Frances; 2. John Collier; by the second wife, 3. Elizabeth; 4. Jeannette; 5. Robert Nicholls; 6. Walter Manly; 7. Edward Lee; 8. Mary Adair. Last residence: Tuscaloosa.

FOSTER, JOHN, member of constitutional convention 1865, chancellor of the northern division, was born in Troy, N. Y., in 1818, and died about 1880 in Jacksonville, Benton County. His mother was a Miss Huntington. He was a graduate of Williams college, Mass., and read law under his uncle, Samuel G. Huntington, judge of the circuit court of New York. Immediately after he was admitted to the bar, 1838, he removed to Georgia and in a short while came to Alabama and located in Jacksonville. He began the practice of law with Hon. William B. Martin; was defeated for the legislature in 1843; elected chancellor of the northern division, 1856, re-elected 1862; appointed chancellor by Gov. Lewis Parsons serving until December 1865; elected as a delegate to the constitutional convention of 1865. He afterwards formed a partnership with Gen. W. H. Forney. Married: near Atlanta, to Matilda Scott. Children: 1. Anna, m. L. W. Grant. Last residence: Jacksonville.

FOSTER, JOHN, Presbyterian minister; mentioned in Nall's "Dead of the Synod of Alabama," 1851.

FOSTER, JOHN A., Presbyterian minister, living in 1913. Residence: Birmingham.

FOSTER, JOHN ARTHUR, lawyer and jurist, was born November 11, 1828, in Jasper County, Ga., and died January 1894, at Clayton; son of John L. S. and Susan (Hollifield) Foster (q. v.). He was privately instructed by Rev. E. B. Teague and fitted for college, graduating from the University of Alabama, 1847. He began the study of law with Judge Harry I. Thornton, of Eutaw; taught school in Mississippi, 1849-55; made president of the Southern female college, La Grange, Ga., 1855-59; and removed to Clayton, where he was admitted to the bar. In 1861, he enlisted in Co. G, 29th Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army. While acting as colonel of his regiment, December 1864, he and his entire command were captured at Nashville and held prisoners until the close of the war. He resumed the practice of law and in 1875 was a delegate to the State constitutional convention; made a trustee of the university, 1876-78; represented Barbour County in the legislature, 1878-80; made chancellor of the Southern division of Alabama, 1880. The honorary degree of LL. D. was conferred on him by the Alabama polytechnic institute, 1883. He was a Democrat; a Mason; a Knight Templar; and a Baptist. Married: (1) December 1849, to Mary Webb; (2) May 11, 1858, to Mary Borders of La Grange, Ga. Children by first wife: 1. John Webb (q. v.); 2. Emma, m. John Toole, of La Grange, Ga.; children by second wife: 3. Mary, m. Dr. William Robinson; 4. Pearl; 5. Arthur Borders. Last residence: Clayton.

FOSTER, JOHN COLLIER, planter and minister, was born April 10, 1813, in Columbia County, Ga., and died July 23, 1892 at Tuscaloosa; son of James and Mary Eleanor (Hill) Foster; grandson of John and Elizabeth (Savidge) Foster of Georgia formerly of Southampton, Va., and of Joshua and Nancy Wyatt (Collier) Hill of Abbeville, S. C.; brother of Rev. Joshua Hill Foster (q. v.). He was educated in the schools of Tuscaloosa; attended the University of Alabama for a term. He became a planter, then a Baptist minister, and was pastor of the Grant's Creek Baptist church for nearly fifty years. He was a Whig, but later joined the Democratic party. Married: (1) in 1839, to Emma T. Prince; (2) in 1847, to Georgia Ann, daughter of Joseph Pigott and Mary A. (Barron) Maharry of Augusta, Ga. Children: 1. Mary Ellen, m. Dr. A. B. C. Nicholls; 2. G. Augusta; 3. Mollie A., m. E. R. King; 4. Fannie F.; 5. John Manly (q. v.); 6. James Henry (q. v.), m. (1) Alida Van de Graff; (2) Mary Cochrane; 7. Josephine, m. Walter Patton; 8. Stella. Last residence: Tuscaloosa.

FOSTER, JOHN L. S., merchant, manufacturer, was born in 1800, in Columbia County, Ga., and died in 1875 in Tuscaloosa; son of John and Elizabeth (Savidge) Foster, of Georgia; brother of Hardy Foster (q. v.), and of Robert S. Foster (q. v.). He was educated in the common schools of Georgia. In 1833, he removed from Georgia to Tuscaloosa County, where he engaged in merchandising and manufacturing; from 1862-65, he manufactured hats for the Confederate Army. He was a Baptist. Married: in 1821, to Susan Hollifield, of Jasper County, Ga. Children: 1. Elizabeth, m. Harry Foster; 2. John Arthur (q. v.), m. (1) Mary Webb, (2) Mary Borders; 3. Martha, m. Rev. T. P. Crawford, Baptist missionary to China; 4. David L., physician, m. Maria Bealle; 5. Jesse Green; 6. Sara, m. Dr. Glen Montgomery; 7. Susan, m. W. H. Pace of Georgia. 8. Robert Savidge, physician, m. Amanda Paschal; 9. Ezra, m. Louella Paschal. Last residence: Tuscaloosa.

FOSTER, JOHN MANLY, lawyer, was born November 5, 1860, at Foster's, Tuscaloosa County; son of John Collier and Georgia Ann (Maharry) Foster (q. v.). He was educated in the schools of Tuscaloosa County; graduated from Howard college, 1881, A. B., with first honors; graduated from the law department of the University of Alabama, 1883, LL. B., and began the practice of his profession in 1886 in Tuscaloosa. He was first lieutenant, Warrior Guards, A. N. G., 1888-89; member of the legislature, 1890-91, 1903 and 1906; county solicitor, 1896-1902; delegate to State constitutional convention, 1901, and a member of the legislature, 1903 and 1906. He removed to Montgomery in 1908 where he was connected with the district counsel's office, of the Louisville and Nashville railroad, but in 1917 returned to Tuscaloosa and resumed private practice in the firm of Foster, Verner and Rice. He was the law partner of W. B. Oliver before he was elected to the legislature. He is a Democrat; a Baptist; and an Elk. Married: (1) April 19, 1893, to Kathleen Mary, daughter of Hon. Richard H. and Mary Kate (Burke) Clarke; (2) October 12, 1898, Mabel Radford Clarke, sister of first wife. Children, by first wife: 1. Richard Clarke; by second wife: 2. Kathleen Mary. Residence: Tuscaloosa.

FOSTER, JOHN WEBB, lawyer, member Alabama legislature and register in chancery, was born October 14, 1850, in Lowndes County, Miss.; son of John Arthur and Mary (Webb) Foster (q. v.). He was educated, partly, in the schools of Clayton and by his father's private instruction. He studied law and was admitted to the bar in 1868; in 1870, he removed to Abbeville having been appointed register in chancery for Henry County; served as county superintendent of education, 1871 to 1881; represented that county in the legislature, 1884-86. He is a Democrat. Married: May, 1871, to L. E. Petty, daughter of B. F. and Kate Petty, the former a Confederate soldier, who served under Gen. Henry D. Clayton. Children: 1. Lola; 2. Emma; 3. Kate. Residence: Abbeville.

FOSTER, JOSEPH, farmer and manufacturer, was born in Georgia and died in Montgomery County, and is buried in the old "New Providence" church-yard, near Robertson's cross-roads. He removed to the "Sankey Neighborhood" about 1819, and was one of the early settlers from Georgia. He acquired a large tract of land on the "Rock Mount Road" and farmed. He established a plow and wagon factory on his farm, for the benefit of that region, the industry being carried on successfully for many years. He was a Baptist. Married: to Miss Daniel, a sister of Mrs. W. D. Sankey, sr. Children: 1. William, a teacher; 2. James; 3. Mary, m. John H. Robertson; 4. daughter, m. Thomas Robertson; 5. daughter, m. James Collins; 6. daughter, m. William Wilkerson; 7. Nannie, m. Prof. Barton; 8. Fannie, unmarried. Last residence: Montgomery County.

FOSTER, JOSHUA HILL, college president and Baptist minister, was born March 17, 1819, in Tuscaloosa County, and died February 28, 1904, in Tuscaloosa; son of James and Mary Ellen (Hill) Foster; brother of John Collier Foster (q. v.). He was educated in the schools of Tuscaloosa County; graduated at the head of his class from the University of Alabama, 1839; and in 1842 he received the degree of A. M. He was a tutor in the University, 1841-44; teacher in Tuscaloosa school, 1844-45; farmer, 1845-49; tutor in University, 1849-50; pastor of Baptist church, Tuscaloosa, 1853-54; joint principal of Central female college, 1869-71; president of that college, 1871-73; professor in University, 1873 to 1892. The degree of D. D. was conferred upon him by Howard college in 1879. Married: (1) December 26, 1843, to Lucy Bolling, daughter of Dr. Clement and Sarah (Lane) Billingslea (q. v.); (2) February 24, 1853, to Frances Cornelia Bacon. Children, by first wife: 1. Lucie Billingslea, m. Prof. Dill; by second wife: 2. Clement C., m. Mattie Shaw; 3. Edwin Hardy, m. Margaret Chunn; 4. Henry Bacon (q. v.); 5. Joshua Hill, jr., m. (1) Gertrude Foster; (2) Eula Sparks; 6. Thomas J., m. Cora Watjen; 7. Sumner B. (q. v.). Last residence: Tuscaloosa.

FOSTER, JOSHUA HILL, jr., Missionary Baptist minister; pastor of the Union Springs and the Parker memorial church, Anniston. He was a son of the Rev. J. H. Foster (q. v.).

FOSTER, LOVELACE SAVIDGE, editor, author, teacher and Baptist minister, was born December 18, 1847, in Tuscaloosa County; son of Arthur and Elizabeth Amelia (Foster) Foster, the former a graduate of the University of Alabama, 1845, teacher, planter, saw mill owner, having lived in Alabama, Texas and Mississippi; grandson of James and Mary Ellen (Hill) Foster. He entered the University of Alabama in 1864; was withdrawn upon the removal of his parents to Mississippi; student of the Southern Baptist theological seminary at Greenville, S. C., 1868-70, and in 1873-75, graduating the latter year with honor; ordained January, 1871, at Starkville, Miss.; served pastorates at Okolona, Miss., Camden, S. C., Louisville, Winston County, Miss., Fellowship and Rodney, Jefferson County, Miss., Winona, Carrollton, Pleasant Prospect, Bethel, Coila, Mt. Vernon, Leona, and Senatobia Baptist churches, all in Mississippi. He also assisted in the organization of many new churches. He taught several terms in a male high school. Author: at one time field editor for Mississippi of the "Western recorder" and has written extensively for church papers; associate editor "Baptist record," 1893; "History of the Columbus Baptist association," 1861; "History of the Louisville (Miss.) association from 1840 to 1882," 1886. He was one of the leading spirits in the organization of the Mississippi Baptist historical society, in 1883, of which he has been corresponding secretary since its organization.

Married: (1) May 22, 1870, to Fannie Merrick, of Greenville, S. C.; (2) August 15, 1880, to Mrs. Kate (Gidden) Raines, of Okolona, Miss. Children: by the first wife, two. Residence: Fruithurst.

FOSTER, ROBERT SAVIDGE, was born about 1796, in Columbia County, Ga.; son of John and Elizabeth (Savidge) Foster; brother of Hardy Foster (q. v.) and John L. S. Foster (q. v.). He was among the early pioneers of Tuscaloosa County, removing with his brothers from Georgia between 1818 and 1821. They settled at Foster's Hill and Sylvan, and were among the largest land owners in the county. He was a Whig; and a Baptist. Married about 1816, in Georgia, to Ann Tompkins. Children: 1. John, m. Mollie Carnathan; 2. James Monroe, m. Malinda Dunlap; 3. Dr. Robert Savidge, jr.; 4. William Lovelace, m. Mildred Maxwell; 5. George Washington, m. Caroline Hasseltine Quarles; 6. Adoniram Judson; 7. Wade, m. Sarah Bell. Last residence: Foster's.

FOSTER, SHEPARD WALTER, dentist, was born June 11, 1861, near Troy, Pike County; son of John L. and Martha E. (Roundtree) Foster, of Georgia, who removed to Pike County, Ala., before the War of Secession, and engaged in teaching, a Confederate soldier, serving in the 46th Alabama infantry regiment. Dr. Foster's education was in the schools of his father. He graduated from Vanderbilt dental college in 1887, with D. D. S. degree. He began the practice in Decatur, removed to Atlanta, Ga., where he practiced for a number of years and is now president of the Southern dental college. Married: in Montgomery, to Sophie Lee, daughter of Dr. Walker and Frankie (Bibb) Jackson of that place. No children. Residence: Atlanta, Ga.

FOSTER, SUMNER B., college president and teacher, was born October 15, 1854, at Tuscaloosa; son of Rev. Joshua Hill and Frances Cornelia (Bacon) Foster (q. v.); nephew of John Collier Foster (q. v.). He was prepared for college by Dr. A. B. Meek and Rev. J. T. Yerby; attended Howard college, 1871-72; was graduated from the State university, A. M., and from the law department, LL. B., 1876. He taught in the high school for boys, Tuscaloosa, with Professor Dill, later taught in Union Springs. In 1885, he was made president of the Central female college, Tuscaloosa, and has devoted his life to teaching. Residence: Texas.

FOSTER, THOMAS GARDNER, business man, was born June 15, 1845, at Columbus, Ga., and died April 26, 1915, at Montgomery; son of Thomas Flournoy and Elizabeth (Gardner) Foster, the former a native of Summer-ville, Floyd County, Ga., who represented the ninth Georgia district in the U. S. congress for fifteen years, and wrote "Diary and Memoirs"; grandson of George and Julia (Flournoy) Foster, who lived at Columbus, Ga., and of Thomas and Anne (McKinne) Gardner, who lived in Augusta, Ga.; great-great-grandson of Thomas Pope, who came with his father and brother, William, later an officer in the Revolution, to Virginia from England, and settled on a creek that still bears the name of Pope Creek; great-great-great-grandson of Sir Thomas Pope, the emigrant, who married an aunt of George Washington. Mr. Foster was brother of James Henry Foster, who died as a result of wounds received at Chickamauga, and of Julia McKinne Foster, who married Edwin Gardner Weed, bishop of Florida, and was president of the United Daughters of the Confederacy in 1900. His early education was curtailed by ill health which culminated in the loss of one eye, and his further studies were pursued at home under a private tutor. Mr. Foster was sixteen years old at the outbreak of the War of Secession, and was repeatedly declined for military service on account of physical disability. Toward the end of the conflict, however, he was for a short time on Gen. Joseph Wheeler's staff. He was secretary and treasurer of the Montgomery gas light company for twenty-five years, and by his vote and influence, effected the merger of the Montgomery gas light company and the Electric light company into the Montgomery light company, of which he became secretary and general manager. He was a member of the Montgomery City council, 1906-1907, during which time he was chairman of several important committees, but declined reelection. He was the promoter of the first water works of Montgomery, and it was through his efforts that the first electric car company, not only in Montgomery, but the first in the whole country, was successfully operated. He organized and was the first secretary of the Young Men's christian association, and in 1868 was a delegate to the international convention in Baltimore. He started the first chamber of commerce in the city in the early seventies, and was one of the organizers and the first secretary of the Alabama State fair association. He was a Democrat; a member of the vestry of St. John's, and senior warden of the Episcopal church; a fourteenth degree Mason; grand recorder of the Knights of Honor for thirty-five years; senator of the National Union for twenty years; and a Knight of Pythias. Married: April 11, 1871, at Montgomery, Elizabeth, daughter of Robert and Elizabeth Priscilla (Cooper) Tyler (q. v.), who lived at Bristol, Pa.; granddaughter of John Tyler, tenth president of the United States, and of Thomas A. Cooper, of English birth, the leading tragedian of his day, who was a ward and relative of Godwin, the English philosopher. Children: 1. James Henry, LL. B., lawyer at Montgomery, chief clerk, international revenue service, Birmingham, m. January 2, 1913, Alice Lahey; 2. Priscilla Tyler, m. November 22, 1899, Forney C. Stevenson (q. v.), physician, Montgomery; 3. Thomas Gardner, jr., B. S., 1893, M. D., University of Virginia, 1899, merchant, 1894-1896, physician, house staff, New York Charity hospital, 1900, surgeon, U. S. Navy. Last residence: Montgomery.

FOSTER, THOMAS J., member Confederate congress elected as Alabama congressman, but not seated, was born July 11, 1809, at Nashville, Tenn., and died in Kentucky in 1887; son of Robert Coleman and Ann (Hubbard) Foster, both natives of Virginia, removing to Bardstown, Ky., 1794, and later locating in Nashville, Tenn., where he was a member of the legislature, president of the State senate and one of the founders and trustees of the University of Tennessee; grandson of Anthony and Rose (Coleman) Foster, of Virginia. He came to Lawrence County, Ala., about 1830, engaged in planting and manufacturing, and was a large slave holder. He entered the services of the C. S. Army as colonel of an organization of Alabama troops known as Foster's regiment, which later became the 27th Alabama infantry regiment. He aided in the location and construction of Ft. Henry; was elected to the Confederate congress, 1861; re-elected, 1863, and served until the overthrow of the Confederacy; was elected to the U. S. congress in 1865, but was prevented from taking his seat by the Radicals on account of his participation in the war. He removed to Kentucky about 1867. Married: (1) October 30, 1836, to Virginia Prudence, daughter of Robert H. and Prudence Thompson (Oliver) Watkins, the former a native of Virginia, who removed to Georgia, where he served as a member of the State legislature, came to Alabama and located near Courtland, Lawrence County; granddaughter of James and Jane (Thompson) Watkins, both natives of Virginia, who removed to Elbert County, Ga., and of John and Frances (Thompson) Oliver, of Petersburg, Ga., the former one of the pioneer settlers and merchants of that State; great-granddaughter of Isham and Mary Ann (Oliver) Thompson, of Virginia; (2) to Ann, daughter of James and Mary (Chalmers) Hood, the former of Ireland, the latter of Scotland; (3) Mrs. Wray. There were no children by the first and third marriages. Children by second wife: 1. James, educated in Edinburgh, Scotland, m. Matilda Toney; 2. Coleman, educated in Edinburgh, Scotland, unmarried, planter of Lawrence County; 3. Annie, m. Lieut. Longshaw of the U. S. Army. Last residence: Kentucky.

FOSTER, WILBUR F., lawyer; president of the State bar association, December 15, 1887, to December 20, 1888. He was speaker of the Alabama house of representatives, 1882-83.

FOSTER, WILLIAM LOVELACE, Baptist minister, chaplain C. S. Army, was born January 29, 1830, in Tuscaloosa County, and died in 1868, in Fannin County, Tex.; son of Robert Savidge and Ann (Tompkins) Foster (q. v.). He was educated in the neighborhood schools and the University of Alabama, receiving from the latter the A. B. and A. M. degrees, and graduating with distinction. He began preaching with the sanction of Grant's Creek church, Tuscaloosa, and was ordained to the full work of the ministry about 1852. He entered the Confederate service as chaplain, in 1861, remaining until the close of the war, when he returned to his home in Siloam and resumed his pastoral work. In 1866, he resigned the professorship of mathematics in Waco university, Waco, Tex., which he held but a short time, leaving Waco to settle in Fannin County, Tex. Married: June 15, 1855, to Mildred Maxwell, of Clinton. Last residence: Fannin County, Tex.

FOSTER, WILLIAM S., business man and expert accountant. Married: Sarah Owen, of Tuscaloosa. Deceased. Last residence: Jasper.

FOSTER, WILLIAM STORY, grand commander, Masons, was born July 18, 1830, in Hillsborough County, N. Y., and died March 28, 1899, in Mobile. He was grand high priest, 1883 and 1884, and grand commander 1878-79. He was a Presbyterian. Last residence: Mobile.

FOUCHE, R. T., major, 8th Confederate infantry battalion, C. S. Army.

FOUNTAIN, JAMES, merchant, was born on Staten Island, N. Y., July 11, 1812, and died in Montgomery, April 11, 1868; son of Joshua Anthony and Margaret (Holmes) Fountain, both of Staten Island, the former of French origin, the latter English; and the grandson of Margaret (Baker) Holmes. He came by ship to Mobile and thence by river to Montgomery in 1835. He established a carriage factory and sales warehouse, on the south side of Dexter Avenue, in the block bounded by Perry and Lawrence streets; and he also built the residence still standing on the N. W. corner of Monroe and Hull streets. He was a Democrat; and a Methodist. Married: in Montgomery, December 13, 1837, to Lucinda Susan, daughter of James and Susanne (Covin) Thompson (q. v.). Children: 1. George, d. unmarried; 2. Henry, m. Maggie Crozier, both deceased; 3. Anna, m. Benjamin Washburn (q. v.), and left one daughter, Bennie, who m. G. W. Crist, and lives at Cloverdale. Last residence: Montgomery.

FOUNTAIN, BENJAMIN B., grand treasurer, grand lodge, Masons, 1830-34.

FOURNIER, EDMUND H., physician, annual orator, medical association of Alabama, 1877. Deceased. Last residence: Mobile.

FOUST, WILLIAM E., Methodist minister; member of the North Alabama conference; living in 1913. Residence: Huntsville.

FOWLER, JAMES THOMAS, physician, was born June 17, 1863, at Shorterville; son of John Lindsay and Eliza Byrd (Bennett) Fowler, the former a physician, who moved from Lynchburg, Va., to Randolph County, Ga., later to Fort Gaines, Ga., and at the outbreak of the War of Secession was surgeon and first captain of the Cotton Planters Guards, the first company to enlist from that place, moved to Henry County in 1863, and was appointed captain of a company of state militia by Gov. Watts; grandson of Thomas and Christine Fowler of Lynchburg, Va., and of James and Harriett (Grace) Bennett of Shorterville, the former of whom moved to Alabama from South Carolina and was a colonel in the Indian wars. Dr. Fowler was educated in the common schools of Henry County, and received his degree of M. D. at Charleston, S. C., in 1883, at what is now the medical department of the University of South Carolina. He began to practice medicine in April, 1883, at Shorterville, where he continued to practice until 1905, when he moved to Dothan, Houston County. He was once health officer of Henry County, and later, in 1910, of Houston County. He was appointed by Gov. O'Neal, in 1911, as physician member of the board of inspectors of convicts, continuing in that position until 1913. He is a Democrat, a Missionary Baptist, and a Mason. Married: April 24, 1888, at Lloyd, Fla., to Eliza Talbot, daughter of Francis Moses and Susan C. Bunker, of Lloyd, Fla. Children: 1. James Thomas, jr.; 2. Gertrude Kate. Residence: Dothan.

FOWLER, JOHN, SR., soldier of the American Revolution, aged 99, resided in Pike County, June 1, 1840.—Census of Pensioners, 1841, p. 149.

FOWLER, LUTHER JEROME, teacher, was born January 26, 1879, near Brooksville, Marshall County; son of Josiah B. and Lettie J. (Jones) Fowler, the former served in the War of Secession under Gen. Joseph Wheeler, a merchant and farmer of Blount and Marshall Counties; grandson of Godfrey and Polly (Carnes) Fowler, the former a native of North Carolina who removed to Alabama, settled near Brooksville, represented Blount County in the legislature, 1840 and 1842, and of Rev. J. W. and Elizabeth (Majors) Jones, of Summit. Prof. Fowler was educated in the public schools of Marshall County, attended the Ninth district agricultural school, the Seventh district agricultural school, and the Alabama polytechnic institute. In 1897 he began teaching in the public schools of Blount and Marshall Counties; was principal Albertville public school, 1901-03; teacher of history, Fourth district agricultural school, 1903-05; Seventh district agricultural school, 1908-11, and appointed teacher of history, Alabama girls' technical institute, 1912. He is a member of the American historical association; Mississippi Valley historical association; Southern and Alabama educational associations. He is a Democrat; and a Methodist. Married: December 26, 1907, at Gadsden, to Elsie, daughter of Jesse E. and Helen (Cornelius) Murphree, of Walnut Grove, the former a captain of Co. I, 49th Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army. Children: 1. Luther Jerome, jr. Residence: Montevallo.

FOWLER, WILLIAM HENRY, editor, Confederate soldier, was born June 15, 1826, at Raleigh, N. C., and died August 10, 1867, in Jefferson, Tex.; son of William and Martha Smith (Parrish) Fowler, the former a native of Antrim County, Ireland, born in 1797, who was a merchant at Raleigh, N. C., until he moved with his family to Alabama in 1826, settling first in Tuscaloosa County, and later in Greene County, the latter a native of Raleigh, N. C., who was born in 1799; grandson of William and Elizabeth (Curran) Fowler, who farmed in Antrim County, Ireland, the latter a first cousin of Curran, the English barrister and orator, and of William Tyre and Mary (Womack) Parrish, who lived at Raleigh, N. C.; great-grandson of Sherwood and Anna (Smith) Parrish, natives respectively of Wake County, N. C., and of Virginia, the former who fought in the Revolutionary War throughout the entire seven years. Col. Fowler's ancestors all came originally from Antrim County, Ireland, and settled at Raleigh, N. C. He had only a limited education, received at intervals between work with a tailor, a druggist and a printer. He became interested in newspaper work while he was setting type in the printing office, and tried his hand at local and editorial writing. In the meantime, he studied assiduously to increase his meagre schooling. He decided to become a lawyer, and read law in the offices of A. H. Benners and William M. Murphy at Greensboro, working at the same time on the "Alabama Beacon," a newspaper published at Greensboro. He never practiced law, however, but became editor of the Eutaw "Whig," 1853-1856. He was elected to the State legislature, 1855-1857; moved to Tuscaloosa in the latter year to take charge of the "Monitor," a weekly paper; was elected secretary of the constitutional convention of 1861, which voted to take Alabama out of the Union, and resigned from the convention to enter military service. He raised a company, the "Warrior Guards," Fifth Alabama regiment, of which he was made first lieutenant; and was promoted to captain of the company, which at the end of the year was transferred to the artillery service and became Fowler's battery. The battery was put on duty at Mobile, and Capt. Fowler was transferred to the military office at Montgomery, where he was statistician and kept the record of Alabama troops. He was commissioned colonel of artillery, which rank he held at the close of the war. After the war, Col. Fowler went to Texas, and was assassinated in that state at Jefferson, August 10, 1867. He was a Whig; a Methodist; and a thirty-third degree Mason. Married: August 28, 1848, near Greensboro, Martha Elizabeth, daughter of John M. and Elizabeth Bates, who lived at Greensboro, the former a native of South Carolina, born in 1798, who moved to Greene County, in 1818, was the first sheriff of that county, and served in the State legislature for several terms. Children: 1. M. E. Denson, Pittsburg, Tex.; 2. M. S., Lafayette, Tex.; 3. Julia P., deceased; 4. Lilly P., deceased, m. Mr. Darby; 5. William H., Lafayette, Tex. Last residence: Jefferson, Tex.

FOWLKES, ALPHEUS MONROE, business man, was born November 22, 1838, in Franklin County, N. C.; son of Edward T. and Mary (Foster) Fowlkes, natives of Virginia, the former a lawyer at Louisburgh, N. C., until he moved with his family to Marion, Ala., in 1850, the latter a relative of the Stapleton family of Virginia. The progenitors of the family, Col. Fowlkes, a Welshman, and Col. Mason, officers in the British army, came to America with a grant of land in Virginia, given them by the English crown for military services. Their grant was what is now known as Prince Edward County, Va. They settled first in Alexandria County, Va., but later Col. Fowlkes moved to Prince Edward County. The name originally was Ffowlkes. Maj. Fowlkes was about twelve years old when his parents came to Alabama. He was graduated from Howard college, B. A., 1856; was secretary of the Perry insurance trust company at Marion until the beginning of the War of Secession; joined the C. S. Army early in 1861, being made first lieutenant of Co. A, Twenty-eighth Alabama infantry; acted as captain of the company for two years without the commission; and was promoted to major on the staff of Gen. Joseph Wheeler in 1863, where he remained until the close of the war. He took active part in the battles of Shiloh, Farmington, Perryville, Murfreesboro, Chattanooga, Chickamauga, Missionary Ridge, siege of Atlanta and Bentonville. At the close of the war, Maj. Fowlkes turned his attention to farming. He became treasurer of the Selma, Marion and Memphis railroad, now the Cincinnati, Selma and Mobile, in 1868; was made the receiver of the company in 1874; controlled it as such until its sale under foreclosure in 1878; and remained with the road afterward as superintendent and treasurer until 1882. He moved to Selma the next year, and embarked in the wholesale and retail hardware business in that city. At the sale of the New Orleans and Selma railroad in 1886, he became one of its purchasers and since has been general superintendent, secretary and treasurer of the road, which under the new corporation is known as the Birmingham, Selma and New Orleans railroad. He has been president of the Selma land company; director of the Hotel Albert company; president of the Selma bridge company, in which capacity he superintended the construction of the bridge across the Alabama River at Selma, and managed it for one year after its completion; a director in the Improvement and furnace company; and a trustee of the public schools of Selma. He is a steward in the Methodist Episcopal church. Married: in 1859, at Marion, Bettie Jemison. Children: two daughters. Residence: Selma.

FOWLKES, SAMUEL AUGUSTUS, business man, was born December 20, 1879, at Rehoboth, Wilcox County; son of Samuel Augustus and Mary Pinkie (Cobb) Fowlkes, the former a native of Marion, was a planter, living in Wilcox and Dallas Counties; grandson of Edward Taylor and Mary (Foster) Fowlkes, who lived at Raleigh, N. C., and later at Marion, and of Dr. Benjamin and Mary Fielding (Vaughn) Cobb, of Dallas County; great-grandson of Fielding Cobb, who won the gold bale of cotton before the war for being the largest cotton producer in Alabama. The Fowlkes family are descended from the Jennings of Virginia, and the Cobbs from the family by that name who settled in Southampton County, Va. Mr. Fowlkes attended the Dallas academy and afterwards the Eastman national business college at Poughkeepsie, N. Y., from which he holds a diploma. He was a member of the house of representatives from Dallas County, 1911. He is a banker and business man being the vice-president of the Peoples bank and trust company of Selma. He is a Democrat; a Methodist; recording secretary and a director in the Young men's christian association; and an Elk. Unmarried. Residence: Selma.

HUGH MORROW

FRANCIS, JAMES B., treasurer, tax assessor, lieutenant, C. S. Army, was born August 19, 1843, in Richmond, Ky.; son of Thomas J. and Elizabeth (Gibbs) Francis, both natives of Kentucky, who removed to Platte County, Mo., in 1859; cousin of David R. Francis, a native of Richmond, Ky., who was elected governor of Missouri, in 1899. He received a common school education, and in 1861 entered the Confederate service as a private in Co. H, 7th Missouri infantry regiment, with which he served at the siege and capture of Lexington, Mo., the battle of Elkhorn Tavern, Ark., and at Corinth, Miss. In 1862, he fought at the battles of Iuka and Corinth, and was wounded twice in the latter battle. In 1863, he took part in the campaign against Grant's army, including the battles of Port Hudson, Baker's Creek, Big Black bridge, and the siege of Vicksburg, where on June 22, 1863, he was severely wounded. After the capitulation of Vicksburg he was a prisoner on parole until the fall of 1863, when he was assigned to the ordnance department at Selma, and afterwards, until the surrender, was with the army of Gen. Richard Taylor at Mobile. During the course of his services he was promoted first lieutenant for gallant and meritorious conduct. After the war he located at York Station, and engaged in business. In 1871, he visited the site of Birmingham and bought the third lot sold in the original plot of that city. He was one of the first aldermen of the city by appointment of Governor Lindsay, and in 1872, was made treasurer of the board for four years. For a number of years he was a merchant. In 1896, he was elected tax assessor of Jefferson County. He served on the staff of General Ferguson, commanding the Alabama division, United Confederate Veterans, and also on the staff of his successor, General Harrison. He is a member of the Hardee camp, United Confederate Veterans; a Mason; and a Methodist. Married: in September, 1872, to Dora, daughter of John McCree, of South Carolina. Children: 1. Hines S.; 2. James B.; 3. John S. Residence: Birmingham.

FRANCIS, JOHN C., lieutenant colonel, 30th Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army.

FRANCIS, JOHN MILLER, chemist, was born October 25, 1867, at Jacksonville, Calhoun County; son of Miller William and Julia Patterson (Clark) Francis, the former was commissioned surgeon in the C. S. Army, serving in the Sixth Alabama infantry regiment, Rodes' brigade, Morgan's brigade and Wheeler's corps of cavalry and the 51st Alabama cavalry. Prof. Francis was educated in the public schools of Jacksonville; received the degrees of B. S., 1887, and M. A., 1889, from the University of Alabama, and did post graduate work at Johns Hopkins school of chemistry, 1890. He was connected with the University of Alabama, 1887-91, as first assistant professor of chemistry, later as adjunct professor; removed to Detroit, Mich., 1892, to accept the position of chemist for Parke, Davis and co., and since 1904 has been chief chemist of that company. He is a Democrat; and a Presbyterian. Married: November 25, 1891, at Tuscaloosa, to Evie Eugenia, daughter of Robert Theodore and Stella Maria (Searcy) Harris, of that place, the former served throughout the War of Secession, first as orderly sergeant, Eighth Alabama infantry regiment and later as adjutant, 58th Alabama infantry regiment. Children: 1. John Miller, jr.; 2. Evelyn Searcy; 3. Julia Clark. Residence: Detroit, Mich.

FRANCIS, JOSIAH, or HILLIS HADJO, Creek Chief. See Indian chiefs and associated characters.

FRANKLIN, CHARLES HIGGS, physician and planter, was born in 1838, in Albany, Ga.; son of Talbert H. and Mary (Adams) Franklin, natives of Georgia, the former after his wife's death removed to Coffee County, Ala., in 1846, a planter, veteran of the Creek War of 1836-37; grandson of Esom Franklin, of South Carolina, a Revolutionary soldier, who later settled in Georgia. The family is descended from Josiah Franklin of England, whose son, John, immigrated from that country to Massachusetts in the 17th century. Dr. Franklin received his primary education in the subscription schools of Coffee County, and later attended school at Elba. He entered the medical department of the University of Nashville, Tenn., but his course was interrupted by his service with the Confederate States Army. He was appointed assistant surgeon in the camp of instruction at Camp Watts and remained there during the duration of the war. He then entered the medical department of the University of Louisiana, New Orleans, from which he graduated in 1866, and at once located at Union Springs, where he practiced during the remainder of his life. He was also an extensive planter, operating a farm in Bullock County and owning large tracts in Florida. He was one of the promoters of Union Springs cotton-mills and was president of the company; president State medical association 1889-90, and for many years a member of the State board of health. Married: (1) in 1870, to Sallie, daughter of Jabez Jones and Jane (Harvey) Banks, natives of Georgia, who located in Alabama; granddaughter of James Jones and Hannah (Alston) Banks; great-granddaughter of Ralph and Rachael Alston (Jones) Banks of North Carolina, who removed to the Broad River Country, Ga.; (2) to Lula, his deceased wife's sister. Children: by the first wife: 1. Charles; 2. Lula; 3. and 4. died in infancy; by the second wife, 5. John K. (q. v.); 6. Jerome C.; 7. James J.; 8. Charles Moore, physician, graduated, 1898, Columbia university, N. Y.; 9. Jane; 10. Higgs

B.; 11. died in infancy. Residence; Union Springs.

FRANKLIN, J. N., member of the constitutional convention of 1861, from DeKalb County.

FRANKLIN, JOHN KNOX, lawyer and legislator, was born September 9, 1880, in Bullock County; son of Charles Higgs and Loula (Banks) Franklin (q. v.); grandson of Jabez B. and Jane Banks, of Enon. He was educated in the public schools of Union Springs; attended the Agricultural and mechanical college, Auburn; graduated LL. B., 1902, from the University of Alabama. He began the practice of his profession in July of that year. He represented Bullock County in the legislature of 1903. He is a Democrat; and a Methodist. He is unmarried. Residence: Union Springs.

FRANKS, MARSHALL, soldier of the American Revolution, a resident of Pickens County; private and sergeant, particular service not disclosed; enrolled on December 27, 1836, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $60.—Pension Book, State Branch Bank, Mobile.

FRASIER, ALFRED SMITH, physician and surgeon, was born February 28, 1881, at Cross Keys, Macon County; son of William Gregory and Joanna Lee (Smith) Frasier, the former a Methodist preacher who served throughout the War of Secession. Dr. Frasier received his education in the country schools and at the Troy normal college. He graduated from the University of the South, Sewanee, Tenn., 1905, and from Vanderbilt university, with honors, 1906. During vacation he spent his time teaching in order that he might send himself through college. He began the practice of medicine at Thomaston remaining there for five years. He graduated from the New York post graduate hospital in 1914 and became resident surgeon of that institution. In January, 1915, he was made instructor of surgery in the Post graduate hospital and received his license to practice in New York in April, 1915. He resigned in October, 1915, removing to Dothan, where he began to practice privately and in June, 1917, he opened the Frasier hospital. During the European War he was a member of the medical advisory board. He is a Democrat; Methodist; Mason; and a member of the Kappa Alpha and Alpha Kappa medical fraternities. Married: October 12, 1908, at Talladega, to Scottie McKenzie (q. v.). Residence: Dothan.

FRASIER, SCOTTIE (McKENZIE) teacher and author, daughter of William and Leila (Hood) McKenzie, of Talladega, the former a Confederate soldier having enlisted at the age of seventeen; granddaughter of Dr. Robert and Frances (Weisinger) Hood, of Cahaba, the former a Confederate soldier who died during the War of Secession with pneumonia, the latter a descendant of Lawrence Washington, and of Dr. Henry and Amanda (Talmadge) McKenzie, the former a graduate of the University of Transylvania and one of the first settlers of Talladega; great-granddaughter of Thomas Dewitt and Tabitha (Washburn) Talmadge, of Jefferson County, Ky., and of Murdock and Rebecca (Tyson) McKenzie, the former a native of Scotland who emigrated to America in 1802, settling in Chatham County, N. C.; great-great-granddaughter of Kenneth and Christie McKenzie, of Scotland, and of Campbell and Tabitha (Dulaney) Washburn, the former a Revolutionary soldier, and of Berry and Ann Tyson, of Moore County, N. C.; great-great-granddaughter of Daniel and Margaret Dulaney, the former founded a town in Maryland which bears his name. The Dulaney were among the most prominent of the members of the Maryland colony, one of that name having been the provincial secretary. The first member of the Hood family located in Virginia and married an Arundel of the English family of that name. Mrs. Frasier graduated from the Talladega high school in 1901, and from Judson college, Marion, in 1903. She then taught in the public schools of Talladega and Greenville, the Albertville agricultural college, and had been elected assistant lady principal of the Judson, but married two weeks before the opening of college. In 1914 she attended the school of journalism, short story department, Columbia university, studied public speaking under Mary Sandall, at Carnegie Hall, and attended lectures on psychology. In 1914-15 she lectured in the east on practical psychology. She is the author of numerous poems and short stories, also does a great deal of newspaper work, at the same time looking after the business interests of the Frasier hospital, and lecturing on practical psychology and other subjects. In 1920 she issued a book of poems, "Fagots of fancy." At the 1920 meeting of the Alabama federation of women's clubs she was awarded the Press and authors club prize for the best prayer. During the European War she organized ten counties for minute men; was vice chairman of Woman's division of Four minute men of Alabama, and spoke for liberty bond and war saving stamp drives. She is a member of the Alabama equal suffrage and League of women voters boards; Pen and brush club, New York City; Writers club, Indianapolis, Ind.; Press and authors club, Montgomery; New century club, Dothan; and founder of the Sorosis club, Thomaston, and Writer's club, Dothan. Married: October 21, 1908, at Talladega, to Dr. Alfred Smith Frasier (q. v.). Residence: Dothan.

FRAZER, JOHN STANLEY, Methodist minister, was born near Grove Hill, Clarke County; son of William Emsley and Satira (Cassity) Frazer, the former a native of Greensboro, N. C., who removed to Alabama in early life and located at Old St. Stephens, Clarke County, where he became a merchant and planter; grandson of John Frazer and wife, who was a Miss Stanley, of Guilford County, N. C.; great-grandson of John Frazer, a native of Scotland who emigrated to America, lived for a while in Pennsylvania and later moved to North Carolina. Dr. Frazer was educated in the schools of Clarke County, later attended Summerfield college, and received the degree of D. D. from Southern university, 1910. He was a member of the ecumenical conference, 1900, London, and a member of the book committee of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, for a number of years. He is a Democrat and a Mason. Married: February 10, 1874, in Clarke County, to Mary Ella, daughter of Rev. Jesse Pugh and Mary Frances (Fluker) Chapman, of Grove Hill, and granddaughter of Giles Chapman, a native of Newberry, S. C., who removed to Alabama and located in Clarke County. Children: 1. Daisy, m. Dr. W. F. Betts, of Evergreen; 2. Maggie, m. Dr. R. F. Washington, of Spartanburg, S. C.; 3. Jessie Otis, d. young; 4. Mary, m. Rev. D. H. McNeal, of Ozark; 5. John W.; 6. Lucile, m. L. L. Shertzer, of Demopolis; 7. George Stanley, minister of Washington, Ga.; 8. Keener C., professor at Wofford college, Spartanburg, S. C.; 9. Leila Dumas. Residence: Evergreen.

FRAZER, ROBERT, president of Judson college, Marion, 1882-87. Residence: Warrenton, Va.

FRAZER, SYDNEY THOMAS, probate judge, was born July 3, 1836, near Eatonton, Putnam County, Ga.; son of Thomas Goodrum and Jane (Goodrum) Frazer, the former a native of Nolansville, Tenn., who lived at Carrollton, Miss., Putnam County, Ga., and Warriar Stand; grandson of Stephen and Jane (Goodrum) Frazer. He received his early education at Warriar Stand, under the instruction of S. T. Strickland, and at the Glenville academy of which Rev. Dr. A. L. Andrews was principal. He taught school until he had acquired the funds to pay his way through college; entered Emory and Henry college, Virginia, finished the three year course in two years, and was graduated A. B., 1859. He taught school near Auburn until the war began in 1861; enlisted at once as a private in the Third Alabama regiment, C. S. Army, under Capt. Tennent Lomax; served for one year in that regiment until, upon application of his colonel, he was detached and commissioned to go home and help raise a new regiment, the Forty-sixth Alabama, commanded by Col. Mike L. Woods. He served in that regiment as first lieutenant, was with his company in every battle and skirmish except two, and was under fire about a hundred times without ever being wounded. He was captured at the battle of Nashville, and sent to Johnson's Island on Lake Erie at the time that the Federal government had just instituted retaliatory measures on account of the Confederate prison at Andersonville. After the war, Judge Frazer resumed teaching at Auburn, and in the fall of 1867, went into the mercantile business at Union Springs in partnership with Maj. R. G. Wright. His brother, Capt. Nathan C. Frazer, later became a member of the firm. In 1886 he was elected to the State legislature, and the following year was appointed probate judge of Bullock County by Gov. Seay. He was returned to that office by popular election in 1882, serving in all in that position for nearly twelve years. He is a Democrat, a member of the Methodist Episcopal church South, served on the board of stewards of that church for a number of years, and is a Mason. Married: December 7, 1865, at Tuskegee, Cornelia Demarius, daughter of Thomas Henry and Roana (Moore) Smith, who lived at Tuskegee. Children: 1. Emmie, m. John Belle Keeble, Nashville, Tenn.; 2. Lee, m. Judge James J. Banks (q. v.), Honolulu, Hawaii; 3. Lucile, m. William T. Park, Nashville, Tenn.; 4. Willodem, m. James J. Colson, Brunswick, Ga.; 5. Capt. Thomas Sydney (q. v.), m. Alice Miller, Union Springs. Residence: Union Springs.

FRAZER, THOMAS L., cotton merchant and probate judge was born December 21, 1835, in Lincoln County, Ga., and died _____; son of Addison and Mary A. (Florence) Frazer, both residents of Georgia, who removed to Glenville, Barbour County, Ala., but were forced after the burning of their property in the Indian troubles of that time to flee to Muscogee County, Ga., where they remained about a year, returning to their old home in Barbour County and finally removing to Auburn; grandson of Arthur Frazer, of Scotch-Irish extraction and a native of North Carolina. Judge Frazer received a thorough education after which he turned his attention to the cotton commission business; served as probate judge of Lee County, 1883-86; and was a member of the State Democratic executive committee. He was a Mason and a Methodist. Married: in 1875 near Opelika, to Ella Narcissa, daughter of Isaac II and Narcissa Whitfield (Sledge) Ross (q. v.). Children: 1. Mary Ella; 2. Thomas R.; 3. John A.

FRAZER, THOMAS SYDNEY, lawyer and legislator, was born March 17, 1876, at Union Springs; son of Judge Sydney T. and Cornelia (Smith) Frazer (q. v.). He was educated in the schools of Union Springs, and graduated at the University of Alabama, A. B., 1894, and LL. B., 1896. He entered upon the practice of his profession at Union Springs in 1896 and has since resided there. He represented the twenty-sixth senatorial district in the legislature of 1903, 1911 and again in 1913. He was a member of the staff of Gov. W. D. Jelks with the rank of colonel of the cavalry, and served as chairman of the Democratic executive committee of Bullock County four years. Also a member of the State Democratic executive committee. He is a Democrat; a Methodist; an Odd Fellow; member of the United Sons of Confederate Veterans; and of the Sigma Nu college fraternity. Married: in 1920, to Alice Miller of Brewton. Residence: Union Springs.

FRAZER, TUCKER HENDERSON, physician and dean, medical department, University of Alabama, was born February 14, 1859, at Auburn, and died December 26, 1919, at Mobile; son of Alexander and Catherine Frazer, the former a large cotton planter of Lee County. Dr. Frazer received the degree of B. E. from the Alabama polytechnic institute, in 1878. He was principal of the grammar school, Barton academy, Mobile, 1879-82, and commandant of cadets, Alabama polytechnic institute, 1883-85. In 1886 he entered the medical department, University of Alabama, then the Mobile medical college, graduating with the degree of M. D., in 1888. He began the practice of medicine at Auburn in 1888, remaining there until 1891 when he removed to Mobile to engage in the practice. He was elected co-demonstrator of anatomy and lecturer on dermatology in the medical department, University of Alabama, 1891; succeeded Prof. W. B. Pope in 1901 as professor of physiology; elected professor of obstetrics and pediatrics in 1904; appointed secretary-treasurer of the school of medicine by the board of trustees of the University in 1907; appointed dean and professor of obstetrics, October 2, 1905; resigned in June, 1919, but continued to act as dean until his death. In 1907 he built and operated with Dr. W. R. Jackson the Southern infirmary, Mobile. He was a member of the board of trustees of the Alabama polytechnic institute for four years and the board of school commissioners of Mobile for six years. He was a Democrat; Baptist; member executive board, National Red Cross society of Alabama; member, International tuberculosis congress; Association for the advancement of science; Mobile county medical society; senior chancellor, Alabama State medical association; American medical association; president, Alumni society, Alabama polytechnic institute, 1883-86; and president of the Alumni association, medical department, University of Alabama, 1892-96. Married: January 20, 1885, at Auburn, to Annie D., daughter of Alsae and Eliza Holifield. Children: 1. Alice B.; 2. Mell A., lawyer, m. Mary V. Danner, of Mobile; 3. Mary, m. C. H. Morian, of Philadelphia, Pa.; 4. Emmett B. Last residence: Mobile.

FRAZIER, SAMUEL WILEY, farmer, was born November 22, 1837, in Jackson County, and died May 17, 1910; son of Joseph Parks and Lucinda Jane (Williams) Frazier, the former a native of east Tennessee, who moved to Larkinsville, took part in the Indian War in Florida, 1836, was made major general of the State militia in 1837, served in the State legislature in both houses from 1843 until 1853, served frequently on the electoral ticket and was never defeated as such, and was president of the Democratic state convention in 1852. His paternal ancestors came from Scotland, settled in Tennessee, and served in the Revolutionary War. His mother's people came from Virginia. Mr. Frazier attended the common schools of the county, and was a student in medicine at the Mobile medical college at the time of the outbreak of the War of Secession. He returned home, enlisted in Capt. Bradford's company which was sent to Fort Morgan, and placed in the Second Alabama volunteers. After a year's service, his term expired and he re-enlisted as first lieutenant in Co. K, Eleventh Mississippi cavalry regiment, Chalmer's brigade, Forrest's corps; served in various engagements; was in the battle of Selma, and was wounded there in April, 1865. After the war, Mr. Frazier engaged in farming. He was elected a representative in the State legislature of 1892, and was re-elected in 1902. He was a Democrat and a Cumberland Presbyterian. Married: March 12, 1866, to Amanda Mariah, daughter of Shepard and Rosa (Chapman) Shelton, both of Jackson County, but of Virginia origin. Last residence: Scottsboro.

FRAZIER, WILLIAM, planter and merchant, was born in Edgefield, Edgefield District, S. C., in 1806, and died March 19, 1871, on his plantation in Montgomery County; son of Benjamin Marshall and Sarah (Lott) Frazier, natives of South Carolina, the former a merchant, planter and large slave owner in that state; grandson of Benjamin Frazier, a native of Scotland who emigrated to America in his youth. Mr. Frazier was educated in the common schools of Edgefield, S. C., studying under Benjamin Butler, who was afterwards U. S. senator from South Carolina. Before coming to Alabama in 1839, he was a successful merchant at Edgefield. In early life he was connected with the South Carolina militia; was an ardent secessionist, also a great friend of William L. Yancey. He gave liberal aid of money and supplies to the Confederate Army. He was a man of generous heart and distributed thousands of dollars, besides food from his plantation, among the poor of the city. He was a Baptist and a Democrat. Married: in 1833, in Augusta, Ga., to Eliza, daughter of Louis Cantelou. The father of Louis Cantelou came to America from France as captain of artillery under Lafayette and after the Revolutionary War, settled in Augusta, Ga., where he amassed a fortune in the cotton business. Children: 1. Virginia, m. Girard Cook; 2. Mary, m. Dr. J. S. Dillard, three children; 3. Emma, m. Capt. T. S. Herbert (q. v.); 4. Helena, m. C. E. Sadler; 5. Willie, m. Dr. Henry L. Stone, six children; 6. Ada, m. J. A. Olin, one child; 7. Benjamin Marshall, m. Carrie Belle Stone. Last residence: Montgomery County.

FREEMAN, GEORGE CHARLES, planter, teacher, politician, and soldier, was born October 16, 1825, at Athens, Ga., and died July 15, 1866, at Hayneville; son of Allen and Caroline (Robertson) Freeman, the former a merchant and farmer who lived at Athens, Ga., his wife a native of Greenville, Meriwether County, Ga. Maj. Freeman's mother died at his birth and he was reared by his maternal grandparents, and his aunt, Martha Robertson. He received his primary education in Greenville, Ga., where he was taught by Lyman Trumbull, subsequently U. S. senator from Illinois. He graduated from Emory and Henry college, and read law under his maternal uncle, Lemuel Robertson, and was admitted to the bar in 1844, aged nineteen years. He enlisted for Mexican war service but the hostilities ceased before his company was mustered in. After spending a few years in the west he returned to Georgia and taught school, but in 1851, removed to Lowndes County, where he engaged in planting. His experience and educational attainments were such that his neighbors offered him the principalship of the Hayneville female high school, and he was also elected as county superintendent.

ent of education. In 1860 he was presidential elector on the Bell and Everett ticket. He represented Lowndes County in the constitutional convention of 1865, and in November of that year was elected to the Federal congress without opposition, but on account of political conditions was not permitted to take his seat. In the spring of 1862, he went as captain of Co. I, 45th Alabama infantry regiment, in the Confederate service, and was mustered into the Western Army under Gen. Pat Cleburne. He was promoted to a majority, and was in command of his regiment in the retreat from Perryville, Ky.; received a severe wound in his temple at the battle of Murfreesboro, Tenn., and was brought home on a litter. In the spring of 1863, he rejoined his command at Wartrace, in an enfeebled condition and was made judge-advocate, in which position he served until military exigencies demanded his return to the field. He joined his command at Chattanooga, Tenn., July 22, 1864. In the battle of Atlanta he was severely wounded and lay for four hours under a cross fire before being taken from the field to Ford's hospital, Forsyth, Ga., where his leg was amputated. His shattered health was never restored and he died from the result of the wound. Married: October 19, 1851, at Pine Level, Montgomery County, to Miranda Dido, daughter of Jacob and Elizabeth Jackson of that place. Mrs. Freeman, in 1874, became the wife of George S. Cox. Children: 1. Charles Paul, m. Alice Houston; 2. Eva, m. Caswell William Garrett, deceased, Hayneville. Last residence: Hayneville.

FREEMAN, GEORGE FOUCHE, botanist, a native and for his early life a resident of the State, was born at Maple Grove, Cherokee County, March 4, 1876; son of George Washington and Laura Carolina (Nuckolls) Freeman, the former a captain in the commissary department, C. S. Army, and at one time county superintendent of education. Prof. Freeman was educated in the common schools of his county; and the seventh district agricultural school; graduated from the Alabama polytechnic institute, B. S., 1903; after graduation was appointed assistant horticulturist, Alabama Polytechnic institute; later became assistant in botany at the Massachusetts agricultural college, Amherst, Mass.; and is now the head of the department of plant breeding at the University of Arizona. He is a Democrat; Baptist; and a Mason. Married: July 18, 1906, at Manhattan, Kans., to Lona Adelle, daughter of Charles Perkins and Lona (McConnell) Blachly, of that place. Children: 1. Eleanor Adelle; 2. George Donald. Residence: Tucson, Ariz.

FREEMAN, LEVI, member of the constitutional convention of 1865, from Pike County.

FREEMAN, NEWMAN H., merchant, member constitutional convention, 1901, was born February 17, 1869, at Arbacoochee, Cleburne County; son of James R. and Margrett A. (Carroll) Freeman, who were married in Georgia in 1850, and came to Randolph, now Cleburne, County five years later. Mr. Freeman was educated in the public schools of Haleyville, and after finishing the high school course, began his business career as a clerk in the Birmingham postoffice under the Harrison administration. In 1891, he went to Haleyville, where he became the junior member of Freeman and Son; later becoming general manager of the Haleyville mercantile company. He was appointed postmaster for Haleyville by President McKinley in 1897, and was re-appointed in 1901 for four years. He has served three terms as alderman of Haleyville, and was nominated for presidential elector in 1900. In 1901, he was elected a delegate to the constitutional convention, and became leader of the Republicans, especially on the franchise law. He was on the committee on military affairs during his service in that body. He declined nomination for representative to the State legislature in 1902. He is an Odd Fellow, being a delegate to the grand lodge in 1904; is a member of the Woodmen of the World; and a member of the Methodist Episcopal church. Married: November 8, 1892, at Haleyville, Bettie C., daughter of Merrill and Nannie (Brown) Kennedy, of Dawson, Ga., who now live in Birmingham. Children: 1. Esther; 2. Douglas; 3. Eva C. Residence: Haleyville.

FREEMAN, TANDY R., planter, was born August 12, 1842, in Muscogee County, Ga.; son of Tandy R. and Anna E. (Sweet) Freeman, who were married in 1828 in Florida, and moved from that state to a plantation below Columbus, Ga., the former a native of Marion District, S. C., born in 1800, a farmer, who was overseer of a large plantation owned by Col. Fitzgerald in Florida for twenty years, and died in 1844 on his plantation in Georgia, the latter a native of Quincy, Fla., the daughter of Rev. Gospero Sweet, a Methodist minister who lived to be one hundred two years of age. In 1849 he accompanied his mother to Barbour County, Ala., where he received his early education, and in 1819 entered Emory and Henry college, Virginia. When the institution was broken up in 1861, he returned home and enlisted in Capt. Alpheus Baker's company, First Alabama regiment, C. S. Army. He received his first war experience at Pensacola, Fla., during the bombardment of that city by the Federal fleet. When his term of enlistment had expired, he re-entered the service in the Eufaula light artillery, and served as gunner until the close of the war, participating in the battles of Murfreesboro, Mission Ridge, Chickamauga, the Atlantic campaign, Hood's raid, Franklin and Nashville. After the war, he returned to Barbour County and occupied himself with his farming interests. He is a Democrat, and a steward in the Methodist church. Married: January 1866, Eliza J., daughter of Thomas and Eliza Roquemore, of Cowikee Creek, Barbour County. Children: 1. Annie E., m. O. R. Spurlock; 2. Tandy, a graduate of Birmingham business college, and a teacher at Hawkinsville; 3. William E.; 4.

Percival S.; 5. Evaline E.; 6. Mary R.; 7. Eileena M. Residence: Barbour County.

FRENCH, BENJAMIN, soldier of the American Revolution, "died—Near Rodgersville on the 21st inst., Mr. Benjamin French, aged 84 years, an old faithful Revolutionary soldier."—Southern Advocate, Huntsville, April 2, 1847.

FRENCH, JAMES ADOLPHUS, Baptist minister, was born at Ballsville, Va., and died June, 1916, at Johns Hopkins, Baltimore, Md.; son of John Woodson and Judith Frances (Blanton) French, both natives of Virginia, and after marriage, residents of Richmond; grandson of Col. Hugh and Priscilla (Mosby) French, of Powhatan County, Va., and of James L. and Rebecca (Walker) Blanton, of Cumberland County, Va. Dr. French received his education in the private schools of Richmond, Va.; took a special course at Richmond college; graduated from Southern Baptist theological seminary, Louisville, Ky, 1877; spent one year at the University of Virginia, 1877-1878, and received the honorary degree of D. D., from Howard college, 1893. He was ordained to the Baptist ministry, June 25, 1876, at Richmond, Va., and held pastorates in Virginia, Kentucky, Texas and Alabama. While in this State, he served at Talladega, 1890-96, Eufaula, 1908-13, and Columbia, 1913-16. He contributed many papers to religious publications. Married: May 25, 1880, at Sunny Side, near Montpelier, Va., to Fanny Throckmorton, daughter of Dr. James Ambrose and Lucy (Hiden) Madison; grand-niece of President James Madison. Last residence: Columbia.

FRIEDMAN, BERNHARD, business man, was born in Hungary and died in 1896, in Tuscaloosa; son of Simon and Rosa Friedman, natives of Hungary. He came to America in 1856, and settled in Mississippi, subsequently removing to Georgia. In 1866 he settled in Tuscaloosa, Ala., where he spent the remainder of his life. His education was received in Hungary. He purchased the cotton mill at Tuscaloosa, which he successfully conducted, merchandised and bought land. In 1887, he was elected vice-president of the Tennessee coal, iron, and land company and sold to that corporation 43,000 acres of land personally owned by him. He projected an iron furnace in Tuscaloosa and was interested in all the industrial activities of that section. Married: (1) Adele Black, who died in 1870; (2) Linka Loveman, of Dalton, Ga. Children: by the first wife; 1. a daughter, died in infancy; 2. Emma, m. — Herzberg, Gadsden; 3. Samuel, Tuscaloosa; 4. Victor Hugo, Tuscaloosa. Last residence: Tuscaloosa.

FRIERSON, GIDEON BLACKBURN, lawyer and county court judge, was born in Tennessee, about 1810, and died in Sumter County, in 1853. His father moved from Williamsburg District, S. C., in 1809, to Tennessee, and in 1819, located in Tuscaloosa, where he lived and died. He was the brother of Samuel Gordon Frierson (q. v.). Judge Frierson was educated in the common schools of Tennessee and in Tuscaloosa. He read law; was admitted to the bar and formed a partnership with Lincoln Clark, of Pickensville, Pickens County. In 1834 he was elected assistant clerk of the house of representatives, and in 1836 succeeded Col. Tunstall as clerk being re-elected in 1837. That year he was elected judge of the county court of Sumter, which position he held for several years. Last residence: Sumter County.

FRIERSON, MARTIN LUTHER, Presbyterian minister, was born May 6, 1838, in Williamsburg County, S. C., and died in the spring of 1895, at Orange, Tex.; son of Daniel and Jane (McIntosh) Frierson, natives of South Carolina, of Irish and Scotch descent, respectively. He received his academic education at Mt. Zion school, Georgia, and was subsequently graduated from Oglethorpe university, near Milledgeville, Ga. From Oglethorpe, he entered the Ninth South Carolina regiment, C. S. Army, and when that regiment disbanded the next year, entered the Fourth South Carolina cavalry, with which he surrendered at Greensboro, N. C., at the end of the War of Secession. After peace was established, he returned to Williamsburg County, S. C., where he studied law. He came to Alabama in 1869, and was admitted to the bar in Lawrence County in 1870. During the four succeeding years while he was practicing law, he established the Courtland "News," 1872; moved the paper to Decatur at the end of one year, and published it there as "The News" for two years. In 1874, he entered the Presbyterian ministry, taking charge of a group of churches comprising Decatur, Somerville, and Fairview, all in Morgan County. He had preached in those places about a year when he was elected to the professorship of English language and literature in the Florence State normal school. In 1887, he severed his connection with that institution to become pastor of the Florence Presbyterian church, in which he succeeded his brother, Rev. O. E. Frierson. In 1888, he was elected to the presidency of the Florence synodical female college. His last residence was at Gainesville, Tex., where he is buried. Married: August 21, 1862, in Williamsburg County, S. C., Margaret Gordan, who is also buried at Gainesville, Tex. Children: 1. John G., physician, Florence; 2. Daniel Irving, d. February, 1872, at the age of five years; 3. William Rogers, d. February, 1870, aged eighteen months; 4. Sarah Camilla; 5. Danella Isadora, m. E. M. Muse, Sacramento, Calif.; 6. Jane McIntosh; 7. Louise Margaret; 8. Lucy H.; 9. Martin Luther, jr. Last residence: Gainesville, Tex.

FRIERSON, SAMUEL GORDON, lawyer, was born in 1805 in Williamsburg District, S. C., and died April 5, 1857, in Tuscaloosa; brother of Judge Gideon Blackburn Frierson (q. v.). He was educated in the common schools of Tennessee; read law in Tuscaloosa with Eli Shortridge; admitted to practice, 1826; represented Tuscaloosa in the legislature, 1834 and 1835; postmaster of Tuscaloosa in 1838; elected

JOHN L. KAUL

State treasurer 1840, serving until 1847, when he resumed the practice of the law. Last residence: Tuscaloosa.

FROST, J. M., pioneer Missionary Baptist preacher.

FROW, THOMAS J., early resident of Selma and founder of the "Selma Free Press." He left no descendants.

FROXIL, JACOB, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 85, resided in DeKalb County June 1, 1840.—Census of Pensioners, 1841, p. 148.

FRY, ANNA MARIA (GAYLE), authoress, was born at Cahaba, August 17, 1852; daughter of Rees Darrington and Mary Louisa (Gill) Gayle (q. v.), granddaughter of Dr. Thomas Worthington and Nancy (Craig) Gill, of Frog Level, near Selma, Ala.; the former was born in Chester District, S. C., and removed to Cleburne in 1818, thence moved to Dallas County, where he entered large tracts of land near Cahaba, and became a man of wealth and influence; great-granddaughter of James and Mary (Gaston) Gill, of South Carolina, the former was one of eight brothers that served under Gen. Francis Marion; the latter had nine brothers who were Whig soldiers. Owing to the War of Secession and the unsettled condition of the country in years immediately following the war, Mrs. Fry was educated entirely at home under the supervision of her parents. She was taught by a governess, Miss Anne Craig, and later was well instructed in Latin and literature by Rev. Dr. Sparrow, a prominent Presbyterian divine. Married: April 9, 1890, in Galveston, Texas, to Dr. Joseph Talbot Fry, son of Joseph and Amanda (Gidden) Fry. Amanda Gidden's mother was Priscilla Buford, of the same family as Gen. Abraham Buford of Kentucky. Dr. Joseph Talbot Fry framed and drafted the present quarantine law of Texas, and on which all the other states base their quarantine law, was a member of the Texas legislature at that time when he framed and introduced the bill that has since so successfully been put into effect. Residence: Selma.

FRY, BIRKETT DAVENPORT, lawyer, manufacturer, and brigadier-general, C. S. Army, was born June 24, 1822, in Kanawah County, Va., and died February 5, 1891, in Richmond, Va.; son of Thornton Fry and wife, who was a Miss Thompson; grandson of P. R. Thompson, who was a member of congress from Virginia, 1801-07, and of Col. Joshua Fry, who figured in Virginia colonial history. He received his higher education at Washington college, Pa., and the Virginia military institute. In 1842 he was appointed from Virginia to the United States military academy at West Point, but did not graduate. Reading law in 1840 he was admitted to the bar. In the war with Mexico, he was commissioned, April 9, 1847, first lieutenant of Voltigeurs, a regiment of regulars, of which Joseph E. Johnston was lieutenant colonel; served as adjutant of the regiment at Contreras and Churubusco; led a company at Molino del Rey and Chapultepec, where he was officially mentioned as "distinguished"; and served until the disbanding of the regiment at Fort McHenry, Md., on August 31, 1848. In 1849 he opened a law office in Sacramento, Calif. In 1856 he again became prominent in military life. Solicited to unite in Walker's Nicaragua scheme he joined that officer with a body of troops and was the commander sent to quiet the Matagalpa Indians. He fought at Rivas, and soon was made general of brigade, and assigned to the largest of three military districts. With two hundred men he made a successful defense of Grenada, when attacked by a large force, which lost six hundred killed and wounded, while the garrison lost but seventeen. Ordered to California for reinforcements, he assembled a force, but could not secure transportation. In 1859 he came to Tallassee, and took charge of a cotton mill, until the outbreak of the War of Secession. On July 19, 1861, he was commissioned colonel of the 13th Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army, which soon proceeded to Richmond, Va.; and thence to Yorktown, where on October 3, 1861, it was brigaded with the 8th Alabama, forming the 5th brigade. At Seven Pines he was seriously wounded, nevertheless, he, with his wounded comrades, remained on the field, bravely performing their duty to the last. He was again wounded at Sharpsburg and still again at Gettysburg, where he commanded the brigade after the first day; was captured and confined at Johnson's Island, being exchanged in 1864. On May 11, 1864, he was assigned to the command of Barton's brigade, and led this brigade in the battle of Drewry's Bluff. He was commissioned brigadier-general on May 24, 1864, and soon after, was specially selected by General Bragg as "a man of gunpowder reputation, and bearing on his person the marks of honorable service," to defend Augusta, Ga., which city was the only one in the Confederacy not captured by the federal troops. At the close of the war he went to Cuba, where he remained until 1868, when he returned to Tallassee, and to his former work. He later came to Montgomery, but left on the death of his wife, and located in Richmond, Va., where he engaged in cotton buying and cotton milling, as president of the Marshall manufacturing company from 1886-91. He was an Episcopalian. Married: Mattie Micou, sister of Benjamin Micou, of Montgomery. Last residence: Richmond, Va.

FRY, T. S., mayor of Mobile, June, 1900 to March, 1902.

FRYE, JOHN H., banker, was born December 23, 1871, in Monroe County; son of John Hancock and Mary Amanda (Parker) Frye, who lived on the homestead in Monroe County; grandson of George Washington and Lucy (Wilkinson) Frye, of Monroe County, the former a native of Fryeburg, Me., who was graduated at Harvard college, came south about 1805, and settled on the family plantation in Monroe County, where he became a successful planter, and of Asa and Flora (Graham) Parker of Monroe County; great-grandson of Judge Frye, of Maine. The Frye family has been in this country since John Frye came from England to the colony of Massachusetts in 1638. One of his descendants, Gen. Joseph Frye was an officer in the Revolution, who was given a large grant of land in recognition of his services in the army. On this land he established the village of Fryeburg, Me., now a substantial town. The valor of his command in the revolution is commemorated by a tablet on Bunker Hill. The Parkers and Grahams were from North Carolina, of Scotch descent. Mr. Frye attended the public schools in Monroe County, was taught by teachers employed at home, and spent several years at the University of Alabama. After leaving college, he was employed in the First national bank of Aniston, resigning his position there after two years to engage in private banking in the same town. He moved to Birmingham in 1903 and organized the Traders national bank, of which he has been president for seventeen years. In 1910, he organized and was made president of the Realty trust company of Birmingham. He is a Democrat, an elder in the Presbyterian church, and a Mason. He is in the course of preparing a book containing more than six hundred pages relating to the conducting of a banking business. Married: in 1906, Helen, daughter of Dr. John and Cynthia (Gabel) Mushat, who lived at Hayneville, Lowndes County. Children: 1. John H., jr. Residence: Birmingham.

FULLAN, MICHAEL THOMAS, teacher, a resident of Alabama, was born September 14, 1871, at Macon, Ga.; son of James Henry and Elizabeth Agnes (Ward) Fullan, the former originally from Ireland but a resident of Macon for many years and a member of Longstreet's corps, C. S. Army. Prof. Fullan was educated in the public and private schools of Georgia; entered the Alabama polytechnic institute, 1896, graduated in 1899 with the degrees of B. S. and E. and M. E., and in 1902, received the degree of M. E. Before entering college he had served an apprenticeship as machinist in the Schofield's iron works, Macon, Ga. Following his graduation he took up his work as professor of machine design and drawing, Alabama polytechnic institute, and is now head of that department. He is a Democrat; and a Catholic. Married: November 23, 1898, at Macon, Ga., to Eleanor Christine, daughter of Franz Peter and Catherine (O'Neal) Yaeger, of that place. Children: 1. James Michael; 2. Mary Martina; 3. Lysbeth Katherine. Residence: Auburn.

FULLER, HORACE BURGIN, lawyer, was born October 9, 1878, at Montgomery; son of John Boswell and Jane M. (Mathews) Fuller, (q. v.). Mr. Fuller was educated in the common schools of Montgomery, and graduated LL. B., 1901, at the University of Alabama; entered the practice in Montgomery; later admitted to the bar of Nevada, and was appointed assistant district attorney at Goldfield, Nev. He represented Montgomery County in the legislature of 1915. He is a Democrat; a Presbyterian; a Knight of Pythias; an Elk; a Red Man; a member of the Kappa Alpha college fraternity. Married: April 8, 1914, at Montgomery, to Beryl Ruhamah, daughter of James H. and Ida R. George, of Linden, Marengo County. Residence: Montgomery.

FULLER, JEROME T., lawyer, was born October 21, 1874, at Centerville; son of Nelson and Elmina Harrison (Cleveland) Fuller, the former was a Confederate soldier, 1861-1865, member of the legislature, 1892-93, and 1894-95, treasurer of Bibb County, 1900-08; grandson of Mastin Jeremiah and Hannah (Menettie) Fuller, the former a native of Marlborough County, S. C., who soon after his marriage removed to Alabama, settling in 1897 near Centerville, and of Carter Walton and Mary (Kersh) Cleveland, of near Centerville. Mr. Fuller was educated in the Centerville male and female college; read law in the office of Hogue and Lavender; admitted to the bar September 6, 1896, and is now engaged in the general practice of law at Centerville. He was city attorney twelve years; and was elected a member of the legislature in November, 1906. He is a Democrat; Presbyterian; and a Knight of Pythias. Married: April 21, 1898, at Centerville, to Margaret Kate, daughter of James W. and Margaret Elizabeth (Gardner) Owen, of that place, the former was clerk of the circuit court of Bibb County for twelve years; granddaughter of James Wary Owen who was killed in the Mexican War. Children: 1. Margaret Bernice; 2. Jerome Theodore, jr.; 3. Nelson Owen. Residence: Centerville.

FULLER, JOHN B., lawyer and judge, was born in Montgomery County, March 20, 1841; son of William and Eliza J. (Scoggin) Fuller, the former a merchant, served on detached infantry, C. S. Army, a native of Marlborough District, S. C., the latter of Limestone County; grandson of Hamlet Fuller, who located in Montgomery County with his family in 1826, and died 1847, a valiant soldier with the rank of sergeant in the War of 1812. His early education was received in the common country schools of the time and when he was about fifteen years of age he entered a store in Augusta, Ga., where he clerked for about two years. In 1858 he returned to Montgomery, studied law, was admitted to the bar and at once began the practice. In the fall of 1865 he was appointed justice of the peace by Governor Lewis E. Parsons and, with the exception of an intermission of two years during the reconstruction period, he has held this office continuously down to the present day. In July, 1862, he enlisted in the Confederate Army, but on account of defective eyes was discharged after a short term of service. Returning to Montgomery, he was elected justice of the peace, but soon re-enlisted in the army, Co. D, Third battalion, Hilliard's legion, which upon reorganization became Co. C, 60th Alabama cavalry regiment. He followed the fortunes of his regiment and fought in all its battles until the surrender at Appomattox. He has been an alderman of the city and served for several years as a member of the school board. He is adjutant general of the first brigade of Alabama division, U. C. V., and is commandant of Camp Lomax, No. 151, U. C. V. He is a Democrat; and a Presbyterian. Married: (1) in 1868, to Rebecca, daughter of Captain William and Catherine (McCall) Shelby of Lowndes County, the former was born in Georgia and was a descendant of Governor Shelby of Kentucky; (2) in December, 1874, to Jane M., daughter of George H. B. and Catherine (Maysey) Mathews, of Montgomery County; granddaughter of Captain John Maysey of Philadelphia, and of Dr. Franklin and Sarah (Burgin) Mathews; great-granddaughter of William and Elizabeth (Merriwether) Mathews; great-great-granddaughter of Governor Mathews of Georgia. Children: by the first wife: 1. James S., lawyer; 2. Alice, m. W. H. Centerfit, of Montgomery; by the second wife: 3. Kate Sanford; 4. Agnes; 5. Anna Rebecca, m. Prof. A. F. Harmon (q. v.); 6. Fannie, m. Fred P. Caldwell, lawyer, Louisville, Ky.; 7. H. Burgin (q. v.); 8. John B., clerk, Louisville and Nashville railroad; 9. George P., clerk, Western railway of Alabama; 10. Jane M.; 11. Paul B.; 12. Ruth; 13. Luther; 14. Margaret; 15. Justin. Residence: Montgomery.

FULLER, LITTLETON, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 74, and a resident of Tuscaloosa County; private S. C. Militia; enrolled on September 17, 1833, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $30.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34.

FULLER, SUTTON L., lawyer, probate judge, farmer and real estate agent, was born April 1, 1855, in Cullman County; son of Fleming and Minerva (Simms) Fuller, both natives of Greenville District, S. C., the former a farmer, enlisted in Captain Stephen's company, Confederate Army, 1863, but on account of disabilities was discharged and died in 1865; grandson of Jonathan and Jane (Hodges) Fuller, natives of Georgia and South Carolina, respectively, who settled in Morgan County in 1832, where he farmed, and of Joel and Elizabeth (McGlathery) Simms, natives of South Carolina, the former a captain in the War of 1812, and soon after that date removed to Morgan County, where he farmed. Judge Fuller received his primary education from his older brother and being an orphan and the economic conditions of the times entailing restrictions on educational advantages he went to work at an early age. Later in life, however, after becoming a man of family, he returned to the school room and prepared himself for the practice of law. For some years he farmed, but in 1875, engaged in the lumber and real estate business. He began the study of law in 1879 and was admitted to the law course that year, and in 1890, passed a careful examination and was admitted to practice in the State and county courts. For several years he was engaged in western land settlement and was the founder of most of the towns on the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy railroad from Lincoln to Omaha, west and through Kansas, Nebraska, Wyoming, and Dakota. He also settled a number of soldiers in California on land warrants. He acquired vast landed holdings in Alabama and timber and mineral lands in the west. He was elected probate judge of Cullman County in 1898, his term expiring in 1904. He is a Baptist; a Democrat; and a Knight of Pythias. Married: January 9, 1876, in Cincinnati, O., to Evelyn E., daughter of John G. and Jane (Moore) Hubert, both natives of Ohio. Children: 1. Asa V.; 2. Nellie M., m. F. E. St. John; 3. Harry L.; 4. Dwight C.; 5. George H.; 6. Forney; 7. Evelyn; 8. Evelyn; 9. Gladys. Residence: Cullman.

FULTON, ROBERT BURWELL, educator, was born April 8, 1849, in Sumter County; son of William F. and Elizabeth K. (Frierson) Fulton. He finished his college course in the class of 1869 at the University of Mississippi, receiving the A. B. degree, and in 1873 the A. M. degree. The honorary degree of LL. D. was conferred on him by the University of Nashville, 1873, South Carolina college, 1905, University of Alabama, 1906, and the University of Mississippi, 1909. He began his career as a teacher in the high schools at Pleasant Ridge, 1869; removed to New Orleans; later became chancellor of the University of Mississippi and since 1906 superintendent of the Miller technical school, Virginia. He has served as president of the National association of state universities; president department of higher education, National education association; president of the Southern educational association. Author: various articles on the State of Mississippi, published in the Encyclopedia Britannica, and numerous reports, addresses and articles on educational, scientific and historical subjects. Married: (1) in 1871, to Annie Rose Garland; (2) April 2, 1903, to Florence Thompson, of New Orleans. Residence: Miller School, Va.

FULTON, THOMAS, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 81, resided in Lawrence County, June 1, 1840.—Census of Pensioners, 1841, p. 148.

FULTON, WILLIAM FRIERSON, farmer, was born November 12, 1840, in Sumter County; son of William Frierson and Elizabeth (Dial) Fulton, the former a South Carolinian, who came to Alabama and settled near Gainesville; grandson of Paul Fulton who moved from Maury County, Tenn., to Alabama, settling in Hale, then Greene County, and of Janette (Spence) Dial, who lived near Sumterville. The Fultons first settled at Peach Tree, S. C., and from there moved to Maury County, Tenn., settling on a tract of land bought from Gen. Greene of Revolutionary fame, as a bounty for services in the Revolutionary War. Mr. Fulton was educated at Pleasant Ridge academy, Greene County, and in 1857, entered Oglethorpe college, Georgia. He left school a few months before graduation to enlist in the C. S. Army, and entered the service as a private. He was promoted to second lieutenant, Co. A, Fifth Alabama infantry, which was assigned to Archer's Tennessee brigade. He participated in the first battle of Manassas, July 21, 1861, and continued in the service until the surrender at Appomattox, April 9, 1865. Since the war, he has farmed in Texas, Mississippi, and Alabama; was elected to the State legislature as a representative from Jefferson County, 1894-1895; and as a representative from DeKalb County, in November, 1902. He is a Democrat and a Methodist. Married: (1) September 6, 1866, to Mary Brown, daughter of William and Mary (Brown) Hudson, of Kemper County, Miss.; (2) August 2, 1883, to Mary Virginia Keen, of Woodlawn. Children: four sons. Residence: Collinsville.

FUQUAY, ALDRICH PARTIN, business man, was born March 25, 1861, at Fuquay Springs, Wake County, N. C.; son of David C. and Louisa (Partin) Fuquay, the former of Fuquay Springs, N. C., was a soldier from North Carolina in the C. S. Army, the latter was of Piney Grove Baptist Church, Wake County, N. C.; grandson of Stephen Samson and Sarah (Ausley) Fuquay, and of John and Elizabeth (Rowland) Partin, of Piney Grove Baptist Church, N. C.; great-grandson of William and Mary (Hall) Fuqua—the original French spelling of the name—the former came with Rochambeau from France to Newport, July 10, 1780, was a Revolutionary soldier, and an eye witness to Cornwallis' surrender, settled in Dinwiddie County, Va., where he became a farmer and Baptist, removed to Wake County, N. C., about 1810, and of Jesse and Amanda (Trulove) Ausley, the former a Revolutionary soldier from North Carolina, who was in the battles of Briar Creek and Cowpens, and of Louis and Rhoda (Bagget) Rowland, the former was in the Revolutionary army, and at West Point when Benedict Arnold betrayed his country. Mr. Fuquay was educated in the common schools of Wake County, N. C., at the Oakwood academy and Holly Springs institute, and was awarded a gold medal at the latter. He attended the University of North Carolina, but was not graduated; taught in the common schools of North Carolina, Georgia and Alabama from 1886 to 1894; since 1894 has been in the insurance business at Alexander City; was mayor of that city, 1903-1905; representative from Tallapoosa County in the house, 1911. He is a Democrat; Methodist; and Knight of Pythias. Author: "The Selfish prayer," and "Does yer call it stealin' now." Married: December 30, 1891, at Doles, Worth County, Ga., to Emma, daughter of David and Martha M. (Perry) Champion, of that place; granddaughter of Henry H. Perry, first of North Carolina, later of Twiggs County, Ga., soldier in the War of 1812, and of Micajah F. Champion, of Halifax, Va., a soldier in the War of 1812, and in the French and Indian War; great-granddaughter of Issac Perry, also a soldier in the War of 1812. Children: 1. Rewana Ethlyn; 2. James Aldrich; 3. Margaret Ruth, deceased; 4. Janice Partin; 5. Martha Louisa. Residence: Alexander City.

FURMAN, RICHARD, tutor of chemistry at the University of Alabama, Tuscaloosa, 1837-38.

FURNISS, JOHN NEILSON, physician, was born November 2, 1879, at Selma, Dallas County; son of Dr. John Perkins and Elizabeth Mathews (Dawson) Furniss (q. v.); grandson of John P. and Ann (Neilson) Furniss, who lived at Columbus, Miss., and of Col. N. H. R. and Anne (Mathews) Dawson, who lived first at Cahaba, and later at Selma; great-grandson of Joel E. and Elizabeth Mathews. He attended the public schools at Selma, and D. M. Callaway's private school; entered the sophomore class at the University of Alabama, 1895; the University of the South, 1896; the University of Virginia, 1897; was graduated from the latter institution, M. D., 1900; and from the New York university and Bellevue hospital medical college, M. D., 1901. By competitive examination, he secured a position of interne on the house staff of the New York post graduate hospital, 1901-1903; located in Selma in August, 1903, and has practiced medicine, chiefly surgery, there since that time. Dr. Furniss was president of the Dallas medical society, 1909; is a member of the County; State and American medical associations; of the Southern medical association; and an alumnus of the New York post-graduate hospital association. In the fall of 1913, he was elected a fellow of the American college of surgeons. He is director of the Selma national bank, of the Selma trust & savings bank, and of the local Y. M. C. A. He is a Democrat and a vestryman in the Episcopal church. Married: November 6, 1906, at Selma, May, daughter of Charles Word and Caroline (McKee) Hooper, of Selma. Children: 1. Elizabeth Dawson; 2. John Perkins. Residence: Selma.

FURNISS, JOHN PERKINS, physician, was born September 26, 1841, near Columbus, Miss., and died December 3, 1909, at Selma; son of Dr. John Perkins and Ann Frazier (Neilson) Furniss, who lived at Columbus, Miss., the former a native of Somerset County, Md., born December 26, 1808, who was graduated in medicine from the University of Pennsylvania, went to Louisiana and later to Lowndes County, Miss., where he died in 1844 at the age of thirty-five years; grandson of Josiah Furniss, of Maryland, and of William Walker and Sarah Helena (Frazier) Neilson, who lived at "Belmont," Lowndes County, Miss., the former an Irishman, who came with his parents, Nathaniel and Jane (Crawford) Neilson, from Ireland to Baltimore, Md., a captain in the War of 1812, who received a grant of land in Lowndes County, Miss., after the war, the latter a native of Philadelphia, daughter of Nalbro and Anne (West) Frazier, who died at "Belmont," January 19, 1835. Dr. Furniss received his early education at Prof. Tutwiler's Green Springs school. He attended the State university of Mississippi, at Oxford, where he was graduated in June, 1860, in his nineteenth year. He enlisted in the C. S. Army as a private in Co. K, Fourteenth Mississippi regiment, which was later consolidated with the Forty-third regiment, and was transferred, nine months later, to the medical department as assistant surgeon. After the war was ended, he attended the New Orleans school of medicine and was graduated, M. D., 1866, and attended Jefferson medical college, Philadelphia. He located in Selma and engaged in a general practice of medicine and surgery from 1866 until his death in 1909. He was a member of the Selma medical society, serving as secretary of the organization from 1869 until 1875, and as vice-president in 1876 and 1877; was a member of the State medical association of Alabama; for many years was a member of the State board of censors and medical examiners; and in 1886 became senior life counsellor of the Alabama State medical association. He was a Democrat and a Presbyterian. He contributed a number of articles to the different medical journals of the day, one of the most important of which was an essay on the "Anatomical and Physiological Peculiarities of the Negro," a large portion of which was published in the New Orleans "Medical and Surgical Journal," in 1874. Married: December 21, 1876, in Selma, Elizabeth Mathews, daughter of Col. Nathaniel Henry Rhodes and Anne E. (Mathews) Dawson (q. v.). Children: 1. Dr. Henry Dawson, m. Ruth Kellog Pine, of Frye, N. Y., reside in New York City; 2. Dr. John Neilson (q. v.). Last residence: Selma.

FUSCH, HENRY JOSEPH, teacher, was born May 10, 1856, at Louisville, Ky.; son of Nicholas and Josephine (D'Autel) Fusch, the former a native of Alsace, at that time a province of France, who came to America in 1854, settled in Louisville, Ky., where he was married the next year, and became a merchant in that city, the latter a native of Lorraine, who came to this country in 1853, and lived in Louisville. He was educated in the public schools of Louisville, Ky., at Jarvis college, and at Trinity college, Hartford, Conn., where he almost completed the course. In 1876, he began teaching, remaining for two years near Brandenburg, Ky., as principal of the high school; taught languages and mathematics at Clarksville, Tenn., in the Broadhurst institute and male academy, 1878; was principal of the Spring Hill school, Tennessee, for three years; taught at Grand Junction and at Bolivar, Hardeman County, Tenn., for five years; at Columbus, Tenn., for three years; returned to Bolivar to teach for two years; was principal of Elkmont high school for two years; and accepted the position as professor of languages and mathematics at the North Alabama agricultural college. He is secretary and treasurer of the North Alabama agricultural school; is a member of the Episcopal church; of the Blue Lodge in Masonry; of the Knights of Pythias; Odd Fellows; Woodmen of the World, and Elks. Married: December 19, 1899, Nina, of Athens, daughter of Benton and Eliza (Thach) Sanders (q. v.). Children: 1. Benton Sanders; 2. Josephine D'Autel. Residence: Athens.

G

GABLE, JOHN FRANKLIN, Baptist minister, was born August 21, 1867, at Goshen, Elkhart County, Ind.; son of Charles Augustus and Christena Emilia (Barthel) Gable, natives of Dormstatt and Mannheim, Germany, who emigrated to America about 1852, located in Indiana, later in Ohio, the former a member of the 30th Indiana infantry, U. S. troops, War of Secession. The name Gable was formally Goebel. Rev. Mr. Gable attended the schools of Toledo, Ohio; graduated, A. B., Howard college, 1894; and attended Southern Baptist theological seminary, Louisville, Ky., 1894-96. He entered the Baptist ministry as licentiate, 1891, and was ordained August, 1892. He has served in Chattanooga, Tenn., Abbeville, Columbia, Florala, Bessemer, Albertville, and Montgomery. He is at present stationed in Gainesville, Fla. He is a Democrat; Mason; Odd Fellow; and Knight of Pythias. Married: April 21, 1898, in Montgomery, to Hattie, daughter of Burton and Teresa Upchurch, of Carrollton, Pickens County. Children: 1. Minnie Amelia; 2. John Franklin, jr.; 3. Elizabeth; 4. Virginia. Residence: Gainesville, Fla.

GABOURY, JOSEPH A., civil engineer, was born April, 1852, near Montreal, Canada; son of Francis and Catherine (Lavigne) Gaboury, natives of Canada. His ancestors were among the early settlers of America, coming to this country in 1642 and locating in Canada. He was prepared in Montreal, was graduated from St. Hyacinthe college, and spent a year in Paris, France, to complete his study of mining and civil engineering. He returned to Canada for a short time, then was employed as civil engineer successively on the Cincinnati southern railway, the Big sandy railway, the Fort Worth & Denver City railroad, the Knoxville & Ohio railroad, the Western North Carolina railroad, the Tidesville & Lake Harney railroad, the Georgia division of the East Tennessee, Virginia & Georgia railroad, the Blue Mountain mineral railroad, the Arcadia, Gulf Coast & Lakeland railroad, the Columbus, Ga., street railroad, and the Capital City Street railroad in Montgomery. On all the roads except the Fort Worth & Denver City railroad, he worked as contractor as well as engineer. He built the street railways in Columbus, Ga., and in Montgomery, but afterward sold them. In 1885, he adopted electricity as a motive power, and is distinguished as having, as a civil engineer, constructed the first practical and successful electric street railway system in the United States, that of Montgomery. He is one of the largest real estate owners and dealers in the state and is sole owner of the Blue Mountain railroad. He went to Jacksonville in 1887, and in February, 1888, in connection with others, perfected the organization of the Jacksonville mining & manufacturing company. He is responsible for the discovery near Jacksonville, of immense beds of kaolin, which chemists and porcelain experts pronounce equal to any found in the world. He is a member of the Roman Catholic Church. Married: (1) in 1876, Marion Dolan, of Columbus, Ga., who died in 1882; (2) in 1884, Alice O'Dwyer, of Montgomery, who died in 1891; (3) in 1892, Carrie Frank, of Jacksonville. Children, by first marriage:

1. John D.; by second marriage, 2. Francis; 3. Charles; 4. Arthur; 5. Philip. Residence: Jacksonville.

GADDIS, WILLIAM PEACE, lawyer, was born December 27, 1841, in Coosa County, and died March 24, 1899, at Wetumpka; son of John and Elizabeth (Lloyd) Gaddis, natives of Newnan, Ga. Leaving school in 1861, he enlisted in the early part of the year in the C. S. Army, joining Co. B, Twelfth Alabama infantry, was made a sergeant, and served until the fall of that year when he was discharged because of ill health. In the spring of 1862, he entered the Second Alabama cavalry as second lieutenant; was promoted a year later to first lieutenant; and in June, 1863, was retired on account of wounds received at Mud Creek, Miss. He taught school from 1865 until 1869, when he moved to Wetumpka and entered the law office of Col. Tom Williams to study law. He was admitted to the bar in 1870; was appointed register in chancery in 1871, and held that position for nine years. He was for several years president of the Wetumpka Bridge company; served several terms as mayor of Wetumpka; and at the time of his death was probate judge of Elmore County. He was a member of the Alabama historical society, a Knight of Pythias, and a Knight of Honor. Married: December 20, 1877, Ella, daughter of Col. John and Sarah (Hutcheson) Bass, the former at one time warden of the Alabama State prison. Children: 1. Bessie; 2. Zula; 3. William P.; 4. Eleanor; 5. John B.; 6. Charles B.; 7. Stella; 8. Lloyd. Last residence: Wetumpka.

GAGE, CHARLES PINCKNEY, business man, was born April 9, 1814, at New London, N. H., and died May 23, 1864, at Mobile; son of Asa and Abigail (Gage) Gage, natives of Pelham, N. H., who lived at Methuen, Mass., the former a farmer and shoemaker, who travelled with his tools from house to house as was customary in those days, and was a great reader, too poor to get an education; grandson of Asa and Olive (Hovey), of Bradford, Mass., and of David and Elizabeth (Atwood) Gage, who lived at Pelham, N. H.; great-grandson of Amos Gage, born in 1718, a captain in the Revolutionary War; great-great-grandson of Daniel Gage, born in 1676; great-great-great-grandson of Daniel Gage, born in 1639; great-great-great-great-grandson of John Gage, who came from England in 1630, and lived in Boston until 1633, at which time he moved to Ipswich, Mass., and became one of the founders of that town. Capt. Gage moved from New Hampshire to Alabama, and was for a long time a prominent business man of Mobile. Married: January, 1849, at Boston, Mass., Sarah Crocker. Children: 1. Alice, m. Dr. Francis Harris, both deceased; 2. Frank, m. Odyle Gandric Post, both deceased, children, Alice, m. Mr. Smith, Concord, Mass., Olive, m. Mr. Root, Concord, Mass., Charles, Portland, Oregon, Robert, Malden, Mass., Ripley, Boston, Mass., 3. Olive, deceased. Last residence: Mobile.

GAGE, JOHN B., major and later lieutenant colonel, 14th Confederate cavalry regiment, C. S. Army.

GAILLARD, JOHN, planter, was born November 16, 1814, at "Laurel Hill" plantation, St. Stephens' Parish, Charleston District, S. C., and died January 4, 1860, at Claiborne, Monroe County; son of Thomas and Marianne (Palmer) Gaillard (q. v.). He was educated in the Pineville, S. C., school, the Pendleton academy, of Winnsboro; at Mount Zion college; and in 1831 entered South Carolina college, but was withdrawn the next year by the removal of his family to Alabama. He engaged in extensive planting in Monroe County, and served in the Seminole War, about 1835. He was a Democrat; and a Presbyterian. Married: December 9, 1834, in Claiborne, to Caroline Rachel, daughter of Samuel Scott and Catherine (McConnell) Gordon, of Williamsburg District, S. C., who removed to Claiborne, Monroe County; granddaughter of Capt. William and Margaret (Gregg) Gordon, the former a Revolutionary officer, under Marion, and great-granddaughter of John and Eleanor Gregg, and of James and Elizabeth (Hamilton) Blakely. Children: 1. Catherine Marianne, m. Alphonse Hurtel; 2. Henrietta Porcher, m. Thomas Alexander Hamilton; 3. Martha Rebecca, d. unm.; 4. Thomas, m. Amelia Howard; 5. Sarah Blakely, 2nd wife of Alphonse Hurtel; 6. William McConnell, m. Amelia Hogan Hamilton; 7. Elizabeth Richebourg, m. Wallace John Parham; 8. John; 9. Lydia Hamilton, d. unm. Last residence: Claiborne.

GAILLARD, RICHEBOURG, lawyer, was born July 14, 1821, at "Laurel Hill" plantation, St. Stephen's Parish, S. C.; son of Thomas and Marianne (Palmer) Gaillard (q. v.), the former the great-great-grandson of Isaac Mazyck, the first merchant of Charleston, S. C., and the largest landowner of his day. In 1832 he removed with his father's family to Claiborne County and received his early education in the schools of his community. He spent eighteen months at the University of Alabama and in 1842 entered Yale university where he graduated from the law department, 1844. He studied civil law in New Orleans, and in 1849 went to California with the gold seekers. While there was assistant editor of the "Pacific News," and in 1851 assistant clerk of the lower house of the California legislature. He returned to Alabama in 1852 and located at Camden, where he edited the "Camden Republic" for three years. He was elected solicitor for the eleventh judicial circuit in 1855 and served until 1861, when he enlisted in the First Alabama infantry regiment, being elected first lieutenant of his company in 1862, taken prisoner at Island No. 10; was exchanged and re-entered the C. S. Army. He was captured in 1863 and held until the close of the war. He again entered upon the practice of the law in Camden; and was nominated as delegate to the constitutional convention of 1875 from Wilcox County, but was defeated by the Radicals. He was a frequent contributor to the press on subjects of the day. He was a Democrat; Mason; Presbyterian. Married: in Camden (1) to M. A. Caldwell; (2) to A. F. Caldwell; both daughters of Dr. John D. Caldwell of Camden. There were five children by the first wife. Last residence: Camden.

JUDGE JOHN R. TYSON

GAILLARD, SAMUEL PALMER, lawyer and public service commissioner, was born March 26, 1856, at Perdue Hill, Monroe County; son of Dr. Samuel S. and Lucy Susan (Frye) Gaillard, the former captain of Co. A, 42nd Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army; grandson of Dr. Thomas and Marianne (Palmer) Gaillard, the former graduated with honors from the South Carolina college, was the author of many literary and historical works, removed in 1832 to Claiborne, and later to Mobile, and of George W. and Lucy (Wilkinson) Frye. On the maternal side Mr. Gaillard is descended from Judge Simon Frye, of the well known family of that name in Maine. He is the fifth in descent from Pierre Gaillard, a Huguenot, who emigrated to South Carolina late in the 17th century, and settled on the Santee river. He was educated at Monroe academy near Claiborne; studied law under Peter and Thomas A. Hamilton, was admitted to the bar July 5, 1881, and has since practiced his profession in Mobile. He was elected a member of the public service commission in 1918. He served for a number of years as president of the Young men's christian association of Mobile. He is a Democrat; a Presbyterian; and a Mason. Married: in Mobile, to Louise Madison, daughter of Louis M. and Mary Frances (Harris) Wilson; and granddaughter of Lorenzo M. Wilson, long prominent in the railroad and business circles of Mobile. The second wife of Mr. Lorenzo M. Wilson was the noted author Augusta Evans (q. v.). Children: 1. Flora Madison; 2. Samuel Palmer; 3. Lorenzo Madison Wilson; 4. Walter Frye; 5. Mary Augusta. Residence: Mobile.

GAILLARD, THOMAS, planter and author, was born April 25, 1790, at St. Stephen's Parish, S. C., and died February 2, 1864, in Mobile; son of Capt. Peter and Elizabeth (Porcher) Gaillard, the former a Revolutionary officer, under Marion, Laurens and Gen. Moultrie; grandson of Peter and Elizabeth (Le Clair) Gaillard, French Huguenots who left France in 1689 and helped form the French Colony on the Santee River, S. C.; and of Peter and Marianna (Gendron) Porcher, of that colony. It was among these colonists after the close of the Revolution, that the cultivation of indigo, as the staple crop, was abandoned, and cotton substituted. He was a juvenile pupil in the log-house school of his community; spent the years 1803-06 at Baskenridge high school, New Jersey; and entered South Carolina college, graduating as valedictorian and with the degree of A. B., 1809. He studied law for two years, 1809-11, under Abraham Nott, but soon abandoned the practice for farming, which he continued to pursue both in South Carolina and Alabama. His crop of cotton, 1815 and 1816, netted $5,500 and $7,000, respectively. In 1816, he actively engaged in politics, representing the Parish of St. John Berkley, Charleston District, in the legislature until 1819; and was again elected 1826-27. He opposed firmly the doctrine of Nullification, his writing on the subject being published in the "Charleston Courier," and copied in the "National Intelligencer," Washington, D. C. In 1831, he bought lands in Claiborne, Monroe County, and in 1832, removed his family to Alabama, where he planted extensively until 1851, when he removed to Mobile, where he continued to reside until his death in 1864. Author: "The Church of Christ," "The History of the Reformation," 1845; and "The History of the Huguenots of France" in manuscript form. Earlier he had written a book unpublished, "Science and Practice of Surveying." In 1848-49 he published in the "Philadelphia Presbyterian," over the signature of "A Huguenot," a series of historical sketches of the Huguenot refugees in England and America. He was a Democrat, but an anti-nullificationist; a Mason; and a Presbyterian. Married: May, 1812, in St. Stephens Parish, S. C., to Marianne, daughter of Thomas and Elizabeth (Richebourg) Palmer, the former a Revolutionary soldier, under Marion, and the latter a direct descendant of Capt. John Gendron, the leader, and Claude Phillippe Richebourg, the pastor, of the Huguenot colony, which settled on the Santee River in 1689. Children: 1. John, m. Caroline Rachel Gordon (q. v.); 2. Dr. Samuel Septimus; 3. Dr. Edmund, d. 1894; 4. Richebourg (q. v.); 5. Elizabeth Octavia, m. W. B. H. Howard; 6. Franklin, lt. col. 2nd Regiment South Carolina infantry, C. S. Army, killed in battle of the Wilderness, May, 1864; 7. Lydia, m. William S. Alderson; 8. Marianne Gendron, m. (1) Edward F. Willison, (2) Maj. J. W. Spratley; 9. Peter James, d. 1869. Last residence: Mobile.

GAINES, EDMUND PENDLETON, physician, was born October 31, 1824, at St. Stephens, Washington County, and died December 7, 1884, at Mobile; son of William D. and Helen (Toulmin) Gaines, who lived in Washington County; grandson of Harry and Martha (Johnson) Toulmin, who lived in Washington and Mobile Counties. His early education was obtained in Pinney's college, a private school in Mobile, of which Norman Pinney was principal. He studied medicine in the office of Dr. Fearn, then went to Philadelphia where he continued his studies in the medical college of the University of Pennsylvania. He was graduated M. D., 1845, and practiced his profession in Choctaw County for two or three years, then opened an office with Dr. Goronway Owen in Toulminville, where he remained for four years. He moved to Mobile in 1852, and practiced medicine there uninterruptedly, save for the period during the War of Secession, until his death. In 1861, Dr. Gaines took charge of the Alabama hospital at Richmond, Va., an institution presided over by Mrs. A. F. Hopkins. His health failed him before the close of the war, and he was forced to return to Mobile, where later he resumed his partnership with Dr. Owen. For more than thirty years, Dr. Gaines was at no time in good health. He contracted the lung disease in the fifties and suffered from it very severely for many years. His experiments and studies in his efforts to eradicate the disease from his system, gave him a remarkable insight into the methods of meeting the attacks of the same disease on others, and having first cured himself, or having at least stopped the progress of the disease, he gave much of his attention to consumptive patients, who came to him in great numbers, and for whose relief he labored with a success which was regarded as phenomenal. Many cases are cited where his skill in diagnosis and treatment of this disease effected permanent cure, while to all who came to him he gave such assistance as soon marked him as a physician of eminent rank. From his entrance into the practice, he was a member of the Mobile medical society, of which organization, as well as of the Alabama State medical association, he was at one time president. He was for many years a member of the board of health, and served for a time on the school board as one of the commissioners. He was professor of physical diagnosis and clinical medicine for many years and up to the time of his death at the Alabama medical college; was a Democrat, a vestryman for many years in the Methodist Episcopal church, and a Knight Templar. Married: February 12, 1847, at Toulminville, Mobile County, Mary J., deceased; daughter of Gen. Theophilus Lindsey and Amante Elizabeth Toulmin, of Toulminville. Children: 1. Toulmin Gaines, deceased; 2. Amante, d. October 27, 1889, m. Judge Oliver John Semmes, who was son of Admiral Raphael Semmes (q. v.). Last residence: Mobile.

GAINES, FRANK YOUNG, planter, warehouseman and soldier, C. S. Army, was born about 1825, at Demopolis, and died January 26, 1873, in Tuscahoma, Choctaw County; son of George Strother and Ann (Gaines) Gaines (q. v.). He was educated at U. S. military academy, West Point, N. Y., and was a classmate of General Grant. In the war with Mexico he served as lieutenant under General Grant, then colonel of the regiment. He was made captain of a cavalry company, the "Ruffin Dragoons" which was part of the 3rd Alabama cavalry, C. S. Army, at the beginning of the War of Secession. On July 1, 1862, he was commissioned major but was forced to resign on account of ill health, his resignation being accepted March 19, 1863. At the close of the war he was offered a cabinet position by President Grant but declined as he was a Democrat and also declined the appointment of the governorship of the State for the same reason. After the death of his brother, George W. Gaines, in 1853, he took charge of his warehouse and farm, and returned to this occupation after the war. He was a Mason and an Episcopalian. He was unmarried. Last residence: Tuscahoma.

GAINES, GEORGE STROTHER, pioneer settler, was born in 1784, in Stokes County, N. C., and died in December, 1872, at State Line, Miss.; son of James and Elizabeth (Strother) Gaines, the former a captain of Culpeper County, Va., minute men, during the Revolutionary War, a member of the North Carolina convention that ratified the constitution of the United States, whose home stood on the dividing line between Virginia and North Carolina; brother of Edmund Pendleton Gaines (q. v.); grandson of William Henry and Isabella (Pendleton) Gaines, the former a native of Culpeper County, Va., and a member of the house of burgesses, and of Francis and Susannah (Dabney) Strother; great-grandson of William and Margaret (Thornton) Strother, of Henry and Mary Bishop (Taylor) Pendleton, the former of Virginia, the latter of Carlisle, England, and of Richard Gaines, of Culpeper County, Va.; great-great-grandson of Philip and Isabella (Hart, or Hurt) Pendleton, the former a native of England, who emigrated to America in 1674, locating in Virginia where he married and was a teacher, and of Thomas Gaines; great-great-great-grandson of Sir John Gaines of Newton, County of Brecon, Wales, and of Henry and Elizabeth Pendleton, of Norwich, Norfolk County, England; great-great-great-great-grandson of Henry and Susan (Carmyer) Pendleton, of St. Stephens, Norwich, England; great-great-great-great-great-grandson of George and Elizabeth (Pettingall) Pendleton, of Pendleton, Lancashire, England, who were married some time in the fifteenth century, in Norwich County, England, where they afterwards made their home; great-great-great-great-great-grandson of John Pettingall, of Norwich, Norfolk County, England, and of George Pendleton, of Pendleton, Lancashire County, England. Sir John Gaines, was the great-great-grandson of Morgan, the eldest son of Sir David Gaines, the progenitor of the Gaines family. The name was originally "Gam," after two generations changing to Games, which form was adhered to in Wales, but became in England Ganes, Gaynes, and finally Gaines. George S. Gaines removed with his parents to Sullivan County, Tenn., in 1794, and remained there until 1805 when he was appointed assistant factor of the trading house at St. Stephens, on the Tombigbee River. He took charge in March of that year and a year later was appointed factor, a position he held for fourteen years. In 1816 he removed the factorage to Sumter County, resigning three years later, and in 1822 becoming a merchant at Demopolis, Gainesville, Sumter County, was named in his honor. He served Marengo and Clarke Counties in the State senate, in 1825 and 1827. He assisted in removing the Choctaw tribes to a home beyond the Mississippi after exploring the country with their leaders in 1829. In 1830 he began merchandising in Mobile; for a number of years was president of the Mobile branch of the State bank; in 1856 removed to State Line, Miss., where he had already established a farm and served in the legislature of that state in 1861. Author: "Reminiscences of the early history of the Mississippi Territory," first part published in the "Mobile Register" in 1872, and second part in manuscript form, in Alabama State Department of Archives and History. Married: about 1812, to Ann, daughter of Young Gaines. Children: 1. James, married Rosa —; 2. Frank Young, (q. v.); 3. George Henry, m. Mary Earle; 5. Abner, m. (1) Miss Saffold, (2) Marion Stack; 6. Emanuel; 7. Helen; 8. Mary. Last residence: State Line, Miss.

GAINES, JOHN F., lieutenant colonel, 53rd Alabama Partisan Rangers, C. S. Army.

GAINES, M. TOULMIN, physician; graduate of the medical department of the University of Alabama, Mobile, 1890; licensed to practice by the County board of examiners, Mobile, 1892; annual orator of the medical association 1892. Residence: Mobile.

GAINES, REUBEN REID, lawyer, was born October 30, 1836, in Sumter County, and died October 13, 1914; son of Joab and Lucinda (McDavid) Gaines. He received his preparatory training in the country and private schools, and was graduated at the University of Alabama, A. B., 1855. He studied law at the Cumberland university, at Lebanon, Tenn., and was graduated, LL. B., 1887. He practiced law at Selma until 1862, when he enlisted in the C. S. Army. He served as adjutant of the Third Alabama cavalry, 1862-1863; assistant adjutant, Gen. Morgan's brigade, Allen's division, 1863-1864; assistant adjutant general, Allen's division of cavalry, 1864-1865. After the war, he resumed his practice in Clarksville, Tex., in partnership with Col. B. H. Epperson; was elected judge of the Sixth judicial district of Texas and served from 1877 to 1885; served as associate justice of the supreme court of Texas, 1885-1894; and as chief justice of the supreme court of Texas from 1894 to January 5, 1911, when he retired on account of failing health. He was a Democrat; an Episcopalian; a member of the Delta Kappa Epsilon fraternity; and an Odd Fellow. Married: March, 1859, to Louisa, daughter of Hon. George D. and Elizabeth (King) Shortridge, who lived at Montevallo, Shelby County. Children: 1. Lelia Shortridge, Galveston, Tex. Last residence: Austin, Tex.

GAINES, VIVIAN PENDLETON, physician, was born September 21, 1852, at Mt. Sterling, Choctaw County; son of George Washington and Eliza V. (Earle) Gaines, the former a native of Mobile, who attended the University of Alabama in 1835, engaged in the warehouse business in Mobile, later removing to Tuscaloosa, where he farmed and conducted a large warehouse, and who died at Demopolis; grandson of Dr. Joseph B. and Sue (Sloan) Earle, both natives of South Carolina, the former a physician by profession, and of George Strother and Ann (Gaines) Gaines (q. v.). Dr. Gaines received his early education in the public schools; attended Centenary institute, Summerfield; graduated from the medical department, University of Alabama, 1872; and from the College of physicians and surgeons, New York, 1873. He at once began the practice of his profession at Mount Sterling, removing to Mobile in 1886, where he has since practiced, and served as clinical lecturer on obstetrics in the medical department, University of Alabama. He is a member and life councilor of the Alabama State medical association; member State board of health and State medical examining board; and of Mobile County medical association. He is a Democrat; Methodist; Odd Fellow; Knight of Pythias; Mason; Red Man; and Knight of Honor. Author: "Central America and Panama Canal," 1913. Married: March 7, 1879, at Summerfield, to Margaret Caroline, daughter of Netherland and Caroline Porter (Childers) Tate, both natives of Georgia, who removed to Summerfield; granddaughter of Caleb and Mary (Middleton) Tate, the former of Lynchburg, Va., who removed to Alabama in 1828 and settled the old Tate homestead, near Summerfield, Dallas County; great-granddaughter of Robert Middleton. Children: 1. Lila Earle, m. Warner Clifford Clisby, Birmingham; 2. Carrie Tate, m. Richard Raymond Callen, Birmingham; 3. Helen May; 4. Maggie Bell, deceased; 5. Vivian Pendleton. Residence: Mobile.

GAINES, WILLIAM D., an early settler in South Alabama. Married: Helen, daughter of Judge Harry Toulmin (q. v.). Deceased.

GAINES, WILLIAM D., physician, was born September 26, 1870, at Mill Town, Chambers County; son of Robert T. and Martha P. (Wilson) Gaines, the former a native of Chambers County, who served in the Eighth Confederate cavalry during the War of Secession, and lived at Mill Town after 1868; grandson of Strother and Ann (Wood) Gaines, who lived in Chambers County, the former a member of a Virginia family that branched out, some going to South Carolina, some to Elbert County, Ga., and of Lewis and Eliza Wilson, who lived near Lafayette. He was educated at Mill Town academy, and was graduated from the medical department of the University of Alabama, M. D., 1892. He practiced medicine at Mill Town for five years, and moved to Lafayette in 1897. He served as county health officer, 1913-1915; is a Democrat; a Baptist; and a Knight of Pythias. Married: December 6, 1896, near Lafayette, to Leila E., daughter of J. J. and Elizabeth Ann (Ratchford) Tucker, who lived at that place. Children: 1. Marie; 2. Will. Residence: Lafayette.

GAITHER, GEORGE F., farmer's alliance leader, was born March 6, 1854, in Tishomingo County, Miss.; son of Richard and Matilda (Thompson) Gaither. When he was sixteen years of age, his mother died, and he came with his father to Etowah County. He was educated in Mississippi, and for fifteen years was engaged in teaching school. He has been identified with the alliance movement in Alabama since its inception; was elected in 1888, secretary and treasurer of the alliance exchange; and a year later was reelected to that office. In 1890, he was made general manager, declined reelection the next year, and later became a director. He was elected county superintendent of Etowah County in 1886, and declined re-election in 1890. When the call was made for a national people's party convention in May, 1891, in Cincinnati, he was the only man in Alabama who responded; was elected a member of the national executive committee, and attended the St. Louis convention in February, 1892, and the Omaha convention the following July. He was elected chairman of the state executive committee of the party in Alabama, and as such called to order the Birmingham convention of September, 1892. He was one of the electors on the Weaver ticket, and canvassed the state. He is a farmer and has a plantation in Etowah County. He is a Methodist; an Odd Fellow; and a Mason. Married: December 7, 1882, Sarah E. Thompson. Children: 1. Italia, m. L. D. Cole, jr.; 2. Nora Agnes; 3. George F., jr.; 4. Rex S.; 5. Quinton Orestes. Residence: Etowah County.

GALESPIE, DANIEL, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 77, resided in Chambers County, June 1, 1840, with David Taylor.—Census of Pensioners, 1841, p. 149.

GALLION, JO, railroad man, was born March 15, 1833, in Knox County, Tenn.; son of Thomas and Alvira (Deal) Gallion, both of whom were born and reared in Burke County, N. C., were married in North Carolina, moved to a farm in Knox County, Tenn., where they lived until their death. He received a fair education in an old field school near his home in Knox County, Tenn., and when he was about twenty-four years old, went out with an engineering corps, which laid out the route of what now is the East Tennessee, Virginia & Georgia railroad. He continued as a railroad man for thirty-six years, engaged as a foreman of bridge-building and section work for about four years; was conductor on the Memphis & Charleston railroad for two years; conducted a train out of Corinth in July, 1862, when the Federal troops went into that place, at which time his train, together with six others, had to be burned to prevent its falling into the hands of the Federals; aided in the construction of a railroad from Meridian, Miss., to Demopolis; and when it was completed, was made roadmaster at Demopolis, which position he held until June, 1892, when on account of ill health, he resigned and accepted the less arduous position of claim agent. Some time after, he retired to his plantation, "Forest Hill," located two miles from Demopolis, where he turned his attention to farming and stock-raising. He is a member of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, and is a Democrat. Married: January, 1869, S. A. Russell, of Russell, Miss. Children: 1. Thomas Travis, b. April 15, 1871, attended the Southern university at Greensboro, the University of Alabama, and was graduated, M. D., from Louisville medical college, 1895, physician at Demopolis. Residence: near Demopolis, Marengo County.

GALT, EDWARD PEGRAM, druggist, was born October 5, 1847, in Norfolk, Va.; son of Alexander and Mary (Raincock) Galt, natives of Williamsburg and Norfolk, Va., the former a druggist of Norfolk, Va., who was married first to a Miss Jeffery, by whom he had three sons and three daughters, and died in Richmond of yellow fever in 1855; step-brother of Alexander Galt, a sculptor, whose statue of Jefferson at the University of Virginia is one of his masterpieces, of William R. Galt, a distinguished educator of Virginia, and of Dr. James D. Galt, a physician at Norfolk, Va. The Galt family is of Scotch origin, and the Raincock family of English. Mr. Galt was educated in Norfolk, Va., until the beginning of the War of Secession. He entered the C. S. Army in 1864, and was in the Harris home hospital, serving as apothecary until the close of the war. He resumed the drug business at Norfolk, Va., until 1866, when he came to Selma. He clerked in a drug store there until 1878, when he established himself in the drug business. He has served three terms on the state board of pharmacy as secretary of the board, and is a Protestant Episcopalian, of which church he has been secretary of the vestry for more than fifteen years. Married: in 1871, Annie F., daughter of Joel Riggs, who was brother of J. M. Riggs of Montgomery, and first cousin of Dr. Benjamin Riggs, of Selma. Children: three sons and three daughters. Residence: Selma.

GALVEZ, BERNARDO, Spanish Governor of Louisiana, Captain-General of Cuba and Viceroy of Mexico. See Indian chiefs and associated characters.

GAMBLE, ARTHUR EMMETT, lawyer, was born February 4, 1874, at Greenville, Butler County; son of John and Sallie Ann (Bond) Gamble, and brother of John Gamble (q. v.). He was educated in the common schools of Greenville, at the Marion military institute; and was admitted to the bar in 1896. He was at one time a member of the city council of Greenville; chairman of the County executive committee, and member of the second district congressional executive committee. In 1910 he was elected judge of the second judicial circuit. He is a Democrat; a Baptist; and a Knight of Pythias. Married: January 28, 1903, at Greenville, to Bettie, daughter of Joseph Manning and Ida (Hawthorne) Steiner, of that place. Children: 1. John. Residence: Greenville.

GAMBLE, C. B., educator; superintendent of the city schools of Greenville, Butler County.

GAMBLE, FRANKLIN ASHURY, probate judge, merchant and a coal mine operator, was born September 30, 1830, near Calera, Shelby County, and died at Jasper; son of John R. and Jane (Mills) Gamble, natives of South Carolina and Tennessee, respectively, the former a Methodist minister who held many county offices, served under Gen. Andrew Jackson in the War of 1812, removed in 1837 with his family and property to Walker County, Ala., where he died and is buried; grandson of Robert and Margaret Gamble, the former a native of Ireland, a soldier in the American Revolution, the latter of New York, and of James and Margaret Mills, of Virginia, the former a Revolutionary soldier. Judge Gamble was educated in the common schools of Walker County, and in 1855, left the farm to enter the mercantile business in Jasper. He was elected probate judge of Walker County in May, 1859. He enlisted in 1862 in Co. F, 28th Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army, and was later elected captain of his company, serving with Bragg's army in the Kentucky and Tennessee campaigns. He left the service at the end of that year on account of failing health, and did not again go into the field. From 1865 to 1868 he was county administrator, and at the same time managed a farm. He engaged in the mercantile business, 1869-1873. In 1874 he took charge of the "Mountain Eagle," a weekly newspaper published at Jasper, and was its editor until 1877, when the office of the paper, together with the court house and other buildings, was destroyed by fire. He was soon afterwards appointed probate judge by Gov. George S. Houston, and held the position by successive re-elections until 1886. For two years he was president of the Walker County bank, after which he resigned. He owned the Gamble mines coal property, also a mine at Carbon Hill, and much real estate and other properties in Walker County. He was a local preacher of the Methodist church. He was a Mason; Odd Fellow, and a Democrat. Married: (1) November 3, 1857, to Jerusha A., daughter of James H. Freeman, who was a Methodist minister for sixty-two years and widely known in Walker, Tuscaloosa, and Fayette Counties; (2) in April, 1877, to Mary A., daughter of Judge Thomas and Dolly (Williams) Owen. Children: by the first wife: 1-4, deceased; 5. Leila K., m. J. B. Carrington (q. v.); 6-7, deceased; by the second wife: 8. Frank; 9. Foster K.; 10. Thomas Owen. Last residence: Jasper.

GAMBLE, JOHN, business man, was born August 21, 1866, at Oak Bluff, Pike County; son of John and Sallie (Bond) Gamble, the former a native of Jefferson County, Ga., removed to Alabama and located in Greenville, where he practiced law, served as a captain, Co. H, 33rd Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army, and was a member of the constitutional convention of 1875; grandson of Charles and Elizabeth (Jordan) Gamble, who removed from Georgia and settled in Macon County, and of Baker and Elizabeth (May) Bond, who lived and died in Pike County. Mr. Gamble was educated in the common schools of Greenville; and graduated A. B. 1886, at Howard college. Reading law in the office of his father, he was admitted to the bar in 1887, but has never practiced. For a long time he was engaged in the real estate and loan business, but is now interested in the manufacture of fertilizers. On the resignation of Senator L. D. Gardner, in 1907, he was elected as his successor to the State senate, from the twenty-fifth senatorial district, at a special election held September 28. He served a few weeks in 1915 as secretary to Gov. Charles Henderson. He was mayor of Troy, 1893-95; president and treasurer of the Troy city school board for ten years; and since 1898 has been city treasurer of Troy. He is a Democrat; a Missionary Baptist; a Mason, Knight of Pythias, and an Elk. Married: August 21, 1888, at Troy, to Alice, daughter of Capt. W. D. and Sarah (Berney) Henderson of that place. Residence: Troy.

GAMBLE, JOHN, member of the constitutional convention of 1875, from the thirty-first district.

GANNEY, JOSEPH S., educator; president of the Fourth district agricultural school. Residence: Sylacauga.

GANTT, EDWARD, physician, surgeon and business man, was born March 20, 1790, in Ann Arundel County, Md., and died near Sylacauga, November 24, 1867; son of Robert and Elizabeth (Compton) Gantt, natives of Maryland, who early moved to Tennessee. The Gantt family was prominent in Virginia, Maryland, Tennessee, and Kentucky. They are descended from the old Norman English family of the same name. The American branch was founded by Thomas G. who married a Mrs. Graham of England, and emigrated to Maryland in 1660. Dr. Gantt, while very young, removed with his parents from Ann Arundel County to Tennessee, where he attended school. When he was twelve years of age he took over the management of his father's plantation and with the co-operation of negro slave labor made a successful farmer. At the age of fourteen he entered the medical department of the University of Pennsylvania, from which he graduated April 20, 1811. While a student at the University he had as one of his instructors, the famous Dr. Benjamin Rush. He served under Gen. Andrew Jackson as surgeon of the East Tennessee troops in the Creek Indian War, participating in the battles of the Horse Shoe Bend, Ft. Williams and Talladega. Dr. Gantt practiced his profession in Tennessee for several years following his military activities but returned to Alabama which had won his interest, coming on horseback and settling at Cahaba at that time the capital of the State. He performed a surgical operation in the course of his practice there that gave him immediate prominence. Later he removed to Selma, and organized the first medical society there. In 1823 he was elected intendant of Selma. In January, 1849, he removed to Talladega County where he owned and successfully operated the Gantt marble quarries. His mills were burned, however, in 1865, and he died before they were rebuilt. He was a Democrat and a Mason. Dr. Hardy in his "Selma: her institutions and her men, 1879," states that there is a clause in his will, "donating two handsome lots to the city of Selma, situated at the Southeast corner of Alabama and Franklin streets, for the purposes of a Lyceum." It is not known by whom this property is now held. Dr. Gantt was the father of one child, a daughter, Louisa, by Elizabeth Ann Battle. She now resides at St. Louis, Mo., and is the wife of — Taylor. Last residence: Sylacauga.

GARBER, ALEXANDER MICHAEL, lawyer and attorney general, was born May 15, 1867, at "Chessland," near Livingston, Sumter County; son of Dr. Alexander Menzies and Anna

Maria (Rhodes) Garber; grandson of Michael and Margaret (Smith) Garber, and of Col. James and Elizabeth (Kornegay) Rhodes; great-grandson of Michael and Magdalene Garber, of Major Thomas and Agnes (Cunningham) Smith, the former commanded a battalion from Augusta County, Va., in the Revolutionary War, and of James and Anna (Bass) Rhodes; great-great-grandson of Dr. Andrew Bass, a Revolutionary patriot of Dobbs County, N. C., and of John Cunningham, a private in the French and Indian War and the builder of the first house in Staunton, Va. The Garbers came from Holland to Pennsylvania, and thence to Staunton, Va. The Rhodes family were early settlers in North Carolina. Mr. Garber was educated in the primary schools; at the Livingston male academy; graduated A. B., 1886, University of Alabama; received honorary A. M. University of Alabama, 1889; taught school at Aberdeen, Miss., 1888, and at Livingston, 1889; studied law and partially completed the course of the law department of the University of Virginia; practiced law in Hale and Sumter Counties, 1891, and in the latter year removed to Talladega, where he resided until 1911. He served as captain of the "Talladega Rifles," 1894-96, when he was appointed to the staff of Gov. Joseph F. Johnson as inspector-general with the rank of colonel. He was solicitor of the city court of Talladega, 1893-1898; represented Talladega County in the general assembly of 1898, and was re-elected without opposition in a primary held in 1904. He made an unsuccessful race for attorney-general in 1902, but in 1906 was nominated without opposition. In 1911 at the expiration of his term as attorney-general he resumed the practice of law, locating in Birmingham. He is a Democrat; an Elk; a Knight of Pythias; and an Episcopalian. Married: June 14, 1906, at Bowling Green, Ky., to Margaret Louise, daughter of Keenan and Margaret (Long) Hurst, of Cincinnati, Ohio. Children: 1. Alexander M., jr.; 2. Eugene K. Residence: Birmingham.

GARDNER, BENJAMIN, lawyer, was born June 10, 1814, in Onslow County, N. C., and died November 24, 1902, at Palestine, Tex.; son of Thomas and Rebecca (Wallace) Gardner, of Wilmington, S. C., the former an architect and builder, and a minister in the Methodist Episcopal church, South, who preached on the Orangeburg circuit in South Carolina, at Augusta and Macon, Ga., and in Florida; grandson of Benjamin and Charlotte (Dunbibben) Gardner, of Wilmington, the former who was one of three brothers who came to America from Scotland about the close of the Revolutionary War, was married in Wilmington, S. C., and was lost at sea, while captain of a sailing vessel. He was educated in the common schools of Augusta and Macon, Ga.; entered as an apprentice in the printing office of the "Macon Telegraph," 1830; was employed as a printer, successively on the "Times" and "Southern Recorder," at Milledgeville, Ga., and on the Macon "Telegraph," 1833-1838; published the "Georgia Mirror," at Florence, Ga., 1838-1840; established and edited the "Southern Whig," at Eufaula, Ala., 1841; was elected justice of the peace in Eufaula, 1847-1850; elected to the State legislature as a Whig, 1849; appointed postmaster at Eufaula, 1851; moved to Montgomery and became part owner of the "Alabama Journal," 1852; was admitted to the bar, December, 1854; practiced law at Troy, 1855-1867; in Clayton, 1867-1870; in Eufaula, 1870-1872; was elected attorney general of Alabama on the Republican ticket, 1872-1874 and lived in Montgomery; spent the remainder of his life in Montgomery, and Troy and Palestine, Tex., with his children. In 1859, Mr. Gardner was elected captain of the "Quitman Guards," at Troy, and left Troy with his company, July 18, 1861, to join the Fifteenth Alabama regiment. Sometime after December 2, 1861, he tendered his resignation as captain in person to Mr. Benjamin, secretary of war. Before the war, he was a Whig, opposed to secession, and after the war, was a Republican. He was a Methodist, and for some time, a Mason. Married: (1) February 14, 1833, in Macon, Ga., to Catherine, who died October 2, 1840, at Columbus, Ga., daughter of Dennis and Joyce Collins; (2) in March, 1841, near Enon, to Elisa Ann, who died January 8, 1851, in Eufaula; daughter of Birchett Harwell; (3) July 1, 1853, in Tallapoosa County, to Mrs. Harriet Louisa (Harrell) Sumner, of Elizabeth City, N. C., who died March 24, 1861, at Elizabeth City, N. C.; (4) January 11, 1863, at Troy, to Ann Elisa Starke. Children, by first marriage: 1. Mary Elisa, m. (1) Mr. Long, (2) William Kirksey; 2. Louisa Virginia, m. L. B. Doles; 3. Thomas Benjamin; 4. John Dunbibben; by second marriage: 5. Frances Amanda, m. Judge B. W. Starke; 6. Samuel Harwell, served in C. S. Army and was killed in battle; 7. unnamed, d. in infancy; by third marriage: 8. Benjamin Howard; 9. Elizabeth; 10. Josephine, m. William H. Clark; by fourth marriage: 11. Bowling Starke. Last residence: Palestine, Tex.

GARDNER, CATHERINE COLLINS, teacher, was born October 11, 1869, at Troy, Pike County; daughter of John Dunbibben and Julia Isabella (Starke) Gardner, and sister of Lucien Dunbibben Gardner (q. v.). She was educated in the private schools of Troy; at Washington seminary, Atlanta, Ga., where she graduated in 1887; post-graduate, Cook County normal college, 1893; studied at Columbia university, N. Y., and at Southern university, Knoxville, Tenn. Miss Gardner taught in the graded schools of Troy and Chicago until 1892; in the primary department Isabella college, Talladega; was director of the model school, State normal college, Troy, 1895-99; and has had chair of methods there from 1899 to date. During the summer schools of 1908-13, she filled the chair of methods, at the University of Alabama. She is editor of the primary department of the "Educational exchange." She is a Methodist. Residence: Troy.

GARDNER, JACKSON, member of the constitutional convention of 1865, from Bibb County.

DR. TUCKER H. FRAZER

GARDNER, JOHN S., public official, was born August 20, 1840, in Bibb County; son of Jackson and Margaret (Bolling) Gardner, the former a native of Clarke County, born in 1818, a farmer, who served three years as sheriff of Bibb County, and twenty years as probate judge of the county, and died in 1876, his wife dying in 1889; grandson of John Gardner, a native of North Carolina who emigrated to Alabama at an early day and spent the remainder of his life in farming. He attended schools at Randolph and Centreville, receiving a business education. In 1861, he enlisted in the C. S. Army as orderly sergeant in Co. F, Eleventh Alabama infantry regiment. He was successively promoted to third, second and first lieutenants, and served until June, 1862, when he had an attack of pneumonia, was discharged and returned to his home. Three months later he volunteered in Co. H, Forty-fourth Alabama infantry, as first lieutenant, and served until November, 1864, when he was nominated and elected sheriff of Bibb County. He returned home to fill that office, and held it for three years. He was elected clerk of the circuit court, 1867-1870; was re-elected, 1870-1872; was appointed register in chancery, 1873; and served until 1878, when on account of illness in his family, he retired to a farm and engaged in farming. In 1880, he was elected probate judge of the county; was re-elected in 1886; and held the office until 1892. He was a Presbyterian and a Knight of Pythias. Married: (1) June 21, 1861, Rebecca T. Carson, born 1837, in Centreville, and died February, 1872, daughter of Charles and Rebecca Carson; (2) Edna L. Parker, born 1838, in Bibb County. Children, by first marriage: 1. Mary V., m. L. D. Logan; 2. Lena B., m. E. M. Jones; 3. Margaret R. deceased; by second marriage: 4. Robert J.; and two others who died in infancy. Last residence: Centreville.

GARDNER, LUCIEN DUNBIBBEN, lawyer and associate justice supreme court of Alabama, was born November 28, 1876, at Troy, Pike County; son of John Dunbibben and Julia Isabella (Starke) Gardner, the former was born at Florence, educated in the old field schools, lived at Troy, in 1861 was elected 1st lieutenant of Co. F, 1st Alabama cavalry regiment, C. S. Army, and left at the close of the war with the rank of captain, appointed solicitor second judicial circuit at close of war, was many years president of board of directors of Normal college, died June 18, 1895; grandson of Benjamin and Catherine (Collins) Gardner, the former a lawyer and for some years prior to the War of Secession edited the "Alabama Journal," published in Montgomery, was elected attorney-general in 1872, serving one term, and died in November, 1903, at Palestine, Tex., and of Bowling and Eliza Gregory (New) Starke; great-grandson of John Starke, jr., who on November 8, 1775 was appointed a member of the committee of safety for Hanover County, Va., and of Anthony New, born in Gloucester County, Va., in 1747, was a Democrat and represented Virginia in congress, also a member from Kentucky in the 12th, 15th and 17th congresses, and died March 2, 1833. Judge Gardner was educated in the common schools of Pike County; graduated from Troy normal college, A. B., 1894; University of Alabama, A. B., 1896, and in June, 1907, from the law department with degree of LL. B. He entered upon the practice in Troy in 1897; appointed in 1898 by Chancellor W. L. Parks, register in chancery at Troy; resigned in 1903; elected in 1906 to the State senate from the twenty-fifth senatorial district; appointed chancellor Southeastern chancery division in August, 1907, and elected in 1910. On January 23, 1914, he was commissioned associate justice of the supreme court, and on November 3, of that year, was elected to fill the unexpired term of Judge John C. Anderson, who had been promoted chief justice; in 1916 he was re-elected for another term of six years. Judge Gardner was for a number of years president of the alumni of State normal college at Troy. He is a Democrat; Baptist; member of the Phi Beta Kappa honorary fraternity, and of the Sigma Nu college fraternity; a Knight of Pythias; and a member of the United sons of Confederate veterans. Married: December 26, 1900, to Henrietta, daughter of Henry Clay and Ophelia (Worthy) Wiley, the former entered the C. S. Army as a private in Terry's Texas rangers, afterwards rose to rank of captain of 8th Texas cavalry; and granddaughter of James McCaleb Wiley (q. v.). Children: 1. Lucien D., jr.; 2. Olive. Residence: Montgomery.

GARDNER, SAMUEL SPRING, reconstruction official, was born January 9, 1831, at Cambridgeport, Middlesex County, Mass., and died March 24, 1899, in Washington, D. C.; son of Samuel and Mary Rapal (Noyes) Gardner, the former a native of Newburyport, Essex County, Mass., who lived at Roxbury and Cambridgeport, Mass., and at Brewer, Me.; grandson of Robert Gardner of Newburyport, Mass., and of Nathaniel and Mary (Rapal) Noyes, of Newburyport, Mass. The Noyes ancestry traces back to Normans who came to England with William the Conqueror. The progenitor of the family in America was Nathaniel Noyes, who came with his brother from Newbury, England, and founded Newbury, Essex County, Mass., early in the history of that commonwealth. Mr. Gardner was prepared in Brewer, Me., and Phillips academy, Andover, Mass.; was graduated from Bowdoin college, Brunswick, Me., B. A., 1855; and had the degree of A. M. conferred upon him by that college in 1859. He was graduated from Bangor theological seminary, Maine, 1861, and soon after became chaplain of the Seventy-third U. S. colored infantry, and later, chaplain of the Eighty-third U. S. colored infantry. In 1863, he went with the U. S. Army to Louisiana where he remained until the close of the War of Secession; and in May, 1865, located in Alabama. He acted as sub-assistant commissioner of the Freedmen's bureau, at Greenville; studied law and was admitted to the bar of Butler County, October 27, 1867; became probate judge of Butler County that same year; and was a delegate to the constitutional convention at Montgomery, November 5, 1867, where he was author of the provision closing the saloons on election days. He became connected with the U. S. treasury department at Washington, D. C., serving in the second auditor's office, internal revenue bureau, 1873-1899. He was deacon of the First Congregational church at Washington, D. C.; was a member of the grand council of the Royal Arcanum of Washington, and served as deputy grand regent for two years. Married: in 1869, at Greenville, Adaline (House) Livingston, widow of Capt. Lewis A. Livingston of the Eighth Alabama volunteers, daughter of William Heartfield and Nancy Thomas (Franklin) House, who lived at Lafayette, the former a pioneer in that part of the state, who fought in the War of 1812, and was a captain in the Indian War. Children: 1. Bertha Lee, Washington; 2. Arthur Noyes, m. September, 1902, Charlotte Safford Steele, Washington; 3. Susan Helen, Washington. Last residence: Washington, D. C.

GARISON, STEPHEN, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 83, resided in Walker County, June 1, 1840, with Silas Garrison.—Census of Pensioners, 1841, p. 150.

GARLAND, LANDON CABELL, educator and college president, was born March 21, 1810, at "The Grove," in Nelson County, Va., died February 13, 1895, at Nashville, Tenn., and is buried on the campus of Vanderbilt university; son of Spotswood and Lucinda (Rose) Garland, the former a lawyer and for more than forty years clerk of the court of Nelson County, Va.; grandson of Capt. James and Annie (Wingfield) Garland, the former an officer in the Revolutionary Army who gave his life for his country, and of Hugh and Caroline Matilda (Jordan) Rose, the former a native of Virginia, member of Amherst County committee of safety, 1774-75, high sheriff, 1775, county lieutenant, 1777-81, and member of house of delegates, 1786-91; great-grandson of Rev. Robert and Anne (Fitzhugh) Rose, the former a native of Wester Alvis, Scotland, a descendant of the ancient and distinguished house of Kilravock, ordained by the Bishop of London, came to a parish in Essex County, Va., in 1728, and from that time until his death served continuously as a minister of the Established church, of James and Mary (Rice) Garland, of Virginia, of Col. Samuel Jordan, jr., of "Seven Islands," on the south side of James River, in what is now Buckingham County, Va., and who was appointed by the general assembly one of the commissioners for making the James River navigable; great-great-grandson of Col. Samuel, sr., and Elizabeth (Fleming) Jordan, of Virginia, of John Garland, of Welsh family, who came from Sussex, England, to America prior to 1700, and settled in Hanover County, Va., at "Garland's Neck," now called "Blackwell's Neck," of Henry and Susannah (Cooke) Fitzhugh, the former of "Bedford," King George County, Va., and a member of the house of burgesses from Stafford in 1736 and 1740, and of David Rice, of Hanover County, Va.; great-great-grandson of Col. Charles Fleming, of New Kent County, Va., of Thomas and Margaret (Brasseur) Jordan, of Virginia, of William and Sarah (Tucker) Fitzhugh, the former a native of Bedford, England, a descendant of Bardolph, Lord of Ravenswarth, who came to Virginia in 1671, practiced law, and was a member of the house of burgesses, and of Mordecai Cooke, a native of Gloucester County, Va., and a member of the house of burgesses; great-great-great-grandson of Robert Brasseur, of a Huguenot family, settling in Nansemond County, Va., and of Thomas Jordan, a native of England, who emigrated to Virginia; great-great-great-great-grandson of Samuel Jordan, of "Jordan's Journey," and soldier under Sir George Yeardley, in the colony of Virginia, in 1623. Dr. Garland was educated at excellent preparatory schools and graduated with first honors and the A. B. degree from Hampden Sidney college in 1829, and later received the honorary degrees of LL.D. and D.D. At the age of nineteen he was appointed tutor of chemistry in Washington college, Lexington, Va., and at the end of the year was unanimously elected professor of chemistry and natural philosophy. During the winter of 1833-34, he was elected to the chair of natural history and chemistry of Randolph-Macon college, Lynchburg, Va. He was also professor of Latin pro tem, president pro tem for one year during the absence of Dr. Olin, and in 1837, elected president, resigning in 1847. He returned to his father's home, studied law at Nelson Court House by correspondence with Beverley W. Leigh, and during this time was tendered the presidency of William and Mary college, but declined. Before he began the practice of law he accepted the chair of English literature, rhetoric and history, University of Alabama, and a year or two later was transferred to the chair of mathematics. In 1854, upon the resignation of Dr. Basil Manly, president of the college, Dr. Garland was elected to the place. He filled that position with distinction at the same time lecturing on mental, moral and political philosophy. He served for about a year after the destruction of the buildings by General Croxton, helping to raise a fund with which to rebuild the university. In 1867 he accepted the chair of physics and astronomy at the University of Mississippi. He was made chancellor of Vanderbilt university, Nashville, Tenn., in 1875, a position he held until his death. Married: (1) in 1831, to Mary, daughter of Col. Armistead Burwell; (2) December 29, 1835, at New Glasgow, Amherst County, Va., to Louisa Frances, his third cousin, daughter of David Shepherd and Jane Henry (Meredith) Garland, the former of Amherst County, Va., who represented his county in the State legislature for thirty years and a member of the house of representatives, U. S. congress, 1809-11; granddaughter of Col. Samuel and Jane (Henry) Meredith, the former a captain in Colonel Byrds' Second Virginia regiment during the French and Indian War, captain of the Independent company of Hanover County, Va., that responded to the call of Patrick Henry, his brother-in-law, to recover the powder that had been removed by Governor Dunmore, appointed colonel of the second of two battalions raised to be sent to the assistance of North Carolina, and in active service against the English near Hampton, Va., and of William and Anne (Shepherd) Garland, the former a soldier of the Revolutionary Army; great-granddaughter of Christopher Shepherd, of James and Mary (Rice) Garland, the former of Albemarle County, Va., of John and Sarah (Winston) Henry, the former a native of Studley, Scotland, who emigrated to Virginia prior to 1730, county surveyor, presiding magistrate, colonel commandant of militia, of Hanover County, Va., the latter the widow of John Syme; great-great-granddaughter of David Rice, of Hanover County, Va., of John Garland, the progenitor of the family in America, of Welsh descent, who came from Sussex, England, prior to 1700, settling in Hanover County, Va., at "Garland's Neck" now called "Blackwell's Neck," and of Isaac and Mary (Dabney) Winston, the former a native of Yorkshire, England, who emigrated to America in 1702 and settled in Hanover County, Va.; great-great-granddaughter of Isaac Winston, of Essex, England, who came to America in 1620. Children: by second wife, 1. William Henry, deceased; 2. Lucinda Rose, deceased, m. Burwell B. Lewis (q. v.); 3. Maurice Hamner, deceased, m. Lucy Gault; 4. Landonia Cabell, deceased, and 5. Louise Francis, twins, deceased, m. Prof. M. W. Humphries; 6. Spotswood, d. in infancy; 7. Jane Henry, m. Dr. Eugene A. Smith (q. v.); 8. Anna Rose, deceased, m. Prof. Robert B. Fulton; 9. Caroline Matilda, m. John W. Thompson; 10. Alice Virginia, deceased. Last residence: Nashville, Tenn.

GARLAND, WILLIAM H., major in Garland's battalion of Mississippi cavalry; lieutenant colonel, 14th Confederate cavalry, C. S. Army. Probably not an Alabamian.

GARNER, JOHN, soldier of the American Revolution, and a resident of Butler County; service not given because of the loss of papers by the burning of the office of the War Department, 1801 and 1814; enrolled on July 5, 1812; payment to date from January 29, 1812; annual allowance, $48; sums received to date of publication of list, $1,060.78; acts military establishment; transferred from Georgia from March 4, 1824.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34. He resided in Wilcox County, June 1, 1840, with William H. Wait, aged 81.—Census of Pensioners, 1841, p. 149.

GARNER, JOS., Sen., soldier of the American Revolution, aged 95, resided in Cherokee County, June 1, 1840.—Census of Pensioners, 1841, p. 148.

GARNER, JOSEPH, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 78, and a resident of St. Clair County; private Virginia Continental Line; enrolled on June 7, 1819, under act of Congress of March 18, 1818, payment to date from June 26, 1818; annual allowance, $96; sums received to date of publication of list, $1,506.39; transferred from Clarke County, Ga., from March 4, 1820.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34.

GARNER, STURDY, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 72, and a resident of Madison County; private N. C. Militia; enrolled on April 23, 1833, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $33.33; sums received to date of publication of list, $72.33.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34. He resided in Madison County, June 1, 1840, aged 72.—Census of Pensioners, 1841, p. 148.

GARNER, THOMAS HENRY, editor, was born December 4, 1869, at Tuscaloosa; son of Joseph Thomas and Mary Sue (Johnson) Garner, the former a native of Calhoun County, who lived in Tuscaloosa County from his boyhood, served in the C. S. Army as a member of Co. A, Twenty-sixth Alabama regiment, located in Tuscaloosa after the war, was county commissioner for several terms, and deputy U. S. marshal at one time, the latter a native of Tuscaloosa, who was first president of the United Charities of Tuscaloosa, and had the Sue Garner Chapter of the Order of the Eastern Star named in her honor; grandson of Reuben Allen and Nancy (Nally) Garner, who lived in Tuscaloosa County, and of William and Hannah (Byler) Johnson, of Tuscaloosa. He was prepared in the public schools of Tuscaloosa, and the Tuscaloosa male high school; was graduated from the University of Alabama, A. B., 1888, LL. B., 1890. He became a reporter on the Tuscaloosa "Times," 1888-1890; practiced law in the firm of Verner & Garner, 1890-1893; became editor of the Tuscaloosa "Times-Gazette," 1893-1915; reporter and assistant editor of the "Daily Chautauquan," Chautauqua, N. Y., 1911-1916; alumni secretary of the University of Alabama, 1915; superintendent of buildings and grounds, University of Alabama, 1916, and editor of the University of Alabama Alumni News, 1917, the last three of which positions he still occupies. He has been director of the University of Alabama Glee Club, since 1906, and director of the University choir since 1918. He is a Democrat; a Baptist, being a member of the board of deacons, organist, and choir director of the First Baptist church at Tuscaloosa; is a Mason; a member of Delta Kappa Epsilon college fraternity; and of the Tuscaloosa Rotary Club. Mr. Garner is a trustee of the Central female college at Tuscaloosa. Residence: University.

GARNER, WILLIAM, merchant and banker, was born February 9, 1853, near Ozark, Dale County; son of Wiley Sutton and Dicey Ann (Barbour) Garner, the former a native of Wake County, N. C., who came with his parents from that place to Dale County, became a farmer, and served in the Fifty-seventh Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army; grandson of William and Elizabeth (Sutton) Garner, and of Matthew C. and Mary (Garner) Barbour, all of whom were formerly of Raleigh, N. C. Mr. Garner was educated in the common schools of Dale County and was reared as a farmer. In 1872 he entered the mercantile business at Ozark, and in 1898 entered upon the business of banking as president of the Ozark City Bank. He has served as mayor of Ozark several times; has been continuously a member of the Ozark school board since organization; was formerly a member and treasurer of the Dale County school board; was a member of the Alabama house of representatives, 1898-99, 1900-01, and in 1907 was elected to fill the unexpired term of Mr. Steagall. He is a Democrat, a Methodist and a Mason. Married: January 9, 1879, near Ozark, to Mary E. Carroll, daughter of Willis and Margie Ann (Barnes) Carroll, the former a farmer and member of the Fifty-seventh Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army. Children: 1. Allie; 2. Carroll B.; 3. Ralph W.; 4. William S.; 5. Susie. Residence: Ozark.

GARNETT, ALGERNON S., physician, professor of natural history at the University of Alabama, Tuscaloosa, 1871-74; also physician and surgeon at that institution, during these years.

GARRARD, WILLIAM, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 72, and a resident of Lauderdale County; private Virginia State Troops; enrolled on October 7, 1833, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $60.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34.

GARRETT, GREENBERRY, Methodist minister, pastor of the Court Street church, Montgomery, 1838.

GARRETT, JAMES JACKSON, lawyer, was born March 14, 1837, in Edgecombe County, N. C.; son of Henry Walton and Sarah (Sasnette) Garrett, natives of North Carolina, who emigrated to Alabama in 1838, lived for a time in Sumter County, then in Pickens, and finally settled in Greene County, where they died; grandson of James and Eliza (Jones) Garrett, and of Zacharie and Elizabeth (Wilkins) Sasnette; great-grandson of James and Rachel (Walton) Garrett. The Garretts are of Scotch-Irish and English extraction, the Sasnettes of French descent, and the Waltons were early settlers of Bertie County, N. C. Mr. Garrett was prepared for college at Forkland, Greene County; and was graduated from the University of Alabama, A. B., 1856, A. M., 1859. The degree of LL. D. was conferred upon him by the Southern university in 1894. In 1856 he began the study of law in the office of James D. Webb, of Greensboro; was admitted to the bar in 1857; and began to practice in Livingston, Sumter County, where he stayed until 1860, editing the Livingston "Messenger" during two years of that time. He was professor in the Centenary institute, 1860-1861, and entered the C. S. Army as a private in Co. G, Forty-fourth Alabama regiment. He served with that command fourteen months; then was appointed sergeant in the ordnance corps of the army of northern Virginia. After the battle of Sharpsburg, he was in Law's brigade, Hood's division, Longstreet's corps, until early in 1865, when after a competitive examination at Petersburg, he was commissioned lieutenant in the artillery and ordnance, and ordered to duty at the headquarters of the army of northern Virginia. He took part in all the battles of the army of northern Virginia except second Manassas, Sharpsburg, and Chancellorsville; was on the field at Chickamauga, Chattanooga, Lookout Valley, Knoxville, and during the winter campaign in east Tennessee. Shortly after the close of the war, he went to Greensboro and resumed his law practice for nearly fifteen years, during which time, he served for two terms as mayor of the city. In 1881, he went to Gallatin, Tenn., for a year, and early in 1882, went to Birmingham, where he was associated with the Hon. Ellis Phelan, later secretary of state under Gov. E. A. O'Neal. Upon the removal of his partner to Connecticut, he formed an association with Oscar W. Underwood. Before the war, Mr. Garrett was a Whig, but since that time has been a Democrat. He is a member of the Methodist Episcopal church, South. Married: May 6, 1875, Celia L. Walton, daughter of John W. and Barsha Susan (Norfleet) Walton, of Greensboro. Residence: Birmingham.

GARRETT, JOHN HAMMOND, legislator and soldier; was born in 1798, in Edgefield District, S. C., and died at Center; son of Stephen and Elizabeth (Hammond) Garrett of Virginia, later of South Carolina; grandson of John and Elizabeth (Steele) Hammond of Virginia. He was educated in Georgia; appointed major general during Mexican war, 1846; died while in the legislature at Tuscaloosa and was buried with military honors, minute guns being fired through the day of burial. Married: Mary, daughter of William and Mary (Burnett) Hall. Children: 1. William, m. Mary Logan, of Arkansas; 2. Elizabeth, m. (1) Dr. Augustus Burt, (2) Selden L. Hale, of Virginia; 3. Mary Ann, m. Dr. B. C. Sparks, of Georgia; 4. Susan Bacon, m. Clark Hale, of Virginia; 5. Charlie Ann, m. Chancellor S. K. McSpadden (q. v.); 6. Stephen, d. young; 7. Martha, murdered when twelve years of age, while returning home from Sunday school; 8. Thomas, d. in infancy; 9. John, m. (1) a Miss Wood, (2) Cicely Lowe. Last residence: Center.

GARRETT, WILLIAM, public official, was born May 6, 1809, at Newport, Cocke County, Tenn.; son of William and Elizabeth Chilley (Gray) Garrett, the former a Methodist minister, a trader and a farmer; grandson of Lewis Garrett, and of Thomas Gray, of Surry County, Va., who was king's counsel for Lunenburg County, Va., in 1765, was a representative from Dobbs County, N. C., in the colonial assembly of that state in 1768, and was retained as representative for Dobbs and Dublin Counties until the Revolution, was an intense patriot during the War of Independence, a member of the bar of North Carolina for many years, moved to Jefferson County, Tenn., in 1796, and was appointed by President Washington U. S. district attorney for the new state of Tennessee in 1797; great-grandson of William Garrett; great-great-grandson of Thomas Garrett; great-great-great-grandson of William Garrett, a Quaker, who came to America from England in 1684, with his brothers John and Thomas, and settled in Darby Township, near Philadelphia, where he died in 1724. The Garretts are of Saxon origin; in the sixth century quite a contingent of them went over to England and helped subdue the Danes. Again a number of them came to England with William the Conqueror. Members of the family have been ennobled and knighted by the English royalty in church and state for centuries past, and they were accorded a coat of arms which is still in use by the family in England. Sir William Garrett was lord mayor of London in 1551, and one William Garrett was first chairman of the original Virginia Colony Company. John Garrett was raised from knighthood to the baronetcy of Lanier by James I.

Col. Garrett was forced to leave school in his eleventh year due to financial reverses which came upon his father. Until he was twenty-one years of age, he assisted on the farm, and spent much of his time in keeping the records of his father, who was for thirty-three years clerk of the county court of Cocke County, Tenn. In 1833, he moved to Alabama and settled in Benton, now Calhoun County; engaged in merchandising first at Alexandria and later at White Plains; fought in the Creek War; was elected assistant clerk of the house of representatives in 1837 under Gideon B. Frierson, clerk; was elected clerk of the same body in 1838, 1839, and 1840; resigned the clerkship in 1840 on being elected secretary of state of Alabama, and held the latter position without opposition for ten years; was again re-elected secretary of state in 1849 after the seat of government was removed to Montgomery; declined re-election in 1852 to retire to his plantation in Coosa County; was elected to the house of representatives in 1853, and unanimously chosen speaker of that body; was nominated for the senate in 1859 by the Democratic party of Coosa County, and was defeated by forty-seven votes in a total of two thousand three hundred three; was elected a delegate to the Democratic national convention at Charleston, S. C., as a representative of the Douglas Wing of the Democratic party of Alabama; was elected to the state senate from Coosa County in 1863 for a term of four years, defeating Capt. Leander Bryan, of Wetumpka, and served until the legislature was dissolved by the close of the war; was appointed provisional secretary of state, July, 1865, by Lewis E. Parsons, provisional civil governor of the state; resigned that position and was elected to the State senate in October, 1865; served as chairman of the senate committee on finance and taxation; retired to private life after being disqualified to hold office under the reconstruction acts; was a member of the state constitutional convention of 1875; was a Democrat and a Methodist; wrote and published during the latter years of his life, "Public Men of Alabama," 1872, the original manuscript of which, together with his entire correspondence and papers, was burned soon after his death.

Married: (1) August, 1830, Tabitha Taylor, of Virginia, who died at White Plains, Calhoun County, 1835; (2) April, 1843, Julia B. Henry, of Mobile, daughter of Maj. William Henry, a member of Gen. Andrew Jackson's staff at the battle of New Orleans, and a cousin of Mrs. Rachel Donelson Jackson, wife of Gen. Andrew Jackson. Children, by first marriage: two, who survived their mother only a short time; by second marriage: 3. William H., assistant secretary of the state senate, 1865-1866; 4. Thomas G.; 5. Benjamin F., assistant clerk of the house of representatives, 1872-1873, and assistant secretary of the State senate, 1874-1875; 6. Elmore, assistant clerk of the house of representatives, 1884-1885, clerk of the house, 1885-1886, assistant secretary of the State senate, 1890-1891, and secretary of the State senate, 1903-1904; and two who died in infancy. Last residence: Coosa County.

GARRETT, WILLIAM HAMMOND, soldier and Indian agent, was born February 22, 1819, near Hamburg, Edgefield District, S. C., and died in 1863; son of John Hammond and Mary (Hall) Garrett (q. v.). He was educated in the common schools of Cherokee County and represented that county in the house of representatives, sessions of 1843, 1844, 1845 and in the senate of 1847 and 1849. As Indian agent he was instrumental in removing the Creeks or Seminoles to the Indian Territory from Florida. In 1861 he entered the C. S. Army, receiving the commission of colonel; in 1863 while in the active service of the Confederacy, he contracted pneumonia and died soon afterward. Married: Mary Logan. Children: two, deceased in childhood. Last residence: Cherokee County.

GARRISON, ETHRIDGE JACKSON, lawyer, was born December 6, 1860, at Pinckneyville, Talladega County; son of John Washington and Elizabeth Jane (Canant) Garrison, the former a native of Franklin County, Ga., and lived afterwards in various places in Georgia and Alabama, a high degree Mason; grandson of James H. and Nancy Garrison who lived successively in Franklin County, Ga., and in Talladega and Sumter Counties, and of William Lewis and Elizabeth Canant, who lived at Hamilton, Ga., and in Talladega County. The great-grandparents both paternal and maternal lived in North Carolina. The great-grandfather on the maternal side, Richard Tretwell, was a Revolutionary soldier. The ancestry was all Scotch-Irish. Mr. Garrison attended the several schools of Lineville from 1865 to 1878; he then entered the Agricultural and mechanical college, Auburn, from which he graduated in 1880 with the degree of A. B., and was valedictorian; and from the same institution received, seven years later, the honorary degree of A. M. He was a teacher for several years, being the principal of several institutions of high grade. He studied law and was admitted to the bar in 1899. Prior to this, he was at one time president of Clay county bank, at Ashland; was clerk in the war department, Washington, D. C., 1885-87; clerk in the bureau of education, 1887; was U. S. special pension examiner, 1887-89, again U. S. special pension examiner, 1893-97; solicitor county court of Clay, 1905-09; and since 1909 has been judge of the county court of Clay, appointed July 1909, and elected November 1910. He was first lieutenant Co. C of the A. and M. college. He is a Democrat; has been chairman of the county executive committee; also the Senatorial executive committee; member of the 5th Congressional committee; delegate to the Democratic convention at St. Louis in 1904. He is a Methodist; a Royal Arch Mason; an Odd Fellow; and Knight of Pythias. Married: November 6, 1895, at Lineville, to Ella Catherine, daughter of Young J. A. and Elizabeth Prudence Bartlett of Lineville, the former was for a number of years tax assessor of Clay County. Children: 1. Mary Webster. Residence: Ashland.

GARRISON, STEPHEN, soldier of the American Revolution, a resident of Lawrence County; private Regular N. C. Line; enrolled on April 26, 1830, under act of Congress of May 15, 1828, payment to date from March 3, 1826; annual allowance, $80; sums received to date of publication of list, $680; P. W. Taylor, agent.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34.

GARROTT, ISHAM WARREN, lawyer, member Alabama legislature, and brigadier-general, C. S. Army, was born in 1816, in Wake County, N. C., died June 17, 1863, near Vicksburg, Miss., and is buried there; son of Mrs. Mary (Sims) Garrott. He was educated at the University of North Carolina; studied law and was admitted to the bar, and settled in Greenville, but moved, in 1840, to Marion, Perry County, where he formed a partnership with James Phelan. He represented Perry County in the State legislature, 1845-49, and later was associated with Judge William M. Brooks in the practice of law. In 1860, he was a presidential elector, and later was sent as commissioner to North Carolina by Governor Moore, to ask the co-operation of the legislature of that state in the Secession movement. On September 16, 1861, with the assistance of General Pettus, he raised the 20th Alabama infantry regiment, which was organized at Montgomery and of which he was made colonel. He commanded this regiment May 17, 1863, at the battle of Baker's Creek, near Vicksburg, where he was mortally wounded. His commission as brigadier-general was forwarded from Richmond, but too late to reach him. He was a Whig, and a Baptist. Married: Margaret Matilda, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Emeline (Moore) Fletcher. Children: 1. William Burrell, deceased; 2. Mary Sims, deceased; 3. Sims Burrell, deceased; 4. Emma, d. young; 5. John Fletcher, m. Floria Bute; 6. Thomas Ritchie, m. (1) Nannie Collier, (2) Alice Rushing; 7. Julia, d. in childhood. Last residence: Marion.

GARROW, S. H., president of Mobile, 1818-19; resigned; succeeded by Dan Duval; mayor of Mobile 1823-26; 1830. On the resignation of Addin Lewis, April 19, 1823, he succeeded him. He was a member of the constitutional convention of 1819 from Mobile County. Last residence: Mobile.

GARSIDE, WILLIAM HALTON, druggist, was born July 7, 1828, in Yorkshire, England; son of James Garside, born in Yorkshire, England, 1800, whose wife died there in 1837, who came to America in 1842 with his four children, William Halton, Alice, Owen and Sarah, and settled in Paterson, N. J. He obtained his schooling in Paterson, N. J., and in 1848 went to New York City, where he clerked in a drug store for two years; moved to Montgomery in the fall of 1849, clerking in drug stores there until about 1855; went into the drug business on his own account and sold out March, 1860. After the War of Secession was over, he clerked in a drug store in Montgomery, owned by his former partner, Stephen Hutchins, for two years, and then, when Hutchins & William failed, continued with their successors, Blount, Wetherly & Company, until they also failed in 1870. He clerked for E. C. Fowler, druggist, from 1870 until 1875; bought out an interest in a drug store; the latter year organized the firm of Garside & Alexander, which continued until 1889, when the firm was changed to a stock company, known as the Montgomery Drug Company of which Mr. Garside was president. He was also a director in the Walker County Coal & Land Company, and was for twenty-five years a director in the Montgomery Gas Light Company. He was a member of the Presbyterian church; a Mason; and an Odd Fellow. Married: in 1860, Ella Turner Graham, daughter of Judge William Graham of Autauga, who was for fourteen years state treasurer. Children: 1. Halton, d. at the age of seven years; 2. Mary A., m. George L. Harris of Montgomery; 3. William Owen, D. D. S., of Montgomery. Last residence: Montgomery.

GARTH, JESSE WINSTON, banker, planter, lawyer, was born October 17, 1788, in Albemarle County, Va., and died September 7, 1867, at Decatur; son of Thomas and Susanna (Dourette) Garth, who lived on a plantation near Charlottesville, Va.; grandson of Thomas and Judith (Bowcock) Garth, the former who was of Welsh stock, came from England to Virginia in colonial days, and held offices there under the king and after the Revolution, and of Richard and Elizabeth (Davis) Dourette, III, who lived in Albemarle County, Va. Gen. Garth was descended through his mother from the Winstons of Virginia, and was a cousin of Patrick Henry. The Dourettes were descendants of French Huguenots. He attended school in Charlottesville, Va., and later entered the school of Dr. Waddell, at Hillsboro, N. C., from which he was graduated at the age of sixteen with honor. He was a friend and classmate of Jefferson Randolph, and was often at Monticello, where he became acquainted with Thomas Jefferson. He studied law in Charlottesville, Va., and was admitted to the bar at that place in 1809. He began the practice of law in Charlottesville, among such contemporaries as Gen. William F. Gordon, William C. Rives, and Valentine Southall. He served in the Virginia militia, on the coast, in the War of 1812, and was promoted to the rank of major. He was elected to represent Albemarle County in the Virginia legislature in 1815, where he met Hon. John Tyler, later president of the United States, between whom existed a lifelong personal and political friendship.

WILLIAM H. KETTIG

Gen. Garth emigrated to St. Louis, Mo., in 1817, carrying with him testimonials of esteem and confidence from Philip P. Barbour, Gen. Gordon, Mr. Carr, and Thomas Jefferson, the latter of whom, in a letter to Gov. Clarke, of Missouri, warmly commended him as a young man of uncommon merit, who had been tried in war, in the legislature of his native state, and at the bar. Owing to the severity of the climate of St. Louis, he remained there but a short time, moved to Alabama in June, 1817, and located in Cataco, now Morgan County, where he engaged in planting and practicing law. He continued at the bar of Alabama for a brief space of time, then devoted himself mainly to agriculture, becoming in time, one of the largest planters in the state. He helped form the constitution of Alabama, and was elected president of the first State senate. He was elected brigadier-general of militia at an early period in the history of the state, and frequently served in both branches of the legislature. In 1831, he was defeated for congress by the Hon. Samuel W. Mardis. He was president of the First National Bank in Decatur, and built the Memphis & Charleston Railroad. Before leaving Virginia, he donated the land upon which the University of Virginia is located. Gen. Garth was a Whig; was baptized in the Episcopal church, but attended the Presbyterian church after coming to Alabama as there was no Episcopal church there; and was a Mason.

Married: August 23, 1821, in Morgan County, Unity Spottswood Dandridge, daughter of Nathaniel West and Sarah (Watson) Dandridge, who lived at Hanover County, Va.; granddaughter of Gov. Spottswood of Virginia; a descendant of Lord Delaware; and a relative of Martha Dandridge Washington, and of Dolly Madison. Children: 1. Susan Elizabeth, m. Dr. Francis William Sykes, both deceased; 2. Sarah Dandridge, m. Dr. Charles Fenton M. Dancy, both deceased, child, Mary Lou, New Decatur; 3. Col. William Willis (q. v.); 4. Mollie F., m. Gen. John Gregg, both deceased; 5. Jesse Winston, jr., was elected to the State legislature from Morgan County in 1853, m. Virginia Manning, both deceased. Last residence: Decatur.

GARTH, WILLIAM WILLIS, lawyer, was born October 28, 1826, near Decatur, Morgan County, and died February 25, 1912, at Huntsville; son of Gen. Jesse Winston and Unity Spottswood (Dandridge) Garth (q. v.); grandson of Thomas and Susanna (Dourette) Garth, who lived near Charlottesville, Va., and of Nathaniel West and Sarah (Watson) Dandridge, jr., who lived in Hanover County, Va.; great-grandson of Thomas and Judith (Bowcock) Garth, of Richard and Elizabeth (Davis) Dourette, III, and of Gov. Spottswood of Virginia. Col. Garth's mother died when he was very young, and the greater part of his boyhood was spent in Virginia at school. He was graduated from Emory and Henry college with honors in 1843, and enlisted as a volunteer in the Mexican War. He entered the law department of the University of Virginia and was graduated with distinction. He practiced law in Decatur until 1855, and then moved to Huntsville, where he continued his practice until the beginning of war in 1861. He entered the C. S. Army, and served as lieutenant-colonel on Gen. Longstreet's staff throughout the war. After peace was established, he resumed his law practice at Huntsville. In 1876, he was nominated and elected for congress from the eighth district; was the nominee of his party again in 1878, but was defeated by Col. William M. Lowe, independent Greenback Labor Democrat, who was supported by the Republicans of the district. He was a director in the Memphis and Charleston Railroad, and a director in the First National Bank of Huntsville. He was a Democrat, and served as vestryman and senior warden in the Episcopal church. Married: June 21, 1855, at Huntsville, Maria Eliza Fearn, daughter of Dr. Thomas and Sarah Shelbey (q. v.), who lived at Nashville, Tenn.; granddaughter of David and Sarah (Bledsoe) Shelbey, the former of whom won honors at King's Mountain when he was nineteen years old; great-granddaughter of Col. Anthony Bledsoe, a distinguished fighter in the Indian wars. Children: 1. Winston Fearn, m. Lena Garth, resides at Huntsville, two children. Last residence: Huntsville.

GARVIN, JOHN S., major, 3rd, Smith's battalion Alabama infantry; major and later lieutenant colonel, 26th, O'Neal's, Alabama infantry, C. S. Army.

GARY, THOMAS P., merchant, was born September 23, 1829, in Abbeville District, S. C.; son of William L. and Frances R. Gary, natives of South Carolina, who lived on a plantation in Lowndes County for many years after coming to Alabama in 1831, and finally moved to Tuskegee, Macon County, where they spent the remainder of their lives. He attended the Literary college at Oglethorpe, Va.; studied medicine in the office of Dr. William Mitchell, at Tuskegee; took a course of medical lectures at the Charleston college of medicine, South Carolina, from which he was graduated in 1852; began to practice medicine in Tuskegee where he remained three years; located at Cotton Valley for two years; settled on his plantation in Lowndes County, farming and practicing medicine until 1871; moved to Wesson, Miss., and followed the mercantile business several years; engaged in the wholesale grocery and cotton business in Selma in 1877, forming a partnership with William R. Raymond which continued under the firm name of Gary & Raymond until 1888, when it was dissolved by mutual consent, and Dr. Gary's son-in-law, D. A. Kennedy, became his partner. He was a member of the Presbyterian church. Married: in 1853, at Tuskegee, Amanda W. Ligon, daughter of Robert and Wilhelmina Ligon, of Georgia, and sister of Lieut.-Gov. Robert F. Ligon. Children: 1. Mina, m. Law Lamar; 2. Leila, m. D. A. Kennedy; 3. Eleanor, m. J. F. Hooper; 4. Thomas E., and two others who died in infancy. Last residence: Selma.

GASSAWAY, JAMES, soldier of the American Revolution, and a resident of Shelby County; private, particular service not disclosed; enrolled on May 17, 1819, under act of Congress of March 18, 1818; annual allowance, $96; transferred from South Carolina.—Pension Book, State Branch Bank, Mobile.

GASTON, HUGH, soldier of the American Revolution, and a resident of Wilcox County; private, particular service not disclosed; enrolled on April 7, 1836, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $20.—Pension Book, State Branch Bank, Mobile.

GASTON, JOHN BROWN, physician, was born January 4, 1834, in Chester County, S. C., and died in Montgomery; son of Dr. John Brown and Mary Buford (McFadden) Gaston, of Chester County, S. C., who had five sons in the C. S. Army, three of whom died in the service, the former a physician who died in South Carolina in 1863, the latter a native of Chester, S. C., of Scotch descent; grandson of Joseph Gaston, who fought in the Revolutionary War, was wounded at the battle of Hanging Rock when he was sixteen years of age, after the war became a successful planter, and served in the legislature of South Carolina; great-grandson of John and Esther (Waugh) Gaston, the former who emigrated from Ireland to America in 1830, settled first in Pennsylvania where he was married, moved from Pennsylvania to South Carolina in 1850, establishing the homestead, Cedar Shoals, on the Catawba River, who had nine sons, all of whom were engaged in the Revolutionary War, where three were killed in the battle of Hanging Rock, and one a lieutenant, died of smallpox during Sumter's retreat from Wright's Bluff. The Gastons are of French descent, whose ancestors are noticed in history as distinguished and zealous adherents of the Huguenot cause in the early part of the seventeenth century. John Gaston, a great-great-great-great-great-grandfather of Dr. Gaston, sought refuge in Scotland after the revocation of the edict of Nantes. The family afterward emigrated to Ireland.

Dr. Gaston received his primary education in the Cedar Shoals academy, Chester County, S. C.; and entered the South Carolina college, Columbia, S. C., of which institution four of his brothers were graduates, and was graduated, A. B., December, 1852. Among his classmates at college were Judge Joshua Hudson, later Judge of the circuit court of South Carolina;

Leroy F. Yeomans, since attorney general of South Carolina; and Samuel W. Melton, attorney general of South Carolina in Gov. D. H. Chamberlain's administration. He commenced the study of medicine in Columbia, S. C., under his brother, Dr. I. McFadden Gaston, and in the fall of 1853, went to Philadelphia, where he entered the medical department of the University of Pennsylvania, receiving private instruction from Dr. John Neil, in addition to attending the regular course of lectures. He was graduated from the university, M. D., May 5, 1855, and began his practice in York County, S. C. He remained there until May, 1857, when he moved to Montgomery, and formed a partnership with Dr. Nathan Bozeman, which continued until Dr. Bozeman moved to New Orleans two years later. Dr. Gaston continued to conduct a general practice in Montgomery until 1861, when he was commissioned by Gov. Andrew B. Moore, surgeon of the state militia, and ordered to Fort Morgan, where he remained about two months. On July 19, 1861, he was appointed surgeon of the Fourteenth Alabama regiment, and accompanied it to the Potomac where it formed part of the army of Gen. Joseph E. Johnston. He was present with his regiment on the march through the peninsula to meet Gen. McClellan, and afterward as they fell back on Richmond, and through the seven days' fight around that city. He took part in the Second battle of Manassas, the battles of Sharpsburg, Fredericksburg, Chancellorsville, and Gettysburg. After the latter battle, in July, 1863, he was appointed surgeon of Gen. Wilcox's brigade with the title of "Senior surgeon of brigade," and with it took part in all the battles from the Wilderness down to Petersburg. Soon after his arrival there, he was ordered to Richmond and placed in charge of the Alabama division of the Howard Grove hospital, a very extensive institution of which his division alone occupied five hundred fifty beds. He remained in charge there until the surrender, when he returned south. He recommenced the practice of medicine in Montgomery in partnership with Dr. W. I. Holt, with whom he remained associated until 1870. After that time, he conducted his practice alone.

Since his residence in Montgomery, Dr. Gaston has been a member of the Montgomery Medical Society, and has been its president more than once. He became a member of the Alabama Medical Association in 1869, in which year he delivered the annual oration, has been counsellor of the association since 1875, and was its president in 1882. For many years, he was a member of the board of censors, of the committee of public health, and of the state board of medical examiners. He was a member of the section of state medicine and public hygiene of the American Medical Association, 1875-1876. He has served on the city council of Montgomery, was elected mayor of the city in 1881, and re-elected without opposition in 1885. He was influential in securing from the State legislature the passage of the law to establish boards of health in Alabama, and his message, as president of the state medical association, read at the session of 1882, attacking the then existing penal system of Alabama, was directly responsible for a thorough revision of the law. Dr. Gaston's best-known contribution to the literature of medicine is the paper published in January, 1876, in the "American Journal of Medical Sciences," under the title, "Medico-legal Evidence of Independent Life in the New Born Child." Married: November 11, 1857, in Mecklenburg County, Sallie J. Torrence, daughter of James J. Torrence of that place. Children: 1. Bernard; 2. daughter; 3. daughter; and two others who died in infancy. Last residence: Montgomery.

GASTON, OLIVER, Confederate officer, and prominent citizen of Madison County. Deceased. Last address: Huntsville.

GATCHELL, EDWARD SAMUEL, merchant, was born December 27, 1863, at Selma, and died May 3, 1906, at Selma; son of Henry and Susan J. (King) Gatchell, natives respectively of Ireland and Alabama. He was reared in Selma, and because of the early death of his father in 1869, found it necessary to divide his time between working and attending school. He attended the Dallas academy; for three years remained in the office of J. C. Graham & Company, cotton merchants; then attended school for a brief season; became clerk in the drug store of Cawthon & Coleman, of Selma, for two years; attended Prof. Callaway's school at Selma during the winter of 1879-1880; and in July, 1880, went into the store of Brooks & Wilkins, druggists at Selma, with whom he remained until 1883, becoming in the meantime a licensed druggist. He became express messenger with the Southern Express Company, 1883-1885; clerk in the wholesale grocery store of H. C. Keeble & Company, 1885-1887; first agent of the Baltimore & Ohio Express Company at Selma, 1887, from which position he withdrew in order to devote his whole attention to the book and stationery business he had entered upon, with Walter S. Butler as partner, the year before. At the time of his death, Mr. Gatchell was proprietor of the Gatchell Drug Company, of Selma. He was an elder in the Presbyterian church; an Odd Fellow; and was past grand high priest of the grand chapter of Alabama Masonry. Married: March 6, 1888, Minnie S. Taylor, of Montgomery. Four children. Last residence: Selma.

GAVIN, C. W., Methodist minister, chaplain of the 117th field artillery, U. S. Army, during the Epropean War; member of the Alabama Conference. Residence: U. S. Army.

GAVIN, R. S., Missionary Baptist minister; living in 1913. Residence: Huntsville.

GAY, HENRY MITCHELL, legislator, was born March 8, 1812, and died March 17, 1865; son of Gilbert Gay and wife, Miss Reynolds, the former a native of London, England, who came to America at the age of nine with his father, settled in Rhode Island but later removed to Kentucky where he became a slave trader; grandson of Thomas Gay, a native of London, England, who emigrated to America and settled in Rhode Island, later in Kentucky. Henry M. Gay removed to Randolph County; represented this county in the State senate, 1853; and also in the constitutional convention of 1861. He belonged to the Douglas or Union party; and was a Methodist. Married: in Heard County, Ga., to the daughter of Thomas and Elizabeth Awbrey. Children: There were children to this marriage, among these: 1. Gilbert, of Malone. Last residence: Randolph County.

GAY, JOHN L., acting professor of ancient languages, at the University of Alabama, 1835.

GAY, SAMUEL GILBERT, physician and surgeon, was born December 11, 1864, at Richmond, Dallas County, son of John Asa and Olivia (Culley) Gay, the former a Confederate soldier and planter; grandson of Reason and Nancy Gay of Newton County, Ga., and of John and Elizabeth Culley of Dallas County, formerly of Kentucky. The founders of the Gay family in America having a southern branch were John, William and Thomas Gay, brothers, who came from England in 1630. John settled in Massachusetts. William and Thomas located in Virginia, the former later returning to England. Later descendants removed to North Carolina and Georgia. Dr. Samuel Gilbert Gay received his early education from tutors and local schools. His professional training was acquired at the medical department of the University of Alabama, from which he graduated in 1884; clinics of New York, Johns Hopkins, Harvard, Berlin, London, and Rotenda Hospital of Dublin, Ireland; entered in the practice in Selma 1887. He has been president of Dallas County medical society; health officer, Dallas County; chairman board of censors; vice president Alabama State medical association; member State public health committee; state board medical examiners; Democrat; and a Baptist. Married: Corinne M., daughter of David and Harriet Putnam (McGill) Turner of Mobile; granddaughter of Charles and Nancy (Cochran) Turner, the former a native of Barnville District, S. C., the latter of Mobile and of Niel and Susan Putnam (Johnston) McGill, the former a native of Glasgow, Scotland, who removed with his parents to Wilmington, N. C., the latter a native of Georgia; great-granddaughter of Noel and Sarah Turner, the former a native of London, England, and a Revolutionary soldier, the latter a native of South Carolina, and of James and Elizabeth Johnston of Georgia. Children: 1. Corinne Furniss. Residence: Selma.

GAY, STONEWALL JACKSON, physician, was born May 28, 1863, at Daviston, Tallapoosa County; son of James Shackelford and Mary Ann (Brown) Gay, the former born at Talbotton, Talbot County, Ga., lived at Daviston, in the War of Secession; was lieutenant in Round Head Thompson's company; grandson of John Gay, who lived at Talbotton, and of Absalom Brown, who lived in Florida. From the age of five to that of nine years, he attended a country school at Old Camp Ground. In March, 1888, he was graduated from the College of physicians and surgeons in Atlanta, Ga., receiving a gold medal for highest rating in the practice of medicine. From 1888 to 1897 he practiced at Almond, Randolph County; from the latter date he has practiced at Lineville, Clay County. He was the second mayor of Lineville. In 1903 he was appointed to the position of judge of the probate court, of Clay County, and completed an unexpired term. At different times he has been a member of the Democratic executive committee of the county, in 1904 was chairman of the campaign committee, and chairman of the 1913 amendment campaign of Clay County. He is a member of medical societies, and was a member of the board of censors. He is a Methodist; a Mason; Odd Fellow; Woodman of the World; Knight of Pythias. Married: July 22, 1888, at Daviston, to Sarah Frances, daughter of James A. and Amanda Killgore, who lived at Daviston; granddaughter of Simeon Killgore. Children: 1. Brinton Bizzelle, graduated University of Alabama, June, 1910, and the College of physicians and surgeons, Atlanta, May, 1913, m. Regina Daniel; 2. Eunice, graduated Alabama girl's technical institute, Montevallo, June, 1909, and at Randolph-Macon woman's college, Lynchburg, Va., June, 1913; 3. Inez, student Alabama girl's technical institute, Montevallo, and Randolph-Macon woman's college. Residence: Lineville.

GAYLE, BRISTOR B., Confederate soldier, was born in Suffolk County, Va., and died September 14, 1862, at Boonesboro, Md. He came to Alabama shortly before the outbreak of the War of Secession, and settled in Morgan County. He taught school in Somerville until hostilities began, then enlisted in Co. H, Twelfth Alabama infantry regiment, July 8, 1861, at Decatur. He was elected captain of his company, was later promoted to lieutenant-colonel, and on June 1, 1862, to colonel. He had been back with his regiment only a few days after being home on a sick furlough, when he was killed in the battle of Boonesboro, Md., listed in the U. S. war department as the battle of Crampton's Gap, September 14, 1862. It is probable that Col. Gayle was buried on the battlefield as the Federal troops took possession of that field after the battle. The company of which Col. Gayle was the first captain, had four captains. The second was Capt. J. H. Darwin, killed at the battle of Seven Pines; the third, Capt. M. B. Robinson, jr., resigned after the battle of Sharpsburg; and the fourth, Capt. A. E. Hewlett, wounded and captured at Winchester, in the same battle that Maj-Gen. Robert Emmet Rodes was killed. Last residence: Morgan County.

GAYLE, GEORGE WASHINGTON, lawyer, U. S. district attorney, and member Alabama legislature, was born in 1807, in Abbeville, S. C.; son of John Gayle, jr., and wife, a Miss Whitehead, of Virginia and South Carolina, who removed to Alabama about 1811, settling in Monroe County; grandson of John and Maria (Billups) Gayle, of Virginia; nephew of Mathew Gayle, sr.; cousin of Governor John Gayle (q. v.). He was educated in the schools of St. Stephens; read law in Tuscaloosa; admitted to the bar in 1832; located at Cahaba, 1832; represented Dallas county in the legislature, 1833, and was re-elected. He was U. S. district attorney, under President Van Buren. He was for several years connected with journalism. He was an ardent States Rights Democrat. He assisted in prosecuting the War of Secession so actively and expressed his views so freely that at the close of the war, the Federal authorities arrested him "for conspiracy in the assassination of President Lincoln"; but he was discharged without a trial. Married: (1) to Margaret Kornegay, a niece of William R. King; (2) to Joanna Gleason, of Tuscaloosa. Children: by the first wife: 1. Thomas King, died in Cuba; 2. Margaret King, m. Thomas C. Brown of Cahaba; by the second wife: 3. Alice, m. A. C. Hargrove of Texas; 4. Sallie Heutis, m. Wilbur Brown, of Selma; 5. Mary A., m. Columbus Gayle. Last residence: Selma.

GAYLE, JOHN, lawyer, jurist, legislator, congressman, sixth governor of Alabama, was born September 11, 1792, in Sumter District, S. C., and died in Mobile, July 21, 1859; son of Mathew and Mary (Reese) Gayle (q. v.). He was educated at the Newberry academy and the South Carolina college, graduating from the latter in 1813. He studied law, after removing to Alabama, under A. S. Lipscomb and was admitted to the practice in 1818. At the first session of the Territorial legislature of Alabama, he was elected a member of the legislative council. In 1819 he was elected solicitor of the first judicial circuit, and in 1822 was chosen as representative in the Alabama legislature from Monroe County. He became judge of the third circuit in 1823, and in 1828 was appointed to the State supreme court, but resigned the following year to serve Greene County in the legislature. He was made speaker of the house, and served in that capacity until 1831, when he was elected governor of Alabama. During his administration, the Creek Indians were removed to the West; also the first railroad in the State was built, forty-four miles long, from Tuscumbia to Decatur by way of Courtland, and the first cotton factory, Bell Factory, Madison County, was incorporated in 1833 by the legislature. In 1836, and in 1840 he was presidential elector, voting for Judge White. In 1847 he was elected to membership in congress, and ten years later, 1849, was approved district judge for the U. S. district court of Alabama, which position he held until his death. He did not seek office but his friends forced him to accept political preferment and when a candidate never lost an election. He was a Whig and an anti-nullification man; a strict prohibitionist; and a Presbyterian. Married: (1) November 14, 1819, at Claiborne, to Sarah Ann, daughter of Richard and Ann (Pringle) Haynsworth, of Claiborne; (2) November 1, 1839, at Gaston, to Clarissa Stedman, daughter of Abijah and Clarissa (Stedman) Peck, descendants of the first settlers of New Haven, Conn. Children: by the first wife: 1.

Matthew, physician; 2. Sarah Ann, m. William B. Crawford; 3. Amelia Ross, (q. v.), m. Gen. Josiah Gorgas (q. v.), parents of Gen. William Gorgas (q. v.); 4. Mary Rees, m. Hugh Kerr Aiken; 5. Richard Haynsworth, m. Flora Levy; 6. Anna Maria, m. Thomas Livingston Bayne; children by the second wife: 7. Frederick, m. (1) Mary Moffat, (2) Laura Hergione; 8. Helen, m. James Whitehead Locke; 9. John Marshall, m. Ellen Beverly Thorpe; 10. Edmund Dargan, m. Lucie Lomax. Last residence: Mobile.

GAYLE, MATTHEW, sr., planter, was born in 1753 in Virginia, and died September 30, 1820, in Monroe County; son of John and Maria (Billups) Gayle of Virginia, the former with his sons, served in the Virginia and South Carolina lines, during the Revolutionary War, the sons under Francis Marion. He was educated by private tutors. After the Revolution, he removed to Sumter District, S. C., and in 1813, to Mt. Vernon, locating later, on a plantation in Monroe County. He was one of the pioneer settlers and helped to establish law, order and refined civilization on what was then frontier lands. He was a Democrat-Republican follower of Thomas Jefferson. Married: to Mary, daughter of Col. John and (Miss Pentecost) Reese, of Sumter District, S. C. Children: 1. Billups, m. (1) Miss Merriwether, (2) Pamela Cunningham; 2. John (q. v.), governor of Alabama; 3. Levin; 4. Matilda, m. Capt. Edward Ware, U. S. A.; 5. Lucinda, m. Thomas Eastin; 6. Maria, m. (1) Blake Woodson, (2) Edgar James. Last residence: Monroe County.

GAYLE, PHILIP HEUTIS SAFFOLD, lawyer, business man and planter, was born April 13, 1831, at Cahaba, and died in Montgomery May 22, 1903; son of Mathew, jr., and Amaranth (Philips) Gayle, of Cahaba, who removed to Montgomery; grandson of John Gayle and wife, a Miss Whitehead, of Cahaba; great-grandson of John and Maria (Billups) Gayle of Virginia. He was educated in the schools of Cahaba; graduate of the University of Georgia; studied law and admitted to practice. He removed with his family to Montgomery, where he engaged in planting on an extensive scale, and the warehouse business, shipping by boat to Mobile. He also practiced his profession, which he abandoned at the outbreak of the War of Secession, to enter the service of the Confederacy. At the close of the war, he was manager of the public wharf, his warehouse, and continued planting operations until his death. He was a States Rights Democrat; and a Methodist. Married: in Montgomery, to Mary E. Armistead, daughter of William B. and Lucy Armistead (q. v.), of Greene County. Mrs. Gayle was a charter member of the Ladies memorial association of Montgomery, the first patriotic organization formed, 1866, concerning the War of Secession. Children: 1. William Armistead, deceased, m. Mary E. Winn, of Demopolis; 2. Joseph Philips, unmarried; 3. Lucy Herbert, deceased; 4. Mary Semple, m. Dr. William Lamar Law. Last residence: Montgomery.

GAYLE, REES DARRINGTON, lawyer and planter, was born in 1820, on Bassett's Creek, Clarke County, and died November 19, 1805, Selma; son of Billups and Pamela (Cunningham) Gayle, who removed from Sumter District, S. C., where he had been sheriff at Ninety-Six, later, about 1810, migrated to Clarke County, with the colony formed by his father's family, which settled near St. Stephens; grandson of Col. Mathew and May (Reese) Gayle, natives respectively of Abbeville and Chester, S. C., who served under Gen. Francis Marion during the Revolutionary War; and of David Cunningham, younger brother of Gen. Robert Cunningham of the British Army, descendants of John Cunningham, who came to America from Craig End, Scotland, and settled in Augusta County, Va., in 1681 and continued to reside with his three daughters and four sons, Robert, Patrick, John and David. In 1769 Robert removed to Ninety-Six, S. C., and was the first magistrate and circuit judge appointed for the district. In the same year his brother, Patrick, was made deputy surveyor general under Sir Egerton Leigh. In 1770, the younger brothers, John and David, with their three sisters, removed to South Carolina and David was made deputy surveyor general and John became a planter. Rees Darrington Gayle lost his parents when only a few months of age and was reared by his uncle, Gov. John Gayle and his cousin, Col. John Darrington of Clarke County, his education being directed by private tutors. He later attended the Jesuit college at Spring Hill, near Mobile, where his two elder brothers, Scarborough and Billups, were at school. From there he went to William and Mary college, Williamsburg, Va., and later entered the University of Virginia where he studied law. He located at Mobile and entered upon the practice of law in partnership with his uncle, Gov. John Gayle. In 1848 he removed to Cahaba and formed a partnership with his cousin, George W. Gayle. At the outbreak of the War of Secession he enlisted as a private in Co. F, "Cahaba Rifles," and served through the four years of the war. He was wounded twice at the battle of Seven Pines and again at Chancellorsville, Va. He did not seek military or civil offices, but was offered high places by the Republican administration on condition he would join that party, which of course he refused. While a member of no church, he worshipped with the Presbyterians and subscribed to that faith. He was a Mason. Married: in 1851, at the plantation of her parents, to Mary Louisa, daughter of Dr. Thomas W. and Nancy (Craig) Gill, who lived near Cahaba, on the Marion-Cahaba road. Dr. Gill came to Alabama from South Carolina in 1820, son of James and Mary (Gaston) Gill of Sumter District, S. C., the latter's father was one of the eight brothers in the Revolutionary War, serving under Gen. Francis Marion. Mrs. Gill was the daughter of Judge William Gaston, granddaughter of Robert Gaston and great-granddaughter of Judge Joseph Gaston who lived in Fishing Creek, near Rockmart on the line between the two Carolinas. He furnished nine sons to the Revolutionary Army. On her maternal line Mrs. Gill was the grand-daughter of Capt. James and Janet (Kilpatrick) Craig, a Revolutionary soldier who removed to Alabama from Tennessee, and settled near Selma, one of eight brothers fighting with the American forces for independence. The Kilpatricks were of Revolutionary stock and lived in South Carolina. Children: 1. Anna Maria, m. Dr. Joseph Talbot Fry, of Galveston, Texas, but after her husband's death returned to Selma; 2. Thomas Gill, m. Fannie Lou Northup, Selma; 3. Phillips J., m. Lila Mills, daughter of Dr. James Mills; 4. Rebecca Darrington, m. William S. Johnston, deceased; 5. Lourees, died in early girlhood. Last residence: Selma.

GAYLE, SARAH ANN (HAYNSWORTH) wife of Gov. John Gayle, was born January 18, 1804, in South Carolina, and died July 30, 1835, in Tuscaloosa; daughter of Richard and Ann (Pringle) Haynsworth, the former born in Sumter District, S. C., removed to Mt. Vernon, later to Claiborne, where he lived on his plantation "Sheldon" near Greensboro, and where he died; granddaughter of Henry and Sarah (Furman) Haynsworth; great-granddaughter of Richard and Elizabeth (Hesse) Haynsworth, the former of Virginia and English descent, the latter a native of Basle, Switzerland, and of Judge Wood and Rachel (Brodhead) Furman. She was educated at St. Stephens academy and was a lady of rare talents and accomplishments, who dispensed the hospitalities of the governor's mansion at Tuscaloosa with a dignity and grace never surpassed. Francis Scott Key, the author of "The Star Spangled Banner," who was sent by the president of the United States as "Special Commissioner" to Alabama in 1835, addressed to her a "beautiful poem as a personal compliment to herself, which was published and greatly admired." Garrett says: "She was a general favorite, and admired by all for her many shining virtues and talents which adorned social life." Her death occurred in Tuscaloosa as a result of lockjaw, caused by a dental operation. Married: November 14, 1819, at "Sheldon," near Claiborne to John (q. v.), son of Matthew and Mary (Rees) Gayle (q. v.). Children: 1. Matthew, physician; 2. Sarah Ann, m. William B. Crawford; 3. Amelia Ross (q. v.), m. Gen. Josiah Gorgas (q. v.); 4. Mary Rees, m. Hugh Kerr Aiken; 5. Richard Haynsworth, m. Flora Levy; 6. Ann Maria, m. Thomas Livingston Bayne. Last residence: Tuscaloosa.

GEE, JAMES T., major and later lieutenant colonel, 1st battalion Alabama artillery, C. S. Army.

GEESLIN, CHARLES, (Geesling in the Census list), soldier of the American Revolution, aged 90, and a resident of Tuscaloosa County; private N. C. Continental Line; enrolled on April 8, 1825, under act of Congress of March 18, 1818, payment to date from August 17, 1824; annual allowance, $96; sums received to date of publication of list, $916.93.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong. 1st sess., 1833-34. He resided in Tuscaloosa County, June 1, 1840, aged 99.—Census of Pensioners, 1841, p. 149.

GEORGE, J. N., major, Moreland's regiment, Alabama cavalry, C. S. Army.

GERALD, PERLEY, Indian trader and merchant, was born January 27, 1800, at Long Saulte Island, N. Y., and died in Montgomery in 1866. He came to Alabama about 1829, and located first in Mobile, as a merchant, later taking as his partner, Samuel Dana Hubbard, sr., and together they removed to Tallassee to trade with the Indians of the Creek nation. In 1836, when these Indians were removed from Alabama, they wrote to Washington, D. C., for "Their true friend" Mr. Perley Gerald to be appointed to make arrangements for their departure. This was done, and the Indians presented him with many specimens of their handicraft, as a token of their regard. A saddlebag of deer-skin embroidered with beads, and a water gourd, used by them are now in the State Museum. He was actively engaged along several lines of commercial pursuits. He owned and operated the Montgomery Hall, the first real hotel of the city which stood upon the present site of the post-office building. He went to California in the "Gold rush" of 1849, and returned in a few years with a fortune, and built the large, colonial residence, on the corner of Lawrence and Adams streets, now remodeled and used as a Catholic Convent. In 1859 he sold his residence to Col. T. B. Bethea and removed to New York city, but the next year returned to Montgomery, and purchased the home later owned by Mr. Edgar Andrew, corner Moulton and Church streets, recently demolished. Married: (1) about 1838, in Tallassee, Melissa, daughter of Ebenezer and Frances (Wells) Russell, of Springfield, Mass., sister of Mrs. Samuel Dana Hubbard and of Henry Russell, Indian agent; and (2) to Camilla Sanford, widow of William Bunkley, of Line Creek, and aunt of Gen. John W. A. Sanford, (q. v.). No children by the first wife; by second wife: 1. Adolphus m. (1) Sallie Mitchell, and (2) Ida Merritt. 2. Clara, m. Samuel Reed, noted editor. 3. Camilla, m. Capt. Reading, Confederate soldier. Last residence: Montgomery.

GESNER, WILLIAM, druggist and geologist, was born May 24, 1827, in Cornwallis, Nova Scotia, and died April 17, 1887, in Birmingham; son of Abraham and Harriet (Webster) Gesner, the former also a native of Cornwallis, physician and surgeon, graduate of Grey's and St. Bartholomew's hospitals, London, located at Parrsboro, on the Bay of Fundy, author of "Remarks on the geology and mineralogy of Nova Scotia," "New Brunswick, with notes for emigrants," "Industrial resources of Nova Scotia," "Coal, petroleum and other distilled oils," appointed provincial geologist of the Province of New Brunswick, and in this position author of a number of geological reports published by the governor, 1839-1843, founder of the Gesner museum, in St. John, later purchased by the Natural history society of New Brunswick, electrical motor-engine inventor, inventor of keroselene; grandson of Henry and Sarah (Pineo) Gesner of Cornwallis Valley, the former a native of New York state, a soldier of the British forces during the Revolutionary War, his wife of French Huguenot ancestry, and of Dr. Isaac Webster of Kentville, N. S.; great-grandson of John Henry and Famitcha (Brower) Gesner, of Tappan, N. Y.; great-great-grandson of John Henrick and Anna Elizabeth Gesner, who suffering under war and misrule migrated from the Palatinate of the Rhine to London, whence they sailed to America and arrived in New York, June 10-12, 1710, the former a carpenter, miller, and Lutheran. William Gesner grew up amidst cultured surroundings, the third of nine sons born to his parents, whose family consisted also of two daughters. He received his academic education at Parrsboro and Cornwallis, and studied medicine and pharmacy under his father, with the expectation of being his professional partner. Sudden reverses coming to his family he decided to migrate to the United States to try his fortune. His first employment, lasting three years was in a drug store in Boston, the second, for one year, in a drug store in Brooklyn. In the meantime he had occupied all spare time with diligent study, and upon the opportunity for advancement arising he was prepared to accept the management of a drug store in Columbus, Ga. A year later he became the senior partner in a drug business in that place under the firm name of Gesner and Peabody. Affairs prospered for several years, but an investment in a saw mill brought disaster. He then removed to Milledgeville, Ga., to take charge of a drug store owned by local parties, but soon thereafter transferred his residence to Talladega County, where he became mining engineer and manager of the Montgomery mining and manufacturing co., which was developing copper mines. The War of Secession coming shortly after the opening of the business destroyed it. Answering the call for soldiers, he joined the Confederate Army in 1861, enlisting in Montgomery, and was assigned to the ordnance department, under General Josiah Gorgas. In 1864 he was sent by the Confederate government to England to learn that country's method of making ammunition, and the construction of acid works. He ran the blockade from Mobile to Havana, Cuba, and sailed in the S. S. Darien for Liverpool. Upon arriving at that port he went to New Castle on Tyne to prosecute the object of his journey. Later he made like investigations in Paris, and safely, but by a circuitous route, running blockades, arrived in Montgomery. While in England he purchased the necessary machinery for manufacturing the munitions bought with private capital, connected with the Montgomery mining and manufacturing co., raised by the sale of cotton. He shipped it via Cuba but failing to find a favorable chance to run the blockade, left it in the custom house of Havana and it was finally sold there to satisfy the duty. His valuable scientific library was burned, aboard train, enroute from Talladega County to Milledgeville, Ga., to prevent the cars and their contents falling into the hands of the invading enemy. In 1872, he removed to the growing village, Birmingham, and in partnership with a Dr. Parker, opened a drug store, but owing to the failing health of the latter the firm was soon dissolved and he again turned his attention to geology and analytical chemistry. In 1874 he was the victim of a railroad accident which impaired his health for several years. In 1876 he was engaged by the Louisville and Nashville railway to assemble an exhibit of the mineral resources of the Birmingham district, and successfully accomplished his task. For some years he was engaged, with his brother, George Welden, and John F. Gesner, in opening a tin mine in Clay County, the venture, entailing heavy expenditures was not profitable, and was abandoned. He was an Episcopalian and Democrat. Author: contributor of commercial and industrial as well as scientific articles to periodicals of the period, including "The South," published in New York, and "The American Manufacturer." Married: (1) in 1851, in Milledgeville, Ga., to Annie Thomas, daughter of James and Frances (Lawler) Herty of that place; (2) June 21, 1866, in Montgomery, to Mary Virginia, daughter of Samuel Goode and Martha Ward (Goode) Jones (q. v.), sister of Gov. Thomas G. Jones (q. v.). Children: by the first marriage, 1. William Henry, m. Clara Clapp; 2. James Francis; 3. Harriet Luana, m. (1) Charles F. Miller, (2) Dr. Alton Glass North; 4. Mary Herty, m. Dr. Henry Clarke, Milledgeville, Ga.; by the second marriage, three children, one son and twin daughters, all of whom died in infancy. Last residence: Birmingham.

RAY RUSHTON

GEWIN, CHRISTOPHER COLUMBUS, U. S. marshal and legislator, was born October 7, 1849, near Greensboro, Hale County; son of Christopher Columbus and Jane (Harris) Gewin, the former of Wadesboro, Anson County, N. C., the latter of Greensboro, Hale County; grandson of Thomas and Jane Gewin, of Greensboro, and of Jane and Jane Harris, of Greensboro. He was educated at Green Springs academy, under Dr. Tutwiler. He was sheriff of Hale County, 1888; a member of the house of representatives from Hale County, 1911; and on May 7, 1914, was appointed U. S. marshal for the southern district of the fifth circuit. He is a Democrat; and a Methodist. Married: May 26, 1870, near Greensboro, to Julia Roberta, daughter of Anderson and Mary Flinn, of Greensboro. Residence: Mobile.

GIBBES, JOHN T., quartermaster at the University of Alabama, Tuscaloosa, 1861-65.

GIBBONS, LYMAN, lawyer, was born June 3, 1808, at Westerlo, Albany County, N. Y., and died at Claiborne; son of John Gibbons, a farmer of Westerlo, N. Y. He attended the village school at Westerlo, N. Y., and was graduated from Amherst College, in 1830. He read law for several months in the office of Hon. Jacob Collamer, afterwards postmaster general of the United States, at Royalton, Vt.; came to Alabama in the fall of 1833 and became one of the faculty of Spring Hill college. While there he continued his law studies, and was admitted to the bar in 1835. He remained in Mobile for a few months, then moved to Claiborne, Monroe County, where he formed a partnership with Hon. James Dellet. In 1838, he returned to Mobile to practice; went to Paris in 1845, and remained there more than two years reading the civil law. Returning to America, he located in New Orleans, where he practiced for two years, then returned to Mobile. He was appointed to fill a vacancy on the circuit court bench in 1851, because of the resignation of Judge Bragg, and was elected to a full term of six years the following spring. In December, 1852, Gov. Collier appointed him a justice of the supreme court, which position he resigned January 5, 1854. He then became a planter in Monroe County. He represented Monroe County in the constitutional convention of 1861, which was his last public position. After the war, he resumed the practice of law. He was a Democrat. Married: at the home of Judge Bragg in Lowndes County, Emma Eugenia Dellet, daughter of James and Harriet (Willisson) Dellet, who lived at Columbia, S. C. Children: 1. Helen Gibbons, m. Hon. Charles John Torrey, resides at Mobile. Last residence: Claiborne.

GIBBS, ELEANOR CHURCHILL, teacher, was born October 3, 1840, at Oak Grove, plantation home of her parents, in Sumter County; daughter of Charles Richardson and Eleanor Stuart (Thornton) Gibbs, the former born July 8, 1786 at Orange Court House, Orange County, Va., lived until 1835 in Virginia, was an officer in the War of 1812, a merchant and planter, removed to Sumter County, therein married his third wife, Eleanor Stuart Thornton, who was a descendant of Mildred Washington, the aunt of General George Washington; granddaughter of Churchill and Judith (Richardson) Gibbs, who lived at Orange County, Va., the former an officer in the Revolutionary War, being at Stony Point and Brandywine, and in other battles, with Gen. Washington during the winter at Valley Forge, and continuing in service to the close of the war, and of William and Eleanor (Brown) Thornton, who lived in Culpeper County, Va.; great-granddaughter of Rev. John and Mrs. Ann (Butler) Spotswood Thompson, the latter previously the wife of Governor Spotswood, of Virginia. In the seventeenth century the Gibbs family emigrated from Kent, England, to Barbadoes, whence three brothers came to the Colonies. The name was "Gibbes." Zachary, one of the three, was a Tory and went to England, hence Churchill Gibbs changed the spelling to "Gibbs." Descendants in South Carolina of the third brother, retain the "e." Eleanor C. Gibbs received her early education largely at home, being taught by her mother and a private tutor. She completed the course at Livingston female academy, attended Professor Tutwiler's school at Green Springs, and pursued courses in literature, history and ethnology in the University of Chicago. She is a teacher by profession; taught in Livingston academy, becoming principal, and in Dallas academy, Selma. During the twelve years from 1887 she was head of the department of English in Shorter college, Rome, Ga. In the two years following she held a similar position in Anniston college; in 1901 became head of department of English in Alabama normal college, Livingston. She has been a paid contributor to different periodicals, including the New England journal of education. Residence: Livingston.

GIBBS, GEORGE S., a prominent graduate of the University of Alabama. Residence: Cleburne, Texas.

GIBSON, CARLETON BARTLETT, educator, was born September 18, 1863, in Mobile; son of James Spaulding and Marie Antoinette (Powers) Gibson, the former a native of Dumfries, Scotland, who emigrated to America, settled in New York, married, removed to Mobile where he became a merchant and cotton planter, later removing to Clarke County, Miss.; grandson of David and Mercy (Rose) Powers, of Groton, N. Y., the latter a descendant of Anika Jans, morganatic wife of William of Orange; great-grandson of Frederick and Ruth (Pennoyer) Powers, of Armenia, N. Y.; great-great-grandson of Joseph and Lucy Pennoyer, and of Jost and Elizabeth (Mowl) Powers, the latter a native of Naumberg, Prussian Saxony, who emigrated to America in 1852, settled in Rhinebeck, Dutchess County, N. Y., removed to Armenia, N. Y., a signer of the "Articles of association," and a soldier of the Revolution; great-great-great-grandson of Jacob Mowl, of Rhinebeck, N. Y., also a signer of the "Articles of the association." Dr. Gibson received his early education in the Spillman academy, Enterprise, Miss., Mobile military academy, Mobile; graduated from the University of Alabama, A. B., 1884, and received honorary degree of A. M., 1885, and LL. D., 1914; attended the University of Chicago summer schools, 1898, 1899, and 1900. He began his professional career as principal of Ivy Creek academy, Mulberry, 1885; president of State normal school, Jacksonville, 1886-92; founder and principal, University military school, Mobile, 1892-93; president, Central female college, Tuscaloosa, 1893-94; superintendent, Columbus, Ga., public schools, 1894-1910; president, Mechanics institute, Rochester, N. Y., 1910-16; superintendent of schools, Savannah, Ga., since 1916. He is a Democrat; Baptist; Mason; member National, Southern, and Georgia educational associations; National society promotion industrial education; and a member of the Phi Delta Theta college fraternity. Author: contributor of numerous papers and addresses. Married: January 7, 1889, at Jacksonville, to Martha, daughter of James L. and Sarah Margaret (Anderson) Newcomb, of Ruston, La.; granddaughter of William and Margaret (Hayes) Anderson, of Arkansas, and of Lemuel and Martha (Snow) Newcomb; great-granddaughter of Reuben Newcomb, of Savannah, Ga. Children: 1. Carleton B., jr., B. S. in C. E., Alabama polytechnic institute, 1908, engineer, U. S. government; 2. Gladys Newcomb; 3. William Wallace. Residence: Savannah, Ga.

GIBSON, CHARLES, member of the constitutional convention of 1875, from Lawrence County.

GIBSON, H. P., coal operator. Residence: Corona.

GIBSON, J. B., president of the Woodlawn lumber co. Residence: Birmingham.

GIBSON, JOHN H., major 18th Alabama battalion Partisan Rangers, C. S. Army; major 16th, also called 4th, battalion Alabama infantry, C. S. Army.

GIELOW, MARTHA (SAWYER), author and public speaker, was born in Greensboro; daughter of Capt. Enoch and Sophia E. (Barkley) Sawyer, the former a native of North Carolina, who removed to Hale County, planter, Mexican and Confederate soldier; granddaughter of Charles and Clara Louise (Garnier) Barkley, the former of English ancestry and a banker in Pensacola, Fla., the latter a native of France; great-granddaughter of General Gregory of Revolutionary fame. The Sawyers originally English, trace their ancestry to the days of William the Conqueror. Mrs. Gielow is a reader, lecturer, and writer of the folklore of the South. She was founder and director of the Southern industrial association, to promote industrial education among the Anglo-Saxon children of the Southern Appalachian mountains. Author: "Mammy's reminiscences," 1898; "Old plantation days," 1902; "Old Andy, the moonshiner," 1910; "Uncle Sam," 1913; "The light on the hill," 1915; "Child training in the realm of thought" 1919, also poems and many articles on education. Married: — Gielow. Children: 1. Una, m. Commander Charles Willis Fisher, U. S. Navy; 2. Roland Sawyer, m. Genevieve Mahoney. Residence: Greensboro and Washington, D. C.

GILBERT, JOHN WESLEY, teacher, died August 1, 1887; son of William and Catharine (Poythress) Gilbert of Gainesville. He graduated A. B., 1885, from the University of Alabama and was assistant professor of Latin and English at that institution, 1885-87. He was unmarried. Last residence: Gainesville.

GILBERT, T. H., major, 50th (Coltart's formerly known as 26th) Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army.

GILBREATH, MONTGOMERY, public official, was born January 23, 1814, and died October 8, 1885, in Guntersville; son of Col. John Gilbreath, a native of Tennessee, who fought in the battle of Quebec as a lieutenant under Gen. Montgomery, was taken prisoner there, returned to Tennessee after his release and married a Miss Fields, came to Blountsville between 1815 and 1820, and ran a hotel there for a time, moved to Jackson County and settled near Gunter's Landing, where he spent the remainder of his life. He received the greater part of his schooling in Blountsville; became a salesman in a store at Claysville, on the north bank of the Tennessee River, when he was nineteen years old; was employed by Gen. Rayburn in 1835; and in the following year, went to Tuscaloosa where he clerked for John C. Johnson. While at Tuscaloosa he volunteered in a company in the command of Capt. Chisholm, and served with it through the Florida War. He clerked for Mr. Johnson for a short time after the war, then returned to Guntersville, where he was employed by Hugh Henry, who sent him to Arkansas to look after interests in the Indian territory. He travelled through the Indian territory and Texas, and after returning, continued with Mr. Henry until he was appointed clerk of the county court in 1839. The next year, he was elected to the same office, and held it until the office was abolished by the State legislature. About 1852, he was elected probate judge, continuing in that position until 1861, when he resigned, raised a company for the C. S. Army and was elected its captain. When the Forty-eighth Alabama infantry regiment was organized at Nashville, Tenn., Capt. Gilbreath was elected its lieutenant-colonel, and participated with it in the battle of Shiloh. This regiment was reorganized, and on account of age and failing health, Col. Gilbreath resigned, and returned to Guntersville, where he engaged in farming until 1866. In that year, he re-entered the mercantile business, and conducted it successfully until his death. He was a member of the constitutional convention of 1875. Married: Miss Kilfoile, who was born in Blount County, daughter of Peter and Mary (Berry) Kilfoile, the former a native of County Queen, Ireland, who landed in New York when he was seventeen years of age, emigrated from there to Blount County, and later to Marshall County, where he served as clerk of the circuit court for eleven years, and afterward conducted a hotel at Warrenton. Children: 1. Mary; 2. John, b. December 27, 1849, at Warrenton, was educated at Warrenton, became salesman with Gilbreath & Whitman, purchased an interest in the grocery house of W. L. Bogus, becoming sole owner of the concern in 1876, purchased an interest in the firm of Noble & Whitman 1878, and disposed of it in 1886, m. May, 1881, Bettie G. Jordan, daughter of David C. Jordan, esq., children, Burton and Clebron, resides at Guntersville; 3. Emmet, b. March 24, 1853, near Guntersville, educated at Guntersville, Mulberry, Tenn., and at a business college at Nashville, Tenn., clerked for his father, was employed by a mercantile house in Cincinnati, 1880, became travelling salesman for a Charleston, W. Va., shoe house, 1880-1885, and became associated with Mr. Whitman in the general mercantile business at Guntersville; 4. E. W.; 5. Montgomery; 6. Katie; 7. Gordon; 8. Sallie F., d. in 1875; 9. Alexander, d. in childhood; 10. Sidney, d. in childhood. Last residence: Guntersville.

GILCHRIST, ARCHIBALD, lawyer, was born July, 1805, in Richmond County, N. C., and died July 2, 1854, in Hayneville, Lowndes County; son of Angus and Margaret (McKay) Gilchrist, who lived in Richmond County, N. C., the former a native of Scotland, a farmer and a surveyor, prominent in public affairs, who was brought to America when he was a child; grandson of John Gilchrist, who was born, reared, and married in Scotland, was a sea captain for many years, came to America, settling in North Carolina, and followed farming there until his death; brother of James G. Gilchrist (q. v.) He received his early schooling in North Carolina, and was a graduate of the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. He studied law after his graduation, was admitted to the bar, and came to Alabama to practice his profession. He opened a law office in Hayneville, Lowndes County, and practiced there until in 1845 he was elected to the State senate to succeed Dr. Berney. He was strongly opposed to a law passed a few years previously for the redemption of real estate which had been sold by legal process, after the Tennessee plan, and through his efforts and influence a bill for its repeal passed the Senate, but was defeated in the house. After his term in the senate had expired, Mr. Gilchrist retired to private life. He was a Whig and a Presbyterian. Married: September, 1837, at Hayneville, Margaret Davidson Mushat, daughter of John and Mary Lee (Davidson) Mushat, who lived in Iredell County, N. C., the former a distinguished lawyer of that county, the latter one of the North Carolina Davidsons. Children: 1. John Mushat, captain of Co. K, Fifth Alabama infantry regiment, d. from effect of wounds received at Cold Harbor, June, 1864; 2. James Norman, b. in Hayneville, deceased, m. Cynthia Isabelle Streety, of Hayneville, who later m. C. I. Mushat, and resides at South Highlands, Birmingham; 3. Margaret McKay, m. Kinchen Lee Haralson, resides in Selma, Dallas County; 4. Mary Davidson, m. Josiah Whitticar Powell, resides in Lowndesboro; 5. Theresa Ann, m. Elliott Lindsay James, resides at Hayneville; 6. Catherine Brooks, m. Marvin Williamson, resides at Hayneville. Last residence: Hayneville.

GILCHRIST, JAMES GRAHAM, lawyer, was born in 1814, in Richmond County, N. C.; son of Angus and Elizabeth (McNeel) Gilchrist, the former a farmer, and a surveyor, who was born in 1770, the latter a native of North Carolina, born in 1793; grandson of John Gilchrist, born in Scotland, who was a sea captain, for many years and settled in North Carolina, and of Laughlin McNeel, a Scotchman who came to America in his youth and married in North Carolina, was a farmer and a British soldier in the Revolutionary War. He was reared on a farm, with but limited education until he was twenty years old; entered Princeton college in 1836, but remained only a short time, going from there to Schenectady, N. Y. He was graduated from the University of South Carolina in 1839, studied law, and came to Alabama the following year. He located at Hayneville, and practiced law there for sixteen years. He was a member of the first legislature that assembled in Montgomery in 1847-1848, and served on the judiciary committee of that body; was a Fillmore elector in 1856; and again a member of the legislature in 1859; and was elected to the secession convention in 1861. In the fall of 1861, he raised a company for the C. S. Army, and was made its captain. The group became Co. I, Forty-fifth Alabama infantry, and at the organization of the regiment, he was made its colonel. He spent the winter at Pensacola, Fla.; joined the Tennessee army at Corinth, Miss., early in 1862; was with Bragg in his Kentucky campaign, fighting at Perryville, Murfreesboro, and other places, and in April, 1863, resigned because of ill health. After the war, Col. Gilchrist engaged in farming. He was a member of the board of revenue from the time it was established until eighteen years later; and was a Whig. Married: (1) in 1839, Elizabeth Briggs, who was born in Pennsylvania and died in 1852, daughter of William Briggs, an Irishman, who was a civil engineer; (2) in 1854, Elizabeth H. McGehee, who was born in Alabama and died in 1891, daughter of Abner McGehee. Children, by first marriage: 1. Angus, deceased, who served in the Sixth Alabama infantry regiment all through the War of Secession, at first in Virginia and later in the Tennessee army, and became a farmer after the war; 2. Sallie, d. in childhood; 3. Anna, d. in childhood; 4. Kate, deceased, m. Frank McLean; 5. Elizabeth, m. Frank McLean, after the death of her sister; 6. Mollie, m. G. W. Shackelford, deceased; by second marriage: 7. Abner, deceased; 8. James, A. B., planter, teacher in the public schools at Mobile, 1887-1888, representative in the State legislature, 1890-1891, d. June 12, 1891; 9. Thomas, a school-teacher, d. while at school. Last residence: Montgomery County.

GILDER, BENJAMIN FRANKLIN, lawyer and superintendent of education, was born December 3, 1852, at Pushmataha, Choctaw County; son of Dr. James Aden and Susan (McCarty) Gilder, the former born in Newberry County, S. C., lived at time of marriage, near Spring Hill, Marengo County, in 1841 moved to Choctaw County, was practicing physician and over military age during period of War of Secession; grandson of Preston and Mary (Culpeper) Gilder, who lived at Newberry, S. C., and Spring Hill, and of John and Susan (Brock) McCarty, who lived in Tennessee and then in Marengo County; great-grandson of a Gilder, immigrant, with a brother, from England to South Carolina, the brother going to the North. His maternal ancestors were of Welsh descent. B. F. Gilder received early education in the common schools of Choctaw County. After a course of four years in the Chautauqua literary and scientific circle, he received a certificate of graduation in 1889. He was admitted to the bar, 1899; began practice at Butler, Choctaw County; in 1900 moved to Linden, Marengo County, practiced therein eight years; clerk of circuit court of Choctaw County, and register of chancery, 1886-1898; superintendent of education Marengo County, 1908 to the present. He is a Democrat; a Methodist; and a Knight of Pythias. Married: December 5, 1876, at Pushmataha, to Donnie, daughter of John J. and Kate (Bunn) Williams, who lived at Pushmataha, the former born in Richmond, Va., in early manhood moved to Sumter County, married at Livingston; granddaughter of Martha Horn Bunn, who, a widow, moved from North Carolina to Sumter, bringing her daughter, Kate, a child. Children: 1. William Franklin, in business at Demopolis; 2. Levy, A., for twelve years in Washington, D. C., in Library of Congress; 3. Henry Grady; 4. Wayne; 5. Kate E., deceased, m. Emmet S. George, lived at Linden; 6. Donnie-Ben, m. H. A. Nonnier, jr. lives at Demopolis. Residence: Linden.

GILDER, J. J., member of the constitutional convention of 1867, from the twelfth election district.

GILES, BENJAMIN FRANKLIN, teacher and Baptist minister, was born June 24, 1854, near Alexander City, Tallapoosa County; son of James Daniel and Sarena (Holloway) Giles, the former born in Butts County, Ga., lived in Tallapoosa County, in the War of Secession was captain of home guards; grandson of William and Mary (Daniel) Giles, who lived in Butts County, and of William and Matilda (Bailey) Holloway who lived in the same county. Rev. Mr. Giles obtained early education in country schools; in 1882 graduated with the degree of A. M. at Howard college, then at Marion; also graduated in 1885 at the Southern Baptist theological seminary, Louisville, Ky., and attended the University of Chicago. He is a teacher by profession, was professor at Howard, 1886-1898; president of Decatur college, Decatur, Texas, 1898-1900; from 1900 to the present has been president of Central college, Tuscaloosa. He is a minister in the Baptist church. Married: December 7, 1897, at Columbia, to Olive Judson, daughter of Maj. S. S. and Rachel Elizabeth (Roper) Booth, who lived at Prattville. Children: 1. Frank Howard; 2. Boyce Tichenor; 3. Robert Robards; 4. Mary Elizabeth. Residence: Tuscaloosa.

GILL, JAMES, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 74, and a resident of Greene County; private S. C. Militia; enrolled on September 16, 1833, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832; payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $80; sums received to date of publication of list, $240.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34.

GILL, THOMAS WASHINGTON, physician, was born in 1790, in York District, S. C., and died in March, 1864, in Cahaba; son of Capt. James and Mary Louisa (Gaston) Gill, of South Carolina, the former one of seven brothers who were soldiers of the Revolutionary Army, under General Sumter, was wounded in the battle of Hanging Rock and again at Ft. Moultrie; grandson of John Gill, a native of North Ireland, of Scotch Presbyterian stock, who migrated to America in 1730, settling first in Lancaster County, Pa., later going with his family to Virginia and thence to Chester District, S. C., and of Capt. William Gaston, of South Carolina, one of nine brothers who fought in the Revolutionary Army, under General Sumter, seven of whom were in the battle of Ft. Moultrie, one died, three of whom were killed in the battle of Hanging Rock, and another a lawyer and judge of the county court and civil magistrate of Chester County, S. C.; great-grandson of John and Esther (Waugh) Gaston, the former migrated from north Ireland to Pennsylvania, later removed to South Carolina, and finally to Alabama, where he established a plantation, "Cedar Shoales," on the Cahaba River, the name being still preserved. Governor John Gill Shorter of Alabama was one of his descendants. The Gastons were French Huguenots, who after revocation of the Edict of Nantes sought refuge in Scotland, the family subsequently transferring to Ireland from whence the founder of the American branch, John Gaston, migrated to the United States. Dr. Gill was educated at the South Carolina college, Columbia, S. C., from which he graduated in medicine. In 1818 he emigrated to Alabama and settled at Fort Claiborne, where he practiced his profession until 1822, when he removed to Dallas County and settled near Cahaba. He then invested largely in negro slaves and the rich lands of the section, on which he erected a handsome plantation home, located on the Marion and Selma road, seven miles from Cahaba. He was a Whig in politics and strongly opposed to secession, although he loyally supported the Confederate cause after his State withdrew from the Union and became part of that government. He was a Presbyterian. Married: at "Craig's Hill," Dallas County, to Nancy Kilpatrick, daughter of Capt. James and Jane Elizabeth (Kilpatrick) Craig, who lived on their plantation near Selma, the former a soldier of the War of 1812, a native of Charleston, S. C., who removed first to near Nashville, Tenn., and in 1814, to Alabama, where he established his landed estate, "Craig's Hill." Children: 1. William Gaston, d. unmarried; 2. Mary Louisa Thomas, m. Reese Darrington Gayle (q. v.); 3. James Bruce, m. Sarah Jane Packer, Wilcox County, planter; 4. Jane Elizabeth, m. (1) Augustus Hatcher Jackson, of Troy, (2) James Washington Scott, Dallas County. Last residence: Cahaba.

GILLAM, HARRY JOHNSON, lawyer and legislator, was born January 4, 1852, near Dadeville, Tallapoosa County, and died suddenly at Wetumpka, August 12, 1904; son of Harry and Mary Ann (Johnson) Gillam, who resided near Dadeville. He was educated in the schools of his native county; attended Virginia military institute, 1870-71, University of Alabama, 1871-73, but left the latter institution to enter business. In 1875 he was admitted to the bar, and practiced at Dadeville and Alexander City. He was mayor of Dadeville, 1878-90; city councilman, 1878-1895; and a member of the legislature from Tallapoosa County, 1900-01. He was a Democrat; and a Methodist. Married: May 22, 1879, in Coosa County, to Pamela Newton Parker. Last residence: Alexander City.

GILLESPIE, JAMES, soldier of the American Revolution, private, particular service not disclosed; date of enrollment not given, payment dates from September 4, 1833; annual allowance, $80.—Pension Book, State Branch Bank, Mobile. He resided in Pickens County, with John O. Gillespie, aged 78 years, June 1, 1840.—Census of Pensioners, 1841, p. 149.

GILLESPIE, J. C., member of the constitutional convention of 1865, from Blount County.

GILLESPIE, JAMES McADORY, lawyer, was born July 11, 1856, near Jonesboro, Jefferson County; son of John Sharp and Martha Sadler (McAdory) Gillespie, natives respectively of Maryville, Blount County, Tenn., and of Jefferson County, the former who located in Shelby County and engaged in farming; grandson of William C. and Narcissa (Sharp) Gillespie, who lived near Maryville, Blount County, Tenn., and of Col. James and Nancy Tucker (Sadler) McAdory, who lived near Jonesboro, in Jefferson County; brother of Dr. John S. Gillespie (q. v.). He was reared on the home farm and obtained his early schooling from Mrs. Sue Hale Tarrant at Jonesboro, and from his uncle, Prof. Isaac W. McAdory, at Pleasant Hill, Blount County. He attended the southern university, 1873-1874, during the presidency of Dr. Allen S. Andrews, and remained on the farm until he was twenty-two years old. He then engaged in business for a short time with Chambers McAdory; studied law with R. A. McAdory; and began to practice in Birmingham in 1881, the firm being McAdory & Gillespie. Mr. E. J. Smyer was admitted to the firm in 1886. He was a member of the board of aldermen of the city of Birmingham, December, 1894-December, 1896, and was a member of the Jefferson County sanitary commission from February, 1901 to August, 1909. He is a Democrat, and a member of the Methodist Episcopal church, South. Married: November 11, 1885, at Old Jonesboro, Jefferson County, Mortimer Charles Jordan, daughter of Charles Scott and Margaret Whitmore (Sadler) Jordan, who lived near Jonesboro. Children: 1. Rose, Birmingham; 2. Alice, Birmingham. Residence: Birmingham.

GILLESPIE, JOHN S., physician, was born November 17, 1859, near Jonesboro, Jefferson County; son of John Sharp and Martha Sadler (McAdory) Gillespie, natives of Tennessee and Alabama, the former who came to Alabama, and settled in Bibb County, near Montevallo; grandson of William C. and Narcissa (Sharp) Gillespie, and of Col. James and Nancy Tucker (Sadler) McAdory, who lived on a farm near Jonesboro, Jefferson County. His parents both died when he was five years old, and he was reared by his grandparents, Col. and Mrs. McAdory. He spent his youth on the farm, attending the common schools, and the school under his uncle, Prof. I. W. McAdory, at Pleasant Hill. He clerked in a general store at Jonesboro for some time; entered the University of Alabama, October, 1876; studied medicine at the Miami medical college at Cincinnati, O.; and was graduated M. D., 1883. He at once began to practice medicine at Jonesboro; remained there for two years when he located in Scottsboro; and after a year, settled in Birmingham. In 1888, he was elected city physician of Birmingham, and served in that office for one year. He was elected county physician in 1892, and after holding that position for six years, resigned and gave up the practice of medicine in order to accept the office of city clerk of Jefferson County. He was clerk and register of the city court from 1898 to 1904. During the time he was practicing medicine, he was appointed on the staff of visiting physicians to the hospital of united charities of Birmingham. He was a member of the Democratic executive committee of Jefferson County for a number of years, and was chairman of that body, 1897-1899. He was a member of the State Medical Association, of the Jefferson County Medical Society, and of the Alabama Surgical and Gynecological Association. He is a Methodist; a Mason and a Knight of Pythias. Married: October 10, 1883, Mary Eugenia Owen, daughter of Thomas M. and Mary (Tarrant) Owen, of Jonesboro, Jefferson County. Children: 1. Thomas Owen, b. November 30, 1884, Birmingham; 2. Mary M.; 3. Sadie E.; 4. James M.; 5. John S., jr.; 6. Robert Rose. Residence: Birmingham.

GILLIS, DANIEL, cashier of the Citizens bank of Brewton; graduate of the Alabama polytechnic institute, B. S. degree, 1890, and M. S., 1891. Residence: Brewton.

GILLIS, H. M., Methodist minister, member of the Alabama conference; living in 1913. Residence: Castleberry.

GILMER, FRANCIS MERIWETHER, merchant; was born June 8, 1810, in Oglethorpe County, Ga., and died January 9, 1892, at Montgomery; son of Nicholas Meriwether and Amelia (Clark) Gilmer, who lived in Oglethorpe County, Ga., and near Oak Grove, Christian County, Ky., the former a native of Virginia, born May 25, 1776; grandson of John and Mildred (Meriwether) Gilmer, of Virginia. The earliest record of the Gilmer family is that of William Gilmer, of Edinburgh, Scotland, a lawyer, and one of the family which owned the castle estate of "Craigmillar." His son, George Gilmer, was born in 1700, was graduated from the University of Edinburgh, and went to London to practice medicine; while in London, he was employed by the Royal Land Company, which sent him to America to investigate the company's interests in the colony of Virginia. On his return to London, he found his wife, Mary Peachey Ridgeway, whom he had married just before he left for America, had died. He returned to Virginia, and after some time married a Miss Walker, who died, and later a Miss Blair. From those marriages has sprung the Gilmer family in the United States.

Mr. Gilmer was taken by his parents to Christian County, Ky., when he was three years old. He received a common school education in that county, and during his vacation days assisted in the farm work, especially in building plows, repairing wagons, and making shoes for his sisters and others. When he was about twenty years old, Abner McGehee, of Lowndes County, who had married his Aunt Jane, urged him to move to Alabama to clerk in his store at Hayneville. Mr. Gilmer accepted the position, and after a few months in Hayneville, was appointed by the board of education as instructor of the school at that place. He taught there until Mr. McGehee placed him in charge of his store in Montgomery. A year later, he bought the business, and obtained a large patronage from the farmers of the vicinity who raised great quantities of cotton. By reason of the control of that cotton, he purchased an interest in Col. Charles T. Pollard's warehouse. Soon after, Charles Gilmer bought out Col. Pollard's interest, and that partnership lasted until early in the fifties, when William Taylor took over Charles Gilmer's interest. The latter firm continued until 1868, after which time, Mr. Gilmer controlled the business alone. In 1861, Mr. Gilmer and Judge Hopkins of Mobile were appointed by Gov. Moore as commissioners to Virginia to confer with the Virginia legislature, then in session at Richmond, and urge the state to secede and join the other Southern states in a Southern Confederacy. This commission, through Mr. Gilmer's suggestion, brought about the nomination of Jefferson Davis as president, with the hearty approval of the Virginia delegation.

BRAXTON B. COMER

At the time of leaving his home in Kentucky to go to Alabama Mr. Gilmer had to drive his horse through, in the absence of railroads. He entered the northern part of Alabama in the vicinity of Athens, went down by Decatur, then through the mountainous section to Elyton, now Birmingham, on down to Montgomery, and then to Hayneville, his point of destination. Being of a very observant nature, he was much interested in the possibilities of the mineral deposits along his journey, especially of the section of the Elyton District. He resolved in his mind that should circumstance favor him, he would attempt to develop that section. That time seemed to be at hand, when in the early years of the fifties, he organized a company to build the South & North Alabama Railroad, which is now part of the L. & N. syndicate, from Montgomery to Decatur. He was the first president of the company, and his negroes did much of the labor connected with the construction of the road. He also organized the Red Mountain Iron & Coal Company, and the Arms Manufacturing Company, and was president of both companies. He was connected with the Central Bank of Alabama, and was its president at the time of the collapse of the Confederacy. He owned and operated several plantations in Lowndes County. He was a Democrat, a Methodist, and was president of the board of stewards of his church. Married: (1) May, 1838, at Montgomery, Sarah Eleanor Taylor, who died July, 1855, daughter of Dr. James Hunt and Elizabeth (McNickel) Taylor, of Montgomery; granddaughter of Gov. John Taylor of South Carolina: (2) 1857, Mrs. Martha Ann Grattan, who died in 1880; (3) 1886, Callie McKeithen, who survived him. Children, by first marriage: 1. James Nicholas, (q. v.); 2. Elizabeth Amelia, who resides at Seattle, Wash., m. Presley Wynn Donadson, deceased; 3. Francis Meriwether, d. July 19, 1865, at Montgomery; 4. Walker Micajah, d. June, 1854, at Montgomery; 5. Eleanor Witten, d. August, 1853, at Montgomery. Last residence: Montgomery.

GILMER, JAMES NICHOLAS, adjutant general of Alabama, was born March 20, 1839, at Montgomery; son of Francis Meriwether and Sarah Eleanor (Taylor) Gilmer (q. v.); grandson of Nicholas Meriwether and Amelia (Clark) Gilmer, of Christian County, Ky., and of Dr. James Hunt and Elizabeth (McNickel) Taylor, of Montgomery. He received a common school education in Montgomery and was graduated from the Georgia military institute at Marietta, April, 1858. He returned to Montgomery and entered the commercial field with his father. In the fall of 1859, he assisted in organizing a company known as the Metropolitan Guards, and was elected orderly sergeant and later lieutenant. This company participated in the taking of the Pensacola Navy Yard, and the barracks and forts at Barancas, on January 12, 1861, the day after the secession of both Florida and Alabama. In April, 1861, the Metropolitan Guards became Co. F, Third Alabama volunteer regiment, and were mustered into the C. S. Army at Lynchburg, Va. Mr. Gilmer was elected first lieutenant and remained with the company at Norfolk for a year. At the reorganization of the regiment, he accepted a staff position with the Hilliard Alabama Legion, and was appointed quartermaster and commissary of the First battalion of infantry. He was appointed adjutant general of the legion, and served as such until September, 1863, when he was assigned by Gen. A. Gracie to his staff as inspector general. In the reorganization of the legion into the Fifty-ninth and Sixtieth Alabama volunteers, he was assigned adjutant of the Sixtieth, and served as such to the close of hostilities. After the war, Mr. Gilmer returned to his business in Montgomery. In March, 1872, he organized a military company, of which he was first lieutenant until the formation of the Second Alabama state troops, when he was elected major of that command. He was promoted to lieutenant colonel and finally to colonel. In 1884, he was appointed by Gov. E. A. O'Neal adjutant general of the state, and chief of his staff. He held that position two years and then resigned to move to Tennessee. After living in Memphis for a year, he returned to Montgomery, remaining there until April, 1889, when he moved with his family to Seattle, Wash., where for more than twenty years he has been in the general collection business. Col. Gilmer has served as commander of the United Confederate Veterans of Seattle, Wash. He is a Democrat; an Episcopalian; a Knight of Pythias; and a Knight of Honor. Married: April 26, 1864, at Montgomery, Lizzie Boadicia, daughter of Col. Leonidas Virginus and Sarah Jane (Foster) Dixon, of Memphis, Tenn. Children: 1. Sarah Eleanor, m. Robert W. Shaw, Seattle, Wash.; 2. Ida May, d. in infancy;

3. Leonidas Dixon, m. Jeanie Gifford, Seattle, Wash.; 4. Frank Meriwether, m. Doxie Byrd McBryde, Montgomery; 5. Walker Donaldson, m. Maud Allen, Seattle, Wash.; 6. James Nicholas, jr., d. in infancy; 7. Elizabeth Wynn, m. Joseph Shippen, Seattle, Wash.; 8. Ernest Engelhardt, m. May Ahrens, Portland, Ore.; 9. Merritt Fisher, m. Opal Adair. Residence: Seattle, Wash.

GILMER, MORGAN SMITH, public official, was born November 30, 1846, six miles northeast of Hayneville, Lowndes County; son of George Nicholas and Caroline Frances (Smith) Gilmer, the former born in the Line Creek Settlement, twenty miles eastward from Montgomery, lived continuously in Lowndes and Montgomery Counties, except for the period of 1861-1865 during which he lived in Bossier Parish, La., the latter a student of Judson institute, now Judson female college, Marion, from the opening of its first session in 1838, to her graduation in 1841; grandson of Francis Meriwether and Martha Jemison (Barnett) Gilmer, the former, an uncle of Francis Meriwether Gilmer (q. v.), was born July 27, 1875, in Rockingham County, Va., moved to Oglethorpe County, Ga., in 1793, was married July 28, 1808, moved to Elbert County, Ga., and in the fall of 1818, to the Line Creek Settlement, where he and his wife lived and died, and of Morgan and Sarah (Johnson) Smith, who lived in or near Huntsville, and moved thence to Lowndes County; great-grandson of John Blair and Martha (Meriwether) Gilmer, married March 22, 1771; great-great-grandson of Dr. George Gilmer, born 1704 in Edinburgh, Scotland, immigrant in 1731 to Williamsburg, Va., where he died in 1747. Mr. Gilmer received his early education in the public schools or from private tutors, entered the preparatory department of East Alabama college at Auburn, 1860, and during the next year was a student in that college; after the War of Secession, he attended the Southern university at Greensboro until 1867. He farmed on his grandfather Gilmer's plantation in the Line Creek settlement 1869-1896; was clerk of the county court of Montgomery County, 1898-1908; tax assessor of the county, 1908-1913, and was renominated for another term of four years. He enlisted in a company of cadets at the University of Alabama, known as Shockley's Independent escort company, March, 1864, of which he was fore front private, and was paroled at Montgomery, May 30, 1865. He organized the "Yallerhammers," a society having organic relationship with the United Confederate Veterans of the state of Alabama, whose purpose is to inculcate respect for Confederates and the Confederacy. He was a Democrat; for seventeen years a member, from Pike Road beat, of the Democratic executive committee of Montgomery County; and was a member of the Methodist Episcopal church, South. He was author of two booklets, one a sketch of Shockley's company, and the other a review of the work of the "Yallerhammers." Married: (1) November 30, 1874, at Milan, Tenn., Martha Haden Barton; (2) September 10, 1883, at Snowdown, Helen, daughter of John Mulkey and Caroline (Winston) Barton, who lived in Logan County, Ky. Children: 1. Martha Haden, m. Gardner D. Owen, Montgomery. Last residence: Montgomery.

GILMER, PEACHY RIDGWAY, planter, was born in Georgia August 29, 1784, and died February 18, 1861; son of Thomas Meriwether and Elizabeth (Lewis) Gilmer, the former a native of Williamsburg, Va., who removed to Georgia about 1795 and located at the Broad River settlement, served as justice of the peace for some time, was once elected to the legislature, performed a tour of militia duty under Marquis Lafayette, and became a wealthy planter of that section; brother of William B. S. Gilmer (q. v.), James Jackson Gilmer and Mrs. Sophia Gilmer Bibb (q. v.); grandson of Peachy Ridgway and Mary (Meriwether) Gilmer, the former a native of Williamsburg, Va., who removed to Lethe, Rockingham County, Va., where he became a large planter and slave owner, and of Thomas and Jane (Strother) Lewis, of Virginia, the former commissioner of the Confederation, 1777, Revolutionary soldier under Gen. Washington and a member of the Virginia legislature; great-grandson of Dr. George and Mary Peachy (Walker) Gilmer, the former a native of Edinburgh, Scotland, who removed to London and was employed by the London land company to go to Virginia to manage the affairs of the firm, located in Williamsburg and became the leading physician, of Thomas and Rebekah (Mathews) Meriwether, of Georgia, the former a Revolutionary soldier under Lafayette, and of William and Margaret (Watts) Strother, of Stafford County, Va., who were members of the Broad River settlement, Ga.; great-great-grandson of Thomas and Susan Walker, of King and Queen County, Va., of Dr. Frank and Martha (Jamison) Meriwether, the former a native of Virginia, who removed to Georgia, 1784-5, the latter the sister of Col. Jameson, of the Virginia continental line, and of Gov. George Mathews, lieutenant colonel of the Ninth regiment of Virginia troops, first representative of Georgia in the U. S. congress and twice governor of that State. Peachy Ridgway Gilmer removed from Georgia to Montgomery County, Ala., and located on Catoma Creek. He was a man of industrious habits, a capital planter and acquired great wealth. He was a Democrat. Married: (1) to Mary Boutwell, daughter of Daniel and Sally (Taliaferro) Harvie, native of Virginia, who removed to Broad River settlement, Ga., the latter the sister of Col. Benjamin Taliaferro of Virginia, and (2) to Mrs. Caroline Thomas, widow of Col. Jet Thomas. Children: 1. Thomas, d. unm. 2. Robert, m. Mary Murray; 3. Sallie, m. Dr. James; 4. Eliza, m. James Blair Gilmer; 5. Martha, m. (1) Dr. John Gratton; (2) Francis M. Gilmer, jr. Last residence: Montgomery County.

GILMER, WILLIAM BENJAMIN STROTHER, planter, was a native of Georgia and died in Lafayette, Chambers County; son of Thomas Meriwether and Elizabeth (Lewis)

Gilmer, brother of James Jackson Gilmer, Peachy Ridgway Gilmer, (q. v.) and Mrs. Sophia Gilmer Bibb (q. v.), William B. S. Gilmer moved to Montgomery County, Ala., from Georgia and located with his brothers on Catoma Creek. He became one of the most influential men in this State and represented Montgomery County in the legislatures of 1834 and 1835. He removed to Lafayette, Chambers County, where he was the owner of a good deal of property. Married: Elizabeth, daughter of Nicholas Meriwether and Ann (Mathews) Marks, of Broad River settlement, Ga.; granddaughter of William and Elizabeth (Meriwether) Mathews, and of James and Elizabeth (Harvie) Marks, all of the Broad River settlement, and great-granddaughter of Gov. George Mathews, of Georgia. There were no children by this marriage, but there was a son by adoption. Children: 1. Frank Perry. Last residence: Lafayette, Chambers County.

GILMORE, GEORGE, soldier of the American Revolution, and a resident of Montgomery County; private, particular service not disclosed; enrolled on March 22, 1837, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $20.—Pension Book, State Branch Bank, Mobile.

GILMORE, JOHN, soldier of the American Revolution, a resident of Marengo County; private, particular service not shown; enrolled on April 26, 1836, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $21.66.—Pension Book, State Branch Bank, Mobile. He resided in Marengo County, June 1, 1840, aged 81.—Census of Pensioners, 1841, p. 148.

GILMORE, JOHN ARCADE, physician and member of the constitutional convention, 1901, was born March 1, 1856, at Choctaw Corners, Clarke County; son of Stephen M. and Susan (Slack) Gilmore, the former a prominent Methodist minister, the latter the daughter of a soldier of the War of 1812, who gave his life for the defense of his country; grandson of Humphrey Gilmore, who served as a private in the army of Gen. Nathaniel Greene, later located at Milledgeville, Ga., where he passed the remainder of his days. He received a good common school education; graduated 1886, as M. D. from the Louisville medical college, Ky.; entered upon the practice at Bethel, Wilcox County; removed in a short time to Thomasville where he now practices. For a number of years he served as a justice of the peace, his commission having been confirmed by Gov. R. W. Cobb. He was a member of the constitutional convention of 1901 from Clarke County. He is a Democrat; Methodist; Mason; and a Knight of Pythias. Married: (1) Kate Fontaine; (2) in 1892, to Olive, daughter of Oliver P. Slater, of Thomasville. Children, by second wife: John. Residence: Thomasville.

GILMORE, JOHN T., physician, member of the faculty of the medical department, University of Alabama, Mobile. Deceased. Last residence: Mobile.

GILPIN, BENJAMIN, soldier of the American Revolution, and a resident of Henry County; private in cavalry and infantry, particular service not shown; enrolled on March 30, 1838, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $86.67.—Pension Book, State Branch Bank, Mobile.

GIST, FRANK WHITTAKER, U. S. agricultural statistician, was born January 28, 1866, in Grenada, Miss.; son of Samuel Houston and Rosa (Greene) Gist (q. v.); grandson of Richard Gist, of Belle Font, Ala., and of Thomas Greene and wife, a Miss Gentry, of White County, Tenn. The Gist family came from England and settled first in Maryland, later in South Carolina. Mr. Gist was educated in the common schools of Bibb County and graduated from the Six-mile academy, of which Richard Hopkins Pratt, was president. He was printer and editor of Bibb "Blade," Calera "Journal," and Shelby "Chronicle;" a proof reader U. S. printing office, 1900-06; at present he is U. S. agricultural statistician. He is a Democrat; and served as chairman of fourth district congressional Democratic executive committee, 1899. Married: June 13, 1892, in Calera, to Minnie Jane, daughter of Ira and Arminda (Kellett) Campbell, of Jemison. Children: 1. Lillian Beryl, Montgomery. Residence: Montgomery.

GIST, SAM HOUSTON, publisher and editor, was born March 23, 1834, at Larkinsville, Jackson County, and died at Mountain Creek, July 13, 1915; son of Richard Gist, a farmer and tailor, who married a Miss Frazer, and lived in Larkinsville and Bellefont, Jackson County; grandson of Thomas Gist, born in Union District, S. C., who lived at Smithland, Ky., and in East Tennessee, and was probably the grandson of Nathaniel Gist, a general of the Revolution, and a nephew of Mordecai Gist, of Washington's staff. He was educated in the common schools, and became a printer and editor. He was connected as editor with the "Bellefont Advertiser," the Auburn "Intelligencer," the Bibb County "Blade," and the Calera "Journal"; was a private in the Forty-fourth Alabama regiment; sergeant and lieutenant in Co. F., Twenty-seventh Mississippi infantry, C. S. Army having entered the service March 20, 1861. He commanded his company at the battle of Nashville. He took a positive and active part in the recovery of the state politically and otherwise, from the effects of war. He was examiner of prisons in Shelby County, and founded the camp of Confederate veterans at Calera which bears his name. He is a Democrat, and was on the congressional district committee of the fifth district of Alabama in 1886. He is a member of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, and was at one time steward of his church; is a Mason and an Odd Fellow. Married: February 12, 1865, at Auburn, Rosa Greene, sister of William J. Greene, who was comptroller of Alabama at the outbreak of the War of Secession. Children: 1. Frank W. (q. v.); 2. Winifred, d. in infancy; 3. William Bonapart, d. in infancy. Last residence: Mountain Creek.

GIVEN, WILLIAM MATTHEWS, engineer, was born September 27, 1858, in Montgomery, and died June 12, 1912, at Irondale; son of Alexander Frederick and Susan Elizabeth (Dillard) Given, the former a native of County Tyrone, Ireland, who settled in Montgomery in 1844, three years after his arrival in the United States, and resided there until his death in 1888; grandson of Robert and Violette (Caldwell) Given, of County Tyrone, Ireland, and Reuben and Delilah (Ponder) Dillard, who lived near Elberton, Ga. His early education was acquired at the private schools of Prof. Thomas L. Bragg and Dr. William Bateman, and he was prepared at fifteen to enter the Virginia military institute, but the financial reverses of the period following the War of Secession made it expedient that he continue his education in Montgomery. He obtained his professional training through practical experience under the guidance of Erastus L. Milner and G. D. Fitzhugh, both eminent engineers. Mr. Given entered the profession as a consulting and mining engineer about 1884, at Redding, with the Morris Brother mines. He moved to Virginia in 1890, and continued his profession there and in Utah, returning to Birmingham in 1898. At the time of his sudden death, he was prospecting in Mississippi preparatory to reporting upon the grey ores of that state. He was professionally connected with the mining development of the states of Alabama, Virginia, Kentucky, Tennessee, Utah and Georgia. In 1911, he was a member of a committee of expert engineers selected to report to Gov. O'Neal in regard to the wisdom of leasing state convicts for employment in the Banner mines. He was also one of the committee of five appointed to represent the Republic steel & iron company in appraising the iron ore and coal deposits of the several companies prior to the consolidation of the Tennessee coal & iron company. The report of that committee was used by the Stanley investigating committee in August, 1911. He also passed upon the property of the Sayre mining & manufacturing company at Sayre, and developed and operated the property during 1903-1905. He was a Democrat; a Presbyterian; and a Mason. Married: November 11, 1885, in Birmingham, to Hortense, daughter of Erastus L. and Emily Fitzallen (Parsons) Milner, of that city. Mr. Milner was the first to hold the position of county engineer in Jefferson after the creation of the office in 1889. His first work was the construction of a public highway, with convict labor, laying the foundation of the great modern "good-roads" system in that county. Children: 1. William Morris; 2. Hortense Elizabeth. Last residence: Irondale.

GLASCOCK, THOMAS O., mayor of Montgomery, was born in 1808, at Edgefield Court House, S. C., deceased; son of Gen. John and Elizabeth (Simkins) Glascock, the former a native of Richmond County, Ga., who lived at Edgefield Court House, S. C., where he practiced law; grandson of Gen. Thomas and Mary (Bacon) Glascock, of Georgia, and of Eldred Arthur Simkins, of Edgefield, S. C. His ancestors were prominent factors in the colonial and Revolutionary periods of American history. His early education was obtained in the private schools of Augusta, Ga., where as a youth he resided with relatives. He moved to Alabama and for many years had charge of the land office at Montgomery. He was at one time mayor of the city of Montgomery, and was influential in state and municipal politics. He was a member of the staff of Gov. A. B. Moore. Originally he was a Democrat of the Andrew Jackson school, and later became a Republican and chairman of the executive committee of that party in Alabama. Married: at Montgomery, to Mary, daughter of Judge N. E. Benson (q. v.), of Montgomery. He had no children. Last residence: Montgomery.

GLASGOW, JAMES S., Methodist minister, member of the North Alabama conference; stationed, 1920, at McCalla, Jefferson County.

GLASS, BENJAMIN ALEXANDER, planter and soldier; was born October 24, 1796, near Charlotte, Mecklenburg County, N. C., and died October 20, 1864, at Selma; son of Benjamin and Mary (Alexander) Glass, natives of North Carolina and through the Alexanders traced his descent from Scottish nobility. A rudimentary education was acquired in the local schools of the period, supplemented in later years by extensive reading. Of a judicial mind he was esteemed by his contemporaries as a prudent counselor, and not only matters of equity between disputants, but also questions of theology and of law were laid before him. Devoting himself to agriculture he was a successful planter and aspired to no office other than justice of the peace which gave him the colloquial title of "Squire." In his early manhood he responded to the military demands of the pioneer country, and as an officer in the local company commanded by Captain Connolly he left Selma for Florida, to fight the Indians. In politics he was a Whig and bitterly opposed the growth of the new Democrats; and a Presbyterian. Being unfavorable to secret orders he affiliated with none except the "Sons of Temperance." Married: in 1830, at Valley Creek, near Selma, to Catharine, daughter of William and Catharine (Russell) Morrison of that place, the former was the leader of a large Scotch-Irish colony from North Carolina which formed the first white settlement in central Alabama, and established the first Presbyterian church in that section and probably the first in the State. So wide was his influence that he is mentioned in one of the histories of North Carolina as the "Apostle of the Valley." Children: 1. Katharine, m. Newton R.

Boggs; 2. Sarah, d. unm.; 3. Mary, m. Maj. T. H. Hopkins, of Selma. Last residence: Selma.

GLASS, FRANKLIN POTTS, publisher and editor, was born June 7, 1858, at Centreville; son of Benjamin F. and Caroline (Potts) Glass, the former a planter and business man of Bibb County. He was prepared for entrance to Princeton university in private schools in Alabama, and was graduated with honor from Princeton, A. B., 1877. In 1880, he founded the Bibb "Blade," in Bibb County, owned and controlled the property for a year, then bought the Selma "Daily Times," 1881, and moved to that city. In 1886, he bought a half interest in the Montgomery "Advertiser," and moved to Montgomery where he afterward assumed the management of the property. Later, when the property interests of the newspaper were organized into the Advertiser company, Mr. Glass was made secretary, treasurer and manager. He became editor-in-chief of the Birmingham "News," in 1910, and is vice-president of the company. He is a Democrat, a member of several associations of publishers, was a member of the board of directors of the Montgomery Commercial and Industrial Association, and a member of the board of trustees of the Carnegie library of Montgomery. He was an elder of the First Presbyterian church of Montgomery for twelve years. Married: April 2, 1884, Mattie Byrd Purnell, of Solitude, Dallas County, Tex. Children: Three sons and three daughters; the eldest son attended Princeton university. Residence: Birmingham.

GLAZE, THOMAS, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 89, resided in Fayette County, June 1, 1840.—Census of Pensioners, 1841, p. 148.

GLENN, B. C., sr., Methodist minister; member of the Alabama conference; living in 1913.

GLENN, CHARLES BOWLES, teacher and assistant superintendent of schools, was born December 1, 1871, at Auburn, Lee County; son of Emory Thomas and Helen Elizabeth (Ross) Glenn (q. v.). C. B. Glenn obtained early education in private and public schools in Auburn. In 1891 he was graduated from the general course of the Alabama polytechnic institute, Auburn. Held post-graduate scholarship in English, was assistant librarian, 1891-1892; in June, 1892, received masters degree. He taught as assistant in Southwest Alabama agricultural school at Evergreen, 1892-1895; proceeds enabled him to attend Harvard university from which he was graduated in June, 1896; taught in Evergreen, 1896-1898; principal of Paul Hayne school, Birmingham; in 1908 elected as assistant superintendent of schools, and still holds this position. He was president of Alabama educational association, 1904; advocated model plans for rural school houses; plans have been made, and extensively used in Alabama and elsewhere; in 1913 was president of Alabama teachers' and young peoples' reading circle. From 1908 to 1913 he was a member of the State text book commission. He is a Methodist; and a Mason. Author: several articles on methods of teaching, which have been printed in the State manual for elementary schools. Married: June 25, 1902, at Birmingham, to Elizabeth Roberts, daughter of Daniel White and Susan Ellen (Kean) Douglass, who lived at Bastrop, La.; granddaughter of Daniel Barnell and Cynthia Douglass whose family were immigrants from Scotland, and of Thomas Haslen and May (Cabarrus) Kean, the former born in 1799 in New Bern, N. C., and whose family came from Ireland; great-granddaughter of Augustus and Marie Dessere (Cherrier) Cabarrus, the latter a native of France, and whose family settled in Edenton, N. C. Children: 1. Elizabeth Susanne, d. in infancy; 2. Marie Augustine. Residence: Birmingham.

GLENN, EDGAR MASSILLON, Methodist minister, was born January 4, 1858, at Glenville, Barbour, now Russell County; son of Massillon McKendree and Barbara Wesley (Herndon) Glenn, the former born at Cokesbury, Abbeville District, S. C., came, about 1832, with his father to Alabama, lived at Glenville, a planter, served against the Creek Indians, 1836; brother of Eugene Herndon Glenn (q. v.); grandson of Rev. James E. and Elizabeth (Robinson) Glenn, who lived in the Carolinas, and at Glenville, after 1832, the former a native of Robeson County, N. C., a Methodist minister, settled Cokesbury, S. C., naming it in honor of Bishops Coke and Asbury, secured for the town a school which became noted, removed to Alabama about 1832, first lived among Indians, at their town site near the present Pittsview, Russell County, in 1835 settled Glenville, removed the following year on account of the hostile Indians, but at the close of the year he returned to this settlement, and of Stephen Herndon and wife, a Miss Conner, who lived at Cokesbury, S. C. Ancestors were Huguenots, came from the River Glenn, in France, to England, thence to America, settling first in Pennsylvania, migrating to Virginia and the Carolinas, representatives afterwards going to Georgia, Tennessee, Alabama and even farther. Rev. Dr. Glenn obtained his early education at Glenville and Enon; attended Southern university and Birmingham college, receiving from the latter the degree of A. B., 1902, and the same year the honorary degree of D. D. In April, 1879, at Glenville, he received license as a minister of the Methodist Episcopal church, South; in December, 1879, was admitted to the Alabama conference; was duly ordained as deacon and elder, and since 1888 has been a member of the North Alabama conference. He aided in locating Birmingham college at Owenton, 1897; for four years, 1898-1902, was president of the college; is secretary to the trustees of the college; was president of Athens college, 1902-1904; was secretary to the conference, 1905, which located at Montgomery the Woman's college of Alabama; in 1910 was a member of the General conference. He is at present stationed at Mt. Vernon. He is a Democrat; Mason; Odd Fellow; and a Knight of Pythias. He has written numerous, chiefly in church papers, and largely in regard to education and culture. Married: December 3, 1884, at Forkland, Greene County, to Mary Imogene, daughter of George Cherry and Susan Margaret (Gulley) Arrington, who lived at Forkland and at Birmingham, the former a Confederate soldier; niece of Col. E. S. Gulley of Sumter County, a Confederate officer. Ancestors of the Arringtons and Gulleys moved from North Carolina. Children: 1. George Arrington (q. v.); 2. Susie Herndon; 3. Claude Massillon; 4. Edgar McCarty. Residence: Mt. Vernon.

GLENN, EMORY THOMAS, planter and treasurer Alabama polytechnic institute, was born May 1, 1830, in Meriwether County, Ga., and died August 3, 1906, at Auburn; son of John Bowles Glenn (q. v.). He received early education at Glenville, Russell County, and attended college at Summerfield, Dallas County. He resided at Auburn, and before the War of Secession was treasurer of East Alabama college; was a planter until 1872, in which year he became treasurer of the Alabama polytechnic institute. He continued in this position until his death. He was a Democrat; a Methodist; a Mason; and a Knight of Honor. Married: October 26, 1852, to Helen Elizabeth, daughter of Isaac and Narcissa Whitfield (Sledge) Ross, jr. (q. v.), who lived at Oak Bowery; granddaughter of Chappell and Jane (Harris) Sledge and of Isaac and Parthenia (Brown) Ross, sr. (q. v.), and great-granddaughter of John Ross, who immigrated with two brothers, to Pennsylvania; related to the Sledge family of Greensboro, and to the Crommelin family of Montgomery. Children: 1. John Bowles, deceased; 2. Isaac, deceased; 3. Emory Thomas, deceased; 4. James Whitfield, deceased, m. (1) Elberta Holt; (2) Leona Robinson; 5. Walter Ross, m. Fannie Casey, lives in Birmingham; 6. Mary Parthenia, deceased; 7. Clara Elizabeth, m. William Perry, resides in Auburn; 8. Emory Thomas, deceased, m. Mamie Warren; 9. Maria Allen, succeeded her father as treasurer of the Alabama polytechnic institute, Auburn; 10. Willie Ella, m. Bowling Hall Crenshaw (q. v.), Auburn; 11. Charles Bowles (q. v.), m. Elizabeth Roberts Douglass, Birmingham; 12. Maude Helen, m. Harry Smith, Macon, Ga.; 13. John Bowles Ross, deceased. Last residence: Auburn.

GLENN, EUGENE HERNDON, lawyer and judge, was born October 26, 1843, at Glenville, Barbour County; son of Massillon McKendree and Barbara W. (Herndon) Glenn, the former a native of Abbeville District, S. C., lived at Glenville from 1834 until his death in 1889, was in the Creek War of 1836-37, serving on the staff of Gen. Winfield Scott, and was a member of the state convention of 1865; brother of Edgar Massillon Glenn (q. v.); grandson of James E. and Elizabeth (Robinson) Glenn, the former a Methodist minister, 1834-52, who emigrated from Abbeville District, S. C., to Randolph County, Ga., thence to Alabama, and of Stephen and Sarah (Conner) Herndon, who lived at Cokesbury, S. C. Judge Glenn was educated in the Glenville collegiate and military institute; student University of Alabama, 1861-62; detailed in June, 1862, by Gov. Shorter to drill Confederate army recruits at the recruiting station, Auburn; drill master, afterward sergeant-major and later adjutant of the 45th Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army; adjutant of the 1st Alabama infantry regiment, when General Johnston surrendered at Greensboro, N. C., and formed the regiment on its colors for its surrender to the Federal officer. He was for twelve years probate judge of Russell County, and represented the twenty-seventh senatorial district in the senate of 1907. He is a trustee of the University of Alabama. He is a Democrat; a Mason; and a Methodist. Married: February 8, 1877, at Villedale, Russell County, to Sarah Virginia, daughter of John G. and Frances Elizabeth (Collier) Evans. The Evans family formerly lived in Harris County, Ga., and in 1859 emigrated to Russell County. Children: 1. Evans Herndon; 2. Lucius Francis. Residence: Seale.

GLENN, GEORGE ARRINGTON, lawyer, was born March 22, 1888, at Birmingham; son of Rev. Edgar Massillon and Mary Imogene (Arrington) Glenn (q. v.). He received his early education in the public schools of Elyton, Attalla and Lafayette; attended Birmingham college, two years; was graduated from Vanderbilt university, Nashville, Tenn., B. S., 1913; and from the law school of the University of Alabama, LL. B., 1914. He entered the practice of law at Gadsden, in June, 1914, and continued in that occupation until June 19, 1916, when the Alabama national guard was called into Federal service for duty on the Mexican border. He served as second lieutenant, Co. F, Fourth Alabama infantry, January 15, 1916, to April 15, 1917; as first lieutenant, Co. B, Fourth Alabama infantry, April 16, 1917, to August 4, 1917; as first lieutenant, Headquarters company, 167th infantry, 42nd (Rainbow) division, August 5, 1917 to September 3, 1918; was promoted to the rank of captain, September 4, 1918, and placed in command of the First battalion, 167th infantry from September 21, 1918 until December 5, 1918, when he resumed command of the headquarters company; was promoted to the rank of major, March 3, 1919; and honorably discharged from the U. S. Army at Camp Gordon, Georgia, October 28, 1919. Maj. Glenn took part in the defensive on the Lorraine front, Baccaret sector, sub-sector Vacqueville, and on the Champagne-Marne, in the defense of Chalons; in the offensive at Aisne-Marne, the Chateau-Thierry salient, at the St. Mihiel salient, and at Meuse-Argonne. He was with the army of occupation at Sinzig-am-Rhein, the station of the 167th infantry, and returned to the United States in April, 1919. He is a Democrat, a Methodist, and a member of Sigma Nu college fraternity. Residence: Birmingham.

GLENN, JAMES MCCOY, Methodist minister, was born May 12, 1869, at Greenville; son of Rev. James W. and Frances Elizabeth (Reid) Glenn. Mr. Glenn received his early education at Dayton; in 1885-86, attended the Alabama high school at Tuskegee; in 1886 entered the Southern university, graduating, A. B., 1888, and A. M., 1891; was one of the editors of the "Southern university monthly"; spent two years in Alabama conference M. E. church, South; owing to throat affection was variously occupied or taught until 1899; since which time he has been regularly in the itinerant work of the conference; was editor of the Alabama "Christian Advocate" for a number of years, and is now serving at Flomaton and Pollard. Author: "The Sacred Scriptures," which has passed through several editions; and has contributed numerous articles to Northern and Southern periodicals. He is a Mason; a Woodman of the World; and a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon college fraternity. Married: December 20, 1899, at Midway, to Cora L., daughter of W. E. Robertson, a veteran of the Fifteenth Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army. Children: 1. Elizabeth Frances; 2. Cora Lee; 3. Mary Katherine; 4. Olivia Cope; 5. James William. Residence: Pollard.

DR. VIVIAN P. GAINES

GLENN, JOHN BOWLES, Methodist minister, was born April 6, 1786, in Chester District, S. C., and died August 9, 1869, at Auburn; son of James and Elizabeth (Bowles) Glenn of Cumberland County, Va.; grandson of Benjamin Bowles; great-grandson of James Glenn of Cumberland County, who in 1735 bought land in Chester and Union Counties, S. C., and was a Revolutionary soldier, serving with Washington's army when Cornwallis surrendered at Yorktown. Glenn had only three months in school, but by diligent application he became an educated man. He joined the South Carolina conference in 1809, and was at once given the Apalachee circuit; in 1811 the Ochoopee circuit; was stationed in North Carolina, 1813; in Charleston, S. C., 1814; Fayetteville, N. C., 1815; and Augusta, Ga., 1816. He was a member of the general conference, held in Baltimore, the second delegated general conference of American Methodism. In 1817 he was appointed to Enoree circuit. In 1820, following the custom in regard to married ministers he was located. He commenced farming that year in Jones County, Ga., and later located in Meriwether County. In 1837 he removed to Barbour County, Ala., and with his kinsman, Rev. James E. Glenn, helped to make of "Glennville," one of the most desirable villages in the state. In 1847 he removed to Auburn where he remained until his death. In his services as minister in a pioneer county he always urged upon the people the importance of school houses and churches. In 1855 when the Alabama conference began its wonderful educational movement, he lent his strong support. He aided the movement that resulted in the founding of the East Alabama college, located at Auburn, and urged the fostering care of the church for the institution. He made the first contribution to the fund and was made president of the board of trustees, a place he held until his death. He was superintendent of the Sunday school at Auburn for many years, and made a deep impression upon the spiritual life of his time. He was a Whig. Married: in 1820, to Maria, daughter of Dr. James and Jane Eliza (McGehee) Allen of Putnam County, Ga.; granddaughter of Col.

John Allen, an officer in the Revolution, a member Virginia Convention, 1776, member Privy council, 1780, member Federal convention of 1788 from Surry County, and of Daniel and Jane (Hodnett) McGehee, who rendered material aid to the continental cause; great-granddaughter of Col. John Allen of Clairmont, member of the house of delegates, 1774-86-87-88, a member of the council, who died in 1799, and of a Major Hodnett, who commanded "Hodnett's Horse" in the Revolution; great-great-granddaughter of Maj. Arthur Allen who patented lands in Surry County, Va., in 1649. Children: 1. Mandana; 2. Z. M., m. Nicholas Jackson; 3. Cornelia, m. Rev. W. A. McCarty; 4. Ann, m. Dr. W. H. Lamar (q. v.); 5. Melissa H., m. M. A. Holt; 6. Emory Thomas, m. Elizabeth H. Ross; 7. Sarah S., m. Rev. Mark S. Andrews (q. v.). Last residence: Auburn.

GLENN, M. M., member of the constitutional convention of 1865, from Barbour County.

GLENN, ROBERT JAMES, planter, was born February 27, 1816, in Hancock County, Ga., and died May 5, 1858, at Montgomery; son of Robert Billups and Mary (Lewis) Glenn, who lived at Coosada, near Montgomery; grandson of Francis and Lucy (Dudley) Lewis; great-grandson of John Lewis who was fifty years old at the beginning of the Revolution, but had three younger brothers, Nicholas, William and Charles, serving as officers in the Colonial Army; great-great-grandson of Robert Lewis, of Belvoir, born in 1726, who married Catherine Fauntleroy, and had a numerous family. Mr. Jefferson, in his biographical sketch of Meriwether Lewis, speaks of the family as one of the most distinguished of Virginia. One of Mr. Glenn's great-grandfathers married a sister-in-law of Gen. Sumter, and while he fought in Sumter's army, his wife and her sister, Mrs. Sumter, sought refuge in the high hills. Mr. Glenn was a planter. He was an Episcopalian. Married: (1) May 10, 1847, at Marion, Mary Caroline, daughter of William Easley and Eliza Paul (Townes) Blassingame, who lived at Marion, the former was one of the first trustees of Judson institute, and when the institute was opened four of the first fourteen pupils were his children; sister of Aurelia Blassingame, who became the wife of Gov. Fitzpatrick; and a descendant of John Blassingame, a major in the Revolution and a general in the War of 1812; (2) Harriet Ware, of Uniontown. Children, by first marriage: 1. Mary Blassingame, m. Judge Robert C. Brickell (q. v.); by second marriage: none of the children survive, but there are three grandchildren, Charles Peacher of Montgomery, Annie Peacher, m. Chanler Copeland, and Lela Peacher, m. Eugene Ware, Birmingham. Last residence: Montgomery.

GLENN, ROBERT LEE, banker, real estate broker, and promoter of waterpower and water transportation on the Tennessee River, was born February 20, 1864, in Florence, Lauderdale County, and died at that place January 27, 1916; son of Walter and Eliza (Butler) Glenn, the former a native and life time resident of Florence, who taught in the city schools there, entered the Confederate Army, April, 1861, as commissary sergeant in Co. K, 7th Alabama infantry regiment, was captured in 1863 and held in the Federal prison at Rock Island, Ill., until 1865; grandson of Walter and Nancy Agnes (McBride) Glenn, the former a merchant and planter, a native of Ireland who migrated to America in 1800, located in Allegheny County, Borough of Pittsburg, Pa., where he married, in 1804, and with his wife moved to Florence, Ala., in 1824, there bought property and located a home that still remains in the family, and of William and Eliza (Lee) Butler, of Rogersville, Lauderdale County, the latter a native of Virginia. Mr. Glenn received his preparatory education in the city schools of Florence, and later attended Wesleyan college, now the State normal school of that place. His first business experience was that of a traveling salesman. Later he became a real estate broker in Florence and throughout Lauderdale County. In 1905, he organized the Alabama trust and savings bank, of which he was president until his death. He was also the southern representative of the Bank of America of New York City. With his ever growing influence and increasing means, Mr. Glenn centered his energies upon the material and civic advancement of his town and section. He was a consistent advocate of the development of the Tennessee River, both as to its water power and navigation, and throughout his entire business career urged both local and national support of this project. He was a Democrat and in 1912, was sent by his party as a delegate to the national convention that met in Baltimore. His interest in education was deep and as a trustee of the State board of normal schools, he lent valuable counsel to the welfare and development of the teacher-training system of the commonwealth. He was also a director of the Alabama Presbyterian college for boys, at Anniston. With a full appreciation of his ability as a military adviser, he was appointed, as a member of their staffs, by both Gov. Emmet O'Neal and Gov. Charles Henderson. He was a Presbyterian; a Mason; Knight of Pythias; and an Elk. Married: September 7, 1893, at Monroe, La., to Maimie Cecelia, daughter of Timothy and Joe Anna Hayes of that place. Children: 1. Robert Lee, lawyer, Florence; 2. Walter H., insurance and real estate, Florence; 3. J. Hayes, student; 4. Cecelia, student. Last residence: Florence.

GLENNON, JAMES KETCHUM, business man, was born August 5, 1847, in Philadelphia, Pa.; son of James and Catherine Glennon, natives of Mullingar County, Westmeath, Ireland, who emigrated to America over a half century ago, finally locating in Alabama. His early education was received in the private schools of Amos Towle of Mobile, and in 1860 he entered Spring Hill college. When a lad of thirteen he became the office boy of Dr. George A. Ketchum; at sixteen became bookkeeper for the drug firm of O. F. Cawthorn, at eighteen took a like position with Price Williams & son, real estate and money brokers. He was admitted as a partner in 1873 and at the death of Mr.

Williams in 1884 purchased the interest of his estate, the firm name since being James K. Glennon & co. He was elected director of the Peoples bank at that time; was one of the charter members of the Electric light co., and of the Home telephone co.; organized and obtained the charter for the Central trust co.; was active in the good roads movement in his county; was for several years president of the Manassas club and has been upon the governing board of that and the Athelstan club; is a member of several of the mystic societies and other social organizations. He is a Democrat; a Roman Catholic; and a Knight of Columbus. He was too young to participate in the War of Secession. He has been a member of the Mobile rifles, captain of the Lamar rifles, and aide-de-camp, with rank of major on the staff of Gen. J. W. Whiting, commander Alabama State militia. Married: April 21, 1873, in Mobile, to Florence, daughter of Uriah A. and Maria Z. (Watson) Barlow, a North Carolina family but natives of Virginia, related to the Fairfaxes. Children: 1. Katherine Valentine, m. Mathias Mahorner, jr.; 2. Lovie Agnes, m. Jack Ponder; 3. Florence Marie; 4. John Francis, m. Lila McNeill, 5. James Hope, m. Rella Welds; 6. Grace; 7. Zelpah, deceased. Residence: Mobile.

GLOVER, ALFRED YOUNG, planter, was born January 10, 1837, at Mobile; son of Williamson Allen and Amelia Tilghman (Walton) Glover, the former a native of South Carolina, lived at Rosemont, Greene County; grandson of William and Justina (Generick) Walton, who died at Strawberry Hill, Greene County. He was educated in the schools in the vicinity of his home; at the Green Springs academy under Professor Henry Tutwiler; at the University of Alabama, but did not complete the course; graduated at the South Carolina college, in 1855; entered upon the practice of law, at Friar's Point, Miss., as junior partner of the late Senator James L. Alcorn; enlisted in Co. A, 43d Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army, in 1862, remaining with this command until captured at Hatcher's Run, Va., March 31, 1865; was paroled from Point Lookout, Md., June 20, 1865. After the war he returned to Forkland; was a member of the commissioner's court of Greene County from 1874 to 1878; a representative from that county in the house, 1896-97, and was re-elected a member of the house in November, 1902. He has been a cotton planter all his life. He is a Democrat; and an Episcopalian. Married: November 11, 1858, at Columbus, Miss., to Antoinette Bibb, daughter of Dr. Samuel B. and Eliza Antoinette (Bibb) Malone, the former a surgeon in the United States Navy; granddaughter of John Danbridge Bibb, elder brother of William Wyatt Bibb (q. v.) and Thomas Bibb (q. v.). Alabama's first two governors. Residence: Forkland.

GLOVER, ALLEN, pioneer merchant and planter, was born April 6, 1770, in Edgefield District S. C., and died September 1840, in Marengo County; son of Col. Joseph Glover, of South Carolina, a Revolutionary soldier, who commanded the First regiment South Carolina line, 1775, and who died at his plantation, "Poupon" August 6, 1783. He was educated in the schools of South Carolina; was an extensive planter, and in 1819, removed with his family, several brothers, his slaves, flocks and herds to Marengo County, Ala., where they bought lands from discontented French colonists and erected log dwellings, schoolhouse and stores. He traded with the Indians, his little daughter stringing beads for this trade; slowly established a great planting interest, and was one of the founders of the present city of Demopolis. He was a Democrat; and a Methodist. Married: (1) April 17, 1803, to Sarah Serena, daughter of Williamson Norwood of Abbeville, S. C., (2) Miss Pearson. Children: by the first wife, 1. Allen; 2. Williamson, m. Amelia T. Walton; 3. Sarah Serena, m. Francis S. Lyon; 4. Mary, m. Col. Innis Thornton; 5. Aletha, m. (1) Dr. James Davenport, who established the first Episcopal church in Demopolis; (2) Col. Graham, of Eutaw, (3) Dr. Weisager, of Louisville, Ky.; 6. Willy Ann, m. Dr. Goodman G. Griffin (q. v.); by the second wife; 7. Pearson Glover, who m. Mary Walton of Dayton, and had two daughters, one m. Mr. Dryer, of Birmingham, the other m. Dr. May and moved to New York. Last residence: Marengo County.

GLOVER, BENJAMIN, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 81, and a resident of Madison County; private Maryland Militia; enrolled on January 24, 1833, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $46.66; sums received to date of publication of list, $139.98.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34.

GLOVER, BENJAMIN ROBERT, planter and civil engineer, was born April 21, 1832, at White Hall, Marengo County, and died January 22, 1872, at Greenwood, Fla.; son of Benjamin II and Mary Amanda Fitz Allen (Hughes) Glover, of Edgefield District, S. C.; grandson of Benjamin I and Mary (Oliver) Glover, the former a son of Col. Joseph Glover, a Revolutionary soldier who died at his plantation home "Poupon" in Edgefield District, S. C., August 6, 1783. The Glover family came originally from Scotland and settled in South Carolina many years before the Revolution. In 1819, Benjamin I and Allen Glover, brothers, removed from Edgefield to Alabama, settling in Marengo County, buying lands from the French colonists of Demopolis. Mr. Glover was educated in the log school houses of those pioneer regions, but taught by such teachers as Thomas Walthall Price, and Dr. Kittrell of Dayton, later he entered Henry Tutwiler's school at Greene Springs, where he completed the course of civil engineering. He applied himself successfully to farming in Wilcox County, making engineering incidental. In 1859, he removed to Greenwood, Fla., on the Chipola River. He was a Democrat; and a Methodist. He was a Confederate soldier of the Sixth Florida infantry regiment and was permanently disabled at the battle of Chickamauga. Married:

July 6, 1859, in Dayton, to Mary Elizabeth, daughter of Dr. John Cosert and Martha Jamison (Meriwether) Dansby, of Oglethorpe County, Ga.; and great-granddaughter of Francis and Martha (Jamison) Meriwether, of Virginia. Children: 1. Benjamin Oliver, unmarried; 2. Francis Dansby, m. Lula Belle Gillum, of Brewton; 3. Willey Mildred, m. Francis Meriwether Mathews, of Mathews Station; 4. Mary Robert, m. Napoleon August Saportas of New York. Last residence: Greenwood, Fla.

GLOVER, CATO DOUGLAS, lawyer, register in U. S. land office, was born June 10, 1863, at Forkland, Greene County; son of Williamson Allen and Mary S. (Hayden) Glover, who lived near Forkland, the former a native of Edgefield, S. C., born March 10, 1804, who moved to Demopolis with his father and mother when a child, and at twenty-one years of age moved to his plantation near Forkland, dying in Forkland, February 7, 1879; grandson of Allen and Sarah (Norwood) Glover (q. v.), and of Robert Hayden, who lived at Columbus, Miss., until he moved to Huntsville, Tex. He received his early education in the country schools of Forkland, and was graduated from the law school of the University of Alabama, B. L., 1891. Later he attended business college in Poughkeepsie, N. Y. He began practicing law in Russellville in 1891, and later moved to Texas. He returned to Alabama, settled in Centreville, and practiced law in Bibb County for twelve years. He moved to Gadsden, June 20, 1904, remaining there until June 23, 1913, when he was appointed register in the U. S. land office at Montgomery. He is a Democrat and an Episcopalian. Married: January 10, 1893, in Tuscaloosa, Emma D., daughter of Charles Clinton and Mattie Corlette (White) Seed; granddaughter of Charles White of Hope, Ark. Children: 1. Charles Williamson, b. January 26, 1895, at Blocton, attended the University of Alabama, leaving school in 1916 to join the signal corps serving on the Mexican border, when war was declared with Germany, enlisted in the U. S. Army, was commissioned captain, and after the armistice, was stationed in Coblenz, Germany; 2. Cato Douglas, jr., b. September 15, 1898, in Centreville, attended Marion institute, the University of Alabama, and was graduated at Annapolis as an ensign, June 6, 1919; 3. Williamson Allen, b. January 15, 1905, in Gadsden, a student in the military course at Barnes school, Montgomery. Residence: Montgomery.

GLOVER, JOHN THOMAS, lawyer and legislator, was born May 14, 1864, at Richmond, Twiggs County, Ga.; son of John Thomas and Cleopatra Victoria (Strozer) Glover, the former was born in 1837, was a lawyer in Albany and Dawson, Ga., successively, enlisted as a private in Co. I, 6th Georgia infantry regiment, C. S. Army, was promoted lieutenant, and was afterward made adjutant of his regiment, after the cessation of hostilities resumed the practice of his profession in Twiggs County, Ga.; grandson of Thomas and Elizabeth (Pittman) Glover, the former an immigrant from Ireland, who located in Nash County, N. C., emigrated in 1820, to Twiggs County, Ga., where he became an extensive cotton planter, and of Peter Jacob and Rhoda (Glover) Strozer, of Albany, Ga. He was educated in the common schools; removed in 1885, to Talladega, and in 1887, to Birmingham; studied law and was admitted to the bar in Birmingham in 1896, where he has since practiced his profession. He was one of the representatives of Jefferson County in the legislature of 1907. He is a Democrat; an Elk; and a Knight of Pythias. Married: August 3, 1890, at Lithia Springs, Ga., to Jennie Ensley, daughter of Thomas and Mattie (Couch) Arnall. Mrs. Glover died in Philadelphia, March 14, 1907. Children: 1. Thomas Arnall; 2. Martha Virginia. Residence: Birmingham.

GLOVER, PHILIP S., lawyer, was born about 1818, and died in Livingston, February 11, 1848; son of a brother of Allen Glover (q. v.); grandson of Col. Joseph Glover, a Revolutionary soldier of South Carolina, who served in the first regiment South Carolina line, and was promoted to be colonel and who died at his plantation home "Poupon," in Edgefield District, S. C., August 6, 1783. He was well educated, and trained to the law, becoming partner of Judge Henry Scruggs. He was a representative in the State legislature from Sumter County for several terms and was serving thus at the time of his death. The legislature which was in session at Tuscaloosa, passed resolutions, adjourned out of respect, and attended his funeral in a body, the pall-bearers being fellow members. He was a Democrat; an Odd Fellow; and a Baptist. Married: about 1845, to Frances Torrey, of Monroe County. Last residence: Livingston.

GODBEY, E. W., lawyer; living in 1913. Residence: Decatur.

GODBOLD, CADE M., public official, was born March 20, 1809, at Marion, S. C., and died October 16, 1878, at Bay Minette; son of Nathaniel and Rachael Godbold, who also lived at Marion, S. C., but removed to Alabama in 1810, and settled near St. Stephens, with a family of ten children, the former a soldier of the Revolution. The Godbolds were of German origin. He was U. S. marshal prior to the sixties and quartermaster sergeant during the War of Secession. He was a Democrat; and a Mason. Married: July 13, 1842, at Carpenter Station, Baldwin County, to Mary Ann, daughter of Charles and Mary (Byrne) Hall of that place; granddaughter of Charles and Elliene (Dupree) Hall, the former a native of England who came to America prior to the Revolutionary War, in which he participated, removed to Georgia, and settled later in Alabama, and of Gerald and Ann (Palmer) Allman Byrne, of Georgia. Children: 1. Ann Hall; 2. Aurelia Mary; 3. James Dargan; 4. Florence VanDorn, m. David Crawford Byrne (q. v.); 5. Burwell Boykin, m. Kate Bidgood Drake; 6. Octavia Marcy, m. William Alfred Smith Haynie; 7. Grace; 8. Cade M., jr. Last residence: Bay Minette.

GODBOLD, NORMAN DOSIER, lawyer and State senator, was born April 1, 1877, at Bethel, Wilcox County; son of Leonard William and Alice Harriet (Ratcliffe) Godbold, both of Wilcox County, the former a planter who spent his entire life in the vicinity of the place of his birth; grandson of Leonard Dosier and Harriet (Shamburger) Godbold, and of Leonidas and Sarah (Sellers) Ratcliffe, all of Wilcox County. Mr. Godbold was educated in the private schools in Bethel, and at the State normal college, Florence, from which he graduated, 1894; in 1895, he received LL. B. degree from the University of Alabama. Entering upon the practice of law at St. Stephens in 1895, he continued there until 1898, when he removed to Pine Hill; since 1900 he has practiced at Camden. He served as county solicitor of Washington County, 1895-96; member of the legislature from Wilcox County, 1898-99; solicitor of Wilcox County, 1904; mayor of Camden, 1905-06; and State senator from the twenty-second senatorial district, 1911. He is a Democrat; Presbyterian; Mason, Knight of Pythias; and a Knight of Honor. Married: June 25, 1902, at Camden, to Irene, daughter of William Thomas and Eva (Bell) Alford, of Mobile; granddaughter of Joseph and Martha (Jones) Bell, and of William T. and Eliza (Primm) Alford. Children: 1. Evelyn; 2. Norman D., jr. Residence: Camden.

GODBOLD, RICHARD I., farmer and Confederate soldier, was born in 1845, in Dallas County, on the Alabama River, and died November 28, 1873, in Rockdale, Tex., of yellow fever. His father belonged to the pioneer Godbold family of Dutch Bend, Autauga County. While attending the State university he ran away and joined the Confederate Army, enlisting in Co. A, Third Texas cavalry. Incapacitated by wounds, in 1862, he was made C. S. depot agent for Wood County, Tex.; and served in other clerical positions until the close of the War of Secession. He was a farmer. Married: September 8, 1869, in Marshall, Tex., to Mary W. Pierce. Children: 1. Mary, m. A. L. Brooks, of Montgomery. Last residence: Rockdale, Tex.

GODFREY, LAWRENCE DECATUR, lawyer, was born February 10, 1842, at Jones Bluff, now Epes Station, near Gainesville, Sumter County; son of Dozier and Margaret (Phillips) Godfrey, who lived at Jones Bluff; grandson of William and Elizabeth (Dozier) Godfrey, the former of whom moved from South Carolina to St. Stephens when that place was the capital of the state, and later moved to Sumter County, and of Maj. John Phillips, who lived at St. Stephens, Washington County, and moved to Sumter County about the same time as Mr. Godfrey. He received his early education in the common schools, in the boarding school of John H. Sherald, near Livingston, in Somerville institute, Noxubee County, Miss., and attended the Southern university at Greensboro until the beginning of the War of Secession. He enlisted as a private in the Fifth Alabama infantry, and was wounded, losing his right arm, in the battle of Seven Pines,

May 31, 1862. After the war, he studied law; was admitted to the bar in Gainesville, Sumter County, in 1873; and moved to Bessemer, Jefferson County, January, 1903. He was mayor of Gainesville, 1880-1888, 1889, 1891-1893, 1900-1903; represented Sumter County in the lower house of the legislature, 1884, 1885, 1901, 1902; was elected to the State senate, 1888-1889, and 1890-1891; and was elected solicitor of the sixth judicial district, 1892-1898. He is a Democrat, a Methodist and was a delegate to the general conference of Methodists, held in St. Louis in 1890. Married: January 2, 1866, at Gainesville, Nannie Temple, daughter of Blake Baker and Nancy (Barret) Woodson, of Gainesville. Children: 1. Blake Woodson, A. B., b. March 26, 1876, assistant secretary, Y. M. C. A., Luna O., 1897-1898, general secretary, Y. M. C. A., Athens, Ga., 1898-1899, and at Bristol, Tenn., 1899, army secretary, Spanish War, 1898; 2. Baker, b. April 16, 1878, railway clerk, Meridian, Miss. Residence: Bessemer.

GOETZEL, S. H., pioneer publisher. Last residence: Mobile.

GOGGANS, ALEXANDER, soldier of the American Revolution, was born in Richmond County, Va., January 14, 1758. In early life, his parents emigrated to Newberry District, S. C. Young Goggans was an active soldier in the Revolutionary service. He was in Col. Williams' command at the battle of King's Mountain, where he was wounded in the left shoulder. Sometime afterwards while with a scouting party, he was wounded in the left leg. And again, in another skirmish, he was struck down by a severe sabre stroke on the head and left upon the field for dead. After his recovery from this third wound, he rejoined his comrades and continued an active partisan to the end of the war. After peace was made, Mr. Goggans married Mary Dashields, who died in 1800. About 1815, he married Elizabeth Kilpatrick. After many years' residence in South Carolina, he emigrated to Lincoln County, Tenn. Thence in 1819 he emigrated to Lawrence County, Ala., where he resided until the death of his wife in 1836. He then moved to Carroll County, Ga., where he died March 21, 1852, in the triumphs of a living Faith. He was buried the next day with military honors in the graveyard at Bethany church.—Condensed from a sketch in Jacksonville Republican, Jacksonville, Ala., June 8, 1852.

GOING, J. A., business man. father of Rufus Going. Deceased. Last residence: Birmingham.

GOLDSBY, GEORGE W., lawyer, was the son of Col. Thornton Boykin Goldsby, and the twin brother of Col. Thomas J. Goldsby (q. v.) and Guy Smith Goldsby (q. v.). He was highly educated in a northern college, and settled for the practice of law in Perry County; was a member of the house of representatives from that county, 1849 and 1851. Garrett says of him, "Public Men of Alabama," p. 535, "Mr.

Goldsby was a gentleman of modest, unpretending address, and possessed a good heart, a kind disposition, and talents which, had he been thrown at once upon his own resources, would have worked his way to improvement and probably distinction." Married: Catherine Harrell. Children: 1. Thornton Boykin, student University of Alabama, 1864-65, druggist and planter, never married, d. May, 1876; 2. George T., removed to Louisiana. Last residence: Perry County.

GOLDSBY, GUY SMITH, planter, was born October 18, 1832, and died in 1852; son of Thomas Boykin Goldsby, and brother of Thomas J. (q. v.) and George W. Goldsby (q. v.). He was educated in the schools of Dallas County and in 1848 entered the University of Alabama from Summerfield; graduated A. B., 1851. Dr. W. S. Wyman said of him: "He was as modest as a woman, and the courtliest man he ever knew at the University of Alabama." He was unmarried. Last residence: Summerfield.

GOLDSBY, JOEL WALKER WINSTON, lawyer and State senator, was born November 24, 1862 at Selma, Dallas County; son of Col. Thomas Jefferson and Mary Agnes (Winston) Goldsby (q. v.). Mr. Goldsby was educated in the private school of Hon. Joseph W. Taylor, of Eutaw, at Washington and Lee university, but did not complete his course; and attended the summer school of the University of Virginia. He entered public life as a member of the house of representatives of 1892; and in the same year was appointed census supervisor of the first district in Alabama. He was a member of the senate of 1903 from the 33rd senatorial district. He is a lawyer in the active practice in Mobile. He is a Democrat; an Elk; and a Presbyterian. Married: October 7, 1885, at Lexington, Va. to Agnes Reid, daughter of Prof. James Jones and Mary Louise (Reid) White, the former was on the staff of Gen. Stonewall Jackson and later of Gen. Robert E. Lee, and for a long time filled the chair of Greek at Washington and Lee university. Children: 1. Mary Easley; 2. Louise Reid Winston; 3. Isabelle White; 4. Winston; 5. Reid White; 6. Joel. Residence: Mobile.

GOLDSBY, THOMAS JEFFERSON, planter, was a native of Georgia; son of Thornton Boykin and Sarah Warren (Smith) Goldsby; twin brother of George W. Goldsby (q. v.), and brother of Guy S. Goldsby (q. v.). He was educated at Yale and Princeton, and was a planter. During the War of Secession he served as captain Co. A, Fourth Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army, and later as its lieutenant-colonel. He was a Democrat. Married: Mary Agnes, daughter of John Anthony Winston (q. v.). Children: 1. John Anthony, d. young; 2. Mary Easley, d. unm.; 3. John Anthony, m. Belle Seawell, both deceased; 4. Joel W. W. (q. v.), m. Agnes Reid White, of Lexington, Va.; 5. Thomas J., d. young; 6. George Edmund, d. young. Last residence: Mobile.

GOLDSBY, THORNTON BOYKIN, pioneer settler, was born September 14, 1796, in Georgia, and died September 4, 1858, at Summerfield, Dallas County. He first lived in Alabama at "Meed Hall," two and one half miles from Marion, later at Summerfield. He was a planter, breeder of fine horses, owned much business property in Selma, and graded more than half of the railroad between Selma and Uniontown. He was a Democrat. Married: Sarah Warren, of Georgia. Children: 1. Eliza Frances, m. (1) Thomas B. Carson, whose only daughter, Estelle Thornton, m. Col. Sam Will John (q. v.), (2) Ben Edward Grey; 2. Elizabeth A., m. Ed King; 3. and 4. twins, George Washington, and Thomas Jefferson (q. v.), m. Aggie, daughter of Gov. John Anthony Winston (q. v.); 5. Guy Smith; 6. Martha Jane; 7. Thornton Boykin, jr.; 8. Terrell Richard. Last residence: Summerfield.

GOLDSMITH, ROBERT LEE, lawyer, was born November 27, 1864, at Calhoun, Lowndes County; son of Andrew Fuller and Frances Alice (Faver) Goldsmith, the former a native of Monroe County, Ga., who moved with his parents to Russell County in 1834, and later to Chalmers County, and became a minister of the Baptist church; grandson of William Hale and Zilpha (Kornegay) Goldsmith, and of Col. Henry Faver, and his wife, formerly a Miss Bonner, of LaGrange, Ga.; great-grandson of John T. and Lovie (Casswell) Goldsmith, the former who came from England in 1767, settled in New York, served in the Revolutionary Army, was mustered out in Virginia, married there, and later moved to Georgia, the latter was of Irish ancestry. Mr. Goldsmith was educated in the common schools of Fort Deposit; clerked in a store at that place, 1885-1886; engaged in mercantile business on his own account in Fort Deposit in 1886, in Johnston County, Tex., 1887; clerked in a store in Dallas, Tex., 1887-1893; engaged in a wholesale produce business, at Dallas, Tex., 1893-1894; returned to Calhoun and studied law, 1894; was admitted to the bar and began to practice law at Hayneville, 1895; was elected probate clerk of Lowndes County, 1896-1898; county solicitor of Lowndes County, 1898-1904; representative in the general assembly, 1899-1900 and 1903. He is a Democrat and a Baptist. Married: February 25, 1899, at Hayneville, to Ola Seleste, daughter of James Kennedy and Tabitha Hearne (Edwards) Gordon, of Gordonville, of Scotch descent, the ancestors on both sides emigrating from Scotland to America prior to the Revolutionary War, and serving in that war. Residence: Hayneville.

GOLDTHWAITE, GEORGE, lawyer, chief justice, supreme court of Alabama, U. S. senator, was born December 10, 1810, in Boston, Mass., and died March 18, 1879, at Tuscaloosa; son of Thomas and Anne (Wilson) Goldthwaite, of Concord, N. H., the latter of whom moved to Boston after the death of her husband; grandson of Thomas Goldthwaite; great-grandson of John Goldthwaite; great-great-grandson of Samuel Goldthwaite; great-great-grandson of Thomas Goldthwaite, born in England, 1610, who came to New England in 1630; brother of Judge Henry Barnes Goldthwaite (q. v.). He entered the Latin school in Boston, in 1818, at the time that Charles Sumner, R. C. Winthrop and George S. Hilliard were pupils of the school. He was appointed to a cadetship at West Point when he was fourteen years old, was a classmate of Lieut.-Gen. Polk, while Jefferson Davis, Robert E. Lee and J. E. Johnston were members of the school in other classes. After passing his third year at West Point, he left the school and went south to Montgomery, where he read law in the office of his brother Henry Goldthwaite. He was admitted to the bar at the age of eighteen and located at Monticello, Pike County. After several years there, he returned to Montgomery, where he practiced with increasing reputation until December, 1843, when he was elected to the circuit court bench, over the incumbent, Hon. Abraham Martin. He was re-elected by popular vote in 1850, and held this office until January, 1852, at which time he was elected a justice of the supreme court. By the resignation of Judge Chilton, January, 1836, Judge Goldthwaite became chief justice. After he had filled that position for thirteen days, he resigned and resumed his practice. When the War of Secession began, he was placed on the military council of Gov. Moore and appointed by the governor, adjutant-general of the state of Alabama, a position he held about three years. After the war, he was elected judge of the circuit court in 1866, but lost the place by act of congress in 1868, which disqualified him for office. In 1870, he was elected to the senate of the United States from Alabama; served while in congress on the committee on claims and Revolutionary claims; and in 1877, retired to private life.

Married: November 30, 1835, at Washington, D. C., Olivia Price Wallach, born February 10, 1810, in Boston, and died July 13, 1878, in Montgomery; daughter of Moses and Mary (Robbins) Wallach; sister of Mayor Wallach of Washington, D. C. Children: 1. George, lawyer, b. August 21, 1836, d. October 31, 1893, was graduated from South Carolina college, A. B., 1857, served in C. S. Army first as adjutant, Sixth Alabama regiment, later as captain of cavalry, served for three terms as district attorney, Nevada, as judge of the city court at Leadville, Colo., m. May 2, 1870, at Hamilton City, Nev., Lucy Virginia Harmon; 2. Anne, b. October 21, 1837, m. Col. Emmet Seibels; 3. Richard Wallach, lawyer, b. February 3, 1839, was lieutenant, then captain, of artillery, Semple's battery, C. S. Army, m. December 14, 1865, at Montgomery, Lucy Boyd Armistead, Dallas, Tex., son, Herbert Armistead, planter, b. June 4, 1872, draughtsman, U. S. engineering office, 1892-1893, engineering department S. A. & M. R. R., 1890-1892, m. June 28, 1899, at Montgomery, Nannilee Ray, Mitylene; 4. Mary Robbins, b. August 15, 1840, m. Thomas Mann Arrington (q. v.); 5. Henry, b. November 3, 1841, an officer in the C. S. Army, a broker of New York City; 6. Robert, b. September 2, 1844, m. Annie Paul Nesbitt. Last residence: Tuscaloosa.

JOHN W. SIBLEY

GOLDTHWAITE, HENRY BARNES, lawyer, associate justice of the supreme court, was born April 10, 1802, in Concord, N. H., and died October 19, 1847, at Mobile; son of Thomas and Anne (Wilson) Goldthwaite, who lived in Walthamston, near London, England, and later at Concord, N. H.; grandson of Thomas Goldthwaite; great-grandson of John Goldthwaite; great-great-grandson of Samuel Goldthwaite; great-great-great-grandson of Thomas Goldthwaite, who was born in England about 1610, and emigrated to New England about 1630; brother of Hon. George Goldthwaite (q. v.). The ancestral home of the Goldthwaites stands in Yorkshire, England. Hugh de Goldthwaite who lived in the middle of the Fourteenth century, is the first known bearer of the name, which was evolved from the region of their origin, "Goldford in Netherdale." Judge Goldthwaite's father died early in the life of his son, and his mother, a native of Wales, moved to Boston, where she opened a boarding house to maintain her family. He received a liberal education, and left his home in Boston when quite young, going with his brother, Robert Henry Goldthwaite, to Richmond, Va. He clerked in a drygoods house there for two years; returned to Boston, from which place he sailed soon after for Mobile; was shipwrecked on the voyage, and reached the latter city in 1819. He proceeded on to Montgomery in a flat-boat, a journey of three months' duration, and was engaged for a short time in the store of his brother, John Goldthwaite, in Montgomery. He read law in the office of Nimrod E. Benson; was admitted to the bar; and began practice in partnership with Gov. Benjamin Fitzpatrick. He edited a paper in Montgomery; in 1825 was elected solicitor; and in 1829 represented Montgomery County in the legislature. Two years later, he went to Mobile, where he was for some time the partner of Robert G. Gordon. In 1836, he was elected to the bench of the supreme court by the legislature, without opposition, succeeding Justice Hitchcock. In 1842 he was re-elected. He resigned the next year to become the Democratic candidate for congress, and after a brilliant canvass, was defeated by his Whig opponent, Mr. Dellett of Monroe County. He was re-elected to the supreme court by the legislature, defeating Ex-Gov. Clay, who had been appointed to fill the vacancy. He remained on the bench until his death in 1847, of yellow fever. He was a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

Married: April 10, 1839, in Greensboro, Eliza I., daughter of John Ramsey and Sophia (Graham) Witherspoon; granddaughter of Maj.-Gen. Joseph Graham of Mecklenburg County, N. C.; sister of Hon. J. M. Witherspoon of Greene County. Children: 1. John Witherspoon, b. February 3, 1840, m. Mary Purvis; 2. Thomas, b. January 11, 1841, died during the War of Secession; 3. Dr. Henry, b. April 3, 1842, m. Grace Tarleton; 4. Mary Witherspoon, b. December 5, 1843, deceased, m. John Freeland of Richmond, Va., child, Dr. John, a physician in New York City; 5. Joseph Graham, b. February 6, 1845, m. Ella Willis; 6. George, merchant, b.

June 20, 1846, d. December 20, 1889, lieutenant under Gen. Forrest, C. S. Army, m. 1881, Calvert, Tex., Willie Evylin Faulkner; 7. Alfred, lawyer, b. November 19, 1847, studied and practiced law for twelve years with his uncle, John A. Campbell, justice of the U. S. supreme court, moved to New Orleans, La., where he handled the famous Mrs. Gaines' will case, representing the litigants for ten years, and finally winning the decision in the U. S. supreme court, d. February 27, 1892, in New York. Last residence: Mobile.

GOLDTHWAITE, ROBERT, banker, was born September 2, 1844, in Montgomery, and died January 31, 1903, in Montgomery; son of Hon. George and Olivia Price (Wallach) Goldthwaite (q. v.); grandson of Thomas and Anne (Wilson) Goldthwaite, and of Moses and Mary (Robbins) Wallach of Boston; seventh in descent from Thomas Goldthwaite, born in England in 1810, who emigrated to New England in 1830. He was at school in Virginia at the outbreak of war in 1861, but promptly laid aside his books and entered the C. S. Army. He enlisted in the Seventh Alabama cavalry regiment, rose to the rank of lieutenant, and was badly wounded while commanding his company at the battle of Franklin. After the war, he entered upon a business career in Montgomery. In 1870 he embarked upon the banking business as a member of the firm of Holmes and Goldthwaite, which was later merged into the Merchants' and planters' national bank, with W. D. Peck as president. About 1890, Mr. Goldthwaite became president, a position which he held continuously until his death. He was a Democrat; for many years a member of St. John's Episcopal church in Montgomery; a member of the Knights of Honor, the National Union, and of Camp Lomax, United Confederate Veterans. Married: November 9, 1869, Anne Paul, daughter of Edward and Mary Virginia (Scott) Nesbitt, of Montgomery, the former moved to Alabama from South Carolina; granddaughter of Wilson N. Nesbitt, congressman from South Carolina, and one of the first real iron-masters, maker of balls and ammunition for the War of 1812, who married a Miss duVal of Virginia, niece of Benjamin duVal, justice of the supreme court of the United States; a descendant of Thomas Baytop Scott, one of the pioneers of the section around Montgomery, who donated Scott's burial ground, Oakwood cemetery. Children: 1. Mary Virginia, resides in Montgomery, m. Milton Paul LaGrand, deceased; 2. Robert, jr. (q. v.); 3. Edward Nesbitt, d. in infancy; 4. Ellen Wallach; 5. Olivia Price, m. Allen Taylor Thompson; 6. Richard Scott, m. Elizabeth Sayre Andrews; 7. duVal Radford, attended law school of Harvard University. Last residence: Montgomery.

GOLDTHWAITE, ROBERT, JR., physician, was born August 29, 1872, at Montgomery; son of Robert and Anne Paul (Nesbitt) Goldthwaite (q. v.); grandson of George and Olivia Price (Wallach) Goldthwaite (q. v.), and of Edward and Mary Virginia (Scott) Nesbitt, of Montgomery. He attended the public schools of Montgomery, where he received the Peabody medal awarded by Prof. Calloway, for excellence. He attended the University of the South at Sewanee, and the medical school of the University of Virginia; then entered Bellevue hospital medical college, where he obtained his degree, M. D., 1892. After his graduation, he won, by competitive examination, place as interne in Bellevue hospital, and completed the course of his medical education there in 1895. He became assistant city physician of Montgomery in 1896; city physician in 1903, and county health officer, 1916. He enlisted as a surgeon in the European War, was commissioned captain, and died soon after. He was a Democrat, a member of St. John's Episcopal church. Married: November 10, 1896, at Montgomery, Mary Phelan, daughter of Robert Leonidas and Mary (Phelan) Watt, who lived at Montgomery; granddaughter of James Madison and Theresa (McCreary) Watt, the latter a native of Georgia, and of Judge John D. and Mary Ann (Harris) Phelan, the former whose lineage is traceable to the very ancient Fhailans of Ireland, and who served on the circuit bench and on the supreme court bench at the same time as Judge Goldthwaite, the latter a descendant of the old families of Moore and Harris, of Tennessee and north Alabama, who settled on land grants given them by the king early in the seventeenth century; great-granddaughter of Hugh Watt, of Guilford County, N. C. Children: 1. Mary Theresa; 2. Anne Paul; 3. Robert III; 4. Ellen Phelan. Last residence: Montgomery.

GOLLADAY, EDWARD J., lieutenant colonel, 38th, formerly 8th, Looney's Tennessee infantry; lieutenant colonel 5th, Golladay's, battalion Alabama infantry, C. S. Army.

GOLSON, HOWELL ROSE, lawyer and editor, was born January 22, 1857, in Lowndes County, and died September 21, 1916, from injuries received in an automobile accident, on the Montgomery-Wetumpka road; son of John and Lucinda (Knight) Golson of Lowndes County. He received his education in the schools of his native county and read law under Col. Willis Brewer at Hayneville, being admitted to the bar in 1890. He located at Wetumpka, where he practiced until his death. About 1900 he became proprietor of the "Wetumpka Weekly Herald," which publication following his demise is edited by his daughter, Frances Golson. Married: (1) February 13, 1879, to Korrie Goldsmith, (2) October 6, 1887, to Bama Goldsmith, daughters of Rev. A. F. Goldsmith, and sister of R. L. Goldsmith, both of Lowndes County. Children: by the first wife, 1. Frances; 2. John F.; 3. Howell H.; by the second wife, 4. Florence; 5. Henry G. Last residence: Wetumpka.

GOLSON, L. P., pioneer minister in Autauga County; grandfather of Hon. W. M. Vaughn (q. v.), of Selma. Deceased.

GOLSON, WILLIAM, librarian of the Alabama supreme court, 1872-74. Deceased. Last residence: Prattville.

GOOCH, ALBERT GALLATIN, secretary to two governors and clerk Federal district court, was born April 25, 1805, at Aspin Grove, Louisa County, Va., and died January 1, 1858, in Tuscaloosa; son of Thomas and Martha (Tisdale) Gooch, the former a native of King William County, Va., a veteran of the War of 1812; grandson of Stephen and Mary (Pollard) Gooch, who lived in King William, and belonged to that branch of the family known as the "Lower Virginia" Gooches. The Gooch family, with its three branches in Virginia, was a noble one in Norfolk and Suffolk Counties, England. The founder of the line in Virginia was Lieut. Col. Henry Gooch of York County, who located there in 1656, and was sheriff of the county in 1662, a member of the house of burgesses, and an active participant in Bacon's rebellion. His son, William, married Lissula, daughter of the colonial Gov. Claiborne. The city of Staunton, Va., was named for Lady Staunton, wife of Baron William Gooch, commissioned lieutenant governor of Virginia, by George II. Mr. Gooch was educated in private schools in Louisa Court House, Va. He studied medicine later, but abandoned it on account of ill health. He located in Erie, Greene County, Ala., in 1835, but changed his residence to Tuscaloosa, then the State capital, the following year to accept a place in the office of the clerk of the supreme court. In 1837 he was made private secretary to Gov. Hugh McVay, a position he held for a time under Gov. Arthur P. Bagby. He was then appointed clerk of the federal court for the middle district of Alabama, a lucrative position, particularly in 1841, during the operation of the bankrupt law. He was a Whig, a Mason, and an Episcopalian. Married: in Tuscaloosa to Margarette Martha, daughter of Thomas and Mary Jane (Gorman) Barr of Raleigh, N. C., and a sister of John G. Barr, (q. v.). The Gorman and Barr families were from Scotland. Children: 1. Mary, m. William N. Sandlin, of Arkansas, deceased; 2. Albert, m. Katherine Fox, of Mississippi, and lives in New Orleans; 3. Martha Ann, residence, Little Rock, Ark. Last residence: Tuscaloosa.

GOODE, JOSEPH BRYAN, business man, was born May 11, 1831, at Montgomery, and died February 26, 1906, at Montgomery; son of Judge Samuel Watkins and Frances Pheason (Douglas) Goode, the former a native of Mecklenburg, Va., who moved when a boy to Edgefield District, S. C., lived in Washington, Wilkes County, Ga., 1790-1795, was a lawyer and a judge of the circuit court, gave up public life in 1830, and moved to Montgomery, Ala.; grandson of Samuel Goode, of Mecklenburg County, Va., who married a Miss Watkins, and of James Douglas of Middlebury, Vt. He was educated in the schools of Montgomery; enlisted in the C. S. Army at the outbreak of the War of Secession, serving for three years with Semple's battery, then was transferred to the treasury department as clerk. Before his marriage he was a member of the Presbyterian church, but later affiliated with the Methodist church. Married: 1866, Caledonia Edwards, of Lowndes County; daughter of Zachary and Lucy (Ivey) Edwards, who lived in North Carolina. Children: 1. Joseph Bryan, Montgomery; 2. Edwards, m. Sarah Collier, Montgomery; 3. Douglas, m. Martha Collier, sister of Sarah Collier, Montgomery. Last residence: Montgomery.

GOODE, MABEL WILEY (HUTTON), patriotic and civic worker and officer, past president, Alabama federation women's clubs, State regent, Daughters American Revolution, was born March 16, 1866, at Mt. Pleasant, Whiteside County, Ill., but has been a resident of Mobile practically all her life; daughter of Col. William Henry and Maria (Maxfield) Hutton, the former a native of Ohio, of Quaker origin, who was senior surgeon in the public health service of the government, and in charge of all yellow fever epidemics during the period of his service, the latter a native of Bristol, Rhode Island. Her ancestry were of colonial and revolutionary stock. Two of her forbears, John Howland and John Tilley, came over in the Mayflower. Her education was received in the best schools near her father's official stations, and she graduated, June, 1885, from Hampton college, Louisville, Ky. Mrs. Goode early evinced executive power and has held the position of State president, Alabama federation women's clubs; vice-president and manager of the Society of Colonial Dames; State regent and vice-president general, National Society Daughters of the American Revolution; county chairman, National League for Women's Service; organizer of the Mobile County chapter, American Red Cross, during the European War, and the first woman to volunteer for service in the Gulf division, doing all time service during the entire period of the war; chairman for Mobile County for all liberty loans, and county chairman, Woman's committee of the Council of National Defense. She is a Presbyterian. Married: October 28, 1886, to Dr. Rhett Goode (q. v.). Children: 1. Mabel Rhett, m. May 8, 1919, to Major Randolph Coyle, U. S. marine corps, and this couple are the parents of a son, Randolph Coyle, IV. Residence: Mobile.

GOODE, RHETT, physician, was born December 5, 1852, in Mobile, and died at the same place, December 22, 1911; son of Garland and Frances (Burns) Goode, the former a native of South Carolina, emigrated to Conecuh County, and prior to 1840 located in Mobile, a major in the Florida wars, a man of large means, who contributed much to the Confederate cause; grandson of Philip and Carolina (Williams) Goode. He was a descendant of John Goode, who emigrated from England and settled an estate which he called "Whitby," near Richmond, where he died in 1709. Dr. Goode received his elementary education at home under a governess; afterwards entered Spring Hill college, which he left before graduating; and in 1871 graduated from the medical department of the University of Alabama; and entered immediately upon practice of his profession in Mobile. He was assistant instructor of anatomy in his alma mater from the time of his graduation, until 1885, when he became instructor; in 1891 was elected professor of anatomy and clinical surgery which position he held at the time of his death; in 1906, on the death of Dr. George A. Ketchum, he was elected dean by the faculty; and in the spring of 1907 when the college by act of the legislature, became the medical department of the University of Alabama, the trustees confirmed his position as dean. During the forty years of his practice in Mobile he was councilman, alderman, mayor pro tem, health officer, county physician, and president of the quarantine board of Mobile Bay. He was a member of the Medical association of Alabama and one of its board of counsellors; of the American medical association; and of the Association of Southern railway surgeons. He was chief surgeon of the Mobile and Ohio railway company, the Southern railway in Mississippi, and the Mobile, Jackson and Kansas City railway company. He was a Democrat; Baptist; and a Mason. In the yellow fever epidemic of 1882, he worked night and day as one of the physicians of the "Can't-get-away-club," a local organization that took care of all yellow fever patients, who were without a regular physician or unable to provide for themselves. In every epidemic since the time he began the practice of medicine, he took a prominent part in the extermination of disease. Dr. Goode was the author of a number of papers on medical and surgical subjects which have been published in pamphlet form, and in the medical journals. Married: October 28, 1886, Mabel Wiley (q. v.), daughter of William H. H. and Maria (Maxfield) Hutton, the former a surgeon in the U. S. marine hospital service. Children: 1. Mabel Rhett, m. Maj. Randolph Coyle, U. S. Marine Corps, Washington, D. C. Last residence: Mobile.

GOODE, ROBERT JAMES, business man and legislator, was born August 2, 1888, at Prairie, Wilcox County; son of Robert James and Annie L. (Gaston) Goode; grandson of Robert L. and Viola H. (Mathews) Goode of Camden, and of David F. and Mary (Fluker) Gaston, of Gastonburg. The Goode family originally came from Henrico County, Va. He was educated in the schools of Gastonburg; graduated A. B. and B. S. from Marion institute; and later took a course at the University of Pennsylvania. He is at this time engaged in farming, breeding stock and the insurance business. He represented Wilcox County in the legislature of 1915. He is a Democrat and a member of the Delta Kappa Epsilon college fraternity. Married: April 24, 1912, at Mobile, to Grace Edwards, daughter of Joseph H. and Mary (Chapman) Pugh, of McKinley. Children: Robert James, III. Residence: Gastonburg.

GOODE, THOMAS, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 74, and a resident of Jefferson County; private Virginia Continental Line; enrolled on September 22, 1819, under act of Congress of March 18, 1818, payment to date from April 15, 1818; annual allowance, $96; sums received to date of publication of list, $896.70; transferred from Christian County, Ky., from March 23, 1826.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34.

GOODGAME, JOHN CHAPMAN, lieutenant colonel C. S. Army, was born September 18, 1835, at Fayetteville, Talladega County, and died June 8, 1876, in Texas; son of Robert Crockett and Letitia (Chapman) Goodgame, the former a native of Coweta County, Ga., who located at Crewsville, Coosa County; grandson of John C. and Sarah (Crockett) Goodgame, the former a native of Augusta, Ga., and the latter the sister of David Crockett, and of John Allen and Rachael (Cunningham) Chapman, the former a native of North Carolina, a veteran of the War of 1812, the latter a native of Ireland, who after their marriage in Lexington, N. C., located in Tennessee, but removed to Soccapato, Coosa County, Ala., where both are buried. Colonel Goodgame received his education from Dr. John N. Staughter at Soccapato; became a teacher; and afterward was sheriff and tax-collector of Henderson County, Tex. He entered the C. S. Army as orderly sergeant of Co. B., 12th Alabama infantry regiment, June, 1861, and was promoted in a short time to major, then lieutenant colonel. He was a Democrat and a Mason. Married: September 16, 1858, at Soccapato, to Elverena, daughter of Ethelred and Malinda (McKinney) Thomas, both of whom were natives of Georgia, the former from Talbotton. Children: 1. Arminta, deceased; 2. Jennie, deceased. Last residence: Texas.

GOODHUE, A. B., clerk of the Alabama State Baptist convention, 1854-78, inclusive.

GOODWIN, EDWARD PENN, probate judge, was born December 19, 1869, at Fayette; son of Thomas Edward and Lucinda Jane (Lindsey) Goodwin, who lived at Fayette, the former a native of Cumberland County, N. C., who entered the Tenth Alabama regiment of cavalry, C. S. army, September 12, 1864, and was paroled at Tuscaloosa, April, 1865, was sheriff of Fayette County, 1884-1888, was clerk of the circuit court, 1890-1896, was judge of probate for Fayette County, from 1898 until his death, April 4, 1908; grandson of Simpson P. and Betsey (Green) Goodwin, and of Levi and Delitha (Duglass) Lindsey, all of whom lived at Fayette. He received a common school education and attended business college at Lexington, Ky., receiving a diploma in 1889. He served as cashier of the Fayette County bank, 1900-1908; was a member of the board of aldermen of Fayette, 1900-1904; was appointed probate judge for Fayette County, June 30, 1908; and was nominated and elected probate judge in 1910 for a term of six years. He is a Democrat; is deacon and treasurer of the Missionary Baptist church; is past Master of Masonry, and a Royal Arch Mason; past grand Independent Order of Odd Fellows; past sachem, Improved Order of Red Men, and past chancellor, Knights of Pythias. Married: May 20, 1893, at Fayette, Wilma Cora Morton, daughter of Judge Thomas Benton and Docia Morton, who lived at Fayette. Children: 1. Lillian; 2. Mary; 3. Cathleen; 4. Edward Penn, jr.; 5. Janie Will; 6. Thomas Joseph. Residence: Fayette.

GOODWIN, THEOPHILUS, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 74, and a resident of Butler County; private N. C. Continental Line; enrolled on September 18, 1818, under act of Congress of March 18, 1818; payment to date from June 5, 1818, annual allowance $96.00; sums received to date of publication of list, $1,511.46; transferred from Edgefield District, S. C., from September 4, 1828.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34. Also resided in Bibb County.—Pension Book, State Branch Bank, Mobile.

GOODWYN, ALBERT TAYLOR, planter and representative in congress, was born December 17, 1842, at Robinson Springs, then Autauga, now Elmore County; son of Dr. Albert Gallatin and Harriet (Bibb) Goodwyn, the former born in 1807 at Columbia, S. C., was a graduate of the South Carolina college, and of Jefferson medical college at Philadelphia, removed to Alabama, lived at Robinson Springs where he practiced his profession and engaged in planting until his death, the latter born in 1814, in Abbeville District, S. C.; grandson of John and Sarah (Taylor) Goodwyn, who lived in Richland District, S. C., the former a lieutenant in the Revolutionary War, and of Rev. Peyton and Martha (Cobb) Bibb, who lived at Robinson Springs, the former a minister in the Methodist Protestant church and a planter, brother of Governors W. W. Bibb (q. v.) and Thomas Bibb (q. v.); great-grandson of Capt. William and Sallie (Wyatt) Bibb, the former a Virginia captain in the Revolutionary War, the latter related to colonial Gov. Francis Wyatt, of Virginia, and Sir Thomas Wyatt, of English history, and of Judge Thomas Cobb, of Columbia County, Ga. Capt. Goodwyn received his early education at Robinson Springs and vicinity; 1859-61 he attended South Carolina college; and in 1866-67 was a student at the University of Virginia, graduating in the school of moral philosophy. He has been a life long planter. He was state inspector of convicts, 1876-80; representative from Elmore County in the legislature, 1886-87; State senator from district composed of Elmore, Chilton and Shelby Counties, 1892-96; member of the fifty-fourth congress, 1895-97; was a clerk in the department of agriculture and industries; served as chairman of various school boards; as trustee of the Fifth district agricultural school at Wetumpka, and of the Confederate soldiers home at Mountain Creek. In the War of Secession he was a member of the South Carolina college cadets, and was at the bombardment of Fort Sumter; was a private in Capt. Breedlove's company, 45th Alabama infantry regiment; transferred to the 58th Alabama infantry regiment in which he served as a lieutenant; was in the battles of Chickamauga, Lookout Mountain, and Missionary Ridge; captured in the last named engagement, and while a prisoner at Johnson's Island, was, in 1865, promoted to the captaincy of his company. He is a Democrat, but for some years affiliated with the Populists; and a Mason. Married: December 22, 1869, at Montgomery, to Priscilla Cooper, daughter of Robert and Priscilla (Cooper) Tyler (q. v.). Children: 1. Robert Tyler (q. v.), m. Jessie Lancaster; 2. Adele, m. John D. McNeel (q. v.); 3. Albert Gallatin, Montgomery, m. Charlie Lane; 4. Gardner Foster, lawyer, m. Lora Williams, resides in Bessemer; 5. Priscilla Goodwyn, m. Frank Hastings Griffin, residence, Philadelphia, Pa. Residence: Robinson Springs.

GOODWYN, ROBERT TYLER, lawyer and registrar Federal land bank, was born November 4, 1870, in Montgomery; son of Albert Taylor and Priscilla (Tyler) Goodwyn (q. v.). He was educated in the schools of Montgomery, McCabe's school, Petersburg, Va., and graduated, 1891, from the University of Alabama with the A. B. degree. He read law privately and entered upon the practice in 1899; was circuit clerk of Elmore County, 1892-98; mayor of Highland park, Montgomery, 1902-04; member Alabama legislature, 1902-07; chairman Democratic State executive committee, 1910-15; inspector of rifles on the staff of Col. Hampton Graves, 2nd infantry regiment, A. N. G., with rank of captain, 1901-04; captain of Troop A., 1st cavalry regiment, A. N. G., 1904-06; president of the Alumni society of the University of Alabama, 1911-12. Upon the passage of the farm loan banking law by congress during President Wilson's administration, he was appointed registrar for the region of which New Orleans is the center. He is an Episcopalian; Elk; Woodman of the World; Red Man; Eagle; and Odd Fellow. Married: November 24, 1895, in Wetumpka, to Jessie Dora, daughter of Judge John Austin and Frances Aldora (Lett) Lancaster (q. v.); granddaughter of Hon. William G. Lancaster and of Robert Pinckney Lett. Children: 1. Aldora Elizabeth; 2. Priscilla Cooper; 3. Robert Tyler, jr.; 4. William Bibb; 5. John Lancaster; 6. Louise Tyson; 7. Albert Taylor. Residence: Montgomery.

GORDON, ALEXANDER C., planter and merchant, was born in 1811, in Washington County, Ga. His father died in the military service a year or two later, and in 1817, he went with his uncle, James Hughes, across the Chattahoochee, to what is now Henry County. When he was eleven years old, he and a younger half-brother were abducted by Indians, and carried off to their towns on the Apalachicola, where they were found and rescued four or five months later. He became a merchant and planter; was an officer in the War of 1836; led the first company from Henry County into the Confederate service, and was a captain in the Sixth Alabama infantry regiment during the first year of the War of Secession. He was also commander of a militia battalion which operated against Sanders and his band in Dale and Henry Counties. He represented Henry County in the State legislature, and served as general of militia. Married: Miss Hudspeth. Last residence: Henry County.

GORDON, AUGUSTUS M., major and later lieutenant colonel, 6th Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army.

GORDON, EUGENE C., major, 25th battalion Alabama cavalry, C. S. Army.

GORDON, FRANCIS, pioneer planter, was born at Spring Hill, Maury County, Tenn., January 4, 1795, and died while on a return visit there, in 1868; son of Samuel and Rachel (Herron) Gordon, the former a native of Woodford County, Tenn., who moved to Maury County, served with the Tennessee troops in the War of 1812, removed to St. Clair County, near Ragland, on Trout Creek, where he lived until his death; grandson of Samuel and Rachel Gordon, the former a native of Scotland, who emigrated to America, about 1750, who lived in East Tennessee and Kentucky and is buried at Brick Church, Tenn. Francis Gordon served in the Creek Indian War and in the War of 1813-14 as a private in Capt. Archibald McKinney's company of cavalry, Col. Robert H. Dyer's regiment, Tennessee volunteers, and in Capt. Glenn Owen's of the same regiment. It is a tradition that they were with Gen. Andrew Jackson in his Alabama campaigns and in the battle of New Orleans. He removed to Alabama, located in Lowndes County, founded the village of Gordonville, and was a planter. The family connections are large, represented principally in Alabama and Tennessee. Married: September 24, 1817, to Elizabeth Wells, daughter of James and Sallie (Wells) Caperton, of Spring Hill, Tenn., the former a native of Kentucky; granddaughter of Hugh Caperton; great-granddaughter of John Caperton, a native of Wales, who emigrated to America and settled on New River, Va., in 1757. Children: 1. Sarah Ann, m. (1) Malachi Johnston; (2) John G. Brown; 2. Jane Rachel, m. Joseph Sidney Reese; 3. Susan, m. William Browning Haralson; (q. v.) 4. Mary Elizabeth, m. J. Monroe Cole; 5. Eliza, d. unmarried; 6. Frances, m. John Dudley; 7. Cassandra Boone, m. Alfred Edwards; 8. Thomas Niles, m. Tabitha Edwards; 9. Lucy Cain, m. James H. Hardy; 10. Matilda Asceneth, m. B. R. Hall; 11. David, student at Howard college, Marion; mustered in with Hayneville guards, Co. E, 6th Alabama infantry regiment, later Co. M, C. S. Army, and died from wounds received at battle of Seven Pines; 12. Tennessee, d. unmarried; 13. Alabama, m. Dr. Hugh William Caffey, (q. v.). Last residence: Gordonville.

GORDON, JAMES C., major and later lieutenant colonel, 1st Confederate infantry regiment, C. S. Army.

GORDON, OSCAR MANIGAULT, business man and legislator, was born November 15, 1863, at Forestville, Marion County, S. C.; son of Alfred B. and Addella Josephine (Hinds) Gordon, the former was a native of Indiantown, Williamsburg County, S. C., and a Confederate soldier, serving in the Western campaign under General Bragg; grandson of Roger and Hanna (Fleming) Gordon, and of Herbert and Leonora Hinds; great-grandson of Roger and Rectina Jane (Pressby) Gordon, the former was a Revolutionary soldier losing his life on Snow's Island, S. C., while serving under Gen. Francis Marion in 1781, and of Orison and Catherine Knight (Dewitt) Hinds; great-great-grandson of Roger and Sarah Maria (Stewart) Gordon. The Pressby family migrated from the north of Ireland to South Carolina about 1730. The Dewitts were French Huguenots from Charleston, S. C., while the Hinds family lived at Society Hill, S. C. He was educated in the public schools of Alabama. He was reared on the farm; is now engaged in agriculture and naval stores; and is a director in the Bank of Brewton. He represented Escambia County in the legislature of 1915. He is a Democrat; Mason; Baptist; Odd Fellow; Elk; and a member of the United commercial travelers. Married: December 18, 1907, at Andalusia, to Amme Lewis, daughter of Lewis H. and Katurah (Copeland) Jeter, of Troy and Andalusia. The Jeters were formerly of Virginia. The Copelands removed from Georgia to Brundidge about fifty years ago. Children: 1. Oscar Manigault, jr. Residence: Brewton.

GORDY, ELIJAH HUMPHRIES, planter and public official, was born at St. Stephens, and died July 14, 1885; son of Elijah, sr., and Tabitha (Melson) Gordy, of St. Stephens. He was educated in the institutions of his community, and was a student at the University of Alabama, 1832; engaged in farming; was receiver and register in the U. S. Land office; represented his county in the legislature, 1853; sheriff of Washington County, 1857-60; 1874-80, probate judge; and was clerk of the circuit court. He was a Democrat. Married: September 11, 1845, at St. Stephens, to Caroline M. Baker. Last residence: St. Stephens.

GORGAS, AMELIA ROSS (GAYLE), librarian, was born June 1, 1826, at Greensboro, and died January 3, 1913, at University; daughter of Gov. John and Sarah Ann (Haynsworth) Gayle (q. v.). She was educated by governesses and at Columbia female institute, Columbia, Tenn., graduating in 1842, with highest honors. She spent four years of her girlhood in Tuscaloosa while her father was governor of the State, afterwards removed to Mobile where she grew to womanhood and spent the years of her father's term in congress in Washington. While in Washington she enjoyed the unusual privilege of association with the celebrities of the time. Among her most prominent friends was John C. Calhoun who entertained for her a most paternal affection. She was frequently a visitor at the White House and was through the courtesy of Mr. Calhoun, one of the two women on the platform during the laying of the cornerstone of the Washington monument. After her marriage to General Gorgas she accompanied him to the numerous places where he was stationed as a U. S. army officer. During the War of Secession she made her home in Richmond, Va., and after the war they removed to Briarfield. The next ten years were spent in Sewanee, Tenn., where she was noted for her hospitality, and in 1878 they came to Tuscaloosa upon the appointment of General Gorgas as president of the University. Mrs. Gorgas later assisted him in his duties as librarian and in 1883, at his death, she succeeded him. She held this position until 1906 when she was granted a retiring allowance by the Carnegie foundation. It was in this position her greatest influence was felt. Her life's history was woven into the history of the University. She was a mother to all youth and the young men and young women in the two great seats of learning looked to her for wise counsel, and looked not in vain. She was called the "angel of the campus" by the Alabama cadets, and upon her retirement from active work was presented a loving cup by the alumni. Married: December 29, 1853, at Mobile, to General Josiah Gorgas (q. v.). Children: 1. William Crawford (q. v.); 2. Jessie, University; 3. Mary Gayle, University; 4. Christine, m. George De Clonet Palfrey, Franklin, La.; 5. Maria Bayne, University; 6. Richard Haynsworth, Washington, D. C. Last residence: University.

GORGAS, JOSIAH, college president, captain in old U. S. Army, Mexican War soldier, and brigadier-general, C. S. Army, was born July 1, 1818, near Elizabethtown, Lancaster County, Pa., and died May 15, 1883, at the University of Alabama; son of Joseph and Sophia (Atkinson) Gorgas, the former a native of Ephrata, Lancaster County, Pa.; grandson of Jacob and Christena (Mack) Gorgas, of Ephrata, Pa., and of Thomas and Salome (Widener) Atkinson, the former a second lieutenant during the Revolutionary War, whose grandfather, Stephen Atkinson, was a Scotch-Irish Englishman who came in his youth to this country with William Penn; great-grandson of John and Sophia (Rittenhouse) Gorgas, the latter a granddaughter of William Rittenhouse who owned the first paper mill built in the colonies, it being located at Germantown, Pa. The Gorgas and Rittenhouse families were related and came to America from Holland in 1684 although originally from Spain. The Rittenhouse family is descended from the house of Hapsburg. General Gorgas served as a cadet at the United States military academy from July 1, 1837, to July 1, 1841, was graduated and appointed second lieutenant of ordnance, U. S. Army, on July 1, 1841. He served as assistant ordnance officer at Watervliet arsenal, New York, and Detroit arsenal, Michigan, from 1841-46; was in the war with Mexico, 1846-48; promoted first lieutenant of ordnance, March 3, 1847; engaged in the siege of Vera Cruz, March 9-29, 1847, and was in charge of the ordnance depot at that place. He was again ordnance officer, Watervliet arsenal, New York, 1848-51; at Alleghany arsenal, Pennsylvania, in 1851; Fort Monroe, Virginia, 1851; Mt. Vernon arsenal, 1853-56; promoted captain of ordnance, July 1, 1855; in command of Kennebec arsenal, Maine, 1856-58; Charleston arsenal, South Carolina, 1858-60; and Frankford arsenal, Pennsylvania, 1860-61. At the beginning of the War of Secession, April 3, 1861, he resigned his position in the United States Army and removed with his family to Alabama. He was appointed lieutenant-colonel of artillery, C. S. Army, April 8, 1861, to rank from March 16, 1861; acting chief of engineer bureau, April 8, 1861, to August 3, 1861; promoted to temporary rank of colonel of artillery, May 3, 1862, and to brigadier-general, November 19, 1864, to rank from November 10, 1864. On April 8, 1861, he was assigned as chief of bureau of ordnance, Richmond, Va.; and served in this position until the close of the war. Shortly afterwards he was made superintendent of the Briarfield iron works. In 1870, he was elected vice-chancellor of the University of the South, Sewanee, Tenn., and in 1878 accepted the presidency of the University of Alabama. In February, 1879, his health suddenly gave way and he offered his resignation in June of that year. The board of trustees declined to accept it and adjourned to meet in September. At this meeting General Gorgas again tendered his resignation. It was reluctantly accepted and he was elected librarian, and with his wife had charge of the library until 1882, when he retired from office. Married: December 29, 1853, at Mobile, to Amelia Ross (q. v.), daughter of John and Sarah Ann (Haynsworth) Gayle (q. v.). Children: 1. William Crawford (q. v.); 2. Jessie, University; 3. Mary Gayle, University; 4. Christine, m. George De Clonet Palfrey, Franklin, La.; 5. Maria Bayne, University; 6. Richard Haynsworth, Washington, D. C. Last residence: University.

JOHN A. LANCASTER

GORGAS, WILLIAM CRAWFORD, surgeon general, U. S. Army, was born October 3, 1854, in Mobile, died July 4, 1920, in London, England, and is buried at Arlington; son of General Josiah Gorgas (q. v.) and Amelia Ross (Gayle) Gorgas (q. v.). He received his early education in private schools near Greensboro and the public schools of New Orleans, La. He attended the University of the South, Sewanee, Tenn., receiving the A. B. degree, in 1875, graduated from Bellevue hospital medical college, New York university, with the M. D. degree, in 1879, and served as interne at Bellevue hospital from 1878-80. He received the honorary degree of Sc. D. from the University of Pennsylvania, 1903, University of the South, 1904, Harvard university, 1908, Brown university, 1909, Jefferson medical college, 1909, and the honorary degree of LL. D. from the University of Alabama, 1910, and Tulane university, 1911. After completing his medical education he served as physician in the male insane hospital, Blackwell's Island, N. Y. City, 1877, insane hospital, Uarts Island, N. Y., 1880, and entered the U. S. Army as assistant surgeon, June 16, 1880, with the rank of first lieutenant; assistant surgeon with the rank of captain, June 16, 1885; brigade surgeon of volunteers with rank of major, June 4-July 6, 1898; major, medical corps, July 6, 1898; chief sanitary officer of Havana and in charge of sanitary work there, 1898-1902; colonel, medical corps, by special act of congress, March 3, 1903; surgeon general with rank of brigadier general, January 16, 1914; major general, surgeon general, March 4, 1915, and retired December 1, 1918, when he became director of yellow fever research work, Rockefeller foundation, and permanent director of the International health board. General Gorgas made his reputation by directly applying Major Walter Reed's discovery to the prevention of yellow fever. In 1901 he began to screen yellow fever patients and to destroy the mosquito carriers by the simple process of oiling the surfaces of all pools or collections of water. In less than three months he had freed Havana of the dread scourge for the first time in one hundred and fifty years. When the United States government took charge of the canal zone in 1904, a yellow fever epidemic was raging there and General Gorgas was put in command. In less than a year's time the disease had been completely stamped out and there has not been a single case since May, 1906. He accepted the invitation of the chamber of mines of Johannesburg, in 1913, and went to South Africa for the purpose of investigating the high death rate from pneumonia among the natives working in the mines at Rand and after a survey and study on the spot recommended many changes which had material effect in lowering the death rate. During the summer and fall of 1916 he spent several months in South America in making a preliminary survey for the Rockefeller foundation of localities still infested with yellow fever. In 1919 he was occupied with yellow fever investigation at Guayaquil. He had started on an expedition of exploring the African foci when overtaken by death in London. He received the Mary Kingsley medal from Liverpool school of tropical medicine, May 27, 1907, and gold medal from the American museum of safety, 1914. He was an honorary fellow, New York academy of medicine, 1908; associate fellow, College of physicians and surgeons, Philadelphia; associate member, Société de Pathologie otologique, Paris, 1908; president, American medical association, 1908-09; and of the American society of tropical medicine, 1910; member, American public health association; Association of military surgeons; U. S. delegate, First Pan-American medical congress, Santiago, Chile, 1908; honorary member, Association of American physicians. He was awarded the distinguished service medal, 1918; commander, French legion of honor, 1919; grand officer, Order of the crown of Italy, 1918. Married: September 15, 1885, at Cincinnati, Ohio, to Marie Cook, daughter of William and Martha (Guthrie) Doughty, of that place. Children: 1. Aileen Tyster. Last residence: Washington.

GORMAN, JOHN T., accountant, lawyer and postmaster, was born January 31, 1859, at La-Grange, Troup County, Ga.; son of Thomas E. and Annie M. (Westmoreland) Gorman. He was educated at the common schools, and was for one term a student at the Agricultural and mechanical college, Auburn. He began the practice of law in Opelika, 1896; was a notary public and ex-officio justice of the peace for eleven years; alderman of Opelika, four years, postmaster at Opelika, 1903-1907; and examiner of public accounts, 1901-1907. He is a Democrat. Unmarried. Residence: Mobile.

GOSSE, PHILIP HENRY, English naturalist, was born April 6, 1810, at Worcester, and died August 23, 1888, at St. Marychurch; son of Thomas Gosse, born 1765, died 1844, a miniature painter of skill and persistence, but unsuccessful financially. He taught a rural school near Pleasant Hill, Dallas County, from May 21 to December 24, 1838, and his observations are embodied in a little volume "Letters from Alabama," published in England, 1859. Mr. Gosse, while living at the home of Buddy Bohannon, sixteen miles southeast of Selma, wrote letters to the "Home Friend," a magazine in England, which were later issued in the volume above referred to. After his return to his native country, he engaged in literary pursuits and taught for a time. Married: (1) in 1848, to Emily Bowes, daughter of William and Hannah Bowes of Boston, U. S. A., who died in 1857; (2) in 1860, to Eliza Brightwen, of Saffron, Walden, England, who survived him. Children, by first marriage: 1. Edmund. Last residence: St. Marychurch, Eng.

GOULD, JAMES, grand treasurer, grand lodge of Masons, 1836.

GOULD, JOHN McKEE, farmer, civil engineer, chief deputy, U. S. marshal, and captain, C. S. Army, was born April 3, 1831, in Boligee, Greene County; son of William Proctor and Eliza Williams (Chotard) Gould (q. v.). He was educated at the University of Alabama, graduating in 1850, and in Virginia. In September, 1861, he enlisted in the Confederate service in Montgomery, in Company E, 20th Alabama infantry regiment, commanded by Col. Isham W. Garrott, and was elected first lieutenant, and promoted captain in September, 1862. In February, 1862, his regiment was sent to Knoxville, Tenn., and in 1863, it participated in the Kentucky campaign under Gen. Kirby Smith. His regiment was distinguished for valor at the battle of Port Gibson, May 1, 1863, and he was mentioned in the official reports for the fearless performance of duty. He served under Gen. Stephen D. Lee at Baker's Creek, and during the siege of Vicksburg. Later he was detailed on staff duty and appointed inspector-general of General Pettus' brigade, consisting of 20th, 23rd, 30th, 31st, and 46th, Alabama infantry regiments, Stevenson's division, Hood's corps, Army of Tennessee. In this capacity he served at the battles of Lookout Mountain, Missionary Ridge, and all the engagements of the Georgia campaign, from Dalton to Jonesboro, including Rocky Face, Resaca, where he was wounded, Kenesaw Mountain, the fights about Atlanta and the battle of Jonesboro. Later he took part in Hood's campaign in Tennessee, where on the night before the attack on Franklin he was severely wounded, losing the sight of his left eye, which incapacitated him early in 1865, when he rejoined the army at Hamburg, S. C. He served for a time on the staffs of Generals Shelley and Anderson; later he rejoined his brigade at Smithfield and was on duty until the surrender of Salisbury. At the close of the war he resumed his occupation as a farmer. He was assistant superintendent of the Alabama and Chattanooga railroad, 1871-72; assistant-engineer in the improvement of the Black Warrior and Tombigbee Rivers, 1878-89; and chief deputy United States marshal for the northern district of Alabama, 1893-97. Married: April 6, 1854, in Greene County, to Delia Francis Thornton. Last residence: Boligee.

GOULD, WILLIAM, manufacturer, was born November 5, 1830, in Scotland; son of James and Jeanette (Smith) Gould. He went to school in his native town until he was ten years old; went to work in the mines at Sankertown, and later at Verterville, Scotland, working in those places for almost twelve years; sailed from Scotland, September 4, 1852, for America; spent six months in the coal region of Pennsylvania; started for the South, stopping on the way in Clinton County, Pa., where he worked eight months; worked in the Swanton seam of coal in Maryland; went to Virginia where he obtained a contract to deliver two thousand tons of coal, and after filling the contract, returned to the Swanton mines in Maryland. In October, 1854, he came to Alabama, locating at Tuscaloosa, and soon after his arrival leased the coal mines about ten miles from the town. He made the first coke ever made in Alabama at those mines, in 1855. He went to Montevallo, May, 1855; opened and worked the Alabama mines at that point for two years; moved to St. Clair County, 1857, and took a contract from John M. Sims, of Talladega, to deliver ten thousand tons of coal, to be used for blacksmithing and household purposes; was engaged there for three years, then formed a copartnership with Mr. Sims and opened the Ragland mines, on Trout Creek; stopped work at the mines in the first year of the war, selling out his interest to Sims & Ragland in 1863; in the same year, sunk a shaft in the same place, and opened a slope four hundred feet deep; had three thousand tons of mined coal burned by Wilson's raiders in 1865; and in April, 1866, sold out his interest in seventeen hundred acres of the contiguous lands. From that point, he went to Selma and entered the brokerage business, after some months was deprived by a commercial crash of everything he owned except a small body of coal land in Shelby County, near Brock's Gap. He developed that property, and engaged in selling coke and coal in various parts of Alabama, 1867-1871; prospected for a year and a half, and struck the Pratt vein of coal; traced the vein from a point near Wheeling, to Village Creek; prospected for another brief period; opened the mines at Morris Station, on the Louisville & Nashville railroad, and the Jefferson mines, nearby; prospected for the Black Creek seam, on the land owned by Mr. Blake, and succeeded in finding it; returned in 1877, to the Pratt mines, and in partnership with H. T. Beggs, of Birmingham, began operations there. He had bought a small tract of land near Slope No. 1, and on hearing of his purpose to open the mines, the Eureka iron company expressed willingness to build a railroad. At this juncture, the Pratt coal & coke company bought up all the land around Mr. Gould's property, and as he lacked the financial ability to compete with the corporation, he was forced to sell out to the company. He next became interested in iron-ore lands in Franklin County, and in 1886, disposed of his interests advantageously. Married. Last residence: Clements.

GOULD, WILLIAM PROCTOR, public official, was born October 9, 1793, at Salem, Mass., and died October 7, 1867, at Boligee; son of Solomon and Eliza (Proctor) Gould, who lived in Salem, Mass.; grandson of Solomon Gould. His ancestors came from Wales about the close of the Revolutionary War. He was educated in the common schools of Salem, Mass., and commenced life as a clerk in that city. Some time later, he went to Bordeaux, France, where he remained four years, spending two years in the employ of a commission house, and two years in the office of the American consul. He returned to the United States, served as clerk in the fourth auditor's office at Washington, D. C., for two years, and as agent for the Choctaw Indians for two years. He became postmaster at Tuscaloosa in 1822, and was made register of the land office at the same time. After the passage of the bill prohibiting any person from holding two Federal offices at the same time, he gave up the position of postmaster. He was appointed by Gov. Fitzpatrick one of the commissioners to wind up the Alabama State bank and its different branches. How he performed this trust is a matter of history. He left Tuscaloosa in 1827 and went to Louisiana to wind up the estate of James William, his wife's uncle, having been made executor of the estate by the will. He moved to Greene County in 1829 to a small tract of land given him by Col. McKee; remained on this tract, adding largely to it, for the rest of his life. He was a Whig and a Royal Arch Mason. Married: April 23, 1823, at New Orleans, Eliza William Chotard, daughter of John Charles and Sarah Williams Chotard, who lived at Washington, Wilkes County, Ga. Her father was a Frenchman, who was left a widower with two children by the death of his first wife; was living in San Domingo at the time of the negro insurrection, and escaped to America; his son by his first marriage, Maj. Henry Chotard, served in Gen. Jackson's Indian campaigns, and was on Jackson's staff at the battle of New Orleans. Complimentary mention of Maj. Henry Chotard in connection with his ability in bringing off the artillery the night the English landed is made by Parten in his life of Jackson. Her mother was a native of Greenville, S. C., and was married when very young to Col. Henry Willis of Virginia; was left a widow with two children when she was twenty years old, and was married to Mr. Chotard in Greenville, S. C. Children: 1. Sarah Williams, b. June 11, 1824, m. (1) Samuel N. Gunday, (2) January 18, 1870, Col. James Innes Thornton; 2. Eliza Proctor, b. August 23, 1825, m. Horace Harding, left two children; 3. John McKee, b. April 3, 1831, was first lieutenant and captain, Twentieth Alabama regiment, C. S. Army, civil engineer, 1851-1854, 1871-1872, chief deputy U. S. marshal, Northern district of Alabama, 1893-1897, m. April 6, 1854, in Greene County, Delia Frances Thornton, daughter of Col. James Innes and Anna Amelia Thornton, five children, Mrs. Delia T. Means, postmistress at Boligee, Mrs. E. F. Bouchelle, Mrs. H. T. Bouchelle, J. M. McKee, jr., William P., cashier of the Milner & Kittig Company, Birmingham, and twenty-six grandchildren. Last residence: Boligee.

GRACE, BAYLIS EARLE, circuit clerk and sheriff, was born November 12, 1808, in Greenville District, S. C., and became an orphan at an early age; grandson of Joseph and Catherine Elizabeth Grace, the former a Revolutionary soldier who was killed in the battle of Eutaw Springs and his wife set fire to her own house rather than allow it to shelter the enemy. In 1827 Mr. Grace was taken into the office of Harrison W. Goyne, circuit clerk at Elyton, as his assistant and at the end of the term he was elected to the office defeating Hugh M. Caruthers. In 1835 and 1839 he was re-elected but resigned before the expiration of his term. He removed to the country at Grace's Gap, the point in Red Mountain where the Louisville and Nashville railroad cuts through. In 1844 he was elected sheriff of Jefferson County. He was appointed by Judge Forrest to make the sectional assessments of Jefferson County after the law required that division. In 1859 he was appointed general administrator and guardian for that county and held that office until 1863. He was among the first to realize the value of the mineral deposits of Red Mountain, and had the first iron ever made from the local ore smeltered and hammered into iron ore, the work being done in New Smith's puddling furnace in Bibb County. After this test he made the first sale of Birmingham district iron ore for manufacturing purposes. He was an expert rifleman, a poet and flutist. He was one of the first newspaper men of Jefferson County, editor of "Central Alabamian," successor to the "Jones Valley times," the first paper published in the county, a copy of which is to be found in the archives of the Tennessee historical society. Married: (1) to Jane Mitchell; (2) to Ann Eliza, daughter of John Cantley, a member of the legislature from Jefferson County. Children: by the first wife, 1. Francis Mitchell (q. v.); 2. a son, accidentally killed while at college in Athens, Ga.; 3. Bayliss Earle, jr., lawyer, Birmingham. Last residence: Jefferson County.

GRACE, DAVID BORDEN, editor, was born February 9, 1855, at Newbern; son of Francis Mitchell and Mary Jane (Borden) Grace (q. v.); grandson of Baylis Earle Grace (q. v.). He received his early education from his father and in the schools of Newbern, and later attended the University of Tennessee. After superintending his father's farm for a while he entered the newspaper business, 1875, in Birmingham. Later he removed to Montevallo where he published "The Guide." Three years later he purchased "The Sweetwater Democrat," Tenn., and edited that paper for four years. In 1884 he sold his interests in Tennessee and returned to Birmingham where he aided in founding the "Evening Chronicle" which he for a long time, successfully managed. Unmarried. Residence: Birmingham.

GRACE, FRANCIS MITCHELL, Methodist minister, teacher and editor, was born February 28, 1832, at Elyton, and died August 13, 1904, at Owenton; son of Baylis Earle and Ann (Mitchell) Grace (q. v.). He received his early education at Elyton academy, 1837-46; graduated at East Tennessee university, 1849, with the degree of M. A., and later received the honorary degree of D. D. from Hiwassee college. He entered the Methodist ministry and served the following pastorates: Newbern, 1853; Eufaula, 1854; Demopolis, 1855-56; Talladega, 1857-58; Tuscaloosa, 1859-60; Newbern, 1861-65. He edited the "Daily messenger," of Selma, 1866, and the following year he became professor of languages in the University of Tennessee, holding the position for three years. In 1871 he was made president of Hiwassee college, Tenn. From 1883 to 1888 he was president of Mansfield college, La.; professor in Hiwassee college, 1890-99; professor in Owenton college, 1900-02. Author: contributor to "North American review," "Methodist review," and leading church papers; editor "Alabama Christian Advocate," 1902. He was a fine Latin and Greek scholar. He was a Democrat. Married: (1) April 3, 1854, at Newbern, Hale County, to Mary Jane, daughter of David Wallace and Hope (Ward) Borden, of Beaufort, N. C. of Revolutionary ancestry; granddaughter of Joseph and Esther Borden, the former a member of the North Carolina convention that framed the constitution of that state of the Quaker faith, whose six of seven sons migrated to Hale County in 1836, founded the town of Newbern and helped to develop the canebrake by building roads, schools, churches and digging artesian wells; (2) to Catharine Green of Jefferson County; (3) to Ida F. Hoskins of Tennessee. Children: by the first wife, 1. David Borden (q. v.); 2. Bettie Pearce (Grace) Burwell, Birmingham; 3. Annie (Grace) Drake, Weatherford, Texas; by the second wife, 4. William; 5. Francis; 6. Janie; 7. Judith. Last residence: Owenton.

GRACIE, ARCHIBALD, brigadier-general, C. S. Army, was born December 1, 1832, in New York, was shot and instantly killed in battle, December 2, 1864, near the position known as "The Crater," and is buried in New York; son of Archibald Gracie, and wife, a Miss Bethune, of Charleston, S. C., the former a merchant of Mobile for seventeen years prior to the War of Secession. After receiving his elementary education he spent five years as a student in Europe, and was appointed in September, 1850, from New Jersey to the United States military academy. He graduated in the class of 1854 and was appointed brevet second lieutenant, 4th infantry. He served as escort to Governor Stevens and commissioners at the Walla Walla council, and was in expeditions against the Snake Indians. Resigning in 1857, he became a member of his father's firm, agents in Mobile and New Orleans of Messrs. Baring brothers of London. While in Mobile he joined the Washington light infantry and was elected captain. At the order of Governor Moore, he and his company seized the Mount Vernon arsenal just before the secession of Alabama. This company was mustered into the Confederate service as Company E, 3rd Alabama infantry regiment, which command proceeded to Richmond and on July 12, 1861, he was appointed major of the 11th Alabama infantry regiment. He commanded in March and April, 1862, a battalion composed of five companies of sharpshooters, taken from each of the regiments of Wilcox's brigade. This battalion was among the first to reenforce General Magruder at Yorktown, and was in the skirmish preceding the battle at Williamsburg. Authorized by the Confederate government, he organized the 43rd Alabama infantry regiment, of which he was made colonel, February 11, 1862. In July, he was assigned near Chattanooga to a command consisting of the 43rd Alabama, 55th Georgia and 1st Florida dismounted regiments, 12th Georgia battalion and the 1st Georgia battery. Because of the success of his expedition against Huntsville, Tenn., and the capture of Fort Cliff, he was appointed brigadier general upon the recommendation of Gen. Kirby Smith and received his commission, November 4, 1862. He led his regiment through the Kentucky campaign, was military governor of Lexington during the occupancy of the Confederates, and of Cumberland Gap after the return to Tennessee. His company served as rear guard of Braggs' army at Harrodsburg and Tullahoma. At the battle of Chickamauga he lost 705 killed of the 1,870 carried into action. After this battle his brigade was reorganized and he was ordered to form part of Longstreet's force in its march into east Tennessee. This force suffered severely at Bean's Station and General Gracie was wounded in the arm. He rejoined his brigade as soon as he recovered and was ordered to the Richmond and Petersburg lines, under General Beauregard. A horse was shot from under him in a skirmish before Richmond and at Drewry's Bluff he won commendation for his bravery. From July until his death his brigade served in the trenches before Petersburg. He was inspecting the enemy's line, with telescope in hand, when struck in the head by a bullet which caused instant death. Married: November 19, 1856, to Miss Mayo, of Virginia, niece of Gen. Winfield Scott. Children: two, among these, Archibald, engineer, of New York. Last residence: Mobile.

GRADY, JAMES WYLY, planter and legislator, was born May 25, 1866, at Stroud, Chambers County; son of John Dawson and Sarah Mitchell (Pate) Grady, the former a native of Fredonia, Chambers County, where he resided until 1861, when he removed to Stroud, enlisted in Co. A, 10th Confederate cavalry regiment, C. S. Army, in 1861, and served under Capt. John M. McKleroy for four years without a wound; grandson of James Monroe and Cathline (Heath) Grady, the former a soldier in the Confederate Army who died in July, 1863, while at home on a furlough, and of Mitchell and Sarah Lucinda (Johnston)

Pate; great-grandson of James Heath, who removed from South Carolina to Fredonia, and of William and Elizabeth (Grizle) Johnston, the latter removed with his wife from Monroe County, Ga., to Chambers County in 1830, and was a Revolutionary soldier; great-great-grandson of Joel Grizle, a Revolutionary soldier. All of these families were of Irish descent. Mr. Grady was educated in the common schools of his native county, and is a merchant and planter. He was appointed justice of the peace, 1904; member county board of education 1905-09, and 1912-14. He represented Chambers County in the legislature of 1915. He is a Democrat; a Missionary Baptist; and a Mason. Married: March 3, 1889, at Cumbee's Mill, near Stroud, to Emma Judson, daughter of Rev. John and Caroline (Spurlin) Cumbee, of that place, the former removed from South Carolina to Heard County, Ga., thence to Alabama; granddaughter of Rev. James M. Spurlin. Children: 1. Eddie Judson, m. Ben H. Walker, LaGrange, Ga.; 2. Henry Wyly; 3. John Cumbee; 4. Joseph Allen; 5. Caroline Lucile; 6. Lerah Laconia. Residence: Stroud.

GRAGG, HENRY, soldier of the American Revolution, a resident of Shelby County; private, particular service not disclosed; enrolled on April 26, 1836, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $30.—Pension Book, Mobile State Branch Bank. He resided in Shelby County, June 1, 1840, aged 79.—Census of Pensioners, 1841, p. 149.

GRAHAM, ANDREW, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 78, and a resident of Franklin County; private S. C. Militia; enrolled on January 30, 1833, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $33.66; sums received to date of publication of list, $84.15.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34.

GRAHAM, DUNCAN BLUE, State treasurer, was born about 1814, in Fayetteville, N. C., and died March 30, 1866, in Montgomery; son of Dougal Baxter and Flora (Blue) Graham, the former a native of Cumberland County, N. C., married and settled in Robeson County, in 1816, moved with his family to Telfair County, Ga., where in 1818 Mrs. Graham died, in 1831 moved to Autauga County, where he died September 30, 1835; grandson of Archibald and Mary (Baxter) Graham, the former was born about 1735 in Argyleshire, the latter a native of Inverary, Scotland, who came to America about 1768, first settled in Cumberland County, afterwards moved to Richmond County, N. C., and of Duncan and Margaret (Graham) Blue, of Cumberland County, N. C., the former was born in Argyleshire, in 1741, and died in 1828 in Cumberland County, married in 1775 and had three children, Daniel, Weill, and Flora; great-grandson of John and Elizabeth (Smiley) Graham, both emigrated from Argyleshire, Scotland, in 1766 and settled in Cumberland County, N. C., and of Malcom and Sarah (Smith) Blue, both natives of Argyleshire, Scotland. Duncan Blue Graham was well educated. He was especially adapted to methodical office work, and the official records indicate painstaking care. He was a cashier in the State branch bank at Montgomery, 1836 and 1837; register of land office, 1844-1848; clerk in the State treasurer's office, 1856-1860; State treasurer, 1860-1865; and offered for a third term after the war but was defeated by only one vote. He was a Democrat; and a Presbyterian. Married: May 10, 1838, at Montgomery, to Susan Ann, daughter of John and Mary Elliott of Fayetteville, N. C. Children: 1. Emily Ann; 2. Alice, of Montgomery; 3. Sarah Isabel, m. Thomas Benton Martin; 4. infant; 5. Mamie Elliott, unm.; 6. William Duncan; 7. Florence Leonora, m. J. S. Northington, of Montgomery; 8. Fanny Cunningham, m. Charles A., son of Malcolm A. Chisholm (q. v.); 9. Lucy Ellen, d. in infancy; 10. Infant son; 11. Susan Oliver, m. John, son of Malcolm A. Chisholm (q. v.); 12. infant; 13. Malcom Daniel. Last residence: Montgomery.

GRAHAM, EDWARD ALFRED, lawyer and mayor, was born October 18, 1852, near Wetumpka, then in Coosa, now in Elmore County, and died in Montgomery, July 1, 1904; son of Malcolm Daniel and Amelia (Ready) Graham; the former was educated at Transylvania university, Ky., admitted to the bar, clerk of the Alabama house of representatives, 1853, removed to Henderson, Tex., where he was state senator, 1857, and attorney general, 1859-1861; entered Confederate service with rank of colonel, but in 1862 was elected to the Confederate congress; returned to Alabama in 1866, and practiced law in Montgomery until his death in 1878; brother of Malcolm A. Graham (q. v.); grandson of John G. and Jeannette (Smith) Graham of Autauga County, and of Aaron and Jerusha (Sims) Ready, of Wetumpka. The Graham family came to America after the battle of Culloden, one branch from Inveraray, Scotland, the other from Ulster, Ireland, and located in North Carolina. The Smiths are also of Scotch origin, and with the Readys were early settlers in Alabama. E. A. Graham received his elementary education at Henderson, Tex., and at Green Springs academy, under Dr. Henry Tutwiler; entered Washington and Lee university in 1870, but left in 1872 before graduation. He came to the bar in 1874; was clerk of the circuit court of Montgomery County, 1877; was a member of the house of representatives, 1882-83, and the State senate, 1886-87, and 1888-89; was one of the four delegates from Montgomery County to the constitutional convention in 1901; was twice recorder of the city of Montgomery; was elected mayor in 1889, and declined renomination; and was eight years city attorney, voluntarily retiring in 1901. In 1895 he prepared a city code for Montgomery. He was at one time captain of the Montgomery Greys. He was a Democrat; some time secretary of the State Democratic executive committee; a Presbyterian; an Odd Fellow; Red Man; Knight of Honor; Elk, and Knight of Pythias, married:

December 28, 1876, at Eufaula, to Sallie Clayton, daughter of Dr. Wm. H. and Mary Butler (Shorter) Thornton; great-great-granddaughter of Matthew Thornton of New Hampshire, one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence, and niece of Gov. John Gill Shorter (q. v.). Children: 1. Amelia, m. John Mays Stokely, of Newport, Tenn.; 2. Anna, m. Rev. Eugene Lott Hill, Eufaula; 3. Mary; 4. Edward Thornton, major in the European War, m. Lottie Baker, resides in Montgomery; 5. Dorothy. Last residence: Montgomery.

GRAHAM, HAMILTON C., editor, member of Alabama legislature and circuit clerk, was born July 20, 1840, in Warren County, N. C. He received his early education at Trinity college, Hartford, Conn., and at the University of North Carolina, which institution conferred upon him the degrees of A. B. and A. M. Leaving college he entered Ramseur's artillery as a private, at the end of the four months he was promoted lieutenant and assigned to the 22nd North Carolina infantry regiment, C. S. Army. Later he was transferred to the Seventh North Carolina infantry regiment. Having been wounded at the battle of Gaines Mill, he was promoted to captaincy of his company; afterwards assigned to Gen. Breckenridge's staff in Southwest Virginia as judge advocate general of that department. He remained in that position until the close of the war, at which time he came to Dallas County, Ala., and engaged in farming. He was clerk of the circuit court, 1876-80, having been appointed by Gov. George S. Houston. In 1884, he represented Dallas County in the legislature. In November, 1886, he identified himself with the "Selma Times." He delivered the address at the unveiling of the Confederate monument, at New Bern, N. C., in 1885, in response to a special invitation given by the ladies of that city. Married: July, 1886, in Dallas County, to May J. Mosley, daughter of L. B. Mosley. Residence: Selma.

GRAHAM, JOHN S., lawyer, living in 1913. Residence: Jackson.

GRAHAM, JOHN YOUNG, teacher, was born December 31, 1869, at Montgomery, Orange County, N. Y.; son of Gardiner Spring and Annie (Williams) Graham, the former born at Montgomery, N. Y., lives at Roberts, St. Croix County, Wis.; grandson of William and Hannah (Houston) Graham, of Montgomery, N. Y., and of William and Susan Williams, immigrants from Germany; great-grandson of James Graham, immigrant from Ireland. Dr. Graham obtained his early education at Montgomery, N. Y., and in Siglar's preparatory school at Newburgh; graduated at Princeton university, B. S., 1892, and M. S. in 1894; went abroad and graduated at the University of Munich, Germany, with the degree of Ph.D., 1897. From 1897 to date he has successfully taught biology at the University of Alabama. He is a Democrat; a Presbyterian, and member of Phi Beta Kappa college fraternity. Married: July 5, 1900, at Mt. Vernon, N. Y., to Isabella, daughter of Wilhelm and Sophia Hummel, of Munich. Residence: University.

GRAHAM, JOSEPH BROWN, teacher, was born March 18, 1864, at Spring Garden, Cherokee County, and died as the result of an accident, July 6, 1903, at Talladega; son of William Harris and Myra Elizabeth (Penland) Graham, the former a native of Marlborough District, S. C., a Confederate soldier, served in General Joseph Wheeler's escort for three years; grandson of John and Charlotte (Brown) Graham of South Carolina, and of George and Eleanor (Whiteside) Penland of Asheville, N. C. He received his preparatory education in the Spring Garden high school; graduated from Oxford college, A. B., 1880; and was given the honorary degree of A. M. by Howard college. He taught at Spring Garden, 1883-86; Union City, Tenn., one year; was superintendent city schools of Talladega, 1887-93; read law with Charles C. Whitson at Talladega and admitted to the bar in 1893. He was a member of the board of examiners of public schools of Cherokee County, 1884-86; superintendent education of Talladega County, 1889-1903; member of the board of education of Talladega, 1899-1903; delegate to the Constitutional convention, 1901; vice-president State Democratic convention, 1900. He was treasurer of the Alabama educational association, 1890-91; chairman of its executive committee, 1891-1903; president of the association, 1894; president county superintendents organization, 1899-1900. He was a Baptist; and a member of the Knights of Pythias. Married: December 12, 1900, to Lera, daughter of Charles and Emma (Davis) Jones, of Talladega. Children: 1. Joseph Brown jr. Last residence: Talladega.

GRAHAM, MALCOLM A., business man, was born July 27, 1859, at Henderson, Rusk County, Tex.; son of Malcolm Daniel and Amelia Cunningham (Ready) Graham; brother of Edward Alfred Graham (q. v.); grandson of John Graham and Jeanette (Smith) Graham, of Rocky Mount, Autauga County, and of Aaron and Jerusha Jones (Sims) Ready, who lived at Wetumpka. The Graham family came from Inveraray, Scotland, and settled in Mecklenburg County, N. C. Malcolm Daniel Graham was born in Autauga County, living at Wetumpka and Montgomery, later removing to Henderson, Tex. He was at one time attorney-general of Texas, was colonel in the C. S. Army and a member of the Confederate congress from Texas. Representative Graham was educated in the private school of Prof. Thomas C. Bragg, Montgomery, and attended the University of Alabama during the year 1879. He is engaged in the banking and insurance business in Prattville; has been a member of the city council of Prattville for sixteen years and mayor for four years; was a member of the board of revenue for Autauga County for two terms; has been a trustee of the Alabama girls' technical institute, Montevallo, for fourteen years; was a member of the jury commission for two terms; and was elected representative in the State legislature, 1919. He was a lieutenant of the Montgomery True Blues and captain of the Birmingham field artillery. He is a Democrat; a Presbyterian; a Mason; Knight of Pythias; and an Odd Fellow. Married, November 2, 1882, at Prattville, to Ellen Leonora, daughter of Alexander Kirkpatrick and Mary S. McWilliams, of Prattville. Children: 1. Edward A.; 2. Mary Ellen, m. Charles Forrest Collier. Residence: Prattville.

WILLIAM R. HOUGHTON

GRAHAM, NEILL SMITH, lawyer and member Alabama legislature, was born October 7, 1818, in Moore County, N. C., and died February 1, 1886, at Tuskegee; son of John Graham and Jeannette (Smith) Graham, the former a major in the U. S. Army, who moved to Alabama in 1821; grandson of Archibald and Euphemia (Graham) Graham of Inveraray, Argyllshire, Scotland, who later settled in Richmond County, N. C., the former an officer in the War of the Revolution, and of Neill and Mary (McNeill) Smith of Moore County, N. C.; great-grandson of Archibald and Mary (Baxter) Graham. Although having the same family name Archibald and Euphemia Graham were not related. The name Graham is one of note in Scotland, descendants of Montrose and of Claverhouse. "Graham Dyke," built across the Firth of Forth to the Clyde in 209 A. D. by Septimus Severus, the Roman Emperor, was connected with history of the Graham ancestry. "The Laurels" was the lodge name of the Graham clan. Mr. Graham received his preparatory education in his native state and entered college at Burlington, Vt. After one session there he went to Princeton, where he graduated in 1839, and from which he received the honorary degree of LL. D., 1881. He studied law under Hon. Seth P. Storrs, of Wetumpka; was admitted to the bar and entered upon the practice at Tuskegee; was elected to the legislature from Coosa County, 1851-55; elected chancellor of the eastern division, 1874, and re-elected in 1880. At his own expense in 1863, he organized a company of which he was elected captain and which was assigned to the 61st Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army, and later was promoted lieutenant colonel of the regiment. He was a few months later incapacitated for military duty by a stroke of lightning. On April 25, 1864, he was appointed commissioner of the 7th congressional district. He was a Democrat; a Presbyterian; a Mason; and an Odd Fellow. Married: November 23, 1841, in Wetumpka, to Ellen Rogers, daughter of Alexander Robert and Frances (Rogers) Catchings of that place, natives of York, S. C.; granddaughter of Robert and Mary (Hutchinson) Hutchinson, the latter of an Irish family and the sister of Eliza Hutchinson, wife of Robert Jackson and mother of Andrew Jackson. Children: 1. Mattie Hutchinson, m. William L. Crawford, Tuskegee; 2. Robert Hutchinson; 3. Fanny Hutchinson; 4. Jeanette Smith, m. Judge P. S. Holt, Tuskegee; 5. Mary Eliza, m. J. M. Borroughs, Austin, Texas; 6. Alexander Hutchinson, m. Nelie Ligon, Dallas, Texas; 7. John Gurdon; 8. Ellen Caroline, m. R. H. Motley, Tuskegee; 9. Margaret Holman; 10. Neill Smith, jr., m. Ruby Martin, San Antonio, Texas; 11. Malcolm, m. (1) Carry Sampson; (2) Portia Ferris, Galveston, Texas. Last residence: Tuskegee.

GRAHAM, WILLIAM, State treasurer, 1846.

GRANT, ISAAC, editor and publisher, was born April 17, 1828, at Swansboro, Onslow County, N. C., and died at Grove Hill, Clarke County, December 4, 1907; son of Isaac and Elizabeth (Hellen) Grant; the former emigrated from North Carolina to Alabama in 1832, and settled as a farmer six miles west of Linden, where he lived until his death in the spring of 1834, or 1835; grandson of Basil and Elizabeth (Watson) Grant, and the great-grandson of Stephen Grant, whose father several years before the American revolution emigrated from Pennsylvania to North Carolina. The Grant family is of Scotch descent. After the death of her husband Mrs. Basil Grant married a Mr. Pitts, to whom she bore three children. The Hellen family were emigrants from Maryland to North Carolina as was also the Newbold family. Isaac Grant, jr., was reared on the farm and received the best education attainable in the country schools of Marengo and Dallas Counties. He followed a farmer's life until July, 1853, when he became a partner with his brother, Walter H. Grant, in the "Linden Jeffersonian," taking the place of Mr. David B. Hooper who was one of its founders. He was connected with the Jeffersonian until November 12, 1855, when he located in Grove Hill, Clarke County, and on January 31, 1856, began the publication of the "Grove Hill Democrat," later the "Clarke County Democrat," and which with the exception of a few months' suspension immediately after the war, he edited and published as long as he lived. In 1857 he was elected superintendent of education of Clarke County; in 1866 was appointed by Robert M. Patton to fill a vacancy in the office of probate judge; he served as a member of the house of representatives from Clarke County, 1882-83, 1884-85, and 1894-95; and he was elected State senator for the session of 1896-97, from the district composed of the counties of Clarke, Choctaw and Washington. He was a Democrat; a Baptist; and a Mason. Married: September 22, 1858, in Grove Hill, to Mary Melissa, daughter of Elijah Stewart and Amelia Benson (Chapman) Pugh of Grove Hill; and granddaughter of Joseph Chapman, who settled in the vicinity of Grove Hill just before the outbreak of the Creek War of 1813-14. Mrs. Grant died September 8, 1896. Children: 1. Isaac Stewart, deceased; 2. Mary Elizabeth, m. Dr. J. W. Armistead; 3. Bryan William, deceased; 4. Annie Louise, m. George Carleton, and resides at Grove Hill; 5. Mittie May, m. John S. Gillis. Last residence: Grove Hill.

GRANT, JAMES BENTON, ex-governor of Colorado, was born January 2, 1848, in Russell County; son of Thomas McDonough and Mary (Benton) Grant; brother of Whit McDonough Grant (q. v.). At the age of sixteen he enlisted in the C. S. Army, serving for one year, and at the close of the war located in Iowa. He was educated at the Iowa agricultural college, Cornell university, and School of mines, Freiburg, Saxony. He settled in Denver after finishing his education; became interested in mines and smelting furnaces in Gilpin County and Leadville; joined his business with another company, later consolidating with other smelting companies and becoming the American smelting and refining company, of which he was a member of the executive committee. He was vice-president of the Denver national bank, and governor of Colorado, 1883-85. Married: January 19, 1881, to Mary Matteson Goodell, of Chicago. Last residence: Denver.

GRANT, JAMES FREEMAN, editor and State treasurer, was born December 29, 1808, at Rockford, Surry County, N. C., and died October 10, 1878, in Jacksonville. His father died about 1814, in Raleigh, N. C., and his mother was Temperance Freeman. In 1834 he came to Alabama to take charge of a Baptist paper and the following year established the "Jacksonville Republican." In 1870 he was elected State treasurer, and in 1872 was renominated for the office but was defeated. Married: in 1834, at Madisonville, Tenn., to Elizabeth Le Fevre Riley. Children: one son and four daughters, among these, 1. Leonidas W. (q. v.); 2. Leonora, m. Mr. Kirk. Last residence: Jacksonville.

GRANT, JEREMIAH, soldier of the American Revolution, a resident of Tuscaloosa County; private 6th Regular U. S. Infantry; enrolled on July 12, 1822, payment to date from April 12, 1820; annual allowance, $96; acts military establishment.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34.

GRANT, LEONIDAS WILLIAM, lawyer, editor and publisher, was born August 8, 1842, at Jacksonville; son of James Freeman and Elizabeth L. (Riley) Grant (q. v.). His early education was received in the schools of his native town; entered Wesleyan university at Florence in 1860, as a sophomore and left in 1861 to join the C. S. Army; enlisted in Co. G, 10th Alabama infantry regiment as a private, promoted to sergeant major and subsequently adjutant of the regiment with the rank of captain, and surrendered at Appomattox with Gen. Robert E. Lee, at the close of the war. He participated in all the engagements in which his regiment took part, except the battles of Cold Harbor and the Wilderness. He was licensed to practice law at Jacksonville, in 1866, but in 1867 removed to Gadsden, where he founded the "Gadsden Evening Times," and bought half interest in "Jacksonville Republican," in 1870. He was member of the house of representatives, 1874-75, and in the senate, 1880-81, 1881-82, 1888-89, and 1890-91; and a member of the constitutional convention of 1901 from the fourth congressional district. He was a Mason; a Knight of Pythias, and a Methodist. Married: November 5, 1867, in Jacksonville, Annie Amelia, daughter of John Foster. Last residence: Anniston.

GRANT, THOMAS McDONOUGH, physician and planter, was born September 11, 1814, in Halifax County, N. C., and died June 27, 1881, at Seale, Russell County; son of James and Elizabeth Coffield (Whitaker) Grant, the former a native of North Carolina, born February 26, 1791, and died at Raleigh in 1834, at the time comptroller of the State of North Carolina; grandson of James and Martha (Bustin) Grant, the former a native of Scotland, who emigrated to America soon after the battle of Culloden, having fought on the side of the Pretender, and settled near Raleigh, and of Matthew Cary Whitaker of Shell Castle, Halifax County, N. C., descendant of English ancestors who located in Virginia and later removed to the former state, who left school at seventeen to enter the Revolutionary Army, was desperately wounded at the battle of Guilford Court House and did not return home for a year. It was supposed that he was dead and his estate was administered. Thomas McDonough Grant was educated in private schools in Raleigh, his elder brother, the late Judge James Grant of Davenport, Iowa, being one of his teachers. He received his professional education in the Jefferson medical college of Philadelphia, and in the Medical college of Charleston, S. C., from which he graduated. Although a great sufferer from rheumatism he lived an arduous professional life in Russell County, and also successfully conducted large planting interests. He was active in politics and all charitable efforts. In spite of being greatly reduced by the results of the war, he retained a fine courage to the last. He was a Democrat, and a Methodist. Married: December 14, 1841, at Ft. Mitchell, Russell County, at the home of her uncle, Col. John Crowell, to Mary Jane, daughter of James and Elizabeth (Crowell) Benton who lived at Edgecombe County, N. C. James Benton was a member of the North Carolina legislature. Children: 1. Elizabeth, Coffield, m. Capt. George Gilmer Ragland of Columbus, Ga., resides in Denver, Colo.; 2. Sarah Young, m. Charles Whitaker of North Carolina, resides in Birmingham; 3. William West, physician and surgeon, author of many articles in subjects connected with his profession, Confederate soldier, Denver, Colo.; 4. James Benton, ex-governor of Colorado, born in Russell County, January 2, 1848, served for one year in the Confederate Army at the age of sixteen, later located in Iowa, was educated at the Agricultural college of that state, at Cornell university, and in the School of mines at Freiberg, Saxony, m. Mary Matteson Goodell of Chicago, January 19, 1881, and five years later settled in Denver; there became interested in mines and smelting furnaces in Gilpin County and Leadville; after being affiliated with several different smelting companies which were merged into the American smelting and refining company, of which he was an official, he entered the banking business, being vice-president of the Denver national bank; was elected governor of Colorado, 1883-85, being a Democrat in politics; 5. David Coffield, Davenport, Iowa; 6. Whitaker McDonough, lawyer, graduate of University of Iowa, 1873, member Iowa legislature, 1884-85, U. S. attorney for Alaska, 1887-89, closing up the disputed sealing questions so long pending with Great Britain, first mayor of Oklahoma City, Okla., after the adoption of the commission form of government, 1911-15, a Democrat, m. Kate W. Weagley of Jacksonville, Ill., October 9, 1878, resides in Oklahoma City; 7. Thomas McDonough. Last residence: Seale.

GRANT, WHIT McDONOUGH, lawyer, was born April 26, 1851, at Seale; son of Thomas McDonough and Mary (Benton) Grant; brother of James Benton Grant (q. v.). He graduated from the State university of Iowa, 1873; began the practice of law at Davenport, Ia., 1873; member of Iowa legislature, 1884-85; U. S. attorney for Alaska, 1887-89, closing up the sealing cases long in dispute between the United States and Great Britain; removed to Oklahoma City, in practice there since 1893, and first mayor under the commission form of government, 1911-15. He is a Democrat. Married: October 9, 1878, to Kate W. Weagley, of Jacksonville, Ill. Residence: Oklahoma City, Okla.

GRAVES, BARZILLAI, lawyer and legislator, was born March 12, 1802, in Caswell County, N. C., and died September 21, 1867, near Tuskegee. There are no records attainable as to names of his parents, and the only known fact connected with them is that he was one of six brothers, all of whom he survived. He was educated at the University of North Carolina, and afterwards studied law under Judge Henderson in Hillsborough. Soon after being admitted to the bar, he was made solicitor of the judicial district, and continued his law practice until his removal to Georgia, about 1832. Shortly after settling in the state, he attended the second great nullification meeting held in the state. It was a time of great excitement, and some of the most distinguished citizens of Georgia were speakers on the occasion. All were in favor of nullification and their impassioned oratory inspired their audience with the wildest enthusiasm. Judge Graves was a Jackson Democrat, and he alone took the stand on the side of the president. Regardless of the threats of violence, he bore himself with dignity and courage and fearlessly spoke in defense of the position of the president. He bore in silence and with composure the taunt of "Federalist" and false to his section, and yet years after, in the changes wrought by time, his traducers themselves openly regarded him as a most desirable person for governor of the state. In 1837 he was appointed one of the trustees of the University of Georgia, an office he so held as to promote the cause of education in the state. In the fall of this year he removed to southwest Georgia, and devoted himself to agricultural pursuits. During these years he twice represented his senatorial district in the state legislature. In 1844 he was district elector on the Polk and Dallas ticket. This was his last political service. After this he became very averse to political life with its toils and excitements and ceased to have any desire for its honors, though the governorship of the state itself lay within his grasp had he only yielded to the wishes of his friends. Thenceforth he led a serious, retired life. He was a man very scholarly in his tastes, devoted to learning, and his reading if not extensive, was deep and profound. He was courteous and dignified in his bearing, and was loved by all who knew him. In the fall of 1851 he moved to near Tuskegee, for the purpose of educating his children. Throughout the war period he was actively devoted to the Southern cause. He continued his industrial pursuits and enjoyed his usual health until the fall of 1867, when he contracted a severe chill while on his way from his plantation, in Butler County to his home near Tuskegee. The chill was followed by a fever which terminated his life. He was a Baptist. Married: July 13, 1837, to Sarah M. Goneke of Athens, Ga. Children: Of the four, the names of three are preserved, 1. W. W., who became a Baptist minister; 2. E. L., born May 11, 1845, in Randolph County, Ga., was a Confederate soldier; 3. Sarah, m. L. J. Threadgill. Last residence: Tuskegee.

GRAVES, DAVID BIBB, lawyer, adjutant general of Alabama, and colonel U. S. Army, was born April 1, 1873, at Hope Hull, Montgomery County; son of David and Mattie (Bibb) Graves, the former spent most of his life in Texas; grandson of Russell Graves, and of Richard J. and Elizabeth (Spivey) Bibb, the former a descendant of Benjamin Bibb, a native of Wales, who came to America in colonial times, the latter a granddaughter of Aaron Spivey, a Revolutionary soldier from North Carolina, who died in Elmore County. Colonel Graves was educated in the public schools of Texas; attended the University of Alabama from which he graduated, C. E., 1893; took the law course in the University of Texas, 1893-94; and in 1896 received the LL. B. degree from Yale university. In March, 1897, he entered upon the practice of his profession in Montgomery and has resided in that city since. He was a member of the house of representatives, 1898-99, and 1900-01. He was captain, Alabama corps of cadets, 1892-93; has been aide-de-camp on the staff of Brigadier General Louis V. Clark, with rank of captain, and assistant adjutant general under the same officer, with rank of major. He was appointed adjutant general in January, 1907 by Gov. B. B. Comer and held that position until 1911. In 1916 he was chairman of the State Democratic executive committee. He assisted Gen. R. E. Steiner to organize the 1st Alabama cavalry regiment, A. N. G., of which he became lieutenant colonel. Upon the promotion of Gen. Steiner to brigadier commander, he became colonel of the regiment, which was mustered into the Federal service September, 1916, ordered to San Antonio, Texas, December of that year, returned to Alabama March, 1917. Upon the return of the regiment from the Mexican border, the United States being at war with Germany, Col. Graves was engaged with his regiment in guarding railroads, bridges, warehouses, etc. On October 1, 1917, the 1st Alabama cavalry regiment was transformed into the 116th and 117th field artilleries and became part of the 51st artillery brigade, at Camp Wheeler, Macon, Ga. Colonel Graves took command of the 117th Field artillery. He is a graduate of the School of fire for field artillery officers at Ft. Sill, and saw service with the 31st Division in France; returned from overseas, December, 1918, and was honorably discharged from the service, January, 1919. He organized the Alabama department of the American Legion in Alabama and was the temporary chairman during the period of organization. He is a Democrat, and a member of the Christian church. Married: October 10, 1900, at Montgomery, to Dixie, daughter of Peyton and Isabel (Thorpe) Bibb, of that place. Residence: Montgomery.

GRAVES, EUGENE HAMILTON, merchant and farmer, son of Eugene Lewis and Carrie (Hamiter) Graves (q. v.). He entered the Alabama polytechnic institute in 1889, and graduated with the degree of B. S., 1892; joined the Alabama national guard as a private in Co. F, 1st regiment and was soon afterwards promoted to the rank of lieutenant, holding that commission at the outbreak of the Spanish-American War. On volunteering for active service he was commissioned captain of Co. C, 2nd Alabama regiment, and served until the close of hostilities. On the reorganization of the national guard he was elected major of the 1st battalion of the 2nd regiment and in 1901 was elected colonel of the regiment and served for four years. He retired from the service for two years, but was appointed by Gov. B. B. Comer as inspector of rifle practice, upon the organization of the 4th regiment, 1911, he was unanimously elected colonel. In 1916 when the United States found it necessary to place troops along the Mexican border on account of threatened war between the two nations, Colonel Graves was with his regiment, mustered into Federal service, July 1, 1916, and went to Texas. In 1917 he resigned from the service. Unmarried. Residence: Eufaula.

GRAVES, EUGENE LEWIS, planter and member State legislature, was born May 14, 1845, in Cuthbert, Randolph County, Ga.; son of Barrzillia and Sarah Maria (Goneker) Graves, of Georgia but later, and at the time of death residents of Tuskegee. He received his early education from Mrs. Sayre, in Tuskegee, and later attended the Tuskegee military institute. He was for one year a student in the University of Alabama. In 1866 he was made principal of the Brooklyn academy, and assistant principal of Bethel academy, Ft. Deposit, 1887. Later he became a planter and afterwards devoted himself solely to agricultural pursuits. He represented Barbour County in the Alabama legislature, 1894-95, 1896-97, 1900-01. He served as 2nd lieutenant, Co. B, 61st Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army, from December 2, 1863, until the close of the war; and was appointed captain of Co. B, 1st regiment, A. S. T., May, 1887. He is a Democrat; and a Baptist. Married: April 17, 1867, near Batesville, Barbour County, to Carrie Hamilton. Residence: Harris.

GRAVES, FERNANDO D., teacher, was born November 10, 1871, at Newburgh, Franklin County; son of Isaac La Fayette and Cynthia

Ann (Bishop) Graves, the former a planter who served as commissioner for Colbert County for a number of years; grandson of Thomas and Cynthia Ann Graves, of Blountsville and Newburgh, and of Isaac Bishop and wife, a Miss Hamlin, of Huntsville and Blountsville; great-great-great-great grandson of Peter Graves, a Revolutionary soldier. The Graveses are of Irish and Dutch descent and the Bishops of Irish and English. Both families migrated to Alabama from North Carolina about 1800. He received his early education in the rural schools of Franklin County; attended the Florence normal school for two and a half years; received the degrees of B. S., in 1909, and M. S. 1910, from the University of Alabama. He has taught since the age of sixteen and has held several principalships. He is a Democrat; a Baptist; and a Knight of Pythias. Married: October 27, 1897, at Equality, to Laura Elizabeth, daughter of William H., Sr., and Josie Alma (Ingram) Kilgore, of that place, the former a member of the 1st Alabama cavalry, C. S. Army. Children: 1. Annie Ruth; 2. Evelyn; 3. Jewel. Residence: Ashland.

GRAVES, PEYTON SMITH, farmer and merchant, was born February 25, 1827, at Lowndesboro, and died June 26, 1892; son of William and Mary (Durham) Graves, the former a native of Lexington, Oglethorpe County, Ga., who located at Lowndesboro, where he passed the last thirty years of his life, a brother of Rev. Peyton Smith Graves (q. v.); grandson of William and Sarah (Smith) Graves, natives of Henry County, Va., the former a member of the transportation department in that state during the Revolutionary War, married in 1784 and removed to Oglethorpe County, Ga., whose brother, David Graves, moved to Kentucky and Graves County, that State, was named in his honor. Mr. Graves received his education at Lowndesboro, where at that time there were excellent academics for both sexes; was a farmer in Montgomery County, and in De Soto Parish, La.; and was later a salesman in a large mercantile house in New Orleans. He was a Democrat; a Methodist; and a Mason. Married: December 1, 1852, at McGehee's Switch, Montgomery County, to Sarah Mildred, daughter of Abner and Jane (Gilmer) McGehee (q. v.). Children: 1. Sallie, m. Alexander Humphreys Clarke, Hope Hull. Last residence: New Orleans, La.

GRAVES, PEYTON SMITH, Methodist Protestant minister, was born March 3, 1799, at Lexington, Oglethorpe County, Ga.; son of William and Sarah (Smith) Graves, natives of Henry County, Va., who were married in 1784; the former member of the transportation department of the Revolutionary Army removed soon after that war to Georgia, and in 1817 to Lowndes County. He was one of the first Methodist Protestant ministers of the State. Married: Miss Paterson, of Baltimore, Md.

GRAY, BARON DEKALB, Baptist minister, for a number of years a resident of Alabama, was born June 18, 1855, near Waynesboro, Miss.; son of Major John Larkin and Caroline (Salter) Gray, both of that State; grandson of Clinch and Margaret (Evans) Gray, the former a government surveyor in the Mississippi Territory, a member of the first constitutional convention of Mississippi, and of David Salter of Neshoba County, Miss. Dr. Gray received his early education at Pierce's Springs academy and the schools of Clarke County; graduated from Mississippi college, at Clinton, A. M., 1878; received from the same college the honorary degree of D. D., 1890, LL. D., 1904; graduated from the Southern Baptist theological seminary, 1883; ordained as a Baptist minister, 1878; has served churches in Kentucky, Mississippi, Georgia and Alabama, at one time being stationed at Birmingham, where he was a member of the Howard college board of trustees; was president of Georgetown college, 1901-1903; and since 1903 corresponding secretary of the Home mission board of the Southern Baptist convention at Atlanta, Ga. He is the editor of the publications of the board. Married: December 9, 1884, at Raymond, Miss., to Alma, daughter of Capt. William Thomas and Mary (Cook) Ratliff, of that place. Residence: Atlanta, Ga.

GRAY, HENRY BRAMLETTE, banker and lieutenant-governor, was born February 8, 1867, at Calhoun, Gordon County, Ga.; son of Zachary Thompson and Hannah Elizabeth (Kiker) Gray, the former a native of Stone Mountain, Ga., enlisted in Co. G, 2nd Georgia volunteers, C. S. Army, and rose to the rank of captain of the company; grandson of John and Chloe Gray, and of Evan Alexander and Jane (Smith) Kiker, residents respectively of Summerville, and Calhoun, Ga. He was educated in the public schools of Calhoun and Atlanta; entered upon a newspaper career in 1885 in the service of the "Atlanta Constitution;" removed in 1887, to Birmingham and was on the staff of the "Birmingham Age-Herald" until 1892; elected 1896 to the board of alderman; and in 1897 to the board of education which position he held for a number of years; was treasurer of Jefferson County, 1900-1904. In the primary election of 1906 he was nominated to the position of lieutenant-governor over Messrs. D. J. Meador, of Myrtlewood, and Emmet A. O'Neal, of Florence, and served 1907-1911. He was appointed inspector general of rifle practice, with the rank of colonel, on the staff of Gov. W. D. Jelks, 1901, serving until 1906. For some years as a representative of the Sons of Veterans, he was aide on the staff of Gen. J. B. Gordon commander-in-chief U. C. V. In 1895 Mr. Gray was made president of the People's savings bank and trust company, one of Jefferson County's reliable financial institutions. He was a Democrat and chairman of the Jefferson County executive committee of that party, 1896-1900; an Episcopalian; Mason; Knight of Pythias; Odd Fellow; and an Elk. Married: April 15, 1891, at Birmingham, to Bessie, daughter of Col. Alberto and Louise (Mudd) Martin (q. v.); granddaughter of John Martin (q. v.) and of Judge William S. and Florence (Earle) Mudd (q. v.). Children: 1. Henry B., jr. Last residence: Birmingham.

GRAY, JOHN MERRILL, miner, chief mine inspector, and legislator, was born July 19, 1875, near Hampton, Henry County, Ga.; son of Wilson Alexander and Amelia (Wise) Gray (q. v.), of Hampton, Ga. He was educated in the common schools, and received the degree of C. E., 1896, from Howard college, East Lake. He is a miner. He served as associate mine inspector, 1901 to 1903, being re-appointed in May, 1906. He is a Democrat; Baptist; and a Knight of Pythias. Married: November 3, 1898, at East Lake, to Frances Elinor, daughter of John B. and Hattie (Wood) Tarrant. Children: 1. Charlie Merrill; 2. John Wilson; 3. William Russell. Residence: East Lake.

GRAY, OSCAR LEE, lawyer and congressman, was born July 2, 1865, at Marion, Lauderdale County, Miss.; son of Alanson Jefferson and Elizabeth Jane (Nethery) Gray, the former of whom was born in Edgefield, S. C., and when six years of age moved with his parents to Mississippi, served as a captain in the C. S. Army, moved to Choctaw County in 1866, and represented that county in the legislature; grandson of Leslie and Rebecca (Dean) Gray, and of James Nethery. Mr. Gray was educated in the common schools of Choctaw County; and graduated at the University of Alabama, A. B., 1885. After graduation he taught for several years in Choctaw County; studied law and was admitted to the bar; has served as superintendent of education of Choctaw County; in 1906 was elected solicitor of the first judicial circuit; elected November 3, 1914, as a representative from the first district to the 64th congress; re-elected to the 65th congress. He was, in 1915, a member of the board of education of Choctaw County and has several times served as chairman of the Choctaw County Democratic conventions and has been a delegate to many Democratic State conventions since 1890. In 1912 he was one of the delegates to the Baltimore convention which nominated Woodrow Wilson for the presidency. He is a Democrat; Baptist; Mason; Knight of Pythias; Woodman of the World; a member of the Loyal Order of Moose; and of the Phi Delta Theta college fraternity. Married: November 27, 1890, to Laura Lee, daughter of William D. and Ludie (Scruggs) Battle, of Livingston. Children: 1. Bessie; 2. Marie. Residence: Butler.

GRAY, WILSON ALEXANDER, miner and legislator, was born March 20, 1852, in Henry County, Ga.; son of Merrill and Minerva (Cooper) Gray. He received only a limited education. He farmed until 1886, when he became a practical miner. He was one of the representatives in the legislature of 1903 from Walker County. He is a Democrat. Married: January 17, 1871, to Amelia, daughter of John and Elizabeth Morgan (Jackson) Wise, of Henry County. Residence: Cordova.

GRAYSON, CLAUDE ALBERT, lawyer, was born February 23, 1882, at Gurley, Madison County; son of John William and Sarah Smith (Allison) Grayson (q. v.). He was educated in the common schools of Madison County; at Robert Downell high school of Gurley; the Huntsville business college; the summer law school of the University of Virginia; and at the University of Alabama, graduating LL. B., 1902. On August 6, 1902, he was admitted to the practice in the circuit court of Madison County, at Huntsville, where he remained until 1905 when he removed to Mobile. He is a Democrat; and represented Mobile in the house of 1915. He is a Mason; Presbyterian; and a member of the Delta Kappa Epsilon college fraternity. Married: May 25, 1905, at Marion, to Sarah Fairbanks, daughter of John Lawrence and Fidelia Adams (Morrow) Bowen, of Gurley. Children: 1. Frances Bowen; 2. Claude Albert, jr.; 3. John William. Residence: Mobile.

GRAYSON, JOHN WILLIAM, planter, was born May 23, 1838, in the Big Cove, Madison County; son of James Gordon and Paralee (Wright) Grayson, the former a planter who lived and died on the plantation which his father settled in 1808, called the "Big Cove," near Huntsville; grandson of John and Sally (Carter) Grayson, the former one of the early settlers of Madison County, accumulated a considerable landed property and was one of the incorporators and trustees of Green academy of Huntsville, one of the first educational institutions established in the State, and of William and Jerusha (Connally) Wright (q. v.). Mr. Grayson was educated in the common schools of Madison County; at Somerville academy, Morgan County; and at Cumberland university, Lebanon, Tenn. He left college during his junior year and joined Co. E, 37th Tennessee infantry regiment, C. S. Army, of which he later became first lieutenant and captain. At the time the company was organized neither Alabama nor the Confederate government could furnish it with arms, hence it joined a Tennessee regiment rather than disband. In 1866 Mr. Grayson began the career of a planter. He was a member of the house of representatives from Madison County, 1870-71; member of the senate, 1873-75, and again of the house, 1880-81, and 1915. In 1901 he was a delegate from the fourth senatorial district to the constitutional convention. He was a member of the board of convict inspectors, 1895-96; and a member of the board of commissioners of Madison County, 1912-1914. He is a Democrat, a Presbyterian, and a Mason. Married: (1) July 11, 1861, to Sarah, daughter of David and Sarah (Smith) Allison; (2) September 7, 1887, to Charity C., daughter of Rev. Alex and Isabella J. (Allison) Penland; and (3) March 1, 1893, to Mrs. Azubah Martin, daughter of Edward T. and Mary Jane (Allison) Parker; all of Madison County. Children by first wife: 1. James Gordon, m. Eliza Moseley; 2. David Allison, m. (1) Nannette Dubose, (2) Juliet Whitthorne; 3. Ambrose Tilden, m. Tellette Kelly; 4. Claude A. (q. v.), m. Sarah Bowen; by second wife; 5. Nannie P., m. Murphy Laughinghouse, both dead. Residence: Gurley.

GREAT MORTAR, YAH-YAH TUSTENUG-GEE. See Indian chiefs and associated characters.

GREATHOUSE, EARLY, member of the constitutional convention of 1865, from Tallapoosa County.

GREEN, CYRUS DUFF, army officer, planter, was born July 14, 1828, in Washington, D. C., and died while temporarily in Mobile, November 9, 1865; son of Gen. Duff and Lucretia (Edwards) Green, the former for years was editor of the "Telegram" and at one time advisor of President Jackson, but later became a supporter and staunch friend of John C. Calhoun, left Washington at the outbreak of the War of Secession, settled in Dalton, Ga., where he died, June 10, 1875; grandson of William and Ann Bailey (Marshall) Green, the former was with his cousin Washington at Valley Forge and with Gen. Morgan at the battle of Cowpens, having at that time only reached the age of eighteen years, the latter was first cousin of Chief Justice John Marshall, and of Benjamin and Margaret (Bealls) Edward; great-grandson of Duff and Anna (Willis) Green and of Markham Marshall; great-great-grandson of Robert and Eleanor (Dunn) Green, the former the first of the family to come to this country, was born in 1695 and located in Virginia with Sir William Duff, his mother's brother, first settled in King George County, married when quite young, and later moved to St. Marks Parish, Culpeper County, and of Colonel Henry and Mildred (Washington) Willis, the latter was an aunt and Godmother of George Washington, great-great-great-grandson of Capt. William and Eleanor (Duff) Green, the former was captain of the body-guard of King William, III. Duff C. Green's early education was secured at Rockville, Md., and from the U. S. military academy, from which he graduated, July 1, 1849, being assigned to the 5th infantry, U. S. Army as second lieutenant. After a period of service on the Mexican border he was transferred to the 3rd infantry, but resigned from the army in 1856, on account of ill health. He then became a planter in Greene County, and later a cotton factor in Mobile. In 1861 he was appointed quartermaster general of the State with the rank of brigadier general. He served in this capacity throughout the war. He was appointed by the U. S. government as treasury agent, to collect cotton, but he died a short time afterward. He was a Democrat; a Presbyterian; and a Mason. Married: April 3, 1855, at Eutaw, to Rebecca Jane, daughter of Col. Joseph and Caroline Judith (Henderson) Pickens, of Greene County, but natives of South Carolina; granddaughter of Gen. Andrew Pickens of the Revolution, and his wife who was a niece of John C. Calhoun. Mrs. Green died in San Francisco, Calif., March 26, 1916. Children: 1. Duff Edwards, d. July 13, 1885, in St. Helena, Napa County, Calif.; 2. Caroline Henderson, m. Patrick Noble of Abbeville, S. C., resides in New York, N. Y. 3. Florida, resides in San Francisco. Last residence: Montgomery.

WILLIAM L. MARTIN

GREEN, DENT F., lawyer, was born December 5, 1868, near Jackson's Gap, Tallapoosa County; is the son of John Berry and Levia Ann (Henderson) Green, the former who was born near Newnan, Ga., but resided at Dadeville, served in the C. S. Army during the entire war, enlisting at Troy, March 1, 1863, as first lieutenant, Co. C, later Co. E, (Capt. C. S. Vaughan), sixth Alabama cavalry regiment, Clanton's brigade, and served until August 19, 1864; grandson of Villett and Mary (Hallmark) Green, of Newnan, Ga., and of Richard and Permelia (Thornton) Henderson, of Dudleyville. D. F. Green received his early education in the common schools of Talladega County, his labors on his father's farm allowing only twenty-seven months of preparation for college. This deficiency was made up by hard study at night after the day's work was done. In February, 1889, he entered Marion military institute, of which the late Col. J. T. Murfee was superintendent, and from which he graduated in 1902 with the B. S. degree. After graduation he taught one year at Monterey; was principal of the public school at Fort Deposit two years; was president of the North Alabama Baptist college, Danville, 1895-97. During this time he studied law and in September, 1897, was admitted to the bar at Cullman; was vice-president of the Falkville normal college, Falkville, 1897-1900; vice-president and general council of Tennessee Valley bank, Decatur, from 1909 to 1918 when appointed superintendent of banks. He served as member of legislature from Morgan County, 1898-9; register in chancery for Morgan County, 1900 to 1908; solicitor of Morgan County law and equity court, 1908-9; State senator, second district, 1915; appointed State superintendent of banks, July 12, 1918; resigned the latter position, September 15, 1919, to become secretary of the Alabama State mission board. He is a Democrat; a Baptist; a Royal Arch Mason; a Knight of Pythias; and a Woodman of the World. Married: June 30, 1902, at Birmingham, to Alice Nall, daughter of Rev. James Perdue and Susan (Talbot) Nall, of Troy, the former of whom served in the C. S. Army as captain. Children: 1. Mildred; 2. Alice Nall. Residence: Montgomery.

GREEN, HENRY, physician, was born February 9, 1867, at Burnt Corn, Monroe County; son of Whitson B. and Susan (Watson) Green, jr., who lived at Burnt Corn, the former a native of Dale County, born July 4, 1836, who served four years in the Third Alabama cavalry, C. S. Army; grandson of Whitson B. and Jane (Brown) Green, sr., and George and Nancy Watson, all of whom lived at Burnt Corn. He was educated in the common schools of Monroe County, and was graduated from the medical school of the University of Alabama at Mobile, M. D., March 25, 1892. He began to practice medicine in Butler County, May, 1892, and moved to Dothan in the summer of 1900, where he has continuously resided since that time. He is an Independent Democrat, and has served as chairman of the board of stewards of the Methodist Episcopal church for many years. He is a Mason. Married: July 11, 1894, at Georgiana, Anna Rhodes, daughter of Julius and Ellen Rhodes, who lived at Georgiana. Children: 1. Estelle, b. 1895; 2. Nell, b. 1897; 3. Hal, b. 1902; 4. Susie, b. 1905; 5. Edna, b. 1910; 6. Whitson B., b. 1912. Residence: Dothan.

GREEN, JAMES FRANCIS, lawyer, was born August 14, 1860, at Pensacola, Fla.; son of James Edward Green and wife, who was Mrs. Mary (McKinley) Kelly, widow of Edward Kelly, the former a lawyer, born in Charlestown, Mass., of Scotch-Irish parentage, the latter born in Glasgow, Scotland, of Irish parents. Mr. Green was a graduate of University of Alabama, 1880; practiced law in Escambia County, of which he was county solicitor, until 1884, in which year he removed to Anniston; was United States deputy revenue collector, 1894-98. He is an Odd Fellow, Knight of Pythias, Woodman of the World, and a Baptist. Married: April 25, 1881, at Tuscaloosa, to Mary Ella, daughter of Isham Robertson and wife, who was a Miss Cameron; grand-daughter of "Horseshoe" Robertson (q. v.) of the Revolutionary War. Children: 1. Denver E.; 2. Clarence C., deceased; 3. Mary Myrtle; 4. James F.; 5. Sybil S.; 6. Cecil L.; 7. Lela. Residence: Anniston.

GREEN, JOHN, pioneer, public official, was born March 8, 1790, at Abbeville District, S. C., and died July 7, 1882, at Burnt Corn; son of William Green, who married a Miss Bickertiff of Abbeville, S. C., and lived in that place until he was thirty-seven years old, when he died. The Green family is descended from Robert Green, who was awarded a grant of land in South Carolina, later the scene of the battle of Cowpens, for services rendered the English crown. When he was ten years old, Mr. Green's parents moved to Jackson County, Ga. He educated himself, learning to read and write from a small public library in Jackson County, Ga. After leaving his father, he attended a country school for a few months, where he acquired enough education to transact common business. He was very fond of books, and studied zealously, in order to fit himself to teach school. When he was twenty-one years old, he began to read law, and eventually became a lawyer in Athens, Ga. He continued his practice until after his marriage when he was induced to give up his profession and devote his energies to planting and cotton-growing. He moved with his wife's family to Alabama in 1816, and settled in Conecuh County when it was without the slightest trace of civilization. He established the first school in Conecuh County, and taught in it for many years. He held almost every office in Conecuh County, from justice of the peace to representative in the legislature. He was sent to the legislature in 1824, and in 1828, when the capitol was at Tuscaloosa. Though a Co-operationist, he was elected to represent Conecuh County in the secession convention of 1861, and was the only member from southern Alabama who voted for co-operation. In 1875, though eighty-five years old, he was sent as a delegate to the constitutional convention. He was granted a pension after the close of the War of Secession for his services in the War of 1812. He was a Jeffersonian Democrat; a Universalist; and a member of the Sons of Temperance. Married: Nancy Jones, daughter of Thomas Palmer and Polly (Betts) Jones, natives of New Jersey, and Milledgeville, Ga., who lived in Conecuh County, the former, of English parentage, had the best regulated and conducted plantation in Conecuh County, and his negroes, all attired in olive green, the livery of the place, were known all over the county by the color of their attire. Children: 1. Christopher W., b. about 1818, near Burnt Corn, Conecuh County, farmer, lived in Butler, Conecuh and Wilcox Counties, then moved to Florida, d. at age of sixty-seven, m. Frances L. Watson, of Monroe County, children, Thomas Lafayette, enlisted in the First Alabama infantry, C. S. Army, and was killed in the battle in front of Richmond, Va., June 30, 1862, Alexander Hamilton, served in the C. S. Army, was captured and imprisoned, settled in Florida after the war, m. January, 1870, Lauretta Virginia Fisher, eight children, Narcissus Green, b. February 22, 1846, at Burnt Corn, d. August 2, 1868, in Wilcox; Susannah L., b. September 16, 1847, d. August 30, 1862, in Wilcox; George A., b. February 3, 1850, d. January 16, 1871, Marion, farmer in Texas; John C., merchant at Pensacola, Fla.; Frances B., d. December 4, 1860; 2. Thomas, a soldier in the Mexican War and in the War of Secession, d. in a hospital in Montgomery, 1865; 3. Hamilton, killed by the fall of a tree, cut down while hunting; 4. John, jr., d. in Mississippi, has three sons and one daughter living there; 5. William, member of constitutional convention, d. in Mississippi; 6. Mrs. Fannie Caten Swift, Pensacola, Fla.; 7. Mrs. Mollie Carten, Century, Fla.; and seven daughters who are deceased. Last residence: Burnt Corn.

GREEN, JOSEPH WALTON, railway engineer and legislator, was born January 12, 1858, at Tuskegee, Macon County; son of Joseph and Hattie Hutchings (Bailey) Green, the former a planter of Macon County, served four years in the 56th Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army, and during re-construction was sheriff of Macon County; grandson of William and Lucy (Cook) Green, of Macon County, and of William and Octavia (Holt) Bailey, of Tuskegee, both were large planters of Macon County; great-grandson of Hines Holt, once secretary of State of Georgia. He was educated at the schools of Tuskegee and the Southern university, but did not graduate. He was for many years a locomotive engineer on the Southern railway. He was foreman of the grand jury of Dallas County in January, 1897, and caused an investigation of the public school system, which resulted in the terms of the rural schools of the county being lengthened from three and four to six and seven months on practically the same appropriation. He represented Dallas County in the house in the 1911, 1915, and 1919 sessions of the legislature. He is a Democrat; Methodist; and a member of the Brotherhood of locomotive engineers of which he was several years secretary and treasurer. Married: November 26, 1879, in St. James Parish, La., to Leila Lemuela, daughter of Lemuel Johnston and Martha (Powell) Hale, of Montevallo; granddaughter of Edward Whitaker Powell, one of the first settlers in Montevallo in 1818; great-great-granddaughter of John Sevier, first governor of Tennessee. Children: 1. Lemuel Bailey, m. Florence Graves; 2. Joseph W., jr., m. Evelyn Kinsey; 3. Octavia Bridges; 4. Leila Hale; 5. Susie Armistead; 6. Kate Douglas. Residence: Selma.

GREENE, ALEXANDER A., lieutenant colonel, 37th Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army.

GREENE, DANIEL ARTHUR, lawyer and judge, was born August 8, 1863, near Opelika, Lee County; son of Rinaldo M. and Martha Ann (Bullard) Greene, the former a native of Leon County, Fla., lived at Columbus, Ga., and Opelika, of which latter place he was mayor, served as captain of Co. C, 6th Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army; grandson of James R. and Mary Anne Greene, and of Daniel and Susan (Mizell) Bullard, of Oak Bowery. Judge Greene was educated in the common schools of Opelika; graduated at Emory college, Oxford, Ga., A. B., 1884; and at the University of Alabama LL. B., 1886. He entered upon the practice of his profession at Birmingham in 1886, where he has since resided. In 1896-97 he represented Jefferson County in the general assembly; in 1901 became associate judge of the criminal court of Jefferson County; and in 1905 senior judge of the same court. He is a Democrat; Methodist; Knight of Pythias; Knight of Honor; and a Mason. Author: "Masonic manual of Alabama," 1903-05-08, together with the "code" and "digest" of the laws of the grand lodge. Married: May 6, 1890, at Birmingham, to Margaret Jordan, daughter of Dr. George M. and Mary Ella (Smith) Morrow, of that place, and sister of Hugh Morrow (q. v.); granddaughter of Dr. Joseph R. Smith (q. v.). Children: 1. Mary George; 2. Susie Morrow; 3. Margaret Jordan. Residence: Birmingham.

GREENE, FRANCES NIMMO, teacher and author, was born in Tuscaloosa; daughter of Thomas Finley and Virginia (Owen) Greene (q. v.); sister of Annie Finley (Greene) Brown (q. v.). She was educated at home by her mother and at the Tuscaloosa female college, which she attended two years. She removed to Birmingham with her parents after leaving school, and later went with the family to Montgomery, where she taught and became principal of the Lafayette public school. In 1909 she resigned that position and became assistant in the library division of the Alabama State department of archives and history, which place she held for one year. During 1911-12, she edited the woman's page of the "Birmingham News," and the following year became head of the public library of that city. She returned to Montgomery in 1913, and has since devoted her entire time to writing. She is a Democrat and an Episcopalian. Author: "King Arthur and his court," 1901, stories of chivalry for children; "With spurs of gold," 1905, stories of chivalry for children written in collaboration with Dolly Kirk; "My country's voice," 1917, for juveniles; "America first," 1917, for juveniles; "American ideals;" a series of patriotic readers for children; a number of short stories that appeared in current publications; a group of one act plays; and the following novels; "Into the night," 1909; "The right of the strongest," 1913; "One clear call," 1914; "The devil to pay," 1917. She is unmarried. Residence: Montgomery.

GREENE, HORACE, grand treasurer, grand lodge of Masons, 1837.

GREENE, JAMES BENJAMIN, merchant and banker, was born February 18, 1861, in Russell, now Lee County; son of Rinaldo McKeen and Martha Ann (Bullard) Greene (q. v.), grandson of Daniel and Susan (Mizell) Bullard (q. v.), and nephew of Gen. Robert Lee Bullard. Mr. Greene obtained early education in private schools in Opelika; graduated at Emory college, Oxford, Ga., A. B., 1879, and fourth in rank in a class of 26. He has been a merchant and a banker from 1879 to date, filling the positions of cashier, vice-president, and president of the bank of Opelika; has been a director in different corporations; has served as a member of city school board of Opelika; was captain of the Lee light infantry in the old State troops. He is a Methodist and for about twenty-five years has edited and published the "Quarterly Review," devoted to his Sunday school. He was at one time president of the Alabama anti-saloon league and he is a member of the Knights of Pythias. Married: May 9, 1883, in Montgomery, to Julia Goree, daughter of Oscar Fitzallen and Frances Olivia (Frazer) Casey, for many years a professor in the Southern university at Greensboro, after professor in Martin college, Pulaski, Tenn., and who also taught private schools in Montgomery and Auburn. Children: 1. James Benjamin, jr.; m. Eloise Glenn, resides in Montgomery; 2. Julien Casey, m. Mary Hudmon, resides in Opelika; 3. Oscar Casey, graduate of U. S. naval academy, and now an officer in the navy; 4. Raleigh Williams, resides in Opelika; 5. Florence, Opelika; 6-7, two daughters, Annie and Frances, died in infancy. Residence: Opelika.

GREENE, JAMES THOMASON, lawyer, was born February 2, 1849; son of John and Elizabeth Arnold (Thomason) Greene, the former a native of County Cork, Ireland, born in 1814, who came to this country in 1832, settled in St. Clair County, living there for the remainder of his life except for a few years' residence in Georgia, and died in 1864; nephew of John I. Thomason, probate judge of St. Clair County, 1846-1850, who took an active part in the incorporation of the Northeast & Southeast, now the Alabama Great Southern, Railroad Company. He received his early education from the country schools around his home; studied law in the office of Judge LeRoy Box, at Ashville, 1871; was admitted to the bar in 1872; during the same year was appointed register in chancery, which position he held until 1880; was chairman of the Democratic executive committee of St. Clair County, 1874-1876; clerk in the Montgomery office of the superintendent of education, 1876-1881; representative to the State legislature from St. Clair County, 1884-1886, and probate judge from 1886 to 1892. He practiced law in Ashville, 1872-1876, 1881-1886, 1892-1901, then moved to Anniston where he has since resided. During his term in the State legislature, he was chairman of the committee on education. He enlisted in the C. S. Army when he was only thirteen years old, but was compelled to leave the service because of ill health. He is a Democrat; an Episcopalian; a Royal Arch Mason; a Knight of Pythias; an Elk; and an Odd Fellow. Married: October 12, 1873, Maggie Ashley, daughter of Benjamin F. and Elizabeth Ashley, of Ashville. Children: 1. Otis; 2. Claude, d. in infancy; 3. James Gardner, clerk in the employ of the government at Washington; 4. Postelle, b. August 27, 1882, d. March 14, 1888, from burns received from popping corn with her little sisters; 5. Evelyn T., d. at fourteen years of age, June 27, 1901, under surgical treatment for injuries from a fall; 6. Ethel A.; 7. Margaret; 8. Marie H.; 9. Nelle; 10. John Benjamin. Residence: Anniston.

GREENE, JOSEPH BERRY, physician, was born October 18, 1869, in Birmingham; son of Robert Nathaniel and Sarah Ellen (Earle) Greene, of Elyton, the former a Confederate soldier; grandson of Dr. Samuel and Harriet Earle, and of George and Jane Greene, grandparents on both sides natives of South Carolina but residents of Jefferson County. Dr. Greene received his early education in the public and private schools of Elyton and Birmingham; graduated A. B., 1890, M. A., 1891, University of Alabama; M. D., 1893, University of Virginia; and took post graduate course at Johns Hopkins hospital, 1893-94. He entered the U. S. public health and marine hospital service as assistant surgeon, 1894; detailed as medical officer in New Orleans, La., and Port Gibson, Miss., during the yellow fever epidemic, 1895; served as surgeon on the U. S. despatch boat, "McCulloch," at the battle of Manila Bay, May 1, 1898; later medical adviser to U. S. consul, Bremen, Germany. He is a Democrat; Episcopalian; and Mason. Married: June 2, 1907, to Sarah Edwards, daughter of Judge Jonathan and Mary (Fuller) Ingersoll, of Cleveland, Ohio. Residence: Ashville.

GREENE, MYLES JEFFERSON, physician, was born October 30, 1827, in Baldwin County, Ga., and died June 27, 1892, in Montgomery; son of Myles and Marlita (Jackson) Greene of Baldwin and Chattahoochee Counties, Ga.; grandson of Rev. Myles and Elizabeth (Hunt) Greene of Virginia, later of Georgia, the former of English ancestry, born in Sussex County, Va., June 6, 1767, entered the Methodist ministry at twenty-one years of age, as an itinerant preacher, later joining the conference, and served in Virginia until 1791, when he removed to Georgia, serving in Hancock and surrounding counties until his death, in January, 1852. Dr. Myles J. Greene was educated in the country schools in Georgia and at Auburn. He received his medical degree from Charleston, South Carolina medical college in 1851. He began the practice of medicine in Loachapoka shortly after graduation and practiced successfully there, in Opelika and in Talladega, until his appointment as grand secretary of the Masonic Grand lodge in December, 1888. He was for one term a member of the house of representatives. He was a Democrat; a Methodist; a Royal Arch Mason and Templar. Married: April 10, 1853, at Loachapoka, to Mary Ann Eliza, daughter of Dr. Reuben and Mary (Baldwin) Phillips, of that place. There were no children. Last residence: Montgomery.

GREENE, PETER ALEXANDER, antiquarian and circuit clerk, born August 8, 1838, at Ellerslie, Harris County, Ga., and died while on a visit to his niece, in Columbus, Ga., November 23, 1902; son of Myles, jr., and March Wyche (Jackson) Greene, the former born in Hancock County, Ga., August 24, 1801, the latter a native of Virginia; grandson of Myles Greene, sr., and his first wife, Elizabeth Hunt, the former was a pioneer itinerant Methodist preacher, born in Sussex County, Va., June 6, 1767, who moved to Hancock County, Ga., in 1798, and of Drury and Lucy (Wyche) Jackson; great-grandson of Peter and Judith (Love) Greene, the former served in the American Revolution from Virginia, and of Capt. John Hunt and his wife, a Miss Turner, the former an officer in the Revolutionary War from North Carolina. The original ancestor, Richard, jr., born at Bowridge Hill, England, came to Rhode Island in 1635. Both sides of the house are of English descent. Peter A. Greene secured his early education from his parents and from the country schools and began teaching at eighteen years of age. Two years later he attended Emory and Henry college at Emory, Va., for one year, and went the next term to the East Alabama male college at Auburn, but left here to enter the Confederate Army, as a private in Co. L, 6th Alabama infantry regiment. In November, 1862, he was transferred to Co. G, 31st Georgia infantry regiment and elected second lieutenant, promoted to first lieutenant in 1863, and commanded his company, there being no captain, until April 7, 1865, when he was captured at Sailor's Run, Virginia. Imprisoned in the old Capitol Prison in Washington City, he was in that city on the night of the assassination of President Lincoln, and was rushed to Johnson's Island, Ohio, on that same night. He was released June 18, 1865. He was a planter in Russell County from 1867 to 1880; census enumerator for the county in 1880 and in the same year, elected circuit court clerk of that county, a position which he continued to fill until his death. He was a Democrat; a Methodist; a Mason; and a Knight of Honor. His interest in antiquities began shortly after the war, but his collection was not started until the year 1880. At the time of his death the collection contained about 3,000 stone aboriginal relics, some fifty or more fire-arms, twenty-five swords and a large assortment of old books, manuscripts, newspapers, curios, etc. It was especially rich in War of Secession material. After his death, a number of objects were recalled by the donors, much of it was sold in the settlement of the estate, and some have found their way into the State Museum at Montgomery. Married: (1) at Opelika, in 1864, while home on furlough, to Sarah Wharton, of Mitchell's station, Va., daughter of John and Eliza (Colvin) Wharton, and a sister of Gen. Gabriel C. Wharton of the Confederate Army; (2) in March, 1866, to Mrs. Martha Turner (Bass) Greene, widow of his brother, Stephen C. Greene, at his home in Russell County. Children: 1st marriage, one girl, died in infancy; 2nd marriage, none. Last residence: Seale.

GREENE, RALEIGH WILLIAMS, graduate of the Alabama polytechnic institute, B. S., degree, 1892; a minister. Residence: Brewton.

GREENE, RUFUS, grand master, grand lodge, Masons, 1847-48-49; grand master, grand council, 1848-49-50; grand high priest, grand chapter, 1850.

GREENE, SAMUEL EARLE, lawyer, was born March 19, 1853, in Jefferson County; son of Robert N. and Sarah (Earle) Greene, who were born in Jefferson County; grandson of George L. and Jane Y. Greene who were among the early settlers of Jefferson County, moving to that place from South Carolina soon after Alabama became a state, and of Dr. Samuel S. and Harriet H. Earle, who also came from South Carolina in the early history of the country. He received his preliminary schooling in Elyton, Jefferson County, and his collegiate education at Washington and Lee University at Lexington, Va. After he left college he became a teacher in the schools of Elyton and Birmingham for four years, during which time he studied law in the office of Porter & Martin. He was admitted to the bar in 1880, and began the practice of law at Jasper, Walker County; remained there two years, returning to Birmingham in 1883; and continued to practice in that city. He was elected to the State legislature from Jefferson County in 1884 by a large majority; served his term and declined reelection, preferring to devote his time exclusively to the practice of law. He formed a law partnership with James E. Hawkins, under the firm name of Hawkins & Greene, October, 1885; was appointed judge of the criminal court of Jefferson County by Gov. Seay, February, 1887, until his successor should be elected in the following year; was returned to the bench in the election without opposition for a term of six years; was elected continuously from that time until he had occupied the seat for seventeen consecutive years; and nominated for probate judge of Jefferson County in 1904; is a Democrat; an Episcopalian; a member of the Knights of Pythias; and of the Delta Kappa Epsilon college fraternity. Married: February 27, 1889, Rosa Miller, daughter of Judge G. K. and Celestine (McCann) Miller, of Talladega County. Children: 1. Robert Knox; 2. Sarah Ellen; 3. Samuel Earle; 4. Rosa Celestine; 5. Harriet Hampton. Residence: Birmingham.

GREENE, THOMAS FINLEY, Methodist minister, lawyer and pioneer water-way advocate, was born December 2, 1829, in Abbeville, Abbeville District, S. C., and died March 21, 1905, in Montgomery; son of Major Robert Harvey and Anne (Finley) Greene, the former a native of South Carolina who removed with his wife, who was a native of Tennessee, their oldest son, slaves and household effects, to Jefferson County in 1832, and settled a two thousand acre farm ten miles north of the present city of Birmingham. Mr. Greene was educated in the country schools and at Emory college, Oxford, Ga., from which he graduated in 1851, with the degree of A. B. He also graduated in law and after being admitted to the Alabama bar practiced a few years. He was later ordained as a minister in the Methodist Episcopal church, and was for a long while in this service. In 1868, he applied to the legislature of Alabama for an incorporation Act, providing for the issuance of charters to companies proposing to develop water-ways throughout the State. While the acts promoted by Mr. Greene were general, his interest was focused on the Warrior River, for the improvement of which he had already formed a company. In the same year that his acts of incorporation were passed by the legislature, that body, through his efforts in the lobby, memorialized congress praying for its "most gracious aid in opening said Warrior River, to steam navigation." Failing of favorable action by congress Mr. Greene organized the "Alabama coal and slack-water company," financed by eastern capital, the purpose being to build a system of locks and dams on the upper Warrior River, and to open up the vast coal fields of West Alabama. On the failure of the original company, others were formed from time to time by Mr. Greene, each in turn to fail for lack of local and financial support. In 1885 he again sought the aid of congress, but without success. Much money was expended by his companies in making surveys, engineering, estimates and in building up public opinion, but the man of vision, discouraged, finally abandoned his efforts for water-ways development. It fell to the lot of others to promote to fruition the development of the Warrior River making of it a water highway from the coal fields of Walker County to the Gulf of Mexico, but posterity will pay its tribute to the man who spent many years of his life in trying to make the dream come true. Mr. Greene was the first to suggest the establishment, by the North Alabama Methodist conference, of a college for young men at Owenton, and gave to the project his characteristic urge and insistence, until it was an accomplished fact. He was a Democrat. Married: in Tuscaloosa, to Virginia, daughter of Dr. John and Anne (Keeling) Owen. Children: 1. Annie F. (q. v.), m. Eugene Levert Brown; 2. John Owen, d. in childhood; 3. Kate, d. in childhood; 4. Robert Harvey, m. Kate Ford, Montgomery; 5. Mary Virginia, deceased; 6. Frances Nimmo (q. v.). Last residence: Montgomery.

GREENE, WILLIAM, member of the constitutional convention, 1875, from Choctaw County.

GREENE, WILLIAM JEFFERSON, editor, comptroller of public accounts, was born February 12, 1817, in Tennessee, and died in July, 1885, at Six Mile, Bibb County. He was educated in the common schools of his native state; learned the printer's trade early in life and followed it for many years. In 1847 he was elected engrossing clerk of the house of representatives of Alabama, and was re-elected for several sessions; and in 1855 he was elected by the legislature comptroller of public accounts, which office is now known as State auditor, serving for ten years until 1865. He was associated with Thomas Goldsby of Selma in the insurance business from 1866 to 1874. Late in life he retired to the town of Six Mile where he died, and where he is buried. Married: Name of wife unknown. Children: 1. Elias, a Confederate soldier, killed at Chattanooga; 2. William Henry, m. Carrie ———, Mobile; 3. Edgar Lewis, married and resides in Oklahoma; 4. Amanda, m. a Mr. Croswell and resides in Croswell, Okla. Last residence: Six Mile.

GREENING, ELDRIDGE S., lawyer, was born about 1798 and died in Conecuh County, 1828; probably the grandson of John Greening, of Charleston, S. C., great-grandson of John Greening, sr., of Virginia, a Revolutionary soldier, and great-great-grandson of Mason and Margaret (Hainsworth) Greening, also of Virginia. Mr. Greening was an early settler of Conecuh County, where he practiced law; was a representative in the legislature, 1821, 1825, 1826, and 1827; solicitor of the circuit court, succeeding John Gayle, in 1821; and was a candidate for congress in 1828, but was killed before the election. He was on his way to Pensacola, when he was thrown from his buggy against a tree and killed. He had one son, A. A. Greening. Last residence: Conecuh County.

GREER, CHARLES HEARD, editor and publisher, was born April 24, 1860, in Troup County, Ga.; son of Young Taylor and Eliza (Darnell) Greer, the former a native of Madison, Ga., and a soldier in the Creek Indian War; and grandson of Joseph and Polly Darnell, of Roanoke. The Greer brothers came to America and founded the numerous families of the name. The Georgia branch are the ancestors of Mr. Greer. He obtained his early education in private schools at Lafayette; and attended the North Georgia agricultural and mechanical college at Dahlonega, finishing junior course in 1882. His life has been spent almost entirely in newspaper work, from setting type to the editorial desk. He was with the "Montgomery Morning News," 1874, published the "Wedowee Journal, 1878-79," "Chambers County Democrat," 1885-89, shared in the publication of the "Opelika News," 1890-95, shared in the organization of the "Daily State" at Birmingham in 1895, was managing editor of the "Age-Herald," 1897-98, and was one of the organizers of the "Birmingham Ledger." For two terms, 1885 and 1886, he was president of the Alabama press association. In his editorial and other work he advocated an industrial school for girls, uniform text-books, and mail-routes and telephones, and a country stock-law; and he promptly reported the first success of the effort at steel making in Birmingham. He represented the 16th senatorial district in the constitutional convention of 1901. He was secretary of the Democratic executive committee in Birmingham, 1897. He is a Baptist, a Mason; a Knight Templar; a Knight of Pythias; Red Man; and Woodman of the World. Married: (1) May 26, 1887, in Birmingham, to Nancy, daughter of Gov. William H. and Lucy Smith, (q. v.); (2) November 29, 1905, to Irene, daughter of Anderson Hanna, of Greensboro, whose ancestors were among the first settlers of middle Alabama. Children: 1. Roe Preston, an editor, at Uniontown; 2. Dr. Hugh Dickson, married Mary Pride, lives in Decatur; 3. Charles West, staff-writer on the "Birmingham Age-Herald;" 4. David Dickson; 5. Jephtha Vernon; 6. Ruth. Residence: Marion.

GREER, LEONARD FORSYTH, business man, member Constitutional convention, and of the board of convict inspectors, was born August 24, 1863, at Forsyth, Monroe County, Ga.; son of Leonard Forsyth and Martha Caroline (Thrasher) Greer, the former of Forsyth, Ga., served in C. S. Army under Gen. J. B. Gordon, the latter of Newton County, Ga.; grandson of Leonard Greer, of Forsyth, and of David Thrasher, of Newton, Ga. He is of Scotch-Irish descent, his people first settling in Maryland, later moving to the Carolinas and Georgia. He was educated in the common schools of Newton County, Ga., and at the Gordon institute, Barnesville, La.; is a farmer and merchant; was a member of the constitutional convention of 1901; appointed in 1911, an associate inspector of convicts; named as his own successor on April 15, 1913, serving until 1915. He is a Democrat; a Baptist; and a Knight of Pythias. Married: October 25, 1885, at Choccolocco, to Emma Ewell, daughter of Dr. A. Y. and Sarah Anne (Ross) Blackmon, of that place. The family is of Welsh and Irish origin and descended from Frederick Ross, of South Carolina. Children: 1. Beecher; 2. Stella Ione; 3. Leonard F., jr.; 4. Bryan; 5. Gussie Clyde; 6. Annie Ross; 7. Martha Caroline; 8. Emma Ewell; 9. Fred Blackmon. Residence: Anniston.

GREER, MOSES, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 75, and a resident of Autauga County; private Georgia militia; enrolled on August 12, 1833, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $28; sums received to date of publication of list, $84.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in part 3, vol. xiii, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34.

GREESHAM, ROBERT, soldier of the American Revolution, and a resident of Limestone County; private Dark's Regiment; enrolled on December 6, 1824; payment to date from February 18, 1824; annual allowance, $48; sums received to date of publication of list, $433.95; February 4, 1822.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34.

GREGG, JOHN, teacher and lawyer, a native and for a number of years a resident of Alabama, was born in Lawrence County, September 28, 1828, and was killed in the assault on Fort Harrison, near Richmond, October 7, 1864; son of Nathan Gregg and wife, who was Mrs. Camp, daughter of Jeremiah Pearsall, of Lawrence County. He received his education at La Grange college, graduating in 1897; for several years taught under Henry Tutwiler at Greene Springs school, Hale County; later studied law in Tuscumbia under Judge H. Townes; removed in 1851 to Texas; served for several years as judge of the circuit court; was a member of the Texas secession convention, was sent as a representative to Montgomery and served for one term after the seat of government was removed to Richmond. He entered the services of the C. S. Army as lieutenant-colonel of the Seventh Texas regiment; and was promoted to the rank of brigadier-general August 29, 1862. His brigade fought at Vicksburg and Chickamauga. He was later transferred to the command of Hood's old brigade in the Virginia army, and it was in the command of these gallant Texans that he lost his life. In the "Confederate Military History," vol. 11, p. 234, it is said of him that he "Fought in three of the principal armies of the Confederacy, and gained distinction in each." Married: to Mollie, daughter of Gen. Jesse Winston and Unity Spotswood (Dandridge) Garth (q. v.), of Morgan County, the former of English ancestry, was a descendant of the Winstons, and a cousin of Patrick Henry; the latter, of Welsh and Scotch ancestry, was a descendant of Lord De la Ware, and Sir Alexander Spotswood, both colonial governors of Virginia. During the war, Mrs. Gregg was with her husband when he was stationed at Port Hudson, and also in Richmond, Va., when her husband was a member of the Confederate congress. After the war, she lived in Aberdeen, Miss., until her death. She was buried with military honors, the only case on record of a woman in private life being so honored. Last residence: Texas.

GREGG, M. G., lawyer, living in 1913. Residence: Birmingham.

GREGG, ROBERT HENRY, planter, was born March 7, 1790, in Marion District, S. C., and died June 23, 1862, at Lower Peach Tree; son of John and Eleanor (McKnight) Gregg, the former a native of Georgetown District, S. C., a private soldier in the company commanded by his brother, Capt. James Gregg, in the Revolutionary War, and the grandson of an immigrant from North Ireland, who settled in Williamsburg District, S. C. Mr. Gregg graduated on December 3, 1810, at South Carolina college with an A. B. degree. He was a democrat, and a Presbyterian. Married: January 13, 1812, in Chesterfield District, S. C., to Elizabeth Hicks, daughter of William and Lucy (Hicks) Strother, who lived near Cheraw on the Pee Dee River, the former a member of the second provisional congress of S. C., August, 1775; member first general assembly of South Carolina, March-April, 1776; and sheriff of Cheraw District, 1779, the latter the daughter of Col. George Hicks of Marlboro, Cheraw District, S. C. and Sarah James (Gardner) Hicks. Col. Hicks was a member also of the first general assembly of South Carolina, chairman of "Committee of Safety for St. David's Parish;" captain of Cheraw Troop, 1762; major in Powell's regiment, South Carolina troops, during the revolution, colonel of Hick's regiment, McIntosh brigade, 1779-81. His wife was the daughter of Rev. Philip James, born 1701, at Pennepenic, Pa., died 1753 at Cheraw, S. C.; and granddaughter of James James of Wales, who emigrated to America and died November 21, 1769, in Cheraw District, S. C. Children: 1. Strother Robert, 2. Lucy Anne, m. Philip Pendleton Gaines, deceased. 3. Oliver H. P., m. Miss McCaskey, deceased; 4. Elizabeth Eleanor, died young; 5. Jane Margaret, m. W. E. Powe, deceased, 6-11, all died young; 12. Sarah Strother, m. Jo. Robins, now living at Lower Peach Tree, Wilcox County. Last residence: Lower Peach Tree.

THOMAS E. LOVEJOY

GREGG, SAMUEL, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 77, and a resident of Lawrence County; private Virginia Militia; enrolled on April 23, 1833, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $33.33; sums received to date of publication of list, $99.99.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34.

GREGORY, OLIVER FULLER, Baptist minister, for a number of years a resident of Alabama, was born March 7, 1844, at Charleston, S. C., son of Ferdinand Munson and Sarah Ann Brown (Fuller) Gregory, of Bridgeport, Conn., and Charleston, S. C., respectively, and the former a soldier in the C. S. Army. Dr. Gregory received his early education in the public and private schools of Charleston; enlisted in the Charleston Zouave cadets, 1860, which cut short a college course; received the honorary degree of D. D. from Howard college, Birmingham, 1887; after the war, took up the study of ministry, licensed to preach, 1870; has held pastorates in many states, including churches at Eufaula, 1877-78, Tuscaloosa, 1879, and Montgomery, 1902-05; and is now connected with the Maryland Baptist mission association. Married: March 6, 1866, at Charleston, S. C., to Kezia Ann, daughter of John and Margaret Lee Lawrence (Smith) Hobson, of that place. Children: 1. Oliver Pritchard, minister, d. February 1, 1897, m. Anna Belle Bowling, of Baltimore; issue: 1. Lee Fuller, m. Annie Sightler, of Montgomery; 2. Edwin Robertson; 3. Ruth Annabel. Residence: Govans, Md.

GREIL, GASTON J., physician, was born January 21, 1878, at Montgomery; son of Jacob and Mena (Lobman) Greil (q. v.). Dr. Greil obtained his early education in the public schools of Montgomery; graduated from the Alabama polytechnic institute, B. S., 1897; in 1901, completed his medical course and graduated at the College of physicians and surgeons, of Columbia university, N. Y.; from 1901 to 1903 was in Harlem division of Bellevue hospital; and 1903-04 continued his studies in Vienna, Austria. He began the practice in Montgomery in October 1905; was city health officer, 1905-09; was surgeon, with the rank of captain, of the First Alabama artillery, 1908-11; and was one of the founders of the Montgomery anti-tuberculosis league, of which he was president for years. He is a Democrat; a member Hebrew Congregation Kahl Montgomery; a Mason; a Shriner; and a Knight of Pythias. He is the author of papers on medical topics, school hygiene and kindred subjects. Married: October 9, 1912, in Montgomery, to Cecile, daughter of Jacques and Selina (Weil) Loeb (q. v.). Children: 1. Jacqueline; 2. Gaston, jr. Residence: Montgomery.

GREIL, JACOB, wholesale grocer, was born February 28, 1839, in Bohemia, and died March 19, 1900; son of Solomon and Sarah (Long) Greil, natives of Bohemia, who came to America about 1872, and were parents of six children: Nathan, of Montgomery; Jacob, of Montgomery; Lewis, of Selma; Benjamin, of Charleston, S. C.; Kate, who married Max Naum, of Montgomery; and Lena, who married Joseph Leiter, of Montgomery. He was educated principally in Bohemia; came to America in 1856; was a clerk at West Point, Ga., for two years; located in Chambers County, where he clerked until 1860; and went into the dry goods business at Milltown. At the outbreak of the War of Secession, he enlisted in the C. S. Army, becoming fourth sergeant of Co. D, Fourteenth Alabama infantry regiment, then commanded by Col. Thomas Judge, and afterward by Col. Bayne. After two years' service, he was made commissary sergeant, serving as such until February, 1864, and taking part in the battles of Williamsburg, Va., Seven Pines, seven days' fight around Richmond, second Bull Run, Antietam, Frazier's Farm and many minor skirmishes. At the end of the war, he was acting commissary with the rank of captain. After leaving the service, he settled at Montgomery; entered the retail grocery business in which he remained until 1872, then went into the wholesale grocery business with his brother, Nathan Greil. He served twelve years as alderman of Montgomery, and at one time was commissary of the Second regiment, Alabama state troops, with the rank of captain. He was vice-president of the Farley National Bank; president and vice-president of the National Building & Loan Association; director in the Capital City Insurance Company; director in the Bank of Montgomery; president of the Commercial Industrial Association of Montgomery; and president and founder of the People's Cotton Mill. He was a Mason; had been grand master of exchequer of the grand lodge of Knights of Pythias of Alabama; was a member of the A. O. U. W.; the American Legion of Honor; the National Union; and a trustee of the Elks. Married: in 1871, Mena Lobman, daughter of Henry Lobman, of Montgomery. Children: 1. Naham Jacob, b. August 7, 1869, wholesale merchant, vice-president of the Greil Brothers Company, of Montgomery, m. December 15, 1898, Anna Roman, Montgomery; 2. Benjamin Sidney, b. November 17, 1873, merchant, m. February 16, 1898, at Mobile, Miriam Forcheimer, Montgomery; 3. Terry Tilden; 4. Gaston (q. v.), physician and surgeon, was graduated, B. S., 1897, and M. D., from the college of physicians and surgeons, Columbia university, New York City, became house physician and surgeon of the Harlem division Bellevue hospital, New York City, and city physician at Montgomery, Montgomery; 5. Mamie; 6. Blanche; 7. Stella; 8. Lottie; 9. Juliette. Last residence: Montgomery.

GREWER, JOHN, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 42, resided in Cherokee County, June 1, 1840.—Census of Pensioners, 1841, p. 148.

GRIFFIN, A. B., member of the constitutional convention, 1865, from Russell County.

GRIFFIN, ALBERT, member of the constitutional convention of 1867, from the first electoral district, which included Mobile County. Later he removed to Manhattan, Kansas.

GRIFFIN, GOODMAN GRIFFITH, physician and planter, was born in Pendleton District, S. C., about 1808, and died in Demopolis, July 30, 1863; son of James Griffin, who early settled in old Pendleton. He was educated in the local schools; prepared himself as a physician; removed to Alabama about 1830; located first at Tuscaloosa; and later removed to Demopolis for the practice of his profession. With the passing years he added planting to his professional activities. He was president and assisted in promoting the Alabama & Mississippi rivers railroad from Selma to York, now a part of the Southern railway system. He was a Democrat; a Baptist, but attended the Episcopal church; and a trustee of Judson college. Married: February 10, 1831, to Willey Ann, daughter of Allen and Sarah (Norwood) Glover (q. v.). Children: 1. Norman Allen, d. unmarried; 2. Mary Elizabeth, d. unmarried; 3. Willey Glover, m. Walter Winn (q. v.); 4. James Francis, m. (1) Annie Strudwick, and (2) Willey Glover Eaton, the parents of Goodman G. Griffin, jr. (q. v.); 5. Goodman Glover, died in the C. S. Army, 1864. Last residence: Demopolis.

GRIFFIN, GOODMAN GRIFFITH, JR., lawyer, was born February 18, 1869, at Demopolis; son of James Francis and Willey Glover (Eaton) Griffin, the former a native of Demopolis; a lieutenant in the C. S. Army; planter; member of the Alabama State senate, 1884; and afterward mayor of Demopolis for one term; grandson of Dr. Goodman G. and Willey Ann (Glover) Griffin (q. v.), and of Thomas R. and Sarah Ann Eaton, of Dayton. Judge Griffin received his academic education in Demopolis; graduated in law at the University of Alabama, LL. B., 1908; immediately entered upon the practice of his profession in Demopolis; on December 16, 1910, was appointed by Gov. Comer, judge of the city court of Demopolis for a term of two years; was for six years previous to this a member of the board of registrars of Marengo County, but resigned upon accepting the judgeship; enlisted as a private in Co. K, Second regiment Alabama volunteer infantry, Spanish-American War; was promoted during the first month of service to company quartermaster, serving directly under Capt. W. J. Vaiden, and was honorably mustered out of service in Montgomery in October, 1898. He is an Episcopalian; an Odd Fellow; and a Woodman of the World. Married: February 14, 1910, at Linden to Mary Annie, daughter of Joe Scott and Julia (Wilburn) Quinney, who lived at Old Spring Hill, Marengo County. Children: Goodman G., jr. Residence: Demopolis.

GRIFFIN, JOHN, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 97, resided in Pike County, June 1, 1840.—Census of Pensioners, 1841, p. 149.

GRIFFIN, JOHN THOMAS, county commissioner and legislator, was born October 25, 1863, at Abbeville, Henry County; son of Dempsey and Eliza (Clenny) Griffin, the former was a native of South Carolina, and served four years in the C. S. Army; grandson of Reuben and Rebecca (Galloway) Clenny, of Henry County, and of Thomas Griffin of South Carolina. He was educated in the common schools. For five years he has been county commissioner; four years justice of the peace; and represented Henry County in the legislature of 1919. He is a Democrat; and a Mason. Married: Margaret Varina, daughter of Richard Thomas and Mittie (Culver) Hudspeth, of Henry County. Residence: Abbeville.

GRIFFIN, SANDERS JACKSON, lawyer and legislator, was born January 14, 1863, at Van Wert, Polk County, Ga.; son of William and Martha (Ragsdale) Griffin, the former a farmer of Polk County, Ga., enlisted in the 70th Georgia regiment, C. S. Army, dying of smallpox in Richmond, 1864; grandson of David and Laney Griffin, who went from North Carolina to Polk County, Ga., settling on the Euharlie Creek, where they resided many years, trading with the Indians, and of Sanders and Sallie (Haygood) Ragsdale, of Dallas, Paulding County, Ga. He was educated in the schools of Polk and Carroll Counties, Ga., and at Blountsville college; taught several years in the public schools. While living at Cullman he read law, was admitted to the practice, 1899, at that place, and served as solicitor pro tem of Cullman County, 1900. In August of that year he was elected to the house of representatives from Cullman County; appointed solicitor, 1901, for Cullman County; now engaged in the practice of law. He is a Democrat; a Methodist; and a Knight of Pythias. Married: (1) December 27, 1885, to Lucy A., only daughter of G. I. Bowden; (2) October 12, 1902, to Mrs. Lizzie A. Mitchell (nee Garrison) of Cullman, daughter of Jackson Garrison, a native of Carroll County, Ga., but now a resident of Cullman.

Children: by the first wife, 1. Willie B., m. Netta J., daughter of Gov. Thomas G. Jones (q. v.); 2. Carrie Eugenia, m. F. J. Bookman, probate judge. Residence: Cullman.

GRIFFIN, VIRGIL CHILDERS, sr., secretary Alabama railroad commission, clerk of the U. S. district court, Southern district, was born January 16, 1862, at New Georgia, Elmore County; son of Bennett S. and Martha (Hodges) Griffin, who lived at Wetumpka, the former a Confederate soldier, who served through the four years of the War of Secession; grandson of Bennett Smith and Martha (Mitchell) Griffin of Montgomery County, and of John A. and Martha (Foster) Hodges of Tuscaloosa. He was educated in the public schools of Montgomery and Tuscaloosa, and in the preparatory school of Dill and Foster. He was secretary of the Alabama railroad commission of Alabama for a number of years and has been, since 1917, clerk of the U. S. district court, Southern district. He is a Democrat; Mason; and a Presbyterian. Married: April 29, 1890, at Montgomery, Mary Lee, daughter of Eugene T. and Sallie (Graves) Besson, formerly of Eufaula, but latterly of Montgomery. Children: 1. Virgil Childers, jr., lieutenant commander, U. S. Navy, Air service; 2. Eugenia Judkins, m. Elisha J. Cain, Wetumpka; 3. Sarah Graves, deputy clerk, U. S. district court, Mobile; 4. Tennent Lomax, Mobile. Residence: Mobile.

GRIFFIN, WOODWARD ELI, lawyer, was born August 7, 1866, at Clayton, Barbour County; son of Nicholas Woodward and Mary Elizabeth (Ford) Griffin, the former a soldier in the C. S. Army, during the War of Secession, mayor of Troy, and a member of the Alabama legislature from Pike County; grandson of John Griffin, and of Eli and Jane Ford. He obtained his early education from the common schools of Troy and Brundidge, and was graduated from the University of Alabama, A. B., A. M., and LL. B., June, 1887. He became principal of Grammar school, Troy, 1887-1888; served as superintendent of education of Pike County, 1888-1890; as professor of Latin, Troy State normal college, 1889-1890; as superintendent of Troy public schools, 1891-1893; as principal of Public school No. 1, Pensacola, Fla., 1893-1898; and as principal of a public school at Ocala, Fla., 1899-1900. Since 1901, he has been engaged in the practice of law. He was a member of the city council of Troy for some time; a member of the board of education of the city of Troy; and chairman of the executive committee of the city of Troy. He was captain in the W. C. Oates rifles at Troy; is a Democrat and a Mason. Married: November 17, 1897, Esther Tillis, daughter of Richard and Ophelia Tillis, who lived at Geneva. Residence: Troy.

GRIFFITH, AQUILLA A., lawyer, was born February 22, 1878, at Blountsville; son of Coke A. and Barbara Allen (Diehl) Griffith, the former a native of Ellijay, Gilmore County, Ga., who served in a Georgia regiment in the C. S. Army, moved to Blount County after the war, and later located in Birmingham; grandson of Wiles A. and Hannah Griffith, of Gilmore County, Ga., and Blount County, and of Marcus Diehl of Gilmore County, Ga. He received his early education at Blountsville, and was graduated from the law school at Cumberland university, Lebanon, Tenn., LL. B., 1902-1903. He was admitted to practice in the circuit court of Jefferson County, June 1, 1903, and since that time has practiced in Cullman County. He was elected to the State legislature as a representative from Cullman County, 1911. He is a Democrat; Methodist; Odd Fellow; Mason; and Red Man. Married: May 12, 1904, at Cullman, to Lillie Johnson, daughter of George W. and Mary J. (Kinney) Johnson, of Cullman. Residence: Cullman.

GRIGGS, HOWARD, superintendent of city schools. Residence: Jacksonville.

GRIGGS, WILLIAM CORNELIUS, teacher, was born April 16, 1873, in Mill Town, Chambers County; son of Thomas Jefferson and Mary Lou (Connally) Griggs, the former who served in the Confederacy having enlisted March 22, 1861, for twelve months, was sent to Pensacola, Fla., wounded at Battle of Cedar Creek, Va., October 19, 1862, was only survivor of a family of several brothers, and died from effects of wound March 18, 1884 on a farm in Chambers County. Mr. Griggs boasts Scotch ancestry and his ancestors had a prominent part in all this country's military history, some were pioneers and endured hardships incident to pioneer life, and among them were numbered teachers, physicians and lawyers. He received his education in the rural schools, the Lafayette school, later attended Howard college from which he was graduated A. B., in 1898, and took post graduate work in University of Chicago. Taught schools in small towns of state, 1898 to 1907; was principal Henley school, Birmingham, 1907-12; superintendent of schools of Gadsden since 1912; teacher summer school University of Alabama, 1907, 1917-1920; and was state institute conductor during the summers of 1912-1917. He was secretary of the Alabama Educational Association, 1904-1916; member of the executive committee, 1917-1919; and president of that organization 1919-1920. He is a Democrat; York and Scottish Rite Mason; and deacon of First Baptist church, Gadsden. He organized the Gadsden Rotary Club and was its president 1917-1918, and in 1917 he organized the Huntsville Rotary Club. Mr. Griggs has never married. Residence: Gadsden.

GRISWOLD, JOSEPH G., professor of modern languages at the University of Alabama, Tuscaloosa, 1871-72.

GROCE, B. W., physician, was born February 12, 1820, in Lincoln County, Ga.; son of Shepherd and Susan (Steele) Groce, natives of North Carolina, the former of Scotch-Irish ancestry. His parents died when he was very young, and his early educational advantages were very limited. In 1839, he began reading medicine under Dr. E. Lamar, and afterward attended the Georgia medical college, where he was graduated, M. D., 1842. He immediately went to Talladega County, established himself in the practice of medicine, and continued that practice through forty-eight years. He was elected to the State legislature from Talladega County, by the Whig party in 1849, and served one term; was an elector on the Bell and Everett ticket in 1860; was elected senator from Talladega County, 1861-1865; was elected state lecturer for the Farmers' Alliance party in 1888, and served in that capacity for three years; and was elected president of the Farmers' Alliance party of Alabama in 1892. He is an Episcopalian and a Mason. Married: (1) June 1, 1841, Jane Lamar, a native of Georgia, who died two months after her marriage, daughter of Capt. Peter Lamar, of Georgia; (2) October 3, 1843, Caroline B. McElderry, born May 4, 1824, in Morgan County, and died December 24, 1858, daughter of Thomas and Eliza (Boteler) McElderry; (3) October 12, 1859, Ann E. Boteler, born May 15, 1836, in Morgan County, daughter of Alexander and Matilda (McElderry) Boteler. Children, by second marriage: 1. Thomas J.; 2. George C.; 3. William M.; 4. John S.; and four who are deceased; by third marriage: 9. Mary L.; 10. Robert Lee; 11. Martha C.; 12. Ida McElderry and three who are deceased. Last residence: Talladega County.

GROGAN, JAMES OSGOOD, Methodist minister, and Alabama secretary of Inter-church world movement, was born February 15, 1871, at Flatswoods, Elbert County, Ga.; son of John Henry and Fannie E. (McLaughlin) Grogan, the former a native of Spartanburg County, S. C., who removed to Georgia in his early boyhood and when reaching maturity entered the Methodist ministry, serving both as pastor and presiding elder for many years; grandson of George and Mary (Hall) McLaughlin, who lived at Center, Oglethorpe County, Ga. The Grogan ancestry was Irish. The McLaughlins were Scotch-Irish. Dr. Grogan received his early education in the country schools of his native state; attended for six months, the high school of Elberton, Ga. His ministerial training was received by private reading of the prescribed theological courses of his denomination. He entered the Methodist ministry in 1895, as a member of the North Georgia conference, where he served pastorates for sixteen years. In December, 1911, he was transferred to the Alabama conference and stationed in Montgomery, at the Court St. church. During the World war he did social service work among the soldiers, and after the armistice went abroad in that capacity. In 1920, he was appointed as Alabama secretary of the Inter-church world movement. He is a Democrat; Methodist; and a Mason. Married: October 26, 1892, in Elbert County, Ga., to Rebecca Elizabeth, daughter of Frank and Mary (Dobbins) Shirley, who lived in Anderson County, S. C., the former a Confederate soldier, serving four years in Stuart's cavalry. Children: 1. Margaret Eugenia, m. Richard Rizer Walker, deceased; 2. Mary Elizabeth; 3. Ruth Shirley; 4. Dorothy; 5. Louise Duncan; 6. Katherine. Residence: Birmingham.

GROTE, CARL AUGUST, physician, county health officer, was born April 20, 1887, at Greensboro; son of Charles August and Flossie G. (Smith) Grote, who lived at Greensboro; grandson of Rev. Charles A. Grote, a native of Germany, who came to America in 1845, settled at Galveston, Tex., where he married a Miss Reue, was a Lutheran at the time of his arrival in this country, but subsequently joined the Methodist Episcopal church, South, and was admitted into the Texas Conference in 1848; became a member of the Texas and Louisiana German Mission Conference in 1870, continuing a member of that body until the time of his death, had charge of the Craps Street church in New Orleans for three years, during the war was presiding elder in Texas and held that office for seven years, and died November 18, 1887; and of Rev. Luther L. Smith, D. D. (q. v.), of Oxford, Ga., who was at one time president of Southern university. His father was graduated from Southern university, A. M., 1875; continued his studies in New Orleans, and in Harvard college; began teaching at Fredericksburg, Tex., in 1868; was a professor in Soule university, Texas, in 1876, and in the fall of that year, became professor of modern languages at Southern university; in 1881, was appointed county superintendent of schools, and held that office for many years. Dr. Grote was prepared in the public schools of Greensboro; was graduated from Southern university, A. B., in 1908, and from the school of medicine of the University of Alabama, M. D., 1912. He immediately began to practice medicine, and from the time of his graduation has served as a health official. He has been field agent of the state board of health, health officer of Walker County for four years, and health officer of Huntsville and Madison County for two years. He was the first health officer elected to give his entire time and effort to his office, in Alabama. He began the work in 1914 in Walker County, and soon after, as the plan of work was shown so feasible and the results in saving of human lives so certain, many other counties in Alabama, and other states of the South began the work. In 1918, Dr. Grote was elected to take charge of a model county health unit in Madison County, to be supported by the city of Huntsville and the United States public health service. He is a Democrat; a Methodist; and a Master Mason. Residence: Huntsville.

GRUBB, WILLIAM IRWIN, lawyer and Federal district judge, was born March 8, 1862, in Cincinnati, Ohio; son of John and Sidney (Irwin) Grubb; grandson of Thomas Grubb, and of Archibald and Sidney (Grubb) Irwin, all of Mercersburg, Franklin County, Pa.; great-grandson of Archibald Irwin, quartermaster of Col. Samuel Culbertson's battalion in the War of the Revolution. Elizabeth, one of the daughters of Archibald and Mary (Ramsey) Irwin, married John Scott Harrison, son of President William Henry Harrison, and was the mother of President Benjamin Harrison. The Grubbs were of English stock, coming early from Cornwall, England, to Lancaster County, Pa. The Irwins were from Ireland and came prior to 1760, to Cumberland County, Pa. Judge Grubb was educated in the public schools of Cincinnati; graduated A. B., 1883, from Yale university, and secured his professional education in the Cincinnati law school. He began the practice in Birmingham in 1888, and prior to his appointment to the bench had been at various times associated with Walker Percy, Hugh Morrow, and other members of the Birmingham bar. On May 18, 1909, he was appointed judge of the United States circuit court by President Taft. He is a Democrat; and a Presbyterian. Married: June 18, 1906, at Birmingham, Alice C., daughter of Donimic and Julia Vigo, of Tuscaloosa. Children: 1. Catherine; 2. Archibald Irwin. Residence: Birmingham.

GRUBBS, L. HENSLY, publisher and editor, was born September 28, 1838, at Pulaski, Tenn.; son of Thomas Washington and Lucy D. (Brown) Grubbs, natives of Brunswick County, Va., who moved to Giles County, Tenn., soon after their marriage, and lived on a farm there for the rest of their lives, the former was sheriff, collector and census taker of that county; grandson of Ezekiel Grubbs, who served in the Revolution. He spent his boyhood on the farm; was employed in a dry goods store in Pulaski, Tenn., when he was twelve years old; spent two years in La Grange college; and moved to Leighton in 1852, where he was employed in a dry goods store, in a railroad office, and as assistant postmaster. In April, 1856, he was licensed to preach in the Methodist Episcopal church, South, and remained in the itinerant ministry fourteen years. He located in Decatur in 1872, and engaged in the drug business until 1886. He established the Decatur Weekly "News" in 1873, which was the only paper published in that city until 1885. He was appointed postmaster at Decatur, March 27, 1885, by President Cleveland, and the following year was chosen president of the first national convention of postmasters, held in Chicago, Ill. He is a stockholder in the Decatur Land, Improvement & Furnace Company, and the Morgan County Building & Loan Association. He is a member of the Masonic fraternity, of the Knights of Pythias, the Knights of Honor and the Ancient Order of United Workmen, and is connected as a state officer in each of those societies. Married: March 20, 1860, at Cornersville, Tenn., Mary J. Perry, daughter of Rev. Francis A. and Rhoda (Thompson) Perry. Children: 1. Minnie Lou Hense, m. B. H. Lambert, of New York City; 2. Walter Marvin; 3. Lelia Virginia; 4. Nona Aline; and three daughters who are deceased. Residence: Decatur.

GUESS, BENJAMIN, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 77, and a resident of Fayette County; private N. C. Militia; enrolled on June 16, 1833, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $66.66.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34. He resided in Fayette County, June 1, 1840, with Jesse Howard, aged 83.—Census of Pensioners, 1841, p. 148.

GUILD, JAMES, physician, surgeon, and legislator, was born July 25, 1799, in Pittsylvania County, Va., and died February 12, 1884, at Tuscaloosa; son of Maj. Walter and Elizabeth (Conn) Guild, the former a native of Scotland who came to America about 1780, locating in Sumner County, Tenn. Losing their parents at an early age, Dr. Guild and his brother, Judge Joseph Guild, of Nashville, were reared by their maternal uncle, Maj. Joseph Conn, a soldier under Gen. Andrew Jackson in the Indian War of 1813. Dr. Guild graduated from Transylvania university, Lexington, Ky., in 1821, with the degree of M. D. Soon afterwards he moved to Tuscaloosa, where he began the practice of his profession and was continuously engaged in the active practice for sixty-three years. He accomplished great feats in the field of operative surgery and as a lithotomist enjoyed national reputation. He was a member of the State senate, 1833, and the house of representatives, 1845. He was a trustee of the State insane hospital and of the University of Alabama. He was a Methodist. Married: in March, 1821, in Tennessee, to Mary Elizabeth, daughter of Marmaduke and Agnes (Payne) Williams (q. v.). Children: 1. Keturah, m. (1) ——— Billingsley; (2) Rev. Dr. W. H. McIntosh; 2. Joseph Conn (q. v.); 3. LaFayette (q. v.); 4. Mary Elizabeth, m. Dr. A. J. Battle (q. v.); 5. James, surgeon, C. S. Army, m. M. Bennett; 6. Virginia, m. Dr. John Edward Hall, surgeon, C. S. Army; 7. Walter, lieutenant, C. S. Army, deceased; 8. Ellen, m. C. Browning. Last residence: Tuscaloosa.

GUILD, JOSEPH C., mayor of Tuscaloosa, 1850-54-66.

GUILD, LAFAYETTE, physician, chief surgeon and medical director on the staff of Gen. Robert E. Lee, C. S. Army, was born November 23, 1825, at Tuscaloosa, and died July 4, 1870, at Marysville, Calif.; son of James and Mary Elizabeth (Williams) Guild (q. v.). His early education was secured in the local schools of the period, and in 1845 he graduated from the University of Alabama with the A. B. degree, receiving the A. M. degree in 1848. He read medicine under the direction of his father, and graduated from Jefferson medical college, Philadelphia, 1848. He was later a pupil of the celebrated Dr. Phil Aylette of New York, who was his wife's uncle. In 1849 he entered the U. S. Army as assistant surgeon, and remained in that branch of the service until 1860 when he resigned to return to Alabama and participate with his relatives in the political storm then brewing. He entered the Confederate Army in 1861, as inspector of hospitals, and was in 1862 made chief surgeon and medical director of the Army of Northern Virginia, and a member of Gen. Robert E. Lee's staff, to the close of the War of Secession. After the restoration of peace, Dr. Guild located in Mobile, where he was quarantine physician from 1866 to 1869. During the latter year, owing to rheumatism which he had contracted from exposure in the line of his duty during the war, he removed to San Francisco, Calif., where he was made visiting surgeon of the city and county hospital. Just prior to the outbreak of war between the States, Dr. Guild was stationed in Oregon, attached to the famous 2nd cavalry regiment, U. S. Army, of which Albert Sidney Johnston was colonel, Robert E. Lee, lieutenant colonel, Earl Van Dorn, and W. G. Hardee, majors and to which J. E. B. Stuart, Fitzhugh Lee, and George H. Thomas were also attached. He was a Democrat. Author: a large body of literature relating to his profession contributed to the medical department of the U. S. Army, the original manuscripts of which have probably been lost. His report on the yellow fever epidemic at Governor's Island, N. Y., 1856, created widespread interest throughout the country, not only because of its value as a scientific contribution to the history of the disease, but also because of its charm of diction and appeal to the interest of the laity. Married: in 1851, at Mobile, to Martha Aylette, daughter of John and Virginia (Aylette) Fitts (q. v.). Children: There were no children born of this union, but with great kindness they reared two Indian youths given into their care while stationed in the west. Last residence: San Francisco, Calif.

GULLETT, A. H., member of the constitutional convention of 1875, from Wilcox County.

GULLETT, GEORGE SAMUEL, planter, was born March 17, 1819, at Carney's Bluff, Clarke County, and died at Camden, February 14, 1885; son of George Samuel and Mary Fee (Eads) Gullett, the former a native of La Belle, France, who came to this country in 1804, landing at Charleston, S. C., then to Boston, and later in 1817 to Alabama, as a trader, and as a soldier; brother of John Eads Gullett (q. v.); grandson of Lord Waitman and Eloise (De Rochers) Gullett, of France, and of John and Mary Ann (Fee) Eads, the former of whom lived at the time of his death in Wilcox County. Mr. Gullett received his early education from his mother, and entered school at Maryville, Tenn., where he prosecuted his academic studies; read law at Claiborne, but his planting interests were so extensive that he gave up his professional aspirations to devote himself exclusively to agriculture. He was a member of the legislature from Wilcox County in 1861, and 1876-77. He was a Democrat; a Baptist; and a Mason. Married: in 1842, to Elizabeth, daughter of Nathan and Sarah Ann (Blackmon) McPherson, who lived near Camden, and granddaughter of Dr. Thomas Blackmon, who came from Holland to Virginia, was a surgeon in the Revolutionary War, and afterwards settled in South Carolina, later removing to Wilcox County. Children: 1. Audubon, a physician, deceased, Plant City, Fla.; 2. William, physician, Jackson; 3. Jerry A., m. Neil Davis, Imperial City, Calif.; 4. Mary, m. Sam C. Cook, Montgomery; 5. Sarah, m. Alex Nolen, Flint. Last residence: Camden.

GULLETT, JOHN EADS, planter, was born August 20, 1816, in an Indian fort on the Alabama River, near Choctaw Bluff, Clarke County, and died March 21, 1899, at Camden; son of George Samuel and Mary Fee (Eads) Gullett, and brother of George Samuel Gullett (q. v.). He received his early education from his mother and in 1835 attended the University of Alabama as a member of the freshman class. He was a second lieutenant in the U. S. Army in the Florida Indian Wars; member of the board of revenue and of the court of county commissioners of Wilcox County, planter and slave-owner. At the time of his death he was the oldest native-born Alabamian living in the State. He celebrated his golden-wedding eleven years prior to his death. He was a Democrat; a Baptist; Mason; and an Odd Fellow. Married: May 1, 1839, to Rebecca Jane, daughter of Thomas and Charlotte (Murch) Blackmon, who lived in Darlington District, S. C., before removing to Camden; granddaughter of — Murch, a German, who built the Murch Inn, that still stands on the Battery of Charleston, S. C., and of Dr. Thomas Blackmon, surgeon in the American Revolution. Children: 1. Minnie M., m. (1) Molette Ulmer, Pleasant Hill, (2) W. P. Murphy, of South Carolina; 2. Lucy Caroline ("Tiney"); 3. Amelia E., m. (1) Dr. P. L. Ulmer, Pleasant Hill, (2) Capt. N. D. Cross, of Selma; 4. John Eads, physician, m. Jennie Tidwell; 5. Martha M., m. James J. Ulmer; 6. Frank Grayson, lawyer, student at the University of Alabama, 1871-73, died at San Antonio, Texas; 7. Wm. Ervin, m. (1) Mamie Cope, (2) Victoria Gieger, Jacksonville, Fla.; 8. Rebecca J., m. Dr. C. C. Jones, Birmingham. Last residence: Camden.

GULLEY, EZEKIEL S., major and later lieutenant colonel, 40th Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army.

GULLEY, WILLIAM, physician, was born March 26, 1823, near Belleville, Conecuh County, and died January 10 1872, at Snow Hill; son of James and Mary (Simpson) Gulley who lived at Snow Hill, the former of whom was a native of Buford County, N. C., who accumulated large wealth in land and slaves; grandson of William Gulley, and of Thomas and Rachel Simpson, of Belleville. He was graduated from Jefferson medical college, Philadelphia, Pa., M. D., March 4, 1846, and devoted the remainder of his life to the practice of medicine at Snow Hill. He was a Democrat. Married: November 17, 1846, at Snow Hill, Mary Watts McCondichie, daughter of Jay and Sarah (Patton) McCondichie, who lived at Snow Hill. Children: 1. Elizabeth Anne, m. R. O. Simpson, of Snow Hill. Last residence: Snow Hill.

GUN-MERCHANT, Creek Chief. See Indian chiefs and associated characters.

GUNN, GEORGE W., lawyer and Baptist minister, was elected to the State senate from Macon County, to succeed Mr. Scott. He served a term of four years, and during that time was chairman of the judiciary committee. He was a Whig, and at that time his party had the ascendancy in the senate, affording him, in his position, a wide field of action as a debater and as a leader in business. On the death of Nathaniel H. Clanton, the senator from Macon County in 1855, Mr. Gunn was elected his successor, and served through the balance of the term. He was a lawyer and Baptist minister, practicing both professions in Macon County. Last residence: Macon County.

DR. HARRY T. INGE

GUNN, NORMAN, lawyer, was born June 28, 1868, at Springs, Clark County, Miss.; son of Henry Sabert and Margaret Dicy (Griffin) Gunn, the former a native of Greene County, Miss., who was a first lieutenant of his company during the War of Secession and was wounded at the battle of Atlanta, was a Methodist minister, moved from Clarke County, Miss., to Bergamot, Choctaw County, in 1880, and in 1892 moved to Thomasville, Clarke County; grandson of John and Willery (Snellgrove) Gunn, of North Carolina, and of John and Harriet (Connor) Griffin, who came from Savannah, Ga., to Greene County, Miss., and later moved to Clarke County, Miss. Mr. Gunn attended school at Pushmataha and at Rosser, Sumter County, but received the greater part of his early education at home. He was graduated from the Lexington normal college, Lexington, Miss., B. S., 1892; and from the law school of the University of Alabama, LL. B., 1896. He taught school in Thomasville, 1892-1896; began the practice of law at Thomasville, June, 1896, and has continued his profession there; served as mayor of Thomasville, 1896-1898; county solicitor in Clarke County, 1904-1907; and was elected to the State senate from the nineteenth district in 1907. He is a Democrat; a Methodist; a Royal Arch Mason; a thirty-second degree Mason and a Shriner. Residence: Thomasville.

GUNNELS, DANIEL P., merchant and planter, was born October 6, 1823, near Bold Spring, Franklin County, Ga.; son of Nathan and Nancy (Hunt) Gunnels, natives respectively of Wilkes and Franklin Counties, Ga., the former who moved to Franklin County early in life, settling on a plantation there, was an officer in the War of 1836, a member of the Georgia constitutional convention, and died in 1870 at Atlanta. He was reared on the home farm; received an academic education; and in 1845 located at Boiling Springs, Calhoun County, where he was for several years a clerk in a mercantile establishment. After some time, he purchased an interest with his employer, and still later, became sole owner of the concern. He moved to Oxford in 1854, and continued in the mercantile business until 1872, with the exception of the period, 1862-1865, when he suspended the mercantile business and entered the employ of the Oxford Iron Company. After 1872, he gave most of his attention to planting. He was a member of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, a Mason and an Odd Fellow. Married: March 1857, Susan E. Cunningham, daughter of William N. and Nancy E. (Pratt) Cunningham, natives of South Carolina. Children: 1. Nancy E., m. Mr. Warnock; 2. John N.; 3. James N.; 4. Esther L.; 5. Elmira P.; 6. Henry C., who was state superintendent of education of Alabama, 1907-1911; 7. Willie Francis. Last residence: Oxford.

GUNNELS, HARRY CUNNINGHAM, lawyer, educator and State superintendent of education, was born October 1, 1868, at Oxford, Calhoun County, and died September 19, 1911; son of Daniel Perry and Susan E. (Cunningham) Gunnels; grandson of Nathan and Nancy (Hunt) Gunnels, and of William Newton and Nancy (Pratt) Cunningham. The Gunnels family came from Bold Spring, Franklin County, Ga., while the Cunninghams were among the early settlers of Benton, now Calhoun County. Mr. Gunnels was educated in the common schools of Oxford, and graduated A. B., 1886, from Oxford college; took special course at Vanderbilt, and graduated, 1891, LL. B. at the University of Alabama. Although graduating in law, his whole life was devoted to educational work. In October, 1886, he began teaching as co-principal of the Ashland high school; was later for two years professor of natural sciences and history in Oxford college; principal of the Anniston high school; superintendent of Anniston city school, 1896-98; chief clerk in the department of education, 1899-1902; was appointed State superintendent of education, July 1, 1902, to succeed Dr. John W. Abercrombie, who was elected president of the University of Alabama; again appointed chief clerk, January, 1903, serving until January, 1907, when he entered upon a full term as superintendent of education by election. In 1900-01 he was a member of the house of representatives from Calhoun County, serving on the committee on education, and was the author of the bill providing five months free schools. He was chairman of the committee on legislation of the Alabama educational association, 1905-6; member and secretary of the Alabama education committee; and director for Alabama of the Southern educational association. He was successively 1st lieutenant, and captain of Co. I, 2nd infantry regiment, Alabama national guard; and from 1896 to 1906 was inspector on the staff of Gen. L. V. Clark with the rank of Major. He was a Democrat; a Methodist; Mason; Shriner; and Knight of Pythias. Married: November 25, 1895, to Ladie Emily, daughter of William and Louise (Carithers) Goss, of Commerce, Ga. Children: 1. Louise Elizabeth; 2. Edith Helen. Last residence: Montgomery.

GUNTER, CHARLES GRANDISON, planter, was born February 28, 1806, in Chatham County, N. C., and died August 19, 1883, at Linhares, Rio Doce, Brazil. His father was a German who came to America when a young man and settled in Chatham County N. C., where he spent the remainder of his life. His name originally was Gunther, but he changed it to Gunter on arriving in this country. Mr. Gunter attended the country schools of Chatham County, N. C., and took up the study of law. He was admitted to practice, and came to Alabama in 1833 with his family, settling on a plantation ten miles west of Montgomery on the east side of Pintlala Creek. He became a law partner of Mr. Chisholm in the law firm of Chisholm & Gunter, but abandoned the practice soon after, becoming a planter and a financier. He represented Montgomery County in the State legislature in 1847 and 1849, and introduced and pressed to passage the law securing to women their property against the marital rights of the husbands under common law. This law was known at first as "Gunter's law," and was the first and strongest step in Alabama in the emancipation of women. He was one of the organizers of the Montgomery True Blues, and was awarded a gold star as a mark of honor in 1851 by the company. During the War of Secession, he was captain of Co. A of old men. After peace was declared, he moved to Brazil, bought slaves, and remained a planter there until his death. He was a Whig. He assisted in building and maintaining the Baptist and Methodist Episcopalian churches, and the Episcopalian school, Hamner Hall. He was past master of Masonry, Montgomery Lodge No. 11. Married: in 1831, at Cheraw, S. C., Eliza Ann Adams, daughter of John and Isabella (McCrea) Adams, of Richmond County, N. C.; granddaughter of Mary (McLeod) McCrea. The McCrea, Adams and McLeod families all came from the Scotch settlement in Richmond County, N. C. Children: 1. George Thomas, b. November 24, 1832, m. Adella Smith, last residence, Lowndesboro, both deceased; 2. William Adams, lawyer, b. October 7, 1834, A. B., LL. B., University of Virginia 1856, m. Ellen F. Poellnitz, Montgomery, son, Charles Poellnitz, A. B., dealer in real estate and insurance, b. February 11, 1865, Montgomery; 3. Hattie, m. P. H. McEachin, captain in the C. S. Army; 4. Harris, A. B., lawyer, b. April 27, 1847, m. Kate Vassar, Montgomery; 5. Anna, m. in Brazil, A. J. Dozier, Madison, Fla.; 6. Basil Manly, d. in Brazil, at the age of thirty-nine years; 7. Mary E., m. F. H. Elmore, Montgomery. Last residence: Linhares, Rio Doce, Brazil.

GUNTER, GASTON, lawyer, was born November 7, 1874, at Montgomery, and died January 29, 1919, at Montgomery; brother of William Adams Gunter (q. v.). He attended the public schools of Montgomery; the Stevens school, Hoboken, N. J.; was graduated at the Sheffield scientific school of Yale university, Ph. B., 1893; studied law at the University of Virginia and in the office of his father, William Adams Gunter, at Montgomery; was admitted to the bar at Montgomery, 1895; practiced law at Montgomery; served as alderman of the city council of Montgomery, 1901-1906; was elected president of that council, 1905; represented Montgomery County in the State legislature in 1906; was mayor of Montgomery, 1909-1910; became judge of the city court of Montgomery, and on the re-organization of the judiciary and the consolidation of the city and chancery courts in 1916, was chosen one of the judges of the fifteenth judicial circuit, in which position he served until his death. During the Spanish American war, he served as captain of Co. K, Third Alabama volunteer infantry, 1898-1899; and was first lieutenant of Troop A, squadron of cavalry, Alabama national guard, 1905-1906. He was a Democrat, a Mason, and a Beaver. Mr. Gunter was never married. Last residence: Montgomery.

GUNTER, JOSEPH LEON, physician; graduate of Memphis hospital 1894, and located in Pickens County. Later he removed to New Decatur.

GUNTER, WILLIAM ADAMS, planter, was born October 8, 1871, at Rambert Hills, Marengo County; son of William Adams and Ellen Florence (Poellnitz) Gunter, the former a native of Montgomery County, a lawyer, who served in the C. S. Army, and was at one time a representative in the State legislature from Montgomery County; grandson of Charles Grandison and Eliza (Adams) Gunter, the former who was one of the early settlers of Montgomery County, emigrating from North Carolina, and who moved to Brazil, S. A., after the War of Secession, and of Gen. Charles Augustus and Mary L. J. (Peay) Poellnitz, who came to Marengo County, from South Carolina; great-grandson of Julius and Elizabeth (Rogers) Von Poellnitz; great-great-grandson of Col. Benjamin Rogers, of South Carolina, a Revolutionary soldier, and of Baron Charles Hans Frederick Bruno Von Poellnitz, who came to America in 1777 with Steuben and Kosciusko to render service in the Revolution. Mr. Gunter is a brother of Gaston Gunter (q. v.). He received his early education in the private schools and in the high school at Montgomery; attended Marion military institute for some time, and the University of Virginia, 1890-1891. He read law privately under his father, and was admitted to practice in 1897. In addition to his practice of law, he is a planter. He was elected register of Montgomery County, 1901-1904; mayor of Montgomery; 1910-1911; president of the city commission, 1911-1915; and was State senator from Montgomery, 1919. He was a member of the Montgomery Rifles, 1894-1897. He is a Democrat, a Presbyterian, a Knight of Pythias, Woodman of the World, and a Red Man. Married: September 6, 1899, at Montgomery, to Julia Campbell Scott, daughter of John B. and Grace (Tyler) Scott, of Mt. Meigs. Children: 1. Grace Scott; 2. William Adams; 3. Ellen Poellnitz; 4. Mary Virginia; 5. Rosa Darrington; 6. Julia Fairlie; 7. Elizabeth Tyler. Residence: Montgomery.

GURLEY, FRANK B., planter and merchant, was born August 8, 1834, on his father's plantation near Gurley, Madison County; son of John and Matilda Tharp (Rutledge) Gurley, the former a native of Johnson County, N. C., a soldier in the Revolutionary Army, who after the Revolution resided for ten years in South Carolina, returned to Johnson County for ten years, after which he removed to Maury County, Tenn.; and thence in 1817 to Madison County; grandson of Jeremiah and Frances Gurley, also of Johnson and Maury Counties, Tenn.; the former a colonel in the Revolutionary Army. Frank B. Gurley was a captain in Company C, Fourth Alabama cavalry regiment, having enlisted May 20, 1862. Capt. Gurley is a Democrat, and a Methodist. Unmarried. Residence: Gurley, Ala.

GURLEY, JEREMIAH, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 75, and resident of Madison County; private N. C. State Troops; enrolled on October 7, 1833, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $57.08; sums received to date of publication of list, $171.24.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc, 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34. He resided in Madison County, June 1, 1840, with John Gurley aged 81.—Census of Pensioners, 1841, p. 148.

GUTTERY, GEORGE HOUSTON, merchant, was born in Walker County; son of Robert and Sarah (Williams) Guttery (q. v.), the former a pioneer preacher of the Primitive Baptist church, and one of the first settlers of Walker County, who came with his father, William Guttery, to Alabama from Tennessee. He was reared on a farm; received his schooling at Jasper and Hollygrove; farmed until the outbreak of war in 1861; and entered the C. S. Army as a member of Co. A., Fifty-sixth Alabama regiment, with Capt. A. J. Guttery, his brother, commanding the company. He served in Forrest's command in Mississippi, with Johnston's army from Dalton to Atlanta, and in all the battles in which it participated until and including Peach Tree Creek. In 1866, he moved from Hollygrove to Jasper, began business as a merchant and continued to conduct that business until 1874, when he was elected sheriff of Walker County. He held that office for three years, and returned to his mercantile business until April, 1888. The city of Jasper was incorporated December 22, 1887, and Mr. Guttery was elected its first mayor. He held that office for several terms. Married: in 1876, Alice C. Stanley, daughter of W. L. Stanley, one of the pioneers of Jasper, and treasurer of Walker County before and during the War of Secession. Children: 1. Claude; 2. Pearl; 3. John McQueen. Last residence: Jasper.

GUTTERY, ROBERT, farmer, Baptist minister, was born in Lincoln County, Tenn., and died April 6 1877, at Holly Grove; son of William and Hannah Guttery, who lived in Lincoln County, Tenn., until they moved to Alabama with their family. He received a common school education, and was one of the first settlers in Walker County where he farmed for many years. He was a Primitive Baptist minister, and was a merchant at Jasper and Holly Grove for several years. He was elected to the convention of 1861 as a delegate from Walker County and voted against secession at that convention. He was too old for military service but had several sons in the C. S. Army. He was a Democrat. Married: November 11, 1821, Sarah Ann William. Children: all deceased except: 1. George Houston (q. v.); 2. Isam, who resides at DeLeon, Tex.; 3. Elizabeth Baker, who resides at Luling, Tex. Last residence: Holly Grove.

GUY, RENZO MEADE, farmer and merchant; was born October 2, 1878, at Davenport, Lowndes County; son of Samuel Joseph and Ira (Powell) Guy, both of Montgomery County, the former at one time a member of the board of revenue; grandson of Samuel Joseph and Caroline Guy, and of George N. and Belle Powell, all of Montgomery County; great-great-grandson of James Powell who came to America from Wailes, Scotland, and settled in King William County, Va. The Guys were originally from Virginia. Representative Guy's maternal grandfather came to Alabama from Virginia in the fifties. He was exempt from service in the Confederate Army, but volunteered to serve in the place of a brother-in-law in order that he might look after the large interests of the family. He went through the entire war, escaping without a scratch. Representative Guy was educated in the public schools of Montgomery and Lowndes counties; later attended the Alabama military institute at Tuskegee. He is a farmer and merchant of Davenport and was elected to represent Lowndes County in the State legislature, 1919. He is a Democrat, and a Modern Woodman. Married: April 19, 1892, at Hope Hull, to Carrie Lee, daughter of Hiram and Sou V. Tankersley, of that place; granddaughter of Felix Tankersley, an early settler of Alabama. Children: 1. Waverly McLamore; 2. Joseph Tankersley; 3. Robert Jennings. Residence: Letohatchee.

GUYTON, JUNIUS ISIAH, farmer, merchant, newspaper man and member Alabama legislature, was born November 29, 1872, at Military Springs, Sanford, now Lamar County; son of J. M. I. and Mary Jane (Woods) Guyton. He was educated in the common schools of Vernon; engaged in mercantile business 1892-1901; in 1901 commenced farming. He established the "Lamar Democrat" in 1896; and in 1901 represented Lamar County in the house of representatives. For a number of years he was captain of the "Vernon rifles," Third infantry, Alabama national guard. He is a Democrat. Married: January 27, 1901, at Caledonia, Miss., to Ramah Corinne Barrentine. Residence: Vernon.

GWALTNEY, LESLIE LEE, Baptist minister, was born March 5, 1876, in Surry County, Va.; son of John Avington Merit and Sarah Rebecca (Deering) Gwaltney, who lived in Surry County, Va., the former of whom was a native of that county, a farmer who served under Lee in the army of northern Virginia during the War of Secession, and after the war was for many years captain of a cavalry company; grandson of Merit Gwaltney, and of Sarah Deering, of Surry County, Va. He obtained his early education in country and private schools, and attended Richmond college, 1899-1905. He attended Union theological seminary where he specialized in Greek and Hebrew; was graduated, Master of Theology, from the Southern Baptist theological seminary, 1908; and was graduated from the Potomac university, with the degree of Doctor of Theology, 1909. He is a minister of the Baptist church, and has served in pastorates at Prattville, Greenville, and at Florence. Rev. Gwaltney is editor of the Alabama "Baptist." Married: at Coman's Well, Va., Richie Thornton Peters, daughter of Richard and Bettie (White) Peters, who lived at Meadville, Va. Children: 1. Rachel, d. of diphtheria in Richmond, at twenty-two months of age; 2. Leslie Lee, jr., b. 1905, at Hewletts, Va.; 3. Raecile, b. 1906, in Louisville, Ky.; 4. Virginia, b. in Greenville, and died there at the age of fourteen months; 5. Richard Merit, b. 1913. Residence: Birmingham.

GWALTNEY, LUTHER RICE, Baptist minister and teacher, for a number of years a resident of Alabama, was born at Smithville, Va., December 19, 1830, and died at Rome, Ga., July 18, 1910; son of James Gwaltney. Dr. Gwaltney's early education was limited; at fourteen he entered Columbian college, Washington, D. C., completing only his sophomore year, but he later received the honorary degree of D. D. from that institution. He taught for several years before deciding to enter the Baptist ministry; held pastorates in South Carolina and Georgia; organized the Cherokee Baptist college, now Shorter college, Rome, Ga.; was president of Judson institute, Marion, 1876-82, when he returned to Shorter college. Married: (1) in 1856 to Louisa Davidson, of Virginia; (2) in 1863 to Sophie B. Lipscomb, of South Carolina. Children: 1. Mrs. Thomas W. Raymond, Holly Springs, Miss.; 2. Mrs. Clifford B. King, Rome, Ga.; 3. James D., Rome, Ga.; 4. Mrs. E. T. Moultrie, Rome, Ga.; 5. Mrs. R. D. Van Dyke, Memphis, Tenn.; 6. Mary, Columbus, Ga.; 7. Marcia, Columbus, Ga. Last residence: Rome, Ga.

GWIN, D. W., Baptist minister, was a Virginian by birth. He graduated from Richmond college, Va.; was elected professor of ancient languages, Brownwood institute, LaGrange, Ga.; called by the Baptist church, Rome, Ga., and there ordained in 1861; had charge of the church at Griffin, Ga., and while there founded and conducted the Griffin high school; in 1886 accepted a call to Montgomery, where he remained for six years; and in 1892 removed to Atlanta, Ga. He was a member of the board of trustees of the Southern Baptist theological seminary and of the Georgia State mission board. Married: daughter of Dr. R. B. C. Howell, of Nashville, Tenn.

GWIN, JAMES CHESLEY BYRD, lawyer, was born June 21, 1878, at Ezra, Jefferson County; son of Mortimer and Telitha Elizabeth (Laird) Gwin, the former served in the C. S. Army; grandson of Littleton and March Gwin, and of Hewitt and Mary Laird. He was educated in the schools of Ezra; at Bessemer; and at the University of Alabama, graduating A. B., 1904, and LL. B., 1905; entered upon the practice in Birmingham where he remained until 1907; removed to Bessemer, 1907; since 1911 has been judge of the city court of Bessemer. He is a Baptist; Knight of Pythias; Odd Fellow;; and a Maccabee. Married: June 18, 1908, at Ensley, to Emma Corinth, daughter of Rev. O. P. and Margie (Crew) Bentley, of that place. Residence: Bessemer.

GWYNNE, ANDREW D., major 50th, also known as 26th, Coltarts, Alabama infantry; lieutenant colonel, 38th, formerly 8th, Looney's, Tennessee infantry regiment, C. S. Army.

H

HADDEN, ISAAC, Presbyterian minister, was born August 5, 1799, in Abbeville District, S. C., and died at his home in Sumter County, August 27, 1849. He was a licentiate of the Presbytery of South Carolina and commenced the work of a missionary in that state in 1823. Soon after, he took up his work in Alabama, and was one of the first Presbyterian ministers in the state. He was ordained as an evangelist at Montgomery, March 24, 1825, and spent practically his whole ministerial life, from 1823 to 1849, in Alabama. He was the founder of the first Presbyterian church in Montgomery, and his last charge was Bethel church, in Sumter County, near which he resided on his farm. His grave is in the burying ground of old Bethel church, which was located three miles from Sumterville during the ministry of Dr. Hadden, but has since been moved to Sumterville. A Presbyterian church in the northern part of Sumter County was named Hadden in honor of him. He was a Democrat; was twice married, but the names of his wives are unavailable. Children, by first marriage: 1. Robert Wilson, Presbyterian minister, b. 1824, d. January 5, 1852, of consumption at the residence of his mother-in-law, Mrs. Mary Bingham, at the time of his death was in the fourth year of his ministry, m. in 1850, to Louisa Jane Bingham; 2. William, lawyer, deceased, resided in South Carolina; 3. Laura, m. Armstrong Kerr, of Sumter County, and moved to Texas, had three children, Frank, James and William; by second marriage: 4. Martha Jane, m. April 12, 1853, to Rev. Samuel James Bingham, had five children, William Ellison, a druggist in Tuscaloosa; Mary Laura, d. May, 1911, m. P. D. Noah, of Kosciusco, Miss.; Linnie Stillman, m. R. W. Cowan, resides in Mosspoint, Miss.; Robert Hadden, married, resides in Corpus Christi, Tex., and James Alexander, d. from the effects of a burn when three years old. Last residence: Sumter County.

HADEN, JOSEPH THOMAS, planter and pioneer of Macon County, was born September 5, 1818, in Chatham County, Tenn., and died April 24, 1877, at LaPlace, Macon County; son of Joseph II and Rebecca (Durham) Haden, of North Carolina, who removed to Tennessee, and in 1836, to Alabama, settling near old Fort Decatur, in the Creek Indian country; grandson of Joseph I. and Jane (Haden) Haden, and of Rev. Thomas and Rebecca (Allen) Durham, all of North Carolina. He was educated in the log school-houses of Tennessee; engaged in pioneer farming; was one of the pioneer settlers of LaPlace, Macon County, where he resided until his death. He was a member of the home guards, during the War of Secession, and equipped two young men with horses, etc., for services, in place of his sons who were children. He was a Democrat; a Mason; a Baptist. Married: January 29, 1846, at LaPlace, to Elizabeth, daughter of George and Susan (Foscue) Oldfield, of Newbern, N. C. Children: 1. Susan Helen, first wife of Jesse Thompson; 2. Joseph G.; 3. Sarah Helen, second wife of Jesse Thompson; 4. Mary A. E., m. John T. DeBardelaben; 5. William Thomas; 6. Charles Wiley, m. Woodie Gibson; 7. Capitola F., m. (1) William F. Pinkston, (2) Robert G. Williams; 8. Lena Caroline, m. Richard Barry; 9. Jennie F.; 10. Robert A., m. Lilian Boyd. Last residence: LaPlace.

HAGAN, JAMES, captain U. S. Army, brigadier general, C. S. Army; was born in 1821 in Ireland and died in Mobile; a member of an old Irish family, some members of whom emigrated to Louisiana about the year 1800, and on the purchase of that country from France, became citizens of the United States. Two uncles of Gen. Hagan served under General Jackson at New Orleans. The Hagans were successful merchants in New Orleans and Mobile and owned large landed estates in Louisiana and Mississippi, cultivating with slave labor both sugar and cotton. At an early age James Hagan was brought to America by his father, who settled as a farmer in Pennsylvania, and in this state spent his early manhood. He received his education at Clermont Academy in Philadelphia; on the completion of his studies and entered the commercial house of McLosky, Hagan & Company at Mobile. On the outbreak of the Mexican war, he with Capt. William Walker of Mobile, Col. Winston Hunter and his brother Lawrence, and Major James Boykin, all of Dallas, joined Col. Hays' Texas Rangers and took part in the storming of Monterey. He was then commissioned a captain in the Third Dragoons; served with it under Gen. Taylor; mustered out of service at the peace and turned his attention to planting. On the outbreak of the War of Secession he was commissioned captain and September, 1861, was commissioned major of regiment of which Wirt Adams was appointed colonel; after the battle of Shiloh, the Third Alabama cavalry was organized and he was made colonel of it, and spent the last two years in North Carolina as brigade commander under Gen. Wheeler. He was wounded near Franklin, Tennessee, at Kingston, Tenn., and at Fayetteville, N. C. Just before the close of the war, Gen. Hagan was promoted to the rank of brigadier. Married: Miss Bettie Oliver, daughter of S. W. Oliver of Conecuh.

HAGGARD, HENRY, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 94, resided in Bibb County, June 1, 1840, with James Fancher.—Census of Pensioners, 1841, p. 149.

HAGLER, WILEY A., farmer, was born March 8, 1818, in Wilkes County, N. C.; son of William and Elizabeth (Mullins) Hagler, of Swiss origin, whose ancestors were among the first settlers of North Carolina. His paternal grandfather served in the Colonial Army under Washington, and was present at Braddock's defeat. He was educated in such schools as his native state afforded at that time, and came to Tuscaloosa County in 1837. He engaged in farming, and followed that occupation all his life. Married: to Hazy Ann Lee, of Tuscaloosa County, daughter of Isaac Lee, one of the first settlers of the county, and owner of large tracts of land. They had six children who were reared to maturity; one son, Edward I., the largest individual landowner in Tuscaloosa County at one time, resides at Tyner, m. (1) Maggie Prewitt, by whom he had two sons, Prewitt LaFayette, physician, b. January 26, 1868, was graduated from the medical college of the University of Alabama at Mobile, M. D., 1893, resides at Ensley, and John Wiley, physician, b. October 1, 1869, was graduated from the medical college at Mobile, M. D., 1895, m. April 26, 1892, at Grenada, Miss., Mary Egleston, resides at Prattville, and (2) Josephine Barnett, by whom he had one son, Edward Cleveland, b. October 10, 1879. Last residence: Tuscaloosa County.

HAGOOD, JAMES JOSEPH, Baptist minister, was born November 20, 1869, at Braggs, Lowndes County; son of Thomas Smallwood and Cynthia Demovell (Scott) Hagood, who lived at Braggs until 1898, then moved to Evergreen, the former of whom served in the C. S. Army during the last two years of the War of Secession; grandson of James Hagood, who came from Edgefield District, S. C., to Lowndes County with his family and slaves, and settled at Braggs, and of Rev. Joseph M. and Amanda (Herrin) Scott, who lived in Lowndes County, the former of whom was a minister in the Methodist Episcopal church, South, and at the time of his death was a superannuated minister in that church. The Hagood family came to this country from England. Rev. Hagood received his early education in the country schools at Braggs and in high school at Evergreen. He was graduated from Howard college, A. M., 1893, and from the Southern Baptist theological seminary, with the degree of Th. M., 1897. He was ordained a minister in the Baptist church, and began preaching in Clayton, June, 1897. He remained at that place for seven years, serving in Clayton and Ozark, then moved to Andalusia, where he remained eight years. He took charge of the pastorate in Jasper, June, 1913. He is a Mason, a Knight of Pythias, and an Odd Fellow. Married: June 30, 1909, at Battles Wharf, to Maud Muller Scott, daughter of Dr. Harvey Edward and Jimmie (Mates) Scott, who lived at Battles. Children: 1. James Joseph, jr., b. September 11, 1910; 2. Edward Scott, b. May 6, 1912. Residence: Jasper.

HAGOOD, RUFUS HANSOM, public official, was born October 7, 1839, at Trussville, Jefferson County; son of Robert Jackson and Nancy Melinda (Hale) Hagood, the former born at or near Pickens Court House, Pickens District, S. C., and brought when young to Alabama; grandson of Zachariah and Nancy Hagood, who removed to Jefferson County, and lived near Mt. Pinson, and of John and Jane (Caddle) Hale, of Monticello, Ky. His great-grandparents are believed to have lived and died in Pickens District. Mr. Hagood was educated in the common schools of Jefferson County. He served through the War of Secession as 1st lieutenant, Co. C, 19th Alabama infantry regiment. He was sheriff of Jefferson County, 1874-7, and acting sheriff, 1880-84. He was a Methodist. Married: April 10, 1866, at Elyton, to America, daughter of William Alfred and Corilla (Porter) Walker, of that place. Children: 1. Robert William, m. Emily Dubois, resides in Portland, Ore.; 2. Corilla, m. William Bethea, Birmingham; 3. Margaret, m. Lee Kitchel Terrell, of Birmingham; 4. Laura, m. George Shafer O'Neal, of Birmingham; 5. Lucy, m. Daniel Holt Smith, of Macon, Ga.; 6. Rufus Hansom, of Birmingham. Residence: Birmingham.

HAGUE, JOHN, soldier of the American Revolution.

"AN OLD SOLDIER FALLEN.—Mr. John Hague, aged (we understand), ninety-three years, died in Nashville, on the 13th inst. Mr. Hague was a native of Germany. He came to America in company with Lafayette, and fought in the Revolutionary War in aid of our country's independence. He was one of Lafayette's light guard. When this distinguished chieftain visited America, and passed through Nashville in 1824, Mr. Hague, who then resided in Huntsville, Alabama, came on foot, more than a hundred miles, to meet once more his old general. We are told by those who were present at their meeting, that it was a moment of thrilling interest. Mr. Hague threw himself suddenly and unexpectedly before Lafayette; the general immediately recognized him, and with a familiar tone, exclaimed, "Why, John, is this you!" and in a moment they were closely embraced in each other's arms.

"Mr. Hague was for more than fifty years a devoted Christian, and faithful member of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

"He died triumphantly. His funeral was attended by an immense concourse. He was buried with military honors."—Independent Monitor, Tuscaloosa, Ala., Aug. 11, 1841.

The following further reference to this old soldier is noted, evidently taken from a Nashville paper:

"During the visit, short as it was, of Gen. Lafayette to this place [Nashville], many incidents occurred, calculated to touch the feelings and awaken the sensibility of all who witnessed them. From among the number which have been described to us, we select the following:

"An old 'revolutionaire' named Hagy, a German by birth, who came to America in the same vessel with Gen. Lafayette, in 1777, and served with him during the greater part of the war, had travelled hither on foot from Huntsville to greet the 'Nation's Guest.' Their meeting under our civic arch was most cordial. Hagy repeatedly embraced and kissed his old commander."—Southern Advocate, Huntsville, Ala., May 27, 1825.

HAGUE, PARTHENIA ANTOINETTE VARDAMAN, author, was born November 29, 1838, at Dowdels Mill, Harris County, Ga.; daughter of Thomas Butts and Emily Adeline (Evans) Vardaman, the former a native of Newton, Jasper County, Ga., who lived at Hamilton, Ga., and served as high sheriff of Harris County; granddaughter of Col. Joseph and Rachel Vining (Knot) Vardaman, who lived at Hamilton, Harris County, Ga., the former whose ancestors came from the Netherlands, and the latter a native of Scotland and a lineal descendant of John Knox, of Scotland, and of David and Rhoda (Milner) Evans, of Hamilton, Ga., the former of Welsh descent, and the latter of Virginia stock, and a relative of Lord Milner of England; great-granddaughter of Jerome Milner who fought for seven years on the side of the colonial army in the Revolutionary War. Mrs. Hague was reared in Harris County, Ga., and finished her education in the Hamilton female college, in that county. She moved to Alabama and lived in that state during the War of Secession and for many years afterward. During her stay in Alabama she gathered the material for her book, "A Blockaded Family," published in 1888, by Houghton Mifflin Company, Cambridge, Mass. The book was endorsed personally by Jefferson Davis and Gen. Beauregard. Mrs. Hague was also author of an article in the Atlanta "Constitution," describing the fight with the Indians at the Chaliblee (Calebee) Swamp in Alabama. Married: to Mr. Hague. Her husband and her only remaining son died within five weeks of each other. Residence: Tampa, Fla.

HAILE, COLUMBUS, railway official, a native and for some time a resident of Alabama, was born September 8, 1860, at Carlowville, Dallas County; son of Columbus and Ann Louisa (McCaa) Haile, both of Kershaw District, S. C., but later residents of Dallas County; grandson of Benjamin and Amelia (Blakeney) Haile, and Dr. John and Amelia (Boykin) McCaa, all of Camden, S. C. He attended the Male academy at Staunton, Va.; Hampden-Sidney college, 1875-77, and the University of Virginia, 1877-78. He began railway service with the Houston and Texas central railroad, 1880, and rose rapidly; is at present vice-president and traffic manager of the Missouri, Kansas and Texas railway company. Married: December 25, 1883, at Palestine, Texas, to Tempe, daughter of James Monroe and Hannah Eliza (Jackson) Perry, of that place. Children: 1. Tempe, d. in infancy; 2. Columbus, d. in infancy; 3. Columbus, m. Sue Lewis Bell, resides in Dallas, Tex.; 4. Elise. Residence: St. Louis, Mo.

HAILS, GEORGE WILLOUGHBY, planter, was born in 1811, in Columbia, S. C., and died in 1865; son of Capt. Robert Hails, a planter near the Santee River in South Carolina, and an earnest supporter of Colonial forces, who raised for the Revolutionary War a company of partisan rangers at his own expense and was afterward attached to Lee's legion, was married and had one son in the War of 1812, descendants in the Seminole and Mexican Wars, and many grandsons in the War of Secession. He moved from South Carolina to Alabama in 1835, and located in Montgomery County, where he became an extensive planter. He was one of the charter members of the Montgomery True Blues, and went with the company to the Seminole War in 1836. He also served in the Mexican War. He was one of the most successful planters in Montgomery County, and introduced the first two-horse plow. Married: Sarah Bozier, a native of Columbia, S. C., of Huguenot descent, who died in 1882. Children: 1. Sallie, m. George O. Janney; 2. Mary, m. Dr. C. K. Duncan; 3. Rebecca, m. Maj. V. Elmore; 4. Robert; 5. George Willoughby (q. v.); 6. Thomas J.; 7. Charles E., b. July 2, 1856, in Montgomery County, was educated at Spring Hill college, farmed for two years, settled in Montgomery and engaged in the cotton business until 1879, entered the grocery business until 1885, became manager of the Alabama Fertilizer Company until 1889, acted as manager of the "Daily Dispatch," 1889-1891; was elected president of the Montgomery Brewing Company, November, 1889, m. November 4, 1884, to Florence F. Troy, daughter of Daniel S. Troy, of Montgomery, has four children, Troy, Sarah, Mary and Helen B., resides in Montgomery. Last residence: Montgomery County.

SAMUEL S. SHERMAN

HAILS, GEORGE WILLOUGHBY, public official, was born January 20, 1847, near Montgomery; son of George Willoughby and Sarah (Bozier) Hails (q. v.). He entered the C. S. Army in the spring of 1863, joining the cadet company, Seventh Alabama cavalry, and served for a time upon the coast. He was transferred to north Mississippi, under Gen. Forrest's command, Chalmers' division, Rucker's brigade, where his company was detailed for escort duty to Gen. Rucker, and saw active duty as couriers and sharpshooters on the line of fight at Paris Landing with river gunboats, at Johnsonville, Henryville, Columbia, Spring Hill, Franklin, and Nashville. That company was held as reserve by Gen. Rucker, and late on the evening of the second day's fight at Nashville, when Gen. Hood ordered Gen. Rucker to save the wagon train at the sacrifice of his brigade, was badly cut to pieces by the enemy, but protected the trains. It had honorable mention in general orders and also in Gen. Jordan's history of Forrest's command. On the retreat of Hood's army, it surrendered with Forrest's command at Gainesville. After the war, Mr. Hails engaged in planting, and took great interest in politics, especially in overthrowing the radical Republican party. He was a candidate for tax collector in 1892, but was defeated. He was subsequently elected in 1900 by a large majority vote. Married: December 10, 1874, to Susan Tyler Nesbitt, who was of South Carolina and Virginia parentage, and settled in Montgomery about 1845; daughter of Mary Virginia Scott; granddaughter of Col. Wilson and Susan Tyler (Duval) Nesbitt, the former a representative in Congress from South Carolina in 1819, the latter a sister of Judge Gabriel Duval of the U. S. Supreme court; great-granddaughter of Gen. John Scott, one of the founders of Montgomery. Residence: Montgomery County.

HALBERT, HENRY SALE, teacher, author and philologist, was born January 14, 1837, near old Yorkville, Pickens County, and died May 9, 1916, in Montgomery at the home of Thomas M. Owen, Alabama historian, and is buried beside him in Greenwood cemetery; son of Percival Pickens and Jane (Owen) Halbert, the former born near Saluda River, Anderson County, S. C., where he lived until 1816 when he came to what is now Jefferson County, afterwards removing to Tuscaloosa County; grandson of John and Margaret (Harper) Halbert of Anderson County, S. C., and of Caleb and Mary (Nabors) Owen, of Darlington District, S. C.; great-grandson of William and Elizabeth (Hill) Halbert, the former the son of a Welsh immigrant was born in Virginia, in 1744, and died in Anderson County, S. C., in 1808, a Revolutionary soldier, and of Isaac and Nancy (Boyd) Nabors, the former killed by the Tories, in South Carolina during the Revolution, the latter was a member of the Irish nobility; great-great-grandson of William and Elizabeth (Gwin) Harper, the former a Revolutionary soldier of the North Carolina line who died in Anderson County, S. C., about 1850, aged ninety-six; great-great-great-grandson of the Rev. William Owen, a Welsh minister, who with his two brothers immigrated to America and located in Virginia. Professor Halbert received his primary education in the old field schools and later attended the Oktibbeha academy (Miss.). Among his teachers were Duncan Chalker, Hatchet McKee, McCune Lacy and Sam Meek. He graduated at Union university, Tennessee, with the degree of A. M., in 1857. He served as a soldier in the Texas State troops, April 2, 1860, till October 14, 1860, and in the following year joined Capt. Thomas Harrison's company on the frontier contending with Indians. In May, 1860, he was present at the capitulation of Camp Cooper. Afterwards he entered the Confederate States Army as a private in the 6th Texas cavalry and served until the close of the war. He was wounded at New Hope, Ga., May 26, 1864, and was so disabled that he was unable to return to his command for eight months. From 1866 to 1872 he taught in the Waco university (Texas) and later in various academies in Texas, Alabama and Mississippi. From 1884 to 1899 he was engaged in educational work among the Choctaw Indians of Mississippi, and upon the voluntary migration of these Indians to Oklahoma, he assisted the government agent in establishing an amicable understanding of their land interests in their new country. In 1904, at the invitation of Dr. Owen, who had an appreciation of his scholarly attainments, Professor Halbert removed to Montgomery and accepted a clerkship in the State department of archives and history. Author: contributed numerous articles to the "American Antiquarian," the "American Anthropologist," old series; the Transactions of the Mississippi Historical society; transactions of the Alabama historical society; and to the denominational papers of the Baptist church; co-editor with Dr. John R. Swanton in bulletin 46, Bureau American ethnology, a dictionary of the Choctaw languages, by Cyrus Byington, 1915, co-author with T. H. Ball of the "Creek war of 1813 and 1814"; numerous MS. translations from the original French and Spanish, in the collections of the department of archives and history, as well as a MS. history of the Choctaw Indians, subsequently to be published by the department. He was a States rights Democrat; a Baptist; and a Mason. Unmarried. Last residence: Montgomery.

HALE, FOSTER KIRKSEY, merchant and manufacturer; was born September 29, 1855, at Eutaw, Greene County; son of Stephen Fowler and Mary Elinor (Kirksey) Hale; the former was born in Kentucky, later removing to Eutaw, where he served for several terms as a member of the State legislature, was a member of the Confederate congress, a lieutenant-colonel in the C. S. Army, eleventh Alabama regiment, was wounded at the battle of Gaines' Mill and died June 21, 1862 at Richmond, Va.; grandson of William and Elliner (Manahan) Hale, of Crittenden County, Ky., and of John and Mary Elinor (Foster) Kirksey, of Marengo County. The Hale family came from England to Virginia prior to the Revolutionary War; the Fosters from Ireland; and the Kirkseys from Scotland. John Foster of South Carolina, the great-grandfather of Representative Hale, was an officer in the Revolutionary War. Hale County is named after Stephen Fowler Hale. Representative Hale received his education in Greene and Hale Counties. He is a merchant and manufacturer; served as alderman and councilman of the city of Mobile, five terms, from 1897-1910; served on the jury commission of Mobile County under Johnston's administration, four years; was elected to represent Mobile County in the State legislature, 1919. He is a Democrat; Episcopalian; Mason; and an Elk. Married: to Nettie Hermina, daughter of Joseph Henry and Lydia M. (Holcombe) Pope, of Mobile, granddaughter of Alexander and Dorothy (Bibb) Pope, of Virginia. Mrs. Hale is a niece of Gov. Bibb, Alabama's first governor. The Pope family is of English ancestry. Children: 1. Foster Kirksey, m. Catherine Bishoff; 2. Willey Taliaferro; 3. Stephen Fowler; 4. Clayton St. John. Residence: Mobile.

HALE, PHILIP THOMAS, Baptist minister, was born August 18, 1857, in Madison County; son of Dr. Philip Perry and Caroline Susan (Gulledge) Hale. He was graduated with honors from Howard college, A. B., 1879; and from the Southern Baptist theological seminary, at Louisville, Ky., 1883, later taking a post graduate course at the same school. The degree of D. D. was conferred upon him by Howard college in 1890, and that of LL.D., by Union university. He was ordained to the Baptist ministry, and served as pastor of the Baptist church at Danville, Ky., 1883-1888; was stationed at Birmingham, 1888-1898; at Roanoke, Va., 1898-1901; at Owensboro, Ky., 1901-1904; was president of Union university, Jackson, Tenn., 1904-1906; corresponding secretary of the Baptist Education Society of Kentucky 1906-1909; lecturer and financial secretary of the Southern Baptist Theological Association, since September 10, 1909. He was formerly president of the board of trustees of Howard college; is a member of the board of State missions of Alabama; vice president of the foreign mission board, Southern Baptist Convention of Alabama; chaplain-general, Sons of Confederate Veterans of Alabama; editor of the Birmingham "Baptist"; was formerly a trustee of the Southern Baptist theological seminary; was fraternal delegate from the Southern Baptist Convention to the Northern Baptist Convention, 1913 and 1915; was founder and the first president of the Southern Baptist Educational Conference; and former president of the Alumni Association of the Southern Baptist theological seminary. Dr. Hale is author of "Letters on an European Tour," and "Letters on a Tour through Greece, Turkey, Egypt and the Holy Land." He is a Mason and an Odd Fellow. Married: December 9, 1855, to Lena Lyle Bollinger, of Mayfield, Ky. Children: 1. Thomas Farris, graduate of Yale university, associate professor of the medical department, University of Louisville; 2. Roy William, graduate of Georgetown college; 3. Philip T., jr.; 4. Davis Ward; 5. Earl Douglas; 6. Frank L. Residence: Louisville, Ky.

HALE, STEPHEN FOWLER, lawyer, was born January 31, 1816, in Crittenden County, Ky., and died July 18, 1862, in Richmond, Va., as a result of wounds received in one of the battles around Richmond. His father was a Baptist minister, a South Carolinian, who married a Miss Manahan, of the same state. Col. Hale was graduated at Cumberland university, came to Alabama about 1837, and taught school in Greene County for a year. He read law while teaching school, and in 1839 was graduated from the law school at Lexington, Ky. Locating in Eutaw, he practiced at different times in association with Alexander Graham and T. C. Clarke. In 1843 he was elected to the State legislature from Greene County. After serving his term in the house he retired to private life until the outbreak of the Mexican War in 1846, when he volunteered and was elected lieutenant of a company. He served in Mexico until the conclusion of peace in 1848, then returned to Eutaw to his law practice. He was the nominee of his party for congress in 1853, but was defeated; was elected to the legislature again in 1857; was re-elected in 1859; and was master of the grand lodge of Freemasons in the state during that time. When the secession ordinance was passed, he was appointed commissioner to Kentucky, by Gov. Moore, and delivered an able address before the legislature at Frankfort. That same year, he was elected to represent his district in the provisional congress of the C. S. A. While holding that position, he was chosen lieutenant-colonel of the Eleventh Alabama infantry regiment, and repaired with it to Virginia. He remained with that command until after the battle of Seven Pines, when he was temporarily assigned to the Ninth Alabama regiment and led it into battle. The fall of Col. Moore obliged him to return to the Eleventh regiment, which he led at Gaines Mill. He was wounded fatally during that battle, and died at Richmond, after lingering for three weeks. In 1866, the Alabama legislature named Hale County in his honor. He was a Whig. Married: Mary E. Kirksey, a sister of F. M. Kirksey, at one time sheriff of Greene County. One of his daughters married Capt. E. B. Vaughn, of Sumter County; one son, William Kirksey, lawyer, was born April 2, 1845, became a midshipman in the C. S. Navy, and died of yellow fever in Florida, 1878. Last residence: Eutaw.

HALE, WILLIAM, circuit judge of the Mobile district, 1840, vice B. F. Porter.

HALEY, CHARLIE LITTLE, live stock dealer, was born July 22, 1859, at Haleys, Marion County; son of Green M. and Juliet Ann (Wright) Haley, the former born near Bowling Green, Ky., who lived at Haleys, Marion County, was a minister of the Christian church, and represented Marion County in the State legislature at one time; grandson of Allen Haley, and of Charlie Wright, who lived in St. Clair County. He was educated in the common schools of Marion County, and attended college at Bradyville, Tenn. He was a merchant at Thorn Hill, 1883-1888; moved to Winston County in 1888, and opened a mercantile business on the new railroad at the site of the town of Haleyville, which was named for him; sold his mercantile business in January, 1906, and established the Traders and Farmers Bank, of which he was president for three years; resigned the bank presidency, and located in Florence as a live stock dealer. He was a member of the constitutional convention of 1901, from the Seventh congressional district; was a delegate to the national Democratic convention which met at Kansas City, Mo., July 4, 1900; and was chairman of the Democratic executive committee of Winston County in 1901. He is a member of the Christian church and a Mason. Married: December 18, 1879, at Thorn Hill, Marion County, to Martha Phillips, daughter of John R. and Mahalie Phillips, who lived at that place. Children: 1. Cora L., m. Pinkney Curtis; 2. Allen B.; 3. Arthur C.; 4. Ida A., m. Clarence Gravlee; 5. Charlie L., jr., m. Ninion Wallace; 6. James H.; 7. Emmett L.; 8. Joseph Wheeler; 9. Ruby L. Residence: Florence.

HALEY, G. M., member of the constitutional convention of 1865, from Marion County.

HALEY, LITTLEBERRY JAMES, Jr., lawyer, was born November 22, 1865, at Elk Creek, Louisa County, Va.; son of Littleberry James and Mary Elizabeth (Long) Haley, the former a native of Virginia, a graduate of Richmond college from which he received the degree of D. D., and of the University of Virginia, superintendent of schools of Louisa County for twelve years, elected a member of the Virginia legislature for the session of 1905-7, has been pastor of Baptist churches in Louisa County since 1856, except for three years when he was pastor of churches in North Hampton County, Va.; grandson of William Argyle and Elizabeth (Allen) Haley, and of James and Emily (Lipscomb) Long; great-grandson of Meredith Haley, of Carolina County, Va., and of Littleberry Allen, of Henrico County, Va. Mr. Haley was educated in the common schools of his native county and by tutors in his father's home; graduated from Richmond college, A. B., 1886, and was editor of the Richmond "College Messenger"; since 1889 has practiced law in Birmingham; served in the house of representatives from Jefferson County, 1903 and 1907. He is a Democrat; and Baptist. Married: November 27, 1889, to Lella, daughter of Capt. William M. and Lizzie Ella (Billingslea) Byrd, who lived first in Selma and later in Birmingham; granddaughter of Judge W. M. Byrd (q. v.). Children: Littleberry Byrd. Residence: Birmingham.

HALEY, PAUL SHIELDS, chief engineer, Corona coal and iron company; graduated at the Alabama polytechnic institute, with the B. S. degree in 1901, and M. S. in 1902. Residence: Corona.

HALL, BOLLING, sr., planter, legislator, and congressman, was born December 25, 1767, in Dinwiddie County, Va., and died February 25, 1836, in Autauga, now Elmore County; son of Hugh and Mary (Dixon) Hall, of Petersburg, Va. At the age of sixteen he was a Revolutionary soldier, with his brother, Dixon Hall (q. v.). At the close of that war he removed to Hancock County, Ga., and filled several offices; represented his district in the State legislature; represented the Milledgeville district in congress and voted for a declaration of war against Great Britain in 1812. In 1818, he removed to Autauga County, with a caravan of slaves, flocks of cattle and wagons loaded with lumber to build a large residence, which is standing today, and which was the first house in that part of Alabama to have glass windows. Colonel Hall's descendants are still living on the land acquired by him then. In 1824, he was chairman of the reception committee to welcome General Lafayette and went to the Chattahoochee River to receive him into Alabama. He was a member of the old Jeffersonian-Republican Party; and a Methodist. Married: October 25, 1798, in Hancock County, Ga., to Jane, daughter of James Abercrombie, sr., of Georgia, and sister of James Abercrombie (q. v.). Children: 1. Polly Willie, m. Green Wood (q. v.); 2. Ann Anderson, m. James Mitchell; 3. Martha Bryan, m. John S. Bailey; 4. Eliza Dixon, m. Dr. Thomas Brown; 5. Jane Abercrombie, m. William Vance Thompson; 6. Emma Bolling, m. Absalom Jackson; 7. Bolling, jr., m. Mary Louisa Crenshaw (q. v.); 8. Laura, m. Dr. Samuel Doak Holt (q. v.); 9. Amanda, m. John A. Snodgrass; 10. Mary Bibb, m. William Bolling Hall; 11. Sarah Helen, m. William J. Sasanett. Last residence: "Ellerslie" plantation, Autauga County.

HALL, BOLLING, planter and lawyer, was born May 8, 1813, in Baldwin County, Ga., and died March 5, 1897, in Coosada, Elmore County; son of Bolling and Jane (Abercrombie) Hall (q. v.). He attended the pioneer country schools of Autauga County, and graduated from the University of Georgia in 1831, when eighteen years of age. He read law in the office of Thorington and Pickett, in Montgomery; was admitted to the bar in 1834, but preferring the independent life of the planter he devoted himself largely to agriculture. He was a member of the Alabama legislature for three sessions, 1849-50, 1851-52, and 1853-54; and was nominated as an elector on the Douglas ticket in 1860, but resigned and voted for Breckenridge. He was inspector general of militia with the rank of major in 1835 and adjutant of the 1st Alabama regiment under Capt. Jack Shackelford in the Creek War of 1836. He took an active part in promoting the interests of the State; was a director in the Eufaula railroad until that line was purchased by the Georgia central railway; was one of the promoters of the South and North Alabama railroad, and a director of same at the time of his death. He was one of the organizers of the Elyton land company formed for the purpose of promoting Birmingham, and was a member of its directorate. He was a Democrat; and a Methodist. Married: December 22, 1836, near Coosada, to Mary Louisa, daughter of Dr. Abner and Charlotte Perry (Elmore) Crenshaw of Wetumpka; granddaughter of Gen. John Archer Elmore (q. v.) and of Charles Crenshaw, of Newberry, S. C. Children: 1. Bolling, jr., unmarried, colonel, 59th Alabama infantry regiment, died in January, 1866, from the effects of wounds received at Chickamauga while leading a desperate charge; 2. Crenshaw, d. unmarried; adjutant 59th Alabama infantry regiment; 3. James A., d. unmarried; captain of Co. K, 24th Alabama infantry regiment; 4. John Elmore, d. unmarried, captain, Co. B, 59th Alabama infantry regiment; 5. Mary Louisa; 6. Thomas B., captain, Co. K, 24th Alabama infantry regiment, killed at Chickamauga, aged eighteen, and unmarried; 7. Hines Holt, Coosada; 8. Laura June; 9. Frank A., Millbrook; 10. Joseph E. m. Mary Stokes, of Mississippi; 11. Charles E., deceased; 12. Caroline S., m. Rev. Thomas R. Handy, a Methodist minister at Emory, Va. Last residence: Coosada.

HALL, DANIEL DILLON, business man and State senator, was born March 16, 1857, at Canoe station, Baldwin County; son of Andrew J. and Lucinda (Entrekin) Hall, the former a farmer and stockman, was a member of a company of reserves and home guards during the War of Secession, being too old for active service. Mr. Hall's ancestors emigrated from South Carolina to Alabama. He was reared on a farm and attended the common schools; has been a planter, and is now in merchandising, saw mill, and railroad business; was for a time on the staff of the brigadier general commanding the 20th military district; was a member of the State senate of 1901 from the twenty-first senatorial district. He is a Democrat; Knight of Pythias; Knight of Honor; and a Presbyterian. Married: December 6, 1877, at Williams station, to Elizabeth C., daughter of J. C. and Sarah (Bonner) Young, both late of Wilcox County. Residence: Montgomery Hill.

HALL, DIXON, sr., planter, was born in Dinwiddie County, Va., in 1755, and died in Montgomery, in 1820; son of Hugh and Mary (Dixon) Hall, of Petersburg, Va.; grandson of John and Anne (Bolling) Hall of Virginia, and of Henry and Elizabeth (Abernathy) Dixon, of North Carolina; great-grandson of Robert Bolling of London, England, who married Jane Rolfe, granddaughter of Pocahontas. At an early age he served in the Virginia line in the Revolutionary army, with his brother, Bolling Hall (q. v.), and at the close of the war removed to North Carolina, thence to Georgia and in 1818, to Autauga County. He was educated in the schools of Virginia and engaged in planting, both in Georgia and Alabama having acquired lands in Autauga County as well as property in the city of Montgomery. Married: (1) in 1779 to Anne, daughter of Jonathan Hunt and wife, Miss Henderson, of North Carolina; (2) Milly De Jarnette; (3) Milly Hutchinson; (4) Priscilla Baugh. Children: 1. Dixon, jr., m. Amy Goodwyn Mitchell (q. v.); 2. Hugh, m. Amy Tyus; 3. Mary Dixon, m. Francis Lewis; 4. Frances, m. Edmund Harris; 5. Thomas Hunt, m. Sarah Sanders; 6. Elizabeth, m. Littleton Reese; 7. William Hall, m. Sarah Sasanett; 8. Milly De Jarnette, m. Dr. James Edward Scott; 9. Wesley. Last residence: Montgomery.

HALL, DIXON, jr., planter and legislator, was born in Dinwiddie County, Ga., March 5, 1782, and died at "Rocky Mount," Autauga County, October 4, 1839; son of Dixon, sr., and Anne (Hunt) Hall (q. v.). He was educated in the schools of his community and removed with his parents to Alabama in 1818. He represented Autauga County in the State legislature, 1830 and 1831. Married: April 17, 1804, in Hancock County, Ga., to Amy Goodwyn, daughter of Gen. Henry Mitchell, of Sparta, Ga., who served in the Georgia line, Revolutionary Army. Children: 1. Henry Mitchell, m. Dora Ann Bonnell; 2. Dixon III, represented Autauga County in the legislature of 1833, 1835, 1838, and 1839, was State senator in 1840, removed to Louisiana, m. Elizabeth Harris; 3. William Terrell, m. (1) Marion Trawick, (2) Louisa Zeigler, (3) Mrs. Temperance (Long) Young; 4. Goodwyn Taylor; 5. Bolling, m. Caroline Graham; 6. Robert Mitchell, m. Mary Bacoat Tatum; 7. Frances Ann, m. Dr. Belt; 8. Thomas Hunt, m. (1) Charity David, (2) Caroline Dixon Zeigler; 9. Alfred Goodwyn, m. Rebecca Tatum; 10. Peterson Goodwyn, m. Margaret Hogan. Last residence: Montgomery.

HALL, EDWARD, mayor of Mobile, 1840-41.

HALL, FLOY, teacher, was born February 3, 1883, at Midway, Bullock County; son of John Robert and Angeline (West) Hall, the former a private in Co. C, 45th Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army, serving throughout the war; grandson of Robert Greene and Sarah Jane Hall of Warrenton, Ga., and of Joseph and Mary West of Midway. Prof. Hall received his early education in the public schools of Bullock County; graduated from the University of Alabama, A. B., 1904 and A. M., 1905. He began teaching in 1906, as principal of the Clayton public school, Clayton; removed to Louisiana, 1908, and became assistant principal of the Ruston public schools, remaining in this place only one year, when he returned to Alabama to accept the position of principal of the Opelika high school, later becoming superintendent of the city schools. He is a Democrat; Baptist; Mason; and an Elk. He is unmarried. Residence: Opelika.

HALL, GEORGE R., educator; superintendent of education of Bullock County; graduate of the Alabama polytechnic institute, with the B. S. degree, 1880.

HALL, GROVER CLEVELAND, editor, was born January 11, 1888, at Haleburg, Henry County; son of William Rabun and Permella Ann (Davis) Hall, of that place, natives of Georgia who settled, with their family and slaves, on an extensive plantation in Henry County, in the 1840's, the former a Democrat, and private in the 6th Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army, who participated in all major engagements in the Virginia campaigns, and served with his regiment during the entire four years of the War of Secession; grandson of Reuben and Mary Ann, (Strange) Hall, of Washington County, Ga., the former being in his ninety-fifth year when he removed to Alabama with his son's family, and of Tolliver and Elizabeth (Hobbs) Davis, of Bluffton, Clay County, Ga.; brother of William Theodore Hall (q. v.). The American founder of the family was John Hall, family being originally English, who with his wife, emigrated from Ireland to America, as a protest against the tithe tax then in force, locating in Washington County, Ga., where he settled on a tract of land still owned by his descendants. The older generations of Halls have been planters and physicians. The Davis family is of Scotch-Irish stock, and all male members on both the Hall and Davis lines, of military age, fought in the Confederate Army, several losing their lives in the cause. Mr. Hall was educated in the common schools of his native town, and has been self-taught by wide, continuous reading, and contact with public men and events. He began his newspaper career in the office of the Dothan "Daily Siftings," 1905, edited by his brother, W. T. Hall, became local correspondent for the "Montgomery Advertiser," the following year, and later was assistant editor of the Dothan "Home Journal." For a few months during 1907, he edited the Enterprise "Ledger," and in 1908, edited the Dothan "Daily Siftings," acting also as printer. During the fall of the latter year he did newspaper work in Mississippi, and Bessemer; was managing editor of the "Selma Times," 1909; editorial writer on the "Pensacola Journal," 1910; associate editor of the "Montgomery Advertiser" from that date to the present. During 1906-07-08, inclusive, he was corporal in the Dothan company, National Guard. He is a Democrat; a Baptist, and a member of the Kiwanis and the Unity clubs. Married: May 14, 1912, to Claudia McCurdy, daughter of Capt. Cassander John and Alice C. (Reese) English, of Lowndesboro, the former a planter and a steamboat captain in the days of river passenger service, a descendant of pioneer settlers in Monroe County, who were natives of Camden, S. C. The Reese family came to Lowndes County from Harper's Ferry, Va., early in the 19th century, and for a hundred years have been "black belt" planters in Alabama. Among Mrs. English's relations was Dixon H. Lewis (q. v.). Children: 1. Grover Cleveland, jr. Residence: Montgomery.

HALL, JAMES HUGH BLAIR, teacher and Presbyterian minister, was born September 22, 1855, at Hall's Ferry, on the Tennessee River, seven miles east of Madisonville, Monroe County, Tenn.; son of Sylvester Young and Alazannah (Blair) Hall of Tennessee; grandson of James Wiley and Ruth Margaret (Parks) Hall, and of Rev. James and Jane Gamble (Blair) Blair; great-grandson of James and Margaret (Wiley) Hall and of William and Sallie (Simmons) Blair; great-great-grandson of John Blair and of Thomas Rogers, who fought side by side at King's Mountain. The Halls came from Ireland and the Blairs were of Scotch origin. James Hugh Blair Hall passed his boyhood days on his father's farm and received his early education in the old field schools of the neighborhood. He entered Hiwassee college, near Madisonville, in 1869, where he studied until 1872. In that fall he entered the Loudon high school, conducted under the patronage of the Cumberland Presbyterian church; in 1876 he entered the Cumberland Presbyterian university, Lebanon, Tenn., from which he received the A. B. degree, June, 1878; began teaching in Helena collegiate institute, Helena, upon graduation, and has spent, with the exception of three years, the remainder of his life teaching, having had in these years more than two thousand students to pass under his influence. He has taught in addition to the school at Helena, at Highland, Shelby County; Springville, St. Clair County; Pleasant Hill academy, Dallas County; and the Zelosophian academy, Jefferson County. He was pastor of the Cumberland Presbyterian church, Winchester, Tenn., and at Gadsden; was synodical evangelist of the Alabama synod, Cumberland Presbyterian church, for one year, and is now an ordained minister of the Presbyterian church of the United States of America and is the recognized historian of his church in Alabama. He has in manuscript form a large collection of original writings on family, local and church history, and a number of sermons. He is a Democrat; and a Prohibitionist. Married: July 23, 1882, at Montevallo, to Emma Cilicia, daughter of the Rev. William Carroll and Corinne (Carleton) Gardner of that place. Children: 1. Hugh Talmage, m. Myrtice A. Bristow, of Calera, lives in Birmingham; 2. Mignon Myra; 3. Ruskin. Residence: Brent.

HALL, J. L., Banker. Residence: Montgomery.

HALL, JAMES RICHMOND, manufacturer, was born March 19, 1862, in Webster County, Ga.; son of Dr. Nathaniel B. and Nancy (Boulware) Hall, the former of whom was a native of South Carolina, born near Winnesboro, in 1821, a graduate of Charleston medical college, who practiced his profession in South Carolina for a number of years, and went to Georgia about 1857, a planter and slave owner, who served as captain in the C. S. Army, and died December 18, 1902, the latter also a native of South Carolina, born in 1830 near Winnesboro; grandson of John and Mollie (Barber) Hall, and of Benjamin and Sarah (Richmond) Boulware, who were married September 14, 1829, and lived and died near Winnesboro, S. C.; great-grandson of John Hall, a native of Virginia and a soldier in the Revolution under Capt. Hollis, who came to South Carolina in 1788, and of John Barber, an officer under Robert Emmet in the Irish rebellion of 1798 and of Musco and Nancy (Pickett) Boulware. Mr. Hall was educated in the common schools of the neighborhood, and in the North Georgia agricultural college. He became a civil engineer, following that profession for a time in the mining district of northern Georgia, and later going to Central America where he was employed from 1885 to 1890. He was in the service of the Honduras government and on the staff of President Bogran, until, after serving for a year as chief engineer on the staff of the president, he accepted a position with the Rosario Mining Company of San Juancito for three years. He returned to Georgia in 1890, located in Atlanta, and established the firm of Hall Brothers, comprising B. M. Hall, James R. Hall and Maxcy R. Hall. In 1895 he moved to Dadeville and became engaged in the manufacture of lumber. He supervised the construction of the electric light and power plant of Dadeville, and built the Dadeville Oil Mill. He is a Democrat, a Methodist, a Mason, and a Knight of Pythias. Married: March 18, 1896, to Dettie Smith, of Dadeville, daughter of B. Springfield Smith, who died in Dadeville in 1882. Children: 1. James Richmond, jr. Residence: Dadeville.

HALL, RICHARD, Baptist minister, was born July 22, 1865, at Stanningley, near Leeds, Yorkshire, England; son of James and Emma (Tetley) Hall, the former a native of Garstang, Lancashire, England, who was a grocer at Bolton, Lancashire, the latter who lived near Leeds, England; grandson of Richard Hall. He attended Bolton Grammar School, at Bolton, England, and won a scholarship there. At the age of twenty, he left England and came to Nashville, Tenn., where for eight years he was employed as stenographer and secretary in law and railroad offices. He attended Richmond college, Virginia, 1891-1892, and spent three years at the Southern Baptist theological seminary, Louisville, Ky., graduating in 1899 with the degree of Th. M. He received the honorary degree of D. D. from Howard college, 1909. He was ordained to the Baptist ministry in June, 1899, at Nashville, and has served pastorates at Florence, Orrville, Montevallo, and Evergreen. He is a Mason and a Knight of Pythias. Married: April 13, 1893, at Demopolis, to Margaret Lenoir Pearce, daughter of Augustus and Eleanor Cox Pearce, who lived in Washington County, the former who served in the cavalry of the C. S. Army during the entire War of Secession. Children: 1. Eleanor Tetley; 2. Joseph Pearce; 3. Elizabeth Lenoir, deceased; 4. Mary Ellis. Residence: Evergreen.

HALL, ROBERT FOWLER, farmer, was born July 21, 1874, at Hardwicksburg, Henry County; son of Reuben Hickland and Kittie Massey Kisiah (Hardwick) Hall; the former was a Georgian, emigrating in 1845 to Henry County, where he resided until his death, and was a Confederate soldier and farmer; grandson of William Hall a native of Ireland, who came to Washington County, Ga., in colonial times, and represented the county in the legislature one term, and of Robert N. and Sarah (Watt) Hardwick, who lived in Henry and Coosa Counties. Mr. Hall was educated in the common schools of his native county. He is a farmer and has specialized in the production of foodstuffs and live stock. From 1910 to 1914 he was road supervisor of Henry County, and represented Henry County in the Legislature of 1919. He is a Democrat and was a member of his county executive committee from 1898 to 1904. Mr. Hall is a Missionary Baptist, and is a Mason and Woodman of the World. Married: February 15, 1894, at Shorterville, to Oberia, daughter of John and Rebecca (Barnes) Dukes, of Ft. Valley, Ga. Children: 1. Edward Hickland; 2. Mary Eunice; 3. Robert Hugh; 4. Martin Luther; 5. Helen Gertrude; 6. John Thomas; 7. Rabon Fowler; 8. Kittie Rebecca; 9. Oberia Inez; 10. James Woodrow; 11. William Loring; 12. Eva Elizabeth, deceased. Residence: Shorterville.

HALL, THOMAS JUDGE, machinist and legislator, was born April 22, 1858, at Autaugaville, Autauga County; son of David M. and Caroline (Holiman) Hall, the former a native of Gwinnett County, Ga., who removed to Autaugaville; grandson of Benjamin and Ann Holiman, of Autauga; great-grandson of Lyman Hall, of Gwinnett County, Ga., one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence. He received a common school education and early in life started to work in a cotton mill in Prattville; later he turned his attention to machinery and for several years was the engineer of the Mutual compress in Montgomery. He was one of the members from Montgomery County in the house of representatives of 1903. He is a Democrat; and a Methodist. Married: December 1, 1879, to Dora, daughter of Middleton D. and Annie D. Fisher. Children: 1. Margaret, m. J. K. Seale, Nashville, Tenn.; 2. Lurline, m. Harry John Pettus, Nashville, Tenn.; 3. Ellen M., m. Mittie Bodiford, Crenshaw County; 4. E. Leo, m. Maggie Wilson, Montgomery; 5. Thomas J., m. Georgia Lyle, Montgomery; 6. Wallace Howard, unmarried. Residence: Montgomery.

GRIFFITH RUTHERFORD HARSH

HALL, WILLIAM, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 84, and a resident of St. Clair County; private S. C. Militia; enrolled on July 20, 1833, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $36.34; sums received to date of publication of list, $90.85.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34.

HALL, WILLIAM BONNELL, jr., vice-chancellor University of the South and physician, was born January 3, 1866, near Benton, Lowndes County; son of William Bonnell and Susan Juliet (Anderson) Hall, sr. He was educated by governesses and tutors in his father's home and prepared for the University of the South, Sewanee, Tenn., from which he graduated in 1885, with the degrees of C. E., B. S., and A. M. He also graduated from the University of Virginia, medical department, in 1890, did post-graduate work in New York City hospitals, 1890-91, and became assistant physician in Bryce hospital, Tuscaloosa, 1891-93; health officer and professor of physiology, materia medica and physic, University of the South, and practiced medicine at the same time, 1893-1907; practiced in Montgomery, 1908-09; and was elected vice chancellor of the University of the South, 1909. He is a Democrat; a Mason; a Shriner; a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon college fraternity; and an Episcopalian. Married: February 9, 1898, at Greensboro, to Irene Semple, daughter of Nicholas Cobbs and Charlotte Walker (Cobbs) Ellerbe, of Montgomery and granddaughter of Bishop Hamner Cobbs (q. v.). Children: 1. Lucy Landen. Residence: Sewanee, Tenn.

HALL, WILLIAM THEODORE, editor, was born October 25, 1871, at Halesburg, Henry County; son of William R. and Permelia (Davis) Hall, the former a native of Milledgeville, Ga., later a resident of Halesburg and Dothan, was a member of the Sixth Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army, and died in 1914, aged seventy-nine; grandson of Reuben H. and Mary Ann (Strange) Hall, and Toliver and Elizabeth (Hobbs) Davis, the former residents of Washington County, Ga., later removing to Henry County, the latter of Cotton Hill, Ga. He was brought up on a farm, and was educated in the public schools of Henry County; removed to Dothan in 1897; and is the owner and editor of the "Dothan Eagle." He is a Democrat; a Baptist; a Mason; and a Shriner. Married: November 10, 1896, to Josie, daughter of John W. and Lou Ann (Ashley) McKissack, of Haleburg. Children: 1. Julian; 2. Horace; 3. Theo; 4. Helen; 5. Frances. Residence: Dothan.

HALL, WILLIAM WALKER, farmer and legislator, was born June 25, —, at Halls Mills, Marion County; son of William Rufus and Martha Jane (Morrow) Hall; grandson of Morris and Sarah Hall, who removed to Lawrence County, from North Carolina in 1821, where they resided the rest of their lives, and of Samuel and Hanna Morrow, of Dallas, later Perry County. He was educated in the common schools of his native county. He is a farmer. He has twice been sheriff of Marion County, 1892-96, and 1900-06. He represented his county in the legislature of 1919. Married: Mary Lou Ellen, daughter of John Middleton and Temperance (Brown) Goggans; granddaughter of Col. Kimbrough T. Brown, representative in the State legislature from Marion County, 1851, and 1855-59. Residence: Hamilton.

HALLONQUIST, JAMES J., major and later lieutenant colonel, 2nd battalion of Alabama artillery, C. S. Army.

HAM, JAMES NOAH, lawyer, was born September 17, 1864, in Coffee County; is the son of Philip Jefferson and Mary Amie (Carroll) Ham, and the grandson of James and Susan (Mathews) Ham, the former who lived in Crawford county, Ga., until 1855, when he moved to Coffee county, and of Noah and Elizabeth (Mancil) Carroll, the former who moved from North Carolina at some time in the thirties, and settled in Covington County, where Florala now stands, where he married and afterwards moved to Coffee County, and who was twice wounded in fighting the Indians in 1836. Philip J. Ham was born in Crawford County, Ga.; lived at Elba; was sergeant of Co. A, thirty-third Alabama regiment, and lost his left arm at the battle of Perryville; was at one time treasurer of Coffee County, and was mayor of Elba in 1904. James N. Ham received his early education in the country schools of Coffee county. He attended the University of Alabama in 1883, '84 and '85, but was compelled to withdraw from the school on account of his low state of health. He studied law and was admitted to the bar in 1893; he practiced at Elba until 1898, when he went into the saw and planer mill business; in 1900 engaged in the mercantile business; sold out two years later and resumed the practice of law; was mayor of Elba in 1896, 1907 and 1908; then moved to Enterprise, and in 1909 was appointed by Gov. Comer judge of Coffee County court, serving until 1911. He is a Democrat, and acted as councilman of Elba several times between 1895 and 1906; is a Methodist and was superintendent of Sunday school, trustee of church property and steward about twelve years; is a Knight of Pythias. Married: July 20, 1887, at Elba, to Lena Lee, the daughter of Edward David and Mary (Hammond) Lee, of Elba, Ala. Edward D. Lee was a lieutenant in Co. K, thirty-third Alabama regiment, C. S. Army; two of his brothers were at different times captains of the same company. Children: (1) Leila, d. in infancy; (2) Lawrence; (3) Lorena; (4) Leon; (5) Lena Lee. Residence: Enterprise.

HAM, PHILIP JEFFERSON, farmer, was born April 7, 1841, in Crawford County, Ga., and died August 8, 1915, at Elba; son of James and Susan (Matthews) Ham, natives of Edgefield District, S. C., who removed to Georgia, and in 1858 to Coffee County, near Elba; and grandson of Philip Matthews, of Knoxville, Ga. He was reared on a farm and received a limited education in the public schools of the vicinity. He enlisted in Co. A, 33rd Alabama infantry regiment in 1862, and was wounded at the battle of Chickamauga, furloughed home pending recovery; re-joined his command at Dalton, Ga., 1864, and lost his arm due to wounds received at the battle of Peach Tree Creek. After the war closed he returned to agricultural pursuits and became a large land owner. Married: (1) July 5, 1859, to Mary, daughter of Noah and Elizabeth Carroll, natives of South Carolina, but reared in Covington County; to which they emigrated during the territorial period; (2) in 1890, Jessie, daughter of ex-Gov. James and Mary Ann (Hall) Woodward, natives of Tennessee and Florida, the former for many years a successful physician in Pensacola, Fla. There were ten children by the first marriage and three by the second. Children: 1. Frances Emma, m. A. J. Bryan; 2. James Noah, m. Lena Lee; 3. Philip Jefferson, jr., m. Jessie Roberts; 4. Susan Elizabeth, m. E. W. Cox; 5. Mary Ada, m. John B. Rushing; 6. William Washington, jr., m. Fannie M. Rushing; 7. Gertrude Alzada, m. William M. Bailey; 8. Gerusha, m. Elon Edwards; 9. Benjamin Stevens; 10. Carrie, m. Levi C. Powell; 11. Norman Leo, m. Myrtle Shealy; 12. Jessie; 13. Bicker. Last residence: Elba.

HAMBRICK, J. M., lieutenant colonel, 4th, Russell's, Alabama cavalry regiment, C. S. Army.

HAMBURGER, MAX, newspaper man, was born February 7, 1876, at Whistler, Mobile County; son of Max Hamburger, who was born at Burnt Corn, Monroe County, and lived at Blakely, Baldwin County, and in 1865 entered the C. S. Army; grandson of Max and Tempie (McKenzie) Hamburger of Mobile, the former a native of Germany, who went to California in 1849 after the death of his wife, and was unheard of after 1853, and of Mathew and Caroline (La Wren) Gaston, the former was a pilot on the Alabama River for many years, and who lost four uncles in the Revolutionary War. Max Hamburger was educated in the public schools of Whistler, and at Barton Academy, Mobile. He began newspaper work in 1894; became telegraph editor of the Mobile "Register" in 1895; has been manager and owner of the Mobile "Daily Herald" for many years; was president of the Mobile jury commission, 1902-1908; chairman of the Alabama battleship commission, 1900; honorary member of the Mobile Rifles, 1893-1898; president of the Mobile Press Club, 1900-1904; president of the Mobile Commercial Club, 1902-1907; was State senator from the thirty-third district, 1907-1911; is a Democrat; a Baptist; Mason; Knight Templar; Shriner. Residence: Mobile.

HAMER, NOEL RIGG, Methodist minister, was born November 1, 1854, at Rochdale, Lancashire County, England; son of James and Maria (Rigg) Hamer, who, lived at Sheffield, Manchester, Durham and Rochdale, England, the former of whom was a Methodist preacher for sixty-three years, from 1831 until 1894; grandson of Charles and Sarah Hamer, who lived at Manchester, England, the former a Methodist minister from 1801 until 1842, and of Edmund and Mary Riggs, who lived in London, England; great-grandson of John Hamer, one of Wesley's "helpers" from 1772 to 1812. He received his early schooling in Manchester; attended Owens college, Manchester, and the University of Oxford, meeting all of his expenses at the college and university by teaching at night and working in his vacations; and spent three years in Wesleyan theological college, Didsbury, Manchester, at the end of which time, 1875, he was granted the degree of B. A. from Oxford. He came to America and entered the ministry of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, in north Mississippi, December, 1875. He served in the north Mississippi, western Virginia, Florida, and Alabama conferences, coming to Alabama in 1894. On account of voice failure, he became superannuate in 1910, and is now a resident of Brewton. From 1884 until 1904, Rev. Hamer was Gulf States' correspondent of two London papers. He is author of "An Epworth League's Trip to Europe"; "An Epworth League's Second Trip to Europe"; "Methodism, A Centennial Sermon"; and "Papers on Methodist History." Married: December 8, 1878, in Gainesville, to Ruth Gertrude Post, daughter of Acmon and Azubah (Chapman) Post, who lived at Saybrook, Conn. On both the Post and Chapman sides of the house is a race of Connecticut preachers and missionaries. Children: 1. Mary Russell, teacher. Residence: Brewton.

HAMES, WILLIAM MARK, lawyer, was born in Hancock County, Ga.; son of William and Rixpah Z. (Moore) Hames, natives, respectively, of Virginia and North Carolina, who were married in Hancock County, Ga., and lived there their entire married life; grandson of Jeremiah Moore, a native of Scotland. He was reared and educated at La Grange, Ga., and in 1844 came to Alabama. He taught school in Macon County four years, then moved to Oxford, and taught there for two years. He read law under A. J. Walker, and was admitted to the bar at Jacksonville, September, 1855. Early in 1861, he entered the C. S. Army, joining the Second Alabama state troops as first lieutenant, and later becoming captain of Co. A, Second Alabama regiment. This command was disbanded at Fort Pillow, and he returned home, reorganized his company, and joined the Fifty-first Alabama regiment as captain. He was with his command but a short time, when because of ill-health he was forced to resign and return home. He had been assistant clerk of the State legislature, 1857-1858, and in 1863 he was elected a member of that body. He was a delegate to the constitutional convention of 1875, and took an active part in its deliberations. He is a member of the old school Presbyterian church. Married: January, 1866, to Mary E. Jones, daughter of James Jones, of Tennessee. Children: 1. Leonidas G.; 2. Lizzie R.; 3. James G.; 4. John N.; 5. Ezra; 6. William. Residence: Jacksonville.

HAMILL, HOWARD MELANCTHON, Methodist minister and Sunday school field-worker, was born August 10, 1847, at Lowndesboro, and died January 22, 1915; son of Edward Joseph and Anne Jane (Simmons) Hamill, the former of Glasgow, Scotland, later prominent as a Methodist minister in Alabama, 1840-75, and chaplain of Cleburne's division in the War of Secession, and the latter of Belfast, Ireland, and of Col. H. F. and Sarah (Burns) Simmons, of the planter class residing in Talladega County. Other lines of relationship include Governors Bibb and Pickens of Alabama, and Robert Burns, the Scotch poet. He received his early education at the old Tuskegee and Auburn academies; later attended the East Alabama male college at Auburn, now the Alabama polytechnic institute, where he graduated, A. B., 1868, and A. M., honorary, 1900, and D. D. from Illinois college at Jacksonville, 1900. He began his career as a private tutor in families near Opelika, 1877; taught for several years in Clay County; superintendent of city schools in Missouri and Illinois, 1880-85; president of the Missouri State teacher's association, 1881; entered the Methodist ministry at the age of thirty-five; held various offices in the Illinois Sunday school association; was international Sunday school field secretary, 1896-1902; superintendent of training work, M. E. Church, South, 1900-15; and chairman of the committee on education, International Sunday school association, 1902-15. He entered the C. S. Army as orderly sergeant of Company I, Ninth Florida regiment, and for a short time served as orderly to Gen. Robert E. Lee. He was chaplain-general, U. C. V., 1913-15. Author: "The old South"; "The Bible and its books"; "The Sunday school teacher"; "Legion of Honor normal course of study"; "International lesson history"; and various other books on the Bible and Sunday school. He was a Democrat; a Mason and an Odd Fellow. Married: (1) in 1871, to Getrude, daughter of Col. Frank Dillard, of Auburn; (2) July 7, 1885, to Ada L. Tuman, of Jacksonville, Ill. Children, all by first wife: 1. Henry Barnes, d. unmarried; 2. Anne Carson, d. in infancy; 3. Frank Scott, resides in Chicago, Ill. Last residence: Nashville, Tenn.

HAMILTON, ALFRED PORTER, teacher, was born November 27, 1887, at Marianna, Jackson County, Fla.; son of Jefferson Porter and Elizabeth Gordon (Merritt) Hamilton (q. v.). He received his preparatory education in the common schools of Lowndesboro, Verbena, Evergreen and Geneva; tutor in Southern university, Greensboro, 1906-08; elected assistant professor in ancient languages, 1908-09; graduated from the Southern university, A. B., 1908; attended the University of Leipsic, 1909-10; elected fellow in classics, University of Pennsylvania, 1910-11 and fellow in Indio European philology, 1911-12; received the A. M. degree from the University of Pennsylvania, June 11, 1911; elected professor of Latin and German in Woman's college of Alabama, 1912, which position he filled until 1917; from there he went to Millsap college, Jackson, Miss. He is a Democrat; a Methodist; and a member of the Kappa Alpha college fraternity. Married: in 1916, to Charlotte de Golliger. Residence: Jackson, Miss.

HAMILTON, ANDREW JACKSON, lawyer, was born January 28, 1815, in Madison County, and died at Austin, Tex., April 10, 1875; son of a Madison County farmer and brother of Morgan Calvin Hamilton (q. v.). Gov. Hamilton was educated in the public schools of Madison County, worked on his father's farm for a time, entered into business, took up the study of law, was clerk of the circuit court, and in 1841 was admitted to the bar. He removed to Texas, 1846, located at La Grange, where he resumed the practice of law; was appointed attorney general, 1849; member of the State legislature from Travis County, 1851, and 1853; presidential elector on the Buchanan and Breckinridge ticket, 1856; elected as an Independent Democrat to the 36th congress, 1859-61, where he arrayed himself vigorously against secession; was commissioned brigadier general of the Texas troops in the Federal service, 1862; appointed, 1862, by President Lincoln, and 1865, by President Johnson as provisional governor of Texas; resumed the practice of law in 1866 and was made associate judge of the supreme court of Texas the same year; delegate to the loyalists' convention at Philadelphia, 1866; defeated for governor on the Conservative ticket, 1870, after which he retired to private life. Last residence: Austin, Tex.

HAMILTON, C. E., lawyer. He was living in Greenville in 1913.

HAMILTON, JEFFERSON, Methodist minister, was born August 24, 1805, at North Brookfield, Worcester County, Mass., and died December 16, 1874; son of James and Lucy (Nichols) Hamilton. He attended Wilbraham academy, Wilbraham, Mass.; entered the New England conference, M. E. church, and had pastorates at Randolph, Salem and Boston, Mass.; and transferring to the M. E. Church, South, served churches at New Orleans, La., Montgomery, Selma and Tuscaloosa; was president of the Tract society of his church, 1855-56, and resided in Nashville, Tenn., during that year; and was a delegate to the general conference held in New York in 1844 when the church divided on the slavery issue. He was a Democrat, and a Mason. Married: September 3, 1832, in Malden, Mass., to Emeline, daughter of Benjamin and Nancy (Barrett) Porter of Malden, now Melrose, Mass. Children: 1. Watson, m. Charlotte Birch; 2. Mary Ann, m. a Mr. Copeland; 3. Mattie, m. a Mr. Cooper; 4. Hilliard, m. Margaret Bullock; 5. Emma Woolsey, d. in infancy; 6. Lucy Wellington, d. in infancy; 7. Jefferson Porter (q. v.), m. (1) Elizabeth Gordon Merritt, (2) Mrs. Clara L. Beeland. Last residence: Mobile.

HAMILTON, JEFFERSON PORTER, Methodist minister, was born February 1, 1856, at Nashville, Tenn., and died November 29, 1911, at Brewton, son of Jefferson and Emeline (Porter) Hamilton (q. v.). He received his preparatory education at Barton academy of Mobile, and the Methodist preparatory school at Summerfield; attended the University of Alabama, 1872-74; one of the charter students at Vanderbilt university, 1875-77; studied medicine in Mobile medical college, 1877-78; licensed to the ministry of the M. E. Church, South, in the spring of 1878; entered the Alabama conference at Mobile in December, 1878, and appointed to Mobile mission that year; served pastorates at Demopolis, 1881-83; Marianna, Fla., 1883-85; Wetumpka, 1885-87; Marion, 1887-89; Livingston, 1889-92; Lowndesboro, 1892-96; Verbena, 1896-97; Evergreen, 1897-99; Geneva, 1899-1903; Tuskegee, 1903-04; Greenville, 1904-07; Ozark, 1907-09; and Brewton, 1909-11. He was a Democrat, and a Mason. Married: (1) December 15, 1885, at Marianna, Fla., to Elizabeth Gordon, daughter of Alexander and Frances de Rouillac (Harrell) Merritt, and (2) November 14, 1907, to Mrs. Frances L. Beeland, of Greenville. Children: 1. Alfred Porter, m. Charlotte de Golliger (q. v.); 2. Jefferson Merritt, Anniston. Last residence: Brewton.

HAMILTON, JOSEPH COURTEN HORN-BLOWER, physician, was born September 23, 1825, in Newark, N. J., and died April 27, 1887, in Mobile; son of William Thomas and Charlotte Elizabeth (Cartledge) Hamilton (q. v.); brother of Thomas A. G. T. and Peter Hamilton (q. v.). He received the M. D. degree from the University of Pennsylvania in 1845 and began the practice in New Orleans, La. In 1850 he removed to Mobile where he was in active practice until his death. He was an honorary member of the Washington light infantry, having been a private in that company during the Mexican War, and during the War of Secession was made surgeon of the 1st regiment, Alabama volunteer infantry, C. S. Army, with the rank, in 1862, of major. At Port Hudson he was made a prisoner and was put by the Federal authorities in charge of a hospital ship, carrying both Union and Confederate wounded and sick, which was sent down the Mississippi River to some point on the Sound. He was an Episcopalian. Married: (1) January 15, 1852, at Boligee, Greene County, to Lucy Barbour, daughter of Judge Henry and Frances (Barbour) Minor (q. v.); (2) in June 1868, at Mobile, to Caroline, daughter of John A. Snow, of Mobile. Children: by first wife, 1. Joseph Courten, deceased; 2. Henry Minor, deceased; 3. Frances Barbour, m. Richard Blount Shepard, Mt. Vernon; 4. Charlotte Anna, m. Isaac B. Swift, Bon Secour; by second wife, 5. Peter, married; 6. Frank Snow, married; 7. Mary Etta, m. (1) Mr. Ogden; (2) Dr. P. R. Burton, Laurel, Md.; 8. Martha, m. L. F. Holliday, Washington, Ind.; 9. Caroline, Baltimore, Md.; 10. Josephine Courten, m. C. Windeguth;

11. Helen Butler, m. Frank Artley, Brooklyn, N. Y.; 12. Alexander Drysdale, deceased. Last residence: Mobile.

HAMILTON, MORGAN CALVIN, lawyer, was born February 25, 1809, near Huntsville, Madison County, and died in San Diego, Cal., November 21, 1893; son of a Madison County farmer and brother of Andrew Jackson Hamilton (q. v.). Senator Hamilton was educated in the Madison County public schools, and first entered into the mercantile business. He removed to Texas, 1837; was a clerk in the war department of the Texas Republic, 1839-45; acted as secretary of war for about three years; appointed comptroller of the State treasury, September, 1867; delegate to the constitutional convention, 1868; elected as a Republican to the United States senate on the reconstruction of Texas and re-elected March 31, 1870, serving until March 3, 1877. Last residence: San Diego, Cal.

HAMILTON, PETER, lawyer, was born November 7, 1817, in Harrisburg, Pa., and died November 22, 1888, in Mobile; son of William Thomas and Charlotte Elizabeth (Cartledge) Hamilton (q. v.); brother of Joseph Courten and Thomas A. G. T. Hamilton (q. v.). He received his early education at the academy in Newark, N. J., and in South Hadley, Mass., was prepared for Princeton college at home and by Prof. Dod, well known author of mathematical text books, entering in the sophomore class and graduating in 1835. While there he assisted Prof. Joseph Henry in his celebrated experiments which led to the invention of an electric telegraph. After finishing at Princeton he came to Mobile and taught for a while at Barton academy, at the same time pursuing the study of law under Daniel Chandler and John A. Campbell. He was admitted to the bar in 1838 and the University of Alabama conferred upon him the honorary degree of LL. D. in 1876. He was at first associated with Daniel E. Hall, and in 1840, G. F. Lindsay joined the firm. In 1849 he formed a partnership with his brother, Thomas, and this firm was always known as the "Hamiltons." He was assigned the chancery, United States, and supreme court business of the firm. He was for a time United States district attorney for the southern district of Alabama and as long as he remained in active practice was associated with the Mobile and Ohio railroad company. He was elected to the State senate in 1872 and while in this position in 1876, was chosen as the most suitable person to be sent to Washington as sole democratic commissioner to arrange with Attorney General Williams to secure the neutrality of the National administration between the two legislatures then assembled at Montgomery. His mission was successful. He served in the house of representatives in 1847 and 1882, and as assistant commissioner aided in the preparation of the Alabama code of 1886. More than once he refused a place on the State supreme bench. He was one of the organizers of the Mobile board of trade and the Mobile bar library. He was a Whig before the war and opposed to secession but after the war became a Democrat. He was not a member of any church but was a regular attendant of the Presbyterian services. Married: (1) December 27, 1842, at Mobile, to Anna Martha, daughter of Jonothan and Cornelia (Walker) Beers, of Georgia, who at one time lived in Mobile; (2) May 23, 1863, to Mrs. Caroline (Cunningham) Goodman. Children: by first wife, 1. Charlotte Elizabeth, m. George Waring Smith, Selma; 2. Mary S., m. Duke W. Goodman, Mobile; 3. William Thomas, deceased, m. (1) Anna Walker Begnon, (2) Ida Richards; 4. Peter Joseph (q. v.). Last residence: Mobile.

HAMILTON, PETER JOSEPH, lawyer, author and federal judge, Porto Rico, was born March 19, 1859, in Mobile; son of Peter and Anna Martha (Beers) Hamilton (q. v.). He graduated from Princeton with the A. B. degree in 1879, and A. M. in 1882, taking the mental science fellowship; spent the following year at the University of Leipsig; later took the law course at the Universities of Virginia and Alabama, receiving the degree of LL. B. from the latter in 1882; honorary LL. D., 1910, University of Alabama, and in 1911 received the same degree from Spring Hill college. He entered upon the practice at Mobile in 1882 and was later a partner with his father and his uncle, Thomas A. Hamilton. In 1897, at the death of his father, he succeeded to the practice of the firm. During 1891-94, he was city councilman; 1894-97, city attorney; and 1911-13, French consular agent. He was nominated federal judge for Porto Rico by President Taft, very few of whose nominations were taken up for confirmation on account of the deadlock in the U. S. Senate. President Wilson nominated him to the same position and the senate confirmed the appointment on March 17, 1913. He qualified before Judge Harry T. Toulmin, at Mobile, ten days later, arrived at Porto Rico, April 10, and opened court on April 14. He has also done much literary work, making a special study of local history and institutions of his part of the South. He is a lecturer of some note having been in 1898, the orator at the St. Stephen's Spanish removal centennial and in 1902 at the Mobile bi-centennial. He is a Presbyterian and a Democrat; member Iberville historical society of Mobile; Alabama historical commission; and was a trustee of the Alabama State department of archives and history, prior to his removal from the State. Author: "Rambles in historic lands," 1893; "Colonial Mobile," 1897, revised and enlarged, 1909; "Code of ordinances of Mobile," 1897; assisted in compilation of "Code of Alabama," 1886, and also prepared articles for Brickell's "Digest of Alabama decisions," 1888; assisted Hannis Taylor in preparation of his book, "International public law," 1901; "Colonization of the South," in vol. 3, "History of North America," 1904; "The Reconstruction period," in vol. 16, same series; "Mobile under five flags," 1913. Married: June 30, 1891, in Mobile, to Rachel W., daughter of Dr. James Ralston and Sarah V. (Wheeler) Burgett (q. v.). Children: 1. Peter Vernon, deceased; 2. Anna Carlotta; 3. Rachel Duke. Residence: San Juan, P. R.

HAMILTON, THOMAS ALEXANDER GOODWIN TURNER, lawyer, was born August 20, 1820, in Harrisburg, Pa., and died February 20, 1897, in Mobile; son of William Thomas and Charlotte Elizabeth (Cartledge) Hamilton (q. v.); brother of Peter and Joseph Courten Hamilton (q. v.). He received his early education from private tutors, later attending Woodbridge academy, South Hadley, Mass., and afterwards entered Princeton college where he remained through his sophomore year, removing at that time with his parents to Mobile. He was clerk of the chancery court at Mobile; read law under Judge John A. Campbell; and was admitted to the bar in 1844. He began the practice of his profession with his brother, Peter Hamilton, later with S. Griffiths Fisher, then with both, and from 1849 to 1884, during a period of nearly forty years, with his brother alone. After the death of his brother, in 1888, he practiced for a while with S. P. Gaillard, and his nephew, P. J. Hamilton, and subsequently with the latter only. In the fall of 1896 he was compelled, on account of ill health, to retire from active practice. During the War of Secession he served for a time as assistant adjutant general upon the staff of Gen. T. G. Butler, who commanded the State troops. He was one of the organizers of the Board of trade. Upon its consolidation with the Chamber of Commerce he became chairman of the committee on rivers and harbors, and did much in getting the work started for the improvement to the channel of Mobile. For a number of years he was president of the Mobile bar association. He was a Presbyterian. Married: (1) November 24, 1847, at "Baywood," near Mobile, to Lucy Beverly, daughter of Col. John B. and Sarah (Vincent) Hogan (q. v.); (2) September 16, 1868, at Mobile, to Henrietta Porcher, daughter of Maj. John and Caroline Rachel (Gordon) Gaillard (q. v.). Children: by first wife, 1. Thomas A., Mobile; 2. Amelia Hogan, m. William McConnell Gaillard; 3. John Hogan, d. young; 4. Lucy Corinne, d. in infancy; children by second wife, 5. John Gaillard, m. Augusta Jolly Clarkson, Mobile. Last residence: Mobile.

HAMILTON, WILLIAM THOMAS, Presbyterian minister and teacher, was born January 22, 1796, in Sheffield, Yorkshire County, England, and died in 1884, in Mobile; son of Peter Hamilton, of Sheffield, England, whose father, tradition says, was a Jacobite in the Rebellion of 1745, and who lost his life and estates. The Hamilton family is of Scotch origin. Rev. Dr. Hamilton was educated at Niter Alia, at Fulneck, near Leeds, and was later transferred to "The Academy," a German college in England designed to train young men for the ministry. He taught in a Moravian school at Mirfield, Yorkshire, later at another Moravian school at Grace Hill, near Belfast, and finally in his own school at Chesterfield, Derbyshire. In July 1816, he sailed for America landing at Charleston, S. C., while his wife, who came on another ship, landed at Philadelphia. He became principal of the Dauphin County academy, Harrisburg, Pa., in May, 1817, and in 1821 removed to Philadelphia where he opened a private school that was patronized by the influential Quaker families of that city, later uniting his school with the Protestant Episcopal academy, on Locust St. During these years of teaching, he was diligently pursuing his classical education. While in Philadelphia he studied for the ministry and was licensed to preach in October, 1823. He was pastor of the First Presbyterian church, Newark, N. J., from 1824 until 1834, when he came to Mobile as pastor of the Government Street Presbyterian church which he served until 1854. Dr. Hamilton received the A. M. degree before coming to Mobile where he received the honorary D. D. from several colleges. Author: "The Friend of Moses," 1852. Married: February 16, 1816, at Chesterfield, Derbyshire, England, to Charlotte Elizabeth, daughter of Dr. John Cartledge, a physician and surgeon. Children: 1. Peter (q. v.); 2. Thomas A. G. T. (q. v.); 3. Samuel Agnew Christmas, d. young; 4. Joseph C. (q. v.). Last residence: Mobile.

HAMMAN, PHIL, soldier of the American Revolution. On Saturday, July 3, 1830, the fifty-fifth anniversary of American independence was celebrated at Bellefonte, Jackson County, Ala., present at which, among other participants were several Revolutionary patriots. After the reading of the Declaration of Independence by Henry F. Scruggs, and the delivery of an oration by Hon. Samuel B. Moore, later governor, the company sat down to a plentiful dinner. After this many patriotic toasts were drunk. Only one, and that because of the historic fact it evoked, is here reproduced:

"By L. James, Esq.—'Capt. Phil Hamman: The Savior of Greenbrier—tho' his history is but little known, his intrepidity and patriotism are not less worthy of our commendation.'

"After the drinking of this toast, the old soldier rose and said: He thanked the gentlemen for introducing his name on an occasion where he had already been too much honored. Tho' his history was not much known, he could not object to have the transactions of his life divulged to the world. For nine years he had been in the wars of his country—during a greater part of which he had been engaged in the most dangerous parts of Indian service. He had suffered much; on one occasion he had been stripped by savage rapacity of every vestige of property he possessed, even the clothing of himself and family—one of his children fell a victim to their cruelty. But not to dwell on the dangers he had endured, he would merely speak of the occasion so kindly alluded to in the toast. When stationed at Fort Randolph, at the mouth of the Big Kanawha, nine hundred Indians set off in a body to make an unexpected attack on the inhabitants of Greenbrier, Virginia. Two men were despatched to apprise the people in that quarter of their approaching danger. In three days they returned, wounded, and in despair; others were sought for who would carry the express; none were found willing to engage in so dangerous and hopeless an undertaking—when he and one John Pryor (who was afterwards killed by the Indians) painted and dressed in Indian garb, set off, and in forty-eight hours traveled one hundred and sixty miles through the wilderness; they overtook the Indians within twelve miles of the white settlements, passed through their camps, and gave timely warning to the people of their impending danger.—Such preparations were made for security and defense as the occasion permitted. About daylight a violent attack was made on Fort Donley; the conflict was desperate—the door of the Fort was broken open—he stood in it, and resisted the enemy—'till it could be shut and fastened. The foe were repelled with great loss, and the country saved from savage barbarity. He said that although he was old and poor, and had not received the compensation promised him by his country, yet he thanked God he was in peace and safety, and could live 'without the aid of public or private charity.' He then offered the following sentiment:

"'OUR RULERS: May they be just men, fearing God, and hating covetousness.'"—Southern Advocate, Huntsville, Ala., July 10, 1830.

HAMMOND, BURWELL POPE, lawyer and member Alabama legislature, was born February 24, 1868, at Ashville, St. Clair County; son of Richard F. and Mary Elizabeth (Pope) Hammond, of Ashville, later living at Attalla. He was educated in the public schools of Attalla; at Jacksonville normal college, 1890; and at Winchester, Tenn., 1891; entered upon the practice of law at Gadsden, May 2, 1893; became city clerk of Attalla in 1896; mayor of that city, 1897; and represented Etowah County in the general assembly of 1901. He is a Democrat; and a Baptist. Married: June 17, 1900, at Walnut Grove, to Emma Dell Pettit. Residence: Gadsden.

HAMMOND, JOHN D., farmer, was born October 27, 1838, in St. Clair County; son of Richmond and Mary (Ash) Hammond, natives respectively of Lawrence District, S. C., and of Franklin County, Ga., the former of whom came to Alabama in 1816 with his parents, settled on the west bank of the Coosa River, near Greensport, became a farmer there, served in the State legislature at different times from 1835 to 1848, assisted in the organization of many of the earlier counties and did much toward the development of the state, and at his death in 1861 was owner of six thousand acres of land; grandson of Col. John Ash, a soldier in the War of 1812. The paternal grandfather was a native of South Carolina, of English ancestry. The Ash family came originally from Ireland. Mr. Hammond was reared and educated in his native county. He farmed until 1863, when he joined the C. S. Army as a member of a cavalry company of state troops. He served until the close of the war, resumed farming until 1867, and moved to Jacksonville, where for ten years he conducted a hotel. He was elected to the State legislature from Calhoun County, 1880, and served two terms, taking an active part in the passage of the Railroad Commission Bill and in the law regulating the convict system of the state. His efforts in the interest of education were tireless, and he was conspicuous in the establishment of normal schools at Jacksonville and Livingston, and in aiding the State university, the agricultural and mechanical college and the common schools. He is a Democrat, a Methodist Episcopalian, a Mason and a Knight of Honor. Married: May 18, 1858, to Fannie A. Whisenant, who died in 1884, daughter of William J. Whisenant, of Calhoun County. Children: 1. Walter E.; 2. William Barbour, merchant, b. August 2, 1861, proprietor of the Hammond Inn, m. Sallie Forney Marion, resides at Jacksonville; 3. Anna L.; 4. Peter L.; 5. Mary A. E.; 6. Fannie W.; 7. Katie. Residence: Jacksonville.

JOHN W. GRAYSON

HAMMOND, SAMUEL, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 88, resided in Sumter County, June 1, 1840.—Census of Pensioners, 1841, p. 149.

HAMNER, EDWARD DELAMAR, lawyer and State senator, was born April 28, 1865, near Abbeville, Henry County; son of the late Rev. Daniel T. and Demaris (Miller) Hamner, the former a native of Marion County, Ga., residing at Attalla when he died, was head of the Congregational Methodist church in Alabama; brother of George Wesley Hamner (q. v.); grandson of Wesley and Mary (James) Hamner, and of George and Tempie (Hilliard) Miller, all of whom resided near Greenville, Butler County. The Hamners are of Welsh descent, the first American ancestor being Nicholas Hamner who settled in Albemarle County, Va.; from him is also descended Rt. Rev. Nicholas Hamner Cobbs (q. v.), first Episcopal bishop of the diocese of Alabama. Senator Hamner was educated at Hiwassee college, Tenn., graduating A. B., 1885, honorary A. M., 1888; graduated LL. B. and LL. M. from Georgetown university, Washington, D. C., 1889. He has taught school; clerk United States pension office, 1886-1892; special pension examiner, 1892-1897; in 1902, was a member of the house of representatives from Etowah County; and represented the sixth senatorial district in the general assembly of 1907. He is engaged in the practice of law, with mercantile and other business interests. In 1898 he was for a short time editor and proprietor of the "Attalla Journal." He is a Democrat; Baptist; and Knight of Pythias. He is unmarried. Residence: Attalla.

HAMNER, GEORGE WESLEY, public official, was born January 10, 1862, near Clayton, Barbour County, and died May 17, 1908, at Attalla; son of Daniel Talley and Demaris N. (Miller) Hamner, the former a native of Buena Vista, Ga., a Methodist minister, a teacher, farmer, and merchant, who lived in Barbour and Dale Counties, and later in Attalla, Etowah County; brother of Edward Delamar Hamner (q. v.); grandson of Wesley and Mary M. (James) Hamner, natives respectively of Georgia and North Carolina, the former who was an independent soldier in the War of 1836, who came to Alabama in 1843, and returned to Georgia in 1847, moved again to Alabama in 1856 and located in Pike County, moving to Butler County after the War of Secession, and of George Spence and Tempie (Hilliard) Miller, who lived in Barbour and Dale Counties, and near Greenville, Butler County, the latter a first cousin of Henry Washington Hilliard; a relative of Col. Hamner, a tobacco dealer of Lynchburg, Va., and of Nicholas Hamner Cobb (q. v.). The progenitor of the Hamner family in America was Nicholas Hamner, who came from Wales and settled in Albemarle County, Va. The lineage of the Hamner family is traced to one "John," a soldier, from Michaelsvelt, Germany, or Brabant, who was knighted by King Henry III, and later was made cup-bearer to the king and given an estate in Flintshire, North Wales. He named the estate "Au Mere" and from the name of the estate came the name, Aumer, later Hamner, and still later Hamner. Sir Thomas Hamner was a member of the house of commons in England, for about thirty years, in the days of Alexander Pope. He was elected speaker in 1713, and was created baronet, but the baronetcy died with him in 1846. He was obliged to flee the country at one time and went to France, where he wrote a history of the French revolution, still in print. One of his descendants was Margaret Hamner, who married Owen Glendower, the rightful heir to the Welsh throne.

Mr. Hamner received his early schooling under his father in Ozark, Dale County; attended Echo high school; a school under his father at Wynnville, Blount County; the high school at Oak Grove; and an academy in Jones Valley, near Birmingham. He was graduated from Hiwassee college, Monroe County, Tenn., A. B., 1882, and later A. M.; from the University of Alabama, LL. B., 1885; from the University of Georgetown, Washington, D. C., LL. M., 1887; from Columbia medical college, Washington, D. C., M. D., 1895, from Columbian university, Washington, D. C., Ph. D., 1895, and D. C. L., 1900. He did not engage in the practice of law or medicine, but continued, after graduating professionally, in the U. S. civil service, in the treasury department at Washington, D. C., and continued his historical and literary studies in the afternoon and at night when his departmental work was over. He was in the U. S. signal corps for about a year, and was honorably discharged by Robert T. Lincoln, secretary of war. He was appointed in the U. S. civil service as clerk in the treasury department, October, 1885; held the office of auditor for the post office department; and rose to the position of stamp clerk. He was connected with that department until a few months before his death. He was author of several extended papers, among them "Researches upon the Government of the Creek Indians," his thesis at Columbian University, submitted as part of the requirements for the degree of Ph. D. He was never married. Last residence: Attalla.

HANBY, GABRIEL, public official and farmer, was of English descent; the names of his parents, and the date and place of his birth are unavailable. Gen. Hanby lived in Henry County, Va., until about the year 1817, when he moved to Alabama, and located on a rich farm at Little Warrior, Blount County. He was elected to represent Blount County in the State constitutional convention of 1819, at Huntsville, and helped frame the first state constitution. Immediately afterwards, he was elected to the State senate. He was a Democrat. Married: Nancy, of North Carolina, daughter of Col. Nicholas and Rebecca (Badget) Horn, who moved from North Carolina to the vicinity of Knoxville, Tenn., the former of whom was of Dutch descent, represented his county in the State legislature, and died near Knoxville, 1837. Children: 1. Nicholas Horn, d. in young manhood; 2. Christopher Columbus, m. Miss Cocks, of Knoxville, Tenn., and lived there until about 1864 when he was killed by bushwhackers, his only living child married H. Y. Snow of Atlanta, Ga.; 3. Nancy Stewart, b. February 12, 1814, in Henry County, Va., d. March 4, 1886, m. January 7, 1830, to Mace Tom Pane Brindley, b. February 10, 1801, in Franklin County, Ga., son of Frazier and Phoebe (Rigs) Brindley, served as clerk of the county court for twelve years, and as representative from Blount County in both branches of the State legislature, d. August 30, 1871, children, (1) Gabriel LaFayette, b. November 12, 1830, served in the C. S. Army, was captured and held prisoner at Lake Erie, m. Mary Willson, resides at Cullman; (2) Phoebe Lavinia, b. February 22, 1833, m. W. J. Dunn, resides in Cullman; (3) Asa Benton, b. October 19, 1835, served in the C. S. Army, was a prisoner at Fort Douglas, d. June 29, 1893, m. 1856, to Peachy Willson, who resides at Somerville; (4) John Hanby, b. February 18, 1838, d. July 14, 1853 (5) Van Buren, b. November 14, 1840, served in the C. S. Army, was wounded at Jackson, Miss., July 3, 1863, and confined to a hospital at Point Clear for a year, d. October 12, 1893, m. Louisa Dondleson, who resides at Somerville; (6) Nancy Manila, b. May 28, 1843, resides at Simcoe; (7) Mace Peete, b. July 25, 1846, served in the C. S. Army, d. October 7, 1873, m. Josephine Galaspa; (8) George Goldthwaite, b. August 12, 1849, m. Mattie Haynes, Eyrie, Tex.; (9) Rebecca Virginia, b. November 14, 1851, m. G. C. Glasscock, resides at Cullman; (10) Bethea Portis, b. April 3, 1855; (11) Winston Yancey, b. June 5, 1858, m. Mattie Holmes, resides at Simcoe. Last residence: Little Warrior, Blount County.

HANCOCK, ROBERT, soldier of the American Revolution. "DIED—At his residence, ten miles northwest from Huntsville, on the 15th inst., The Rev. ROBERT HANCOCK, in the 77th year of his age. He was a native of Nottoway County, Virginia. In the year 1790, he emigrated to South Carolina, and from thence in 1811, to his late residence in this county. Mr. Hancock was amiable in his disposition, industrious in his habits, and thereby rendered his family both easy, and happy in their circumstances. He was a true patriot, and during the great revolutionary struggle felt much interest for the safety and welfare of his country, and though disabled by an unavoidable accident to render actual service, he did everything in the compass of his power to promote the cause of liberty. But above all, he was a true friend to religion, and a sincere lover of his God; for 52 years he has been an acceptable member of the Methodist Episcopal church, and for about 30 years a local minister of said church. His talents were respectable, his piety deep, his zeal ardent, his conduct irreproachable, his usefulness extensive; in short, he was a light in a benighted land, and like unto a city set on a hill which cannot be hid,—and now, though he is dead, he will be remembered as one of the church's brightest ornaments for more than a half a century. His memory will ever be cherished with the fondest recollections by his surviving children, friends, and numerous acquaintances. But he has gone to the house appointed for all the living, yet our loss is his infinite gain; he is not dead, but is only sleeping in Jesus. Such will God bring with Him, therefore we sorrow not as those who have no hope. His last illness was long, and his afflictions severe, yet he evinced the patience and fortitude of a christian soldier; and notwithstanding his body was worn down by old age and infirmity, his mind in a great degree retained vigor until the last; and with the prospect of eternal life full in view, he calmly sank in the arms of his blessed Jesus. 'Mark the perfect man, and behold the upright, for the end of that man is peace.' 'Let me die the death of the righteous, and let my last end be like his.'—The Democrat, Huntsville, Ala., April 21, 1831.

HANDLEY, JAMES M., major in the 46th Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army.

HANDLEY, WILLIAM ANDERSON, congressman, was born December 15, 1834, near Franklin, Ga., and died June 23, 1909, in Roanoke. He removed to Alabama; attended the public schools; held several local offices at Roanoke; served as a Confederate soldier; and was elected as a Democrat to the Forty-second congress, 1871-73, his seat being unsuccessfully contested by Benjamin W. Norris, of Wetumpka. He was the father of Guy H. Handley, of Roanoke. Last residence: Roanoke.

HANES, JAMES O., Methodist minister; member of the North Alabama conference, 1920; general evangelist. Residence: Birmingham.

HANNON, MRS. E. C., patriotic worker, was born in 1814 in Milledgeville, Ga., and died in 1898, in Montgomery; daughter of Thomas B. Stubbs, a large cotton planter of Milledgeville, Ga. She was one of the most active workers of the Ladies' Memorial association and served as its treasurer. Married: E. C. Hannon, of Montgomery. She left many descendants, among these, Thomas E., captain, C. S. Army. Last residence: Montgomery.

HANNON, MOSES WRIGHT, brigadier-general, C. S. Army, was born in 1827, in Baldwin County, Ga., deceased; his father was a lawyer and planter and his mother a Miss Wright, was an aunt of Hon. Augustus R. Wright, of Georgia. He came to Montgomery, Ala., in 1847; was in the mercantile business until 1850; went to California where he remained for eight years, then returning to Montgomery. On the outbreak of the War of Secession, in 1861, entered the military service as lieutenant colonel of the First Alabama cavalry and a few months later recruited the Fifty-third Alabama, a mounted regiment; served with this command for some time in the Tennessee valley under Roddy and Forrest; was then placed over a brigade composed of his old regiment, Young's regiment and Roswell's battalion, both of Georgia, and Snodgrass' battalion of Alabama; led this command during the last year and a half of the war, serving through the Georgia campaign under Gen. Wheeler and in Gen. Kelly's division. Much arduous service was performed by the brigade and in August, 1864, under its commander made a daring raid on Sherman's rear, capturing about one hundred men and destroying a wagon-train, in addition to bringing off fifteen hundred beef cattle; followed Sherman into the Carolinas; and was engaged in the last fight of the forces in those states, at Statesboro. As fitting reward for his services, the commission of brigadier-general was issued to Gen. Hannon, but not received. After the war he removed to Montgomery; engaged in the mercantile business; later took up that business in New Orleans; and in 1870 removed to Texas where he engaged in planting in Freestone County. Married: a Miss Mastin. Last residence: Freestone County, Texas.

HANSON, VICTOR HENRY, publisher, was born January 16, 1876, at Barnesville, Pike County, Ga.; son of Major Henry Clay and Anna O. (Bloodworth) Hanson, the former a native of Barnesville, later a resident successively of Macon, Columbus and Atlanta, Ga., for many years editor and owner of the Macon Telegraph, later owner and editor of the Columbus (Ga.) "Enquirer-Sun;" grandson of James M. Bloodworth of Griffin, Ga.; nephew of Major J. F. Hanson, for many years president of the Central of Georgia Railway and Ocean Steamship Company. He was educated in the public schools of Macon and Columbus, Ga., and for a short while attended Gordon Institute, Atlanta, but when 16 years of age went to work. While still a grammar school boy, Mr. Hanson founded a Saturday paper, "The City Item," one page, two columns wide by six inches deep, all the work of the lad, from typesetting to delivery. Later, when his parents removed to Columbus from Macon, Major Hanson, the father, becoming editor of the "Enquirer-Sun," the son enlarged "The City Item" to many times its original size, made it a Sunday morning paper, and changed the name to "The Columbus Times," and built up a circulation of 2,500 subscribers. The juvenile venture in newspaper work so prospered that the editor employed a printer in his father's newspaper office to set the type but he solicited the advertisements, wrote the news stories and made deliveries in person, on horseback. When but 15 years of age, he sold his paper and its equipment for more than $2,000. In 1892, he became advertising solicitor for Nichols & Holliday, Atlanta, advertising managers for the "Atlanta Constitution," and remained in this association until 1895 when he went to the "Baltimore World," as a solicitor in the classified advertising department. In June, 1896, he went to work for "The Montgomery Advertiser" as a solicitor in the circulation department, but within three months was transferred to the advertising department as a solicitor, and in less than six months was in charge of the department, and by the end of the year was advertising manager in charge of both local and foreign advertising. Mr. Hanson was employed continuously by "The Montgomery Advertiser," until February 15, 1909, when he removed to Birmingham, the advertising receipts of that paper having increased through his efforts 500 per cent. Upon going to Birmingham he purchased a third interest in "The Birmingham News," from the owner and editor, Gen. Rufus N. Rhodes, becoming with his newly acquired interests, vice-president and general manager of the paper. On March 1, 1910, shortly after the death of General Rhodes, Mr. Hanson purchased from his widow, a majority of the interest in the paper and became its president and publisher. Within the nine years following the circulation of The News grew from less than 18,000 to over 60,000. On September 12, 1912, a Sunday edition was launched with 23,000 signed subscription orders, and has grown to 61,000 subscribers, with an increase in advertising rates of more than 400 per cent.

Soon after his removal to Birmingham, Mr. Hanson was joined by his former employer, Mr. Frank P. Glass, who purchased stock in The News and became its editor, retaining for a while his interest in The Montgomery Advertiser. This partnership was severed in 1920 when Mr. Hanson purchased the Glass interest in The News. Shortly thereafter negotiations were undertaken for the purchase of The Birmingham Ledger, which on April 19th, was formally absorbed by The News.

More and more as the years go by Mr. Hanson is turning his attention to public service. On January 4, 1920, he announced that The Birmingham News would give a $500.00 loving cup each year, beginning with 1920, to that citizen of Birmingham who had, during the year best served his city. Through his efforts, in February, 1921, the coal operators and striking miners composed their differences, securing from each an agreement to abide by any plan of settlement which he might arrange. Mr. Hanson has never sought office, but is an Independent Democrat. He is a member and deacon in the Independent Presbyterian Church of Birmingham, a Mason and a Shriner. Married: December 28, 1897, at Uniontown, to Weenona W., daughter of Capt. John Henry and Ella (Sims) White, of that place, the former a banker, manufacturer, merchant and planter. Residence: Birmingham.

HARALSON, ALONZO LA FAYETTE, planter, was born February 1, 1825, and died at Verbena, July 6, 1899; son of William and Permelia (Browning) Haralson. In 1843 he entered the University of Alabama from Collirene, Lowndes County, and graduated A. B., 1846, receiving honorary A. M., 1851. Married: (1) May 31, 1849, Sarah Chappell; (2) March 30, 1880, Ester Holt. Last residence: Verbena.

HARALSON, BENJAMIN BROWNING, electrical agent, is a native of Alabama and graduate, B. S., 1895, of the Alabama polytechnic institute. Since 1895 he has been connected with the General electric company. He is now their agent at Cleveland. Residence: Cleveland, Ohio.

HARALSON, CHARLES H., was born in 1851; son of W. B. Haralson. He entered the University of Alabama in 1870 from Selma. No other record is available.

HARALSON, JERE, slave and congressman, was born April 1, 1846, in Muskogee County, Ga. He was a slave until emancipated in 1865; removed to Alabama; was a representative in the State legislature, 1870; State senator, 1872; and elected as a Republican to the Forty-fourth congress, 1875-77.

HARALSON, JONATHAN, lawyer and associate justice supreme court of Alabama, was born October 18, 1830, in Lowndes County, and died July 11, 1912, in Montgomery; son of William Browning and Temperance Martin (Dunklin) Haralson, the former an early settler from Georgia in Lowndes County; grandson of Jonathan and Clara (Browning) Haralson, of Greene County, Ga., and of John and Temperance Martin (Hamilton) Dunklin, who early emigrated from Greenville District, S. C., to Butler County. He was educated in the country schools; graduated A. B., 1851, and A. M., 1854, from the University of Alabama; LL. B., University of Louisiana, 1853; entered upon the practice of law in Selma, 1853. During the War of Secession he served as the agent at Selma of the nitre and mining bureau of the Confederate States. In 1876, Gov. Houston appointed him judge of the city court of Selma, which office he held until 1892, when he was elected associate justice, supreme court of Alabama. Judge Haralson held this position by successive re-elections until 1910. He was many years a trustee of Howard college, and also of Dallas academy. He was at the time of his death and had been since 1876, a trustee of the Agricultural and mechanical college, now Alabama polytechnic institute, at Auburn. Mercer university, Macon, Ga., conferred on him the honorary degree of LL. D., 1892. He was a Democrat; a Baptist, serving as president of the Alabama Baptist convention, 1874-1891, inclusive, and as president of the Southern Baptist convention, 1887-1898, inclusive. Married: (1) April 9, 1859, near Columbus, Ga., to Mattie Ellen, daughter of John W. Thompson; (2) May 20, 1869, to Lida J., daughter of Robert H. McFaden, of Greensboro; Children: 1. Mary, deceased, m. George Dent; 2. Caroline; 3. Willie Browning, m. Dr. Livingston Stavelly, Washington, D. C. Last residence: Montgomery.

HARALSON, KINCHEN LEE, was born July 15, 1842; son of Col. William B. Haralson. In 1861-62 attended the University of Alabama. No other record is available.

HARALSON, WILLIAM JEHU, lawyer and judge, was born at Tellico Plains, Tenn.; son of Peter Bennett and Louise (Humphreys) Haralson, residents of Monroe County, Tenn. He was educated in the common schools of Tennessee and Georgia; read law and began the practice at Lebanon, Tenn.; was solicitor of his circuit, 1850-52; was a captain in the C. S. Army; elected judge of the fifth judicial circuit in 1862, and held that position many years. He was a Democrat. Married: Cornelia Jane, daughter of William Wallace and Letitia Elizabeth (Beson) Macfarlane. Children: 1. William Wallace (q. v.); 2. Jefferson Bennett, physician, m. O. A. Moody, at Langston. Last residence: DeKalb County.

HARALSON, WILLIAM WALLACE, lawyer and judge of the ninth judicial circuit, was born January 11, 1861, at Lebanon, DeKalb County; son of William Jehu and Cornelia Jane (Macfarlane) Haralson (q. v.). Judge Haralson was educated in the common schools of DeKalb County; at the Cumberland university, Lebanon, Tenn., where he graduated, B. S., 1882; University of Alabama, LL. B., 1884; entered upon practice at Ft. Payne; member State senate, 1888-89 and 1890-91; member of the house of representatives from DeKalb County, 1900-01; elected judge of the ninth judicial circuit November 8, 1904, re-elected November 8, 1910, and again in 1916. He is a Democrat; a Cumberland Presbyterian; and a Mason. Married: November 26, 1902, at Ft. Payne, to Fannie, daughter of Andrew Lewis and Cordelia (Lyons) Campbell; granddaughter of Lewis and Mary Campbell, who came from Virginia to Alabama in 1860. Children: William Jeff. Residence: Ft. Payne.

HARDAGE, JOEL THOMAS, teacher, was born November 4, 1863, at Carrollton, Ga.; son of James McKenny and Sarah (Jackson) Hardage, the former a native of Georgia, who served in Co. I, Second Georgia regiment, C. S. Army, until he was fatally wounded; grandson of Adam and Mariah (Woodall) Hardage, of Wilkinson County, Ga., and of Jesse and Mary (Brady) Jackson who moved from that county to Alabama, the former a veteran of the Indian Wars. Mr. Hardage was educated in the common schools, and in the high school of Rutledge, Crenshaw County. He is a farmer and teacher, and has been for five terms superintendent of education of Covington County, entering office in 1892. He represented Covington County in the State legislature in 1915. He is a Democrat. Married: February 10, 1887, near Rose Hill, to Mary Elizabeth, daughter of Wendell W. and Matilda (Jones) Taylor, of that place, the former who served in Co. B, Eighteenth Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army, and as commissioner of Covington County for several terms. Residence: Opp.

HARDAWAY, BENJAMIN H., tutor of mathematics at the University of Alabama, Tuscaloosa, 1883-86. Residence: Columbus, Ga.

HARDAWAY, JAMES HICKS, cotton merchant, was born January 8, 1854, at Montgomery; son of Samuel George and Sarah Pickett (Terry) Hardaway, the former who served in the Mexican War and the War of Secession, for the first two years of the latter was captain of "Montgomery Grays" and was afterward on Gen. Clanton's staff, was elected major-general of the State militia in 1858 and commissioned by Gov. A. B. Moore, the latter who was a niece of Gov. Bibb; grandson of James Hicks and Elizabeth (Raines) Hardaway, of Macon Ga., and of James P. and Nancy (Bibb) Terry, of Autaugaville and Montgomery. Representative Hardaway was educated in the public schools of Montgomery, also attended the Alabama polytechnic institute for a short time. He began the cotton warehouse business in September, 1869, and has engaged in said business continuously since that date. He was elected to the legislature from Montgomery County, 1918. He is a Democrat and a Methodist. Married: March 14, 1877, at Montgomery, to Cornelia, daughter of Capt. John M. and Martha Sarah (Stone) Mickle, the former of the eighteenth Alabama regiment, C. S. Army, the latter granddaughter of Gen. John Joseph and Rebecca (Martin) Mickle and Judge George W. and Mary (Gillespie) Stone. Children: 1. T. R.; 2. James Stone, deceased; 3. John Corbin, m. Mary Carroll Jones; 4. Mary Vivian, m. Charles E. Norton; 5. Cecil Gordon, d. in infancy; 6. Edna Elizabeth, d. in infancy. Residence: Montgomery.

HARDAWAY, ROBERT EARLY, civil engineer and professor applied mathematics, was born April 26, 1858, at Columbus, Ga.; son of Robert Archelaus and Rebecca Elizabeth (Hurt) Hardaway. Mr. Hardaway received early education from his mother, at Valambrosa plantation near Union Springs, then from a Mr. Ware on Chunnenugee Ridge, at Pitts school of Opelika, and at Lafayette. He obtained his collegiate and professional education at the Agricultural and mechanical college at Auburn, entering in September, 1876, and graduating as first honor man in June, 1878, with the degree of B. E. and as an officer in the cadet corps. Two years later his alma mater conferred on him the degree of C. E. From the year of his graduation Mr. Hardaway has had an active engineering career. In 1878-79 he was in the government service in the survey of Southern Alabama and Western Florida rivers; in 1880-81, he was professor of applied mathematics in the University of Arkansas; became a specialist in railroad locations and relocations, and accomplished many improvements in the building of lines and in the betterment of existing lines. His fields of labor have been Alabama, West Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, Texas, Mexico, Arizona and New Mexico, and his work shows how human vitality can be preserved and exercised under varying conditions of climate. He is a Democrat and a Methodist. Married: November 27, 1889, at Livingston, to Matilda Ustick, daughter of George Washington and Matilda Baldwin (Ustick) Dainwood of that place, the former born in the Bear Creek community, two miles east of Columbia, Tenn., came as a young man to Livingston, where he resided at the time of his death; granddaughter of Jacob and Elizabeth (Franke) Dainwood, the former born, in Pennsylvania about 1798 removed to Kentucky in 1800, moved to Maury County, Tenn., settling two miles east of Columbia, and of William King and Lydia Farand (Lloyd) Ustick, who moved, in 1836, from Virginia to Livingston; and the great-granddaughter of Jacob and Margaret Dainwood, who came, about 1750, from Germany to Pennsylvania, the former a soldier of the American Revolution, losing his life in that struggle, and of John Gano Ustick, who moved about 1834, from Virginia to Livingston. Children: 1. Robert Early, jr., born September 1, 1890, at Tuscaloosa, graduate of University of Texas (Austin); 2. George Dainwood, born, July 22, 1896, at Tuscaloosa; 3. Mathilde Dainwood. Residence: Deming, N. M.

HARDAWAY, WILLIAM AUGUSTUS, physician, was born January 8, 1850, in Mobile; son of William Augustus and Mary (del Barco) Hardaway. Dr. Hardaway was educated in the private schools of St. Louis; took special courses at Westminster college and the University of Virginia; M. D., 1870, Missouri medical college; honorary A. M., St. Louis university and LL. D., Westminster college. He was president of the American dermatological society. Author: "Essentials of vaccination," 1882; "Manual of skin diseases," 1890. Editor; with Dr. L. B. Bangs, "American textbook of genito-urinary diseases, syphilis and diseases of the skin," 1898; with Joseph Grindon, "Handbook of cutaneous therapeutics," 1907. Married: January 8, 1877, to Lucy Nelson Page, of St. Louis. Residence: St. Louis.

HARDIE, BRADFORD, wholesale grocer, was born March 25, 1859, in Lee County, Ark.; son of James White and Fannie (Bradford) Hardie, the former of whom was born May, 1831, near Huntsville, was graduated from Oglethorpe university, Georgia, 1851, soon after married his first wife, Margaret Caperton, who died a year later, became a farmer first in Jackson County, then in Talladega County where he was married, 1858, to Fannie Bradford, moved to Philips County, Ark., and farmed on a plantation there until 1861, when he returned to Alabama with his family, enlisted in the Eighth Alabama regiment, commanded by Col. Martin of Mississippi, served as a private until discharged in 1864 on account of wounds, was elected to the State legislature from Talladega County in 1866, moved to Montgomery in 1867, and entered the wholesale grocery business with Gay, under the firm name of Gay and Hardie, which was carried on until his death in 1884; grandson of John Hardie, who was born in Scotland and came to America when a youth, settling first in Virginia and then coming to Alabama, and of Gen. J. T. Bradford, of Talladega County. Mr. Hardie obtained his early schooling in Montgomery, where he came with his parents when ten years of age; and attended the Agricultural and mechanical college at Auburn. He went to Birmingham in 1882, and was connected with the Birmingham iron works until 1884, when he went to Montgomery. Mr. Hardie with Charles L. Gay, son of his father's partner, and John W. Durr, jr., succeeded to the grocery house of Gay and Hardie, and the firm became Gay, Hardie and company, under which style it continues. Married: in 1889, to Mary Thornton, daughter of Quinn Thornton, who was at one time a professor on the faculty of Howard college. Residence: Montgomery.

HARDIE, JOSEPH, business man, was born June 26, 1833, near Huntsville; son of John and Mary Mead (Hall) Hardie, natives, respectively, of Scotland and Virginia, the former of whom came to America at the age of twenty-one, settled near Richmond, Va., then came to Huntsville where he remained eight years, and moved to Talladega in 1834, establishing himself as a merchant until his death in 1848; brother of Robert Alexander Hardie (q. v.). He received his early education in the common schools of the neighborhood; attended the University of Alabama for some time; and was graduated from Princeton university, A. B., 1855. Later in that year, he went to Selma and became clerk in the grocery-house of Philpot and Lapsley. A year later he became partner in the firm, and in 1859, became sole proprietor. He sold out his business in 1861, enlisted in the C. S. Army, was made adjutant of the Fourth Alabama infantry regiment, served with that command for a year, then left the regiment and raised a battalion of cavalry, known as Hardie's battalion. He remained with that command as major of cavalry until the end of the war. After peace was established, Maj. Hardie merchandised at Talladega until the fall of 1865, then returned to Selma and pursued the same occupation in partnership with James H. Robinson, under the firm name of Hardie and Robinson. He remained in that association for a year, then entered the cotton business. In the fall of 1886, he made investments in real estate in California which were highly successful. He was for some years an elder in the Presbyterian church, is prominently known in the Young Men's Christian Association throughout the United States, and is a member of its international committee for the United States and the British Provinces. Married: December, 1856, to Margaret D., daughter of James and Rubelia (Houston) Isbell (q. v.), of Talladega. Residence: Birmingham.

HARDIE, ROBERT ALEXANDER, planter and member of the legislature, was born February 7, 1838, at "Thornhill" Talladega County, and died August 13, 1912, at Walthall; son of John and Mary Mead (Hall) Hardie, the former a native of Saline, Kinross-shire, Scotland, who migrated to Talladega; brother of Joseph Hardie (q. v.); grandson of Rev. Isaac and Mary (Mead) Hall, natives of Virginia but who resided at Florence. Mr. Hardie was educated at Mardisville in his native county. In February, 1862, he entered the Confederate Army as first lieutenant, Co. G, 31st Alabama infantry regiment, and was later promoted captain. He was a farmer in Perry County from 1866 until the date of his death; was a member of the house of representatives from Perry County in the sessions of 1898-99, and 1900-01, and in 1902 was re-elected. He was a Democrat, and Presbyterian. Married: (1) October 8, 1868, to Daisy, daughter of Thomas M. and Anna Eliza (Perkins) Walthall, of Perry County; (2) Stella, daughter of Charles A. and Mary L. (Peay) Poellnitz, of Marengo County. Last residence: Walthall.

HARDIN, JOSEPH, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 74, and a resident of Tuscaloosa County; private N. C. Militia; enrolled on October 29, 1833, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $26.66; sums received to date of publication of list, $79.98.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34.

HARDING, HORACE, civil engineer, was born May 27, 1828, at Boston, Mass., and died July 29, 1899, at Birmingham; son of Chester and Caroline (Woodruff) Harding, the former a native of Conway, Mass., served in the War of 1812, and was a portrait painter, executing portraits of most of the prominent men of his day, both in America and England, including two royal dukes, four presidents, Webster, Clay and Marshall, the latter of Caledonia, N. Y.; grandson of Abiel and Abigail (Smith) Harding, the former a Revolutionary soldier and seventh in descent from Abraham Harding, who landed at Plymouth, Mass., 1624. Horace Harding was educated in the private schools of Springfield, Mass.; at Exeter, N. H.; the University of Vermont; graduated at Harvard, A. B., 1848, under the presidency of Edward Everett; was surveyor of Mobile and Ohio railroad in 1850; city engineer of Mobile, 1853; surveyed North East and South West of Alabama railroad, now the Alabama Great Southern railroad in 1858; quartermaster sergeant 20th Alabama infantry regiment, 1861; by order of the Confederate secretary of war made general manager Mobile and Ohio railroad, 1862-65; superintendent Alabama Great Southern railroad, 1872; U. S. engineer on the Warrior and Tombigbee Rivers, 1874-96; was alderman of Tuscaloosa, 1880-82. He was a Democrat and a Mason. Married: May 31, 1859, at "Hill of Howth," near Boligee, Greene County, to Eliza R., daughter of William P. and Eliza Williams (Chotard) Gould of Tuscaloosa and Greene Counties, the latter a granddaughter of John Charles Chotard, a French engineer who came to America during the Revolution and settled at Washington, Ga., in 1790. Children: 1. W. P. G. Harding (q. v.), m. Amanda Moore; 2. Chester Harding, lieutenant colonel corps of engineers, U. S. Army and engineer commissioner of the District of Columbia, m. Flora Krum, of St. Louis, Mo. Last residence: Birmingham.

HARDING, WILLIAM PROCTOR GOULD, banker, governor Federal reserve board, was born May 5, 1864, at Boligee, Greene County; son of Horace and Eliza Proctor (Gould) Harding (q. v.). His primary education was received under Dr. Warfield C. Richardson, Prof. Joseph M. Dill, Col. W. D. Fonville, and Prof. W. H. Verner, all distinguished preparatory instructors of Tuscaloosa; entered the University of Alabama in 1878 and graduated, A. B., 1880, and A. M. 1881; graduated at Poughkeepsie (N. Y.) business college in 1881; entered the banking house of J. H. Fitts and Co., of Tuscaloosa the following year and remained there in a clerical capacity for three years; removed to Birmingham as assistant cashier in the Berney national bank, a position he retained from 1886 to 1893, when he was promoted cashier. In 1896 he became vice-president of the First national bank of Birmingham, and in 1902 president of that powerful financial institution. He served as director in the Birmingham railway, light and power company and various other enterprises; president Alabama bankers association, 1908, and president of the Birmingham chamber of commerce in 1913. In 1914 on the creation of the reserve banking system, he was appointed by President Wilson as a member of the Federal reserve bank, the appointment necessitating his removal to Washington, and in 1916, on the resignation of Charles S. Hamlin as governor, he became his successor. He is a Democrat; a Mason; and an Episcopalian. Married: October 22, 1895, in Birmingham, to Amanda, daughter of Sydenham and Mary E. Moore, who resided at Eutaw, prior to their removal to Birmingham; and granddaughter of Col. Sydenham Moore (q. v.). Children: 1. Elizabeth, 2. Margaret, 3. Alice. Residence: Washington, D. C.

DR. BENJAMIN G. COPELAND

HARDWICK, WILLIAM HENRY, planter, merchant and editor, was born June 25, 1808, in Richmond County, Va., and died October 16, 1851, at Montgomery. He was of English ancestry, descended from Elizabeth Hardwick of Hardwick Hall, England, who was a friend of Queen Elizabeth. Mr. Hardwick was educated in Westmoreland County, Va., and removed to Montgomery about 1838. He was a planter, clothing merchant, of the firm of Hardwick and Moore, and held an interest in the "Montgomery Advertiser" for which paper he did editorial writing. He was a Methodist. Married: in 1841, to Sarah Eugenia, daughter of Hooper and Mary (Shellcott) Caffey; granddaughter of John Caffey (q. v.). Children: 1. John Clark, student at the University of Alabama, 1857-58, private in first company from Montgomery that entered the Confederate army, tax assessor for that county, 1864-65, and after the war a railroad employee, d. unmarried; 2. Andrew Caffey; 3. Juliet, m. C. L. Ruth (q. v.); 4. William, d. unmarried; 5. Benjamin M., d. young; 6. Samuel H., deceased, vice-president of the Southern railway, m. Algie Ware. All are buried in Oakwood cemetery, Montgomery. Last residence: Montgomery.

HARDY, CLAUD, principal of the Wilcox County high school, 1913. Residence: Camden.

HARE, CHARLES WOODROPH, publisher and editor, was born September 20, 1857, at Fatama, near Camden, Wilcox County; son of Rev. Charles Woodrogh and Miranda (Crumpton) Hare, the former a native of Philadelphia, of English ancestry, for forty years a Baptist minister in Wilcox, Monroe and Dallas Counties, clerk of Pine Barron Baptist association for twenty-five years, and the latter the daughter of Dr. Henry Crumpton, a native of South Carolina who removed to Wilcox County, where he edited a newspaper in Camden, and also practiced medicine, living to the ripe age of ninety years, and a sister of Dr. W. B. Crumpton (q. v.). Mr. Hare received his early instruction in the schools of Wilcox County, and in Mountain View academy, in Morgan County, taught by Rev. Josephus Shackelford, who later became his father-in-law. He spent two years in Howard college during the presidency of Col. James T. Murfee. He read law, entered the Baptist ministry in 1892 and continued in that work for ten years when ill health compelled him to engage in other fields of labor. At various times he edited the "Tuscumbia Democrat," the "Home Ruler" and the "Alabama Baptist," "Chilton View" and the "Tuskegee News." In 1893 he began the practice of law in Clanton, after which he removed to Tuskegee where he has since resided. In 1892 he was solicitor of Chilton; 1896-97 a member of the city council of Tuskegee; and since 1877 a county member of the board of trustees of the Tuskegee normal and industrial institute, and a member of its executive committee. He has been a consistent advocate of prohibition, is a Democrat; a Mason, and a Knight of Pythias. Married: November 19, 1882, at Trinity, Morgan County, to Sarah Elizabeth, daughter of Rev. Josephus and Cordelia (Stowe) Shackelford, (q. v.). Children: 1. Charles Edward, living in Richmond, Va.; 2. Annie Louise; 3. Lizzie Mae; 4. Richard Shackelford; 5. William Crumpton. Residence: Tuskegee.

HARE, CLIFFORD LE ROY, professor of physical and physiological chemistry, Alabama polytechnic institute, Auburn; graduate of that institution, 1891, with the M. S. degree, and in 1892, the M. A. degree.

HARE, FRANCIS W., lawyer, was born April 11, 1878, at Oakbowery, Chambers County; son of Joseph S. and Susan A. (Bullard) Hare, the former a native of Twiggs County, Ga., was teaching in Dale County, Ala., when war was declared, returned to Georgia, enlisted in 11th Georgia infantry regiment, C. S. Army, lost right arm in battle of First Manassas, was tax collector in Lee County many years; grandson of Daniel and Susan (Mizelle) Bullard, of Oakbowery. He received his early education in the public schools of Auburn; graduated at Alabama polytechnic institute with degree of B. S. 1898; captain in Corps of Cadets, 1897-8; president of his class for four years; president Athletic advisory board, 1898; business manager foot ball team, business manager of Glomerata and was voted the most popular student; LL. B., University of Alabama, 1901, began the practice of law at once in Monroeville. He was first lieutenant, Co. L, Second Alabama volunteer infantry, April to November, 1898, when regiment was mustered out of the service. He is a Democrat; Methodist; Mason; and a member of the Sigma Nu college fraternity. Married: November 24, 1909, at Monroeville, to Mary, daughter of Nicholas J. and Rebecca (Burgess) Stallworth of that place, the former was a Confederate soldier, twice elected probate judge of Monroe County. Children: 1. Nicholas S. Residence: Monroeville.

HARGRAVE, WILLIAM, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 75, and a resident of Marengo County; ensign N. C. Continental Line; enrolled on January 25, 1818, under act of Congress of March 18, 1818, payment to date from June 15, 1818; annual allowance, $240; sums received to date of publication of list, $501.32. —Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34.

HARGROVE, ANDREW COLEMAN, lawyer, was born December 18, 1837, in Tuscaloosa County, and died December 6, 1895, at Tuscaloosa; son of John and Martha (Hinton) Hargrove, the former a native of Georgia, the latter of North Carolina, both of English descent; grandson of Rev. Dudley and Mary Elizabeth Hargrove, early settlers in Pickens County, who moved from there to Tuscaloosa. He obtained his preparatory schooling at the academy of Jacob Baker, at Jonesboro, Jefferson County, and was graduated from the University of Alabama, B. A., 1856. He read law under Judge E. W. Peck in Tuscaloosa, entered the Cumberland law school, Lebanon, Tenn., 1858, and the Harvard law school, Cambridge, Mass., from which latter institution he was graduated LL. B., 1859. He began to practice law in Tuscaloosa, 1860; enlisted in the Warrior Guards, under R. E. Rodes, afterwards a general in the C. S. Army; served with that company for a year; was promoted to lieutenant in Lumsden's battery; and served all through the war in the western army under Bragg, Johnston, Hardee, and Hood. After the war, he resumed the practice of law in Tuscaloosa, forming partnerships, at different times, with Philip A. Fitts, B. B. Lewis, and Adrian S. Van de Graaff. He was a member of the State constitutional convention of 1875; was elected State senator, 1876-1880, and re-elected 1880-1884; was elected to the house of representatives, 1884-1885; was returned to the senate, and chosen president of that body, 1888-1892. Together with Dr. E. A. Smith and Hon. I. Burns Moore, Prof. Hargrove was appointed by Gov. O'Neal to select the forty-six thousand eighty acres of land granted by the act of congress, April 24, 1884, for the benefit of the University of Alabama. He was elected land commissioner of the University of Alabama, 1885-1895; and was elected professor of law in that university, in 1888, which position he was filling at the time of his death. In 1890 he was appointed trustee of the Alabama State asylum, and in 1892 was elected president of the Alabama State bar association. He was a Democrat, a steward in the Presbyterian church for more than twenty-five years, and past dictator in the Knights of Honor. Married: December 5, 1865, at Tuscaloosa, to Cherokee Mims, daughter of Robert and Priscilla Cherokee (Taylor) Jemison, who lived at Tuscaloosa, the former, born in Lincoln County, Ga., came with his father from Twiggs County, Ga., to Tuscaloosa, a lawyer, who was distinguished in Alabama history as a legislator and member of the senate of the C. S. A.; granddaughter of William and Sarah (Mims) Jemison, first cousins, natives of Lincoln County, Ga., who moved to Twiggs County where they owned large tracts of land, then came to Alabama and settled on a plantation on Black Warrior River, where they are buried, the estate being yet in the possession of their descendants, and of Greenberry and Elizabeth (Van Meter) Taylor, who lived at Linden; great-granddaughter of Robert and Margaret (Kirkham) Jemison, both of Scotch-Irish parentage, the former of whom was born on a farm near Philadelphia, Pa., moved to Lincoln County, Ga., where he was married, then moved to Twiggs County, where he spent the remainder of his life; great-great-granddaughter of Robert and Sarah Jemison, who were Scotch-Irish and came to America some time before the Revolutionary War, settled on a farm in Pennsylvania, near Philadelphia, then followed two of their sons to North Carolina, and died in that state. Children: 1. Minnie Cherokee, m. Adrian S. Van de Graaff (q. v.), Tuscaloosa; 2. Robert, physician, b. August 3, 1874, d. August 30, 1909, was graduated from the University of Alabama, B. L., LL. B., 1896, and from the medical college at Mobile, M. D., 1891, practiced law for a few years, then practiced medicine, m. Amelia Louise Brown, last residence, Tuscaloosa. Last residence: Tuscaloosa.

HARGROVE, LEMUEL, major and later lieutenant colonel, 39th Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army.

HARGROVE, ROBERT KENNON, bishop, Methodist Episcopal church, South, was born September 17, 1829, in Pickens County, and died in 1905; son of Daniel Jones and Laodicea (Brantley) Hargrove. He entered the sophomore class of the University of Alabama, in October, 1849, and was graduated with second honors, A. B., 1852, delivering the salutatory address in Latin, and A. M., 1855. He was instructor in mathematics, 1852-1853, at the University of Alabama; succeeded Prof. Benagh as professor of mathematics in 1853; and was associate professor of mathematics, 1854-1857. He was licensed as a Methodist minister in 1857, and was pastor of churches at Columbus, Miss., Mobile, Lexington, Ky., and Nashville, Tenn., 1857-1865; was president of the Centenary institute, Summerfield, 1865-1867; was president of the Tennessee female college, Franklin, Tenn., 1868-1873; and preached on stations, 1873-1882. He served as chaplain in the C. S. Army during the War of Secession. The degree of doctor of divinity was conferred upon him by Emory college, Oxford, Ga., in 1872. He was elected bishop of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, in 1882; was a member of the Cape May commission which met in 1876 for the purpose of settling the differences between the Methodist churches, north and south; and was a member of the committee on federation in 1898. He served as secretary of the college of bishops, 1884-1900; succeeded Bishop McTyeire as president of the board of trustees of Vanderbilt university, May, 1889; and was president of the board of management of the Epworth league of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, 1894-1898. He was the first to urge the adoption of the bond scheme that saved the book concern of the Methodist church, at Nashville, from bankruptcy, and was originator of the department of women's work to secure comfortable homes for the clergymen of the church, forced by the itinerant system to make frequent changes of residence. Married: (1) November 10, 1852, at Tuscaloosa, to Harriet Cornelia, daughter of David Scott, a cotton manufacturer of Tuscaloosa; (2) June 20, 1895, in Kansas City, Mo., to Ruth Eliza Scarritt, of Missouri. Last residence: Nashville, Tenn.

HARKNESS, ROBERT, planter, was born on December 5, 1813; son of William and Anna R. (Baskin) Harkness, the former a native of County Tyrone, Ireland, who emigrated to America when a small boy, and removed to Greene County in 1827, the latter a native of Abbeville District, S. C.; grandson of Robert Harkness, a Scotch-Irishman, native of County Tyrone, Ireland, who emigrated to America, settling first in Pennsylvania, later in North Carolina and finally in South Carolina, a planter and soldier of the Revolution. Mr. Harkness was educated in the common schools. He spent almost his entire life on his farm in Greene County. He served as tax collector, justice of the peace, and during the War of Secession as colonel of the county home guards at Clinton. He was a Presbyterian. Married: in 1858, to Civille A., daughter of Calvin J. Gulley, of North Carolina who removed to Alabama in 1832, settling in Greensboro. Children: 1. Mary E., m. William G. Hix; 2. Annie B.; 3. Civille; 4. Robert B.; 5. William C.; 6. Eva. Last residence: Greene County.

HARMAN, ARTHUR FORT, teacher, was born August 10, 1875, at Lexington, Lexington County, S. C.; son of Marion DeKalb and Ellen Scotto (Rawl) Harman, the former of Lexington, the latter of Batesburg; grandson of Capt. Reuben and Louisa (Rauch) Harman of Lexington, and of David and Sarah Emeline (Corley) Rawl of Batesburg. He received early education in public and private schools of Lexington; graduated, 1896, from the Peabody college for teachers; student at University of Nashville, 1896-1897; taught in rural schools in South Carolina, 1893, 1897, 1898; rural schools in Tennessee 1898; assistant principal and teacher of English and Latin in Brewton, 1898 to 1901; principal Centerville high school, 1901-1902; superintendent New Decatur public schools, 1902-1904 and 1906-1908; superintendent Florence public schools, 1904-1906; superintendent public schools Selma, 1908-20; appointed superintendent of education, Montgomery County, June 15, 1920. Joint author, "Code of Ethics of Alabama educational association" adopted by that body 1909; author: of the following papers and addresses: "The professional teacher;" "The functions of the school;" "The child in the midst;" "The mission of the teacher;" "Discipline;" "My philosophy of life;" "Fishers of men;" "Robert E. Lee, An address on the 106th anniversary of his Birth;" "The relation of the superintendent to his teachers;" "Standardizing results of teaching;" "The relation of professional spirit to teaching; efficiency;" "The relation of the school to the child;" "Some local educational needs;" "Local taxation;" address as president Alabama Educational Association, 1911. He is a Democrat; a Presbyterian; Woodman of the World; Knight of Pythias; and was president of the Alabama educational association, 1911. Married: December 24, 1900, in Montgomery, to Anna Rebecca, daughter of John Bosworth and Jane Maysey (Mathews) Fuller, of Montgomery (q. v.). Children: 1. John Fuller; 2. Arthur Fort, jr.; 3. Marion DeKalb, jr. Residence: Montgomery.

HARMON, ROBERT L., lawyer, president of the Prattville cotton mills, was born August 29, 1865, in Butler, Ga., and died February 2, 1914, in Montgomery; son of John Fletcher and Nancy Bateman Harmon, who moved to Bullock County, near Union Springs, in his infancy, and later settled in Orion, Pike County, where he received his early education in the county schools. Later he attended the University of Alabama, completing only the sophomore and junior years, 1887-89; entered the law department, graduating in 1891. He located at Troy, where he practiced for several years; moved to Montgomery and was associated in the practice with John D. Roquemore and Joseph M. White; later he became the senior partner in the firm of Harmon, Dent and Weil. In 1901, he was appointed president of the Prattville cotton mills; holding this position until his death. He was a Democrat; Mason; and a Baptist. Married: January 9, 1901, in Montgomery, to Mary, daughter of Barry L., and Louise (Noble) Holt (q. v.). Children: 1. Barry Holt; 2. Robert Lee. Last residence: Montgomery.

HAROLD, ANDREW, lumberman and merchant, was born in October, 1851, in Germany, and died September 13, 1893, at Brewton; son of Henry and Dora Harold, farmer, natives of Germany, who migrated to Escambia County in 1853. He was only two years of age when brought by his parents to Alabama, and his education was secured in Brewton. He entered the timber business when nineteen years of age, and later made a mercantile connection with his brothers. The firm became known as the Harold mill company, of which G. C. Harold was president, and its activities included the manufacture of yellow pine lumber and timber, pine and cypress shingles, and deals in all kinds of merchandise demanded by the general trade. Married: October 6, 1874, to Malinda Oliver, daughter of Miles Hawkins of Pike County. Children: 1. William A.; 2. Lenna D.; 3. Walter H.; 4. Charles Louis (q. v.); 5. George O.; 6. Leona D.; 7. Ralph M. Last residence: Brewton.

HAROLD, CHARLES LOUIS, secretary and manager Birmingham civic association, was born January 1, 1882, at Brewton, Escambia County; son of Andrew and Malinda (Hawkins) Harold (q. v.). He attended the Brewton collegiate institute from which graduated in 1898; entered the Alabama polytechnic institute, and graduated, 1900, with the degrees of B. S. and M. S. For several years he did reportorial and staff work for the "Montgomery Advertiser"; read law, and began the practice in Montgomery, 1910; organized the Montgomery savings bank in February, 1912, of which he became president; president Alabama Polytechnic institute alumni association, 1910-12. He removed to Birmingham and is now secretary and manager of the Birmingham civic association of that city. He is a Democrat; Methodist; and Knight of Pythias. Married: January 23, 1910, at Brewton, Ethel, daughter of E. D. and Esther E. Downing, of that place. Children: 1. Charles Louis, jr. Residence: Birmingham.

HARPER, JUDGE COMMODORE, teacher, was born March 3, 1875, near Columbiana, Shelby County; son of Judge Doctor Franklin and Elizabeth (Henderson) Harper, the former who was a member of Co. E, Twenty-ninth Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army, was a planter, and died in Shelby county, June 2, 1914; grandson of William and Betty (Blackerby) Harper of North and South Carolina, and of Pleasant J. Henderson of Georgia. Senator Harper was educated in the rural schools of Shelby County, at the Thorsby normal school, B. S., and at the Chappell normal school. He is a school teacher, having taught from 1897 to the present time. All his experience has been in Shelby County. He was a justice of the peace in beat eight for twelve years, and was elected State senator from the fifteenth district, 1919. He is a Republican and a Methodist. Married: to Nancy Elizabeth, daughter of Robert Wilson and Dorothy Matilda (Blackerby) Walton, of Shelby county. Children: 1. Hettie May; 2. Clyde; 3. Roy; 4. Homer; 5. Madeline. Residence: Columbiana.

HARPER, PHILEMON O., circuit judge, 1868, appointed by Gov. William H. Smith, vice, B. F. Porter, deceased.

HARPER, THOMAS, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 76 and a resident of Pickens County; private Pennsylvania Continental Line; enrolled on July 30, 1834, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $20.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34.

HARPER, WILLIAM WADE, physician, was born February 26, 1868, at Richmond, Dallas County; son of William B. and Georgia (Wade) Harper, who lived in Richmond, the former of whom was a native of Kentucky, and was a colonel in the C. S. Army; grandson of Isaac Harper, and of William Todd and Harriet Wade of Richmond, Dallas County. He received his early schooling at Richmond, from Miss Mary Patton; at Carlowville, from A. P. McArthur; and at Selma, from Prof. D. M. Calloway; was graduated from the University of Alabama,

A. B., June, 1887, and A. M., 1891; and from Tulane university, M. D., 1891. He has been a practicing physician at Selma since 1891. During the European War, he was a captain in the medical corps, with Base Hospital No. 57, in France, from July, 1918, to January 22, 1919. He has been health officer of Dallas County; is surgeon on the Southern railway, the Louisville and Nashville railway, and the Western of Alabama railway; is president of the Dallas county medical society; was formerly president of the southern association of surgeons; is councillor of the Medical association of the State of Alabama; a member of the Southern medical association and of the American medical association. He is a Democrat; an elder in the Presbyterian church; and a Knight Templar. Married: November 20, 1895, at New Orleans, to Rosa, daughter of William and Wilhelmina Frantz, who lived at New Orleans. Children: 1. William F., a medical student at Harvard university; 2. Henrietta, a student at the New England conservatory of music; 3. Kenneth, a student of Selma high school; 4. Georgia, a student of Selma high school. Residence: Selma.

HARRELL, LOUIS, planter, was born August 12, 1821, in Darlington District, S. C.; son of Louis and Melissa W. (Hill) Harrell, the former a native of Marion District, S. C., was a planter and served in the War of 1812, the latter after the death of her husband became the wife of John Cody, and lived in Pike and Crenshaw Counties; grandson of Louis Harrell, a native of France who settled in Marion District, S. C., where he owned the historic tract of land spoken of as "Briton Neck," and served throughout the Revolutionary War under General Marion. Louis Harrell removed with his mother at an early age to Pike County. He received a limited education and shortly after reaching his majority engaged in agricultural pursuits in Pike County. In 1852 he removed to Montgomery where he became a clerk in the mercantile establishment of J. and H. Weil and co. In 1852 he moved to Rutledge remaining here until 1886 when he began farming nine miles from Greenville. He then located in Greenville where for twenty years he clerked and in 1886 he moved to his plantation near Greenville where he has since resided. He served four years as mayor of Greenville and in 1888 was elected as representative from Butler County to the State legislature. In March, 1862, he entered the C. S. Army as a member of Co. A, 3rd battalion, Hilliard's legion, was promoted second lieutenant and in 1863, was elected captain. In 1864 he was discharged on account of ill health. He is a Methodist; Democrat; and a Mason. Married: in November, 1842, to Matilda A. Wyrnsdick. Children: 1. Melissa W., m. J. E. Faison; 2. John D.; 3. Delila J., m. E. M. Kirk. There are also five deceased children. Residence: Butler County.

HARRELL, WILLIAM V., major in Lewis' battalion, Alabama cavalry regiment. C. S. Army.

HARRINGTON, GEORGE F., speaker of the Alabama house of representatives, 1868, 1869-70; appointed by the governor as mayor of Mobile, 1870. Residence: Mobile.

HARRINGTON, PINKNEY C., major and later lieutenant colonel, 14th Confederate cavalry regiment, C. S. Army.

HARRIS, BUCKNER, planter, was born April 20, 1799, in Lincoln County, Ga., and died January 17, 1888; son of Joseph and Olivia (Bennett) Harris, the former settling in Autauga County, in 1818, where he soon acquired considerable property becoming a leading citizen and mill owner; grandson of Joseph Harris and wife, a Miss Neely, the former the first of the branch in America, came in 1730 to Poughkeepsie, N. Y., from Westcote Grange, Leicestershire, England, where he showed himself a very public spirited citizen, and became a large land owner. Mr. Harris was educated in private schools in his native state, and came in 1818, with his parents, to Autauga County, Ala., settling at Robinson Springs, where the family has since resided. He was a planter, owning many slaves. He also owned a fine mill. He was a Whig, but became a Democrat after the close of the War of Secession; a Mason; and an Episcopalian. Married: in 1841, at Robinson Springs, to Sarah Marian, daughter of Archibald and Mary (Robertson) McKiethen (q. v.). Children: Virginia Anne, dec. m., Mr. Hawes, of Coosa County; 2. Samuel Smith, dec., m. Mary Gindrat Pickett; 3. Joseph Archibald (q. v.); 4. Laura Olivia, m. Mr. Reid of Lowndes County. Last residence: Robinson Springs.

HARRIS, CHARLES HOOKS, physician, was born February 22, 1835, at Tuskegee; son of Peter Coffee and Narcissa Ann (Hooks) Harris, the former born in Georgia, attended the University of Georgia, 1825-26, removed to Alabama and was buried on a plantation at Picketts' Springs, near Montgomery; grandson of William and Sarah (Coffee) Harris (q. v.), and of Charles and Ann (Hunter) Hooks (q. v.). Dr. Harris received his early education at Tuskegee and a preparatory school at Chun-nugge Ridge; entered the University of Alabama, 1853-54, but withdrew from the University in his sophomore year with forty other boys, including Hilary A. Hebert, this incident being known as the "Doby Rebellion." He returned to Tuskegee and took up the study of medicine with Dr. Egbert Johnson; attended the medical department of the University of New York, 1855-57, graduating cum summa laude, at the same time being given a certificate of special proficiency and was made assistant demonstrator of anatomy by Dr. Aylett. After graduation he decided to locate in Magnolia, N. C.; spent three years there in the practice of his profession; removed to Montgomery but had hardly settled when the War of Secession broke forth. He entered the C. S. Army as assistant surgeon, 60th Virginia infantry regiment, was captured at the battle of Cedar Creek; paroled February 1865; and was with his family who had removed from Montgomery to Tuskegee, when the war closed. In the early autumn, after having gathered his crops, he removed with his family to Kingston, Ga., the home of his brother. Here he again took up the practice of medicine, but soon, 1866, removed to Cedartown, a better field for his profession, where he remained until forced by age to retire. Married: June 18, 1857, at Magnolia, N. C., to Margaret Ann, his fourth cousin, daughter of James B. B. and Ann Copeland (Maxwell) Monk, of the same place. Children: 1. James; 2. Narcissa Ann; 3. Margaret Praire; 4. Peter Charles; 5. William Julius; 6. Seale; (q. v.); 7. Mary Adela; 8. Hunter; 9. Elizabeth. Last residence: Cedar-town, Ga.

HARRIS, CHRISTOPHER COLUMBUS, lawyer, was born January 28, 1842, in Lawrence County; son of William H. and Nancy L. (Stovall) Harris, the former a native of Grainger County, Tenn., born in 1806, who moved to Lawrence County in early life, was married there, moved to Decatur in 1875, and died there June 28, 1884; grandson of Dr. William Stovall, of Lawrence County. He received his early schooling from a private instructor in his home. In 1861, he enlisted in the C. S. Army as a private, joining Co. F, Sixteenth Alabama infantry regiment. He was promoted to lieutenant, and was wounded at the battles of Shiloh, Chickamauga, Jonesboro, and Franklin, and from the effect of the wound received at the latter place, was confined four months in a private house in Franklin. He was afterward captured and spent some time in prison at Camp Chase. After the war, he studied law, and was admitted to the bar in 1866 in Lawrence County. He filled the offices of clerk of the circuit court and solicitor of Lawrence County, and in 1872 moved to Decatur, where he has continued to reside. He practices law in connection with his various business interests. In 1881, in connection with three other gentlemen, he established the Bank of Decatur, which has since become the First national bank with Mr. Harris as its president. He was chosen attorney of the Decatur land, improvement and furnace company upon the organization of the company, and in his law practice is associated with Robert C. Brickell, formerly chief justice of Alabama. Married: February 14, 1869, to Julia C., daughter of M. Wert, of Moulton, Lawrence County. They have had seven children, of whom five are living. One son, William Wert, b. October 27, 1870, is a lawyer at Montgomery and private secretary of the supreme court of Alabama. Residence: Decatur.

HARRIS, EDWARD KERSY, editor, author and poet, was born February 15, 1830, at Madisonville, Monroe County, Tenn., and died in Mobile, November 15, 1859; son of George and Matilda T. (Roper) Harris, the former a native of Warren, Tenn., later residing at McMinn, where he practiced law; grandson of Jesse and Matilda T. Harris, of Jefferson County, Tenn., and of Joseph and Mary Roper of Dandridge, Tenn., and later of Columbiana. His education was received from his father and private tutors; and he read law but never practiced. In politics he was first a Whig, and later a Democrat; and he was without church connection. As editorial and literary writer on the "Mobile Tribune" he made a place for himself in the journalism of the State. He was also a frequent contributor to magazines and periodicals. Some of his poems are included in a volume entitled "Poems," by Mrs. Mary Ware, published in 1911. He never married. Last residence: Mobile.

HARRIS, GEORGE A., educator; superintendent of the city schools of Brewton, 1913. Residence: Brewton.

HARRIS, GEORGE M., physician, planter and cotton manufacturer, was born July 11, 1820, in Madison County; son of Frank E. and Mahala (Isbell) Harris, natives of Virginia, the latter born in Appomattox County in 1800, and came to Alabama when nine years of age, his parents settling four miles north of Huntsville, removing later to Jackson County; grandson of Richard Harris, a captain in the Continental Army, who served with General Washington during the Revolutionary struggles, removed to Alabama and died in Huntsville, aged ninety-four. Dr. Harris was brought up on his father's farm and received the exceptionally good educational advantages afforded at Huntsville at that time. He read medicine under his uncle, Dr. George R. Wharton, and graduated from the Louisville medical college, Louisville, Ky., in 1842. He located at Bellefonte, Jackson County, where he entered upon the practice of his profession. Having a liking for agricultural life he began to acquire land, and soon owned extensive planting interests, both in Alabama and Arkansas, together with slaves and equipment to properly conduct the business. He established a tannery, opened a mercantile business and manufactured leather goods for local consumption. In 1857 he returned to Madison County, and assisted in the industrial affairs of Huntsville. He was president of the first cotton factories established there after the war, and was organizer and director in the electric light company of that city. His last commercial activity was the hardware business. Last residence: Huntsville.

HARRIS, GEORGE W., merchant, was born in December, 1854, in Knoxville, Tenn. He located in Birmingham, 1871, and was appointed foreman of the Louisville and Nashville paint shops. In 1883, he opened a paint and wall-paper store in which he has been successful. In 1887, he was elected a director of the Jefferson County savings bank. Married: in 1878, to Ella, daughter of John and Charlotte Evans, of La Grange, Ga. Children: 1. Hallon M.; 2. Fay; 3. Roscoe; 4. Glenn. Residence: Birmingham.

HARRIS, HENRY, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 76, and a resident of Madison County; private Virginia Continental Line; enrolled on March 17, 1819, under act of Congress of March 18, 1818, payment to date from May 22, 1818; annual allowance, $96; sums received to date of publication of list, $1,467.64; transferred from Frederick County, Virginia, from September 4, 1823.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34. The following interesting sketch will give further personal details:

"ANOTHER REVOLUTIONARY WORTHY GONE!

"Departed this life on the evening of the 22d instant, at the residence of his son in this place, Mr. Henry Harris, in the 75th year of his age. Mr. Harris was a native of Richmond County, Va., and at a very early period of the Revolution enlisted at Fredericksburg (Va.) in Col. Baylor's Regiment of Dragoons. From the time of his enlistment until the close of the war, he was actively engaged in the service of his country. In most of the important battles that were fought, he bore his share. He was present at the surrender of Burgoyne—at the battles of the Brandywine, the Cowpens, Camden, Guilford and Yorktown. From the time of his retirement from the army until his death, he had lived in the Western and Southwestern States; and throughout a long life sustained the reputation acquired in early youth. It was his glory to think that he had aided in freeing his country from oppression, and it was his fondest boast that he had served under the eye of his great commander Washington. When stretched upon the bed of weakness and old age he viewed his approaching end with the calmness and fortitude which characterized him when struggling in the deadly combat with the enemies of his country. For some time previous to his death, his mind seemed to dwell upon the incidents of his early life—and it was truly affecting to listen to the old man, and hear him accounting the battles of his youth.

"Shoulder the crutch and show how fields were won.

"It was his dying request that he should be buried with military honors; and accordingly when it was announced that he had ceased to live, the 'Huntsville Guards' proceeded to make arrangements for his interment. On yesterday at half past 10, the Guards reached his late residence, and as the procession moved from the house, the Artillery Company under the direction of their public spirited commander Capt. Lynes commenced firing minute guns. Thirteen rounds were fired by the time the procession reached the graveyard: here the usual military obsequies were performed by the Guards.

"Here we might pause; for surely it is enough to secure the regret of every American, by simply announcing that the deceased was a soldier of the Revolution; but justice to his memory requires of us to say, that as a man, he lived respected and died lamented by all who knew him."—Southern Advocate, Huntsville, Ala., Oct. 29, 1833, from the Star-Spangled Banner, Oct. 24, 1833.

HARRIS, JAMES C., physician, was born February 27, 1812, near Charlottesville, Albemarle County, Va.; son of James and Mary (McCulloch) Harris, the former of whom came to this country from Wales at an early date, the latter whose ancestors came from the neighborhood of Loch Lomond, Scotland; great-grandson of John McCulloch, who came to Virginia from Scotland, and lies buried in the family graveyard, in Albemarle County, Va. Dr. McCulloch, of the University of London, is believed to have been a grandson of John McCulloch. Mr. Harris was related to Hon. William H. Crawford, of Georgia; Dr. William Harris, of North Carolina; Hon. Thomas McCulloch, of Abingdon, Ia., and of the Jewetts and Hadens, of Kentucky, Virginia and Missouri. He obtained his early education in the common schools of the district, and was for some time under the instruction of Mason Fizzle, later president of the University of St. Louis. Before he was seventeen years of age, his father died, and in February 1829, in company with his mother and his brother, Dr. Nathan Harris, he left Virginia for Monroe County, Tenn. He began the study of medicine under his brother, and attended a course of medical lectures in the University of Lexington, Kentucky, 1830-1831. He practiced medicine at Madisonville, Tenn., until 1834, then moved to Alabama, settling at Mount Meigs, Montgomery County. Some time later he proceeded to Selma, where after an examination by the state board, he obtained a license to practice the different branches of his profession throughout the state. Immediately after his examination, he commenced practice in Wetumpka, in association with Dr. H. A. Caldwell, and continued in that association until 1835, when he attended another course of lectures in Transylvania University, and was graduated, M. D. Failing health necessitated the dissolution of his partnership. Late in the fall of 1836, he was engaged in the medical department of the U. S. Army, and continued there, under contracts made with Drs. Hitchcock, Satterlee, Lawson, and Meyer, and Gen. Winfield Scott, until the removal of the Cherokees in 1838. He located at Cedar Bluff, Cherokee County, until 1845, when he returned to Wetumpka. In 1838, Dr. Harris was elected a fellow of the South Alabama medical society, and in 1847, was admitted to the ad eundem degree in the medical department of the University of Louisville. He contributed to various medical journals of the time, and was twice a delegate to the National medical association, serving once as one of its vice-presidents. In 1849, Dr. Harris attended medical lectures in the University of Louisiana at New Orleans, and the following year, attended the Medical college of Georgia. Married: July 29, 1839, at Cedar Bluff, to Mrs. Dorcas M. Barker, daughter of Col. John Lowry, of Cherokee County, by whom he had one child, a son. Last residence: Wetumpka.

PRELATE D. BARKER

HARRIS, JAMES P., farmer, probate judge, justice of peace, and soldier, was born April 4, 1844, in Huntsville; son of Richard Harris, a native of Fredericksburg, Va.; grandson of Richard Harris, a Revolutionary soldier. He was educated at Irvine college, Tenn.; entered the C. S. Army as a member of Co. K, 4th Alabama infantry regiment, served until August, 1862, when he was discharged as being under age; later joined the 4th Tennessee cavalry, under General Forrest and served throughout the remainder of the war, being in the battles of first Manassas, Jamestown, Seven Pines, with Jackson in his fight with Banks, Shields, and McDowell; the seven days fight around Richmond; in Forrest's raid through west Tennessee, in which there was a fight every day for a month; second Ft. Donelson; Thompson's Station; Rome, Ga.; Tullahoma; Chickamauga; fifty skirmishes in east Tennessee, 1863-64; Dalton, Ga.; Resaca; Tunnell Hill; Kenesaw Mountain; Peachtree Creek; Atlanta; Franklin. He was wounded five times but never seriously at any time. After the war he engaged in farming until 1887, when he removed to Scottsboro; appointed probate judge to fill an unexpired term; served ten years as justice of the peace in Jackson County. He was also proprietor of the Harris hotel, Scottsboro. He is an Odd Fellow; Knight of Honor; and a Methodist. Married: October 31, 1866, to Matilda J., daughter of A. P. Robinson of Larkinsville. Children: 1. William E.; 2. Anna; 3. Mary S.; 4. James P., jr. Residence: Scottsboro.

HARRIS, JOHN GIDEON, lawyer, was born March 1, 1834, near Greensboro, and died July 7, 1908, at Montgomery; son of Page and Mary (Williams) Harris, the former born near Raleigh, N. C., who came with relatives to Alabama in 1818, and devoted his life to farming; grandson of John and Nancy Harris, who lived north of Greensboro, and of David and Martha Williams, who lived near Green Springs. Mr. Harris is of English and Welsh descent, and had ancestors in the Revolutionary War. He received his education in the private schools of Greene County, completing a literary course in the Green Springs school, under Dr. Henry Tutwiler and Dr. Carlos G. Smith; and was graduated from Cumberland university, Lebanon, Tenn., LL. B., May, 1858. He at once located in Greensboro for the practice of law, and at the outbreak of the War of Secession, was a law partner of Judge Thomas W. Coleman, sr. He had in 1856 been elected a justice of the peace. On January 15, 1861, he was sent to Fort Morgan as a private in the Greensboro light artillery guards, but after a service of a few months, returned home and raised a company of which he became captain. This company was attached to the Twentieth Alabama infantry regiment, September 16, 1861. In 1863, he was promoted to major, and served in that rank until the end of the war. After peace was established, he resumed the practice of law; was appointed register of the land office at Montgomery by President Cleveland in 1885; was elected State superintendent of education in 1890; re-elected in 1892; was elected a member of the State railroad commission, with Charles Henderson, 1906. While at the head of the educational interests of the state, he did much to arouse public opinion to the needs and importance of better schools and larger appropriations. He instituted a series of popular educational rallies, and delivered many speeches and lectures on educational, religious, and Masonic topics, which he had compiled for publication. He was active as a Mason for forty years, and served as grand master of the grand lodge, and grand high priest of the grand chapter. He was a Democrat; was an unsuccessful candidate for congress against Charles Hayes, Republican, in 1870; and was on the electoral ticket in the Tilden, Hancock and Cleveland presidential campaigns. He was a Missionary Baptist, and was president of the International Sunday school convention, 1900-1903. Married: January 3, 1861, near Sumterville, to Mary Jane, daughter of John Evander and Mary Jane Brown, who came to Alabama from South Carolina. Children: 1. Mary Julia, m. S. G., Dawson, children, Harris P., Annie Maria, Clarence B.; 2. Annie Brown, m. Dr. James T. Rushing. Last residence: Montgomery.

HARRIS, JOHN JAMES, Episcopal clergyman, lawyer and planter, was born in Tuscaloosa, June 10, 1837, son of Richard Norfleet and Amanda (Banks) Harris, (q. v.), and brother of Norfleet Harris (q. v.). He was educated in the schools of Tuscaloosa; graduated from the University of Alabama, A. B., 1857, A. M., 1859; and the degree of LL. B. was conferred upon him by the Cumberland university of Tennessee. He began the practice of law in Tuscaloosa 1860, at the same time managing his plantation in Marengo County. He joined the C. S. Army, 1861, as orderly sergeant, with the "Warrior Guards," later becoming lieutenant in the same company. He was transferred, 1862, to the mining bureau, and placed in charge of the manufacturing of saltpetre. After the war he became a merchant of Tuscaloosa, was editor and proprietor of the "Independent Monitor" and continued as a planter in Marengo County. He was mayor of Tuscaloosa 1874-75-76; was appointed by the governor clerk of the circuit court of Tuscaloosa, 1874, and elected by the people to fill the same office, 1880. He resigned from this office March 1882, and the following June was elected quartermaster of the University of Alabama. He was appointed a deacon in the Protestant Episcopal church, 1885, and later ordained a minister, serving at Faunsdale. Married: December 18, 1861, to Margaret Louisa, daughter of John and Virginia Wilmonia (Aylette) Fitts (q. v.) Children: 1. Richard Norfleet, m. Anna Watts Winslet; 2. John James, m. Lillie, daughter of Mr. E. H. Purifoy, of Furman; graduate of the University of Alabama, A. B., 1886; University of New York, M. D., 1889; physician; d. May 25, 1897. 3. Virginia Aylette, m. George Cousson; 4. Amanda Banks, d. young; 5. Lucy Perine, d. in infancy; 6. Margaret Gardner, d. in infancy; 7. Cornelia, d. young; 8. William Fitts, unm. Residence: Faunsdale.

HARRIS, JOHN RICHARD, farmer and sheriff, was born May 5, 1841, near Huntsville; son of Richard B. and A. H. (Clopton) Harris of Virginia, and brother of James P. Harris (q. v.). He was reared on the farm and was educated in Irvin college; enlisted in the Confederate Army, in Capt. Hal Bradford's company; went to Ft. Morgan and his company was attached to the 2nd Alabama regiment; after ten months was transferred to Ft. Pillow and soon after was discharged. While on his way home he joined an Alabama regiment and took part in the battle of Corinth. In a short while he again entered the army, a member of Co. K, Forrest's old cavalry brigade; was in Braggs' Kentucky campaign; in Kirby Smith's command; engaged at Richmond, Perryville, the second battle of Ft. Donelson, Parker's Cross Roads, Huntington, Lexington, and Dresden, his brigade at this time capturing General Fry's command, the battle of Thompson Station, Knoxville, Chickamauga, Resaca, and the Atlanta campaigns; with Gen. Joseph Wheeler during the winter of 1863-64; on detached duty as a secret scout in which he and his companions performed a number of hazardous feats for their cause. While slightly wounded several times he was never disabled for service. After the war he engaged in farming, and has been sheriff of Madison County. He is a Mason; Knight of Honor; Methodist; and a Democrat. Married: (1) in 1869, to Mollie F. Winbourn, of West Tennessee; (2) in 1874, to Marie W., daughter of LaFayette and Agnes (Jones) Kinkle, of Huntsville. Children: by the first wife, 1. Mollie F.; by the second wife, 2. Robert K.; 3. John R.; 4. Fanny T.; 5. Emma P.; 6. Jennie P.; 7. Maria W.; 8. Lula G.; 9. George W. Residence: Huntsville.

HARRIS, JOHN WYATTE, II, teacher; was born September 12, 1831, near Russellville, Franklin County, and died February 20, 1889, at that place; son of John Wyatte and Judith Eldridge (Cox) Harris, the former a native of Cedar Hill, Hanover County, Va., who came to Russellville in 1820 and taught a private classical school until 1856, receiving patronage from north Alabama and Mississippi; grandson of Overton and Barbara (Wyatte) Harris, who lived at "Plain Dealing" the ancestral seat on North Anna River, Caroline County, Va., and Captain Henry and Judith Cox, who lived in Prince Edward County, removing in 1809 to Madison County, and in 1819, to Russell's Valley, Franklin County, great-grandson of Overton and Ann (Wilson) Harris of Virginia; great-great-grandson of William and Temperance (Overton) Harris, the former born at "Cedar Hill" the ancestral seat on North Anna River, Hanover County, Va.; great-great-great-grandson of Major Robert and Mourning (Glenn) Harris who came to Virginia from England between 1650 and 1660. John Wyatte Harris, II, at the age of eight, entered his father's private school and at once began the study of Greek and Latin. He later attended school at Old LaGrange, of which Dr. R. H. Rives was president. At seventeen years of age he entered Centenary college, Jackson, La., and had among other teachers, Prof. A. B. Longstreet. He was valedictorian of his class, but owing to an outbreak of cholera school work was suspended in 1848, although he was later awarded his degree of M. A. At nineteen he accepted the position of tutor in the family of Col. William Dickson of Buzzard Roost, now Dickson Station, Colbert County; later he taught at Tuscumbia and afterwards became instructor in Wesleyan university, Florence.

Returning to the vicinity of his home he continued to conduct a private classical school at or near Russellville, until the War of Secession began. After the cessation of hostilities he resumed teaching until shortly before his death. During the period of his career as teacher which included almost forty years, a great number of the best men and women of Franklin and adjoining counties were among his pupils. He canvassed his county for Secession, organized a company of infantry with which he entered service, April, 1861, as lieutenant-colonel of the 16th Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army, and was wounded at the battle of Shiloh in which his regiment was engaged. He was the first county superintendent of education for Franklin County, but held no other civil office, although he participated constantly in the political activities of the Reconstruction period and the era of constructive progress that followed the local dominancy of affairs. For many years he was chairman of the congressional committee of the then eighth district and as such was closely associated with every Democratic representative elected during his time as well as other prominent political characters who were his contemporaries, including the governors and other state officials from the time of Gov. George S. Houston. He was a member of the State Democratic executive committee for years, and a strong candidate for State superintendent of education before the convention which nominated Hon. Solomon Palmer, and was also a candidate for probate judge in his county in the race which gave the victory to Amos L. Moody. His gift of fluent speech was valuable as a public debater as well as in his profession of teaching. He left many unpublished papers upon various subjects, but chiefly education. He was a Methodist; and a Knight of Pythias. Married: (1) to Margaret Catharine; (2) to her sister, Julia Franklin McCulloch, daughters of Capt. Elijah and Phoebe (Mop) McCulloch, of North Carolina and Franklin County, respectively; granddaughters of Rev. Thomas Mop, a native of Christian County, Ky., later of Franklin County; (3) to Clementine Wilson, daughter of Boyd and Mary Ann (Edwards) Wilson, the former a native of Newton Stewart, Scotland, the latter of Franklin County. Children: by the first marriage, 1. John Franklin, deceased; 2. Annie, m. John E. Isbell, formerly of Franklin County, later of Nashville; by second marriage, 3. John Wyatte, deceased; 4. Dr. E. M., m. Caledonia Wilson, of Russellville; 5. Mary Mop, m. Philip L. O'Reilly, of Russellville; 6. Edward C., m. Rachel Stockell, of Nashville, Tenn.; 7. Leyton Overton, deceased; 8. Richard Nelson, deceased; 9. Charles Gilson; 10 and 11, unnamed; by third marriage, 12. Clementina, deceased; 13. Boyce Wilson, deceased. Last residence: Russellville.

HARRIS, JOSEPH ARCHIBALD, author and teacher, was born March 9, 1845, at Prattville; son of Buckner and Sarah Marian (McKeithen) Harris (q. v.). He received his preparatory education in the private schools of Prattville. His course at the University of Alabama was interrupted by the War of Secession in which he served for four years as a private in the Montgomery "True Blues," C. S. Army. After the cessation of hostilities he devoted himself to writing and teaching. He is a Democrat; and an Episcopalian. Author: "Idylls of fancy." Beside the foregoing he has contributed regularly to many of the leading newspapers and periodicals in America. Married: May 12, 1872, to India, daughter of Charles Edward and Mary L. Crenshaw (q. v.). Children: 1. May; 2. Hugh, deceased; 3. India, deceased; 4. Joseph Archibald; 5. Samuel Smith; 6. Chiles. Residence: Robinson Springs.

HARRIS, JOSEPH HENRY, farmer, was born February 1, 1838, at LaGrange, Troup County; son of Edmund S. and Mary R. (Hamilton) Harris, of LaGrange, Ga., the former a Virginian. He received his education at LaGrange high school, at Brownwood institute, and at Beemore's select school for boys at Mt. Zion, Ga. He began to farm in January, 1858, near Oak Bowery, Chambers County; served as a private in the Thirty-seventh Alabama regiment, C. S. Army; was elected to the State legislature from Chambers County, 1890, 1891, 1894, 1895, 1900, and 1901; has been a member of the Alabama State agricultural society since its organization, and for two years general superintendent of the Alabama State fair, held under the auspices of that society; was twice elected president of the Chambers County agricultural society; was a member of the National farmers' congress held in Chicago, November, 1887; a delegate to the National farmers' alliance, Meridian, Miss., December, 1888, and St. Louis, Mo., December, 1890; held the office of commissioner of agriculture with Hon. R. F. Kolb for two years; served for many years as lecturer for the Alabama State alliance; is a Democrat; a Methodist, serving the church twice as a delegate to the general conference. Married: April 21, 1859, in Autauga County, to Cornelia Josephine Houser. Residence: Oak Bowery.

HARRIS, NORFLEET, planter, was born in Hale, then Marengo County, December 5, 1848; son of Richard Norfleet and Amanda (Banks) Harris (q. v.), and brother of John James Harris (q. v.). He attended the University of Alabama, but was forced to leave this institution on account of the burning of its buildings by the Federal forces. He finished his education at the University of Virginia, receiving the degree of LL. B., 1869; was admitted to the bar the fall previous to his graduation, 1868, having studied under his brother-in-law, Judge H. M. Somerville. He began the practice of his profession in St. Louis, Mo., but soon returned to Alabama and located at Tuscaloosa. In 1873 he retired to his country home near Tuscaloosa and in 1878 he removed to his plantation at Laneville, Hale County, where he became a planter and merchant. He served in the house of representative 1882-83; senate 1890-92, and was United States consul at Leeds, England, 1893-98. Married: to Bettie Cooper Blocker. Residence: Laneville.

HARRIS, PTOLEMY TINSLEY, lawyer, was born in Georgia, and died about 1852, in Louisiana; brother of Hon. Stephen W. Harris, who was a judge of the superior court of Georgia from 1813 to 1816, and of Hon. Thomas W. Harris, judge of the superior court of Georgia from 1819 to 1824, and from 1837 to 1841. He came to Alabama at an early period, settling at St. Stephens in 1819. He read law and was admitted to the bar in 1821. He located in Washington County to practice, was elected to the State legislature in 1826, and represented the county in that body until 1830. In 1832, he was elected to the circuit court bench, which office he held for eight successive years. He resigned his judicial office to accept the appointment by Judge Crawford of general assignee in bankruptcy in 1841, and at the same time engaged in the commission and factorage business in Mobile. He was a candidate for the legislature in 1845, but was defeated. In 1848 he removed to Louisiana. He was a Whig. Married: Miss McGrew, daughter of Col. William McGrew of Washington, who was killed by Indians in 1813. Children: 1. a daughter who resided in Clarke County; 2. William Kilpatrick, b. August 20, 1835; 3. Ptolemy Tinsley, b. July 5, 1827. Last residence: Louisiana.

HARRIS, RICHARD, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 75, and a resident of Madison County; private Massachusetts Militia; enrolled on September 26, 1833, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $80; sums received to date of publication of list, $200.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34. He resided in Madison County, June 1, 1840.—Census of Pensioners, 1841, p. 148.

"ANOTHER REVOLUTIONARY SOLDIER GONE.

"Died, in Madison County, Ala., January 23d, 1853, Capt. Richard Harris. The deceased was born in Powhatan County, Va., on the 20th November, 1758. When but a youth, at the age of 17, he entered the army, and with that veteran band of soldiers, fighting for liberty and truth, devoted himself to his country's interests till the close of the war. He was an eyewitness of the surrender of Lord Cornwallis at Little York. After having shared with his countrymen the hardships of war, he returned to his home and friends to enjoy that glorious boon, liberty for which he had so earnestly contended.

"Soon after the war, he devoted himself to the service of God and the good of his fellow men. He professed religion in Powhatan County, Va., and soon after united himself with the M. E. Church, where he remained, for more than half a century, a consistent, useful, and much loved member.—Hospitable, kind, generous, you had only to look upon his noble face to behold all those commanding and ennobling virtues which adorn human nature. He removed from Virginia to Madison County, Ala., in 1809, and resided near Blue Spring till the day of his death. We do not say he was without fault, but we do say that few men have lived as long as he did with as few censurers and with as few enemies. He closed his earthly warfare as he closed the revolutionary war, in triumph and glory. He has left many friends to mourn his loss."—Southern Advocate, Huntsville, Ala., Feb. 9, 1853.

HARRIS, RICHARD NORFLEET, sr., planter, was a native of North Carolina and died in Tuscaloosa; son of Norfleet and Mary (Hunter) Harris, of Scotland Neck, North Hampton County, N. C. The Harris family is of English descent. Richard Norfleet Harris removed to Alabama about 1822 with his mother, then a widow for the second time, having married a Mr. Boykin, after the death of her first husband. They settled on a plantation near Courtland, Lawrence County, began raising cotton, and became very successful as Mrs. Boykin was a skillful manager. Later he removed to Tuscaloosa. Married: Amanda Banks, daughter of William Banks (q. v.). Children: 1. Cornelia, m. Hon. H. M. Somerville, judge of the supreme court, Lawrence County; 2. Amanda, m. Dr. John Little, a physician of Tuscaloosa; 3. John James (q. v.) m. Margaret Louisa Fitts; 4. William, planter; student at the University of Alabama, 1851-53; private in Selden's Alabama battery, C. S. Army; d. November 1865; 5. Richard Norfleet, jr., planter; student at the University of Alabama, 1860-62; drill officer of the 37th Alabama infantry regiment, 1862; orderly sergeant, 1863-64; lieutenant, 1865, C. S. Army; m. Sallie Melville Minge, of Faunsdale; 6. Norfleet, (q. v.) m. Bettie Cooper Blocker. Last residence: Tuscaloosa.

HARRIS, SAMPSON W., lawyer, was born about 1814, in Georgia, and died in the spring of 1857, at Washington, D. C.; son of Judge Stephen Harris of Eatonton, Ga., who served as judge of the superior court of Georgia, 1813-1816, and died in 1822; nephew of Ptolemy Tinsley Harris (q. v.); and brother of Hon. Stephen Willis Harris of Madison County. His mother was a Miss Watkins prior to her marriage. He was graduated from the University of Georgia with the first honors of his class, and on leaving the university, read law with Judge Eli Shorter, his uncle, at Eatonton, Ga. In September 1831, when the first Internal improvement convention ever held in Georgia was assembled at Eatonton, Mr. Harris was appointed one of the three secretaries. After practicing law at Eatonton for a short time, he came to Alabama in 1837, and located at Wetumpka. He rose rapidly at the bar and in 1841 was elected solicitor of the eighth circuit by the State legislature. He resigned from the solicitorship in 1844, when elected to the State senate from Coosa and Autauga Counties. He was returned to the senate in 1845, and served in that body until 1847, when he was elected to congress as the Democratic candidate from the third district. In 1849 he was returned to congress, defeating Judge John S. Hunter of Dallas County. He was re-elected in 1851 over Judge William S. Mudd, of Jefferson; in 1853, over Hon. S. D. J. Moore, of Lowndes; and in 1855, over Col. William B. Martin of Benton, head of the newly formed political organization, the Know-Nothing or American party. In 1856, during his tenth consecutive year of service in congress, Mr. Harris died. Married: Miss Thomas, daughter of Stephen Thomas of Athens, Ga. Children: 1. Sampson W., jr., lawyer at West Point, Ga., who commanded the Sixth Georgia infantry regiment, C. S. Army, as successor of Gen. A. H. Colquitt, promoted; 2. Dr. Hugh Nisbet, m. a daughter of Hon. B. C. Yancey, resides at Athens. Last residence: Washington, D. C.

HARRIS, SAMUEL SMITH, bishop of the Protestant Episcopal church, was born September 14, 1841, near Prattville, Autauga County, died in London, England, August 21, 1888 and was buried in Detroit Mich.; son of Buckner and Sarah Marian (McKeithen) Harris (q. v.) of Robinson Springs and brother of Joseph Archibald Harris (q. v.). He graduated from the University of Alabama, A. B., 1859; received the honorary degree of D. D., William and Mary college 1874, and LL. D., University of Alabama, 1897. After completing his college education, he at once began the study of law; was admitted to the bar at the age of nineteen, 1860, by a special act of legislature; a few months later entered the Confederate Army as a member of the staff of Gen. Bragg, and immediately after the war removed to New York City where he began the practice of law. He came to Mobile, 1867, and offered himself as a minister to the bishop; returned to New York City where he pursued his studies for the ministry, at the same time practicing law. He was ordained a deacon, 1869, at Montgomery and held the pastorate of St. John's church, until he was made a priest, June 30, 1869, when he removed to Columbus, Ga., and later to Trinity church, New Orleans, La.; received a call from St. James' church, Chicago, 1875; and was chosen bishop of the diocese of Michigan 1879, and consecrated, September 17, of the same year. He died in London while attending the convention of bishops of the British, America and Colonial churches. Author: "Sheltem;" "Christianity and civil society;" "Bohlen lectures," 1882; "Sermons, 1889-91;" and founder with the Rev. John Fulton, of the "Living church," 1878. Married: December 19, 1861, to Mary Gindrat, daughter of Albert James and Sarah Smith (Harris) Pickett (q. v.), of Autaugaville. Children: 1. Eliza Pickett, d. in infancy; 2. Sallie Pickett, m. Charles Mills Gayley, the latter the author of many well known books; 3. Corinne Pickett, d. in infancy; 4. William Pickett, civil engineer, Detroit, m. Sara Edwards McGraw; 5. Samuel Smith, lawyer, Detroit; 6. Joseph Buckner, deceased; 7. Julian Hartwell. Last residence: Detroit, Michigan.

HARRIS, SEALE, physician, was born at Cedartown, Polk County, Ga., March 13, 1870; son of Dr. Charles Hooks and Margaret Ann (Monk) Harris (q. v.). Dr. Seale Harris received his early education in the schools of Cedartown and Marietta, Ga.; was a student at the University of Georgia for three years; received the degree of M. D. from the University of Virginia 1894; and did post graduate work in the New York polyclinic and Johns Hopkins, Baltimore, making a specialty of internal diseases. He began the practice of his profession in Union Springs, 1894; was health officer of Bullock County for eight years; surgeon for the Central of Georgia railway and president of the Central of Georgia railway surgeons association, 1905; established the Chunnenuge sanitarium, Union Springs, 1904; spent the year 1906 at Johns Hopkins in the study of gastro intestinal diseases; accepted the chair of practice of medicine in the Medical college of Alabama, Mobile, December 1907, and remained there until August 1913, at the same time being chief physician in the Mobile city hospital. Dr. Harris resigned these positions in 1908, when he purchased the Mobile medical and surgical journal, changing the name to the Gulf states journal of medicine and surgery, and in 1910 becoming the Journal of the Southern medical association, the official organ of the Southern medical association, of which he was made editor-in-chief. He was made secretary of the Southern medical association in 1910; is a trustee of the American society of tropical medicine, and a honorary fellow of the London society of tropical medicine. He was a surgeon with the rank of captain, Second Alabama infantry regiment National Guard, 1903-05. He is a Democrat; Presbyterian; Mason; Knight of Pythias, and a member of the Sigma Alpha Epsilon college fraternity. He is the author of many scientific articles on malaria, pellagra, the negro, and many other subjects. Married: April 28, 1897, to Stella Baskins, at Union Springs, daughter of Capt. Joseph Herron and Josephine (Wood) Rainer, the former having served throughout the War of Secession, and sister of Mrs. T. W. Palmer, wife of Pres. T. W. Palmer, (q. v.) of Montevallo. Children: 1. Josephine Ann; 2. Seale Harris, jr. Residence: Mobile.

HARRIS, WILLIAM, planter, was born June 2, 1774, in or near New Bern, Craven County, N. C., and died October 12, 1825; son of John and Mary Harris, of New Bern, N. C. He moved to Georgia about 1800, and removed to Montgomery, Ala., about 1817. He was one of the largest plantation owners of his time. Besides the one near Montgomery, he was the owner of a plantation of over 2,000 acres of the La Fayette Grant, near Tallahassee, Fla. He and his two sons, Peter Coffee and Stephen W., were buried on the plantation near Montgomery, settled by him in 1817. Married: (1) August 18, 1799, to Julia Fulcher, of New Bern, N. C.; (2) to Julia Morse; (3) August 25, 1803, in Hancock County, Ga., to Sarah, daughter of Peter Coffee, of Prince Edwards County, Va., and sister of Gen. John E. Coffee, of the War of 1812; (4) December 1811, to Mrs. Mary Drew Carroll, daughter of Col. Philip and Mary Drew (Temple) Alston, of North Carolina. Children: there were no children by the first and second marriage; by the third: 1. Julia Sweptson, m. Judge Joseph W. Field; 2. Peter Coffee, m. Narcissa Ann Hooks; by the fourth; 3. Stephen Alston, m. Elizabeth Fitzpatrick; 4. Sarah Smith, m. Albert James Pickett (q. v.); 5. Mary Gatlin, m. John Gindrat. Last residence: Montgomery County.

HARRIS, WILLIAM, Baptist minister, was born June 6, 1848, at Frankfort, Ky., and died in Montgomery, December 26, 1891; son of Hickman Henry Harris, a resident of Henderson, Ky., and a lawyer; grandson of Samuel and Jane Harris, and of William and Elizabeth Hickman; great-grandson of Rev. William Harris, the first Baptist preacher in Kentucky. He was educated at Georgetown college, Ky., and received the honorary degree of D. D. from Shurtleff college, Mo., in 1887; served pastorates in St. Joseph, 1877-1882, St. Louis, Mo., 1882-88, Baltimore, Md., 1888-1891. He died as pastor of First Baptist church of Montgomery. He was an ardent prohibitionist; and a Democrat. Married: July 26, 1879, in Louisville, Ky., to Florence Ina, daughter of Thomas Pinckney and Mary Emmeline (Jones) Johnson of that city; granddaughter of Colbert and Susan (Hunt) Johnson, and of Hezekiah and Caroline Ann Jones. Children: 1. Paul Hickman, m. Rhea Corwin, of Chicago; 2. Florence Emmeline, m. Charles Cornell. Last residence: Montgomery.

HARRISON, BELLE (RICHARDSON), author, was born October 20, 1856, at Camden; daughter of Warfield Creath and Catherine Cole (Jones) Richardson (q. v.). She was educated at Stafford school and the Tuscaloosa female college. She is a Methodist and a member of the United daughters of the Confederacy. Author: "Poems," 1898. Married: July 21, 1881, to John Calhoun Harrison, of Tuscaloosa. Residence: Tuscaloosa.

HARRISON, BENJAMIN I., quartermaster of the University of Alabama, Tuscaloosa, 1871-72; father of J. Calhoun Harrison. Deceased. Last residence: Tuscaloosa.

HARRISON, CARTER R., grand recorder, grand council, Masons, 1839, 1841, 1843-44-45.

HARRISON, EDMUND, planter, was born in Petersburg, Va., and died in Montgomery, in 1883; son of Bishop Edmund Harrison, of Petersburg, Va. Long prior to the War of Secession he removed to Alabama, engaging in the cotton business in Mobile for several years. Locating in Montgomery he bought a large tract of land in Lowndes County where he planted on a big scale. His first home in Montgomery, was the "First White House of Confederacy," from which he removed his family to surrender it to the use of President Jefferson Davis. Later he occupied the Cowles mansion, recently dismantled by railroad encroachment. He was a Democrat; a secessionist and gave liberally of his means to that cause; and an Episcopalian. Married: (1) in Petersburg, Va., to Jane Stark, (2) to Elizabeth Ware, widow of Maj. Thomas Cowles, and sister of Robert J. and James Anthony Ware. Children: by first wife. 1. Virginia, m. Dubose Bibb, who had three children; (1.) Robert Tombs; (2.) Harrison; (3.) Francis; 2. Martha James, m. Milton Saffold, who after her death, m. Georgia Whiting, children by first wife, (1.) Starke; (2.) James; (3.) Reuben; children by second wife; (1.) William A., m. Minnie Reynolds; 3.

Caledonia, m. F. W. Hunter. Last residence: Montgomery.

HARRISON, GEORGE PAUL, lawyer, was born March 19, 1841, on "Monteith" plantation, Chatham County, Ga.; son of Gen. George Paul and Thurza Adelaide (Gwin) Harrison, the former a native of Chatham County, who lived at Savannah, Ga., was for many years a member of the Georgia legislature, commanded a brigade in the C. S. Army, and immediately after the war was a member of the Georgia constitutional convention, and the latter who was a daughter of Dr. Gwin, of Beaufort, S. C.; grandson of Col. William Harrison, colonel of a regiment in the U. S. Army, veteran of Indian war in Florida, later settling in Georgia. He is a member of the distinguished Harrison family of Virginia being a lineal descendant of Benjamin Harrison, signer of the Declaration of Independence. George Paul Harrison attended Montieth and Effingham academies in Georgia; entered the Georgia military institute at Marietta in 1858; was graduated in 1861 with first honor and degrees of A. B. and C. E. In 1861 he entered the C. S. Army as second lieutenant in the First Georgia regulars infantry; rose to the rank of first lieutenant, captain, major and colonel of the line, and closed his career on the field with the rank of brigadier-general in command of Harrison's brigade, Walthall's division, Stewart's corps, in the Western army. Soon after the war, Gen. Harrison entered upon the practice of law and has practiced in the counties of Lee, Chambers, Tallapoosa, Coosa, Clay, Talladega, Macon, Russell, Montgomery, Lowndes and Dallas; was a delegate to the Alabama constitutional convention of 1875 and 1901; in the latter body was chairman of the committee on corporations, and a member of the committee on suffrage and elections and on taxation; was a state senator from 1878 to 1884; and president of the senate in the last two years of that service; and in 1900 he was re-elected to the senate and again in 1902. He was elected a representative in congress from the third district in 1894 and 1896. He is a Mason, has been chairman of the committee on masonic jurisprudence, and was twice grand master of the Grand Lodge of Alabama; has been four times elected major general of the Alabama Division, United Confederate Veterans; is a Democrat; and has been a delegate to county and state party conventions. He was a worker for the rescue of the state from militarism, 1867-74. He is a member of the Methodist Episcopal church, South. Married: (1) in 1863 to Mary F., who died in June, 1884, daughter of John C. and May A. Drake of Ga.; (2) in 1886, to Mattie C., daughter of Gov. Ligon of Alabama; (3) on November 20, 1901, at La Grange, Ga., to Sara Katherine, daughter of Gustavus Alonzo and Mary (Briscoe) Nunnally, of that place. Children, by first marriage: 1. deceased; 2. Mary Addie, first honor graduate of the Wesleyan female college. Residence: Opelika.

HARRISON, J. C., Methodist minister; member of the Alabama conference; living in 1913. Residence: Milton, Fla.

DR. BENJAMIN J. BALDWIN

HARRISON, JAMES B., grand master, grand council, 1860, 1864-65; grand high priest, grand chapter, 1864-65; deputy grand commander grand commandery, 1863-65.

HARRISON, JAMES FRANKLIN, physician; graduate of the medical department of the University of Virginia, 1873. Residence: Mobile.

HARRISON, J. T., physician, was born April 20, 1834, in Madison County; son of J. T. and Melinda (Stone) Harrison, natives of Jamestown, Va., the former a soldier in the War of 1812, and in the Indian War, who took part in the skirmish which drove the Indians across the Coosa River, and came to Alabama in 1818, assisted in surveying the lands around Huntsville, near which city he located on a farm, where he lived until his death, the latter a cousin of Chief Justice Stone of Alabama. His paternal grandfather was an Englishman and a relative of President Benjamin Harrison. Mr. Harrison was reared in Madison County. In 1852, he began the study of medicine with his brother, Dr. W. B. Harrison of Guntersville, and in 1855 entered the Nashville Medical College. After eighteen months in that institution, he returned to Marshall County, and established himself in the practice of medicine there for thirteen years. In 1869, he moved to Talladega County on a farm, where he occupied himself in the practice of his profession as well as in the management of the farm. He had been president of the board of censors of Talladega County, and president of the board of health of the county. During the War of Secession, he was for one year, post surgeon at Guntersville. Married: (1) in 1858, to Belinda Cowan Collins, of Murfreesboro, Tenn., who was born in 1836, and died in 1864, daughter of Varner D. and Susan Collins; (2) in 1868, to Sarah S. Groce, born in Talladega County in 1846, daughter of J. E. and Sarah (Simons) Groce. Children, by second marriage: 1. William Groce, b. in 1871, was graduated at the Agricultural and mechanical college at Auburn, B. S., 1890, and at the University of Maryland, M. D., 1892, was resident physician at the Maryland university hospital, 1892-1893, and at the Union Protestant infirmary, 1893, was a student at Eye, ear and throat hospital, 1893-1894, a physician at Talladega, 1894-1905, and at Birmingham since 1905; 2. Linda, a graduate of the Huntsville female college, and of a conservatory of music in Baltimore, Md.; 3. W. Ben; 4. Mattie. Residence: Talladega County.

HARRISON, L. C., business man, was born in 1849, at Eufaula, Barbour County; son of L. C. and Sarah J. (Cook) Harrison, natives, respectively, of Rockingham County, Va., and South Carolina, the former of whom came to Alabama about 1830, and died in 1865. He received his final schooling at Summerfield, Dallas County, in a high school taught by D. B. C. Connelly. From the time he left school in 1862, until 1873, he devoted all of his time to farming in Dallas County, with the exception of two years during which he farmed in Washington County, until he was washed out by an overflow of the Mississippi River. In 1873, he entered the employ of the Alabama Central Railroad Company as conductor, and worked for that company about ten years. In 1874, he went to Selma and engaged in the mercantile business, which he conducted until 1887, when he moved to Warrior to accept the position of general manager of the Pearson Coal & Iron Railroad Company. He is a director and general manager of the Red Mountain Mining Company, owning large interests in coal lands in Fayette and Walker Counties, as well as conducting two large saw mills at Warrior. He is a Democrat. Married: in 1878, to Fay Collins, daughter of Rev. Dr. Collins, deceased, of Dallas County. Children: 1. Allen Barksdale; 2. Iva Corinne; 3. Cammilla E., 4. Pearl Castle. Residence: Warrior.

HARRISON, PASCAL, an old time planter of South Alabama.

HARRISON, WILLIAM G., physician; son of William Harrison, physician, of Talladega; graduate of the medical department of the University of Maryland, 1892; licensed to practice by the County board of Talladega the same year; annual orator of the Medical association of Alabama, 1901; medical examiner for the Protective life insurance company. Residence: Birmingham.

HARSH, GRIFFITH RUTHERFORD, lawyer, was born September 30, 1860, near Nashville, Tenn.; son of Nathan and Mary (Rutherford) Harsh, who lived at Nashville, Tenn., until 1870, when they moved to New York City, the former a native of Pottsville, Pa., who moved with his parents to Tennessee when a child, was connected with the firm of Harsh Brothers, merchants, both in Nashville and New York, and was killed in a powder explosion at the latter place in 1873; grandson of Dr. Philip and Madeline Harsh, who lived in Pennsylvania, and later in Nashville, Tenn., the former of whom was born on the banks of the Rhine, left home when fourteen years of age and wandered into France where, as he often stated, he had as a boy ridden the horse of Napoleon Bonaparte, came to America when a young man, was graduated by his own efforts from the leading schools of medicine, and settled in Nashville, where he built the first brick house, and of Griffith Rutherford, who lived in Rutherford County, Tenn., great-grandson of Gen. Griffith Rutherford of the Revolutionary War, for whom Rutherford County, Tenn., was named. He obtained his early education at Franklin College, under Prof. Fanning, in the grammar schools of New York City and New Middleton, Tenn., and from the high school at Nashville, Tenn. He was graduated from the law department of Vanderbilt University, taking the Founder's medal as best graduate, June, 1881. After graduating, he went west and engaged in various occupations for several years. He was among the first to go into the Coeur d'Alene gold fields in northern Idaho. He moved to Birmingham in January, 1886, and began to practice law. He soon became a member of the law firm of Bowman & Harsh, which later was changed to Bowman, Harsh & Beddow. Mr. Harsh is still a resident of Birmingham. He is a Democrat; has been an elder in the First Christian church of Birmingham for more than twenty-five years; and is a Master Mason. Married: October 17, 1889, at Nashville, Tenn., to Alice Moseley LeSueur, daughter of Edwin C. and Mary (Moseley) LeSueur, who lived at Nashville, Tenn., the latter of whom was a member of the same family as Chief Justice John Marshall. Children: 1. William LeSueur, b. 1892, Birmingham; 2. Griffith Rutherford, b. 1895, Birmingham. Residence: Birmingham.

HART, HENRY, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 71, and a resident of Greene County; private S. C. Militia; enrolled on September 26, 1833, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $80; sums received to date of publication of list, $240.—Revolutionary Pension Roll in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34. He resided in Greene County, June 1, 1840, aged 76.—Census of Pensioners, 1841, p. 149.

HART, ROBERT D., major, 43rd Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army.

HARTUNG, GOTTLOB, physician and pharmacist, was born October 10, 1843, at Hollfeld, Oberfranken, Bavaria; son of Dr. Julius and Sophia Margareta (Walz) Hartung, the former a native of Romhild, Roemhild, Saxe-Meiningen, a graduate of the University of Munich, resident of Hollfeld where he was proprietor of the district pharmacy; grandson of Gottlob and Augusta Walz of Schweinfurt, Bavaria. His great-grand-uncle William Hartung was surgeon general of the Austrian army in Lombardy-Venetia with residence in Milan, created a baronet by the emperor for saving the life of Field Marshal Radetzky. Dr. Hartung was educated at a private institution in Nuremberg; was graduated in 1858 from the Royal gymnasium of Baireut; graduate from University of Munich in pharmacy, 1866, and practiced this profession at Furioh and Geneva, Switzerland, at Baden-Baden at the grandducal pharmacy, at Danzig on the Baltic and seven years at Panama. He graduated in medicine from the University of Wuerzburg, and practiced nine years in Nebraska and twenty-one years in Cullman; has been president Cullman County medical association for many years. He is a Democrat; and a Lutheran. Married: September 12, 1878, at Baireut, to Julia Elisabeth, daughter of Philip and Augusta (Faber) Cullman of Bavaria; granddaughter of Christian Faber, major in the Bavarian contingent of the great army of Napoleon 1st, which was sent to subdue the Russian Empire, but was forced by the conflagration of Moscow to retire, being one of the 2,000 of the 30,000 soldiers to return; niece of John Gottfried Cullman, founder of the town, and for whom both county and town are named. Children: 1. Carl Ferdinand, M. D. m. Magdalen Ehrensperger; 2. Philip Gottlob, Ph. G. m. Inez Clark; 3. Otto Gottfried;

4. Freda; 5. Fritz; 6. Elsa; 7. Amelia. Residence: Cullman.

HARTWELL, HARRY THEODORE, business man and State senator, was born March 7, 1871, at Toulminville, Mobile County; son of Theodore Clay and Amelia (White) Hartwell, the former a Confederate soldier serving under Col. James Hagan, and Gen. Joseph Wheeler in the Army of the Tennessee; grandson of John and Lucy (Whitney) Hartwell, the former a native of Concord who came to Mobile prior to the War of Secession, a planter, and of John and Annie White. The maternal grand parents of Senator Hartwell came from Ireland to Mobile. The Hartwells are in direct line from William Hartwell, an early English immigrant, who settled in Concord, Mass., in 1636, and who was a descendant of the followers of William the Norman. Senator Hartwell was educated in the public schools of Mobile County and at Barton academy. When he was sixteen years of age he left school and entered business with his father, in which he remained until his twenty-fifth year. He then entered the employ of the Tow boat company of Mobile, as secretary. This company was finally absorbed by the Mobile towing and wrecking co., of which he was vice-president, secretary and treasurer, with a controlling interest in the company. About 1903 he became associated with Horace Turner, of the firm of Horace Turner & co., lumber exporters, and in 1910 joined with him in developing what is known as the Turner-Hartwell docks company, one of the largest privately owned wharf terminals on the Gulf-Atlantic coast, at an expense of more than a half million dollars. The improvement of this property brought about a beneficial reform in the relations of all railroads of the country to the dock terminals at the different sea ports. He served as a member of the State senate, 1915. He is vice-president of this company. He has been president of the Mobile County school commissioners; has served as director and officer of the commercial club, and of the chamber of commerce of Mobile; has been director of the International steamship company; president of the Mobile ship chandlery company; and president of the Mobile base ball association. He is a Democrat; Catholic; and a member of the Mobile Rotary club. Married: May 2, 1892, at Mobile, to Anna, daughter of Dennis and Anna (Quill) Lucy, of that place, but who were natives of Ireland. Children: 1. Theodore Clay, died young; 2. Anna Mabel, m. Jack Courtney, Mobile; 3. Irma Aurelia. Residence: Mobile.

HARTWELL, JESSE, Baptist minister, was born in 1795, in Massachusetts, and died September 16, 1859, in Louisiana. He was graduated at Brown University in 1816, and was ordained in 1821. He supplied the Second Baptist church, Providence, R. I., one year, then moved to South Carolina and became pastor at High Hills and Sumterville, and a professor in Furman theological institute. He went to Alabama in 1836 and served as pastor at Carlowville, president of the Alabama Baptist convention, professor of theology in Howard college, and president of the domestic mission board of the Southern Baptist convention during his residence in the state. In 1847, he moved to Arkansas, where he founded Camden female institute. He located in Louisiana in 1857, and became president and professor of theology in Mount Lebanon university. Last residence: Louisiana.

HARTWELL, THOMAS C., grand master, grand council, 1851; deputy grand high priest, grand chapter, 1855.

HARTWELL, WILLIAM, major, 1st Mobile volunteers local defense troops, during the War of Secession. Residence: Mobile.

HARVEY, JOHN, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 75, and a resident of Lawrence County; private N. C. State Troops; enrolled on March 1, 1833, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $26.66.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34. He resided in Lawrence County, June 1, 1840, aged 82.—Census of Pensioners, 1841, p. 148.

"Died, in Lawrence County on the 23d inst., Rev. John Harvey, an old Revolutionary veteran, in the 86th year of his age. These old soldiers are dropping into the grave rapidly, and there will soon be none of them left for Mr. Polk to vote against receiving pensions."—Southern Advocate, Huntsville, Nov. 1, 1844.

Dr. Anson West in his History of Methodism in Alabama, p. 219, has the following brief tribute. "John Harvey, who afterward attained to elder's orders, and who continued a member of the Quarterly Conference of the Franklin Circuit until 1831, and who was a native Virginian, and a Revolutionary soldier, and who was naturally endowed with the gifts of oratory, and was talented and pious, had his membership at Kitty Casky at the time of the Quarterly Conference above mentioned, and he died at that place afterward."

HARVEY, JOHN C., editor, was born March 15, 1807, in Beaufort County, N. C.; son of John Harvey, a North Carolinian and a farmer, who lived and died in that state. He was educated at West Point Academy, and was graduated as second lieutenant in the regular army of the United States, in July, 1831. He was in the army nearly two years, spending ten months of that time in northeastern Maine, near the province of New Brunswick. His wife's health became such that it necessitated his going south on a furlough, and finally led to his resignation from the army. After about two years' residence in North Carolina, Mr. Harvey moved to Alabama and settled at Greensboro as a merchant. With the exception of eighteen months in New York, he resided in Greensboro from that time until his death. In 1842, he undertook the study of law, and obtained a license to practice, but soon abandoned the legal profession to undertake the publication of the "Alabama Beacon." He was editor and proprietor of that paper for more than thirty years. Though an ardent lover of the South, Mr. Harvey opposed secession from the beginning. He was a Democrat. Married: (1) in 1831, in Halifax County, N. C., to Miss Nelms, who died June 1871, at Greensboro; (2) Mrs. Evarlyn Bondurant, daughter of Mr. DuBose. Last residence: Greensboro.

HARVEY, THOMAS LINFIELD, farmer and legislator, was born September 3, 1857, at Alexandria, Calhoun County; son of Richard Weldon and Mary Elizabeth (Mitchell) Harvey, the former a native of Spartanburg, S. C., was a Confederate soldier, and successful farmer; grandson of Hall and Nellie (Bryant) Harvey, the former a native of Virginia, later of South Carolina, and of Glover and Mary Mitchell, residents of Alexandria, but both of whom died in Texas. He was educated in the common schools of Calhoun County. He is a farmer. He represented Marshall County in the legislature of 1915. He is a Democrat; Methodist; Mason; Odd Fellow; Columbian Woodman; Good Templar; and for two years state lecturer of the Farmer's Union. Married: (1) January 25, 1880, to Lizzie, daughter of John and Catherine Laney, of Calhoun, but formerly of Dale County; (2) June 12, 1884, at Coal City, St. Clair County, to Mary, daughter of Richard and Martha Ellen (Arnold) Alverson, of that place. Children: by first wife: 1. Richard Chester; by second wife; 2. Minnie Lou, m., Joe Read; 3. Mandie Sue, m. John L. Gilbert; 4. Lizzie Nora, m. Charles Nunnally; 5. Ben Weaver; 6. John Aldrich; 7. William Ray; 8. Rolf Echels. Residence: Albertville.

HARWELL, EDWARD J., planter, was born in September, 1817, and died in 1840, at Grove Hill; son of Robert Rivers and Sarah (Alston) Harwell, the latter of North Carolina, and brother of Mark Williams, Robert R., jr., and Ishmael Sterling Harwell (q. v.). He entered the University of Alabama in 1831 and remained there through 1832. He served as a private in the Creek War of 1836, and after the cessation of hostilities engaged in planting. Last residence: Grove Hill.

HARWELL, ISHMAEL STERLING, lawyer, was born March 27, 1829, at Jackson, and died August 21, 1893, at Demopolis; son of Robert Rivers and Sarah Mason (Alston) Harwell, the former a native of Virginia who removed first to North Carolina, and in 1812 to the "Bigbee settlement" in Alabama, where they engaged in farming in Sunflower Bend, on the Tombigbee River; grandson of Henry and Sarah (Hill) Alston, the former a planter of Warren County, N. C.; great-grandson of Joseph John and Euphan (Wilson) Alston, the former the owner of a large tract of land in Edgecombe, now Halifax County, N. C., appointed as a justice of peace in 1732, and served as the representative from Edgecombe County in the general assembly from 1744-46, and of Willis and Mary Wilson, the former a resident of Norfolk County, Va., and a member of the house of burgesses from that county in 1720, 1722, 1748 and 1750; great-great-grandson of John and Mary (Clark) Alston, the former a resident of Chowan County, N. C., where he owned extensive lands, served as justice of the peace, 1724, assistant justice of the court of Oyer and Terminer, October 24, 1724—April 1729, appointed revenue collector for the King, 1725, vestryman of St. Paul's parish, Chowan County, 1725-47, and sheriff of this county, 1746; great-great-great-grandson of John and Anne (Wallis) Alston of Bedfordshire, England. Mr. Harwell received his early education under the direction of private tutors; attended the University of Alabama; removed to Demopolis, where he studied law in the office of his brother-in-law, John M. Henley, and was admitted to the Marengo bar. He then moved to Opelousas, La., where he engaged in sugar planting, 1852-57; returned to Demopolis, and again took up the practice of law, at the same time editing the "Canebrake Gazette." He entered the C. S. Army in 1862, as sergeant in Co. A, 43d Alabama infantry regiment, under Col. Y. M. Moody, Gracie's brigade, later transferred to the 38th Alabama infantry regiment as adjutant, under Col. Lankford. He was wounded at Jonesboro and at Chickamauga. After the war he returned to Demopolis, resumed the practice of law and was mayor of this town for many years. Married: June 15, 1853, to Mary Eveleen, daughter of Dr. Alfred Goode and Mary Octavia (Walton) Vaughan, of Marengo County, and granddaughter of Reuben and Alice Goode (Watkins) Vaughan, the former a native of Nottaway County, Va., who died in Marengo County; great-granddaughter of Reuben Vaughan, a captain in the provincial army and of Samuel and Elizabeth Goode, of Petersburg and Powhatan County, Va., respectively. Children: 1. Eveleen, d. unm.; 2. Mary Octavia, d. unm.; 3. Alfred Vaughan, d. unm.; 4. Sallie Alston, m. Dr. A. C. Thomas, of Rembert; 5. Robert Henley Thomas, m. Miss Thomas of Marengo County; served in the Spanish-American War. Last residence: Demopolis.

HARWELL, MARK WILLIAMS, planter, was born in 1813, and died in 1865; son of Robert Rivers and Sarah (Alston) Harwell; brother of Robert R., jr., Edward J., and Ishmael Sterling Harwell (q. v.). He received a good education and was at the University of Alabama, 1831-32. He served as a private in the Creek War of 1836. For twenty years he was engaged in planting in Clarke County, and spent ten years at Marlin, Texas. Married: (1) Sally Howze, of Clarksville; (2) Mrs. Mary King, of Demopolis. Last residence: Marlin, Texas.

HARWELL, ROBERT RIVERS, planter, was born January 4, 1823, at Jackson, Clarke County, and died in 189—, at Shreveport, La.; son of Robert Rivers and Sarah (Alston) Harwell, of that place, and brother of Edward J., Mark Williams, and Ishmael Sterling Harwell (q. v.). He was educated in the school of his county, and entered the University of Alabama in 1841, where he was a student for one year. He engaged in planting in Clarke County for twenty-five years, removing later to Shreveport, La., where he worked two years. During the War of Secession he served as a lieutenant in the C. S. Army, 1861-1865. Married: Mary Olivia Barnes, of Suggsville. Last residence: Shreveport, La.

HARWOOD, ASHFIELD BASCOMB, teacher, was born June 30, 1849; son of William H. and Rebecca L. (Christian) Harwood, the former of Wilson's Landing, Va. He was educated in the common schools and spent 1869-70, at the University of Alabama. During the War of Secession he served as private in Co. D, 3rd Virginia cavalry, C. S. Army. He is a teacher. Married: October 26, 1878, at Orrville, Sallie Bozeman.

HARWOOD, BERNARD, lawyer and judge, was born April 22, 1866, at Gainesville, Sumter County; son of Samuel Bernard Mayjor and Mary Scott (Gray) Harwood, the former of Gainesville, was a planter prior to War of Secession, volunteered and with rank of captain was in charge of the West Alabama commissary, the latter a native of Greensboro; grandson of Samuel Mayjor and Elizabeth (Ellyson) Harwood, of Gainesville, and of John Baytop and Martha (Cocke) Gray, of Greensboro; great-grandson of John Baytop Scott, who served as governor of Louisiana by appointment of President Thomas Jefferson. He was educated in the common schools and graduated, LL.B., 1887, at the University of Alabama. He was mayor of Gainesville in 1888; formed a partnership with A. D. Pitts, at Uniontown, in 1888 where he remained four years; removed in 1892 to Eutaw where he practiced eighteen years; was a member of the legislature of 1898-99 and of 1900-01, and was the author of the bill calling for the constitutional convention of 1901. On November 8, 1910, he was elected judge of the sixth judicial circuit, continuing in that position until October 3, 1915. He is a Democrat; an Episcopalian; a Mason; an Odd Fellow; a Knight of Pythias; and a Woodman of the World. Married: June 12, 1889, at Eutaw, to Helene, daughter of Gustav and Honore (Roney) Braune, of that place. Children: 1. Augusta Braune, married; 2. Robert Bernard. Residence: Tuscaloosa.

HARWOOD, JUNIE, merchant, was born October 16, 1844, in Charles City County, Va.; son of William H. and Rebecca (Christian) Harwood, natives of Virginia; grandson of Edwin Harwood, a Virginian by birth of English origin, and of Joseph Christian, likewise a Virginian of Revolutionary fame known as "Fighting Joe." He was educated in the common schools of Virginia; served in the 53rd Virginia infantry regiment, C. S. Army, and later in Co. D, 23rd Virginia cavalry. He located in 1867 at Uniontown, where he has since resided; elected in 1872, as mayor of Uniontown; later served ten years as a member of the city council; and afterwards as city treasurer. He is a merchant; a Democrat; a Methodist; Mason; and Knight of Honor. Married: in 1871, at Uniontown, to Emma Ware, of that place. He is the father of four children. Residence: Uniontown.

HASKEW, D. W., Methodist minister; member of the Alabama conference. Residence: Montgomery.

HASSON, ROBERT, farmer and doorkeeper Alabama house of representatives, was born March 20, 1836, near Livingston, and died August 19, 1912; son of Isaac and Jane (McCain) Hasson, natives respectively of Spartanburg, S. C., and Livingston. He received his education in the common schools of Sumter County and in Mississippi having gone with his parents to that state in 1845 where he spent six years. In the fall of 1852 the family removed to Texas, where they located upon a farm, and where he was a frontier ranger under Walling and Ross. On July 1, 1861, he joined Grimes' County Grays, a company being made up for the Confederacy and drilling near Anderson, Texas. He was severely wounded at Gettysburg where he was captured after passing a night on the field of battle among his dead and wounded comrades; was taken to a Federal hospital in Chester, Pa., and in September, 1863, was exchanged. He was again wounded at the Wilderness, and on October 7, 1864, lost a leg at Darbytown, after which he was retired from military duty. He returned to Alabama, stopping for a while in Montgomery, but later going to Calhoun County where he unsuccessfully engaged in milling. He removed to Gadsden but finally, in October, 1900, settled in Anniston. In 1880 he was elected doorkeeper of the Alabama house of representatives, and was continuously re-elected to that post until his death. He invented in 1889-90, a cultivator and planter, which took the prize at several State fairs in Alabama and Georgia. Married: August 13, 1871, at Ohatchie, Calhoun County, to Frances A., daughter of William H. and Arminda A. Anderson of that place. Children: 1. Alice Elizabeth, m. John Pickens Allison, Little Rock, Ark.; 2. William Anderson, m. Marie Daughdrill, Houston, Texas; 3. Mary Minnie, m. J. Ross Green, Anniston; 4. Bessie J., m. Percy Dean Black, Anniston. Two other children died in infancy. Last residence: Anniston.

HASTIE, J. H., physician and legislator, of Baldwin County, was educated in the best institutions of his day, and studied medicine. He was affiliated with the Mobile medical society as well as his own county organization. He was a Whig and represented Baldwin County in the legislature at the time Tuscaloosa was the State capitol. Last residence: Baldwin County.

HASTIE, J. M., member of the constitutional convention of 1865, from Baldwin County.

HASTINGS, EDMUND C., grand treasurer, grand lodge, Masons, 1866-69; grand treasurer, grand chapter, 1850-69; grand treasurer, grand council, 1866-69; grand recorder, grand commandery, 1860-69.

HASTINGS, EDMUND M., grand recorder, grand commandery of Alabama, Masons, 1860-69, and 1888 to 1894.

HASTINGS, EDMUND R., grand recorder, grand council, 1888-91; grand recorder, grand commander, 1888-94.

HATCH, ALFRED, planter, grandfather of Alfred H. Benners of Birmingham. Residence: Areala.

HATCH, LEMUEL DURANT, Presbyterian minister, was born June 10, 1793, near Brice's Creek, Craven County, N. C., and died October 7, 1866, at Blount Springs; son of Durant and Elizabeth (Norman) Hatch who lived on a plantation near New Bern, N. C., the former of whom was a general of militia in North Carolina; grandson of Col. Lemuel and Mary (Fonville) Hatch, who lived in Craven County, N. C., the former of whom was a member of the Provincial Congress at New Bern, N. C., August 25, 1774, and at Halifax, N. C., April 4, 1776, from Craven County, and was lieutenant colonel of Col. John Bryant's regiment, Craven County, N. C., April 2, 1776. He was graduated from the University of North Carolina, at Chapel Hill, 1815, in the class with Willie P. Mangum, later U. S. senator; John H. Bryan, governor of North Carolina in 1834; Richard Dobbs Spaight, governor of North Carolina, and Francis L. Hawks. He studied at Princeton theological seminary, 1816-1819, and was graduated in the latter year. He was licensed to preach by the Orange Presbytery of North Carolina, October 2, 1819; was ordained September 2, 1821; and was installed pastor of the Presbyterian church at New Bern, N. C., June 15, 1822. On leaving New Bern, he resided in Duplin County, and is reported to have been Stated Supply a part of the time at Red House church. In 1833, he moved to Alabama, and October 9, 1834, was dismissed to the South Alabama Presbytery. He lived near Greensboro, and was one of the original members of the Presbytery of Tuscaloosa, organized in 1835. He preached in Greensboro and neighboring churches when they were vacant, and during the latter years of his life labored among the negroes in the bounds of Tuscaloosa Presbytery. He served as moderator of the Synod of North Carolina, in Raleigh, in 1828. Married: January 15, 1828, in Duplin County, N. C., near Faison, to Martha Hill Dixon, who was born in 1808, and died in 1880, daughter of Lewis and Catherine (Hill) Dixon, the former of whom was born in 1778 and died in 1815; granddaughter of Col. William and Mary (Williams) Dixon, the former of whom was born in 1759 and died in 1820; great-granddaughter of Joseph and Mary (Hicks) Williams; great-great-granddaughter of Benjamin and Christian (Bryant) Williams, of New Bern, N. C., the former of whom was fourth in descent from Oliver Cromwell, Lord Protector of England, 1653-1658, through his daughter Frances. Children: 1. Catherine Elizabeth, b. 1829, d. 1905, m. 1851, Thomas Franklin Witherspoon, b. 1825, d. 1909; 2. Fanny, b. 1833, d. 1859, m. 1853, James Alexander Wemyss, b. 1822, d. 1902, captain, C. S. Army; 3. Harriet, b. 1835, d. 1894, m. 1859, Isaac Henricus Benners, judge, Birmingham; 4. Lemuel Durant (q. v.); 5. Mary, b. 1839, d. 1879, m. Alexander

Hobson; 6. Thomas Alfred, b. December 1, 1841, lieutenant, Thirty-sixth Alabama regiment, C. S. Army, killed in the battle of Jonesboro, Ga., 1863; 7. William Dixon, b. 1842, d. 1879, unmarried, served in an Alabama regiment, C. S. Army; 8. Durant, b. 1845, m. Mattie Duncan, Arkansas; 9. Annie, b. 1848, m. 1868; Capt. J. A. Wemyss, b. 1822, d. 1900, Gallatin, Tenn.; 10. Martha b. 1849, m. Capt. William N. Montgomery, Gallatin, Tenn. Last residence: Blount Springs.

HATCH, LEMUEL DURANT, soldier, C. S. Army, was born February 22, 1841, at Greensboro, and died February 17, 1905, at Perdido Beach; son of Lemuel Durant and Martha (Dixon) Hatch (q. v.). He was prepared for college by tutors at his home "Roseland," near Greensboro, and attended Princeton University. He enlisted in the C. S. Army, soon after the outbreak of the War of Secession, and was first assigned to the Twenty-ninth Alabama infantry regiment. He was appointed colonel of the Ninth Alabama cavalry, and was captured and held prisoner at Johnson's Island for thirteen months. He was a Democrat and a Presbyterian. Married: (1) at Greensboro, to Willie Fredrica McRee, daughter of Rev. Frederic and Sarah (Jeffries) McRee, natives of Virginia, who lived at Greensboro, the latter a cousin of John Y. Mason of Virginia; (2) September 13, 1893, at Columbia, Tenn., to Willie Adams, daughter of Capt. George William and Jane Ruffin (Robertson) Adams, who lived at Columbia, Tenn., the former a native of Richmond, Va., and the latter a native of the "Cane-brake," Marengo County. Children: 1. Frederic McRee, m. Lucie Partridge, Perdido Beach; 2. Willie Lemuel, Portland, Ore.; 3. Frances, m. Putnam Matthews, Portland, Ore.; 4. Katherine Elizabeth, m. George Randolph, Perdido Beach; 5. Hattie, Perdido Beach; 6. Lida Inge, Perdido Beach. Last residence: Perdido Beach.

HATCHER, ROBERT S., planter, was born about 1801 in Elbert County, Ga., and died March 30, 1872, at Selma. He came to Alabama early in life, and resided in Dallas County for at least fifty years. He was a wealthy planter and his boundless hospitality was proverbial. He was elected to the State legislature in 1841, and again in 1853, and served some time in the State senate. He was a Whig. Mr. Hatcher lived until he had passed his seventieth year, and was killed by falling from a train in motion near Selma. Last residence: Dallas County.

HATFIELD, CHARLES ALBERT PHELPS, colonel U. S. Army, was born at Dayton, Marengo County, December 9, 1850; son of Henry Phillips and Stella (Phelps) Hatfield, the former a well known teacher who removed to Alabama from New Jersey; and grandson of Judge John Phelps, of Guildford, Vt. He was educated at Eutaw, and Onderdonk academy, Baltimore, Md.; graduated at the U. S. military academy, 1872; has always served the cavalry, and has risen from the 2nd lieutenant to colonel 13th U. S. cavalry; and retired by operation of law December 9, 1914. He is an Episcopalian. Married: October 7, 1880, at Ft. Garland, Col., to Frances Ellen, daughter of Henry and Charlotte (Polhill) Blackmore, of Salisbury, England. Children: 1. Albert Blackmore, deceased; 2. Francis, deceased; 3. Helen, m. Lieut. Berkeley T. Merchant, Noria, New Mexico. Address: War department, Washington.

HAUGHTON, ABRM., soldier of the American Revolution, aged 81, resided in Lawrence County, June 1, 1840, with William Boyce.—Census of Pensioners, 1841, p. 148.

HAUSMAN, CAROLINE J., organizer Hebrew ladies benevolent society and humanitarian, was born August 18, 1832, in Saverne, France, and died July 12, 1901, at Montgomery; daughter of Alexander and Pauline (Wile) Kulman, who removed from Saverne to Paris. She accompanied her brother, Emil, to New York on a visit to her uncle and returned to her native land only for short periods later in life. In 1861 she organized the Hebrew ladies benevolent society and was its first president. She was a charter member and later vice-president of the Ladies memorial association of Montgomery, was a tireless worker in the Woman's hospital for Confederate soldiers in her city. She assisted in the establishment of the Working woman's home of Montgomery and for fifteen years was president of that philanthropic institution. Some years later her daughter, Pauline, was elected to fill the presidency. Married: Jacques Hausman (q. v.). Last residence: Montgomery.

HAUSMAN, JACQUES C., wholesale merchant, was born May 18, 1818, at Hagenau, France, and died July 12, 1886, in Montgomery; son of Maurice and Florence (Weill) Hausman, who lived at Saverne-Hagenau, France, the former a merchant, student and humanitarian; grandson of Henri and Violet Weill of Saverne, France. Mr. Hausman came from his native country to New York at the age of twenty-two, to join his uncle, Eli Weill, in the mercantile business, and later came to Montgomery where he established a wholesale grocery business. He was a man of liberal education and was sent as commissioner to the Paris exposition in 1867, remaining in that city for three years. He was unreservedly in sympathy with the Confederate cause and aided that government in securing provisions, and supplied the Montgomery military hospitals with delicacies that only a merchant able to run the blockade could procure. He was a Democrat; and a member of the Jewish congregation of Kahl Montgomery. Married: to Caroline, (q. v.) daughter of Alexander and Pauline (Weill) Kulman of Saverne, France, the former president for many years of a large Jewish congregation in that city, a man of philanthropic character and intellectual attainments. Children: 1. Paul G., m. (1) Edner A. Arnold, who died, one son, Jack Arnold, (2) Jesse M. Stevens; 2. Pauline Jeanne; 3. Beula Bell, m. Morris L. Gerson; 4. De Jalma S.; 5. Maurice C. Last residence: Montgomery.

HAWKINS, ALFRED N., business man, was born March 20, 1852, in Jefferson County; son of James A. and Susan C. (Dupuy) Hawkins, also natives of Jefferson County. He received a good education and spent his early life in agricultural pursuits. He was appointed deputy sheriff in 1880, later serving as deputy tax collector and also as assessor. He began his business career as a partner in the grocery firm of Daniels, Cheek and Hawkins, continuing until 1886, when Mr. Daniels retired and the firm became Cheek and Hawkins. He is a member of the Cumberland Presbyterian church. Married: in October, 1877, to Francis E., daughter of Dr. T. F. and Mary J. (Simmons) Cheek; granddaughter of Dr. A. Q. Simmons, whose liver regulator attained a world wide fame. Married: 1. Mamie C.; 2. Talbert F.; 3. Guy D. V.; 4. Olga; 5. Johnston. Residence: Birmingham.

JAMES H. WILSON

HAWKINS, BENJAMIN, Indian agent, was born August 15, 1754, in Bute, later Warren County, N. C., and died June 6, 1816, at Fort Hawkins, Ga.; son of Col. Philemon and Delia (Martin) Hawkins, the former a native of Gloucester County, Va., who removed to Bute County, N. C., a soldier of the Revolution, signer of the state constitution, and a member of the convention that ratified the federal constitution; grandson of Philemon and Ann Eleanor (Howard) Hawkins, the former a native of England who emigrated to Virginia in 1715. Benjamin Hawkins was educated at Princeton college; served as a French interpreter during the Revolutionary War; and was a member of congress from North Carolina for a number of years. About 1795 he was appointed agent to superintend all Indians south of the Ohio River. He established his headquarters in December, 1796, at Fork Hawkins, Creek Nation, on Ocmulgee River, opposite the present city of Macon, in Bibb County. During his services as agent many visits were paid to Tuckabatchie in the Upper Creek and to Coweta in the Lower Creek nations in Alabama. He submitted his resignation to each of the succeeding presidents, but it was not accepted, therefore he remained at his post until his death. Author: "Sketch of the Creek country in 1798 and 1799," published as part one of volume 3 of the collections of the Georgia historical society, 1848; "Letters of Benjamin Hawkins, 1796-1806," published by the same society in 1916. Besides these two published works he left a vast lot of material in manuscript, a great deal of it however was destroyed by fire a short time after his death. Children: 1. Madison; 2. Virginia; and several other daughters. Last residence: Fort Hawkins, Ga.

HAWKINS, HIRAM, public official, was born September 9, 1826, in Bath County, Ky.; son of Thomas and Mary (Dean) Hawkins, who lived on a farm in Bath County, the former of whom was a farmer, merchant, and miller, who died of cholera at Maysville, Ky., on his return from a journey to Baltimore in the interests of his store, about 1846. His ancestors came from the shores of Bristol Channel to Maryland, shortly after the first settling of that territory as a colony, being driven from England by political and religious oppression. Members of the family took an active part in the war for independence, and at the close of the Revolution, Col. Hawkins' grandfather moved from Maryland to Kentucky, as one of the band of men who redeemed Kentucky from wilderness and savagery. Col. Hawkins was reared on his father's farm in Bath County, and attended the common schools of the district. He left school at the age of nineteen to aid in the management of his father's estate, but continued his educational training by reading and study. When he was twenty-six years old, he was chosen colonel by the militia regiment of his county, and the selection was confirmed by the governor of Kentucky. In 1854, he was nominated for high sheriff of Bath County, by the newly organized Democratic party, and was defeated by the Whig candidate by only thirty some votes. The next year, when the Whig and Know-Nothing parties swept the state, carrying their state ticket through by an enormous majority, Col. Hawkins was elected to the State legislature from Bath, the only county in the state which went Democratic. In 1859, he sold his farm and made some investments in Texas. The following year, he established a sheep ranch in Texas, stocking it with Kentucky sheep of a superior breed, with the intention of moving to his new property the next year, 1861. The approach of war and the death of his wife caused a change to be made in his plans. At the outbreak of war, Col. Hawkins arrayed himself against what seemed to him to be the coercive measures of the Federal government, and joined his fortunes to those of his state on the basis of neutrality. As soon as hostilities began, he raised, drilled and disciplined a company of cavalry which he tendered to the governor to be used in sustaining the state's policy. After the neutrality theory was exploded, and the state occupied by Federal troops and marshals, Col. Hawkins, with part of the company of volunteers raised by him, left Bath County to join the C. S. Army. He was mustered into the service as a private soldier, was appointed captain of a company three days later, was subsequently elected major of his regiment, and in 1862 was made commander of the Fifth Kentucky infantry, with the rank of colonel. He led his command from that time until the close of hostilities, taking part in the battles of Princeton, Va., Resaca, Chickamauga, Mission Ridge, Rocky Face Gap, Dallas, Intrenchment Creek, and took an active and conspicuous part in harassing detachments of Sherman's army on its march to the sea. After the war, he located in Alabama, and became one of the most progressive farmers of the day. Last residence: Alabama.

HAWKINS, IRA FRANCIS, Methodist minister, was born January 13, 1870, near Andrews' Camp Ground, Pickens County; son of Gabriel and Martha Elizabeth (Lawrence) Hawkins, the former a native of Spartanburg, S. C., who served in the Methodist ministry of the Alabama conference for twenty-five years preceding his removal to Mississippi where his death occurred at Rose Hill. The Lawrence family resided at Crawfordville, Miss. He received his primary education under competent instructors, and graduated from the Southern university, A. B., 1889, and A. M., 1891; received orator's medal and was tutor in mathematics; principal of Hattiesburg city schools one year, 1890; attended the theological department of Vanderbilt university 1893; was licensed to preach at Hattiesburg, Miss., 1890; joined the North Alabama conference, M. E. church, South, at Talladega in 1893, fifty years after his father had joined at the same place; has served churches at Town Creek, Courtland, Cullman, New Decatur mission, Wesley chapel in Birmingham, Tuscumbia and Florence, Decatur and Bessemer; has served as presiding elder of the Gadsden, the Florence, the Decatur and the Roanoke districts. He is a Democrat; a Knight Templar; Shriner; Odd Fellow; Knight of Pythias; and a Woodman of the World. Married: January 30, 1895, at Courtland, to Katie, daughter of Edward and Caroline (Watkins) Shackelford; and granddaughter of Dr. Jack Shackelford (q. v.). Children: Katherine Shackelford. Residence: Roanoke.

HAWKINS, JAMES E., lawyer, was born April 10, 1851, at Elyton, and died July 3, 1895, at Birmingham; son of Dr. Nathaniel and Maria (Welton) Hawkins, the former a practicing physician, who was graduated from a medical college in New York, and died in 1877, the latter the founder of the Episcopal church in Jefferson County, who died at Elyton 1883; grandson of Williamson Hawkins, one of the first white men to invade the forest of Jones Valley, having come from Woods Station, S. C., 1813, and later moving to Village Creek on what for three quarters of a century was known as the Hawkins plantation, where he lived until his death in 1876. His maternal grandfather was a farmer in New England, whose family included the original proprietors of the towns of Farmington, Mattatuck, Waterbury, and other New England colonial towns. After the War of Secession was concluded, Mr. Hawkins and his younger brothers undertook the management of the home farm, doing the work about the place which had been formerly handled by the negroes. He remained on the farm for four years, and in 1869 entered the University of the South at Sewanee, Tenn., being the seventeenth student to matriculate in that institution. He remained at college three years, and finished his course as prepared there, but took no degree, as the University had not at that time arranged degrees. He was admitted to the bar before Judge Mudd, in September 1872, after six months of hard study in a law office. He practiced law in Jefferson County for two years, and in December, 1874, moved to Shelby County to take up a law partnership with Senator John T. Morgan. He remained there for two years, the only period of his life spent in residence outside of Jefferson County. While in Shelby County, Mr. Hawkins, with William McMath, founded and edited the Shelby "Sentinel." After returning to Jefferson County, he bought an interest in the Jefferson "Independent," and for four years was political editor of that paper. For some time he was general guardian of the county, resigning that position in 1881. In 1880, he was the Democratic nominee for representative in the lower house of the legislature, and was defeated after a hot contest by a majority of seven. In 1882, he was again candidate for the legislature, and defeated his former opponent, becoming, during his term in the house, a member of the judiciary committee, and chairman of the committee on mining and manufacturing. In December 1880, he was appointed assistant solicitor for Jefferson County; was appointed by the legislature solicitor for the county, December 1884, and re-elected to the office by the legislature, 1886. Married: November 14, 1872, to Tempe Fitts, daughter of John and Virginia (Aylette) Fitts, the former a planter, merchant and trader; granddaughter of Judge Oliver Fitts (q. v.). Children: 1. Maggie Welton; 2. James Fitts; 3. Sarah; 4. Richard Nathaniel; 5. Roberta; 6. Julian Edward. Last residence: Birmingham.

HAWKINS, J. G., member of the constitutional convention of 1861, from Washington County.

HAWKINS, SAMUEL WILLIAMSON, printer; was born September 7, 1877, at McCalla, Jefferson County; son of Samuel Leonard and Fannie (Thomas) Hawkins, the former a native of Jefferson County, a farmer and saw-mill operator, who lived at Hawkins Springs; grandson of David and Mary (Findley) Hawkins, of Hawkins Springs, Jefferson County, and of John Thomas and wife, formerly a Miss Murphy, of Bucksville. Representative Hawkins received his education in the public and private schools of Jefferson County, and Wheeler business college, of Birmingham. He is the owner of the Birmingham Dispatch Printing Co. In the Spanish-American War, he served as a private in Troop D, cavalry regiment, national guard, under Captain E. J. McCrossin. He is a Democrat; an Episcopalian; Mason; thirty-second degree Scottish Rite; Royal Arch; and a Shriner. Married: August 1, 1904, at North Birmingham, to Eva Mae, daughter of John M. and Sarah Ann (Dodson) McCurry, of North Birmingham, who came to Jefferson County from Northern Georgia. Children: 1. Bessie May; 2. Sarah Frances; 3. Sammie Lee; 4. Wilhelmina. Residence: North Birmingham.

HAWKINS, VIRGIL OCTAVIUS, Methodist minister, was born August 5, 1847, in Pickens County, and died at Lineville; son of Lieu Dolphus Hawkins, a descendant of one of the seven Hawkins brothers who immigrated from England, several of whom settled in Spartanburg, S. C., about the Revolutionary period. Dr. Hawkins received his education in the district schools of his native county, and Artesia, Miss., and Summerfield, being in the home of Bishop Andrew in the latter place. He entered the Confederate Army in 1863 at the age of seventeen years, and served the remaining years of the conflict. In 1868 he was licensed to preach, and joined the Methodist conference, serving as his first charge, the Columbus circuit. Later he served numerous pastorates, and was presiding elder of the Lafayette, Birmingham, Gadsden, Decatur, Tuscaloosa and Albertville districts, and served the Decatur, Talladega, Hartselle and Lineville stations. He was especially zealous in his advocacy of missionary work. Married: December 29, 1869, in Lowndes County, Miss., to Mary Isabella, daughter of James and Lockey (Adams) Davis, natives of Wilson County, Tenn.; granddaughter of Francis Adams, and a relation of John Adams, president of the United States, and of Francis Adams of Revolutionary fame. Children: 1. Eugene Hargrove, a Methodist minister of great promise who died August 2, 1902, m. Sarah Swayne Wager and left her widowed with four children; 2-5. David Keener and three other children who died in infancy; 6. Lena Belle, m. L. P. Watts, Lineville; 7. Lieu Dolphus, m. Georgia Augusta Gaines, New York City; 8. Virgil Hillman, Methodist minister, m. Narcye Jane Steele, Lincoln. Last residence: Lineville.

HAWKINS, WILLIAM STEWART, teacher and author, was born October 2, 1837, at Trinana, Madison County, and died in 1904, in Nashville; son of Robert Hawkins, of Maryland, who removed to Alabama, about 1836; grandson of Caleb Hawkins, also of Maryland. His education was directed by his widowed mother; at the University of Nashville, his guide being Gen. Bushrod Johnson; at Lebanon, his studies were directed by his uncle, Lt.-Gen. A. P. Stewart. In 1858, he graduated from Bethany college, Va., with first honors and valedictorian. From 1858 to 1861, he taught school at Nashville, and studied law under Gen. Niel S. Brown. He entered politics on the side of Secession; joined the Confederate Army and rose to the rank of colonel; was taken prisoner and while in prison, began to write poetry. Returning to Nashville, after the close of the war, he resumed writing. Author: "The Friend," and "The Hero without a name." Last residence: Nashville.

HAWKS, F. H., clerk of the Alabama Baptist State convention, 1874.

HAWN, WILLIAM, civil engineer and auditor, was born December 27, 1837, at Tuscaloosa, Tuscaloosa County, and died May 11, 1909, in Washington City; son of William and Mary (Phelan) Hawn, the former a native of Virginia, who removed first to Huntsville, and later to Tuscaloosa, elected State treasurer of Alabama, 1835, and resigned in 1840 to become cashier of the State bank; grandson of John and Priscilla Oakes Morris (Ford) Phelan of Huntsville, the former was captain of Irish volunteers, Queens County, removed to New York City in 1793, where he became clerk in the Manhattan bank, and later cashier of the Bank of New Brunswick, N. J., and finally settled in Huntsville, the latter the niece of Sir Richard Oakes of Scotland; great-grandson of Dennis and Mary (Lalor) Phelan of Queens County, Ireland, a native of Marysboro, who emigrated to Petersburg, Va., where he died in 1830; great-great-grandson of John and Mary (Shugan) Phelan of Gloucester Castle, Kings County, Ireland and grandnephew of James Phelan, Bishop of Asbury. The Hawn family came to America from Germany after the American Revolution. The Phelans were of Irish stock. William Hawn's education was limited to private schools but by diligent application he acquired the profession of a civil engineer. In 1853 he entered an engineer corps to survey the N. E. and S. W. Alabama R. R. to be constructed from Meridian, Miss., to Chattanooga, Tenn., but after about eighteen months operations were suspended. He then entered the service of the Southern and Western produce co., a wholesale firm in Mobile, but in 1859 he removed to New Orleans for a year, after which he returned to Mobile and joined the "Gulf City Guards" and went with this organization to Fort Morgan, before the State seceded from the Union. He was detailed by Quartermaster General Duff Greene, for service in his office in Mobile, but not being satisfied with this service he returned to New Orleans where he joined Co. B, Crescent rifles which rendezvoused at Camp Moore and became part of the Seventh Louisiana infantry regiment. On account of permanent disabilities received in battle, he was discharged from the service, but became a clerk in the ordnance department, later to be military store keeper with rank of captain. In 1869 he removed to Selma where he became deputy collector, U. S. internal revenue. He later accepted employment with the builders of the Selma, Marion and Memphis R. R., and became the agent for that line at Greensboro, and later its general agent with headquarters at Selma. In 1880 he entered the service of the Selma, Rome and Dalton R. R. and when that road became the property of East Tennessee, Virginia, and Georgia R. R. co., he removed to Knoxville, Tenn., where he became a clerk in the auditor's office; was promoted auditor in 1885, and for ten years served in that capacity. He became assistant auditor for the Southern railway co., after this date with headquarters in Savannah, Ga., but was later removed to the Washington headquarters where he retained his position in the auditor's office for many years. Married: February 5, 1862, at Richmond, Va., to Mary Harrington, daughter of Hon. James and Sarah Ann (Ward) Thomson, who lived in New York City. Children: among these, 1. Henry G., of New York City; 2. Phelan. Last residence: Washington, D. C.

HAWTHORN, FRANK, physician, was born September 20, 1835, at Belleville, Conecuh County, and died February 24, 1876, at New Orleans, La.; son of Thomas Jefferson and Katherine (King) Hawthorn, the former who was a native of Dublin, Ga., lived at Belleville and later at Pine Apple; grandson of Joshua and Sarah (Reagin) Hawthorn, who lived at Belleville, but were natives respectively, of North and South Carolina, and of John and Elizabeth (Coleman) King, South Carolinians, who lived at Belleville. He received a good early education and later attended the University of Alabama. He attended the medical department of the University of Virginia, was graduated from the Bellvue hospital medical college at New York City, and later had charge of a branch of the hospital department, New York City. In 1859, he removed to Pine Apple, in 1860, went to New Orleans, and in 1861, removed to Pensacola. He enlisted in the C. S. Army, as private in Co. D, First Alabama regiment, with which he served until 1861, when he was appointed assistant surgeon with the rank of captain. Later he was appointed surgeon with the rank of major. He was placed in charge of a field hospital, and was sent to Corinth, Miss., to assist Dr. Ford in hospital work there. He was with Bragg, during the Kentucky campaign, and when Bragg fell back on Tennessee, he was sent to Chattanooga to establish a hospital there, which was known as the Academy hospital until the close of the war. In the latter part of 1865, he went to London to St. Bartholomew's hospital for treatment, and practiced in St. Bartholomew, and in London. After two years, he returned to New Orleans, and filled a professorship in Tulane medical college, until his death, in 1876. He contributed several articles to the New Orleans Medical and Surgical Journal and among them were: "Alcohol; Its Action in Health and Disease"; "Brain Softening"; "Pneumonia"; and "A Remarkable Case of Opium Poisoning." He was unmarried. Last residence: New Orleans.

HAWTHORN, JOSEPH RICHARD, planter, was born March 8, 1805, in Robinson County, N. C., deceased; son of Joshua Hawthorn. At the age of five years, he removed with his parents to Wilkinson County, Ga., where they lived until, 1817, when they removed to Conecuh County, and settled near Belleville. He engaged in farming, and held several offices of public trust before he removed, in 1854, to Pine Apple, Wilcox County. He represented the latter county for two terms in the legislature. He was a Democrat, and a member of the Baptist church, which he served as deacon. Married: (1) Sarah King, of Conecuh County; (2) Elizabeth King, of Conecuh County; (3) Harriet Herbert, of Mobile. Children, by first marriage: 1. Joshua King, deceased, m. (1) Francis Thomas, (2) Jane Williams; 2. James, deceased; 3. John Jefferson, d. at the age of twenty-five years; by second marriage: 4. Joseph Richard, jr., sergeant, C. S. Army, m. (1) Mary E. Burford, (2) Susan Hunter McCreary, child by second marriage, Samuel McCreary, M. D., Mobile, 1889, m. Marie Charlotte Hamil; 5. Sarah; 6. Catherine; 7. Emma; 8. Laura; 9. Caroline. Last residence: Pine Apple.

HAWTHORNE, ALEXANDER TRAVIS, Baptist minister, Confederate soldier; was born in 1825, in Conecuh County; son of Rev. Kedar and Martha (Baggett) Hawthorne (q. v.); nephew of Hon. J. R. Hawthorne of east Wilcox County; and brother of Rev. James Boardman (q. v.). He grew to manhood in Wilcox County, and in 1846 went to Mexico as a lieutenant in Capt. Blanton McAlpine's company from Mobile. Later he practiced law for several years in Arkansas, and was in the mercantile business in New Orleans, La., at the beginning of the War of Secession. He returned to Arkansas and recruited a regiment for the C. S. Army, took an active part in the service and was promoted to the rank of brigadier general in the Trans-Mississippi department under Gen. Price. After the war, he resided in Texas and became a Baptist minister. Last residence: Texas.

HAWTHORNE, JAMES BOARDMAN, Baptist minister, evangelist and lecturer, was born on his father's plantation in Wilcox County, May 16, 1837, and died February 23, 1910, in Richmond, Va.; son of Rev. Kedar and Martha (Baggett) Hawthorne, the former a native of Robinson County, N. C., who removed to Conecuh County, and was married there in 1825, served many pastorates in Alabama and Florida, and during his fifty years ministry in the Baptist church immersed more than five thousand converts, and who died in Greenville in 1877. Dr. Hawthorne attended school at the Camden military academy, completed his literary studies at Howard college, then at Marion, and spent three years in the study and practice of law in Mobile. Under a sense of duty he abandoned that profession, and engaged in the ministry. He re-entered Howard college, took the theological course, and was ordained for the ministry at Friendship Baptist church, Wilcox County, September 22, 1859. Soon after ordination he became pastor of the Second Baptist church of Mobile. In 1863 he entered the Confederate Army as captain of the 24th Alabama infantry regiment, but resigned to become chaplain. At the close of the war, he accepted the pastorate of a church in Selma; two years later he was called to the pastorate of the Franklin Square church, Baltimore, Md.; and three years later he accepted a call to the First Baptist church of Albany, N. Y., from which he went to the Broadway Baptist church, Louisville, Ky. While there he led in the movement for a new house of worship, which was completed at a cost of $100,000. He then accepted the pastorate of the Tabernacle Baptist church of New York City, but the rigors of a northern climate, together with his ministerial zeal broke his health, and in 1875 he returned to Alabama, and located in Montgomery as pastor of the First Baptist church. In the fall of 1879 he was called to serve the First Baptist church, Richmond, Va., and after remaining there five years he served the First Baptist church of Atlanta for twelve years, from which he went to Nashville to the First Baptist church for three years and then to Grove Avenue church, Richmond, Va. He celebrated his seventieth birthday in Richmond, 1907, during the meeting of the Southern Baptist convention, after having been in the ministry nearly fifty years. Married: at Mobile, to Emma Matilda, daughter of James and Amelia Hutchison. Children: 1. Hartwell, m. Lottie Tupper of Richmond, Va.; 2. Charles, m. Effie, daughter of Warren Brown of Montgomery, resides in Baltimore, Md.; 3. died in infancy. Last residence: Richmond, Va.

HAWTHORNE, KEDAR, Baptist minister, was born in January, 1797, in Robinson County, N. C., and died in August, 1877, in Greenville. He moved to Alabama in 1817, and settled in Conecuh County. Six months after his arrival in Alabama, he enlisted in the U. S. Army under Gen. Jackson, and continued with him until the close of the Indian War in Florida. After his return to Conecuh, he settled near Belleville. He was baptized by Rev. Alexander Travis in 1825, and began to preach two or three years afterward. After serving as a licentiate for a short time, he was ordained by Elder Travis and Elder Ellis. He began his ministerial work in the Forks Sepulga, and later moved to Mt. Moriah, Wilcox County, where he founded the Baptist church, known as Fellowship church. He became identified with every denominational interest that sprang up in the counties of Monroe, Wilcox and Conecuh, and aided in the constitution of most of the churches in those counties. In 1856, Rev. Hawthorne moved to Mobile, and established a book store, at the same time serving as pastor of the Stone Street African church. He spent more than fifty years in the ministry; was a missionary in eastern and middle Florida; founded many churches in south Alabama and west Florida; and baptized about forty-five hundred persons. Married: in 1825, near Belleville, to Martha Baggett. Among his children were Rev. James Boardman Hawthorne (q. v.), and Gen. Alexander Travis Hawthorne (q. v.). Last residence: Greenville.

HAYES, ANDREW WILSON, teacher, was born September 7, 1856, at Woodstock, Bibb County; son of William Sidney and Irene S. (Moore) Hayes, the former a native of North Carolina; grandson of Andrew Wilson and Nancy Hayes, of Vance, and of Michael and Nancy Moore; his early education was obtained at Green Pond academy and at Pleasant Hill academy; graduated at Alabama university, A. B., 1883; taught at Monterey academy, 1883-84, Green Pond academy, 1884-86, principal of the latter from 1887 to 1908 with the exception of terms from 1898 to 1900; superintendent of education of Bibb County from 1908 to 1913. He is a Democrat; a Presbyterian; Mason; Knight of Pythias; Woodman of the World. Married: September 21, 1893, at Centerville, to Annie Josephine, daughter of Isaac and Nancy S. Going, of Pickens and Tuscaloosa Counties. Children: 1. Hattie Irene; 2. William Young; 3. Mary Louise; 4. Annie Lois; 5. Lillian, deceased; 6. Nannie Andrew. Residence: Woodstock.

HAYES, ROBERT HUGHES, physician, was born May 13, 1853, at Dudleyville, Tallapoosa County; son of Dr. James Augustus and Ann Eliza (Thomas) Hayes, the former a native of Columbus, Ga., who lived at that place, later moving to Alabama, where he lived in Dudleyville, in Pike County, and at Union Springs; grandson of Robert and Susan Caroline (Beckman) Hayes, who lived at Columbus, Ga., the former who lived at Gadensboro, Greene County, Ga., in 1824, then at Crawfordville, Taliaferro County, and at LaGrange, before moving to Columbus, the latter a lineal descendant of Capt. Samuel Beekman, who commanded a company in the Revolutionary War, and was assassinated by the Tories near Milledgeville, Ga., while serving in the secret service of the state, and who has had raised in his honor over his grave a monument placed there by the commonwealth, and of Dr. John Hughes and Sarah Jane (Hunter) Thomas, who lived at Tuskegee, at Wetumpka, at Ft. Mitchell, Russell County, and near Union Springs; great-grandson of Gen. John G. Hayes, a soldier in the Revolution, and of Edward and Hannah (Hughes) Thomas, the former a native of Wales who came with his brothers, John, Mike, Joseph and Hal, to America and settled at Goalsberry Falls, on James River, Buckingham County, Va., on what was known as the Thomas Farm, the latter a native of Albermarle County, Va.; great-great-grandson of Capt. George Hayes, captain of a vessel on Pamunkey River; great-great-great-grandson of Robert Hayes, an Englishman and an old style Methodist. Mr. Hayes was educated in the public schools of Union Springs, taught by Prof. C. L. McCartha; attended the Alabama polytechnic institute, 1869-1870; and Emory college, Georgia, 1872-1873. He devoted the next two years of his life to business, and in 1875 began to study medicine under his father and Dr. C. H. Franklin at Union Springs. He took a full course of lectures at Vanderbilt University, Nashville, Tenn., and was graduated at the St. Louis medical college, M. D., 1879. He entered the practice of medicine at Union Springs in August, 1879, and has practiced at that place ever since. He has served as coroner of Bullock County; as county health officer, as chairman of the county board of health, is a life counsellor of the Alabama Medical Association, has been city physician of Union Springs, is a member of the county, state and national medical associations and of the Tri-state Medical Association of Georgia, Alabama, and Tennessee, is a Democrat, a Methodist, and a Mason. Married: April 5, 1883, at "Ingleside," Barbour County, to Anna Martha Williams, daughter of Dr. Robert Walton and Geraldine (Carter) Williams, of that place; granddaughter of Col. Zackariah and Martha (Walton) Williams, who lived in Augusta, Ga., and of Judge W. P. and Ann Harris (Davis) Carter, of Georgia; great-granddaughter of Robert and Blanch (Glascock) Walton, who lived at Frog Hall, Richmond County, Ga., the former a captain in the Revolution and a brother of George Walton, one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence, and of Gazaway Davis; great-great-granddaughter of William Glascock, who came to America in 1630 from England, who was twice elected speaker of the assembly of Georgia, and during the Revolution acted as governor of the state, was one of the first speakers of the house of representatives, was accused of high treason by the British, was one of the trustees who founded Franklin college and the University of Georgia, was a counsellor and one of the founders of Richmond Academy, died in 1793, and was buried on his plantation below Augusta, and of George and Sallie (Hughes) Walton; great-great-great-grandson of Robert and Frances Walton who settled in Prince Edward County, Va., in 1662, after coming to this country from England. Children: 1. James Augustus, b. 1891; 2. Carolyn Beall, m. T. L. Wilson; 3. Geraldine, deceased; 4. Maude, deceased. Residence: Union Springs.

HAYES, WILLIAM NOFLEET, lawyer, was born August 17, 1839, at Petersburg, Lincoln County, Tenn.; son of John N. and Mary J. (Blake) Hayes, the former a native of Warrenton, N. C., who lived at Petersburg, Tenn., and at Athens; grandson of Charles and Elizabeth (Howze) Hayes, of Warrenton, N. C., and of John W. and Mary A. (Morgan) Blake, of Petersburg, Tenn. Mr. Hayes was educated in the common schools of Petersburg, Tenn., and Athens, and at Cumberland university, Lebanon, Tenn., 1856-1857. During the War of Secession, he was employed as a railroad conductor and telegraph operator; studied law under Luke Pryor, and practiced at Athens, 1865-1872; served as solicitor of Limestone County, 1866-1870; was elected State senator from Lauderdale and Limestone Counties, 1888-1889, 1890-1891, and 1906. He is a Democrat and a Royal Arch Mason. Married: July 1, 1863, at Athens, to Mary E. Hussey, daughter of Dr. Elijah M. and Mary A. (Thach) Hussey, of Mooresville; granddaughter of Thomas H. Thach, and his wife, formerly a Miss Peete. Children: 1. William H., m. Minnie Sykes; 2. Ann Morgan, m. Charles E. Naile; 3. John, m. Eppie Townes; 4. Thomas; 5. Helen Blake; 6. Baker; and two who d. in infancy. Residence: Mooresville.

HAYS, CHARLES, planter, representative in congress, was born February 2, 1834, at Hays Mount, Greene County, and died at Boligee, Greene County; son of George and Anne Miller (Beville) Hays, who lived at Hays Mount plantation in Greene County, the former a native of South Carolina, a member of the Alabama legislature who died at his plantation home, September 1, 1839; grandson of Charles and Hannah (Somerville) Hays, who came from the north of Ireland and settled in Chester County, S. C., who were Scotch-Irish and were members of the Presbyterian church, and of Woodliff and Judith Winston (Brackett) de Beville, who came from Amelia County, Va., to Greene County in 1818; great-grandson of James de Beville, who was born June 15, 1748, and of Benjamin Brackett, who was born May 10, 1754, in Virginia. The de Beville family came from France to Virginia, and was descended from Gen. de Beville who came to America with Count de Rochambeau as his aide de camp in 1775. The name, de Beville, was changed to Beville after the settling in Virginia. Mr. Hays received his early education from Mr. Archibald at Eutaw, and from Mr. Tutwiler at Green Springs. He attended the University of Virginia and the University of Georgia. He was a planter in Greene County. With his stepfather, Col. John W. Nomack, Mr. Hays was a delegate to the convention at Baltimore which nominated Stephen A. Douglas for president. He was elected a representative in congress from Alabama for two terms, and was a member of the Alabama legislature. During the War of Secession, he was an assistant inspector general with the rank of major in the C. S. Army, serving on the staffs of Gen. Marcus J. Wright and Gen. Preston Smith. He took part in the battles of Belmont, Shiloh, Chickamauga, and other engagements in the army of Tennessee. He was a Republican; an Episcopalian; and a Knight Templar. Married: December 21, 1863, at Tuscaloosa, Cornelia Minerva Ormond, daughter of Judge John J. and Minerva Jenkins (Banks) Ormond, who lived at Courtland, the former a justice of the supreme court, a native of England, born in 1783, who lived first in Virginia, then moved to Courtland where he was married; granddaughter of William Banks, a planter and merchant of Courtland; great-granddaughter of Thomas and Mary Grey (Washington) Jenkins, the former a surgeon in the Revolutionary War, the latter a native of Brunswick County, Va., whose father, Thomas Washington, was a colonel in the Continental Army, and whose brother, Thomas Washington, jr., was a lieutenant in Lee's battery during the Revolution. Children: 1. Mary Hairston, Myrtle Hall, Boligee; 2. Anne Miller, Myrtle Hall, Boligee; 3. John Ormond, Myrtle Hall, Boligee; 4. Charles, m. Anna McQueen of Eutaw, granddaughter of Gen. McQueen of South Carolina, member of the Confederate congress, and granddaughter of Gen. Joseph Pickens, of South Carolina and Alabama, children, Roberta Kirksey and Mary Hairston, resides at Columbus, Miss. Last residence: Boligee, Greene County.

HAYS, PATRICK, soldier of the American Revolution; and buried in Valley Creek Cemetery, Dallas County. The inscription on his tomb is as follows: "In memory of Patrick Hays, who departed this life Oct. 15th, 1823, aged 67 years, 3 months, and 24 days. He fought for liberty and died its sincere friend."

HAZARD, C. J., business man, was born in 1829 in Washington County; son of John Bours and Mary F. (Aylett) Hazard, of St. Stephens (q. v.). At his father's death in 1835, he went to Tuscaloosa to live and attended the common schools; in 1843, he was a clerk; in 1849, removed to Mobile to engage in merchandising; 1858 he located in New Orleans, and engaged in the cotton business. In 1861, he enlisted in Co. C, Confederate regiment, for the defense of New Orleans and participated in that battle. In 1864 he removed to Shelby County, and kept books for the Iron works, serving as secretary and accountant there for over twenty years. In 1886, he removed to Oxford; then to Texas but later returned to Alabama. In 1888 he became interested in the South Calera land and improvement company. He is a Democrat; a Mason; and a Methodist. Married: (1) in 1865, to Elizabeth M. Davis; (2) in 1878, to Margaret George. Children: by the first wife: 1. Walter C.; by second wife, 2. Mary F.; 3. George A.; 4. Belle G.; 5. Anna M. Residence: Calera.

HAZARD, JOHN BOURS, merchant and bank cashier, was born in 1802, in Connecticut, and died in 1835 at St. Stephens; son of Captain Charles and Ann (Bours) Hazard, of Massachusetts. He removed to Alabama, while it was yet a territory, settling at St. Stephens, where he first engaged as a merchant's clerk, later entering business for himself. He afterwards became cashier of the Tombigbee bank. Married: to Mary F. daughter of William Aylett, of Virginia a receiver of public lands, in the office at Cahaba, also a prominent lawyer. Children: 1. C. J. (q. v.) m. (1) Elizabeth M. Davis, (2) Margaret George; 2. Martha, m. John S. Storrs (q. v.). Last residence: St. Stephens.

DR. WILLIAM E. B. DAVIS

HEACOCK, JOHN WILLIAM, physician, was born December 1, 1837, at Wewoka, Talladega County; son of Joseph Davis and Rachel M. (Garner) Heacock, of Talladega, the former a native of Chester County, Pa., a physician, who came south in 1821, and settled in Limestone County, later moved to Madison County where he was married, and still later settled in Talladega County; grandson of Jonathan and Hannah (Davis) Heacock, of Chester County, Pa., and of John Garner who emigrated to Alabama in the early history of the state from Virginia and settled near Meridianville, Madison County; great-great-grandson of Jonathan Heacock who came from Staffordshire, England, to America, in 1711, and settled in Pennsylvania, Mr. Heacock was educated in the common schools of Talladega County; served for four years in Co. E, Tenth Alabama infantry regiment, being promoted from private to captain; returned home after the war and read medicine under his father; was graduated from the medical department of the University of Louisiana, 1867-1868; entered upon the practice of medicine in Talladega County, where he has since resided; was elected to the lower house of the State legislature, 1878-79, 1890-91; and 1900-1901; and in the senate from the eighth senatorial district, in 1907. He is a Democrat; a Baptist; and a Mason. Married: (1) to Julia A. Riser; (2) to Lou E. Riser, both daughters of George and Paralee (McLeroy) Riser, the former of whom came from South Carolina in 1833, and settled in Wewoka. Children: 1. Dr. Joseph D., m. Ida Walthrop; 2. Alda B.; 3. Georgia, m. Percy E. Howard; 4. John W., jr.; 5. Minnie; 6. Paralee; 7. Walter; 8. and 9. Irene and Kathleen, twins; 10. Nannie May; 11. Eleanor; 12. Mildred. Residence: Talladega.

HEACOCK, JOSEPH DAVIS, physician, was born May 23, 1869, at Talladega; son of John W. and Belle (Riser) Heacock (q. v.), the former a Confederate soldier serving in the 10th Alabama infantry regiment, and who represented Talladega County in the State legislature for four sessions; grandson of Dr. Joseph D. and Rachel Heacock, natives of Pennsylvania, who came to Alabama at an early date, and of George Riser, of Talladega County. Dr. Heacock received his early education in the Talladega County schools; graduated from Howard college in 1890; studied medicine at Tulane university, Louisiana; and later took a post-graduate course in New York City. He began the practice of medicine in Talladega. He removed to Birmingham in 1894, was elected County physician in 1896 to fill an unexpired term, and in 1898 was re-elected for full term. He has served as surgeon on the colonel's staff of the 3rd Alabama regiment. He is a Democrat; Baptist; Woodman of the World; and a Knight of Pythias. Married: to Ida, daughter of Prof. Robert Judson Waldrop, at one time a member of the faculty of Howard college. Residence: Birmingham.

HEACOCK, ROBERT PRICE, contractor and builder, was born August 10, 1861, in Talladega County; son of Dr. Robert Patrick Henry and Martha (Pope) Heacock, the former a captain in the Confederate service who was killed in battle; grandson of Dr. Joseph D. and Rachel Heacock, who removed from Pennsylvania to Alabama at an early date, and of Thomas L. and Lucy (Thomas) Pope, of Macon, Ga. Robert Price Heacock began as a farmer but soon took up the contracting business in Sylacauga. He is a Democrat; Methodist; and an Odd Fellow. Married: November 22, 1882, to Mollie J., daughter of Washington and Mary (Martin) Crawford, early immigrants to Alabama from South Carolina. Children: 1. Velma; 2. Robert Patrick Henry; 3. Addie Low; 4. Maud; 5. Luther Joe; 6. Cadwalder; 7. Anne Grace. Residence: Sylacauga.

HEAD, JAMES BUTLER, lawyer, was born December 16, 1846, at Clinton, Greene County, and died June 26, 1902; son of William and Cynthia (Butler) Head, who lived at Clinton, Greene County. He was educated in the common schools at Clinton and at the age of seventeen years, entered the C. S. Army, joining Co. A, Sixteenth regiment of cavalry, under Col. William Armistead. He served as a private from that time, 1864, until the close of the war. He engaged in agriculture for two years, and in 1867, entered, as deputy, the office of clerk of the circuit court of Greene County. He filled various clerical positions in the several court offices of the county, and in 1871 was appointed clerk of the circuit court, which position he filled until 1874. In the meantime, he had taken up the study of law, and in 1874 was admitted to the bar of Eutaw. He practiced his profession in Eutaw until 1888, when he moved to Birmingham. He was associated in law practice with W. C. Ward for one year, then, in 1889, was appointed judge of the tenth judicial circuit, consisting of Jefferson, Walker, and Winston Counties, by Gov. Thomas Seay. In June 1892, he was nominated by the Democratic state convention as one of the judges of the supreme court of the state, and was elected to the office the following August. After his election to the supreme bench, he moved with his family to Montgomery. He was a Democrat; an Episcopalian; a Mason; and a Knight of Pythias. Married: July 9, 1874, in Eutaw, Virginia Louise Pierce, daughter of Judge William Flemming and Mary Edwards (Ratcliffe) Pierce, who lived at Eutaw, the former of whom was at one time probate judge of Greene County, and at the time of his death in 1873, was register in chancery. Children: 1. Rinnie Leigh, m. James Jack Christian, Greensboro; 2. Beverly Pierce, electrician, b. October 6, 1876, solicitor and inspector, Electric Light Company, Birmingham, m. Charlotte Bidgelow Barton, Tuscaloosa; 3. Virginia Roy, m. John Lancel Kaul, Birmingham; 4. Jamie Beverly, m. Edward Bressie Vaughan, Birmingham. Last residence: Montgomery.

HEAD, THOMAS LLOYD, jr., teacher, was born December 19, 1877, at Linnwood, Pike County; son of Thomas Lloyd and Addie Nebraska (Townsend) Head, the former a native of Griffin, Ga., who came to Pike County with his parents at eight years of age, taught school in Arkansas in early manhood, merchandised at Linnwood and China Grove, of which place his wife was a native; grandson of William Randolph and Louisa (Aiken) Head, of Henry County, Ga. and later of Pike County, the former served as a private in the Mexican War under Capt. Sargent of Griffin, Ga., enlisted in the Confederate army under Col. Colquitt, was made captain, resigned the command following sick leave, in 1863, and was made a captain in Hilliard's Legion, of John C. and Emily (Talbot) Townsend of China Grove. Mr. Head received his early education in the public school at China Grove; graduated 1901 from the Troy State normal college, with degree of B. P.; began teaching in 1901 and has taught at Salitpa, and Grove Hill, Clarke County, and at China Grove; elected Clarke County superintendent education, 1909; postmaster at Salitpa, 1907-09. In 1915 he was appointed a clerk in the State department of education; and in 1919 was appointed assistant superintendent of education of Montgomery County; a position he now holds. He is a Democrat; a Baptist; a Mason and Woodman of the World. Married: March 14, 1903, at Salitpa, to Jeanette, daughter of William Nathan and Nancy (Kelley) Molton, of that place; granddaughter of John Molton a Confederate soldier who was killed in an engagement on the Chattahoochee River. Children: 1. Ruth Ondine, 2. Clyde Jeanette. Residence: Montgomery.

HEAD, W. M., educator; superintendent of education of Dale County, 1913.

HEALY, ROBERT WALLACE, general U. S. Army and manufacturer, for a number of years a resident of Alabama, was born October 22, 1836, at Chicago, Ill., and died November 2, 1912, at Chattanooga, Tenn.; son of Robert and Ann (Wallace) Healy, both of County Kilkeny, Ireland, where his ancestors had always lived. He received his early education in the public schools of Chicago; graduated from the University of Notre Dame, Indiana, A. B. 1853, received from the same university the honorary degree of A. M., 1865, and LL. D., 1908; and studied at Sloan's commercial college, Chicago. He enlisted in the 58th Illinois infantry regiment, September 25, 1861, was breveted major on March 26, 1865, "for faithful and meritorious services during campaign against Mobile," and brigadier general, U. S. volunteers, March 13, 1865; took part in the campaign against Mobile and the battle of Blakely, April 9, 1865; returned to command of regiment, July 1865, and garrisoned Montgomery after the close of hostilities. After the war, he became a cotton planter in Alabama; was United States marshal of middle and southern districts of Alabama, 1866-67; chairman Alabama Republican state executive committee, 1872-74; delegate Republican national convention, 1876; candidate for presidential elector, 1876; purchasing agent for Erlanger syndicate, operating Queen and Crescent system of railroads, until January 1892, when he became president of Ross-Meehan foundry company at Chattanooga, Tenn. He was a Catholic; and a Knight of Columbus. Married: (1) October 1, 1862, to Sarah J. Nolan, of Chicago, and (2) October 25, 1899, to Jeanette Cooke, of Gallipolis, O. No children. Last residence: Chattanooga, Tenn.

HEARD, GEORGE FELIX, Baptist minister, was born February 28, 1812, in Greensboro, Ga., and died in 1844, in Harrison County, Tex.; son of Col. Abram and Nancy Heard. Rev. Mr. Heard received his preparatory education at Athens, Ga.; graduated from the University of Georgia, in 1829; spent one year at Princeton theological seminary; one year at Andover; returned to Princeton and remained there until May, 1833. He joined the Presbyterian church at Athens, in 1827, but changed his ecclesiastical relations, in 1833, joining the First Baptist church at Philadelphia, and completing his studies under Rev. Dr. W. T. Brantly, sr. He returned to Georgia; was called to Black Swamp church, S. C., in February, 1834; removed to Mobile the next year, remaining there for five years, during the latter three editing the Baptist paper, "The Monitor." In 1841, he removed to Harrison County, Tex. Last residence: Harrison County, Tex.

HEARD, JAMES ABRAM, Methodist minister and educator, was born July 29, 1821, at Greensboro, Greene County, Ga., and died October 15, 1896, at Florence; son of Franklin Coffee and Ann Matilda (Bozeman) Heard, the former a native of Georgia, who lived at Greensboro, Augusta, and Milledgeville, that state, prior to locating in Mobile where he became a merchant and cotton factor, a major in the Mexican War; grandson of Abram and Nancy (Coffee) Heard of Hancock County, Ga., and of James and Julia (Mounger) Bozeman, the former comptroller of Georgia for twenty years; great-grandson of Thomas and Elizabeth (Fitzpatrick) Heard, natives of Hanover County, Va., the former born in 1742, captain in the Revolutionary War; great-great-grandson of Stephen and Mary (Falkner) Heard of Ireland, the eldest of seven brothers, who came to Virginia, sons of an Irish earl with estates also in England. Stephen Heard, colonel in the Revolutionary War, and governor of Georgia in 1781, was his nephew. The mansion of Gov. Heard, at Washington, Ga., still stands, a monument to the civilization of the old South. Rev. Dr. Heard was also the grandnephew of Gen. John Coffee, one of the heroes of the War of 1812, and a descendant of Gen. Daniel Morgan of Revolutionary fame. He was also a cousin to the distinguished Doctors Nathan and Nathan Gross Bozeman. He received his early education in Augusta, Ga., and Mobile, and graduated from Randolph-Macon college, Va. He studied law and was admitted to the bar by Judge J. C. Campbell, but being deeply impressed with a call to the gospel, gave up his profession and became an itinerant preacher. He was licensed first to exhort by Dr. Jefferson Hamilton, August 29, 1843, in Mobile. In December of the same year, he was licensed to preach by Dr. Jesse Boring. His first appointment was the Macon circuit, that county, and he was next sent to Claiborne. He filled many important stations in both conferences of Alabama, in the Memphis, Tenn. conference, and was a number of times presiding elder. For more than fifty-three years he was actively in the ministry. He was a ripe scholar and served as president of the Collierville, Tenn., female college, LaGrange, Tenn., female college and the State normal school, Florence. Several months before his death he was superannuated. He was a Mason. His biographer says: "During the war, 1860 to 1865, James A. Heard was a benediction and a blessing. He was instant in season and out of season, attending the sick and the wounded and dying, bringing comfort to the distressed, and was a successful agent in bearing the means of help to the needy. During all these dark days, he continued to preach Christ. Among the many who brought floral offerings to lay on his casket were some of his former slaves who never lost their love for their old master and friend." Married: in 1846, in Tuskegee, by Rev. Lovic Pierce, who had also performed the marriage ceremony for her parents, to Ann Eliza Houghton, member of a family of wealth and position. Children: 1. Franklin Coffee, physician, m. Lucy Hunt Taylor of Brownsville, Tenn.; 2. Mattie Hunter, m. Dr. Nathaniel Gilmore, Jackson, Tenn.; 3. James A., jr., m. Fannie Goodwyn, Memphis, Tenn.; 4. Altona Thompson, Collierville, Tenn.; 5. Annie, m. F. F. Boyd of Tennessee; 6. Julian Elder, m. Effie E. Hackney. Last residence: Florence.

HEARD, JOSHUA T., Methodist minister; pastor of the Court St. church, Montgomery, 1850-51.

HEARIN, JESSE BETHEA, lawyer, was born July 6, 1881, at Bladon Springs, Choctaw County; son of Robert Matlock and Annie (Averytte) Hearin, the former a native of Grove Hill, Clarke County, later a resident of Bladon Springs, four years a Confederate soldier, courier to Gen. Joseph Wheeler, sheriff of Choctaw County during the Reconstruction period, and an active member of the Ku-Klux Klan; grandson of Thomas and Emily (Matlock) Hearin (q. v.), and of Alfred and Amanda Pauline (Dennis) Averytte of Orrville, the latter being the daughter of one of the pioneer missionary Baptist preachers. The Hearins were Scotch-Irish Presbyterians. Jesse Bethea Hearin received his preparatory education in the private school of George H. McKee in Bladon Springs, and in the public schools. He graduated from the Columbian university, Washington, D. C., now George Washington university, 1902; and received his legal training at the University of Alabama. He located in Demopolis, and was made city attorney, 1908-10; mayor, 1910-12, and re-elected 1914. His administration was signalized by removal of politics and the substitution of business in connection with the municipality. He organized the Business league of Demopolis and took the initiative in bringing to the attention of the outside world the splendid agricultural advantages of that section of the State. He is a Democrat; Presbyterian; Mason; Elk; and a member of the Kappa Sigma and Phi Delta Phi college fraternities. Married: November 16, 1910, at Knoxville, Tenn., to Johnnie Ellen, daughter of John W. and Mary (Wright) Kennedy of that place. She was graduated from the University of Tennessee. The Kennedys were pioneers of East Tennessee, Presbyterians, Democrats and Confederate soldiers. The Wrights were a sturdy pioneer family also of East Tennessee. Residence: Demopolis.

HEARIN, THOMAS, planter, was born December 30, 1807, at Chester, Chester District, S. C., and died March 30, 1870, at Bladon Springs; son of Robert and Nancy (Mayfield) Hearin, the former a native of Spartanburg, S. C., who removed to Clarke County, in 1814, and settled near Gosport, a soldier in the War of 1812 and various Indian wars; grandson of Robert and Mary (McGregor) Hearin, who immigrated in 1760, to South Carolina from Ireland, whither he had moved from Scotland on account of the religious persecution, being a covenanter, and of James and Elizabeth (Bruce) Mayfield, who lived in either Kentucky or Tennessee. Thomas Hearin was educated at Suggsville academy, Clarke County, and engaged in planting throughout his life, being the owner of extensive lands and many slaves. For twenty years, he was county commissioner of Choctaw County. During the War of Secession, he had charge of collecting and levying taxes for the Confederacy in Choctaw and Washington Counties. He was an ardent secessionist and sent all his sons into the service of the Confederacy and also gave fifty thousand dollars to that government. He was a private in the Creek Indian War, a major of militia in 1848, and colonel of militia from Choctaw County, 1849, and subsequent years. His interest in education was ardent and he served as chairman of the school board of Mt. Sterling, a chartered institution located in Choctaw before the war. He was a Democrat; a Presbyterian; Mason; Chief of the Knights of the White Camelia, Ku-Klux Klan, in Choctaw County and a leader in that organization throughout west Alabama. He wrote its constitution for his section and required that the rules be strictly observed. Married: in 1828, in Clarke County, to Emily, daughter of Thomas and Elizabeth (Rogers) Matlock, who lived in East Tennessee, the former was a native of Pennsylvania, and removed to Kentucky, and later to Clarke County. Children: 1. James Madison, killed in the War of Secession, 1864; 2. Sarah, m. Samuel N. Rone; 3. Mary Melissa, m. G. McSpraggins; 4. Cornelia, m. John P. Knox; 5. Clara, m. Dr. J. T. Ham; 6. Robert Matlock, four years in the War of Secession;

Co. A, Third Alabama cavalry, C. S. Army and was Gen. Joseph Wheeler's courier and secretary at one period during the struggle, m. Annie Averytte, Mobile; 7. Louise, m. Jesse W. Norwood; 8. Alfred Thompson, m. Mattie Love, Quincy, Fla. Last residence: Bladon Springs.

HEARIN, WILLIAM JEFFERSON, cotton factor and banker, was born January 10, 1823, near Suggsville, Clarke County, and died July 21, 1898, at Mobile; son of Robert and Nancy (Mayfield) Hearin, and brother of Col. Thomas Hearin (q. v.). His early education was obtained in the schools of his native county and his plans for a collegiate education were frustrated by the death of his father when he was seventeen years of age. He assumed the conduct of his father's planting interests after his death and in February, 1862, entered the Confederate Army as captain of Co. A, 38th Alabama infantry regiment, which company he had raised in Clarke County. After the battle of Chickamauga, he was promoted major and upon the resignation of the colonel of the regiment was promoted to the colonelcy but failed to receive his papers as he was captured at Missionary Ridge. He was imprisoned on Johnson's Island for fourteen months and suffered many hardships. He located in Mobile in 1865, and became a cotton factor, founding the firm of W. J. Hearin and company. Later he was made president of the Stonewall fire insurance company, which position he held for twenty years. Many years before his death he became president of the Mobile savings bank and was one of the state's leading financiers. Feeling the responsibility of citizenship, he accepted the election to the Alabama legislature two terms and was also a member of the board of aldermen of Mobile. He was a Methodist; and a Mason. Married: April 9, 1846, in Mobile, to Susanna, daughter of John Samuel and Sarah (Turner) Glidden of that city, the former a native of Exeter, England, and the latter of Birmingham, England. Children: Eight children were born to them four of whom, two sons and two daughters, lived to maturity. Daughters: 1. Emma Belle, m. Thomas B. Morris, of Mobile; 2. Mary Louise, m. Freeman C. Turner, of Mobile. Last residence: Mobile.

HEARN, EBENEZER, Methodist minister, was born September 25, 1794, in Montgomery County, N. C., and died December 24, 1862, in Montgomery; son of Thomas and Rachel (Drewry) Hearn, who were married in Virginia in 1786, lived in Montgomery County, N. C., until 1810, and emigrated to Wilson County, Tenn.; grandson of Thomas and Nancy (Wilson) Hearn, both of whom were born on the eastern shore of Maryland, who emigrated to Onslow County, N. C., where their son Thomas was born, January, 1768, and moved, several years later to Montgomery County, N. C., settling a few miles from the mouth of the Yadkin. Rev. Hearn had a meagre education, but prepared himself for the ministry. In 1813, he enlisted in the U. S. Army, and served three months in the Creek War under Gen. Andrew Jackson. He was admitted into the itinerancy of the Methodist Episcopal church in 1816, by the Tennessee Annual Conference, and was assigned to the Duck River circuit. For a brief period in 1817, he was in charge of the Flint River circuit, and in the following April was requested to go down into Alabama and form societies and circuits. He formed his first society and circuit near Montevallo. After his re-appointment, September, 1818, he formed a circuit of seven hundred miles, composed of Tuscaloosa, Greene, Perry, Dallas, Shelby, St. Clair, Blount and Jefferson Counties, all in Alabama. He was again appointed to that mission in 1819; was transferred to the Mississippi conference and placed on the Wilkisson circuit, 1820; was appointed to the Bayou Pierre circuit, 1821; was appointed presiding elder and sent to the Louisiana district which embraced the entire state of Louisiana, 1822; was reappointed to that district, 1823; was presiding elder of the Tombigbee district, 1824-1828; was presiding elder of the Cahaba district, 1828-1830; was appointed agent for LaGrange College, then but recently established in north Alabama, 1830; was a delegate to the Methodist General Conference, held in Philadelphia, Pa., May, 1822; was appointed on the Cedar Creek circuit, 1835; was presiding elder of the Irwinton district, 1836-1839; of the Montgomery district; 1839-1841; agent of LaGrange college and Central institute, 1841-1845; appointed missionary to the colored people in the Cedar Creek district, 1845; missionary to the colored people of Cahaba circuit, 1846; was presiding elder of the Talladega district, 1847-1849; of the Mobile district, 1849-1852; missionary to the colored people of Mobile, 1852; to the colored people of Black Bend circuit, 1853-1855; presiding elder of the Cedar Creek circuit, 1855-1857; was assigned to Camden station, 1857; and was presiding elder of the Gadsden district, from 1858 until his death. Married: November 27, 1822, at Montevallo, Shelby County, to Mary Walker, daughter of Rev. Joseph Walker. Children: 1. Jane, m. Rev. A. C. Ramsey, of Gadsden; 2. Caroline; 3. Mary C.; 4. Robert W., m. Jennie Barksdale, San Antonio, Tex.; 5. Joseph F.; 6. Martha D. Last residence: Montgomery.

HEARNE, WILLIAM, soldier of the American Revolution, was born in 1746, in Somerset County, Md., and died in Lowndes County, September 21, 1832; son of Nehemiah and Betty Hearne, the former a saddler by trade as well as a farmer, owning several hundred acres of land in Somerset County, Md.; grandson of Thomas and Sally (Wingate) Hearne, of Maryland; great-grandson of William and Mary Hearne, the former a wealthy merchant and planter of Maryland, emigrating from England and settling in Maryland, 1688. William Hearne enlisted at an early age as a sailor with his brother Elisha. He removed to North Carolina, served through the entire seven years of the Revolution, at one time being a private in a company of chasseurs of Gen. Pulaski legion, and only missed being at Gen. Gates' defeat at Camden by being left behind with the small-pox. He removed with his family to Alabama, settling in Lowndes County. He was a Methodist. Married: to his cousin, Tabitha Hearne. Children: 1. William, m. Nancy Miles, niece of Light Horse Harry Lee, of Georgia, and moved to Alabama, 1815, when it was a territory, and settled near Montgomery, lived there until 1838, when they moved to Louisiana, where they lived until their death; 2. Tabitha, m. Frank Truitt; 3. Selby, m. Elizabeth Ransom and lived in Louisiana; 4. Abigail, m. her cousin, Thomas Hearne, son of Elisha and Fereby (Johnson) Hearne, of North Carolina; 5. Priscilla, m. John Stephens; 6. George Thomas Coke, m. Frances Powell and lived near Lowndesboro. Last residence: Lowndes County.

HECHT, SIGMUND, Jewish rabbi, was born August 1, 1849, at Predmir, Trentshin, Austro-Hungary; son of Moritz and Carolyn (Wilhelm) Hecht, the former a native of Neustadt, Neutra, Austro-Hungary, who lived at Predmir, Isolna and Varin, prior to immigrating to New York, where he died in 1900, a teacher, both in Europe and America; grandson of Simon and Nettie Hecht, of Neustadt, and of Joseph and Ernestine (Tyroler) Wilhelm, of Predmir. Rabbi Hecht was given his preparatory instruction by his father, and later attended high school in Vienna. He began his theological studies in that city and completed them in New York City. He was called to the rabbinate of Kahl Montgomery, Montgomery, January, 1877, and in 1888, accepted a call from Temple Emanu El, Milwaukee, Wis. He remained there until 1899, when he was called to Los Angeles, Calif., by congregation B'nai B'rith. He is a Mason. Author: "Post Biblical history," 1895. Married: September 19, 1875, in New York City, to Liska, daughter of Jonas and Josephine (Schwartz) Tuska of that place. Children: 1. Carolyn, m. Sam M. Newmark, Los Angeles; 2. Alma, m. Joseph Y. Baruh; 3. Grace; 4. Victor. Residence: Los Angeles, Calif.

HEDLESTON, WINN DAVID, Presbyterian minister, was born April 25, 1862, in Hale County; son of W. D. and Martha (Fulton) Hedleston. Dr. Hedleston received the degree of A. B., University of Mississippi, 1883, and the honorary degree of D. D., from Central university of Kentucky. He was principal, Toccopola high school, Miss., 1883; acting professor of chemistry, University of Mississippi, 1884; ordained to the ministry of the Southern Presbyterian church, 1885; pastor, Pleasant Grove and Mackville Presbyterian churches, Kentucky, 1886-88; Paint Lick church, Washington County, Ky., 1889-93; Oxford, Miss., 1893-1910; and professor of ethics, University of Mississippi, since September, 1909. He is a Democrat. Author: "Lamp Oil," 1898. Married: in 1885, to Lillie Andrus, of Oxford, Miss. Residence: University, Miss.

HEFLIN, H. P., lawyer, Birmingham.

HEFLIN, JAMES THOMAS, lawyer, representative in congress, was born April 9, 1869, at Louina, Randolph County; son of Dr. Wilson Lumpkin and Lavie Catherine (Phillips) Heflin (q. v.); and grandson of Wyatt Heflin (q. v.) He received his early education at Louina; attended Southern university; the agricultural and mechanical college at Auburn; and left the latter institution in his junior year to study law at Lafayette, under Judge Denson. He entered the practice of law at Lafayette, 1893; served as mayor of Lafayette for two terms, 1893-1895; as register in chancery of Chambers County, 1895-1896; was elected representative from Chambers County in the State legislature, 1896; and was re-elected in 1898; was elected delegate to the constitutional convention of 1901; and served as secretary of state, 1902-1904, resigning in order to fill the unexpired term of Charles W. Thompson, deceased, in the Fifty-eighth congress; was elected to the Fifty-ninth, Sixtieth, Sixty-first, Sixty-second, Sixty-third, Sixty-fourth, Sixty-fifth and Sixty-sixth congresses. He is a Democrat; Methodist; Knight of Pythias; and Mason. Married: December 18, 1895, at Lafayette, to Minnie Kate, daughter of Zach and Ida Schuessler, of that place. Children: 1. J. Thomas, jr. Residence: Lafayette.

HEFLIN, JOHN THOMAS, sr., son of William L. Heflin, physician, who lived in Randolph County; circuit judge, 1862-65; member of the constitutional convention of 1875. Deceased. Residence: Roanoke.

HEFLIN, JOHN T., lawyer, was born August 13, 1820, in Walton County, Ga.; son of Wyatt and Sarah S. Heflin, natives, respectively, of North Carolina and Georgia, the former of Scotch and English descent, whose ancestors came to America with Lord Granville prior to the Revolution, the latter of French Huguenot ancestry, brother of Wilson Lumpkin Heflin (q. v.), and of Robert S. Heflin (q. v.). His father died in 1860 and his mother in 1869. He received an academic education in Georgia and studied law in Chambers County, in the office of Steiner & Phillips. He was admitted to the bar in 1841 and practiced law for nearly fifty years. He was a member of the State senate during the session of 1851-1852; moved to Jacksonville in 1857 and was associated with William H. Forney, congressman, for three years; was elected circuit judge in 1860, remaining on the bench until 1865; was elected a member of the state constitutional convention of 1875; settled in Birmingham, April, 1882, becoming senior member of the law firm of Heflin, Bowdon & Knox; and was candidate for judge of the supreme court in 1886. He was a bourbon Democrat of the old school, and was a Mason. Married: in 1862, to Sarah E. Chilton Bowdon, of Talladega, who was a native of Kentucky and died June 1, 1878, daughter of Mr. Chilton. Last residence: Birmingham.

HEFLIN, ROBERT S., public official, representative in congress, was born in Georgia; son of Wyatt and Sarah (Stell) Heflin, who were married in Morgan County, Ga., lived for some time in that county, then in Fayette County and later in Coweta County, moved to Alabama in 1837, settling in Randolph County, fourteen miles west of Roanoke, the former a native of Orange County, N. C., who went to Georgia when a young man, and died in 1860, the latter a native of Georgia, who died in 1869; brother of Judge John T. Heflin (q. v.), and of Wilson Lumpkin Heflin (q. v.). He came to Alabama, settled in Randolph County, and in 1849 was elected to the State legislature from that county, following his father in the same relation by four years. He was elected to the State senate as the successor to Henry M. Gay, in 1859, and his service in the senate extended through six years. In the elections of 1860, he supported Mr. Douglas as the representative of the National party. During the war his relations with the C. S. A. government became complicated, and he felt justified, in self defense, in a transfer across the line. After the war was ended, he was appointed by the provisional governor to be judge of the probate court, and in 1868 served upon the Grant electoral ticket. He was nominated and elected to congress by the Republican party, 1869, and served through his term. Last residence: Randolph County.

HEFLIN, WILLIAM L., physician. Deceased. Last residence: Randolph County.

HEFLIN, WILSON LUMPKIN, physician, was born March 21, 1828, in Fayette County, Ga.; son of Wyatt and Sarah (Stell) Heflin, the former a native of Orange County, N. C., who was born about 1795, was reared in North Carolina, and while yet a young man moved to Morgan County, Ga., was married and lived there a number of years, moved to Alabama, near Roanoke, Randolph County, was a planter by occupation, represented Randolph County in the State legislature in 1841, 1843, and 1845, was sheriff of the county several times, and died February, 1860, the latter a native of Georgia, of French Huguenot ancestry, who died in 1869; brother of Judge John T. Heflin (q. v.), and of Robert S. Heflin (q. v.). He was educated at Dudleyville college, and began the study of medicine under Dr. R. M. Stell in Dudleyville. In 1846, he entered a course of lectures at the Augusta medical college, from which institution he was graduated, M. D., 1848. He began to practice medicine at his old home in Randolph County, and remained there until 1892, when he moved to Roanoke. He was a Democrat, always took an active part in politics, and attended a large number of conventions of the party. He was a member of the Methodist Episcopal church, South. Married: December 8, 1859, in Randolph County, to Levisa Catherine Phillips, who died November 3, 1883. Children: 1. Wyatt (q. v.); 2. Herrington P., lawyer, b. February 26, 1862, at Louina, Randolph County, was graduated from the law course of Vanderbilt University, in 1880, read law under his uncle, Judge John T. Heflin, was admitted to the bar in 1887, practiced law alone for two years, formed a partnership with Col. W. D. Bulger, which continued until 1892, unmarried, Birmingham; 3. Walter W., farmer, Randolph County; 4. John T., farmer and merchant, Randolph County; 5. Howell T., a graduate of the University of Maryland, M. D., physician, Roanoke; 6. James T., (q. v.), Lafayette; 7. Robert Lee; 8. Marvin R., b. May 10, 1878, minister, Methodist Episcopal church, South, Roanoke; 9. Sophia, deceased; 10. Cenus, d. in infancy. Last residence: Roanoke.

HEFLIN, WYATT, physician, was born October 21, 1860, in Randolph County; son of Wilson Lumpkin and Levisa Catherine (Phillips) Heflin (q. v.). His education was obtained in the schools of Randolph and Chambers Counties, in Franklin, Ga., in Vanderbilt university, Tennessee, where he attended the literary department one year, and the medical department one year, and finally in Jefferson medical college, Philadelphia, from which institution he was graduated, M. D., 1884. After leaving college, he practiced medicine for two years with his father at Louina, and in 1886, moved to Wedowee. In September, 1888, he went to Philadelphia and entered Jefferson hospital for a special course, after which he located at Birmingham. He is a member of Jefferson County Medical Society, and of the Alabama Medical Association. He was health officer and member of the board of census during his residence at Randolph, and is one of the surgeons in charge of the hospital of the United Charities at Birmingham. He is a Methodist. Residence: Birmingham.

HELMS, ISAAC FRANKLIN, farmer, was born January 20, 1859, at Buena Vista, Marion County; son of Hosea and Sarah (Hendrix) Helms, the former of Monroe, Union County, N. C., who served as a private in the C. S. Army, and was living at Rutledge at the time of his death; grandson of Andrew and Delilah Helms, of Monroe, N. C., and of Isaac Franklin and Sarah Hendrix, of Buena Vista, Ga. Both grandfathers were Revolutionary soldiers. Mr. Helms received his education in the common schools at Leon, and in the Baptist high school of Greenville. He taught school and farmed for fifteen years, then farmed exclusively. He served as justice of the peace from 1894-1898; was a member of the county school board for several years; a member of the Democratic executive committee of Crenshaw County, 1886-1892; a member of the People's party county committee for six years; then returned to the Democratic party. He is a Baptist and a Mason. Married: February 25, 1886, near Rutledge, to Debbie Ann Swanner, daughter of William and Charlotte (Clancy) Swanner, of Rutledge; granddaughter of Dr. Clancy, formerly of Rutledge. Children: 1. Edward A.; 2. William H.; 3. Lalla Rookh. Residence: Rutledge.

HENAGAN, DARBY, physician, was born April, 1831, in Marlboro District, S. C.; son of Ephraim L. and Ann (McInis) Henagan, natives respectively of Marlboro and Marion Districts, S. C., of Scotch-Irish and Scotch descent, their ancestors having come to America before the Revolution, the former a farmer and sheriff of Marlboro District for a number of years, who died in that place, in 1845, the latter who came to Alabama in 1865, died in Sumter County, 1883; grandson of Malcolm McInis; brother of John W. Henagan, colonel of the Eighth South Carolina infantry regiment, who was captured near Winchester, Va., and died a prisoner on Johnson's Island, of Angus Henagan, of South Carolina, who was a cadet at West Point, and was a cavalryman in the C. S. Army throughout the War of Secession, of Charles S. Henagan, an extensive planter of Sumter County, who was a major in the Thirty-sixth Alabama regiment, was captured at Missionary Ridge, and imprisoned on Johnson's Island until the close of hostilities, of Malcolm I. Henagan, who was appointed quartermaster of the Eighth South Carolina regiment in the beginning of the War of Secession, served one year, and died, of James M. Henagan, who was appointed to fill his brother Malcolm's place, and served in that capacity until the close of hostilities, of Ephraim L. Henagan who died in an ambulance on the retreat from Yorktown, after having been elected a lieutenant in Hampton's legion, C. S. Army, during his stay in the hospital; nephew of Barney K. Henagan, who was elected lieutenant governor of South Carolina on the ticket with Patrick Noble, and on the death of Gov. Noble, April 7, 1840, became governor of the state, and of John McInis, who served as a member of the Alabama legislature from Sumter County. In addition to his six brothers, Dr. Henagan had three brothers-in-law who also served in the C. S. Army. He was reared on the home plantation, received a high school education, attended Jefferson Medical College at Philadelphia, 1856-1857, and was graduated from the South Carolina medical college at Charleston, M. D., 1858. He practiced medicine at Rockingham, N. C., until 1860, then located at Sumterville. At the beginning of the War of Secession Dr. Henagan joined Co. A, Thirty-sixth Alabama infantry as company surgeon. He was made assistant surgeon of Bay batteries, Mobile, and early in 1865, was promoted to surgeon of Bay batteries, which position he held until the end of the war, operating chiefly on the coast. He resumed his practice at Sumterville, where he continued to reside until 1868. At that time he moved to Epes Station becoming physician and surgeon to the entire community, as well as engaging in extensive planting. He was president of the Sumter County Medical Society for one term, is a Presbyterian and a Mason. Married: in 1870, to Catherine Etheridge, a native of Sumter County, daughter of James and Martha Etheridge, natives, respectively of North Carolina and Alabama, the former of whom died in Clarke County, and the latter in Sumter County. Residence: Epes Station.

CHARLES C. THACH

HENDERSON, CHARLES, merchant, banker, mayor, business man, president Alabama railroad commission, and governor of Alabama, was born April 26, 1860, at Henderson, Pike County; son of Jeremiah Augustus and Mildred (Hill) Henderson (q. v.). Governor Henderson received his academic education in the schools of Troy, one of his teachers being the Rev. Robert W. Priest, who at one time had been a missionary to the Yoruba tribe in Africa. In 1875, he entered Howard college at Marion, but left on account of the death of his father and did not complete his course. While only seventeen years of age at that time, he was relieved by the State legislature of the disabilities of non-age, and with the inheritance of his father's aptitude for business, began a successful business career. He was mayor of Troy one term of one year, and six terms of two years each; was successively appointed inspector general on Governor Samford's staff, and aide-de-camp on the staff of Governor Jelks. He was for many years a merchant of Troy, finally retiring from this business to take up larger interests. He is a director in the Standard chemical and oil company at Troy; director in the Troy compress company and in the Farmers and Merchants national bank of Troy. He was one of the founders of the Troy State normal college, 1887, and has served many terms as member of its board of trustees, and also as secretary and treasurer. In 1887, he established the present system of graded schools in Troy. On November 6, 1906, he was elected associate on the railroad commission of Alabama, but before taking his seat was appointed president of that body by Gov. B. B. Comer. On November 3, 1908, he was elected president of the commission, and re-elected to the same position, November 5, 1912. The period was one of sharp conflict between the railroads and the people in regard to rates, both for traffic and passengers. During Governor Henderson's service as president of the commission complaints constantly diminished. Annual reports containing reports of the railroads to the commission, and giving other valuable statistics, produced a better understanding between all parties. In the Democratic primary of April 6, 1914, he was one of the two highest candidates in the race for the gubernatorial nomination, and in the second primary of May 11, 1914, was chosen as the standard bearer of the party. In the general election, November 3, 1914, he was elected to the high office of governor of the State, over John B. Shields, Republican, E. H. Cross, Progressive, and W. C. Swain, Socialist. He was inaugurated January 18, 1915, succeeding Gov. Emmet O'Neal. His administration was characterized by the same conservative business methods employed in his large private enterprises. Taking up the duties of his office at an epochal time in world history, the beginning of the European War, he faced as public administrator an economical crisis that threatened the overthrow of that prosperity that had preceded it. In his message to the legislature at the end of his term of office, January 14, 1919, Governor Henderson said: "In coping with the difficulties that have presented themselves during the past four eventful years, it must be acknowledged that neither the State nor its citizenship were in the most favorable condition to meet the full requirements of the times, but they have been met by the exercise of great effort and by continued persistency. In these qualities the people have not failed to show the sterner material of which they are made, even to the point of sacrifice. You recall, that at the commencement of hostilities more than four years ago, what a depressing effect was cast upon the business of the country. It was widespread and extended throughout the nation. It came just preceding the harvest season in Alabama, and, although we had bountiful harvests, the markets for the products of the field and of factory were so depressed, that the outlook was indeed very unpromising. Cotton, which was Alabama's principal product, declined to about one-third of the price prevailing a few days before the declaration of war. For months there was practically no market for the staple and the crop of that year was forced to be sold far below the cost of production." It was not until the supplies in the countries of the Allies were exhausted and America was called upon to feed and clothe not only herself but the warring nations that the products of field, of factory and of furnace in Alabama found a ready market at advantageous prices, and that prosperity returned. Through those two years of discouragement and strain upon the State's finances, Governor Henderson contrived to maintain public credit and to meet the obligations of the commonwealth as they fell due. The policy of strictest economy was adopted whenever it was within the authority of the executive. Additional duties as civil administrator fell upon him during the war period. He appointed the administrative officers of a State council of defense, composed of an executive committee and eleven organizations having national significance and representative of every phase of our economic and social life; county councils were formed and field agents and an office force effectively carried out work that held the spirit of patriotism to the highest point, both for war work and local welfare activities. The Adjutant General's department was sustained by the governor to the limit of his authority in the selection of draft boards, the execution of the federal law relating to the creation of the national army, and the re-establishment of the National Guard in the State following the signing of the armistice. During his administration many progressive laws were enacted. He advocated an equalization of the burdens of taxation, so that a larger revenue might be raised for State uses without increasing the established tax rate at the time. The legislature of 1915, made radical changes in the assessment system of the State, and State and county boards were created to study the workings of the system and to apply the new method of equalization. The health department alarmed by the reports of medical examiners of the army, showing that forty per cent of the young men of Alabama who were examined for military service were found physically unfit, undertook to add new health laws to the statute books looking to the eradication of preventable diseases, all of which had Governor Henderson's full support. The legislature of 1915 undertook the work of reforming the court system, passed the "Consolidated court bill," under which all local courts were abolished and the business of the chancery and circuit courts consolidated and transferred to the circuit courts, but the act did not reach the governor's office in time for amendments that he deemed necessary and he declined to give his approval to the bill. He had gathered, however, statistics that were laid before the legislature of 1919, that formed the basis for future remedial action. During the Henderson administration advanced educational laws were passed. Hitherto the burden of sustaining the public schools had fallen upon the State treasury, but under the new laws, made possible by a constitutional amendment, county and school district taxation were permitted to levy a three mill tax by local option, and Governor Henderson put the entire weight of his personal and official influence towards breaking the bonds that had held the educational system of the State in check, and the adoption of the three mill school tax was considered a remarkable achievement in the circumstances of the times. Before he left the executive chair a number of counties had already voted upon themselves the new three mill tax and consolidated schools and other benefits to rural communities at once began to materialize. An illiteracy commission, inspired by the influence of the club women of the State and the appalling amount of illiteracy revealed by the draft law, was appointed by Governor Henderson and the work finally made a part of the educational system of the State. A compulsory school attendance law was passed by the legislature of 1915. Improvements and enlargements were made in the normal schools for better teacher-training. He advised the closer co-operation of the several State agricultural schools with the Alabama polytechnic institute, and made numerous suggestions for the improvement of administration, curriculum or physical growth of the several types of educational institutions of the State. The penal system enjoyed humane administration, numerous paroles were granted to prisoners who had earned them by good behavior or to those who were incurably ill. Prison camps were reduced to ten, and those better supervised. He advocated the concentration of all State convicts at Speigner's and their employment upon the farm and in industrial plants to be installed there. The greatest agricultural reform in the State's history took place during the Henderson regime, viz: the monopoly of cotton planting yielding, under propaganda of information, to diversified farming. The chief executive stimulated the campaign of education on this subject by urging the fullest cooperation of the agricultural department and agricultural college faculty, and both he and his wife joined the speakers who presented the facts to public gatherings. He recommended reforms to the laws for county government and sustained the work of the highway commission, Alabama being among the first of the states to qualify for participation in the distribution of funds provided by congress in the Bankhead good roads legislation, carrying a two hundred million appropriation for national use. In 1915, the legislature adopted a new primary election law, to which, after operation, out of office the governor recommended certain changes in his last message. The department of archives and history found in him a strong advocate and friend, and although avowedly a "business man," he showed the most genuine interest in the preservation of the State's history, the gathering of relics demonstrating her material and cultural development during a century of statehood, and endorsed every recommendation of the director of the department calling for State support and executive aid. He strongly advocated a continuation of State aid to dependent and needy Confederate soldiers and their widows. A State board of purchase was created that has since become the board of economy and control, with increased powers. The insurance department formerly a bureau in the office of the secretary of State, was made a department in 1916, and became one of the best revenue producing agencies of the State government. The fish and game department were supported and encouraged by him.

The issue of the campaign and upon which the greatest stress was laid, involving his selection as governor, and the one that caused the greatest restlessness and agitation among the people was the status of the State's finances. The legislature for eight years preceding his election, with a realization of the growing needs of all the State's institutions and activities, had made appropriations in excess of the State's income. The result was a constantly widening disparity between expenditures and revenues. The finances of the State were running behind annually more than $450,000.00, which amount increased the deficit with each year. In 1918, the last year of Governor Henderson's administration, the income above expenses was more than $675,000.00, a change of more than a million a year in the State's finances. This surplus was used to reduce the accumulated outstanding warrants of the State, and as he predicted, within two years all outstanding warrants were liquidated. All the more credit reflects upon Governor Henderson's business ability in this matter in view of the fact that the results were accomplished in a period of unprecedented financial depression except for a few months at the end of his administration. The results were accomplished without an increase in taxation, but through the increase in revenues produced by an increase in valuations even though the period, as stated above, was in the main, a war period and one of agricultural demoralization. He closed his term of office with the assurance that his pre-election pledges to give a good business administration and thereby compose the agitation that had stirred the State for years had been fulfilled. A portrait of Governor Henderson hangs in the Department of archives and history, in the capitol, painted by Mrs. A. Faunsworth Drew, of Atlanta. He is an Episcopalian; Mason; and a Knight Templar. Married: November 7, 1888, in Raleigh, N. C., to Laura Parker (q. v.). Residence: Troy.

HENDERSON, CHARLES D., business man and U. S. commissioner for the southern district of Alabama, was born July 29, 1848, in Sparta; son of Judge John M. Henderson, merchant and lumberman of Conecuh County. He received his early education in his native county and entered the university of Alabama, being a student there when the buildings were burned by Federal soldiers. His business life began as merchant's clerk in Belleville, and later in Sparta. In 1867 he entered into partnership with his father at Castleberry, Conecuh County. Later he entered the employ of the Louisville and Nashville railroad, as agent at Sparta, but soon afterwards went to Pensacola, Fla., as a merchant's clerk. In 1888, upon his father's death, he succeeded him in the lumber business, and also conducted mercantile interests. In March, 1891, he was appointed U. S. commissioner for the southern district. He is a Democrat; a Methodist, Knight of Honor and Knight of Pythias. Married: in 1879, in Conecuh County, to Alice, daughter of Basil Bell. Children: 1. Alice B., deceased; 2. Katy; 3. Grover Cleveland; 4. Charles D. Residence: Brewton.

HENDERSON, JAMES M., real estate dealer, was born December 10, 1843, in Warren County, Miss.; received his education in his native county; entered the Confederate Army as a private in Company K, 1st Mississippi artillery and served throughout the war, participating in the battle at Vicksburg, 1862, when the Confederate ram, "Arkansas," passed through the Federal fleet from the mouth of the Yazoo River to the city; Port Hudson, 1863; Atlanta, 1865; Blakely, Ga., 1865, where he was captured. Afterwards he farmed in Warren County, Miss., merchandised in Missouri, and in October, 1874, located in Mobile where he engaged in the real estate business. Married: July, 1873, to Eugenia C., daughter of George Haig, a native of South Carolina. Children: 1. Bessie; 2. Robert M. Last residence: Mobile.

HENDERSON, JEREMIAH AUGUSTUS, merchant, was born June 12, 1831, near Troy, Pike County, and died April 6, 1877; son of Eli and Mary (Darby) Henderson, the former a native of Edgefield, S. C., who removed to Clarke County, and afterwards located in Pike County, where he died on his plantation in 1857; grandson of Nathaniel and Nellie (Holiday) Henderson, and of Willis and Susan (Burns) Darby, all of Clarke County. The paternal grandfather and great-grandfathers were Revolutionary soldiers from South Carolina. He received his education in the public schools of Pike County. He was a merchant; represented Pike County in the Secession convention as a Whig in 1861; was a member of Co. I, Fourth Alabama battalion cavalry, C. S. Army, commanded by Capt. A. P. Love, under Gen. Wade Hampton, Army of Northern Virginia. He was a Mason. Married: January 6, 1832, at Troy, to Mildred Elizabeth, daughter of William Murry and Martha (Ward) Hill of that place. Her family was among the pioneer settlers of the county. Children: 1. Fox, m. Sallie Wilkerson; 2. Ella, m. William L. Brock, Montgomery; 3. Jere Clemens, m. Nettie Talbot (q. v.); 4. Charles, m. Laura Montgomery (q. v.); 5. Willis J., m. Julia Knox; 6. J. E., m. (1) Mattie Hilliard, (2) Mildred Cave; 7. Julia, m. Dr. Hamilton Weedon. Last residence: Troy.

HENDERSON, JERE CLEMENS, merchant and banker, was born February 5, 1857, at Henderson, Pike County; son of Jeremiah Augustus and Mildred Elizabeth (Hill) Henderson (q. v.). He received his elementary education in the public schools of Troy, and later attended Howard college and Eastman business college, Poughkeepsie, N. Y. He is a merchant and banker at Troy; was mayor of Troy, 1897-1899; member of State constitutional convention from Pike County, 1901. He is a Democrat; a Mason; and a Knight of Pythias. Married:

December 23, 1879, in Pike County, to Nettie, daughter of Bailey M. and Mary (Mullins) Talbot, the former was killed in the battle of Peach Tree Creek near Atlanta, Ga. Children: 1. Mary Talbot, m. Edgar M. Wright; 2. Jere Augustus, m. Buford Terry; 3. Helen, m. Emory Folmar. Residence: Troy.

HENDERSON, JOHN, lawyer, was born in 1824, in Monroe County, Tenn.; brother of Rev. Samuel Henderson (q. v.). His father was sheriff of Monroe County, before he came to Talladega, where Mr. Henderson grew to manhood. He received a limited education, and during the Mexican War in 1846, went to Mexico in Capt. Hugh Cunningham's company and served at the siege of Vera Cruz. On his return he read law in Tuskegee under Judge Chilton, and was admitted to the bar in 1849. He spent the next two years in California, then returned to Tuskegee and formed a partnership with Gen. G. C. Gunn. In 1855, he came to Talladega County and became the law partner of William S. McGhee. In 1866, Gov. Patton appointed him judge of the circuit court to fill the vacancy created by Judge Smith, and the following May he was elected for a full term over Hon. G. S. Walden, and Hon. M. J. Turnley of Calhoun. He was put out of office in 1868, and was an elector on the Seymour ticket the same year. Married: Louisa W. Inzer, sister of Col. John W. Inzer, of Ashville, St. Clair County. Children: 1. John Inzer, b. August 17, 1865, at Talladega, d. February 25, 1895, in Chattanooga, Tenn., attended West Point but did not graduate, became a civil engineer, at different times engaged in construction work on the Columbus Southern railroad, the East and West railroad of Alabama, and the Chattanooga, Rome and Columbus road, was chief engineer of the Crawfish Springs land company in 1890, to construct the railroad from Chickamauga, Ga., to the Durham coal mines on Lookout Mountain, and on the completion of the road was appointed superintendent of both the road and the mines, a position which he held at the time of his death, m. February 8, 1888, to Lucy Young of Cedartown, Ga., who with a son and daughter survive him; 2. Henry Thomas, engineer, b. October 18, 1870, assistant engineer of the Chickamauga and Durham railroad, 1890-1891, 1894-1897, at Brunswick, Ga., 1894, at Chickamauga National Park, 1897-1899, now engineer of the Dahlonga gold mining company, m. November 30, 1894, at Athens, Tenn., Jimmie May Russell, Dahlonga, Ga.; 3. Samuel Wilden, engineer, b. May 29, 1873, clerk, 1893-1894, mining engineer, 1894-1897, bridge engineer with the El Paso and N. E. railroad, 1897-1899, Alamagordo, N. Mex. Last residence: Talladega.

HENDERSON, JOHN M., pioneer, was born October 14, 1824, at Brooklyn, Conecuh County, and died September 9, 1872, at Mill View, Fla.; son of David F. Henderson, an Englishman, who emigrated to America on a ship which was captured by pirates, and was saved from walking the plank with the other prisoners by one of the pirate crew, a Mason, who recognized his affiliation with that order, who settled in Cone-cuh County, and at one time served as sheriff of that county. He was educated in the schools of Conecuh County, and during his father's term as sheriff, served as deputy. Some time afterward, he entered the mercantile business at Sparta, remaining there until 1860, during which time he was treasurer of the county for one or two terms. He moved to Pensacola, Fla., where he became a commission merchant for one year, then returned to Conecuh County and built a home near Castleberry. Together with Gen. Martin, he raised a company of volunteers for the C. S. Army, becoming first lieutenant of the company, which was connected with the Thirty-eighth Alabama infantry regiment. He remained in active service for about two years when he was appointed judge of probate of Conecuh County by Gov. Watts to succeed Judge Cary. He held that position until he was removed from office under the reconstruction laws, after which he returned to his home at Castleberry. Soon after he moved to Brewton, and then to Mill View, Fla., at both of which places he was engaged in the milling and lumber business. Married: October, 1847, to Laura, daughter of Armistead Cary, a native of Gloucester County, Va., born October 23, 1791, who lived in Clarke County, Ga., was graduated from the University of Georgia in 1813, taught school in Sumter District, S. C., moved to Alabama, 1820, and taught at Claiborne one year, was elected circuit clerk of Conecuh County in 1826 and held that office continuously for twenty-five years, was appointed by President Jackson receiver of the land office for the Sparta District, 1833, and held the position until 1850, and was first probate judge of Conecuh County. Children: 1. Charles D.; 2. John O., deceased; 3. Samuel E.; 4. David F., killed by a horse when he was eight years old; 5. Walter, d. in infancy; 6. Stephen C., physician, b. January 8, 1861, at Pensacola, Fla., was graduated from the Alabama medical college at Mobile, M. D., 1887, practices medicine at Brewton, m. (1) December 6, 1882, in Douglasville, to Julia Mayo, who died January 11, 1891, leaving two children, Lillian Cary and Pearl Mayo, (2) February 24, 1892, to Mary Lee Sowell, daughter of C. L. Sowell of Brewton; 7. Mary, m. John M. Rabb, Brewton; 8. Reuben F., d. in infancy; 9. Harry. Last residence: Mill View, Fla.

HENDERSON, LAURA (MONTGOMERY), State president, Alabama federation of women's clubs, leader in the civic, patriotic and religious life of the State, was born May 2, —, in Warrenton, Warren County, N. C.; daughter of Thomas Alexander and Sarah Hill (Dowtin) Montgomery, the former a Confederate soldier, planter and commission merchant, who removed to New Orleans, La., in 1871, where he died two years later; granddaughter of William and Charlotte (Jordan) Montgomery, planter, and of Maj. Anthony and Mary (Adams) Dowtin, all of Warren County, N. C., the latter couple living at "White Oak Grove," the Dowtin ancestral home; great-granddaughter of Seth and Martha (Ward) Jordan, of Bute County, N. C., and of John Dowtin, of Warren County, N. C., who served in the Revolutionary War, and is buried in that county with his forefathers who emigrated to North Carolina from Wales in an early period of American history; great-great-granddaughter of Benjamin Ward, a member of the Halifax congress, which met in Halifax County, N. C., November 12, 1776, to frame the State constitution, and was also a prominent member of the Provincial council of safety, proposing the measure, immediately adopted, whereby each head of a family became a member of the committee of safety, and was high sheriff of Bute County, from which both Warren and Granville counties were formed. The Montgomery family is of French origin, the name being spelled formerly Montgomerie, the American founder being William Montgomery, whose ancestors were French Huguenots who were expelled from their native country during a period of religious persecution, going first to England, and thence to Scotland and to Ireland. Mrs. Henderson was educated in the public schools of Raleigh and at St. Mary's Episcopal college, Raleigh. After graduation she taught for a year and a half in the State normal school at Troy, and has shown an enthusiastic interest in educational affairs in the state of her adoption. She served as president of the Pike County school improvement association during 1906-07-08, and was elected to membership on the school board of Troy, but did not accept. The club women of Alabama selected her as president of the State federation in 1912 and re-elected her for a second term the year following. She is a member of the Colonial Dames and the Daughters of the Confederacy; a Democrat; and Episcopalian, serving as president of the Woman's missionary auxiliary of that church during 1918-19-20. Mrs. Henderson is a woman of brilliant mental attainments and great social charm. During the four years of her husband's service as governor of Alabama, 1915-1918, she presided at the governor's mansion with distinction, and her talents as a public speaker were under constant requisition. During the period of the European War she was one of the four-minute speakers. Married: November 7, 1888, in Raleigh, N. C., to Charles Henderson (q. v.). Residence: Troy.

HENDERSON PERRY, farmer, was born November 23, 1841, in Tishomingo County, Miss.; son of Robert McNiece and Sarah (Alexander) Henderson, the former who was born and reared in Limestone County, lived for some years in Tishomingo County, Miss., where he was married, then returned to Limestone County; grandson of Richard and Mary (Tinsley) Henderson, who moved to Limestone County in territorial times, from Wilson County, Tenn., and of William Alexander of Tishomingo County, Miss. The Hendersons were emigrants from South Carolina to Wilson County, Tenn. Mr. Henderson was educated in the common schools of Limestone County. He enlisted in Co. H, Ninth Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army, May, 1861, and served throughout the war. After the war he engaged in farming; was county surveyor, 1884-1894; tax assessor, 1894-1907; city clerk of Athens, 1907-1910. He is a Democrat; a Baptist, and for twenty-two years clerk of the Liberty Baptist Association, excepting 1907, when he was its moderator; is a Mason; and a Knight of Pythias. Married: July 27, 1867, in Limestone County, to Mrs. Martha Tennessee (Black) Neil, daughter of John and Martha T. (Morris) Black, who first lived in Giles County, Tenn., and later in Limestone County. Children: 1. Samuel Hudspeth, m. Annie Irwin, both deceased; 2. Margaret Ann, m. J. E. Gray; 3. Alberta Virginia, m. A. D. Carter; 4. Alvis Perry, m. Otto Eckerberger. Residence: Athens.

HENDERSON, R. M., pioneer druggist, was born in February, 1827, in Tennessee, and died in Talladega; son of Samuel and Mahala (Blair) Henderson, natives respectively of Virginia and Tennessee. He began his business career as a drug clerk in Madison, Tenn. In 1852 he removed to Talladega and opened the first drug store in that town. He was a Baptist and a Mason. Married: (1) in 1860, to Mary D., daughter of Joseph H. and Nancy (Beavers) Castleberry, (2) in 1875, to Jane C., daughter of William J. Cunningham, a native of Georgia, and granddaughter of Ansil Cunningham, a Revolutionary soldier. Children: by the first wife, 1. Samuel H.; 2. R. W.; 3. Ida M.; 4. Mammia; by the second wife, 6. Carrie; 7. Nannie B. Last residence: Talladega.

HENDERSON, SAMUEL, Baptist minister, was born March 4, 1817, in Jefferson County, Tenn.; son of John F. Henderson, of Talladega brother of Judge John Henderson (q. v.). He was reared to the business of a practical printer, and in early manhood moved to Alabama and established one of the first political newspapers of Talladega, of which he was publisher and editor for several years. He was ordained to the Baptist ministry in the church at Talladega, 1840, and was assigned to that church as his first pastorate. In 1846 he moved to Tuskegee and served as pastor at that place for twenty-one years. During that time, Dr. Henderson was editor of the "Southwestern Baptist," the denominational organ of the state, which was published at Tuskegee. In 1868, he returned to Talladega County to take charge of several country and village churches, and located in that county on a farm where he passed the remainder of his life. He was one of the editors of the "Christian Index" of Atlanta, Ga., and published a number of sermons and review articles. His discussion with the Rev. Mr. Hamil of the Alabama Conference on "Methodist Episcopacy" was published in book form by the Southern Baptist publication society at Charleston. Last residence: Talladega County.

HENDERSON, WILLIAM EDGAR, business man, secretary to the governor, was born July 29, 1866, at Troy, and is closely related to the family of which Gov. Charles Henderson (q. v.) is a representative. He was educated in the public schools of Troy; and has for years been interested in the real estate business, his operations being confined to cut over lands, and to coal and iron properties; stockholder in the McDonough ore and mining company; appointed secretary to the governor, February 15, 1915, during the administration of Gov. Charles Henderson. He is a Democrat; an Episcopalian; a Mason; Knight of Pythias; and an Elk. Married: February 5, 1889, at Troy, to Sarah Elizabeth, daughter of Joseph and Sarah E. (Huckeby) Minchener, the former a native of London, England, the latter of Terrell County, Ga. Children: 1. Joseph Henry. Residence: Troy.

HENDLEY, JUBAL EARLY, teacher, was born January 31, 1876, at Lawrenceville, Henry County; son of John Dixon and Amanda (Holmes) Hendley, of Lawrenceville and Abbeville, the former joined Co. H, 15th Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army, May, 1861, at County Line church, and served as corporal and sergeant; grandson of John Hamilton and Nancy Jane Hendley, the former came to Alabama from South Carolina, was in Mexican War, of English ancestry, and of Billy and Martha (Langley) Holmes of Lawrenceville. Jubal Early Hendley received his early education in Lawrenceville, taught by Prof. J. S. Espy; at Bowen school house, five miles north of Abbeville, taught by Prof. G. A. Searcy; at Third district agricultural school, Abbeville, and was taught by J. S. Espy, G. A. Bowen, Dan Gillia, J. H. Davis and J. B. Espy; graduated at Howard college with degree of A. B. 1910. He began teaching in rural school of Henry County, in 1893; later taught at Thomasville, Montgomery, Mannigham, Pine Hill, Lineville, Lafayette, Tallapoosa high school, conducted Second district institute, 1910. He was president Association of Alabama high schools, 1913; a Democrat; Baptist; Mason; Knight of Pythias; Woodman of the World. Married: June 15, 1904, at Thomasville, to Belle, daughter of Jerry J. and Onie Caroline (Fontaine) Pritchett, of that place; granddaughter of William Floyd and Catherine (Philen) Fontaine of Clay Hill, Marengo County; great-granddaughter of William Maury and Elizabeth Garrett (Pearson) Fontaine, the former was born on January 16, 1793, in Louisa County, Va., served as quartermaster-sergeant in the War of 1812-14 in the department of the gulf, later resided in Clarke County, the latter was born in Walker County, Ga., September 15, 1799; great-great-granddaughter of Aaron and Barbara (Terrell) Fontaine. The Fontaines were French Huguenots who immigrated from France to America under the revocation of the Edict of Nantes. Residence: Dadeville.

HENDRIC, WILLIAM, grand master, grand lodge, Masons, 1850; grand high priest, grand chapter, 1847-48-49.

HENDRICK, GUSTAVUS, physician, was born in Butts County, Ga., September 7, 1833, and died December 11, 1899, at Brundidge, to which place he had removed in 1866, from Brier Hill, Montgomery County; son of Gen. Gustavus and Martha (Hurt) Hendrick, the former of Virginia and the latter of Hancock County, Ga., who after marriage lived in Butts County, Ga., the father a planter, a general of Militia of Georgia, member of the legislature from Jones County, and represented Butts County both in the house and senate; grandson of John and Lucy (Ellington) Hendrick, the former a farmer of North Carolina who moved to Georgia about 1795, and who served in the Revolutionary Army as a member of Capt. Robert Porter's company of troops from Tyrone County, N. C.; great-grandson of David Ellington, of Virginia, a Baptist minister, whose grave is near Washington, Wilkes County, Ga. Dr. Hendrick received the degree of M. D. from the University of Pennsylvania; practiced for thirty-five years; co-operated with Dr. Jerome Cochran in organizing the State board of health; was for ten years president of the Medical society of Pike County; grand counsellor of the Medical association of Alabama. He was a Democrat; a Baptist; and a Mason. Married: in 1860, Mary Frances, daughter of Simeon and Amarintha (Fears) Copeland of Putnam County, Ga., who removed first to Chambers County and later to Brundidge. Children: 1. Albert Sidney, m. Mrs. Bettie (Hinson) Sterns, residence Geneva; 2. Lowndes, M. D. from the Medical department University of Alabama, and of the New York polyclinic, practices at Brundidge; 3. Annie Augusta, m. John Thomas Ashcraft (q. v.); 4. Henry O., a druggist of Brundidge, m. Ilamae, daughter of Dr. Henry Stone of Montgomery; 5. Patty Hurt, m. George W. Rainer, lives at Elba; 6. Hallie Estelle. Last residence: Brundidge.

HENDRICK, WALTER BRANHAM, physician; graduate of the medical department of the University of Louisville, Ky., 1890; licensed to practice by the board of Pike County, the same year. Residence: Hurtsboro.

HENDRICKS, HILLARY, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 80, and a resident of Lawrence County; private N. C. Militia; enrolled on October 29, 1833, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $62.50; sums received to date of publication of list, $125.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34.

HENDRICKS, J. A., Missionary Baptist minister; living in 1913. Residence: East Lake.

HENEGAN, CHARLES S., major, 36th Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army.

HENLEY, ALBERT T., physician, was born November 29, 1848, at Demopolis, Marengo County; son of John Woodson and Evelina T. (Harwell) Henley, the former a native of Georgia, who came with his parents to Alabama in 1816 and settled in Jefferson County, was a lawyer and served in the State legislature from Marengo County, 1842, the latter a native of Clarke County. His grandfather was a member of the first constitutional convention and of the first legislature of the state. He was a student of Prof. Henry Tutwiler at Green Springs, and upon leaving school kept books for Stephen W. Dorsey at Demopolis for one year. He studied medicine under Dr. W. C. Ashe for a year, then entered the medical department of the University of Virginia in 1867. He remained there until 1868, when he entered the medical department of the University of New York from which he was graduated M. D., March 2, 1869. He returned to Hale County and began to practice medicine in partnership with Dr. James D. Browder. Two years later he formed a partnership with Dr. Charles Whelan which lasted seven years and then practiced four years alone. He moved to Birmingham in 1881; was elected city physician at that place; was appointed inspector of the penitentiary by the governor in 1883, and two years later when that office was abolished was appointed inspector of convicts. He is a member of the State medical association and the Jefferson County medical society. He is an Episcopalian. Married: November 27, 1872, to Nannie Randolph, daughter of John W. Tayloe of Hale County. Children: 1. John Woodson, b. September 16, 1876, was graduated from the University of Alabama, A. B., special agent, New York life insurance company, Birmingham. Residence: Birmingham.

JOHN T. ASHCRAFT

HENLEY, JOHN CHARLES, business man, was born September 29, 1842, at Montgomery; son of John and Narissa J. (Molton) Henley, the former a financier and banker of Montgomery, where he resided until his death in 1853, the latter a descendant of an old North Carolina family. He was educated in the public schools of Montgomery, and began his business career there as a bookkeeper. He came to Birmingham early in the development of the city and entered business there. He served in the War of Secession as captain in the Fifty-ninth Alabama regiment, C. S. Army, and after the war, was for a period of six years engaged in the real estate and mercantile business. In 1878, he entered the National bank of Birmingham as bookkeeper, and later became cashier. He was one of the organizers of the First National bank, and upon the consolidation of the National bank, and the formation of the First National bank, was chosen vice-president of the institution, and repeatedly re-elected to that office. He is a Presbyterian. Married: January 25, 1876, at Birmingham, to Annie L. (Linn) Matthews, widow of William V. Matthews, who resided in Louisville, Ky., until his death in 1872, and daughter of Charles Linn. Children: 1. Walter E.; 2. John Charles, jr. Residence: Birmingham.

HENLEY, JOSEPH HENRY LEE, farmer, was born June 21, 1864, at Macon, Ga.; son of Abram S. and Martha Angeline (King) Henley, the former a native of Randolph County, N. C., who lived at Hendersonville, N. C., and in Georgia, at Macon, Tilton and Dalton, was a farmer and a lieutenant in the C. S. Army; grandson of Henry and Nancy Henley, of Randolph County, N. C., and of Joseph and Mary (Lynch) King, of Hendersonville, N. C., the former a Baptist minister and a soldier in the Indian Wars. He received a country school education and engaged in farming at Bradley. He was elected to the legislature in 1896, and 1900; was a member of the Democratic executive committee of Escambia County, 1900-1906; was formerly a member of the school board of his county; and a trustee of the Daphne normal school. In 1907, he was elected to the legislature from Escambia County, and during that session introduced a state-wide prohibition bill. He is a Democrat; a Missionary Baptist; and a Mason. Married: October 28, 1886, in Santa Rosa County, Fla., to Mary Matilda, daughter of Darby and Mary (Gatewood) Swinney, of Bradley, the former a Georgian, who served in the U. S. Army during the War of Secession. Children: 1. Lorenzo W.; 2. Angeline; 3. Charles Alfred; 4. Ethel Pauline; 5. John Morgan; 6. Julian Benton; 7. Joseph Sanford. Residence: Bradley, Escambia County.

HENRY, ALBERT GALLATIN, merchant, was born December 5, 1816, at Henry's Cross Roads, Sevier County, Tenn.; son of Hugh Henry (q. v.). He received a common school education in Jackson County, whither he had been brought by his father at the age of twelve. His entire business life was spent in merchandising. In 1834, he entered his father's store as a clerk and two years later became his partner. In 1841, he opened a store in his own name on the south of the river at Gunter's Landing, the pioneer merchant on that side of the stream. From that time until his death, with the exception of two years, during the War of Secession, he merchandised at Guntersville, and amassed a fortune. In 1865, he was a member of the Alabama constitutional convention. He was opposed to secession, and although taking no part in the hostilities, remained throughout the struggle loyal to the Federal government. He introduced the credit system into northeastern Alabama, and conceived the idea of the mortgage law as at present in vogue. With this protection, he could advance the necessary credit to the people in distress after the war, and at the same time secure his own credit for further operations. This method of meeting an economic crisis was deemed a merciful boon by those benefited by it and it gave the financial genius that devised it a place of high regard in the section. He was a Democrat; and a Methodist. Married: (1) August 18, 1838, at Henry's Cross Roads, Tenn., his cousin, Mary Ann, daughter of Samuel and Margaret E. (Bryan) Henry, the father being a brother of Hugh Henry (q. v.); (2) to Mrs. Julia (Brown) Wait, of Waco, Tex. Children: by the first marriage, 1. Wallace W., m. Lida Montgomery, Guntersville; 2. Hugh, Guntersville; 3. Margaret, m. (1) Robert Lusk, (2) Dr. William Clifton, Waco, Texas; 4. Mary, m. Daniel J. Miller, Guntersville; 5. Sallie B., m. Joseph D. Bell, Waco, Texas; 6. Albert Gallatin, m. Abigail Moss, Guntersville; 7. Samuel, m. Mattie Hunter, Guntersville; 8. Birdie, m. Dr. William Clifton, Waco, Texas, whose second wife was Margaret Henry. Last residence: Guntersville.

HENRY, HUGH, merchant, was born April 11, 1796, at Henry's Cross Roads, Sevier County, Tenn., and died April 29, 1856, at Henryville, Marshall County; son of Hugh Henry also of Sevier County; grandson of Hugh Henry, a native of Lancaster County, Pa., who located in Sevier County, Tenn., and was a Revolutionary soldier. For some years before the treaty of 1835, he had been engaged in business in the Cherokee nation and was very popular with that tribe of Indians. He was largely interested in buying up native cattle which would be sold in droves to the Baltimore market and merchandise bought with the profits to be hauled in wagons to some point on the upper waters of the Tennessee, where it would be put in barges and floated down the river to Gunter's Landing. It took months to accomplish both transactions, but this method of trading was the only one available at the time which antedated railroads and steam boats. Married: (1) a Tennessean; (2) Patsy, the Cherokee half-breed daughter of John Gunter, a Scotchman for whom Gunter'sville is named; (3) Mrs. Annie (Clanch) Fields, a Cherokee quadroon, widow of Richard Fields, a prominent Cherokee; (4) Sarah Williams. Children: by the first alliance, 1. Albert Gallatin (q. v.); by the third wife, 2. Patrick (q. v.); 3. Thomas Benton, killed by Union sympathizers during the War of Secession; by the fourth alliance, 4. Blackstone Rector Williams, long prominent in the counties of Marshall, Blount and Cullman, father of Hugh Henry Williams, county treasurer of Marshall County. Last residence: Henryville.

HENRY, JAMES, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 74, and a resident of Tuscaloosa County; private Virginia Militia; enrolled on April 23, 1833, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $36.44; sums received to date of publication of list, $109.32.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34.

HENRY, JOHN EVANS, lawyer, was born December 25, 1870, at Seale, Russell County; son of Beverly Marshall and Martha Frances (Evans) Henry of Seale. He attended the Seale high school and the University of Alabama from which latter institution he graduated in 1890 with the M. A. degree. In 1892, he received the LL. B. degree from the University of Georgia. He entered upon the practice of law at Seale in 1892, and has continuously practiced at that place since. He was a member of the Alabama legislature, 1900-01. He is a Democrat and a Methodist. Married: January 9, 1894, at Tuskegee, to Rosa Julia, daughter of Hon. James E. Cobb (q. v.). Residence: Seale.

HENRY, JOHN HAZARD, physician, was born January 3, 1829, at Montgomery, and died June 19, 1906, in that city; son of Dr. Hugh William and Martha (Falconer) Henry, the former a native of Waterford, N. Y., commissioned as surgeon in the U. S. Army, 1812, with headquarters at Sacketts Harbor, N. Y., settled at Blakeley, near Mobile, 1817, the next year went on an Indian pony to Montgomery, where he permanently located, served as a colonel of volunteers in the Indian War of 1836, was a member of the committee of citizens who received Gen. Lafayette when he made his memorable tour through the South in 1825, was for a long while, an alderman of Montgomery, conducted a drug store, practiced medicine, assisted in organizing "The True Blues," one of the oldest military companies in Alabama, of which he was an officer, died in Baltimore, Md., but his remains were brought back to Alabama and interred in Montgomery; grandson of Dr. Michael and Abigail (Hazard) Henry, who lived at South Port, Conn., the latter being a very beautiful woman in her prime and living to the great age of one hundred and two years, and of William and Ann (Singleton) Falconer of Montgomery; great-grandson of John and Mary (Wakeman) Hazard, also of South Port. Patrick Henry, of Virginia, the patriot and orator, was a distinguished connection of this branch of the Henry family. Dr. Henry received his academic education in Montgomery and in the Clarkston institute of New York. He read medicine under Dr. J. Marion Sims, in Montgomery in 1847-48, and two years later graduated from the medical department of the University of New York City. In 1851, he took another degree from the College of homeopathy in Philadelphia, Pa., and entered upon the practice thereafter, being one of the first of that school of doctors in Alabama. He helped to organize the Homeopathic medical association of the United States and was honorary president of that body at the time of his death, having practiced fifty-five years. He resided briefly in Lake Providence, La., Charleston, S. C., and Selma. His life's work was accomplished in Montgomery where he practiced medicine with his father and resided for many years. He was the mayor of Selma during the last years of the War of Secession, and used his influence with the Federal officers when that town fell into their hands, to mitigate the horrors of invasion. His lameness prevented him from entering the Confederate Army, but he was an ardent advocate of the principles represented by that cause. After the close of the war, he made an effort to induce the white men of Alabama to affiliate politically with the national party that would afford them greatest protection and advantage. This policy being unheeded, he called a meeting in Selma to organize the white Republican party, this being the first Republican convention in the South after the war. He was a Presbyterian; Mason; and Knight of Honor. Married: April 15, 1863, near Selma, to Mary, daughter of Archibald Pinkney and Mary Elizabeth (Toole) McCurdy, the former came to Alabama in 1819, settled in Dallas County on a plantation and died at the age of sixty, in 1860. The family came originally from Scotland, one branch settling in Mecklenburg County, N. C., and were Scotch-Irish Presbyterians. The McCurdys were prominent in the Revolutionary War. Children: 1. Hugh; 2. Elizabeth; 3. Martha Falconer, m. Ernest Wardnell Stay, a native of New Hampshire. Last residence: Montgomery.

HENRY, JOHN KELLY, lawyer, was born March 23, 1814, on a farm in Hancock County, Ga., and died August 12, 1886, at Greenville, Butler County; son of John Henry and Mary Brown of Virginia, descendants of colonial ancestry, who removed from their native state to Georgia, thence to Alabama in 1819, going successively from Claiborne on the Alabama River and to Wilcox County. An old family tree, now lost by descendants, connected this branch with the family of Patrick Henry, the Virginia orator and statesman, governor of Virginia, 1776-79. John Kelly Henry received the best education afforded by the pioneer conditions. At the age of twenty-nine he began privately to read law, and attained to an honorable place in that profession, in Butler County, having settled at Greenville. In 1857, he was nominated for the Alabama State senate but was defeated by Walter Crenshaw. He was elected to the circuit bench in 1859, and reelected in 1866. Two years later he was removed from office by act of congress, under the republican domination. He was a Democrat; and a Presbyterian. Author: he frequently contributed to the newspapers and made reports to the government of weather conditions, and wrote weather signs of the section. Married: March 22, 1836, in Greenville, to Jane Elvira, daughter of John Calhoun and Elizabeth (Black) Caldwell of that place, early settlers of the section, coming from South Carolina, and passed through the troubled period with the Indians. John Calhoun, the great nullifier, was a kinsman of the family, and came from the same county. Children: 1. George LeRoy, a Confederate soldier and held in prison at Johnson's Island for six months, m. Ina Marie Porter; 2. John Walter; 3. Felix Eugene; 4. Mary Elvira; 5. Susan Ada; 6. Cecil Edgar, who died in his sixteenth year after the long march of the Confederate Army from Corinth. Last residence: Greenville.

HENRY, PATRICK, merchant and planter, was born March 28, 1835, in Blount County, and died ———; son of Hugh and Anna Henry (q. v.). He was reared on his father's farm; received a common school education; and took a two years course at Cumberland university, Lebanon, Tenn. He entered his father's mercantile establishment at Henryville, in a clerical position, and at his father's death he was given an interest in the business with his younger brother, T. B. He enlisted in Company E, 49th Alabama infantry regiment as a private; in 1862 was commissioned commissary of subsistence, with the rank of captain; on the capture of his regiment at Port Hudson in 1863 he was sent to Johnson's Island; in March, 1865, was taken to Fort Delaware where he remained until the close of the war. Upon returning home he merchandised until 1876, when he retired; in 1884 he formed a partnership with his brother Albert G. Henry, and in 1887, he withdrew and went into business with his sons. He held a large landed interest in the Indian territory. Married: (1) October, 1856, in Marshall County, to Sarah, daughter of Isham R. Stearnes of that county; (2) to Allie Alford, no issue; (3) May, 1871, Mrs. Laura A. (Gibbs) Todd. Children: by the first marriage: 1. Hugh B., 2. Patrick; 3. Thomas B.; 4. Myra; by the third wife; 5. Gibbs; 6. Albert G.; 7. Marie. Last residence: Guntersville.

HENRY, ROBERT, member of the constitutional convention, 1865, from Pickens County.

HENRY, SAM, farmer and merchant, was born January 12, 1860, at Guntersville, Marshall County; and died there October 14, 1906; son of Albert Gallatin and Mary Ann (Henry) Henry (q. v.). He was educated in the common schools of his native county, attended the Summitt high school, and for two years was a student at the University of the South, Sewanee, Tenn., and for one year at the University of Alabama. He was a successful farmer and merchant. He was a Democrat; Methodist; and a Mason. Married: December 23, 1879, at Guntersville, to Mattie, daughter of Rev. S. B. and Laura (Ligon) Hunter of that place. Children: 1. J. L., m. Ethel Neely; 2. Sam. m. Erin Fennell; 3. Allen Bryan, m. Jennie Lee Grizzell; 4. Albert Gallatin. Last residence: Guntersville.

HENRY, SAMUEL, merchant, lieutenant-colonel, C. S. Army, was born July 17, 1825, in Sevier County, East Tenn.; son of Samuel and Margaret (Bryan) Henry, a native of Virginia who settled in Tennessee in the pioneer period, a farmer, and soldier of the War of 1812, under Gen. Jackson; grandson of Col. Herbert of Tennessee, a distinguished soldier of the Indian Wars. Samuel Henry was brought up on the farm and finished his education at West Point. He entered upon a mercantile career at the age of twenty-three, at Gunter's Landing, and remained there until 1861, at which date he entered the Confederate Army having raised a company that joined the Ninth Alabama infantry regiment. He later joined the Eighth Alabama cavalry regiment, Clanton's brigade, and left the service at the close of the war with the rank of lieutenant-colonel. In the spring of 1866, he located at Gadsden, and conducted a mercantile business at that place. He was a Democrat; Mason; and Knight of Honor. Married: in 1856, to Charity E., daughter of Dr. James W. Fennell. Last residence: Gadsden.

HENRY, WAIGHTS GIBBS, Methodist preacher, was born January 13, 1879, at Palm, Pickens County; son of Robert Fillmore and Rebecca Catharine (Morris) Henry, the former a native of Palm and member of the legislature, the latter a native of Pulaski, Tenn.; grandson of James and Emily Ann (Sampson) Henry of Columbus, Miss., and of James Madison and Eliza Catherine (Johnson) Morris of Pulaski; great-grandson of Robert and Margaret (Sellers) Henry, who came from Scotland and settled in Hanover County, N. C., and moved to Pickens County, in 1817. Rev. Mr. Henry attended the common schools of Lowndes County, Miss., taught by J. W. Cooper and Pickens County, taught by Mrs. James Shirley and William McReynolds; graduated at Southern university, 1900, with degree of A. B.; University of Alabama, 1912, with degree of A. M.; Vanderbilt university, 1902, with degree of B. D.; did graduate work at Chicago university, 1901, '11, and '13, and at Harvard university, 1912; toured Egypt, Palestine, portions of Asia Minor, Turkey, Greece and Italy as member of student class of Chicago university, studying missions, February to June, 1913. He was editor-in-chief Southern university monthly; joined north Alabama Methodist conference in 1902; has served pastorates at Pratt City, and Tuscaloosa. He is a member of the Kappa Alpha college fraternity. Married: June 18, 1903, at Trinity, to Mary Elizabeth, daughter of Rev. Absalom Leonidas and Ann (Fennel) Davis of that place; granddaughter of James Fennel, president, Tuscumbia and Decatur railroad, afterwards the Memphis and Charleston, now the Memphis division of the Southern railroad. Children: 1. Robert Fillmore; 2. Jefferson Davis; 3. Taylor Hill; 4. Waights Gibbs, jr. Residence: Trinity.

HERBERT, EDWARD HAMPTON, planter, was born January 9, 1800, at Fairfield Village, Fairfield District, S. C., and died February 20, 1877, at Hayneville; son of Thomas Sharpe and Elizabeth (Hampton) Herbert, who lived at Fairfield District, S. C., and later moved to Alabama, near Manningsham, Butler County, the former of whom was a native of Virginia, was sheriff of Fairfield District, S. C., and died at Manningsham; grandson of Thomas Sharpe Herbert, son of the Earl of Cherburg, who came with his brothers, Hardy Hilary and George Herbert, to America from England with Lord Fairfax and settled in Virginia, and of Col. John Hampton of Virginia. He was educated in the schools of South Carolina, and on moving to Alabama became a planter in Butler County. He served as clerk of the circuit court of that county, 1822-1826; was a planter and merchant, at Hayneville, Lowndes County 1836-1877; and was register in chancery at that place, 1839-1865. He was a member of the State militia at Greenville during his residence in Butler County. He was a Democrat and an Episcopalian, serving as steward in the church. Married: in 1824, in Butler County to Martha, daughter of John and Sarah (Lewis) Womack, who lived at Manningsham, Butler County, the former of whom moved from Virginia to Hancock County, Ga., where he was married, and later moved to Butler County. Children: 1. John Hampton, d. at the age of twenty-five years; 2. Henry Macon, unmarried, d. at the age of seventy-one years; 3. Mary Ellen, m. Judge Philip Henry Cook, lived at Hayneville, d. at age of seventy years; 4. Edward Mitchell, d. at the age of twenty years; 5. George Womack, m. Nancy Gibson of Louisiana, lived at Hayneville, d. at the age of seventy-one years; 6. Sarah Elizabeth, Montgomery; 7. Thomas Sharpe, m.

Emma Alwilder Frazier of Montgomery, d. at age of sixty-two years, wife living in Montgomery; 8. Lafayette, m. Laura Jones, of Richmond, Tex., living at Rankin, Okla.; 9. Albert Nolan, d. at age of thirty years; 10. Benjamin Preston, m. Ella Sadler, d. at age of seventy years, wife living at Prattville; 11. Harriett Ann, m. Angus Gilchrist d. at age of forty; 12. Martha Caroline, d. in childhood. Last residence: Hayneville.

HERBERT, HILARY ABNER, lawyer, colonel C. S. Army, representative in congress, secretary of the navy department and author, was born at Laurens, Laurens County, S. C., March 12, 1834, and died March 6, 1919, while on a visit to Tampa, Fla.; son of Thomas Edward and Dorothy Teague (Young) Herbert (q. v.). Col. Herbert received his early education in the town schools of Laurens, S. C., and at Greenville. He entered the University of Alabama in October, 1852, and the following year left the institution because of the "Doby Rebellion." In October, 1854, he entered the University of Virginia from which he graduated in Latin and moral philosophy the same session. Before completing the entire course of study he withdrew on account of broken health. In the fall of 1856 he began reading law under the supervision of Judge J. K. Henry at Greenville, and at the end of five months, after examination by Chief Justice A. J. Walker and Judge George W. Stone, was admitted to the bar by the supreme court. In March of 1857 he began the practice in Greenville, in partnership with Samuel Adams; in 1872 removed to Montgomery and joined in the practice with Col. Virgil Murphey as Herbert and Murphey; in 1874 became a member of the firm of Clopton, Herbert and Chambers; and after retiring from political life practiced law in Washington, D. C. with his son-in-law, Benjamin Micou.

His Confederate service began early. In anticipation of secession, Gov. Andrew B. Moore ordered several companies of State troops to Mobile and Pensacola to occupy the forts at those points. Under these orders he served as a second lieutenant in the "Greenville Guards" at Pensacola in January and February, 1861. He became captain of this company when it entered the Confederate service at Richmond, Va., in May, 1861, on the formation of the Eighth Alabama infantry regiment. On May 5, 1861, he was promoted major; June 1861, lieutenant colonel; and on May 3, 1862, colonel of the regiment. The Eighth regiment was in the Army of Northern Virginia, and fought in all the battles from Yorktown to Fair Oaks. Here he was wounded and captured, but within two months was exchanged. He fought at Second Manassas, Fredericksburg, Salem Heights, Antietam, Gettysburg and the Wilderness. Here he was desperately wounded and carried from the field by his men. In 1864, in consequence of his wounds, he retired from the active military service.

One of the most notable contributions to the welfare of his state and country was his arduous and effective work in reconstruction days when control of the South was regained and put into the hands of the intelligent class again.

In 1877 he was elected to congress from the second district, of which Montgomery is the principal city; and was returned at each election from that date to 1893. He served on the committees of the judiciary, ways and means and naval affairs, and on the scientific bureau of the government and while on the judiciary committee he had the jury law of the country changed to that now in existence. His service on the naval committee was well known and culminated in his work as secretary of the navy. His seat in the 47th congress was contested by Paul Strobach. He engaged Col. Robert Ingersoll to address the committee on elections in his behalf. Col. Herbert replied for himself and the committee, although with Republican majority, rejected the contest. He was chairman of the committee on naval affairs during the 49th, 50th, and 51st congresses. The rebuilding of the American navy began under his leadership, and it was his statesmanlike and non-partisan activities in this work that brought the American navy up to the fighting strength demonstrated during the Spanish-American War. While chairman of the naval affairs committee he secured the passage of an appropriation of $20,000,000 in a twenty minute presentation of the facts. In 1893 President Cleveland invited Col. Herbert to become secretary of the navy and during his administration in this position there were commissioned the Indiana, Massachusetts, Oregon, Maine, Texas, New York, Brooklyn, Amphitrite, Monadnock, Terror, Katahdin, Cincinnati, Raleigh, Columbia, Minneapolis, Olympia, Detroit, Marblehead, Montgomery, Castine, Machias and Puritan, all of which had been authorized by acts originating in the committee on naval affairs while he was on that committee. It will thus be seen that of the six vessels belonging regularly to the navy which fought at Manila, May 1, 1898, all except the Boston originated in the committee of which he was a member, and that all the ships that fought at Santiago, July 3, 1898, except the converted yacht Gloucester, were authorized in the committee of which Col. Herbert was a member, or afterwards commissioned by him as secretary of the navy. When holding this latter position he notified congress that the two American armor plate manufacturers were in a combination to extort unreasonable prices for armor. Congress required him to investigate, and after taking personal charge of the inquiry, including investigations in Europe he made a report showing that the armor plate manufacturers of the world were in a combine to hold up prices. He showed what a fair price should be, with the result that the next order for armor plate made by the government was more than 75% below the price asked by the manufacturers prior to Secretary Herbert's investigations. He was joint author of "Why the Solid South, or Reconstruction by Eyewitnesses," author of "The Abolition Crusade and Its Consequences," 1890; and of numerous magazine articles of a political, historical, and sociological character. He was a Democrat, a Mason; and a member of the Protestant Episcopal church, having served as vestryman of St. Thomas church, Greenville, in the Church of the Epiphany, Washington. Married: in Selma, April 23, 1867, to Ella Bettie, daughter of Washington and Susan (Parker) Smith. Mrs. Herbert was a woman of beauty and intellect, and was noted for her accomplishments and charities. She was vice-regent for Alabama of the Ladies Mount Vernon association, and after her death the position was left vacant until her daughter, Leila, was of sufficient maturity to fill it. Children: 1. Leila (q. v.) deceased; 2. Ella, m. Benjamin Micou (q. v.), now of Washington, D. C.; 3. Hilary Abner, jr., lieutenant U. S. marine corps, deceased, Washington. Last residence: Washington, D. C.

HERBERT, LEILA, author, was born February 12, 1868, at Greenville, Butler County, and died December 22, 1897, at Washington, D. C.; daughter of Hilary Abner and Ella Bettie (Smith) Herbert (q. v.). She was graduated at Hamner Hall, Miss Susie Everhardt, principal, at the age of fifteen, taking a number of honors, among them delivering the French valedictory. She graduated two years later at St. Agnes school, Albany, N. Y., delivering the German valedictory. Her generous nature and tender regard for those less fortunate in educational opportunities were evidenced in the free night school she conducted in the home of her parents in Montgomery. Having lost her mother at the beginning of her young womanhood she at once assumed the duties that devolved upon the head of the household, meeting the responsibilities of hostess in a home conspicuous for its hospitality, as well as giving maternal care to a younger sister and brother. At this time her father was a member of congress from Alabama, but later, when she was twenty-five years of age, he was invited into the cabinet of President Grover Cleveland, as secretary of the navy. As one of the cabinet ladies, on account of her youth, beauty and singular charm, she became a conspicuous favorite in an exacting society. In 1894 she was elected vice regent for Alabama of the Ladies Mount Vernon association, a position originally held by the famous Madame LeVert, succeeded by Mrs. Herbert, and at her death left vacant for nine years, awaiting the maturity and proven merit of the daughter to be appointed into that distinguished body. Amidst the distractions of society and patriotic duties she found time for much thoughtful reading, and made a permanent place for herself in the literature of her country, according to the estimate of so capable a critic as Henry Cabot Lodge, by her book "The First American, his homes and households," 1900. Owing to her official relation with the organization consecrated to the perpetual care of the home of Washington she was inspired to fit herself for this work, and had she lived would have completed other writings of an historical character which she had planned. She is buried in Oakwood cemetery, Montgomery. Last residence: Washington, D. C.

HERBERT, THOMAS EDWARD, pioneer teacher of Butler County; father of Hon. Hilary

A. Herbert (q. v.). Deceased. Residence: Greenville.

HERBERT, THOMAS SHARPE, planter and public official, was born November 6, 1836, at Hayneville, Lowndes County, and died January 22, 1899, in Montgomery; son of Edward Hampton and Martha (Womack) Herbert, of Fairfield District, S. C., who removed to Butler County, in 1818, and to Lowndes County, in 1836; grandson of Thomas Sharpe, jr., and Elizabeth (Hampton) Herbert, and of John and Sarah (Lewis) Womack, of Hancock County, Ga., who removed to Butler County, near Greenville, in 1817; great-grandson of Thomas Sharpe Herbert, of Virginia; son of the first Herbert to come from England, a younger son of the Earl of Pembroke, who came over with Lord Fairfax; great-grandson of John Hampton, of Virginia and South Carolina. He was educated in the schools of Hayneville; entered the West Point academy, but was honorably discharged before finishing course owing to illness. He engaged in planting. In 1861, he organized the Hayneville Guards, for immediate service to the seceded State; later was mustered into the regular, C. S. Army. In 1862 was made captain Co. K, 5th Alabama infantry regiment and served until the battle of Seven Pines, Va., where he lost a leg. He was sheriff of Lowndes County, 1867-71; sheriff of Montgomery County, 1882-86. He was a Democrat; a member of the National Union; and a Methodist. Married: in Montgomery County, to Emma Alwilda, daughter of William and Eliza (Cantelou) Frazier; granddaughter of Louis Cantelou (q. v.). Children: 1. Virginia Eliza; 2. William Frazier, m. Rosa Lyon Rembert of Demopolis; 3. Edward Henry, m. Lucile Herbert; 4. Thomas Benjamin, m. Emmie Herbert; 5. Emma Helena, m. William Frederick Weiss. Last residence: Hayneville.

HERBERT, W. F., lawyer and planter; son of Thomas Sharpe and Emma Frazier Herbert (q. v.); clerk for a number of sessions of the State house of representatives, Alabama legislature. Married: Rosa Lyon. Children: 1. Helen; 2. Jule. Residence: Demopolis.

HERNDON, DALLAS TABOR, teacher, was born August 28, 1876, at Elberton, Elbert County, Ga.; son of John Alpheus and Mary (Brown) Herndon; grandson of John Seals and Susan (Brown) Herndon of Hartwell, Hart County, Ga., the former a cotton planter, and of Francis Marion and Drucilla (Roberts) Brown of Hartwell; both grandparents Confederate soldiers; great-grandfather was a native of Virginia. He was educated in public schools and Southeast Alabama agricultural school, where he graduated, 1899; graduated at Alabama polytechnic institute, with degrees of B. S., 1902, and M. S., 1903; University of Chicago, 1908-11, graduate student in history and political science; instructor in history in Alabama polytechnic institute, 1905-08; elected secretary, Arkansas history commission, September 1, 1911. He is a Democrat; Presbyterian; and a Mason. Author: "The Nashville Convention," a paper published in vol.

iv., Transactions of Alabama Historical Society, and the "Beginnings of the Solid South," doctor's thesis, not yet published. Unmarried. Residence: Little Rock, Ark.

HERNDON, EDWARD, planter and merchant, was born September 17, 1799, at Spotsylvania, Va., and died February 2, 1872, at Livingston, Sumter County; son of Edward and Mary Elizabeth (Sharpe) Herndon, of Cole Hill and Spotsylvania, Va.; brother of Thomas Hord Herndon (q. v.). He was educated under private tutors, and came to Alabama when he was a youth. He became a planter and merchant; owned lands at Erie, Greene County, 1818-1838; moved to Gainesville, Sumter County, 1839; was associated with Whitsett, Winston and others in the mercantile business until 1844 or 1845; devoted his entire attention to planting near Sumterville, 1845-1866; was elected treasurer of Sumter County, 1868; appointed U. S. census enumerator, 1870; and was register in chancery for Sumter County, 1869-1872. He was always called major, and was probably on the staff of one of the governors of Alabama. He is said to have been appointed and commissioned to receive and entertain Gen. Lafayette when he visited the United States. He was a Whig until 1860, was a Union man, 1860-1865, and a Republican, 1865-1872. He was a member of the Church of England until 1824, then became a Presbyterian. He was a Mason, serving as grand master of the grand lodge, 1839-1841, grand treasurer of the grand lodge, 1844-1846, deputy grand high priest of the grand chapter, 1840-1842, and grand treasurer of the grand chapter, 1845. Married: to Malvina Ann, daughter of Robert and Elizabeth (Chew) Cammack, who lived at Cole Hill, Va. Her ancestors were Scotch, the Chew family having a crest and coat of arms. Children: 1. Robert Edward, b. January 25, 1829, d. November, 1859, unmarried, was a merchant at Hall's Bluff, Tex.; 2. Thomas C., d. 1906, m. Jane Krumbhaar, Pass Christian, Miss.; 3. Christiana C., d. 1878, m. Anthony Winston Dillard, deceased; 4. Emma J., d. 1908, m. Thomas Rufus Underwood, deceased; 5. Addison C., d. 1897, m. Mary Prades, deceased; 6. Lucy Bird, d. 1840; 7. Samuel C., d. 1840. Last residence: Livingston.

HERNDON, HARRY TOULMIN, planter, was born in 1826, at Erie, Greene County, and died at Forkland, Greene County; son of Thomas Hord and Emma Sarah (Toulmin) Herndon (q. v.), nephew of Edward Herndon (q. v.); brother of Thomas Hord Herndon (q. v.). He was educated at the University of Alabama at Tuscaloosa, and became a planter at Forkland. He was a Democrat and a Methodist. Married: at Eutaw, to Sarah Johnson, daughter of Dr. Richard and Rebecca (Brownlow) Inge, who lived at Forkland, sister of William B. Inge, of Frank J. Inge, of Richmond F. Inge, and of Rebecca Inge. Children: 1. Elinor Douglas, d. in infancy; 2. Elizabeth Webb, m. Charles Haley; 3. Thomas Inge, deceased; 4. Harry Toulmin, deceased; 5. Sarah Johnson, deceased, m. William Sincow. Last residence: Forkland.

LANDERS SEVIER

HERNDON, THOMAS HORD, planter and merchant, was born in 1793, at Spotsylvania, Va., and died May 22, 1842, at Erie, Hale County; son of Edward and Mary Elizabeth (Sharpe) Herndon, who lived at Cole Hill, Va., the former a native of Spotsylvania, Va., born November 19, 1762, who fought in the Revolutionary War under Washington's command and was promoted for his bravery, and died May 19, 1808, the latter whose mother's maiden name was Hord, was born April 11, 1762, and died December 1, 1832; grandson of Edward and Mary (Colston) Herndon, who lived at Cole Hill, and Spotsylvania, Va., the former of whom was born in 1730 and died in 1799; great-grandson of Edward and Mary (Brock) Herndon, who were married about 1728 or 1729, the former, born about 1700, died in 1759, and of Charles and Rebecca (Travis) Coleston, whose family was said to be socially and politically prominent during the colonial and revolutionary periods in Virginia; great-great-grandson of Edward and Mary (Waller) Herndon, who were married in 1698, the former of whom was born in 1678 and died about 1740; great-great-great-grandson of William and Catherine (Diggs) Herndon, the former who lived in St. Stephens Parish, New Kent County, Va., and received a grant of land from the crown, February, 1674, the latter the youngest daughter of Edward Diggs, governor of Virginia, 1655. The original Herndon came from England, and the religious faith of the family was that of the Church of England. Mr. Herndon was a brother of Maj. Edward Herndon (q. v.). He came to Washington on the Black Warrior at the age of sixteen, and formed the friendship of Gales and Seaton of the old "National Intelligencer." Later he moved to Erie, Greene County, where he was a successful merchant and large land and slave owner. Married: (1) to Elizabeth Brook, who died soon after; (2) at St. Stephens, to Emma Sarah Toulmin, who after Mr. Herndon's death married Mr. Copp, daughter of Judge Henry and Ann (Tremlette) Toulmin, the former of whom was born in 1766, in Tannton, England, who came to America in 1791, settling first in Kentucky, where he was the first territorial judge and one of the first settlers of Washington County, was president of Transylvania University at Lexington, Ky., for four years, was elected secretary of state and while holding that office signed and promulgated, as his official duty, the celebrated states rights resolutions of 1798, compiled a code of laws of Kentucky, was appointed judge of that part of Mississippi territory lying on the Tombigbee by President Jefferson, held the judgeship until 1817, compiled the first digest of the laws of Alabama, published in 1823, and died December, 1824, at Wakefield. Children, by first marriage; 1. a son, d. in infancy; by second marriage, 2. Thomas Hord (q. v.); 3. Harry Toulmin (q. v.); 4. Edward, b. August 15, 1832, commission merchant at Mobile, private in the C. S. Army, killed at the battle of the Wilderness, May 5, 1864, m. January 7, 1856, at Eutaw to Virginia Bell; 5. Elizabeth, deceased, m. W. B. Inge; 6. Helen, deceased, m. Robert H. Smith; 7. Fannie, m. Frank E. Stollenwerck, Mobile; 8. Virginia, m. John L.

Smith, Mobile. Last residence: Erie, Hale County.

HERNDON, THOMAS HORD, lawyer, representative in congress, was born July 1, 1828, at Erie, Greene County, and died March 28, 1883, at Mobile; son of Thomas Hord and Emma Sarah (Toulmin) Herndon (q. v.); nephew of Edward Herndon (q. v.); and brother of Harry Toulmin Herndon (q. v.). He obtained his early schooling at La Grange, one of his instructors being Judge Sam Houston. He was graduated from the University of Alabama, A. B., 1847, A. M., 1850, and from Harvard university, LL. B., 1848. He read law with Hon. J. W. Taylor of Greene County, was admitted to the bar in 1849, and began practise in Eutaw. He had charge of the editorial columns of the "Eutaw Democrat," 1850; was a candidate for the State legislature in 1851, but was defeated; and moved to Mobile in 1853 and became the law partner of Daniel Chandler and R. H. Smith under the firm name, Chandler, Smith & Herndon. He was elected to the State legislature from Mobile County in 1857; moved to Greene County in 1859, and represented that county in the constitutional convention of 1861. At the beginning of the War of Secession, he aided in recruiting the Thirty-sixth Alabama infantry regiment, was elected major of that regiment, promoted to lieutenant-colonel, and later to colonel, and served throughout the war. He was seriously wounded twice, at Chickamauga and around Atlanta, and at the close of the war volunteered to command the troops at the evacuation of Spanish Fort, performing that duty in such a manner that he is credited with saving the lives of hundreds of his comrades. He resumed the practice of law at Mobile; was the Democratic nominee for governor of Alabama in 1872; was a member of the constitutional convention of Alabama, 1875; was elected to the State legislature, 1876-1877; was elected to the Forty-sixth, Forty-seventh and Forty-eighth congresses, serving in that body from 1878 until his death in 1883. He was president of the Democratic party of Mobile, was a Presbyterian, and a Mason. He was author of a series of letters under the signature of "John Taylor of Carolina," published in the Montgomery "Advertiser and Gazette." Married: in 1848, at Eutaw, to Mary Edmonia, daughter of Dr. Abraham Franklin and Caroline (Chapman) Alexander, the former a North Carolinian, a physician, whose ancestors lived in Mecklenburg County, N. C.; great-granddaughter of Abraham Alexander, one of the signers of the Mecklenburg Declaration of Independence, 1775. Children: 1. Leila Helen, m. C. B. Percy; 2. Mary Eleanor, m. (1) Richard Phillip Deshon, (2) Philip Lewis Lightfoot, Eutaw; 3. Emma Elizabeth, m. Edward Vassar Hunter; 4. Caroline, m. Dr. Richard Inge; 5. Thomas H.; 6. Francis Toulmin. Last residence: Mobile.

HERRON, SARAH (PARKER), patriotic woman, was the daughter of Robert and Catherine (Thorington) Parker. She was one of the most faithful workers at the Ladies' hospital during the War of Secession. Married: John Herron, of Montgomery.

HERVEY, JOHN, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 74, and a resident of Clarke County; private N. C. Militia; enrolled on October 7, 1833, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $35; sums received to date of publication of list, $105.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34.

HERZBERG, HERMAN, merchant, was born September, 1837, in Westphalia, Prussia; son of Isaac and Helene (Aronstein) Herzberg. He was educated in his native country and was graduated at Minden, Prussia; served a year as a volunteer in the Prussian Army; received his commercial training at Dortmund, Westphalia, and at Cologne, Rhenish Prussia; came to America in 1857; resided in New York until 1859 when he moved to Gadsden; entered the C. S. Army in the spring of 1861, as a private soldier in Co. I, Tenth Alabama infantry regiment; remained in the service until after the battle of Fredericksburg; and at Drainesville, Va., received a severe gunshot wound which ultimately necessitated his discharge from the army. After returning to Alabama, he was assigned to duty as collector of tax-in-kind for the Third congressional district, with Capt. Thomas Hayden. After the war, he engaged in a mercantile business in Gadsden. He is a large stockholder in the Gadsden Furnace Company, is president of the Gadsden Mineral Land Company, and of the Queen City Electric Light Company, is a director in the Gadsden Land & Improvement Company, in the Gadsden Ice Company and in the First National Bank of Gadsden. He was one of the commissioners to call an election to incorporate the town of Gadsden, and afterward held the office of alderman. He is a Mason. Married: March, 1863, to Mary I. Liddell, who died October, 1884, daughter of W. C. Liddell. Children: 1. William Isaacs, b. March 5, 1864, d. February 7, 1900, was graduated from the University of Alabama, A. B., and was a merchant of Gadsden, m. at Gadsden, to Annie Denson; 2. Albert; 3. Louis Leonidas, b. August 5, 1868, at Gadsden, was graduated from the University of Alabama, B. C. E., 1888, member of the firm of Herzberg Brothers, merchants, lieutenant-colonel of the Third Alabama regiment, 1895-1898, mayor of Gadsden, 1897-1899, m. October 27, 1896, at Tuscaloosa, to Emma Friedman, daughter of Bernard and Adele (Black) Friedman, of Tuscaloosa, children, Bernard Friedman and Adele Linker; 4. Herman; 5. Eva B. Residence: Gadsden.

HESTER, JAMES T., major, 23rd Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army.

HESTER, WILLIAM, physician, was born June 9, 1841, at Tuscaloosa, and died February 11, 1899, at Tuscaloosa; son of Chapman Ambrose and Martha Henly (Hammer) Hester, who lived at Tuscaloosa, the former of whom was a native of Georgia; grandson of William Henly and Elizabeth Hammer, who lived in Georgia, then moved to Alabama, where they lived first at Elyton and later at Tuscaloosa. He received his early schooling at Tuscaloosa, attended the University of Alabama, was graduated from Howard college at Marion, A. B., 1861, and from the College of physicians and surgeons at New York, M. D., 1868. He served as first lieutenant of Capt. Ed. Vaughan's company, Twenty-sixth Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army, during four years of the War of Secession, and participated in the battles of Farmington, near Corinth, Miss., Munfordville, Ky., Perryville, Ky., Murfreesboro, Tenn., Chickamauga, Missionary Ridge, Resaca, New Hope Church, Kennesaw Mountain, Atlanta, Ga., Franklin, Nashville, Tenn., and Spanish Fort, near Mobile. He practiced medicine at Tuscaloosa, and studied in New York every few years. He was surgeon at the University of Alabama, 1891-1894, and 1897-1898. He was a deacon in the First Baptist church at Tuscaloosa and was a Mason. Married: April 7, 1868, at Tuscaloosa, to Sallie Olivia Hays, daughter of William Henry and Elizabeth Ann (Jenkins) Hays, who lived at Florence, the former of whom was born November 25, 1819, in Maryland, while the latter was born November 14, 1825, in Florence. Children: 1. Bettie Hays, m. Hugh Prince, Tuscaloosa; 2. Mattie Chapman, m. James T. Searcy, jr., Columbus, Miss.; 3. Jennie Hamphill, m. Judge Henry Bacon Foster (q. v.), Tuscaloosa; 4. William James, m. Bessie McLemore, Bolligee; 5. Sadie Olivia, deceased, m. Thomas N. Christian, Northport; 6. Eddimae Vaughan, m. Hugh N. Roberts, Birmingham; 7. Lucile, m. Claude Neilson, Tuscaloosa. Last residence: Tuscaloosa.

HEUSTIS, JABEZ WIGGINS, physician, was born in 1784, in the province of New Brunswick, and died in 1841, at Talladega Springs. He attended the College of physicians and surgeons of New York City, and was graduated there, M. D. He entered the U. S. Navy in 1808, and spent some years in that service, after which he left the navy and entered the U. S. Army with the rank of surgeon. He saw service under Gen. Andrew Jackson in the campaign of the South, left the army, and began the private practice of his profession at Catawba. In 1835, he moved to Mobile where he became noted as a physician and surgeon. He was author of "Physical Observations and Medical Tracts and Researches on the Topography and Diseases of Louisiana"; "Medical Facts and Inquiries Respecting the Causes, Nature, Prevention and Cure of Fever"; "The Bilious Remittent Fever of Alabama"; of various other books and pamphlets on medical and kindred topics; and wrote many articles for the "American Journal of Medical Science" and other professional periodicals. He died of blood-poisoning contracted in the performance of a surgical operation. Married. Children: 1. James Fountain (q. v.).

HEUSTIS, JAMES FOUNTAIN, physician, was born November 15, 1829, in Alabama; son of Dr. Jabez Wiggins Heustis (q. v.). He received his early education in the common schools of Mobile, then entered the medical department of the University of Louisiana, from which institution he was graduated, M. D., 1848. He was appointed assistant surgeon, U. S. Army, 1850, and continued to discharge the duties of that office until 1857, when he retired from the army, and entered upon the private practice of his profession in Mobile. He was elected professor of anatomy in the Alabama medical college, 1859, and held that position until the outbreak of the War of Secession, when he entered the C. S. Army as surgeon. He served in that capacity throughout the entire period of the war. After peace was established, Dr. Heustis returned to the Alabama medical college as professor of surgery. He was a frequent contributor to medical journals. Last residence: Mobile.

HEWITT, FRANCIS ASBURY, public official, was born February 1, 1862, near Birmingham, Jefferson County; son of Francis Asbury and Lucinda (Brake) Hewitt, who lived in Jefferson County until the close of the War of Secession, then moved to a farm on Mulberry River near Arkadelphia, now Cullman County, and after a residence of nearly forty years at that place, moved to Warrior, Jefferson County, the former of whom was born at Hewitt Farm, on the Tennessee Road, eight miles north of Birmingham; grandson of James Hignight and Eleanor (Tarrant) Hewitt, who lived at Hewitt Farm, and of Bennett and Millie (Spear) Brake, who lived at Bivens Chapel, Jefferson County, and later on a farm near Morris; great-grandson of Goldsmith Whitehouse and Nancy (Kirkman) Hewitt, the former a Revolutionary soldier, who came from England and landed in Virginia at the age of sixteen, during the siege of Yorktown, and was immediately engaged in hauling provisions to Washington's army, who was married after the war, moved from Virginia to North Carolina, then to Kentucky, to Tennessee, and finally in 1819 or 1820, to Alabama, settling in Jones Valley, Jefferson County, of James Tarrant, a captain in the Revolution, who lived to be nearly one hundred years, and is buried in the family cemetery near Rutledge Springs, Jefferson County, and of William Spear, a Revolutionary soldier, who resided near and is buried at Bivens Chapel, near Brookside, Jefferson County. Mr. Hewitt is a nephew of Goldsmith W. Hewitt (q. v.) and of Robert Greene Hewitt (q. v.). He was educated in the country schools of the vicinity and at Trussville, under Prof. R. G. Hewitt. He started teaching a country school at the age of nineteen, and spent the next seven years in clerking, teaching and merchandising. He was appointed clerk for the tax collector, 1888-1895; was department tax assessor under J. F. McLaughlin, 1895-1904; and tax assessor for Jefferson County, 1904-1912. He is a Mason. Married: November 28, 1894, in Birmingham, to Nettie Martin, daughter of Charles James and Nannie (Smith) Martin, of Birmingham, niece of Capt. John M. Martin of Tuscaloosa, who later resided at Birmingham and was elected to congress; granddaughter of Joshua Martin, governor of Alabama and brother of Judge Peter Martin of Tuscaloosa. Children: 1. Robert Goldsmith, Birmingham; 2. Charles Mason, Birmingham; 3. Mary, Birmingham; 4. Ruth Frances, Birmingham. Residence: Birmingham.

HEWITT, GOLDSMITH WHITEHOUSE, lawyer, representative in congress, was born February 14, 1834, in Jefferson County, and died May 27, 1895, in Jefferson County; son of James Hignight and Eleanor (Tarrant) Hewitt, early settlers of Jefferson County, who lived on a farm ten miles north of Elyton, the former a native of Tennessee, who came to Alabama before the admission of the state into the Union and while Jefferson was a part of Blount County, and died in 1858, his wife preceding him by four years; grandson of Goldsmith Whitehouse and Nancy Jane (Kirkman), who moved from Virginia to Tennessee, and from that place to Alabama in 1826, settling in Jefferson County, near Elyton, the former an Englishman, born about 1766, who came to America when he was sixteen years old and joined the American army then besieging Yorktown, and died in Jefferson County, August 10, 1846, the latter a native of Virginia, was born about 1769 and died November 2, 1838, and of James and Kissiah (Terry) Tarrant, who lived near Jonesboro, the former, born probably in Virginia, about 1743, was a captain of South Carolina state troops in the Revolutionary War and died about 1838; great-grandson of Leonard Tarrant, a native of Scotland who emigrated to America early in the eighteenth century, and settled at Jamestown where he married a woman of English and Welch parentage, then moved to Amhurst County, Va., and finally to South Carolina, where he died. Mr. Hewitt is an uncle of Francis Asbury Hewitt (q. v.), and a brother of Robert Greene Hewitt (q. v.). He received his early schooling in Jefferson County, and began to study law under Judge W. S. Mudd at Elyton, finishing his law training in the Lebanon Law School, Tennessee. He was admitted to the bar in 1856, became a member of the law firm of Ernest and Earle, and later formed a partnership with John C. Morrow. At the beginning of the War of Secession, he enlisted as a private in Co. B, Tenth Alabama infantry; was promoted to captain of Co. G., Twenty-eighth Alabama infantry regiment, August, 1862, and served with that command until on the second day of the battle of Chickamauga, when he was wounded and disabled for further service. After the war, Mr. Hewitt resumed the practice of law. In 1870, he was elected to the lower house of the State legislature, and two years later was sent to the State senate. While serving in the latter body, he was elected to congress. He was a member of the Forty-fourth congress, and was returned to the Forty-fifth, Forty-seventh and Forty-eighth congresses. His first act was the introduction of "a bill to secure an impartial administration of justice in the state of Alabama," in which he advocated the removal of political machinery from influence in the courts. Other measures introduced by him included a bill designed to put a stop to partisan assessment of officials in the departments of the Federal civil service, a bill to pension survivors of the Mexican and Indian Wars, and a bill to repeal the act forbidding pensions to all, save those who had taken the Union side in the War of Secession. With the adjournment of the Forty-eighth congress, Mr. Hewitt voluntarily returned to private life and resumed the practice of law in Birmingham as a member of the firm of Hewitt, Walker & Porter. He served in the Alabama legislature during the session of 1886. He was a Democrat and a Protestant Episcopalian. Married: (1) December, 1858, to Sarah J. Morrow, who died in 1863, daughter of Hugh Morrow, a pioneer settler of Jefferson County, and clerk of the circuit court of that county for thirty years; (2) in 1868, to Mrs. H. E. Perkins, daughter of Dr. Samuel Earle, one of the first settlers of Jefferson County. By first marriage, Mr. Hewitt had one child, and by his second marriage, two children. Last residence: Birmingham.

HEWITT, ROBERT GREENE, teacher, was born May 25, 1846, near Elyton, Jefferson County; brother of Goldsmith Whitehouse Hewitt (q. v.). He received his early education at Smith's Chapel, at Massey school house, at Ruhamah academy. He left school when he was sixteen years old and enlisted in the C. S. Army, joining Co. B, Tenth Alabama infantry, March 10, 1862. He served until the final surrender at Appomattox Court House, participating in the battles of second Manassas, Sharpsburg, Fredericksburg, the Wilderness, and Petersburg, and was wounded at the battle of the Wilderness. After the war, he farmed for a short time, then for four years taught school. At the end of that time, he attended the University of Alabama for a year but did not graduate. The degree of master of arts was, however, conferred upon him by the university in 1881. He taught at Rockwell, Tex., 1873-1875, then returned to Alabama and taught at Trussville academy until 1884, when he became a teacher at Guntersville for three years. He was elected tax collector for Jefferson County in 1888, and was re-elected to that office in 1892, serving in all eight years. He was elected a delegate to the State constitutional convention during the administration of Joseph F. Johnston, but because of the repealing of the act calling the convention, was not required to serve. Upon the recommendation of the county convention, Mr. Hewitt was appointed county superintendent of education, but declined to accept the appointment. Later he served as president of the board of education of Jefferson County. He is a Democrat; a Methodist, serving as Sunday school superintendent, steward and trustee; a Mason; and a Knight of Pythias. Married: June 13, 1878, at Trussville, to Fannie Jane Hickman, daughter of William Peyton and Elvira Sims (Hamilton) Hickman, (q. v.), who lived at that place; granddaughter of Jesse and Clara (Pullen) Hickman, and of Audley and Mary Jane (Wilson) Hamilton, the former who was born July 9, 1780, and died March 13, 1838, the latter who was born April 9, 1795, and died November, 1824, great-granddaughter of William and Mary (Haynes) Pullen, natives of Virginia, the former a Revolutionary soldier, and a personal friend of George Washington, who made him social visits while he was president of the United States, who moved from Virginia to Pendleton District, S. C., and from there to Jefferson County, 1818, settling near Elyton, who died April 4, 1845, at the age of eighty-seven years, and is buried near the old Georgia Road between old Birmingham and Avondale. Children: 1. Mary Sims, d. at the age of two years; 2. Clara, d. at the age of four months; 3. a boy, d. at birth; 4. a boy, d. at birth; 5. Fannie Roberta, m. Walter D. McCartey, Birmingham; 6. Jennie Livingston, Birmingham; 7. Annie Belle, Birmingham; 8. Eleanor, Birmingham. Residence: Birmingham.

HEWLETT, WILLIAM A., lieutenant colonel, 56th Alabama Partisan Rangers; major, 13th Alabama Partisan Rangers, C. S. Army.

HICKMAN, CUNNINGHAM WILSON, lawyer and judge, was born at Trussville, Jefferson County; son of William Peyton and Elvira Sims (Hamilton) Hickman, of the same county. He was educated in the common schools of Jefferson County; at the University of Alabama, 1883-4, graduated LL. B., 1886; and since that time has practiced his profession in Birmingham; elected to the legislature of 1903, as a Democrat; in 1915, became judge of the court of common pleas of Birmingham. Married: Flora, daughter of the late David and Flora (Herbert) Buel, the latter a sister of Col. Hilary A. Herbert (q. v.); great-great-granddaughter of William Pullen (q. v.). Residence: Birmingham.

HICKMAN, WILLIAM PAYTON, retired business man, was born in 1828, within three miles of Birmingham; son of Jesse and Clara (Pullen) Hickman, who lived in Jefferson County, the former a native of Kentucky, who came to Alabama in 1820, was married there and became a farmer and live-stock breeder, and died in Texas in 1838, the latter who after her first husband's death, was married to Rev. Joseph Byers, a native of South Carolina, who died in 1874; grandson of William and Mary (Haynes) Pullen, who lived in Virginia, moved to South Carolina, and came to Alabama in 1819, settling in Jefferson County, the former a soldier in the Revolution and in the War of 1812, a personal friend of George Washington, who engaged in farming until his death April 4, 1845, and was buried with military honors. He was reared and educated in Jefferson County, and spent the first ten years of his active life in farming. He clerked for W. C. Eubank, a merchant of Elyton, for two years; and for Robertson & DeJarnette, at Montevallo, for four years. In 1855, he returned to Elyton, and was associated with W. C. Eubank under the firm name of Hickman & Eubank in a general merchandising business. He remained in that business for ten years, and during the War of Secession issued supplies to all portions of the county. After the war he moved fourteen miles north of Birmingham and farmed for two years; moved to Trussville in 1868, and farmed there for eight years; was elected treasurer of the county in 1877-1880; was returned to that office, 1880-1884, and 1884-1888. He had also previously served two terms in that office, 1862-1868. He was elected county commissioner for four years in 1888. He is a Democrat; a Methodist; a Mason; and a member of the Farmers' Alliance. Married: in 1855, to Elvira Simms Hamilton Oden, widow of E. S. Oden, and daughter of Audley and Mary Jane (Wilson) Hamilton. Children: 1. Fannie Jane, b. December 25, 1855, m. Robert Greene Hewitt (q. v.); 2. Cunningham Wilson; 3. Clara Ellen; 4. Jennie Pinkey Sears; 5. William; 6. Jessie. Last residence: Jefferson County.

HICKS, JOHN, soldier of the American Revolution, and a resident of St. Clair County; private, particular service not shown; enrolled on April 15, 1833, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832; annual allowance, $26.66; transferred from Georgia.—Pension Book, State Branch Bank, Mobile.

HICKS, JOHN C., grand master, grand lodge, 1836-37-38; grand high priest, grand chapter, 1837-38-39.

HICKS, LAMARTINE ORLANDO, physician; graduate of the medical department of the University of Alabama, Mobile, 1871; licensed to practice by the board of Clarke County. Residence: Jackson.

HICKS, WILLIAM, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 77, and a resident of Greene County; private Virginia Continental Line; enrolled on January 15, 1830, under act of Congress of March 18, 1818, payment to date from January 4, 1830; annual allowance, $96; sums received to date of publication of list, $16; dropped under act May 1, 1820.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34.

HIDECKER, JOHN A., soldier of the American Revolution, aged 86, and a resident of Autauga County; private S. C. Militia; enrolled on January 17, 1834, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $40.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in part 3, vol. xiii, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34. He resided in Pike County, June 1, 1840, with Sarah Reeks, aged 93.—Census of Pensioners, 1841, p. 49.

HIGDON, ELIJAH LEE, business man, was born September 25, 1861, near Benton, Polk County, Tenn., son of Thomas Asbury and Molie A. (Leuderman) Higdon, the former a native of Polk County, Tenn., who became a Baptist minister when he was eighteen years of age and had charge of various churches in Georgia, Tennessee and Alabama, did a great deal of evangelistic work and baptised over three thousand people; grandson of Thomas A. and Rebeca (Cate) Higdon, who lived in Jefferson County, Tenn., and of Samuel and Luisa Leuderman, who lived near Murphy, N. C. His great-grandparents came from England and settled in North Carolina. He was educated in the common schools at Ducktown, Tenn., Murphy, N. C., and Ellijay and Dalton, Ga. When he was fourteen years of age, he became a clerk in a produce firm in Atlanta, Ga. After several years he was made a partner with his employer, in the firm of W. J. Hudson & Company, 1882-1884. From that time until 1907, he was engaged in the wholesale fruit business in Birmingham, spending most of that time in association with J. H. McCary. He served as alderman in Birmingham, 1889-1890; and was elected sheriff of Jefferson County in 1906. He served in the Gate City Guard, Atlanta, Ga., as a private and non-commissioned officer; joined the Alabama state troops as private in Co. K, Second regiment, at Birmingham, 1887; was elected major of the Birmingham battalion, 1894; was elected colonel of the Third regiment, Alabama national guards, 1897; organized and commanded the First regiment, Alabama national guard in the Spanish-American War, May 1, 1897-October 30, 1898. He is a Democrat; a Baptist; an Elk; Odd Fellow; Beaver; and Eagle. Married: September 19, 1882, at Rome, Ga., to Alice S. Coleman, daughter of Frank and Sarah (Thompson) Coleman, who lived at Woodbury, Tenn. The Coleman family is of Scotch Irish descent, and settled in Virginia; the Thompsons came from England and settled in South Carolina. Children: 1. Elijah Lee, jr., m. Elizabeth Manzee Darnall, Birmingham; 2. Percy Wallis, Birmingham. Residence: Birmingham.

HIGGINS, CHARLES JEFFERIES, business man and legislator, was born December 20, 1859, at Shrewsbury, Shropshire, England; son of Charles Brailsford and Sarah (Jefferies) Higgins, of England, the former dying when his son was three years of age; grandson of Jonas Jefferies, of Wood Mills, Shropshire, England. He was educated in the public schools and a private academy in England, and also took a commercial course. He came to Cullman in the fall of 1881, where he entered business and declared his intention of becoming an American citizen. He represented Cullman County in the legislature of 1888-89; and was State senator from the third district in 1915. He is a Republican; Episcopalian; and an Odd Fellow. Married: February 11, 1886, near Logan, Cullman County, to Dovie Lavina, daughter of Jonathan and Martha (Powell) Walker, of that place. Residence: Cullman.

HIGGINS, ROBERT W., editor and public official, was born in Alabama and died about 1862. He was reared in Jackson County, and attended the U. S. military academy at West Point for some time. He studied law, was admitted to the bar and lived in DeKalb County for a few years. In 1854 or 1855, he moved to Talladega County, and became connected with the editorial department of the "Watchtower." He was elected to the State legislature from DeKalb County in 1857, and to the senate from DeKalb and Marshall Counties, 1859. At one time he was an unsuccessful candidate for secretary of state. At the beginning of the War of Secession in 1861, Gen. Higgins entered the C. S. Army, and was promoted until he reached the rank of major. Before the second year of the war was over, he sickened and died. Previous to the war he had been elected a brigadier general. He was never married. Last residence: DeKalb County.

HIGHTOWER, JOHN, soldier of the American Revolution. "Mr. John Hightower recently died in Marengo County, Alabama, at the age of 126 years. He received a wound in the battle of Braddock's defeat 99 years ago, and was a soldier in the Revolution. His age can be established by an authentic family record."—Southern Advocate, Huntsville, Ala., Nov. 29, 1844.

HILDRETH, CHRISTOPHER JAMES, editor, was born March 28, 1838, at Wolverhampton, Stafford, England; son of James and Margaret (Railton) Hildreth, the former a native of Barnard Castle, Durham, England, who was apprenticed as a printer and when of age, established the business, Hildreth and Chambers, which is still running in Wolverhampton; grandson of Hugh Railton of Staindrop, Yorkshire. Christopher James Hildreth was educated at Mr. Tyrer's school in Wolverhampton and early entered his father's printing business. At the age of sixteen, he emigrated to Toronto, Canada, to join an elder brother who was also a printer. He moved west after entering the United States and became the editor of the "Santa Fe Democrat" in 1875, and edited the "Rio Grande Republic" in Los Cruces, N. M., the following year. In 1885, he edited the "Oceanside Star," California. Upon removing to Alabama in 1889, he became editor of the "New Decatur Advertiser" and when that town changed its name to Albany, the paper conformably changed its name to the "Albany Advertiser." He was elected president of the Alabama press association in 1914 and served one year. While residing in Socorro, N. M., in 1885, he was sergeant major in a volunteer military company. He is an Episcopalian; a Democrat; a Mason; and an Odd Fellow. Married: in 1866, in St. Louis, Mo., to Ellen Stephens, daughter of John and Mary Trotter of that city. She belonged to that branch of the Stephens family of which Alexander Stephens was a member, was the first graduate kindergarten teacher in St. Louis and wrote a text book in clay modeling for children. Children: 1. Harold Edward, m. Nell Harris; 2. Ella Theolian, m. Graham Gamble, Des Moines, Iowa. Residence: Albany.

HILDRETH, REUBEN, soldier of the American Revolution. "DIED—At his residence in this county, on Saturday 11th inst., Mr. Reuben Hildreth, in the 96th year of his age. Mr. Hildreth was a Revolutionary veteran and served his country well in war and peace. He reared a large family, and lived to see his children all happily settled in life."—Marengo Ledger, reprinted in Alabama Beacon, Greensboro, Ala., Oct. 25, 1845.

HILDRITH, PAUL, deputy grand master, grand lodge, Masons, 1834.

HILL, ALONZO, educator, was born April 7, 1846, at Tuscaloosa, and died January 20, 1894; son of Thomas J. and Martha (Foster) Hill, both of whom were children of pioneers of Alabama of South Carolina origin, and lived in Tuscaloosa County, grandson of Hardy and Elizabeth (Hill) Foster, who lived at Foster's Settlement, Tuscaloosa County. He attended the Manly academy, and when he was sixteen years of age, left school to enter the C. S. Army, 1862. He became a private in Co. D, Second Alabama cavalry, under Col. J. J. Peagues, and served until the end of the war. He resumed his studies and prepared for college in the Green Springs School under Dr. Henry Tutwiler. He was graduated from the University of Virginia in mathematics and Latin, and subsequently received from the University of Alabama the degree of A. M. After his graduation, he remained in Virginia three years, teaching mathematics at Bellevue High School, near Lynchburg. He returned to Alabama, and for a year was an instructor in the Green Springs School. He taught at Calhoun institute, Macon, Miss., and in 1876 took charge of the Tuscaloosa female college, to which institution he devoted the remainder of his life. Under his presidency, the college took a place among the foremost female colleges of the South. He was a trustee of the Alabama-Bryce hospital for the insane; was chairman of the Democratic executive committee at Tuscaloosa County; and a director of the Merchants Bank at Tuscaloosa. At the time of his death, Mr. Hill was associated with Gen. Stephen D. Lee and other noted Confederate veterans in the examination of histories of the United States for the recommendation to the Confederate Veteran Association. He took an active part in organizing R. E. Rodes camp, United Confederate Veterans, and served as its lieutenant commander. A short time before his death, he was appointed to the staff of the major-general commanding the Alabama division of that order. He was an Episcopalian. Married: September 17, 1872, in Charlottesville, Va., to Sallie B. Robertson, daughter of Judge William J. and Hannah (Gordon) Robertson, who lived at Charlottesville. Children: 1. Martha Foster, m. Lake Moore, Weleetka, Okla.; 2. Betty Robertson, d. in 1896; 3. Mary C., Tuscaloosa; 4. Alice W., Tuscaloosa; 5. Alonzo, jr., Tuscaloosa. Last residence: Tuscaloosa.

HILL, BASIL MANLEY, grand high priest, Masons, was born July 22, 1850, in Benton. He removed to Springville, St. Clair County, in 1872, and for many years was tax assessor of that county. He was grand high priest, grand chapter, Masons, 1904. Residence: Springville.

HILL, FELIX R., Methodist minister; father of F. R. Hill, jr., New Orleans, La. Deceased. Last residence: Mobile.

HILL, GEORGE, planter, was born in Tennessee and died January, 1867, at Talladega. He came from Tennessee to Alabama when a young man and served in the War of 1812 under Gen. Jackson. He was well educated; was elected to the State legislature in 1831; and for many years was a trustee of the University of Alabama. He was returned to the legislature in 1840, then retired to private life on his plantation in Talladega County until 1857, when he was nominated and elected to the State senate. After his term in the senate, he appeared no more in public life. He was a member of the Baptist church. He was married twice, the second time, in 1856, to Caroline M. Henry, sister of George G. Henry, of Mobile. Last residence: Talladega.

HON. EDWARD M. TUTWILER

HILL, HENRY W., physician, was born January 9, 1827, in Wilkes County, Ga.; son of Abram and Clarissa (Callaway) Hill, the former a native of North Carolina, the latter of Georgia; grandson of Henry and Sarah (Cotton) Hill, the former a native of Virginia, of Irish descent and a soldier of the Revolution, the latter a native of North Carolina and of Scotch descent, and of Joseph Callaway and wife, a Miss Reagen, both natives of Georgia; great-grandson of David Reagen, of North Carolina, a soldier of the Revolution. Dr. Hill received his education at Brownwood university, LaGrange, Ga., and later in Mississippi where his parents had removed. He began the study of medicine under Dr. A. B. Calhoun; entered the University of South Carolina, at Charleston, 1846; and graduated in medicine from the University of New York City, in 1848. He located at Blackhawk, Miss., and practiced at various points in that state until the beginning of the War of Secession. He enlisted in 1862 with General Chalmers and served on his staff until taken sick about six months later. He returned home, remaining there for eight months, re-enlisted as a surgeon of Colonel Fisher's regiment in which service he remained until the close of the war. He then opened a drug business in Memphis, remaining there for only one year; spent two years in Texas; returned to Alabama, remaining two years; later resided in Mississippi and Tennessee locating in Mooresville, in 1881, where he has since remained. He is a Baptist and a Mason. Married: (1) July 12, 1849, to Mary E., daughter of Baker and Almeda (Callaway) Lipscomb; (2) March 27, 1855, to Ann T., daughter of James and Elizabeth (Wood) Hall; (3) February 25, 1859, to Mrs. Mary E. (Poitevent) Girault. Children: by second wife, 1. James A., physician, m. Elizabeth W., daughter of James and Harriet A. (Wright) Woodroff. Last residence: Mooresville.

HILL, ISAAC WILLIAM, educator, was born July 25, 1861, at Auburn; son of Isaac and Harriet Elizabeth (Holt) Hill, the former a native of Hillsboro, Ga., who served in the Indian War of 1836, and came to Alabama from Harris County, Ga.; grandson of Isaac Hill, of Hillsboro, Ga., and of William and Frances (Cox) Holt, of Pleasant Hill, Talbot County, Ga., the former, a Virginian, born of English parents, served in the Indian War; great-grandson of Rev. Cary and Martha (Rountree) Cox, who emigrated from North Carolina and settled in Putnam County, Ga. Mr. Hill attended private schools at Auburn, Ga., and in the neighborhood of his father's plantation home in Macon County, Ga.; the Park High School at Tuskegee; and was graduated from Emory College, Georgia, A. B. Three years later he received the honorary degree of A. M. from his alma mater. Mr. Hill began teaching the year after his graduation, and has taught successively at Whitesville, Ga., 1881-1884; Easonville, St. Clair County, 1884-1885; Sparta, Ga., 1885-1887; Easonville, 1887-1891; Springville, 1891-1896; Gadsden, 1896-1902. He was president of the Spring Lake college, Springville, 1895-1902, and left that position to take the superintendency of the Gadsden public schools, which position he held when elected state superintendent of education; held the latter position, 1902-1907; served as superintendent of public schools, Opelika, 1908-1910; principal, Boys high school, Mobile, 1910-1911; vice president, Provident insurance company of Alabama, 1911-1912; and since June, 1912, assistant in boys and girls demonstration work in the U. S. department of agriculture, Washington, D. C. He joined the Alabama Educational association in 1884; attended the National educational association at San Francisco, Calif., 1888, where he became a member of that body; and was director from Alabama in the National Educational Association, 1904-1906. He is a Democrat; a Methodist; a Mason; Odd Fellow; and a member of the Phi Delta Theta college fraternity. Married: June 18, 1890, at Cropwell, St. Clair County, to Laura Jones, daughter of John W. and Ann (McLeod) Jones, of Cropwell, the former who emigrated from Virginia to Alabama; granddaughter of Daniel and Nancy (Sedberry) McLeod, of Shelby County, the former of Scotch ancestry, and the latter of Irish. Children: 1. Julia, m. John Daniel Meador, Mobile; 2. Geraldine; 3. Isaac William, jr. Residence: Gadsden.

HILL, JOEL, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 72, and a resident of Limestone County; private N. C. Militia; enrolled on February 21, 1833, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $26.66; sums received to date of publication of list, $79.98.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv., Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34.

HILL, LEWIS H., lieutenant colonel, 61st Alabama infantry, C. S. Army.

HILL, LUTHER LEONIDAS, physician, was born January 22, 1862, in Montgomery; son of Rev. Luther L. and Laura Sarah (Croom) Hill, natives of Alabama, the former a minister of the Methodist church who was born in 1823, and died in 1895; brother of Robert Somerville Hill (q. v.). His original American ancestor, William W. Hill, emigrated from England to North Carolina in 1687. Dr. Hill obtained his early education in the private school of Prof. George W. Thomas; attended Howard college at Marion; was graduated from the medical department of the University of New York, M. D., 1881; spent the summer of that year attending lectures at the different hospitals of New York City; was graduated from the Jefferson medical college at Philadelphia, M. D., 1882; studied in hospitals in Philadelphia until January, 1883; attended the New York polyclinic college, where he studied surgery and diseases of the eye, ear and throat; entered the medical department of King's college, London, July, 1883, and studied surgery under the instruction of Sir Joseph Lister and Dr. John Wood. He returned to America, April, 1884, after visiting the principal cities of Europe, and began the practice of his profession, making a specialty of surgery, in Montgomery. In 1887, he was elected president of the Montgomery County medical and surgical Marengo County; private, sergeant and lieutenant S. C. Militia; enrolled on March 3, 1834, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $200; sums received to date of publication of list, $600.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34. He resided in Greene County, June 1, 1840, aged 81.—Census of Pensioners 1841, p. 149.

HILLIARD, HENRY WASHINGTON, lawyer, representative in congress, was born August 4, 1808, in Fayetteville, N. C., and died December 17, 1892, at Atlanta, Ga. When he was quite young, his parents moved to Columbia, S. C., where he was reared and educated. He was graduated from South Carolina College; read law under William C. Preston in Columbia, S. C., and A. M. Clayton in Athens, Ga.; was admitted to the bar in 1829; practiced law at Athens, 1829-1831; served as professor in the University of Alabama, 1831-1834, when he resigned to practice law in Montgomery. In 1838, he answered Dixon H. Lewis in six papers signed "Junius Brutus," opposing Calhoun's subtreasury scheme. He was elected to the State legislature as a Whig that same year; was a delegate to the Whig National convention at Harrisburg, Pa., 1840, and was on the Harrison electoral ticket; was offered the mission to Portugal in 1841, but declined to accept; was on the general ticket of the Whig party, 1841, for congress, and was defeated, but carried his own district; was appointed charge d'affaires to Belgium by President Tyler, 1842-1844; was elected to congress over John Cochran of Barbour County, 1845; was returned without opposition in 1847; and re-elected over James L. Pugh of Barbour County, 1849. His first speech in congress was such that Ex-president John Quincy Adams, then a member, walked across the room to congratulate him. During his service in congress, Mr. Hilliard was a regent of Smithsonian Institution. He supported the compromise measures of 1850, and opposed the extreme states' rights policy of the south. At the close of his third term, he declined further service and resumed his professional labors. Early in life, he held an official connection with the Methodist church, as a local or lay minister, and he sometimes entered the pulpit. In 1856, he was on the Fillmore electoral ticket, and in 1860, on the Bell and Everett ticket. In 1861, he was sent by President Davis as commissioner to Tennessee, to arrange for the admission of that state into the confederacy, and was successful in his mission. He had opposed secession, and had met William L. Yancey in joint debate in a canvass of Alabama, 1860-1861, but when Alabama seceded, he gave the state his support. In 1862, he was made a brigadier general, raised Hilliard's legion of about three thousand men, entered the service with it, but after some months resigned his commission. After the war, he practiced law in Augusta, Ga., and in Atlanta. He advocated the election of Horace Greeley in 1872; was an unsuccessful candidate for representative from Georgia in the Forty-fifth congress, 1876; and was appointed U. S. minister to Brazil by President Hayes, serving 1877-1881. He helped forward the emancipation movement in Brazil, and his speech and letter on that subject, at the time of the emancipation of one million and a half of slaves in Brazil, were published in the official Blue Book of Great Britain by Lord Granville. Mr. Hilliard was author of "Roman Nights," a translation from the Italian, 1848; "Speeches and Addresses," 1855; "De Vane, a Story of Plebeians and Patricians," 1865; "Politics and Pen Pictures," 1892; and "Recollections and Addresses," 1895. Married: (1) Miss Bedell, of Georgia; (2) Mrs. Mayes, a sister of Col. Thomas O. Glascock. One of his sons, William Preston Hilliard, married Jennie Whiting, daughter of John and Elizabeth (Bell) Whiting, the former a financier who was president of the South & North Railroad, and commissioner and trustee of banks, the latter a sister of W. B. Bell. Last residence: Atlanta, Ga.

HILLIARD, JENNIE (WHITING) patriotic worker, was a daughter of John and Elizabeth (Bell) Whiting (q. v.). She attended the first meeting of the Ladies' Memorial association and served as second secretary of the organization. Married: Williams Preston Hilliard, son of Henry W. Hilliard (q. v.).

HILLIARD, MONROE JUDGE, merchant, was born February 14, 1880, at Eutaw, Greene County; son of James L. and Nannie F. (Brooks) Judge, the former a farmer of Springfield, St. Clair County; grandson of Hilliard and Laura (Mills) Judge, of Eutaw, and of Brewster and Sarah (Smith) Brooks, of Springville. The Judge family is of Scotch descent. Mr. Judge was educated in the common schools of Shelby County. He went to work early and for a number of years was employed in Birmingham. In 1907 he began merchandising in Columbiana. He represented Shelby County in the State legislature, 1915; is a Democrat; a Presbyterian; a Mason, and a Knight of Pythias. Married: August 20, 1902, to Anna L. Cosper, daughter of Jacob and Zula (Carlisle) Cosper. Residence: Columbiana.

HILLIARD, WILLIAM JASON, farmer, probate judge, and legislator, was born October 24, 1833, in Stewart County, Ga.; son of William and Mary (Daniel) Hilliard, the former a native of North Carolina, went with his parents when young to Georgia, and in 1851, removed to what became known as Hilliard's Cross Roads, Pike County, here he improved land and resided until his death from small-pox in 1863, the latter was a native of Washington County, Ga.; grandson of Major Hilliard who was probably of English and Dutch ancestry, born in North Carolina, later removed to Georgia where he became a prominent planter, and of Ezekiel Daniel, a prosperous farmer of Washington County, Ga., his ancestors came to America during colonial times. He was educated in the common schools near Hilliard's Cross Roads; spent one year in teaching, and at the request of his parents returned home to look after their property; enlisted in July, 1861, in Co. F, 15th Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army, serving with this unit until 1863. Upon the death of his parents he engaged in farming; has been a mechanic and blacksmith; elected in 1880, probate judge of Pike County, which position he held for three years, after which he resumed farming; elected as a representative from Pike County to the legislature of 1901. He is a Democrat; Methodist; and a Mason. Married: (1) December 25, 1863, at Elba, to Laura, daughter of Allan and Martha Bullard, who removed from Georgia to Coffee County, Ala.; (2) November, 1881, to Mrs. Sarah Amelia Kelsoe, née Cooper. Children: by first wife, 1. Mary V., deceased, m. William Parks; 2. Martha G., m. James E. Henderson; 3. Camilla J.; 4. Belle; 5. William W.; by second wife, 6. John W.; 7. Alice Lee. Residence: Troy.

HILLMAN, THOMAS T., business man, promoter, was born February 2, 1844, in Montgomery County, Tenn., and died August 5, 1905, at Birmingham; son of Daniel and Ann (Marable) Hillman, who lived in Montgomery County, Tenn., the former a native of Trenton, N. J., who was in the iron business all his life, who was the pioneer iron manufacturer of Tennessee, and who died in 1883; grandson of Dr. John H. and Nancy (Watson) Marable, who lived near Clarksville, Tenn. The greater part of his education was obtained at Vandusia academy, Edgefield, Tenn., although, because of an accident which caused him to be confined to bed for four years, he had little more than two years of schooling. He went to Louisville, Ky., when he was fifteen years of age, was employed in a rolling mill, and promoted very rapidly. He took charge of his father's business, the Empire Iron Works, in Triggs County, Ky., until 1866, when he was given an interest in the business, the firm becoming Lee, Hillman & Son. He assumed charge of the Centre Furnace Company until 1879; the following year went into the mercantile business at Nashville, Tenn.; and in July of that year sold his business and moved to Birmingham, where he formed a partnership with Henry F. De Bardeleben in ore and iron making. He built the Alice furnace No. 1; and in 1881, the Alice Furnace Company was organized by combining the properties of the Hillman Iron & Coal Company, the Birmingham Iron & Coal Company, and the property of Hillman & DeBardeleben, with Mr. Hillman as president and general manager. He acted in that capacity until the consolidation of the Tennessee Coal, Iron & Railroad Company, the Pratt Coal & Iron Company, and the Alice Furnace Company, under the name of the Tennessee Coal, Iron & Railroad Company, at which time he was made vice-president of the new company. He held the position of vice-president of the Eusting and Alice division of the company until April, 1889, when he retired from the service of the company until January, 1891, at which time he was elected a director in the company. In April, 1891, he was elected second vice-president. He was president and director of the Birmingham Railroad & Electric Company; a director in the First National Bank; and at the time of his death was president of the Pratt Consolidated Coal Company. He erected the first four furnaces at Ensley. In his early business life, while in Kentucky,

Mr. Hillman was a partner in the firm of Hillman, Brother & Sons, located in Lyon County, Ky., manufacturing merchants bar iron, and plate sheet iron. That company made the celebrated Hillman boiler plate, and what was known as the Tennessee bar iron, supplying four-fifths of the iron sold south of the Ohio, prior to the War of Secession. He was a Methodist; was president of the board of stewards of the First church of Birmingham for a number of years; was a Knight Templar and a Royal Arch Mason. Married: in 1866, to Emily S. Gentry, who was born March 19, 1844, in Wilson County, Tenn., daughter of Col. Meredith Poindexter and Emily (Saunders) Gentry, who lived in Sumner County, Tenn., the former of whom was a member of the legislature when twenty-one years old, was a representative in congress for a number of years, and died in November, 1866. Children: 1. J. H., d. 1912, in Pittsburgh, Pa.; 2. T. T., d. Aug. 5, 1905; 3. Nannie J., m. Dr. Ed. N. Franklin, Sumner County, Tenn.; 4. Gallatin; 5. Grace C., m. D. C. Scales, Nashville, Tenn. Last residence: Birmingham.

HILLSMAN, JOSE, soldier of the American Revolution. "At her residence in this county, on the 4th inst., Mrs. Elizabeth Hillsman, widow of the late Jose Hillsman, formerly of Amelia County, Va., in her 84th year. Her husband was a soldier of the Revolution, and she was the last revolutionary pensioner of the general government in this county. She was baptized in the Episcopal church in Virginia, about the year 1800, and died professing repentance towards God and faith in the Lord Jesus Christ."—The Southern Advocate, Huntsville, Ala., Sept. 24, 1857.

HINDS, JOSEPH MUNROE, consul general, for a number of years a resident of Alabama, was born in Illinois, January 6, 1842; son of Simeon Hinds and wife, the former an extensive farmer of Illinois. He attended the country schools of his native state; studied law, but abandoned his studies at the beginning of the war and volunteered as a private in the Eighth Illinois infantry; was promoted to a second lieutenancy; transferred to the First Alabama (Federal) cavalry as acting regimental quartermaster; and mustered out at Huntsville, October, 1865. After the war he and his brother located at Decatur as traders and merchants; also engaged in steamboating and operated a line of stages. He was appointed consul-general for the U. S. to Brazil, 1872; returned to Decatur, 1873; appointed United States marshal for the northern district of Alabama, 1882, and removed to Huntsville; at the expiration of his term returned to Decatur. Married: in 1873, at Rio Janeiro, to Miss Lucia Annita Trillia, of Buenos Ayres, of English and Italian stock. He had two boys and two girls. One of the children, Grace Elvina, m. (1) Alfred Duggan, of Buenos Ayres, and (2) George Nathaniel Curzon, 1st earl of Kedleston, for a time viceroy and governor-general of India.

HINDS, WARREN ELMER, entomologist, for a number of years a resident of Alabama, was born September 20, 1876; at Townsend, Middlesex County, Mass.; son of Warren David and Mary Persis (Colby) Hinds, the former a native of Worcester County, Mass., and a soldier in the U. S. Army, 1864-65. Dr. Hinds was educated in the public schools of Townsend; received the B. Sc. degree from Massachusetts agricultural college, Amherst, 1899; Boston university, B. S., 1899; returned to Massachusetts agricultural college, received the first degree of Ph. D. ever given there, 1902. Since his graduation, he has served as entomologist in various states, in 1907 coming to Alabama to take up his present work as entomologist of the Alabama polytechnic institute. Married: March 4, 1903, at Templeton, Mass., to Edith Goddard, daughter of Simeon Dennison Parker and Susan Eliza (Knowlton) Gray, of that place. Residence: Auburn.

HINSON, EVANS, lawyer, was born October 4, 1875, at Mt. Willing, Lowndes County, and died April 28, 1910, at Hayneville; son of Joseph Lemuel and Martha Ellen (Daniel) Hinson, the former a native of Anson County, N. C., who lived at Mt. Willing, was first lieutenant of Co. M, Sixth Alabama regiment, C. S. Army, was wounded in the thigh at Seven Pines, lost his right leg at Winchester, was promoted to captain, and was a prisoner of war at Fort Delaware when Gen. Lee surrendered; grandson of John and Mary (Wall) Hinson, and of John and Hulda (Hill) Daniel, all of Mt. Willing. Mr. Hinson was educated at Mt. Willing high school, at Marion military institute, and at Howard college, graduating from the latter place, B. S., 1894. He studied law in Birmingham with W. R. Houghton; was admitted to the bar in December, 1895; began to practice law in Hayneville, January, 1896; served as county solicitor, 1897-1898; was general administrator for Lowndes County, 1898; and delegate from that county to the constitutional convention, 1901. He was a Democrat; Missionary Baptist; and a Mason. Married: December 25, 1904, at Hayneville, to Ernestine Cloud Poole, daughter of Edward Daniel and Annie Elizabeth (Bell) Poole. Children: 1. Evans, jr. Last residence: Hayneville.

HIPP, ROBERT LEE, lawyer and legislator, was born February 13, 1873, at Brooksville, Blount County, and was killed near Joppa, in the same county, April 11, 1905; son of Lycurgus and Leta (Hyatt) Hipp, the former a native of Ellijay, Ga., who removed to Brooksville; grandson of Abram Hyatt, also of Brooksville. He was educated in the common schools of Blount County; and graduated, B. S., 1892 from Blount college, LL. B., 1899, from Cumberland university, Tenn., and was admitted to the bar. He was elected, 1900, and re-elected, 1902, as a State senator from the third district. In 1904, he resided for a few months in Birmingham where he was the partner of Judge Zell Gaston. He was a Democrat. He was unmarried. Last residence: Cullman.

HIRSHFIELD, HENRY PHILLIPS, physician; graduate of the medical department of the University of Pennsylvania, 1878; licensed to practice the same year by the board of Mobile County. Residence: Mobile.

HITCHCOCK, HENRY, lawyer, chief justice of the supreme court of Alabama, was born September 19, 1792, at Burlington, Chittenden County, Vt., and died August 11, 1839, at Mobile; son of Judge Samuel and Lucy Caroline (Allen) Hitchcock, the former a native of Brimfield, Hampshire County, Mass., who lived in Burlington, Vt., until 1794, when he moved to Vergennes, living there until 1806, at which time he returned to Burlington, was graduated from Harvard university in 1777, read law at Brookfield, Mass., with Hon. Jedediah Foster, began the practice of law at Burlington, Vt., in 1786, was states attorney in Chittenden County, Vt., 1787-1791, represented the town, 1789-1794, was a member of the convention of delegates of the people of Vermont at Bennington, January 10, 1791, to ratify the constitution of the United States, drafted the charter of the University of Vermont, November 3, 1791, was a trustee of that university and its secretary, 1791-1800, was attorney-general of Vermont under the act of October, 1790, was one of the electors from Vermont at the second presidential election in 1793, judge of the district court of United States for the district of Vermont, and judge of the circuit court of the second circuit of the United States, receiving his appointment from President John Adams, and as a lawyer ranked among the foremost in New England; grandson of Noah and Mary (Burt) Hitchcock, of Springfield, Mass., and of Gen. Ethan Allen of Vermont, of Revolutionary fame. He was graduated from the University of Vermont with honor, 1811, and took up the study of law. He located in Mobile, January 22, 1816, to practice law; moved to the Tombigbee settlement in 1817, and had opened an office there for the purpose of practicing law, when he was appointed secretary of the territory by Gov. Bibb. While he was secretary of the commonwealth, he formed a partnership with Hon. William Crawford of St. Stephens, and entered on a successful career. He represented Washington County in the constitutional convention of 1819, and was elected the first attorney general of Alabama the same year. He held that office four years, then devoted his entire time to his profession. He moved to Cahaba in 1821, when the seat of government was established at that place, and located in Mobile in 1826. He was elected to the bench of the supreme court of Alabama, January, 1835, to succeed Mr. Lipscomb, and in 1836, on the resignation of Mr. Saffold, was made chief justice of the supreme court. He resigned from that position a few months later, and resumed his law practice. He was elected to represent Mobile County in the legislature in 1839, but died of yellow fever in the fall of that year, at the age of forty-four years. He was a Presbyterian. Married: October, 1821, to Anna Erwin, daughter of Col. Andrew Erwin, who lived near Nashville, Tenn. Children: 1. Caroline Loraine, b. April 8, 1825, at Mobile, d. in 1863, m. March, 1857, to Dr. Samuel G. DeCamp, surgeon, U. S. Army, one daughter, Anna Erwin, m. Leo A. Camacho, resides at New Brighton, Staten Island, N. Y., a Mason; and an Odd Fellow. Married: (1) January 10, 1873, near Gainesville, to Virginia Kerr, who died December 20, 1884, daughter of William and Sarah (Dial) Kerr, who lived near Gainesville; (2) July 15, 1886, Lucy I. Stewart, who was born August 6, 1864, near Carrollton, and died August 25, 1898, daughter of William C. and Mary Elizabeth (Harris) Stewart, natives of Pickens County; (3) March 19, 1901, to Mrs. Ina C. McKinstry, who was born July 12, 1873, daughter of William Hunter and Ella Ann (Calhoun) Harlan. Children, by first marriage; 1. William Kerr, b. March 8, 1875, d. November 5, 1895, druggist at Carrollton; 2. Velma; 3. Samuel H.; 4. Hugh W.; 5. Virginia; by second marriage, 6. Stewart Feuilleau, b. June 16, 1887; 7. Bessie Lee, b. January 18, 1889; 8. Augustus Eugene, b. November 3, 1893, d. August 12, 1894; 9. Robert Andrew, b. December 5, 1894; 10. Edith, b. April 2, 1896, d. April 7, 1896; 11. Lucian Isabel, b. August 19, 1898; by third marriage, 12. Hunter Emmett, b. June 7, 1902; 13. Annie May, b. March 6, 1904. Residence: Carrollton.

HILL, THOMAS CARTER, physician, was born November 14, 1839, in Greene, now Hale, County, and died at Oxford; son of Thomas H. and Miranda (Gregory) Hill, natives, respectively, of Virginia and North Carolina, the former of whom went to North Carolina in early manhood, was married there, moved to Alabama in 1812, and settled in Greene County, where he became an extensive planter, and died in 1860 at the age of seventy-eight; grandson of Joseph Hill, an Englishman, who came to America before the Revolution and settled in Culpeper County, Va.. He was educated in some of the leading colleges of the state and at the age of nineteen began to study medicine. He was a student in medical institutions in New York and Boston, and was graduated from the Jefferson medical college, Philadelphia, M. D., 1860. Early in 1861, he enlisted in the C. S. Army as a private soldier, joining the Fifth Alabama regiment. After a short time, he was promoted to assistant surgeon, and in 1864, was transferred to the valley district of Virginia, as medical director, with full rank of surgeon. He remained in that department to the close of the war. After the war, Dr. Hill returned to Alabama, and located at Dayton, Marengo County, in the practice of medicine. He went to Europe in 1870 to study under leading members of the profession abroad, returned to Dayton and continued his practice there until 1884, when he moved to Oxford, and abandoned his profession to devote his time to real estate and other business enterprises. Married: May, 1870, in Marengo County, to Margaret Lee, daughter of Columbus W. and Elizabeth (Parker) Lee (q. v.). Children: 1. Columbus L.; 2. Thomas C.; 3. Margaret; 4. Myra C.; 5. Harry. Last residence: Oxford.

HILL, THOMAS RUFUS, physician, was born in Trenton, Hawkins County, Tenn., and died November 27, 1872, at Montgomery. He was one of four brothers, all of whom were physicians. He came to Alabama from Tennessee, and settled first in Selma. After a short time at that place, he moved to Montgomery, and spent the remainder of his life there. He was a practising physician at Montgomery; was president of the National Medical Association; and president of the state and city boards of health. He enlisted at New Orleans, 1846, for service in the Mexican War, and served throughout the war as surgeon. He was a Democrat. Married: across the Tennessee line from Trenton, Ky., to Caroline Thomas Farley, who died April 8, 1890, in Chattanooga, daughter of Eliza M. Farley, and sister of William and James A. Farley, both of Montgomery. Children: 1. Amelia, d. in infancy; 2. Isadora Sue, m. J. P. Flanders, of Macon, Ga.; 3. Wallace Davis, m. Ettie V. Ashley, of Chattanooga, Tenn.; 4. Moreau, d. in infancy; 5. Fred W., m. (1) Lizzie Harris of Chattanooga, Tenn., (2) Louie Collier, of Chattanooga, Tenn. Last residence: Montgomery.

HILL, WILEY CROOM, lawyer, was born September 6, 1876, at Montgomery; son of Dr. Luther L. and Laura S. (Croom) Hill. He was educated in the public schools of Montgomery and graduated with the LL. B. degree in the law department of the University of Alabama, in 1895. From that date until 1897, he was clerk of the county court of Montgomery. He entered upon the practice of his profession in 1897, and is a member of the firm of Hill, Hill and Whiting. Married: November 30, 1898, at Montgomery, to Mary Ellen, daughter of Dr. John H. and Mary (Cook) Blue (q. v.). Children: 1. Wiley C., jr.; 2. John Blue; both graduates of the department of law at the University of Alabama, and upon graduation taken into the law firm with their father; 3. Laura May; 4. Mary Blue. Residence: Montgomery.

HILL, WILLIAM WALLACE, lawyer and State senator, was born August 8, 1868, at Faunsdale, Marengo County; son of Luther L. and Laura (Croom) Hill. He was educated in the schools of Montgomery; prepared for college by Prof. George Thomas, a famous teacher of Montgomery; later attended Howard college and the University of Alabama; studied law in the office of Judge Samuel F. Rice, and Col. A. A. Wiley, in Montgomery; admitted to the practice in 1889; has been county solicitor; was a member of the house of representatives from Montgomery County in 1897; and was State senator from the 28th senatorial district, 1915. He was for several years 1st lieutenant, Troop A, 2nd regiment, Alabama national guard. He is a Democrat; Methodist; Mason; and Knight of Pythias. Married: January 2, 1901, at Pine Apple, Wilcox County, to Carrie, daughter of William and Clara (Seale) Melton of that place; granddaughter of Joseph and Nancy (Ptomey) Melton and Ransom and Ellen Jane (Murphy) Seale. Children: 1. Corrie Melton. Residence: Montgomery.

HILLHOUSE, JAMES, Presbyterian minister; mentioned in Nall's "Dead of the Synod of Alabama," 1851.

HILLHOUSE, WILLIAM, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 75, and a resident of with three children, namely, a son, a daughter and a son. He died in 1885, at the age of 75, in the city of New York. His wife, Mrs. Hillman, died in 1890, at the age of 70. They were both members of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

THOMAS T. HILLMAN

He was born in 1810, in the town of New York. He was educated in the common schools of his native town. He was a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church. He was a successful business man and a prominent citizen of his town. He died in 1885, at the age of 75, in the city of New York.

He was a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church. He was a successful business man and a prominent citizen of his town. He died in 1885, at the age of 75, in the city of New York.

He was a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church. He was a successful business man and a prominent citizen of his town. He died in 1885, at the age of 75, in the city of New York. He was a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church. He was a successful business man and a prominent citizen of his town. He died in 1885, at the age of 75, in the city of New York.

with their three children; 2. Henry, b. July 3, 1829, at Spring Hill, d. March 18, 1902, m. March 5, 1857, to Mary Collier, who survived him with two children, Henry and George Collier, St. Louis, Mo.; 3. Andrew Erwin, b. June 6, 1831, at Mobile, d. October 4, 1848, at Nashville, Tenn.; 4. Anna E., b. May 12, 1839, at Mobile, d. November 18, 1839; 5. Ethan Allen, b. September 19, 1835, at Mobile, was graduated at the military academy in New Haven, Conn., 1855, engaged in mercantile pursuits in St. Louis, Mo., 1855-1860, was employed by the commission house of Olyphant & Company, in China, 1860-1866, became a partner in the house in 1866, retired from business and left China in 1872, was in Europe, 1872-1874, was interested in mining, manufacturing, and railways in the United States as a promoter and president, 1874-1897, was appointed envoy-extraordinary and minister-plenipotentiary to Russia by President McKinley, August 16, 1897, reaching St. Petersburg in December, 1897, was appointed ambassador extraordinary and minister-plenipotentiary, the first American ambassador accredited to the Russian court, February, 1898, was named by the president and confirmed by the senate as secretary of the interior as successor to Cornelius N. Bliss, December 21, 1898, and assumed his position in President McKinley's cabinet, February 20, 1899, m. March 22, 1869, to Margaret D. Collier, has three daughters, Sarah, m. John F. Shepley, Anne E. and Margaret Dwight. Last residence: Mobile.

1792- HITCHCOCK, HENRY, lawyer, territorial secretary, and attorney general, was born in 1795, in one of the New England States, probably Vermont, and died in 1839, in Mobile; grandson of Gen. Ethan Allen. He came to Alabama in 1817 and located in the Tombigbee settlement; began the practice of law; appointed in 1818, territorial secretary by Gov. William W. Bibb and at the same time formed a law partnership with William Crawford at St. Stephens; represented Washington County in the constitutional convention of 1819; elected attorney general, holding that office 1819-1823; returned to his practice; removed to Cahaba, later to Mobile; elected associate justice, in January, 1835, and chief justice, in 1836. In 1839 he was elected a member of the State house of representatives but died before it convened. Married: Miss Irwin, of Tennessee. Children: 1. son. Last residence: Mobile.

HIKSON, JAMES COURTNEY, lawyer, was born December 25, 1863; son of Rev. J. O. and Mattie Thurman (Brown) Hixson, of Union Springs. He graduated A. B., 1888, and LL. B., 1890, from the University of Alabama; was commandant, University of Alabama, 1888-91; practiced his profession at Union Springs, 1891-93; U. S. Consul, Foochow, China, 1893-97; captain, Co. H, 5th Immunes, Spanish-American War, 1898-99; lieutenant, 32nd Regiment, U. S. volunteer infantry, Philippine War, 1899-1901; appointed lieutenant, U. S. Army, 1901; now a judge in the Philippine Islands.

HOBBIE, HENRY MARTIN, business man, was born January 13, 1849, in Montgomery, and died October 24, 1906 in Montgomery; son of Asbury and Alice (Hedgebeth) Martin, both of whom died in his infancy. Mr. Martin was then adopted by Mr. and Mrs. Simon Hobbie and he took their name with his own. He received his education in the common schools of Montgomery and in Dr. Cox's College. He was a member of the Montgomery Greys, Second Alabama regiment and on the outbreak of the Civil war was too young to be accepted for service, but succeeded in serving as private for the last seventeen months of the war. He was a wholesale grocer and commission merchant and an extensive cotton planter, and was also interested in banking, being a director of the First National Bank at Montgomery. He was director of the Central Railroad of Georgia; and served for a short time as member of the board of revenue of Montgomery County. He was a Democrat; Mason; and a member of the Methodist Episcopal church, South. He was also a member of the Joi de Vie. Married: July 16, 1872, in Montgomery to Miss Leonora Jackson, daughter of John W. A. and Martha (Barnett) Jackson, the former who was a son of Abram Jackson who was a relative of Andrew Jackson, and the latter who was a member of the Barnett family of Virginia and Georgia, and later of Alabama, where they were prominent citizens. Children: 1. Richard Martin, b. 1877, acted as federal food administrator for Alabama under Herbert Hoover during the World war, m. Annie Henderson; 2. Henry Martin, jr., b. 1881, president of the Fourth National Bank of Montgomery, m. Bessie Rogers; 3. Jackson Martin, b. 1886, m. Minnie Lee Rainer; 4. Nonie, m. John W. Vardaman. Last residence: Birmingham.

HOBBBS, SAMUEL FRANCIS, lawyer, was born October 5, 1887, at Selma, Dallas County; son of Samuel Freeman and Frances Jeffries (John) Hobbs, the former a native of Falmouth, York County, Me., who located in Selma about 1856, where he resided until his death, 1890, a Confederate soldier, serving in Byrd's company, first regiment, Alabama volunteers, until it was mustered out, in Goldsby's company, mounted infantry, until transferred to quartermaster's department on account of illness, and remained in this department until close of war; grandson of Josiah and Miranda (Merrill) Hobbs, also of Falmouth, Me., and of Joseph Reid and Rosa Jane (Smith) John of Selma. He was educated in public schools of Selma and Prof. Calloway's preparatory school, Marion military institute and Vanderbilt university; was graduated with degree of LL. B. from Alabama university, May, 1908, and entered at once on the practice of law in Selma where he still resides. He is a Democrat; Presbyterian; Mason; Shriner; and a member of the Delta Kappa Epsilon and Theta Nu Epsilon college fraternities. Married: January 8, 1913, at Birmingham, to Sarah Ellen, daughter of Judge Samuel Earle and Rosa (Miller) Greene of that place; granddaughter of Judge George Knox and Celestine (McCann) Miller, the former a captain in the Confederate cavalry under Wheeler, and a resident of Talladega, the latter, a native of South Carolina, and of Robert and Sarah Ellen (Earle) Greene, the former a Confederate soldier, resident of Elyton; great-granddaughter of Dr. Earle of Elyton. Residence: Selma.

HOBBS, THOMAS HUBBARD, planter, was born April 19, 1826, in Limestone County, and died July 24, 1862, in Lynchburg, Va.; son of Ira E. and Rebecca E. (Maclin) Hobbs, natives of Brunswick County, Va., of Scotch-Irish descent; grandson of Thomas Maclin, a captain in the War of 1812. He was a descendant of Hubbard Hobbs, a lieutenant in the U. S. Navy, and an officer on the Vincennes, the first vessel sent by the U. S. government to circumnavigate the globe. He received his early education at LaGrange college, and was graduated from the University of Virginia, B. A., 1853, and from the law department of the University of Pennsylvania. He practiced law a short time at Athens, but soon abandoned the profession to devote his attention to planting. He was one of the promoters of the North and South railroad, and was associated with the Hon. Luke Pryor in the establishment and final success of that enterprise. He was a temperance candidate for the State legislature in 1853 but was defeated; was a successful candidate for that body in 1855, and during that session was sent by the legislature to represent his congressional district at the Cincinnati convention of 1855. He was returned to the legislature in 1857, and in 1859. His standing in the legislature was such that he was urged as a candidate for governor of the state. At the beginning of the War of Secession, he entered the C. S. Army as captain of Co. F, Ninth Alabama infantry. He had served in the army for a year, when at Seven Pines he was wounded in the leg and died within five weeks from the effect of the wound. While he was in the army, Capt. Hobbs was asked to become a member of the Confederate congress, but declined the position. Married: (1) August 4, 1852, at Richmond, Va., to Indiana E. Booth, who died at Athens in 1854; (2) February 17, 1858, at Lynchburg, Va., to Anne Benagh, who died in 1872, at Athens, daughter of James Benagh, of Lynchburg, and a niece of Hon. William Richardson, of Limestone County. Children, by second marriage: 1. Thomas Maclin, planter, b. November 29, 1858, m. November 24, 1880, to Anne Richardson, resides at Athens; 2. James Benagh, planter, b. January 4, 1861, d. February 23, 1883. Last residence: Lynchburg, Va.

HOBODY, EDMUND, an old time planter in Dallas County. Deceased.

HOBODY, JOHN BUFORD, educator, was born January 16, 1875, at Hobdy's plantation, Macon County; son of Robert Long and Mary (Buford) Hobdy (q. v.). He was educated in the private and public schools of Union Springs, and was graduated with distinction and with the rank of captain and assistant to commandant, from the Alabama polytechnic institute, B. Sc., 1897, and M. Sc., 1898. He was a graduate student at the University of Chicago, 1900. Mr. Hobdy served as professor of agriculture in the Seventh District agricultural school, 1898-1900; was president and director of the experiment station of the same school, 1901-1911; served as assistant to the superintendent of extension, Alabama polytechnic institute, and special agent of the U. S. department of agriculture, 1911-1912; and as professor of the school of agriculture and special agent of the U. S. department of agriculture, 1912, through June, 1913. He was president of the department of superintendents of the Alabama educational association, 1907-1908; was a member of the state text book commission, 1908-1913; was president of the Alabama educational association, 1912-1913; and was state high school inspector for several years. He is a Democrat; an Episcopalian; a member of Phi Delta Theta college fraternity, and of the Knights of Pythias, in which organization he is past chancellor. Married: June 3, 1903, at Bessemer, to Mary Florence, daughter of Walter Keirn and Susan (Tankersley) Smith, who lived at that place; granddaughter of Edward Ward and Martha (Houston) Smith, natives of North Carolina and Sumter County, the former of whom was a lawyer, and of Robert and Evelyn Mason (Cunningham) Tankersley, of Sumter County. Children: 1. Robert Buford, b. May 2, 1909, Birmingham. Residence: Montgomery.

HOBODY, ROBERT LONG, planter, was born in 1840, at Hobdy's Bridge, Pike County; son of Harrell and Jennie (McNeill) Hobdy, both natives of North Carolina, who came when children to this state, and were married in Alabama, the former of whom fought in the Indian War of 1836, and participated in the battle of Pea River, who became a planter in Pike County, was one of the first sheriffs of the county, was a representative in the State legislature in 1844 and 1845, and a senator during the sessions of 1853 and 1855, who died in 1862, from the effects of a wound received during his military service; grandson of Edmund and Nancy (Harrell) Hobdy, the former a native of South Carolina, of Scotch-Irish descent, who was a pioneer of Pike, now Bullock County, where he died about 1848. He was reared on the home plantation and attended the schools of his neighborhood. He was a student of Auburn college at the beginning of the War of Secession, and in April, 1861, was mustered into the C. S. Army at Montgomery for twelve months' service as fourth corporal, Louisville Blues, Seventh Alabama regiment, S. A. M. Woods commanding. His regiment was stationed at Pensacola, Fla., for eight months, then was transferred to Bowling Green, Ky. He was in the retreat from that place to Corinth, Miss., where the regiment was disbanded. He returned home and assisted in raising another company of which he was elected fourth lieutenant. His company was ordered to Tupelo, Miss., where it was attached to the Thirty-ninth Alabama regiment as Co. H. He served throughout the war in the army of Tennessee, and was badly wounded July 22, 1864, at the battle of Atlanta, Ga. He surrendered at Goldsboro, N. C., April 26, 1865, and at the time of the surrender was captain of his company. After the war, he returned to Pike County, and engaged in planting there for a year. At the end of that time he moved to Macon County where he conducted Hobdy's plantation until 1880. He then moved to Union Springs where he occupied a plantation of several hundred acres adjacent to the city. He is an Episcopalian and a Mason. Married: in 1867, to Mary Buford, who was born in Barbour County and educated at Eufaula female college, a daughter of Jefferson and Mary Ann Rebecca (White) Buford (q. v.). Children: 1. Robert Long, planter, b. January 3, 1870, m. November 30, 1898, at White Plains, Ga., to Mary Peirce Robinson, resides at Union Springs; 2. John Buford (q. v.). Residence: Union Springs.

HOBSON, ANNIE, author. Residence: Greensboro.

HOBSON EDWIN LAFAYETTE, Confederate soldier, was born October 13, 1835, in Greensboro, Hale County, and died November 9, 1901, in Richmond, Va.; son of Matthew and Elizabeth Mary Ann (Mounger) Hobson, the former a native of Halifax County, Va., born March 10, 1782, who moved to Greensboro, where he died January 20, 1851; grandson of Nicholas and Sarah (de Graffenried) Hobson II, and of Edwin and Fanny (Clarke) Mounger, of Wilkes County, Ga.; great-grandson of Nicholas and Agnes Hobson I, of Lunenburg County, Va., of Tschanner and Mary (Baker) de Graffenried, and of Gen. Elijah and Hannah (Arrington) Clarke, both of North Carolina, who later resided in Georgia; the former a soldier in the Revolution; great-great-great-grandson of Baron and Lady Regina (Tschanner) de Graffenried, of Castle Worb, near Berne, Switzerland, the former the landgrave of Carolina, who founded New Berne, N. C., in 1710, and died at Castle Worb, in 1735, the latter, born December 7, 1665, was the daughter of the noble Beat Lewis Tschanner. He was educated in Dr. Henry Tutwiler's school at Green Springs, Greene County, and in the University of Virginia. He became a planter in Alabama and later was in business in Richmond, Va. At the outbreak of the War of Secession, he enlisted in the C. S. Army, and was mustered into the service April, 1861, as third lieutenant in Co. D, Fifth Alabama infantry regiment. In May of that year, he was promoted to captain of that company; was commissioned major of the Fifth Alabama in April, 1862; lieutenant-colonel, October, 1862; colonel of the regiment in 1864; and at the battle of Cedar Creek, October 19, 1864, was made acting brigadier-general of Battle's brigade, which he commanded until the surrender at Appomattox Court House, Va. He was wounded at Chancellorsville, May 2, 1863, and at Spotsylvania Court House, May 10, 1864. He was engaged in ninety-two battles and skirmishes. He was a Democrat and an Episcopalian. Married: November 29, 1865, at Richmond, Va., to Fannie Archer, daughter of Gen. Joseph Reid and Sarah Eliza (Archer) Anderson, the former a native of Botetourt County, Va., born February 16, 1813, who was graduated from West Point as an engineer in 1835, resigned from the U. S. Army in 1838, and located in Richmond, Va., where he became engaged in the manufacture of iron, became owner of the Tredegar iron works of Richmond, Va., where the greater part of the cannon for the Confederacy was made, was commissioned brigadier-general at the beginning of the War of Secession on condition that he should be recalled from the field when the interests of the Confederacy required that he should give a personal supervision to the government material in the process of manufacture at the Tredegar iron works, and was recalled from the field and assigned to the iron works by Gen. Robert E. Lee, in 1862; granddaughter of William and Anna (Thomas) Anderson, the former a native of Botetourt County, Va., and the latter of Frederick, Md., and of Dr. Robert and Frances (Williamson) Archer, both of Norfolk, Va., the former of the U. S. Army. Children: 1. Edwin Lafayette, jr., physician, Richmond, Va. Last residence: Richmond, Va.

HOBSON, JAMES MARCELLUS, public official, was born April 29, 1840, in Rockingham County, N. C.; son of Samuel Augustus and Ann (Morehead) Hobson, of North Carolina, who were married in Rockingham County and moved from there to Davy County in 1849, the former a planter who died in 1863, the latter a sister of Gov. John M. Morehead of North Carolina, and a cousin of both governors of Kentucky of that name. He was educated at the University of North Carolina, and entered the C. S. Army from Guilford County, N. C., in 1861, enlisting as a private in Co. E, Second North Carolina state troops, and served until the close of the war. He was wounded at Malvern Hill, at Chancellorsville, and at Spotsylvania, at which latter place, he was captured by the enemy and held a prisoner until the close of the war, fourteen months. At the time of his capture he was a first lieutenant, and was in immediate line of promotion. After the war, he read law under Chief Justice Pearson of the supreme court of North Carolina, and was admitted to the bar in 1867. He came to Alabama and began the practice of law at Greensboro. In 1871 he was appointed probate judge by Gov. Lindsey, but at the ensuing election was defeated by the Republican candidate. Before the end of his term, the successful candidate died, and Mr. Hobson was named for the office by Gov. Houston. He was elected to the office in 1880, and re-elected in 1886, holding the office in all about eighteen years. He was a member of the State legislature in 1876. He is a Democrat; an Episcopalian; a Mason; a Knight of the Golden Rule; a prelate in the Knights of Pythias; and a member of the Ancient Order of United Workmen. Married: in 1867, at Richmond Hill, Yadkin County, N. C., to Sarah Croom, daughter of Judge Richmond Mumford and Margaret (Williams) Pearson, the former of whom was for many years chief justice of the supreme court of North Carolina, and was filling that position at the time of his death. Children: four sons and three daughters, among whom are Samuel A., and Richmond Pearson (q. v.). Residence: Greensboro.

HOBSON, RICHMOND PEARSON, public official, lecturer, representative in congress, was born August 17, 1870, at Greensboro; son of Judge James Marcellus and Sarah Croom (Pearson) Hobson (q. v.). He attended a private school 1878-1882; was a student at Southern university at Greensboro, 1882-1885; was graduated from the U. S. naval academy, 1889; was a student at the Ecole National Supérieur des Mines, and a graduate of the Ecole d'Application du Génie Maritime, at Paris. He received the honorary degree of LL. D. from Southern university, 1906. He was a midshipman on a cruise with the White Squadron in the Mediterranean and South Atlantic waters, 1889-1890; was promoted to assistant naval constructor, July 1, 1891; was on duty in the navy department on the bureau of construction and repairs, 1894-1895; on the U. S. flagship "New York," with the North Atlantic squadron, summer, 1895; at the navy yard, New York, 1895-1896; at Newport News, Va., in the construction of battleships, 1896-1897; organized and conducted a post-graduate course for officers contemplating the construction corps at the U. S. Naval Academy, 1897-1898; went to sea with the North Atlantic squadron in March, 1898, taking a number of post-graduate students as assistants; served as constructor with the fleet and on the flagship "New York," on blockade duty at the bombardment of Matanzas, April 27, 1898, and at the bombardment of San Juan de Puerto Rico, May 12, 1898; originated and carried out the plan, June 3, 1898, of sinking the collier "Merrimac" at the entrance of Santiago harbor, under fire of the enemy's guns, so that Cervera's escape from the harbor might be impeded or blocked; was taken prisoner with his seven companions and held at Morro castle until exchanged, July 6, 1898; received the thanks of congress for his heroic work, June, 1898; was promoted to the rank of naval constructor, with the relative rank of lieutenant, June 23, 1898; was commissioned inspector of the Spanish wrecks, August, 1898, and was in charge of the operations to save them for the United States if possible; succeeded in saving the "Maria Theresa," in Santiago harbor; was ordered to the Asiatic station, December 15, 1898, and at Hong Kong, China, superintended the repairing and rehabilitation of the three Spanish gunboats, "Isle de Cuba," "Isla de Luzon," and "Don Juan de Austria," raised in Manila, saving the government, after deducting all costs of repairs and reconstruction, three hundred thousand dollars; reported for duty at Washington, D. C., September, 1900; was placed in charge of the construction department at Cavite, P. I.; was the special representative of the navy department at the Buffalo exposition, 1901, and at the Charleston exposition, 1901-1902; superintended naval construction at Crescent shipyard, Elizabeth, N. J., May-June, 1902; resigned from the U. S. Navy, February 6, 1903; was presidential elector at large from Alabama, 1904; was elected a representative in the Sixtieth, Sixty-first and Sixty-second congresses, 1907-1913; sixth Alabama district lecturer, speaker, writer, advocating American naval supremacy and American leadership in international movement for peace. He is author of "A Study in the Situation and Outlook in Europe;" "The Disappearing Gun Afloat;" "The Yacht Defender, and the Use of Aluminum in Marine Construction;" "The Sinking of the Merrimac," 1900; "America Must Be Mistress of the Seas," 1902; "Paramount Importance of Immediate Naval Expansion," 1904; "Why America Should Hold Naval Supremacy," 1906; "Buck Jones at Annapolis," 1907; "Diplomacy and the Fleet," 1909; "Arbitration and Armaments," 1908; "In Line of Duty," 1909; "America's War Policy," 1910; "Fortification of the Panama Canal," 1911; "The Great Destroyer (alcohol)," 1911. Married: May 25, 1905, to Grizelda Houston Hull, of Tuxedo Park, N. Y. Residence: Greensboro.

HODGES, PATRICK WAYLAND, teacher, public school administrator, secretary State board of examiners, and member constitutional convention, 1901, was born January 26, 1872, at Woodville, Jackson County; son of George Robertson and Louisa Loved (Jones) Hodges of Woodville, the former was county commissioner, postmaster at Woodville, member of the road commission of Jackson County, a private in Co. G, 12th Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army; grandson of Pleasant Hodges and wife, the former a native of Virginia, who settled first in Madison County, later locating upon a homestead in Jackson County, and of Rufus H. and Mary A. Jones, of Woodville, who located there in 1845, having removed thence from Wake County, N. C. Mr. Hodges was educated in the rural schools of his native county, and at Winchester college and normal school, Winchester, Tenn.; graduating from the latter in 1893. He was editor of the college paper, "The Normal Monitor," and appeared on annual commencement debates for three successive years, also represented the Eclectic literary society in declamation for the college medal, and his alma mater conferred the honorary degree of B. S. upon him, 1903, in recognition of his services in the field of education. He did summer work at the University of Chicago, 1900, and at the summer school of the South, Knoxville, Tenn., 1902 and 1904. He entered upon his profession as teacher and public school administrator, 1893, beginning in the rural schools of North Alabama; teacher of Latin and mathematics in the Seventh district agricultural school, Albertville, for four years; superintendent of the city schools of Greenville, 1901-11; secretary, State board of examiners, department of education, 1911-17; superintendent, city schools of Dothan, 1916-19; secretary, certification and placement of teachers, State department of education, 1919-20; member of the constitutional convention, 1901, from the senatorial district composed of Jackson and Marshall counties; member, Alabama educational association for twenty years, and president of that organization, 1909, and delivered an address urging such educational reforms as health education, compulsory attendance, local tax for public schools and higher qualifications for county superintendents; secretary Alabama education association, 1919. He is a Democrat; Baptist; and a Knight of Pythias. Author: Alabama supplement to "World geographies," first book, 8 pages, and to the second book, 64 pages. Married: August 4, 1909, at Albertville, to Georgia Etta, daughter of James Marion and Margaret Howard of that place; granddaughter of Joshua E. and Marina Howard. Children: 1. Margaret Louise; 2. Patrick Wayland, jr.; 3. George Marion. Residence: Montgomery.

HODGES, PAUL, lawyer, was born June 2, 1861, at Cartersville, Tishomingo County, Miss.; son of Robert Shattuck and Louisa Augusta (Southall) Hodges, who lived at Cartersville, Miss., the former a physician, who was born near Carthage, in Smith County, Tenn., and died in 1892; grandson of Robert and Elizabeth Hodges, who lived at Cartersville, Miss., the former a minister of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, who had been a soldier under Gen. Jackson at New Orleans in 1812, was a pioneer citizen of the north eastern part of the state, and was held by the U. S. government as a political prisoner during the War of Secession, dying in prison at Alton, Ill., in 1862 or 1863, and of Augustus H. and Mary Southall, who lived at Allsboro, Franklin, now Colbert County, the former a native of Amelia Court House, Va., born in 1800, who was a merchant and planter; great-grandson of David Hodges, a pioneer Methodist minister in the Tennessee Valley, who moved from middle Tennessee to Franklin County, near Tusculum, in 1818, where he resided for many years, finally joining his sons who had preceded him to Tishomingo County, Miss., where he died in 1844, and of Turner Holman Southall, of Virginia. The Hodges family came to America from Wales prior to the Revolution, and settled first in Virginia, and later in North Carolina. Mr. Hodges received his early schooling under E. W. Carmack at Jacinto, Miss., and from Prof. W. I. Gibson. He attended the University of Virginia, 1886-1887, and was graduated in the school of constitutional and international law, receiving certificates of distinction in common and statute law. He began the practice of law at Kansas City, Mo., in 1887, and remained there two years. On the development of the Tennessee valley towns of Sheffield and Florence, he moved to Florence, and has since resided and practiced law in that place, with the exception of a few years when he managed the business of the estate of his father, in Mississippi. He was a member of the city council of Florence, 1901-1902; and was city attorney, 1903-1906. He is a Democrat, served for four years as chairman of the executive committee of Lauderdale County, and was chairman of the congressional committee of the eighth district, 1898-1899. He is an Episcopalian. Married: June, 1900, in Florence, to Susan Key, daughter of W. M. and Susan (Key) Pride, who lived at Pride's Station; granddaughter of John F. Pride, one of the pioneers of the Tennessee Valley, and a large land and slave owner. Children: 1. Charlotte Watson; 2. Jacqueline Thompson; 3. Paul, jr.; 4. Mary Philippa. Residence: Florence.

HODGES, S. E., Presbyterian minister; member of the North Alabama presbytery; living in 1913. Residence: Anniston.

HODGES, WILLIAM, lawyer, was born September 9, 1839, at Moulton, Lawrence County, and died October 23, 1886, at Marion, Crittenden County, Ark.; son of Fleming and Margaret (Crayton) Hodges, the former a native of Smith County, Tenn., who lived at Moulton until 1850, then moved to his plantation two miles from Okolona, Chickasaw County, Miss., and served as purchasing agent for supplies for the C. S. Army, from the beginning of the War of Secession until the spring of 1862 when his health failed; grandson of William and Jeanette (Daugherty) Hodges, who lived at Moulton, the former a native of North Carolina, of Scotch ancestry, who served in 1828 and 1829 in the Alabama legislature and of Thomas and Elizabeth (McDaniel) Crayton, who lived at Mt. Hope, Lawrence County; nephew of Judge Asa Hodges, who served as probate judge of Crittenden County, Ark., throughout the reconstruction period, was several times a member of both houses of the Arkansas legislature, and represented Arkansas in the Forty-third congress. He was educated at Moulton, at Okolona, Miss., and at Georgetown college, where he was graduated in 1857. He entered the C. S. Army in April, 1861, joining the Prairie Rifles at Okolona, Miss., as a private. The Rifles became Co. C, Eleventh Mississippi regiment, and participated in many of the early battles of the army of Virginia. In 1862, Mr. Hodges was offered the captaincy of a company of infantry forming at Moulton, and was transferred from the army of Virginia to assume command of that company, which became Co. F, Sixteenth Alabama infantry regiment. Capt. Hodges was wounded at the battle of Chickamauga, and was promoted to major while recovering from his wounds, although he was never able to report for duty. After the war, he entered upon the practice of law in Aberdeen, Miss., and was elected to the legislature of that state from Monroe County, in 1871. Married: in 1862, at Aberdeen, Miss., to Sue, daughter of James G. and Emily F. Randle of Aberdeen, Miss. Mrs. Hodges had three brothers in the C. S. Army, one of whom died in Camp Chase prison in Ohio. Last residence: Marion, Ark.

HODGSON, JOSEPH, public official, was born about 1838, in Virginia. He was a college graduate, studied law, and was admitted to the bar. He came to Alabama just before the War of Secession, and soon after the beginning of that war, became a lieutenant in the First cavalry. In 1863 he recruited a regiment, the Seventh Alabama cavalry, and was made its colonel. He led his regiment in Tennessee and in front of Wilson's column of cavalry. After the war, he became a journalist in Montgomery, and in 1870 was elected superintendent of public instruction. He is the author of a "Manual and Statistical Register," and several other works. Married: to Florence Holt, daughter of Dr. Samuel D. Holt of Montgomery County. Children: 1. Telfair, attended the University of Alabama, was graduated from Georgetown law school, LL. B., 1889, was engaged as custom house clerk, pension examiner, reporter, lawyer, editor, insurance agent, seaman, pilot, trader, 1884-1897, was in the Honduras Navy, 1897, in the Costa Rican Navy, 1898, engineer department of Cuba and China, 1899-1901, Havana, Cuba; 2. Samuel Holt, physician, attended the University of Alabama, was graduated, M. D., at Mobile, 1887, served as quarantine officer in the marine hospital service, m. Atlanta, Ga., to Minnie Snodgrass, Vera Cruz, Mexico; 3. Joseph, jr., b. December 25, 1878, clerk for the M. and O. railroad, Mobile. Last residence: Mobile.

HODGSON, TELFAIR, professor of moral philosophy, at the University of Alabama, Tuscaloosa, 1871-72. He held the A. M. degree.

HOFF, GEORGE ATLEE, banker, was born April 7, 1845, at New Albany, Floyd County, and died August 28, 1916, at Albany, Morgan County; son of John George and Philazania Waltham (Eliot) Hoff, the former who was born in Lancaster, Lancaster County, Pa., lived at New Albany, Ind., where he was a merchant, was a member of the city council, one of the founders of the St. Paul's Episcopal church, moved to Wisconsin in 1863, and engaged in farming, in 1869 went to Waterloo, Ia., was merchant, president of the school board, was for twenty-two years a senior warden of St. Mark's Episcopal church and a member of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows. He was influential in all civic affairs and his business maxim was that a man's business should be his avocation and that hard work is necessary to success. George Atlee Hoff was a grandson of John and Ann Mary (Boyer) Hoff who lived at Lancaster, Pa., the former who was the maker of the famous grandfather clocks which bears his name and was also for many years cashier of the Farmers bank at Lancaster, Pa., and of Harvey Spencer and Martha Eliza (Gallion) Eliot who lived at St. Albany, Ind. The ancestors on the paternal side came from Frankfort-on-Main in the early part of the eighteenth century and located at Lancaster. The mother was a lineal descendant of John Eliot, the apostle to the Indians who came over in the Mayflower, and on her mother's side of the English families of Howard and Maxwell who settled in Maryland in the seventeenth century. The brothers and sister of Mr. Hoff were: John E., of Los Angeles, Calif.; Heber, prominent attorney who died several years ago; and Miss Martha E. Hoff of Sherman street, New Decatur.

The early education of Mr. Hoff was obtained in the schools of New Albany, Ind., but his studies were interfered with by the outbreak of the War of Secession and when but seventeen years of age, on August 15, 1862, he enlisted in Co. E, Sixty-sixth regiment of Indiana infantry and served with his command through Kentucky, Tennessee, Alabama and Georgia; was captured five days after his enlistment at Richmond, Ky.; subsequently got back to his command and was assigned to headquarters as corporal; was mustered out of service May 26, 1865. After the war he continued his education attending the University of Michigan and he studied law at the University of Wisconsin, from which latter university he was graduated. From 1869 to 1888 he associated with his father and brother in the mercantile business at Waterloo, Ia.; moved to New Decatur, now Albany in 1889, and engaged with W. A. Bibb in insurance, real estate and loans; in 1895 the banking house of Bibb and Hoff was established; reorganized in 1902 as the present Morgan County national bank, Mr. Bibb being president and Mr. Hoff cashier. In 1907 Mr. Bibb because of failing health and close confinement, resigned the presidency and was succeeded by Mr. Hoff. At the time of his death, Mr. Hoff was still president of the bank, retiring from active duties about a year previous. In 1892 Mr. Hoff was elected mayor of New Decatur; was reelected two years later; in 1893 was appointed receiver of the Exchange bank, New Decatur's only banking institution of that day, and a few months later was receiver for the Decatur light, power, and fuel company. He was one of the founders of St. John's Episcopal church. With Mr. Bibb, Judge Robert C. Brickell, Sr., afterward a justice of the state supreme court, C. J. Hildreth, veteran journalist and others, Mr. Hoff incorporated the church and upon the organization of the parish shortly after, was elected treasurer, which position he was holding at the time of his death. He was a Republican; Knight of Pythias; Elk; and a member of the Grand Army of the Republic. Married: June 17, 1879, at Philadelphia, Pa., to Margaret Hoff, daughter of Washington Light and Ann Eliza (Hoff) Atlee; the former who was an eminent physician and surgeon of Lancaster and Philadelphia, first surgeon to be successful in the operation of ovariectomy, professor of medical chemistry at the University of Pennsylvania, and writer of numerous treatises and lectures on surgery; great-granddaughter of Hon. William Augustus Atlee, active Whig during the Revolutionary War and a judge of the supreme court of Pennsylvania from 1777 to 1793 the date of his death, and of Major John Light an officer in the Revolutionary army. Children: 1. Atlee Heber, m. Maude Belle Henkel, resides at Albany. Last residence: Albany.

HOFFMAN, FRANCIS OTEY, lawyer and legislator, was born March 4, 1870, at Mobile; son of Samuel J. and Emma Elizabeth (Pierce) Hoffman, the former was a native of Virginia; grandson of Samuel and Frances (Otey) Hoffman, and of Charles and Emma (Swain) Pierce, the former of Salem, Mass., the latter of Devonshire, England; great-grandson of Capt. John Otey, of the Revolutionary War. He was educated at Barton academy, Mobile; became a court reporter at Mobile in 1889; was admitted to the bar, 1893; in the same year appointed official stenographer for the courts of Mobile county, and held that position until 1903. He was elected a member of the legislatures of 1903 and 1907, from Mobile County. He is a Democrat; and a Presbyterian. Married: May 5, 1891, to Annie B., daughter of Samuel and Martha Elizabeth (Edwards) Chapman, both of Marengo County. Children: 1. Annie Carroll; 2. Vivienne L.; 3. Jessie Mary; 4. Francis Otey, jr. Residence: Mobile.

DR. ARMAND P. SMITH

HOGAN, ALEXANDER PERRY, merchant, was born September 10, 1828, at Tuscaloosa, and died June 2, 1895, at Tuscaloosa; son of James and Sarah Johnson (Inge) Hogan, who lived at Tuscaloosa, the former a native of Madison County, Ky., was born February 14, 1792, came to Alabama when he was eighteen years of age, and located first in Huntsville, where he was a merchant, and later in Tuscaloosa, where he was one of the earliest settlers, conducted a large mercantile business, was a director of the State bank of Tuscaloosa, and president of the Manufactory company, dying at Tuscaloosa, October 20, 1851; grandson of William and Sarah (Grant) Hogan, who lived in Cumberland Gap, Ky., and were parents of ten children, the former of whom was born June 1, 1750, and died April 2, 1827, and of Richard and Mary (Sturdivant) Inge, the former a native of King and Queen County, Va., who was born in 1754, and died August 13, 1833, at Tuscaloosa, is thought to have been a colonel in the Revolutionary War, the latter a native of Dinwiddie County, Va., was born in 1785 and died December 8, 1848, at Tuscaloosa. The Inge family is descended from Richard of Knighton, of England, whose son, William Inge of Knighton, had three sons, William, Wright and John. John Inge was born in 1716, and is thought to have come to America at an early day, and to have been the father of Richard Inge. Mr. Hodges was prepared for college in schools in Tuscaloosa, and attended the University of Alabama for several years. He became a merchant in the early fifties and continued in that business until 1866, when he moved to Peosta, Iowa, and engaged in farming. He remained in Iowa for seven years, then returned to Tuscaloosa, and during the latter part of his life, was in the insurance business. He served as city tax collector, and city clerk of Tuscaloosa, and as state and county tax collector. During the War of Secession, he was connected with Lieut. Hume, in the ordnance department at Tuscaloosa. He was a Democrat; an Episcopalian; and a Master Mason. Married: November 10, 1857, at Tuscaloosa, to Caroline Elizabeth, daughter of Henry Adams and Abby (Hazard) Snow, who lived at that place. Children: 1. Abby Hazard, teacher at Orlando, Fla., 1900-1901, resides at Tuscaloosa; 2. Mary Hogan, Tuscaloosa. Last residence: Tuscaloosa.

HOGAN, BENJAMIN RUSH, physician, was born in Newberry District, S. C., and died June 12, 1851, at Mansfield, La.; son of Dr. John and Elizabeth (Gibson) Hogan, the former a native of Newberry but later removed to Georgia, where he died. The Hogans came from Tipperary, Ireland, some time after the defeat of King James II of England by the Prince of Orange. The Kings, Kornegays and Hogans all took part in that battle. Dr. Hogan received his early education at the hands of a Vermonter who taught the neighborhood school in Newberry District. Later he graduated from Rutgers college, New Jersey. He studied medicine in Mobile under private physicians and practiced at that place and at Cahaba. Assisted by Col. W. R. King, he secured an appointment as surgeon during Andrew Jackson's presidency. He was in the Indian War against Osceola and was a member of the Alabama legislature when Tuscaloosa was the capital. He was a Democrat; and an Episcopalian. Married at "Chestnut Hill," the King plantation in Dallas County, to Louisa King, daughter of Basil and Tabitha (King) Kornegay of Sampson County. Children: 1. Louisa King Kornegay; 2. William R. King, killed at the age of nineteen in the battle of Chancellorsville; 3. Ida Augusta, m. James Taylor Means; 4. Annie Parrish, m. W. T. Sample, Mansfield, La.; 5. Benjamin Rush, jr., m. Fannie Baker; 6. Bessie, m. C. Lee Williams of Virginia. Last residence: Mansfield, La.

HOGAN, CORDELL, soldier of the American Revolution, and a resident of Mobile County; private, particular service not disclosed; enrolled on March 4, 1831, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $30.—Pension Book, State Branch Bank, Mobile.

HOGAN, EDGAR POE, physician, was born November 4, 1872, at Bibbville, Bibb County; son of James and Margaret Elizabeth (Marshall) Hogan, the former a native of Bibb County, who lived at that place, was a merchant, and was extensively engaged in the manufacture of lumber and brick, later moved to Birmingham, served in the C. S. Army as lieutenant of Co. F, Fiftieth Alabama regiment, and was wounded at the battle of Chickamauga; grandson of Archibald and Jennie (Caffee) Hogan of Bibb County, and of George William and Elizabeth Jane Marshall of Jefferson County; great-grandson of John Hogan, Tennessee, of Irish descent, of John and Martha (Garrett) Caffee, for whom Caffee's Creek, Bibb County, was named, of Francis and Ann Elizabeth (Howle) Marshall, of Powhattan and New Kent Counties, Va., and of Dr. and Lanie (Brownlee) Davis, who came to Jefferson County from South Carolina. Dr. Hogan attended the public schools of Bibb and Jefferson Counties, and was graduated from Howard college, A. B., 1893, and A. M., 1898. He received his professional training at the Birmingham medical college, at the University of Chicago, at Rush medical college, and at the Harvard medical school. He served as assistant to Dr. J. D. S. Davis, of Birmingham, June, 1906-June, 1908, at which time he began the active practice of medicine and surgery. He became a member of the board of education of Birmingham, October, 1906, and served continuously until April, 1917. He has served as a member of the board of control of the Hillman hospital of Jefferson County, and as superintendent, gynecologist, and resident surgeon of that institution. He represented Jefferson County in the State legislature, 1915. He was commandant of the Howard cadet corps, 1897-1906. Dr. Hogan has written a number of professional articles and papers, among them "A Discussion of Abdominal and Pelvic Drainage," and "Acute Post-Operative Dilatation of the Stomach." Residence: Birmingham.

HOGAN, JOHN BENJAMIN, public official, was born January 22, 1787, in Baltimore, Md., and died May 17, 1845, in Marengo County; son of Edmund and Gertrude (Murry) Hogan. His education was obtained in Baltimore. He was a member of a volunteer corps in Baltimore, 1804-1806; of a similar organization in Philadelphia, 1806-1810; was sergeant major in a regiment of militia in Northumberland County, Pa.; and a member of the Ontario Volunteers in the state of New York. At the outbreak of the war with Great Britain in 1812, he entered the U. S. Army as ensign, Twentieth infantry, March 12, 1812, at Fredericksburg, Va. He was promoted to second lieutenant of the same regiment, April 16, 1813; to captain and assistant deputy quartermaster general, June 25, 1814; and was honorably discharged at the reduction of the army, June 15, 1815. He was appointed paymaster of the Seventh U. S. infantry, April 25, 1817; was transferred to the Fourth infantry, June 10, 1818; and honorably discharged, June 1, 1821. Soon after that time he came to Alabama and located at Tuscaloosa. He was on the staff of Gov. Pickens, and was part of the escort of Lafayette on that general's tour of Alabama. Later he moved to Mobile, and was elected to the State senate from that district, 1829. He was returned to the senate in 1832, and declined re-election in 1835. He served in the Alabama militia, 1836, and was appointed by Gen. Jackson as U. S. emigrating agent for the location of Indian reserves in the Creek Nation, 1835-1836. He was collector of the port of Mobile during Van Buren's administration, 1837-1841, and was elected to the State legislature, 1841, serving in that body as chairman of the bank committee. He had a distinguished Masonic career attended with high honors. Married: (1) July 1813, in Milton, Northumberland County, Pa., to Sarah, who was born December 13, 1788, daughter of Bethuel and Martha (Himrod) Vincent, sister of John H. Vincent, who came to Alabama prior to 1812, and was living at Tuscaloosa in 1832, at the time his son, Bishop J. H. Vincent, was born; (2) to Mrs. Maria Tillinghast, who survived him. Children, not including several who died young: 1. Anne M., b. 1814, in Pennsylvania, m. G. H. Byard, cashier of the Bank of Mobile, and had three children, among them Anne M., m. William H. Roberts, and left surviving her, Byard Roberts of Swift, and Mrs. G. E. Gavin of Chitaca, Miss.; 2. Amelia E., b. August 12, 1820, m. February 23, 1842, to Oliver S. Beers, sr., who died November 10, 1882, and had eight children, all of whom are dead save Miss E. G. Beers of Mobile, and Harris W. Beers of New Orleans, one son O. S. Beers, jr., deceased, m. Dora Bragg, daughter of Judge John Bragg of Mobile, and niece of Gen. Braxton Bragg, and left a son, John Bragg Beers, who with his mother resides in Montgomery; 3. John B., jr., b. 1825, d. December 10, 1853, m. Georgie Owen, daughter of Col. George W. Owen of Mobile, and had two sons, one of whom, Oliver Beers, resides in Mobile; 4. Sarah Vincent, b. 1826, in Mobile, m. Rev. William Meikle, a Presbyterian minister of Ayr, Scotland, and had two sons, Thomas Hamilton Meikle, a surgeon in the British Navy, and William Byard Meikle, of Omaha, Neb.; 5. Lucy Beverly, b. 1829, d. July 27, 1857, m. Thomas A. Hamilton of Mobile, son of the Rev. William Hamilton, and left surviving her Thomas A., jr., and Amelia Hogan, m. William M. Gaillard. Last residence: Mobile.

HOGAN, SAMUEL M., physician, was born in 1838, at Talladega; son of James A. and Virginia C. (Tarrant) Hogan, natives of Kentucky, of Scotch-Irish descent, the former of whom was a merchant. He received his early education at Talladega, and attended medical lectures at Nashville, Tenn., in the session of 1856-1857. At the beginning of the War of Secession, he enlisted in the C. S. Army as a private, joining Co. F, Fifty-first Alabama cavalry; was later promoted to surgeon; and was on post and hospital duty until the close of the war.

After the war, he began the practice of medicine at Union Springs, and in 1873 was graduated from the medical department of the University of Louisville, Kentucky. He was a member of the International medical congress which met at Washington, D. C., September, 1887; is a member of the County medical society and the State medical association, having been president of the former and councilor of the latter; and is president of the county board of censors. He is a permanent member of the American medical association, and is a member of the Methodist Episcopal church, South. Married: in 1865, to Sallie T., daughter of Thornton M. and Ann E. (McLamare) Baugh, of Chambers County. Residence: Union Springs.

HOGG, ALEXANDER, professor of mathematics at the Alabama polytechnic institute, Auburn, 1872-74. He held the A. M. degree.

HOGUE, CYRUS D., lawyer, was born December 7, 1848, in Perry County, near Scott's Station; son of John Hogue, a native of Perry County, who married a Miss Wallace, a native of South Carolina, and lived until his death in 1870 in Perry County. His paternal grandfather was one of the pioneers of Perry County. The Hagues are of Scotch-Irish descent, and the Wallaces came originally from Scotland. He was educated at Howard college, the University of Alabama, and at Washington and Lee university, Virginia; began the study of law with Judge Powhattan Lockett, at Marion, 1872; was admitted to the bar; practiced law in Perry County; was elected to the State legislature from that county, 1882, and was successively returned, 1884-1885, and 1886-1887; was chairman of the committee on federal relations and a member of the committee on education during his first session in the legislature; a member of the judiciary committee and the committee on education, rules, etc., during the session of 1884-1885; and chairman of the committee on privileges and elections, and a member of the judiciary committee, the committee on rules and the committee on penitentiary during his last term. He is a Democrat; a Presbyterian; and a Knight of Honor. Married: May, 1872, at Marion, to Mary A., daughter of Gen. W. R. Brown, of Marion. Children: three sons. Residence: Marion.

HOGUE, WILLIAM FRANCIS, lawyer, was born February 5, 1853, near Marion, Perry County; son of John and Elizabeth Matilda (Wallace) Hogue, of Perry County. The Hagues are from North Carolina and the Wallaces from South Carolina. He received his early education in the country schools and was graduated from Washington and Lee university, A. B., 1873. He studied law; was admitted to the bar; and since 1878 has been engaged in the active practice of his profession at Marion. He served in the lower house of the State legislature from Perry County, 1880-1881, 1888-1889, and 1900-1901; served as mayor of Marion, 1892; and as State senator, 1894 and 1902. He is a Democrat and a Presbyterian. Married: November 16, 1881, near Greensboro, to Julia Helen, daughter of William and Jennie (Waugh) Lavender, of Hale County. Children: 1. Elizabeth Legare; 2. William Lavender. Residence: Marion.

HOKKE, DANIEL, pioneer citizen and ancestor, on the maternal line, of the Alabama Forneys.

HOLCOMBE, A. J., clerk of the Alabama Baptist State convention of 1829-41, inclusive.

HOLCOMBE, EDWARD P., lieutenant colonel, 17th Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army.

HOLCOMBE, HOSEA, Baptist minister, was born July 20, 1780, in Union District, S. C., and died July 20, 1841, at Jonesboro; son of Hosea H. and Phoebe (Smith) Holcombe; grandson of John Holcombe, who was born in Prince Edward County, Va., in 1720. He was reared as a planter, was licensed as a Baptist minister in 1801, and began to preach in upper South Carolina. He preached in that state, 1801-1811; in North Carolina, 1811-1819; then moved to Alabama and preached in Jefferson County, 1819-1841. He was the first Baptist leader in the state and preached in every settled part of it. He organized nearly all of the churches for miles around where he lived, and established them on a sound basis; established associations and was one of the founders of the state convention, over which he presided. More than any other man in the state he withstood the anti-missionaries. He wrote a number of controversial pamphlets, compiled a hymn-book, and wrote a history of the Baptists of Alabama down to 1840. He passed his ministry as pastor of a number of churches and as a missionary evangelist. He died at his home in 1841, and was buried on his farm in Jonesboro. His son, William Hosea Holcombe, a Baptist preacher in Mississippi from 1832 to 1867, died in Ripley, Miss., in the latter year. Another of his sons was also a Baptist minister. Last residence: Jonesboro.

HOLLAND, CHARLES, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 76, and a resident of Tuscaloosa County; private S. C. Militia; enrolled on July 2, 1833, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $80; sums received to date of publication of list, $240.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34.

HOLLAND, JACOB, soldier of the American Revolution, came from South Carolina, and is buried at Hebron churchyard, in Greene County. The following is the inscription on his tomb:

Sacred to the memory of
JACOB & SARAH HOLLAND
Jacob departed this life
Oct. 1st, 1852,
Aged 91 years
Sarah
May 13th, 1851,
Aged 87 years.

—Mrs. P. H. Mell, in Alabama Historical Society, Transactions, vol. iv, p. 544.

HOLLAND, JOHN, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 68, and a resident of Sumter County; private S. C. State Troops; enrolled on April 17, 1834, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $80.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34.

HOLLAND, THOMAS, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 71, and a resident of Limestone County; private S. C. Militia; enrolled on June 13, 1833, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $76.66; sums received to date of publication of list, $229.98.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34. He resided in Limestone County, June 1, 1840, aged 78.—Census of Pensioners, 1841, p. 148.

HOLLINGSHEAD, BENJAMIN, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 72, and a resident of Bibb County; private N. C. State Troops; enrolled on March 5, 1833, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $40; sums received to date of publication of list, $100.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, part 3, vol. xiii, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34.

HOLLINGSWORTH, W. T., superintendent of education of Chambers County; Presbyterian minister of the East Alabama presbytery. Residence: Lafayette.

HOLLIS, ACKLIN UPRIGHT, farmer, sheriff, representative in the legislature, was born June 11, 1865, at Moscow, Lamar County; son of Daniel William and Margaret (Miller) Hollis, the former served as orderly sergeant in the 16th Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army, was twice wounded, represented Lamar County in the legislature two terms, and died at Sulligent in 1902; grandson of Darrill Upright and Mary Elizabeth (Goodwin) Hollis. He was educated in the public schools of Lamar County; was sheriff of that county, 1900-1907; mayor of Sulligent, 1908-1914; and was a member of the house of representatives of 1919, from Lamar County. He is a Democrat; Methodist; and Mason. Married: October 4, 1887, to Fannie Elizabeth, daughter of Peter and Caroline (Knowlton) Lowe, who lived at Cherry Valley, N. Y.; great-granddaughter of Peter Lowe, who came from Holland, and served as first lieutenant, in Capt. Jacob Ten Eyck's company, 1st battalion, Somerset County militia, during the War of the Revolution. Children: 1. Knowlton Lowe, served with 47th regiment coast artillery corps, A. E. F.; 2. Peter Miller. Residence: Sulligent.

HOLLIS, JOHN DORMAN, business man, was born June 29, 1874, near Moscow, Lamar County; son of Daniel William and Sophronia (Guyton) Hollis, the former a native of Moscow, Marion County, who lived at that place until the War of Secession, served in Co. K, Sixteenth Alabama regiment, and received two wounds at the battle of Murfreesboro, and represented Sanford County in the State legislature; grandson of Derrill U. and Mary (Goodwin) Hollis, who moved from Spartanburg, S. C., to Moscow, the former who represented Marion County in the State legislature in 1831, 1832, 1833, 1834, 1838, and 1863, and of John E. and Sarah (Kennedy) Guyton, who moved from Spartanburg, S. C., to Tipper County, Miss., in 1845. Mr. Hollis attended the country schools of Lamar County, and was graduated from West Alabama agricultural school in 1898, receiving the first diploma issued by the school and the only one issued that year. He taught as principal in the Sulligent academy, 1898-1899; taught at Pocahontas, Walker County, September 1, 1899; became store manager of the Gilreath coal and iron company; and later of the Pratt consolidated coal company. He has studied mining and holds a first class mine foreman's certificate; is a justice of the peace; a Democrat; a Methodist; a Royal Arch Mason; an Odd Fellow; and a Knight of Pythias. Married: June 26, 1902, at Littleton, Jefferson County, to Mertie L., daughter of John Sidney and Mary (Morgan) Waldrop, who lived near Jasper. Children: 1. Ione; 2. Dorman W.; 3. Paul Edd; 4. Mary Kate; 5. John Sidney; 6. Ruth. Residence: Quinton.

HOLLIS, JONATHAN SHELTON, physician and legislator, was born May 6, 1856, at Vernon, Lamar County; son of Jonathan and Barbara (Weel) Hollis, the former born and reared in South Carolina. He was educated in the common schools of Tennessee, and graduated, 1882, from the Alabama medical college, Mobile. He is a physician and has practiced his profession since 1880. He was a member of the house of representatives from Fayette County, 1901. He is a Populist; and a Baptist. Married: March 8, 1888, in Lamar County, to Annie M. Black. Residence: Covin.

HOLLIS, TYREE JOSEPHUS, lawyer, was born December 3, 1875, at Silas, Choctaw County; son of James Harvey and Mattie Ann (Hendrix) Hollis, the former a native of Havana, Hale County, who lived at that place and served in the C. S. Army; grandson of Tyree and Elizabeth (Lavender) Hollis, of Havana, the former an emigrant from South Carolina, and of Dr. Jesse Jones and Vernon Ann (Fontaine) Hendrix, of Choctaw County; great-grandson of Montgomery Denzil Hollis, who came from England to South Carolina, and of William Murray De La Fontaine, who came from France to New England, and served in the War of 1812. Mr. Hollis received his early education in the schools of Choctaw County, and in the Mobile district high school. He was graduated from the State normal college at Troy, Ph. B., 1903; studied law; and located at Butler in the practice of his profession. He represented Choctaw County in the State legislature in 1911. He is a Democrat; Methodist; Mason; and Woodman of the World. Married: October 22, 1905, at Eclectic, Elmore County, to Alma, daughter of John Hosea and Mattie (Howard) Chrietzberg, of Eclectic. Children: 1. Harvey Fontaine; 2. Tyree Chrietzberg. Residence: Butler.

HOLLOWAY, DAVID ANDREW, general agent life insurance company, was born July 28, 1885, at Monroeville; son of Charles James and Mary Tucker (Robertson) Holloway, the former a planter of Monroeville, who was born at Pine Apple; grandson of Jefferson L. and Nancy Holloway, of Pine Apple, and of John W. and Nancy Mae Robertson, of Camden. He was educated in the public schools of Monroeville and began his business career at the age of sixteen. At that date he entered the office of James S. Willcox, manager for the State of Alabama of the Mutual life insurance company, as clerk. A few years later he was promoted to cashier in the manager's office. Next he became district manager for the Mutual life insurance company, of New York, and on March 1, 1917, he was appointed general agent of the New England mutual life insurance company, of Boston, Mass. He is a Democrat; Episcopalian; and a Knight of Pythias. Married: February 20, 1913, in Montgomery, to Louise, daughter of Col. William Hayne and Louise (Bankhead) Perry, the former a lawyer of Greenville, S. C., graduate of Harvard university, 1856, served in the War of Secession in Brook's troop of cavalry, participated in the chief battles fought by the Army of Northern Virginia, served in the state legislature, and a member of congress in 1884 and 1886; granddaughter of Senator John Hollis Bankhead (q. v.), and of Gov. Benjamin Franklin and Elizabeth Frances (McCall) Perry, the former a native of South Carolina, admitted to the bar in 1827, editor "Greenville Mountaineer," 1832, member South Carolina legislature, 1835-43, state senator, 1844-46, district attorney and district judge during the War of Secession, appointed provisional governor by President Johnson in 1865, filling this office for six months, elected to the U. S. Senate in 1866, but was not permitted to take his seat, and author of "Reminiscences of public men," 1883; great-granddaughter of Benjamin and Anne (Foster) Perry, the former of Virginia who entered the Continental Army at the age of sixteen, afterwards went to Charleston, S. C., and later to Greenville, S. C., of Hext and Susan Branford (Hayne) McCall, the latter the niece of Robert Y. Hayne, governor and U. S. senator; great-great-granddaughter of Lieut. John Foster, of Virginia, an officer in the Continental Army, of Hext McCall, and William and Elizabeth (Periman) Hayne; great-great-great-granddaughter of John and Martha (Hext) McCall, the latter a native of England, who came to America with her parents and married, and of Abram and Susan (Branford) Hayne. Children: 1. Mary Louise. Residence: Montgomery.

HOLLOWAY, JOSEPH LEE, lawyer, was born January 6, 1871, at Mt. Hilliard, Bullock County; son of John David and Georgia Hastletine (Brundidge) Holloway, the former of whom was born near Union Springs, December 5, 1846, and lived at Mt. Hilliard as a boy, enlisting in the C. S. Army from that place when fifteen years of age, and becoming a member of Co. H, under Capt. McKenzie, Hilliard's Legion. He was educated in the common schools at Mt. Hilliard and Geneva, and at Highland Home school in 1887. He attended Southern university at Greensboro for some time, and was graduated from the law school of the University of Alabama, LL. B., 1893. He began the practice of law in Montgomery in the spring of 1894, and has continued his profession in that place. He was a member of the city council of Montgomery in 1905 and 1906. He is a Democrat; a Methodist; a thirty-second degree Mason; grand chancellor of the Knights of Pythias of Alabama, 1911-1912; and is president of the Rotary Club of Montgomery. Married: October 29, 1895, at Tuscaloosa, to Annie May, daughter of J. A. and Nonie (Eddins) Ogburn, who lived at Tuscaloosa. Children: 1. Annie Lee; 2. Joseph Ogburn; 3. Lenore; 4. Ruth. Residence: Montgomery.

HOLMAN, HENDERSON LOONEY, physician, graduate of the Memphis, Tenn., medical college, 1898; licensed to practice the same year. Residence: Ozark.

HOLMES, DAVID, governor of Mississippi Territory, was born March 10, 1769, at Mary Ann Furnace, York County, Pa., died August 20, 1832, at Jordon's Sulphur Springs, Va., and is buried in Winchester, Va.; son of Col. Joseph Holmes and wife, who was a Miss Hunter, the former a native of Ireland who emigrated to America at an early age, served in the Revolutionary Army as a commissary with the rank of colonel, removed to Winchester, Va., where he became a merchant; grandson of Col. David Hunter of Berkley County, Va.

Governor Holmes spent some years in his father's store before taking up the study of law. He practiced first in Harrisburg, Pa., and later in Virginia. He was representative from Virginia in the fifth to tenth congresses, 1797-1809; was appointed governor of Mississippi Territory, March 7, 1809; elected first governor of the State of Mississippi, serving October 7, 1817, to January 5, 1820; elected to succeed Walter Leake as U. S. senator from Mississippi, serving from August 30, 1820, to September 25, 1825. He resigned and was again elected governor of Mississippi, but was forced to resign in 1827, on account of ill health when he returned to Winchester, Va. Last residence: Winchester, Va.

HOLMES, HILARY HERBERT, educator and State senator, was born November 12, 1882, at Tensaw; son of Thomas Galphin and Lucinda Vaughan (Bryars) Holmes, the former a member of the 15th Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army; grandson of Dr. Thomas Galphin, sr., and Elizabeth (Weakley) Holmes (q. v.), the former came to what is now Alabama early in the 19th century and settled in the northern part of Baldwin County, serving in the Creek Indian War, and of Hon. Red Berry and Sarah (Fickling) Bryars; great-grandson of John Holmes, a native of Ireland, and of George P. Weakley, one of the surveyors who assisted in laying out Mississippi and Alabama; great-great-grandson of George Galphin, of Silver Bluff, S. C. He was educated by tutors and in the public school of Tensaw; graduated Ph. B., 1904, from the State normal school at Troy; student University of Alabama; and graduated from Columbia university, where he received the degree of B. S., 1910, A. M., 1912, and Ph. D. in 1913. He taught in Alabama schools a number of years; was instructor in the New York training school for teachers in 1913. While principal of Geneva County high school he began the movement to humanize education by the introduction of vocational pursuits, and read a paper on this subject before the Alabama education association, 1912. He instituted the "loan fund" of the Troy normal school. Mr. Holmes was elected to the State senate from the 21st district in 1914, and on August 14, 1915, was appointed president of the Daphne state normal school, and has been re-elected successively since that time. He is a Democrat; a Baptist; Knight of Pythias; Mason; a member of the Order of the Eastern Star; and of the Acacia and Phi Delta Kappa college fraternities. Married: June 3, 1915, at Princeton, Ind., to Christine, daughter of James Hamilton and Anna (Ward) Warnock, the former a planter and banker. Residence: Daphne.

HOLMES, JAMES H., planter, merchant, legislator and captain, C. S. Army, was born in 1838, in Sumter County; son of Thomas N. and Margaret (Hall) Holmes, natives of North Carolina, who came when very young to Alabama; grandson of Gabriel Holmes, a member of congress and once governor of the "old North State;" brother of Gov. Theodore Holmes. The family was of Irish descent. He was educated at the neighborhood schools, and later attended the junior class of Summerfield college until April 1861. He joined Co. G, Fifth, Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army, the first company to leave Sumter County, and served in the Virginia army, taking part in the battles of Seven Pines, Mechanicsville, Cold Harbor, Malvern Hill, Spottsylvania Court House, the Wilderness, and South Mountain, at which latter point he was captured, and for two months imprisoned at Fort Delaware. Later he fought at Sharpsburg, Gettysburg, and around Petersburg. He was appointed second lieutenant and at the battle of Winchester was promoted captain and commanded his company until the close of the war. After the war he engaged in merchandising and was a member of the firm of McGowen and Holmes. In 1871-72 he served in the general assembly as member of the committee on military affairs, agriculture, and on corporations. He was a Mason. Married: in 1866, to Fannie M., daughter of Solomon and Ann Ward, the latter a native of Greene County. Children: six children were born of this union. Last residence: Cuba, Sumter County.

HOLMES, JOHN AUSTIN, lawyer, was born December 29, 1848, at Lawrenceville, Gwinnett County, Ga.; son of Vivian and Olivia (Winn) Holmes, the former who removed to Georgia, serving as a member of the home guard during the War of Secession and participating in the engagements around Savannah and Atlanta; grandson of David Holmes and wife, of Virginia, and of Elisha Winn and wife, of Lawrenceville, Ga., great-grandson of John Holmes, a Revolutionary soldier from Virginia. The Holmes family was originally from England. Mr. Holmes received his early education in the public schools of La Grange, Ga. While a student at the Georgia military institute, he enlisted in the C. S. Army, joining Captain Henry Holmes' troop of the Eighth Confederate cavalry. From 1868-1871 he taught school in Chambers County. At the same time, he began reading law, and was admitted to the bar in 1871; practiced his profession at Lafayette, from 1871-1883; editor of the Lafayette "Reporter," 1876-78; and was mayor of that city, 1875-1880. In 1887 he removed to Wetumpka, Elmore County, serving as a member of the state and county executive committees from this county. He represented Elmore County in the State legislature, 1919. He is a Methodist; a Democrat; a Mason; an Odd Fellow; and a Knight of Pythias. Married: (1) in 1870, at Lafayette, to Patte, daughter of Nathan and Sarah Marable, of Lafayette; (2) in 1883, in Autauga County, to Mrs. Belle Suttle, daughter of Evan and Isabelle Presley, of Autauga County; (3) in 1887, in Elmore County, to Sarah Bernice Presley, sister of his second wife. Children: by first marriage: 1. Eugene A., m. Julia Manning; 2. Lula Kathleen, m. H. B. Peacock; 3. John A., jr.; by second marriage: 4. Florrie Presley, m. Henry B. Loeb; by third marriage: 5. Lessie V., m. F. L. Waldrop; 6. Sadie Vivian, m. C. L. Lanier. Residence: Wetumpka.

HOLMES, SIBLEY, physician; was born March 5, 1873, at Tensaw, Baldwin County; son of Origen Sibley and Nannie (Boyles) Holmes, both of Tensaw, the former who served four years in the C. S. Army, was a member of the State legislature in 1872, and practiced medicine for thirty years; grandson of Thomas Galphin and Mary E. (Weakley) Holmes (q. v.), of Tensaw, the former who was in the Fort Mims Massacre, August 30, 1813, and of James M. and Eliza Boyles, of the same place. Representative Holmes was educated in the Baldwin County schools, and at the University of Alabama, medical department, receiving the degree of doctor of medicine in 1895. With four other doctors, Dr. Holmes was sent to Spanish Honduras to fight yellow fever. He remained at this post for one year. Later he passed the medical examinations at Torreon, Mexico, being selected division surgeon to the Mexican central railroad. After a short stay in Mexico, he removed to Texas, passed the Texas medical examinations, and practiced for a short while in Houston. Since then he has practiced at Tensaw, Finchburg and Foley. He is also interested in farming, milling and the mercantile business; and was elected to represent Baldwin County in the legislature, 1919. He is a Methodist; a Mason; a Knight of Honor; a Shriner; and an Eastern Star. Married: (1) January 26, 1896, at Finchburg, to Irene, who died June 8, 1901; (2) August 5, 1903, at Finchburg, to Maiben, both daughters of John Bonner and Kittie (Maiben) Williams, of the same place; granddaughter of Dr. Robert Maiben, of Monroe County. The Maibens came from Cork, Ireland. Children: 1. Origen Sibley, volunteered in U. S. Army, May 11, 1917, assigned to Co. B, 167th infantry, Rainbow division, later transferred to intelligence department, Headquarters company, 167th infantry; 2. Amilie Reeves; 3. William Coghlan. Residence: Foley.

HOLMES, THOMAS GALPHIN, physician, was born in 1780, at Silver Bluff, S. C., and died at Tensaw, Baldwin County, 1852; son of John Holmes and wife, Miss Galphin, the former a native of Ireland who came to the colonies about the time of the struggle for independence and engaged in the fur trade with George Galphin, whose daughter he married, and who loaned to the colonial congress $20,000.00, towards equipping the fleet of John Paul Jones, and loyal throughout to the cause of independence. Dr. Holmes received his academic education in the old field schools, under private tutors, and read medicine under practicing physicians. He migrated from his native state to Alabama, which was at that time, about 1800, a part of the Mississippi Territory, and settled in the Tensaw neighborhood, now Baldwin County, where he practiced his profession for fifty-two years. He was in the service of the United States as assistant surgeon in the Creek Indian and War of 1812. In politics he was a staunch "Jeffersonian Republican," and a Baptist by profession of faith, although never connected with the church. Although a student he was never an author, though through his love of history he assisted Pickett in collecting data for certain chapters of his history of Alabama. Married: January 4, 1820, in Monroe County, to Elizabeth, daughter of George P. and Elizabeth Weakley, of South Carolina. Children: 1. Sarah Margaret; 2. George Weakley; 3. Mary Elizabeth, m. Henry Ausphrea Hand; 4. Thomas Galphin, jr., m. Lucinda Vaughn Byars; 5. Hannah Elizabeth; 6. Martha Julia; 7. William Ervin; 8. Origin Sibley, m. Nannie Boyles, Finchburg, Monroe County. Last residence: Tensaw, Baldwin County.

ROBERT HENRY PEARSON

HOLT, BARRIE LUCIEN, capitalist, planter, and financier, was born December 24, 1858, in Montgomery, and died October 27, 1911, at his country home near Pickett Springs; son of James Lord and Olive (Snow) Holt, the former of Exeter, and the latter of Jackson, Me. He was educated in the private schools of Montgomery and graduated from Worcester academy, Worcester, Mass., in 1875. He entered at the age of seventeen the D. M. Snow hardware company, Montgomery, and in 1884 became a partner in the business. After the death of his uncle he sold his interests in the firm which then became the Snow-Tullis hardware company. In 1886, Gov. Edward A. O'Neal appointed him quartermaster general, Alabama national guard, with rank of colonel on the governor's staff. Each succeeding governor reappointed him to the same position, until the inauguration of Gov. Emmet O'Neal, when he was placed on the retired list with the rank of brigadier-general. He performed active service during the Hawes riot in Birmingham, and was with the Alabama national guard during the Spanish-American War, but did not see active service. He was one of the original organizers of the Prattville cotton mills and owned two-thirds of it. Colonel Holt also secured the franchise from the city for the construction of the Montgomery traction company. He owned in Montgomery and outlying districts a great deal of real estate and was connected with many business interests. He was an Episcopalian and a Mason. Married: June 10, 1879, in Montgomery, to Louise, daughter of Benjamin Franklin and Mary Theresa (Cook) Noble, the former a native of Wilmington, N. C., the latter of La Grange, Ga., both residents of Montgomery. Children: 1. Mary, m. Robert Lee Harmon (q. v.); 2. Ethel, d. in infancy; 3. Olive, d. in infancy; 4. Dan Snow, m. Caradell Schuesslar; 5. Mittie, m. J. Michel Nicrosi. Last residence: Montgomery.

HOLT, CHARLES, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 72, and a resident of Blount County; private S. C. Militia; enrolled on October 29, 1833, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $28.33; sums received to date of publication of list, $84.99.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in part 3, vol. xiii, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34. He resided in Blount County, June 1, 1840, aged 78.—Census of Pensioners, 1841, p. 148.

HOLT, EDWARD ROWELL, planter and clerk circuit court, was born January 25, 1833, in Richmond, Ga., and died November 2, 1904, in Montgomery; son of Judge William White and Mary Arinton (Ware) Holt, the former a native of Campbell County, Va., who later lived in Augusta, Ga., a commissioned officer in the War of 1812; grandson of William and Lucy (Saunders) Holt of Virginia, later of Augusta, and of Joseph and Mary (Dawson) Ware, natives respectively, of Augusta and Richmond County, Ga. Mr. Holt was educated in the common schools; removed to Montgomery County and devoted himself to planting; and later he held the office of clerk of the circuit court of that county. He was a member of Hilliards' Legion, C. S. Army, for a short time in 1862, but because of poor health was given the appointment of commissary agent in Montgomery County for the remainder of the war. He was an old line Whig but became a Democrat after the war; a Methodist; Mason; and member of the Ancient Order of United Workmen. Married: April 2, 1857, to Mary Augusta, daughter of Dr. Carnot and Sarah Bozier (Hails) Bellinger (q. v.). Children: William Carnot, m. Sallie Blount Fannin; 2. Sallie Bozier, m. James Bethune Allen; 3. Mary Ware; 4. Augusta; 5. Elbert Augustus, long a planter and business man, but is now secretary of the Scottish Rite masonic bodies of Montgomery, m. (1) Nancy Fannin Copeland, and (2) Elizabeth Calloway Moore, sister of George Fleming Moore (q. v.); 6. Edward Rowell, jr., m. Elizabeth Ellis Agnew, both members of Confederate patriotic organizations, and the latter secretary of the Ladies Memorial Association of Montgomery; 7. Mary Bellinger. Last residence: Montgomery.

HOLT, JOHN H., major and later lieutenant colonel, 1st battalion, Hilliard's Alabama legion, C. S. Army.

HOLT, JOSEPH MARION, farmer and business man, was born November 10, 1858, in Chambers County; son of Henry Munday and Mary Ann Eliza (Bass) Holt, who lived in Chambers County. He was educated in the common schools of his native county; farmed until 1890, when he entered the real estate and insurance business in Girard, where he now continues; was public school trustee of Girard, 1896-1901; alderman three terms, and a representative of Russell County in the general assembly of 1901. He is a Democrat; and a Baptist in belief although he belongs to no church. Married: March, 1880, at West Point, Ga., to Rosa Lee Summerhill. Residence: Girard.

HOLT, LAURA (HALL), patriotic worker, was a sister of Bolling Hall (q. v.). She was one of the charter members of the Ladies' society for the burial of deceased Alabama Confederate soldiers, later changed to the Ladies' Memorial association. Married: Dr. Samuel D. Holt (q. v.). Last residence: Montgomery.

HOLT, MARK HARRISON, Methodist minister, was born May 23, 1860, near Oak Bowery, Lee County; son of Rev. J. S. and Eliza (Johnson) Holt, the former a Methodist minister; grandson of Thomas D. Holt, a native of tives of Mecklenburg, Va., and Maryville, Tenn., respectively. He attended the common schools of his native county until twelve years of age, after which time, he was self educated. He removed with his father's family to Lowndes County, in 1867 and farmed, but upon the death of both parents in 1869, he entered a newspaper office in Montgomery, and rose from mailing clerk to reporter at that place, and finally to the editorship, in 1873, of the "Selma Daily Echo." Upon that paper being sold and absorbed by the "Selma Times," he removed, in 1875, to Monroe County, and resuscitated and bought the "Monroe Journal," which he published and edited for ten years. In 1885, he accepted an editorial position on the staff of the "Montgomery Dispatch," later assuming the business management of that paper. Upon its purchase by the "Montgomery Advertiser," he began the publication of the "Montgomery Journal," and in 1903, sold a half interest in this paper to Frank Harvey Miller, who became business manager. In 1882-84, he was elected assistant clerk of the house of representatives of the Alabama legislature, and in 1898, was elected a member of that body; was an unsuccessful candidate for the legislature in 1900, and in 1906, although receiving a flattering vote for State auditor, was defeated; was appointed sheriff of Montgomery County by Gov. B. B. Comer, October, 1907, to fill the unexpired term of his predecessor who died in office after having served only a few months; was elected to the office at the end of his appointive term, receiving almost as many votes as his four opponents combined. He is a Democrat; a Presbyterian; an Odd Fellow; Knight of Honor; Woodman of the World; Maccabee; National Union; Elk. Married: May 27, 1875, at Montgomery, to Susie, daughter of James Yancey and Marjorie Brame of that city. Children: 1. Horace, jr., m. daughter of Rev. W. J. Kempton, of Monroe County; 2. Brame, m. daughter of Rev. T. H. Jones; 3. Milton Yancey; 4. Clauselle; 5. Lillian Whitman; 6. Marjorie Frowe; 7. Sadie O'Dell, m. R. E. Burnett, Greenville. Residence: Montgomery.

HOOD, OLIVER ROLAND, lawyer, was born July 31, 1867, near Ashville, St. Clair County; son of Noah A. and Mary I. (Cooper) Hood, who lived near Ashville. He was educated in the common schools of Mississippi and Alabama, and in Ashville academy; attended the University of Nashville, and the Peabody normal college, at Nashville, Tenn. He was admitted to the bar at Gadsden, 1890, and opened a law office in that city. He was an alderman of the city of Gadsden, 1893-1895; and was a representative in the constitutional convention of 1901 from the seventh congressional district. He is a Democrat and a Baptist. Married: November 13, 1889, at Gadsden, Julia Riddle. Residence: Gadsden.

HOOD, W. A., member of the constitutional convention of 1861, from Jackson County.

HOOD, WILLIAM HAMILTON, farmer and legislator, was born January 11, 1848, at Jefferson, Jackson County; son of Steven Reed and Jane (Sewal) Hood, of Franklin County, Ga., the former was captain of Co. D, 22nd Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army; grandson of William and Minnie (Reed) Hood, and of John Sewal and wife, of Franklin County. He received a common school education, and is a farmer. He is a Democrat; and an Adventist. Married: (1) in 1868, to Charlcie, daughter of William B. and Euline (White) Croft; (2) January 31, 1895, to Mrs. Lugenie Hudson, daughter of William Manley, of Jacksonville; (3) December 15, 1904, at Gadsden, to Miry, daughter of John and Margaret (Irven) Weaver of Jacksonville. Children: 1. John C., m. Icy Hood; 2. L. E., m. Melton Humes; 3. M. E., m. Clem Walker; 4. W. S.; 5. Delax; 6. Laura; 7. H. A. Wise; 8. David S.; 9. Claud; 10. Eva, m. Sam Thornton; 11. Adolphas J.; 12. Minnie; 13. Mattie B., m. Frank Morris; 14. Pearl, m. Chess Sansom; 15. Birdie, m. Perry League; 16. Sallie, m. John Burns. Residence: Murrycross.

HOOKS, CHARLES, soldier of the American Revolution, was born February 20, 1768, in Bertie County, N. C., and died October 18, 1843, near Montgomery; son of Thomas and Anna Hooks; grandson of John and Ruth Hooks, and great-grandson of William Hooks, of Chowan County, N. C. Charles Hooks served in the Revolution under Lieut. Ezekiel Slocumb, the husband of his sister, Mary. Charles, then a boy of thirteen, was with Lieut. Slocumb in hot pursuit of some Tories, and, ignorant of the fact that their home had been taken by the enemy during their absence, they were returning when warned by a faithful slave and were enabled to make their escape to safety. He represented Duplin County in the house of commons, 1801-05, and in the senate in 1810 and 1811; served in congress in 1816, 1817 and 1819-25. The part of Duplin in which he lived was near the Wayne Line. He removed to Alabama, 1826. He was buried in the private cemetery of the Molton family on Laurel Hill, fourteen miles from Montgomery. Married: (1) January 1, 1789, to Bertie Williams; (2) March 29, 1795, to Kitty Dickson; (3) November 15, 1796, to Mary Ann, daughter of Isaac and Priscilla Hunter, of North Carolina. Children: by first marriage: 1. James; 2. Thomas; 3. Charles A.; by second marriage: 4. Marshall, m. Tabbie Fitzpatrick, sister of Gov. Fitzpatrick (q. v.); 5. Eliza Jane, m. Mr. Hatch; 6. Catherine Anne, m. Thomas Molton, of Duplin County, N. C., who removed to Montgomery County, 1826 and died November 1, 1845; 7. Narcissa Ann, m. Peter Coffee Harris; 8. Amanda Anne; 9. David I.; 10. Sarah Amanda, m. George James Forrest. Last residence: Montgomery County.

HOOKS, CHARLES, public official, representative in congress, was born in Bertie County, N. C., and died in 1851 in Alabama; brother of Mary Hooks, who married Ezekiel Slocumb, and became famous for her daring adventure to reach her husband on the battlefield of Moore's Creek, N. C., February 27, 1776. He was elected to the State legislature of North Carolina, from Duplin County, 1802-1804, and to the senate of that state, 1810-1811. He was sent as a representative from North Carolina to the Fourteenth congress, 1815-1817, and was re-elected to the Sixteenth, Seventeenth, and Eighteenth congresses, 1819-1825. He subsequently moved to Alabama where he died in 1851. Last residence: Alabama.

HOOPER, CHARLES WORD, business man, was born May 24, 1844, at LaFayette, Ga., and died September 6, 1919, at Selma; son of Charles Jefferson and Jane Byrd (Word) Hooper, who lived in Walker County, Ga., the former a Georgian, born December 1, 1806, a prominent lawyer of north Georgia, who died at his residence in LaFayette, Ga., 1848; grandson of Matthew Brooks and Elizabeth Adams (Word) Hooper, and of Robert and Joyce (Allen) Word, of Georgia; great-grandson of Charles and Elizabeth (Adams) Word, the former a soldier under Washington, who entered the service when a boy, was present during Braddock's defeat, and was one of the few to escape the massacre, and afterwards enlisted for three years' service in the Revolutionary Army, in Capt. Moore's company, Grayson's regiment. The Hooper family came to America from England, being descendants of Bishop Hooper who was martyred by the Roman Catholics. The Word family came from Wales. Both families settled in what are now the Southern States, the Virginias, Carolinas, and Maryland, some branches of the family afterwards moving to South Carolina and Mississippi. William Hooper who signed the Declaration of Independence is a collateral ancestor. Gen. Hooper was educated at Rome, Ga., and at the age of seventeen, enlisted in the C. S. Army, as a private, May 17, 1861, joining Co. E, Eighth Georgia regiment. He fought at the battle of Manassas, and in March, 1862, was elected lieutenant of Co. B, Twenty-first Georgia regiment. He served in that capacity under Gen. Trimble's brigade, Ewel's division, of Stonewall Jackson's army, and was in all the battles fought by Gen. Jackson during that time. He participated in the battles around Richmond, at Cedar mountain, second Manassas, Harper's Ferry, the raid into Maryland, and Sharpsburg, and in the fall of 1863, was, by special request of Gen. Forrest, transferred to Forrest's cavalry, acting as commander of one of Gen. Forrest's escort companies, and surrendering with him at Gainesville, May 11, 1865. After the war, Gen. Hooper located in Selma and secured employment in a grocery store. Within a year, he was a member of the firm of Bowen and Hooper, wholesale grocers, which has since become the firm of C. W. Hooper and company. He was a member of the "Lightning Committee," which did so much to tranquilize the county and restore law and order during the reconstruction period. He was one of the first trustees of the Carnegie library of Selma, and was a member of the Hooper motor company. He was elected brigadier general of the Alabama division, United Confederate Veterans, in 1913, and was chosen commander in chief of the Alabama division two years later at the reunion of Confederate veterans, held at Selma, October 21, 1915. At the time of his death, Gen. Hooper was serving his fourth term as state commander, having been elected by acclamation three successive terms. He was a Presbyterian. Married: May 5, 1868, in Selma, to Caroline Louise, who died February 6, 1918, daughter of Rev. James Morrison and Olivia Hubbard (White) McKee, the latter a descendant of William White, who came over on the Mayflower, and died the first winter after reaching this country, leaving Peregrine and Resolve White, whose cradle is one of the treasured relics of Pilgrim Hall, Plymouth, together with the Breeches Bible, brought to this country by William White, and in which the birth of Peregrine is recorded. Children: 1. Lloyd McKee (q. v.); 2. William, deceased; 3. Charles, deceased; 4. Olivia, deceased, m. R. J. Davidson; 5. Edith, m. J. T. Mangum, Charlotte, N. C.; 6. Ada, m. Chambliss Keith, Selma; 7. May, m. Dr. John N. Furniss (q. v.), Selma; 8. Harry L. m. Benie J. Hooper, Selma; 9. James, deceased; 10. Elsie, Selma. Last residence: Selma.

HOOPER, GEORGE D., member of the constitutional convention of 1865, from Russell County.

HOOPER, GEORGE W., major and later lieutenant colonel, 6th Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army.

HOOPER, J. de BERNIERE, coal operator and State mine inspector, was born in March, 1853, in Russell County; son of George de B. and Caroline (Mallett) Hooper, the former a native of Wilmington, N. C., who removed to Chambers County, in 1833, a lawyer and Confederate soldier; grandson of Charles Peter Mallett and wife, who was a de Berniere, of Wilmington, N. C., who had seven sons in the Confederate Army, two of whom were killed in battle; great-grandson of Capt. Peter and Sophia (Beatty) Mallett, an officer in the Continental Army; great-great-grandson of William H. Beatty, who at one time owned half of Bladen County, N. C. The Hoopers were of Scotch origin, and the de Bernieres were French Huguenots. One of the historians in the "Key to the Roll of Huguenots," writes of this family: "The de Bernieres were considered, in the reign of Louis XI, one of the most ancient and noble families in France; and owing to many daring exploits by different members of the family were granted, as augmentation to their arms, the fleur-de-lys in chief, and later one 'deux poissons, en argent, adosses.' In the reign of Louis XIV, the de Bernieres, and one other family only, had the right by royal license to bear the fleur-de-lys of France on their arms. Jean Antoine de Berniere served under the Earl of Galway in Spain, and his descendants are still living in England." A number of Huguenot families were brought from France to Santee, S. C., in 1687, in ships bought for that purpose by the ancestors of the American branch of the de Berniere family. The town of Fayetteville, N. C., was founded by one of the family. J. de Berniere Hooper was educated at Bingham's school, N. C., and at the age of eighteen left school and began the study of mining and civil engineering, which latter profession he has made his life's work. He was the postmaster at Opelika, Ala., 1876-77; was employed as a civil engineer by the Georgia Pacific railroad for a while, and later became interested in the operation and superintendence of coal mines in the Birmingham district. He was appointed State mine inspector by Gov. Thomas G. Jones; was treasurer and half owner of Little Warrior coal company. Residence: Oakman.

HOOPER, JOHNSON JONES, author, was born June 9, 1815, in Wilmington, N. C., and died June 6, 1862, at Richmond, Va.; son of Archibald McLaine Hooper, a journalist, whose father, George Hooper of Wilmington, N. C., was a nephew of William Hooper, signer of the Declaration of Independence and Revolutionary patriot. He was also a lineal descendant of Hon. Archibald Maclain, another colonial patriot of 1776. His mother, the daughter of Col. DeBerniere, a British officer, was a lineal descendant of Bishop Jeremy Taylor, the English poet and divine. Mr. Hooper was a brother of DeBerniere Hooper of Fayetteville, and of George D. Hooper of Lee. Col. C. W. Hooper, of the Sixth Alabama infantry, C. S. Army, was a nephew. He was well educated, but did not attend college. At the age of fifteen years, he wrote for the papers of Charleston, S. C., and five years later journeyed through the Gulf States, remaining several months in Tuscaloosa. He went to Tallapoosa County, and in 1840, to Chambers County, where he read law in the office of his brother. Soon after he became editor of the "Banner," at Dadeville, and his humorous articles in that paper attracted attention. He edited a paper for six months in Wetumka, then returned to Chambers County, where he practiced law, and edited a newspaper, "The Chambers County Times," in Lafayette. In 1846, he came to Montgomery and became one of the editors of the Alabama "Journal," but returned to Chambers County within a year. He was elected to the office of solicitor of the ninth circuit by the legislature at the session of 1849, defeating A. M. Presley of Chambers County, M. S. Latham of Russell, and A. W. Bowie of Talladega. At the end of four years, when his term of office expired, he was a candidate for re-election but was defeated by Judge Woodward. In 1852, he came to Montgomery and established and became editor of the Montgomery "Mail," which newspaper was for a while the organ of the Whig party, taking the place of the Alabama "Journal." He remained editor of the "Mail," until 1861, when he was elected secretary of the provisional Confederate congress in session at Montgomery, and held office until the congress was formally organized in Richmond, Va. Mr. Hooper was a candidate for permanent secretary of state of the Confederate States of America, but was defeated. He did not return to Alabama, but died in Richmond a few months later. He was author of "Some Adventures of Capt. Simon Suggs, late of the Tallapoosa Volunteers, together with Taking the Census and other Alabama Sketches," published by D. Appleton & Company of New York, 1846; and "Widow Rugby's Husband and other tales of Alabama," 1851; and many other humorous articles. He was nationally known as the author of Simon Suggs and has been classed with the foremost Southern humorists. The book was praised by Thackeray and selections from it have been re-published, a new edition appearing in 1881. Married: to Miss Brantley, a daughter of Hon. Greene D. Brantley of Chambers County, one of the first settlers of Lafayette. He left several children, one of whom was a merchant in New York, and another an attorney in Aberdeen, Miss. Last residence: Richmond, Va.

HOOPER, LLOYD McKEE, merchant, business man, chairman Alabama Council of Defense, was born April 13, 1869, at Selma; son of Charles Word and Caroline Louise (McKee) Hooper (q. v.). He received his early education in Dallas academy, and in the private school of Prof. Darby M. Calloway; and was graduated from the University of Alabama, B. A., 1888. He took a summer course at Moody's bible institute, Northfield, Mass., 1888; entered business as a clerk, with the firm of C. W. Hooper and company, wholesale grocers and cotton commission merchants, in Selma, September, 1888; was made a silent member of the firm in 1894; and entered full partnership in 1899. He is a vice president of the Peoples cotton oil company; president and treasurer of the Tallapoosa lumber company; president of the Chero Cola bottling company; director of the Central Alabama dry goods company; of the Union iron works; of the City national bank; and was president of the Selma gas and electric light company, 1898-1901. He was a member of the Sinking fund commission of Selma, 1898-1914; has been chairman of that commission since 1914; is chairman of the Bond or Debt commission of Selma; represented the Council of National defense for the state of Alabama during the period of the World War; was appointed by Gov. Henderson as chairman of the Alabama State Council of Defense, January 5, 1918-January 15, 1919, and as there were no funds available, personally raised twenty-thousand dollars from public spirited citizens to conduct the work in Alabama; is a member of the State highway commission of Alabama, as a representative for the fourth congressional district; is a member of the board of trustees of the Selma public schools, of the Alabama technical institute for Women at Montevallo, of Agnes Scott college at Decatur, Ga., and of the Columbia theological seminary in South Carolina; is president of the Selma park commission; and was president of the Alabama Sunday school association, 1918-1919. Mr. Hooper was captain in the Hardee light infantry, Alabama National Guard, 1892-1896; was president of the Young men's christian association of Alabama, of the local association at Selma, and a director for twenty years; was president of the Woodrow Wilson club of Dallas County, 1912-1913; is an elder in the First Presbyterian church of Selma, and a member of the Phi Delta Theta college fraternity. Married: October 19, 1893, at Selma, to Anne Steele, daughter of Dr. Asbury Richardson and Sarah (Hooker) Coleman, of that place. Children: 1. Carolyn Louise, m. Paul Leon Pierce, lieutenant-colonel in the ordnance department, U. S. Army, 1917-1919, New York City; 2. Lloyd McKee, jr., student in the University of Alabama; 3. Charles Word, student at the McCallie school, Missionary Ridge, Chattanooga, Tenn.; 4. Richard Coleman, pupil, Byrd school, Selma; 5. Asbury Steele, pupil, Byrd school, Selma. Residence: Selma.

HOOPER, OBADIAH, soldier of the American Revolution, and a resident of Pickens County; private, particular service not shown; enrolled on April 14, 1836, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832; payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $42.—Pension Book, State Branch Bank, Mobile.

HOOPER, THOMAS W., Presbyterian minister, was born November 2, 1832, in Hanover County, Va.; son of Joseph Hooper, a native of Virginia, a descendant of William Hooper, one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence, who was a farmer, mill-owner, and a lumber manufacturer, and died in 1858, in Hanover County, Va. His mother, who before her marriage was a Miss Haw, was a Virginian, and died in Richmond, Va., in 1881, at the age of seventy-three years. He obtained his early schooling in Hanover County, and was graduated from Hampden-Sidney college, A. B., 1855, with first honors. He attended Union theological seminary of New York, and Union seminary, Virginia, where he completed a theological course. He was licensed to preach in 1857; was ordained at Pole Green, Va., 1858; installed as pastor of Pole Green and Salem churches, where he preached for five years. From Hanover, he went to Liberty, Va., as pastor and chaplain of the hospital during the War of Secession, and remained there until the close of the war. He was stationed at Christiansburg, Va., for five years; took charge of the Second Presbyterian church at Lynchburg, Va., until 1876; and came to Selma in that year as pastor of the First Presbyterian church. In 1873, he visited Europe, and attended the World's Fair at Vienna; and was a delegate to the Presbyterian Alliance which met at Belfast, Ireland, 1884. While he was abroad, his letters were published under the title, "A Memphian's View of Europe." He was instrumental in the compilation and publication of a book of family worship; has had a number of sermons and addresses published; and is author of a monograph, "Our Pastor's View of the People, as Seen by Himself." The honorary degree of D. D. was conferred upon him by Roanoke college, Salem, Va., in 1876. He is a trustee of Hampden-Sidney college, Virginia; a director in the Columbia theological seminary, South Carolina; a member of the executive committee of the Colored theological institute, and of the executive committee of the orphan's home at Tuskegee. He is a Knight Templar and a Knight of Honor. Married: January 18, 1860, at Liberty, Va., to Lettie W., daughter of James F. Johnson, a lawyer and politician of that place. He has four sons and two daughters living, and has buried two infants and a daughter aged ten years. Residence: Selma.

HOOVER, KEIFFER G., teacher, was born January 16, 1875, at Cavetown, Washington County, Md.; son of John and Elizabeth (Crouse) Hoover, of Smithsburg, Md.; grandson of Jacob and Elizabeth (Zentmyer) Hoover, also of Smithsburg. His great-grandparents were natives of Switzerland who settled in eastern Pennsylvania. He taught two years in the rural schools of Washington County, Md.; two years as principal of the Clear Spring high school, Md.; eight years as principal of the high school at Uniontown; elected superintendent, Demopolis high school, 1911; two years superintendent of education of Perry County, residing at Marion and giving his entire time to the duties of the office. He is a Democrat; a Presbyterian; a Knight of Pythias. Married: Pearl, daughter of William Thomas and Ozaline (King) Underwood of Uniontown. Children: 1. Elizabeth; 2. Mary; 3. Lillian; 4. Clara. Residence: Demopolis.

HOPE, WILLIAM BENJAMIN, Methodist minister, was born December 12, 1873, at Groveoak, DeKalb County; son of Isaac Terrell and Margarette Julianey (Richey) Hope, the former a native of near Gainesville, Hall County, Ga., who removed to DeKalb County in 1870, served as private throughout the four years of the War of Secession, and taking part in every battle in which his organization participated, entered with Co. D, 27th Georgia infantry regiment, serving under Gen. Stonewall Jackson and after his death under Gen. Longstreet; grandson of William Clen and Penelope (Sanders) Hope of near Gainesville, Ga., and of Benjamin and Mary Jane (Latimer) Richey, who lived near Anderson Court House, S. C., but removed first to Georgia and later to DeKalb County; great-grandson of Larkie Latimer, of James Richey and wife, who was a Miss Shirley, of South Carolina, and of James Hope, a native of England; great-great-grandson of James Latimer of Holland and of James Richey of Belfast, Ireland, the wife of the latter being a native of Scotland, and of ——— Shirley, a soldier of the War of the Revolution. Rev. Mr. Hope was educated in the common schools of DeKalb County and at the Southern university, Greensboro, going one year to the latter institution one year after his entrance into the ministry. He read the conference course of study at home supplemented by further theological studies by correspondence with Vanderbilt university, Nashville, Tenn. He was admitted on trial with the North Alabama conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, at Athens, November, 1894, and has served the following charges: Arkadelphia circuit, 1896-7; Gamble mines, 1898-99-1900; Corona station, 1901,02; Gordo circuit, 1903; Guntersville station, 1904-05-06-07; Valley Head circuit, 1908; Boyles mission, 1909; Wylam station, 1910-11-12; Jonesboro station, 1913; ordained deacon at Florence, December 5, 1897, by Bishop Charles B. Galloway; ordained an elder, at first church, Birmingham, November 26, 1899, by Bishop Warren A. Chandler; served a pastorate at Albertville, four years, 1914-18 inclusive; presiding elder Albertville district 1918-20; chaplain Alabama division United Sons Confederate veterans, 1903; president his conference class, 1912-13. He is a Democrat; Mason; Odd Fellow. Married: November 17, 1902, at Jonesboro, to Sarah Foster, daughter of Dr. William Marmaduke and Nancy Lucretia (McAdory) Owen (q. v.) of that place, sister of Thomas M. Owen (q. v.). Children: 1. Lucretia Owen; 2. William Owen; 3. Sarah Owen. Residence: Albertville.

COLONEL WILLIAM B. LEEDY

HOPKINS, ARTHUR FRANCIS, lawyer, chief justice of the supreme court of Alabama, U. S. senator, was born October 18, 1794, near Danville, in Pittsylvania County, Va., and died in 1866, in Mobile; son of James and Frances (Carter) Hopkins, who lived near Danville, Va., the former a Virginian, born February 22, 1765, who fought in the Revolution and was wounded at the battle of Guilford Court House; grandson of Arthur Hopkins, jr., who married a Miss Jefferson, said to be a cousin of Thomas Jefferson, and of Jesse and Mary (Chattan) Carter, who lived at Oakland, Pittsylvania County, Va.; grandnephew of Mary Hopkins who married Col. Joseph Cabell, interested with Thomas Jefferson in founding the University of Virginia, and was the ancestress John C. Breckenridge, general and vice-president of the United States, of W. C. P. Breckenridge, of the Carter Harrisons of Chicago, of Gen. William Cabell of Texas, and of Gen. Castleman of Kentucky; great-grandson of Dr. Arthur and Elizabeth (Pettus) Hopkins, the former of whom was a justice of the county court, 1737, was high sheriff of the Goochland County and vestryman of St. James Parish, 1739-1741, was commissioned colonel of horse for Goochland County by Gov. Dinwiddie, 1752; great-great-great-grandson of Col. Joseph Cabell, a member for twenty years of the Virginia colonial council, who settled in Virginia in 1640, and was closely related to Sir John Pettus, of the London Company, one of the founders of the colony of Virginia. Maj.-Gen. Sam Hopkins, of Hopkinsville, Ky., who fought in the War of 1812, is of the family. The Carter family is descended from Capt. Thomas Carter and his wife Katherine Dale, the granddaughter of Sir Henry Skipwith. Judge Hopkins was educated in the common schools, in an academy at New London, Va., an academy in Caswell County, N. C., and attended the University of North Carolina, at Chapel Hill, but did not graduate. He studied law with Judge William Leigh of Halifax County, Va., and began the practice of law in Huntsville, Madison County, 1816. With the exception of one or two years in St. Louis, Mo., he practiced his profession entirely in Alabama. He was also interested largely in planting in Alabama and Mississippi, and in real estate. He moved from Huntsville to Lawrence County in January, 1819, and in May of that year was elected to the first state constitutional convention. He was elected to the State senate from Lawrence County in 1822, and in that session, fought the establishment of state banks, foretelling their course and end. In 1825, he returned to Huntsville and applied himself to his practice. He was elected to the State legislature as a representative from Madison County in 1833, and was elected a justice of the supreme court of the state, January, 1836. He was elected to the U. S. senate in 1837, and in the same year was made chief justice of the Alabama supreme court, which commission he resigned the following year. After serving his term in the Federal senate, he returned to Huntsville and resumed his practice. He was on the Harrison electoral ticket in 1840, and was the temporary president of the national convention which nominated Henry Clay for the presidency, in 1844. In that same year, he was again elected to the U. S. senate, defeating Mr. Lewis, and was returned to that body in 1847 and 1849. He moved to Missouri in 1845, and a year later located in Mobile. He practiced in the latter place for ten years, and was during that time associated mainly with Hon. William G. Jones. He retired from the practice of law in 1856, and in the following year became president of the Mobile & Ohio railroad. He was sent by Governor Moore as one of the two commissioners to Virginia to invite the co-operation of that state in the secession of the Southern states. He was the acknowledged leader of the Whig party in Alabama and was one of the authors of the "Address to Citizens of Alabama," published by the Whig party, June, 1840. He was a Presbyterian. Married. (1) in 1815, in Bedford County, Va., to Pamela Moseley, who died in 1852, daughter of Arthur and Pamela (Thorpe) Moseley, who lived near the Peaks of Otter, Bedford County, Va., on a farm adjoining that of the father of Bishop Cobb of Alabama, a cousin of Col. Jack Reid of Nashville, Tenn., who served on Gen. Jackson's staff during the battle of New Orleans, and a descendant of the Calloways, pioneers of Kentucky; (2) to Mrs. Julia Opie Gordon, who was known as "the Florence Nightingale of the Confederacy," whose vignette is on the twenty-five cent and fifty cent Alabama confederate bills, and who was buried in Arlington cemetery, with a military funeral, and with the Alabama delegation in congress as honorary pall-bearers. Children, by first marriage: 1. Arthur Moseley, graduate of Yale University, lawyer, commission merchant of New Orleans, m. Eliza Bibb, daughter of Gov. Thomas Bibb of Alabama, and a niece of the first governor of Alabama, Hon. W. W. Bibb; 2. Marie Malinda, m. Maj. John J. Walker, who served on Gen. Bragg's staff during the Creek War, son of John Walker, first U. S. senator from Alabama; 3. Louisa, m. George P. Blevins, a graduate of Yale University, lawyer, at Selma; 4. Cornelia Carter, m. Henry Allen Lowe, an English cotton merchant of Mobile, and first president of the Athelstan Club of that city; 5, Augusta, m. Capt. John Washington Rice, b. Chester District, S. C., a graduate of Columbia College, a member of the South Carolina legislature, who moved to Talladega, became captain in the Thirteenth U. S. infantry, Mexican War, moved to Oktibbeha County, Miss., and developed large planting interests there, was a member of the Mississippi state senate, located finally in Mobile, was a first cousin of Samuel Rice of Montgomery, chief justice of the supreme court of Alabama; 6. Mary Moseley, m. Maj. William Barnewall, member of the staff of Gen. Hardee, Mobile; 7. Catherine Erskine, m. Col. Starke H. Oliver, of Dallas County and Mobile, son of Samuel W. Oliver, once candidate for governor of Alabama; 8, William Leigh, graduate of Virginia military institute, 1861, captain, C. S. Army, unmarried; and six other children who died in infancy or very young; by adoption, Juliet Butcher, m. Gen. Romaine B. Ayres, of the U. S. Army, who was in command of Fort Henry, Washington, D. C., in the Hayes-Tilden embroglio. Last residence: Mobile.

HOPKINS, JULIET ANN (OPIE), Confederate heroine, was born May 7, 1818, at "Woodburn," Jefferson County, Va.; died March 9, 1890, in Washington, D. C., and is buried in Arlington Cemetery; daughter of Hierome Lindsay and Margaret (Muse) Opie, the former of Northumberland County, Va., for thirty years state senator of Virginia, and a direct descendant of Rev. Sir David Lindsay, who was the eldest son of Sir Jerome Lindsay, Lord Lion King-at-arms, and who was sent to the colonies in 1642, by his grandfather Earl David Lindsay, Bishop of Ross; great-granddaughter of Gen. George Augustine Muse, a British officer of Westmoreland, Va. Juliet Ann Opie was educated at home under the direction of English tutors, later attending Miss Ritchie's private school in Richmond, Va. At the age of sixteen she left school on account of the death of her mother, and took charge of her father's estate and two thousand slaves. At the outbreak of the War of Secession she was sent by the State of Alabama to Richmond where she established an Alabama hospital. She was untiring during the four years in the hospitals and other similar works. On the battlefield of Seven Pines she received two wounds, one being received while lifting a wounded officer. These wounds necessitated the removal of quite a portion of the bone in the left leg and made her slightly lame to the hour of her death. She sold most of her property in Alabama, Virginia, and New York, and gave nearly five hundred thousand dollars to the Confederate cause. Her face appears on the issues of the Alabama State money for fifty dollars and for twenty-five cents. A silver service was presented to her by the Mobile Rifles, February 22, 1873. She left more than 3,000 letters and numerous orders and telegrams which she received from the State Capitol at Montgomery while engaged in this work, and for her service she received the thanks of the State of Alabama. She was an Episcopalian. Married: (1) in May, 1837, at "Woodburn," Jefferson County, Va., to Commander Alexander George Gordon, U. S. Navy; (2) November 4, 1854, in New York, N. Y., to Judge Arthur Francis Hopkins (q. v.). Last residence: Washington, D. C.

HOPKINS, PERCY ISAIAH, physician, was born February 14, 1880, at Melbourne, Australia; son of Elias and Alvira Ann (Edwards) Hopkins, the former a native of Neath, Wales, who lived at Clanton; grandson of Isaiah and Elizabeth Hopkins, who came from Wales in 1867 and settled in Youngstown, O., and of Evan J. and Jane Edwards, who also came from Wales and lived in Youngstown. He obtained his early education in the public schools at Bessemer; attended Montezuma university; and was graduated from the medical department of Vanderbilt university, 1899. He practiced medicine for one year at Bessemer, for ten years at Centerville, then located in Clanton, where he has continued the practice of his profession. He is a Baptist; a thirty-second degree Mason; an Odd Fellow; a Woodman of the World; and a Red Man. Married: September 6, 1904, at Sulphur Springs, Tex., to Mamie G. Latham, daughter of Oliver Elliot and Fannie Latham, natives of Chilton County who lived at Sulphur Springs, Tex. Children: 1. Frances Alvira; 2. Percy Isalah, jr. Residence: Clanton.

HORN, A. G., secretary of the constitutional convention, 1861, from Mobile County.

HORN, DANIEL H., lieutenant colonel, 33rd Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army.

HORN, JOSEPH ROBERT, physician, was born April 29, 1860, near Luverne, Crenshaw County; son of Oliver W. and Susan (Williamson) Horn, the former a life time resident of Crenshaw County, enlisted in Co. E, 56th Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army, 1861, and served until Lee's surrender, being one of eight brothers in the service; grandson of Richard W. and Rebecca (Cox) Horn of New Providence, and of Robert and Abigail (King) Williamson, also of Crenshaw County. The Horns were of English stock and the Williamsons of Irish descent. Dr. Horn received his primary education in the public schools of his county; attended the Medical college of South Carolina, Charleston, 1884-85; Medical department, University of Alabama, Mobile, 1885-87; graduated from Tulane university, Medical department, 1895; and engaged in the practice of his profession at Luverne. He was mayor of Luverne, 1890 to 1900; county health officer for a number of years; counsellor of State medical association; member of State board of pension examiners, 1898-1904. He is a Democrat; a Baptist; Mason; Woodman of the World, Knight of Pythias; Columbian Woodman. Married: September 22, 1881, at New Providence, to Carrie F., daughter of Thomas and Lizzie (Ryals) Mount, of Americus, Ga. Children: 1. Cumi; 2. Felix F.; 3. Joseph R., jr. Residence: Luverne.

HORNADY, JOHN RANDOLPH, editor and Birmingham city commissioner was born May 15, 1872, at Ringgold, Ga.; son of John Randolph and Janie Lawton (Mulkey) Hornady, a native of Houston County, Ga., who later removed to Columbiana, the former entered the Confederate Army at fifteen years of age and served as private secretary to his step-uncle, Gen. George Augustus Smith, later fought in the ranks under Gen. J. E. Johnston, taking part in numerous battles, and serving the full four years of the war; grandson of Henry Carr and Emily (Cherry) Hornady, of Pulaski County, Ga., the former for many years a prominent Baptist minister in Georgia, president, during the war of the Soldiers' relief association, and later raised a half million dollars in money and supplies for widows and orphans of Confederate soldiers, a beneficence distributed throughout the Southern States, where most needed, who traced his ancestry back four hundred years to English stock that fought with Oliver Cromwell at Marston Moor, and of Lemuel Cherry of Pulaski County, Ga.; great-grandson of Isaiah and Lavenia (Robinson) Hornady; great-great-grandson of Isaiah and Susannah (Carr) Hornady; great-great-great-grandson of William Carr, a soldier of the Revolutionary War. Jane Lawton (Mulkey) Hornady was descended from Nicholas Pearre of Washington, Wilkes County, Ga., a prominent figure in the Revolution. On her father's side she was allied to Von Moltke, the famous general in the Franco-Prussian War. The Hornady family was planted in America in 1785 by John, Christopher and Lewis Hornady, who emigrated to North Carolina. John Randolph Hornady, jr., received no other scholastic training than that given at his mother's knee before her death when he was ten years of age. He entered the newspaper profession in 1895 in Birmingham, and rose from a reporter to city editor, managing editor, and finally associate editor of the "Birmingham News." He was for one year on the "Cincinnati Enquirer." He is widely known as a writer and lecturer on municipal government, having made an exhaustive investigation of the commission system of government and led in a campaign for its introduction into Alabama. He was also active in campaigns for the adoption of this system in cities in other states. He has served as one of the city commissioners of Birmingham. Author: a series of twelve articles on short ballot principles and commission government, prepared for the Short ballot organization of New York and widely used in commission campaigns. He is also the author of numerous magazine articles: full page, illustrated, inspirational editorials in the Birmingham "Sunday News." He was president of the Birmingham newspaper club, one of the leading social organizations of the South. He is a Democrat; and a Presbyterian. Married: Maude Morella, daughter of Morel Rutherford and Laura Minnie (Vaugh) Simmons of Union Springs, the former joined a volunteer company formed of students of Emory college, Oxford, Ga., C. S. Army, resigned a few months later and joined Nelson's Rangers, serving throughout the war; granddaughter of William Hill and Melinda Tennille (Rutherford) Vaughn, the former of Scotland who emigrated to America about 1830 and was married there, and of Mary Simmons; great-granddaughter of Nathaniel Green and Annie (Morel) Rutherford, of Franklin Rutherford, and of Robert and Margaret (Grieve) Vaughn, of Lockerby, Dumfriesshire, Scotland; great-great-granddaughter of Gordon Grieve of Scotland, of Robert and Elizabeth (Tennille) Rutherford, and of Pierre Heinrich, (Peter Henry) Morel, who was banished from France during the persecution of the Huguenots under Louis XIV, landed at Savannah, Ga., where he bought the island of Ossabaw, off the coast of Georgia, and peopled it with negroes, many of whom were bought from the African slave traders, and who had sons who held office under Oglethorpe, military governor of Georgia. Children: 1. John Randolph, jr.; 2. Cecil Carr; 3. Ernestine. Residence: Birmingham.

HORST, MARTIN, mayor of Mobile, 1871; father of Henry A. Horst, of that city.

HORTON, AMOS, business man, was born September 16, 1847, at Pleasant Ridge, Greene County; son of William and Marcia (Ford) Horton, the former a native of Wake County, N. C., who moved to Alabama with his parents, and later moved to Greene County; grandson of Jesse and Sallie (Chamblee) Horton, who moved to Alabama from North Carolina, and of John and Jennie (Kirkpatrick) Ford, who lived near Forkland, Greene County; great-grandson of Amos Horton, a captain in the Revolutionary Army, who served under Gen. Marion in the Carolinas. Barnabas Horton, the ancestor of the Horton family in America, came from England to America on the ship Swallow between the years 1633 and 1638. Mr. Horton received his early schooling at Pleasant Ridge; attended the University of Alabama, 1864, 1865; was a member of the Alabama corps of cadets, serving a short time at Mobile, 1864-1865; and was in the engagement with Gen. Craxton at Tuscaloosa, April, 1865. After the war, he engaged in farming and merchandising. He served in the State senate, 1898-1902; and again in 1907. He is a Democrat and a Knight of Pythias. Married: (1) January 19, 1871, at Clinton, to Sallie E., daughter of Grief and Drusilla (Taylor) Richardson; (2) October 7, 1903, at Milledgeville, Ga., to Carrie A., daughter of Capt. K. R. and Melissa Foster, of Milledgeville, Ga. Children: 1. William Taylor; 2. Hugh Clifford; 3. Charle Richardson, m. Belle Jones; 4. Marcia Ford. Residence: Pleasant Ridge.

HORTON, CLARENCE LESLIE, physician, graduate of the medical department of Tulane university, 1891, passed the State board examiners, 1911. Residence: Aliceville.

HORTON, GUSTAVUS, business man, was born March 31, 1808, in Boston, Suffolk County, Mass., and died January 6, 1892, at Mobile; son of Jotham and Robey (Warren) Horton, of Boston, Mass.; grandson of Jotham and Sarah (Francis) Horton of Mistick, now Medford, Mass., and of Capt. William and Robey (Hathaway) Warren of Watertown and Freetown, Mass., respectively, a revolutionary soldier, who was wounded at the battle of Bunker Hill. Gustavus Horton was educated in the public schools of Boston, being one of thirteen test students admitted by examination to the English classical school under George B. Emerson. After the age of sixteen, he was self educated, and showed a taste for good literature by the library which he collected consisting of theology, biography and poetry. He had a clerical position in the Boston custom house, under President Andrew Jackson; later held a place in a mercantile establishment in that city; and was engaged in the cotton business in Mobile, 1837-65, having located in that city on the former date. He was one of the organizers of the public schools of Mobile and was the first president of the board of school commissioners. In 1867, he was mayor of Mobile; probate judge of Mobile County, 1868-74; deputy collector of customs, Mobile, 1877-85. Previous to the War of Secession, he was a Jackson Democrat, and during the War was a Unionist although not an abolitionist. After the War he was a Republican. He was a Presbyterian; a member of the Sons of Temperance and among the pioneers in that movement. Author: a number of articles for the current press on subjects of vital interest at the time, also on educational and on temperance subjects. Married: March 28, 1832, at Boston, to Eliza, daughter of Loring and Margaret (Abrams) Sargent, of that city. The Sargents were of Scotch origin, the American founder of the family being Joseph Sargent, who arrived in this country in 1830. His son Joseph, jr., married Hannah Spear of Gloucester, and their son Joseph, III, married, for his second wife, Anna Loring, who bore him six children, among them the father of Mrs. Horton. Children: 1. Gustavus, jr., m. Mary E. Wynne, Mobile; 2. Sarah Eliza; 3. Caroline M., m. William B. Dennett, Fresno, Calif.; 4. Franklin S., m. Amanda Coleman, Mobile; 5. Mary L., m. Rev. John L. Stuart, Hangchow, China; 6. Eliza J., m. S. Graham Stone, Mobile; 7. Harriet A., m. George G. Duffee, Mobile; 8. George Warren, m. (1) Kate Jewett, (2) Josephine Gotzian, Mayville, N. Dakota; 9. Anna F.; 10. Edward F., m. Helen Metcalf, Mobile; 11. Julia P., m. Thomas C. McBryde, Dalton, Ga.; 12. William C. Last residence: Mobile.

HORTON, JAMES EDWIN, planter, was born May 20, 1833, near Huntsville; son of Rodah and Lucy Ann (Otey) Horton, natives of Virginia and England, respectively, who were married in Madison County, and lived near Huntsville, the former of whom was an extensive planter, represented Madison County in the State legislature once or twice, and died in 1846, at the age of fifty-four years. He was educated at the University of Alabama; at Lebanon, Tenn.; and at the University of Virginia. He came to Limestone County in 1857, settled on the Elk River, and engaged in farming. He entered the C. S. Army, at Bardstown, Ky., in the fall of 1862, as aide-de-camp to Gen. Daniel B. Donelson, and was with Gen. Donelson when the latter met his death at Knoxville, Tenn., late in 1863. From that time to the close of the war, Maj. Horton was acting general quartermaster, and was on the Florida coast at the time of the surrender. After the close of the war, he returned to Limestone County, and resumed planting, which occupation he followed until 1886. He served as commissioner of Limestone County, 1876-1880; and was elected probate judge, 1886-1904. He is a Presbyterian and a Mason. Married: October 18, 1860, near Nashville, Tenn., to Emily B. Donelson, daughter of Gen. Daniel B. Donelson, and a grandniece of the wife of Gen. Andrew Jackson. Children: four daughters and one son; the eldest daughter m. to John B. Tanner of Athens. Residence: Athens.

HORTON, JAMES OSCAR, teacher, was born June 27, 1886, at Horton, Marshall County; son of John Clowers and Pocahontas (Mabrey) Horton of Gwinnett County, Ga.; grandson of Nutie C. and Mary Horton and of James and Fearbie Mabrey of Horton. He received his elementary education in the rural schools of his county and later attended an agricultural school. He graduated from the University of Alabama with the degree of A. B., and began teaching in the rural schools of Marshall County in 1905. Later he was elected principal of the Marshall County high school at Guntersville. He is a Democrat; a Methodist; Odd Fellow; and a member of the Phi Kappa Sigma college fraternity. Residence: Guntersville.

HORTON, WILLIAM E., dentist, was born in July, 1861, at Pleasant Ridge; son of William Horton, who was a planter and farmer. He was educated at the common schools of his native county, at the University, and at the Baltimore college of dental surgery, graduating there in 1883. He immediately began the practice of dental surgery, in Birmingham in partnership with S. M. Talley; at present he is the partner of Charles A. Merrill. He is proprietor of the Lakeview dairy, and the Birmingham steam laundry. He is a Methodist, and a member of the Young Men's Christian Association. Residence: Birmingham.

HOSMER, SAMUEL MONROE, Methodist minister, was born July 22, 1846, in Tuscaloosa County, and died December 24, 1915, in Greensboro; son of Silas and Esther Ann (Cowley) Hosmer, who lived in Tuscaloosa County, the former a native of that county, born November 7, 1822, a planter who organized a company of one hundred thirteen men in 1861, which became Co. H, Twenty-sixth regiment, Alabama infantry, C. S. Army, of which he was elected captain, and while at a camp of instruction at Tuscumbia, was taken ill and died December 29, 1861; grandson of Samuel and Susan (Farnum) Hosmer, who were of English parentage, and came from Boston, Mass., to Tuscaloosa County, about 1820 or 1821. He received his early education in the country schools, and entered the C. S. Army in the fall of 1863 as a volunteer with Co. H., Lockhardt's battalion, Alabama state troops, and subsequently was regularly mustered in with Co. H., Sixty-second regiment Alabama infantry, at Mobile, taking part in the defense of Mobile, August 1864, as one of the garrison of Fort Gaines. Captured at the surrender of that fort, he was sent as a prisoner of war to New Orleans, and from there to Ship Island, where he was held until exchanged, January, 1865. After sixty days' furlough and treatment in hospital, he rejoined his command at Meridian, Miss., where he was paroled May 11, 1865. After the close of the war, he attended Pleasant Hill academy, under the principalship of Prof. I. W. McAdory, and was a student at the Southern university, 1870-1874, being graduated the latter year, with the degree of B. P. The honorary degree of D. D. was conferred upon him by Southern university in 1893. After his marriage, he settled in the western part of Jefferson County, and on May 11, 1868, was licensed as a local preacher in the Methodist Episcopal church, South. He joined the North Alabama conference in 1874; became pastor of the Valley Head circuit, 1875-1877; of the Madison circuit, 1878-1879; of Trinity circuit, 1880; presiding elder of Florence district, 1881-1884; of Gadsden district, 1885-1886; of Huntsville district, 1887-1889; of Talladega district, 1890; of Tuscaloosa station, 1891-1892; of Birmingham district, 1893-1896; of Talladega district, 1897-1899. He was elected president of Southern university, at Greensboro, in February, 1899, and served in that capacity until June, 1910, when he resigned because of ill health. He was presiding elder of Troy district, 1911-1915, and at the session of the Alabama conference in Brewton, December, 1915, was superannuated at his own request. He was a member of the General conference in 1886, 1890, 1894, 1898, and 1902; was a member of the general board of church extension, 1890-1906; was a member of the board of inspectors of the church; was trustee of the Southern university for sixteen years; and at the time of his death was chairman of the publishing committee of the Alabama "Christian Advocate." He had served for one season without pay as business manager of the "Advocate," probably saving its solvency at a critical time. He had been a member of the board of education of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, for several years. He was a Democrat and a Mason. Married: (1) December 11, 1867, at Blue Creek, Jefferson County, to Frances Louvenia Parsons, who died January 31, 1911, daughter of Joseph and Sarah Ann (Rogers) Parsons, who lived at that place; (2) December 19, 1912, to Mrs. M. A. McSwean, of Brundidge, daughter of Maj. Q. F. Culver. Children, by first marriage: 1. Allious Roberts, d. 1896, m. Jennie Jenkins, Huntsville; 2. Maria, m. S. A. Dowdell, Wimauma, Fla.; 3. Loula, m. J. A. Baxley, Greensboro; 4. Irene, d. 1906, m. B. P. Beard, Birmingham; 5. Linus Parker, m. Mae Crowther, Shreveport, La.; 6. William Rison, Gordo; 7.

Margaret, of Woman's college, Montgomery. Last residence, Greensboro.

HOUGHTON, BENJAMIN A., Methodist minister; pastor of the Court St. church, Montgomery, 1830.

HOUGHTON, MITCHELL BENNETT, business man, was born September 14, 1844, at Franklin, Heard County, Ga.; son of William Henry and Eliza Ann (Bennett) Houghton, who moved from Georgia to south Alabama just before the War of Secession, the former of whom was born at Greensboro, Greene County, Ga., and lived at Wetumpka, 1837-1838, and later in Russell, now Lee County, near Salem, and also of Newton, Dale County; grandson of William and Elizabeth (Crutchfield) of Greensboro, Ga., and of Rev. Mitchell and Didama Bennett, who lived near Salem, now Lee County; brother of William Robert Houghton (q. v.). He obtained his education from Dover academy, established by Col. R. L. Mott, of Columbus, Ga., and at the outbreak of war, became a private in the Glenville Guards, of Barbour County, later Co. H., of the Fifteenth Alabama regiment, C. S. Army. He took part in the battles of second Manassas, Gettysburg, Chickamauga, and minor engagements, receiving several wounds, one of which disabled him for some time, was a participant in Stonewall Jackson's campaign in the Shenandoah Valley, and in the battles of Port Republic and Cedar Mountain. A short time after the battle of Chickamauga, he was captured with his captain and fifteen others in a night engagement not far from Chattanooga, and spent fourteen months in prison at Camp Morton, Indiana. After the war he engaged in the mercantile business at Union Springs; was one of the organizers of the Bullock County Bank, becoming vice-president and one of its managers; with two others established the State Bank of Montgomery and was elected president of the institution; held that position for five years, at the end of which time, he sold his stock to his partners and devoted his attention to his large planting and real estate interests. He was one of the first to introduce the best beef breeds of cattle into that part of the state. He organized the Commercial and Industrial Association of Montgomery, 1890, and served as president for five years; was president of the board of revenue of Montgomery for four years; and was chairman of the Democratic Executive committee of Bullock County for several years. He is author of "Two Boys in the Civil War and After," is a Methodist, and a trustee in the church. Residence: Montgomery.

HOUGHTON, WILLIAM ROBERT, lawyer, was born May 22, 1842, in Heard County, Ga.; son of William Henry and Eliza Ann (Bennett) Houghton, who came from Georgia to Lee County in 1849, the former a lawyer, who served in the Indian wars of 1836, was secretary of the Alabama senate for one term, and died in 1878; grandson of William and Elizabeth (Crutchfield) Houghton, of Greensboro, Ga., and of Rev. Mitchell and Didama Bennett, who lived near Salem, Lee County. Mr. Houghton is a brother of Mitchell Bennett Houghton (q. v.). He received his early education in Lee County, and from the time he was fifteen years of age until the beginning of the War of Secession, taught school and attended an academy alternately. In April, 1861, he enlisted in the Columbus Guards, which was assigned to the Second Georgia regiment as Co. E. He served as a private under McGruder, Hood and Longstreet, in the campaigns of northern Virginia and at Chickamauga and Knoxville. In 1864, he was made one of Gen. Longstreet's scouts, and served in that capacity until the surrender. He was wounded seven times, seriously at Malvern Hill and second Manassas, and slightly at Chickamauga and elsewhere. After the war he undertook the study of law, and was admitted to the bar in Dale County, 1866. He located first in Hayneville, where he practiced his profession for fifteen years, and moved to Birmingham, November, 1887, forming a partnership with F. S. Furguson. He is a Mason. Married: December 21, 1875, to Anna M. Streety, daughter of John P. Streety, a merchant of Hayneville, Lowndes County. Mrs. Houghton died November, 1882. Children: 1. Harry Streety. Residence: Birmingham.

HOUSTON, ETHEL, opera and concert singer. Residence: Birmingham.

HOUSTON, GEORGE SMITH, lawyer, representative in congress, governor of Alabama, U. S. senator, was born January 17, 1811, in Williamson County, Tenn., and died December 31, 1879, in Athens; son of David and Hannah Pugh (Reagan) Houston, natives of South Carolina, who moved to Lauderdale County from Williamson County, Tenn., about 1821 and engaged in agriculture; grandson of John and Mary (Ross) Houston, who in 1760 emigrated from County Tyrone, Ireland, and settled in Newberry District, N. C. His maternal grandmother was of Welch ancestry, a member of the family of Pughs, noted for their promotion of education. He received an elementary education in an academy in Lauderdale County; read law in the office of Judge George Coalter in Florence, and completed his studies in Judge Boyle's law school at Harrodsburg, Ky. He was admitted to the bar in 1831, and was elected to the State legislature from Lauderdale County, in 1832. He was appointed district solicitor by Gov. Gayle to fill a vacancy in 1834, but in the winter following was defeated for the position by Hon. William Richardson. He moved to Limestone County in that year and continued his law practice. In 1837, he was elected solicitor over Mr. Richardson, and held the office until 1841, when he was elected to congress on the general ticket over Gen. John M. Lewis of Franklin County. He was re-elected in 1843, defeating Robert Armstrong of Lauderdale; in 1845 over John A. Nooe of Franklin; in 1847 over Hon. David Hubbard of Lawrence; and voluntarily retired in 1849, resuming his profession in partnership with Col. Egbert Jones. He was again elected to congress over Mr. Hubbard in 1851; was unopposed in 1853 and 1855; defeated Mr. Hubbard for the third time in 1857, and Hon. William A. Hewlett of Walker County, 1859. He retired from congress in January, 1861, with his colleagues when the state seceded. During his eighteen years in congress, he was recognized as one of the leaders of the house, was a member of many important committees, and was chairman of the committees on military affairs, ways and means, and the judiciary. He was opposed to secession and probably made the last Douglas speech ever made in Alabama. While in congress and secession seemed almost a certainty, he advocated and became a member of the committee of thirty-three to devise means to save the union; but when Alabama seceded, he drafted and presented to the speaker the formal withdrawal of the Alabama delegation from the Federal congress. He retired to his home, and though not in active service, refused repeatedly to take the oath of allegiance demanded by the Federal authority, and was thoroughly in sympathy with the Confederacy and contributed to its support.

At the close of the war he was elected to the U. S. senate, defeating Hon. John Forsyth, of Mobile, and Hon. A. B. Cooper of Wilcox, but was not allowed a seat as his state was denied representation. He was a delegate to the National Union Convention at Philadelphia in 1866; was defeated for the U. S. senate by ex-Gov. Winston that same year; and resumed the practice of law in Athens, in partnership with Hon. Luke Pryor. In 1872 he was a candidate for the Federal senate, but withdrew his name before the election. In 1874, when the radical party was in control of the state, Mr. Houston was elected governor over David P. Lewis in the first Democratic victory after the enforcement of the reconstruction measures. As governor, he advocated a policy which converted the penitentiary, that had previously been a considerable charge to the state, into a source of state revenue, and urged economy in every department of state, setting the example by saving more than ten thousand dollars of the fifteen thousand set aside for contingent expenses. The most important measure before the legislature during his administration was the State debt. In a message to the legislature, Gov. Houston recommended the appointment of a committee to investigate and make some adjustment of it. The committee was composed of T. B. Bethea, Levi W. Lawless, and George S. Houston, chairman. Under the management of that committee, the bonded debt of thirty million dollars was reduced within a period of five years to a figure which was easily handled by the state, and under Gov. Houston's administration the state was restored to a condition which brought it into agreement with the Union. At the expiration of his term, he was re-elected, and shortly afterward was balloted for in the caucus for U. S. senator. He withdrew his name in order to serve his second term as governor, and at the expiration of that term was sent to the senate. He served in the extra session of 1879, but did not return to Washington on account of ill health. He died late in that year at his home in Athens.

STOUTEN H. DENT

Married: (1) in 1835, at Athens, to Mary I. Beatty, daughter of Robert Beatty; (2) in April, 1861, to Ellen Irvine, of Florence, daughter of James Irvine, one of the leading lawyers of the state at that time. Children, by first marriage: 1. David, entered the C. S. Army as captain of a company in the Ninth Alabama regiment, was afterward a member of Gen. Roddy's command, d. September 7, 1880, unmarried; 2. George Smith, jr., attended school in Washington, D. C., and a military school at Nashville, Tenn., left school to enter the C. S. Army, 1863, as a private in Johnson's regiment of Gen. Roddy's command, later became lieutenant of Gen. Roddy's escort, and served until the close of the war, returned to his farm near Mooresville, Limestone County, m. January 6, 1870, to Margaret Irvine, daughter of James and Emily (Boggs) Irvine; 3. John P., lawyer, Memphis, Tenn.; 4. Mary E., Athens; and four others, all of whom died before 1860; by second marriage: 9. Emma, Athens; 10. Maggie Lou, d. November 24, 1877. Last residence: Athens.

HOUSTON, JAMES H., physician and planter, was born December 22, 1826, in Iredell County, N. C., and died in Uniontown at a mature age; son of James H. and Sarah Lee (Kerr) Houston, both natives of Iredell County; grandson of Capt. James Houston and wife, a Miss Brevard, the former a native of Ireland who immigrated to North Carolina and fought in the American Revolution, participating in the battle of Ramsour's Mill, near Lincolnton, N. C., in which his father also fought and was severely wounded, and of James Kerr, the former a soldier of the American Revolution, participating in the battle at Ramsour's Mill, N. C. Dr. Houston grew to manhood in his native State; graduated from Davidson college in 1845, and in medicine from the university of Pennsylvania in 1848. He moved to Alabama in 1856 and located in Uniontown where he practised his profession throughout a long and successful career. He entered the Confederate service as surgeon in 1863, and although in several battles was never wounded. In 1873 he was made superintendent of education for Perry County and served one year. Although loyal to his section after the period of reconstruction on account of national issues he joined the Republican party. He was a Presbyterian. Married: in 1852, at Stubville, to Mary Jane, daughter of Absey Simonton and wife, Miss Falls, daughter of General Falls. Children: 1. Robert Lee, at one time postmaster in Birmingham; 2. Lula, m. C. A. Tyrell, druggist and mayor, Uniontown; 3. Isabella. Last residence: Uniontown.

HOUSTON, SAMUEL O., lawyer, was born February 2, 1851, in Harris County, Ga.; son of George W. and Nancy (Ward) Houston, natives respectively of North Carolina and Georgia, the former a farmer. He attended the Agricultural and mechanical college, Auburn, graduated at the University of Georgia in 1869, farmed a while and read law, being admitted to the Lee County bar in 1881. Five years later he formed a partnership with Judge John M. Chilton, but the connection continued only one year. Residence: Opelika.

HOUSTON, SAMUEL S., pioneer physician and public official, a native of a northern State, was register in the public land office at St. Stephens; represented Washington County in the legislature of 1840, and several times thereafter. Last residence: St. Stephens.

HOUSTON, W. W., Presbyterian minister; mentioned in Burgette's "Dead of the Synod of Alabama," 1890-1900.

HOWARD, HARRY CLAY, methodist minister, was born March 20, 1866, at Bell's Landing, Monroe County; son of Alexander Travis and Mary Florence (Powell) Howard, the former a soldier in the C. S. Army, and a resident of Bell's Landing for many years, the latter of Clarke County; grandson of James and Sarah (Stephens) Howard of Milledgeville, Ga., and Joseph B. and Margaret (Johnson) Powell, natives of Clarke County. Dr. Howard received his elementary education in the common schools at Bell's Landing; entered Southern university, Greensboro, where he led his classes, and was selected to be tutor in mathematics. While in college, he was editor-in-chief of the college annual and monthly, and represented his literary society, in a number of oratorical contests and debates. He was graduated with the degree of B. S., in 1889; the honorary degree of D. D. was conferred upon him in 1908. Entered the north Alabama conference, in November, 1889; has served the following places as pastor; Anniston, Tuscaloosa, Huntsville, and Talladega, has been presiding elder of the following districts: Florence, Jasper, Talladega and Tuscaloosa; has also been pastor of the South Highlands Methodist church, Birmingham. He is at present a professor at Emory university, Ga. He is a member of the Alpha Tau Omega college fraternity. He was chairman of the north Alabama conference delegation to the general conference held in Birmingham, in May, 1906, was also member of the general conference held in Ashville, in May, 1910; contributor to the Methodist quarterly review; special lecturer to college students; and frequent commencement speaker and preacher. Married: April 30, 1891, at Greensboro, to Lucia E., daughter of Dr. Luther M. and Callie (Lane) Smith (q. v.), of Greensboro. Children: 1. Helen, m. Arthur J. Phillips; 2. Ruth; 3. Arthur Smith; 4. Mildred; 5. Marion Thornton. Residence: Oxford, Ga.

HOWARD, JAMES HURT, farmer and member constitutional convention, 1867, was born May 15, 1841, at Tuskegee and died December 19, 1874; son of Dr. Robert and Rebecca (Hurt) Howard, the former a practicing physician at Tuskegee; grandson of Maj. James and Tabitha (Motley) Howard, the former a soldier in the War of 1812, and of Henry and Emily (Sledge) Hurt. James Howard was educated at Tuskegee; was a lifelong farmer in Crenshaw County; superintendent of education of that county; and a member of the constitutional convention of 1867, from the eighth district, including Crenshaw County. He was almost alone in opposition to the oppressive measure passed by that convention against the South. He was a Democrat; and a Mason. Married: August 16, 1866, at Rutledge, to Amanda M., daughter of Stephen Marshall and Nancy (Ray) Mahone, of Warrior Stand, Macon County. Children: 1. Lucia Pauline, m. Gazaway Lamar, of Tuskegee; 2. Charles James, m. Fannie Belle McQueen, of Rutledge. Last residence: Rutledge.

HOWARD, JOHN WILLIAM, physician and surgeon, was born May 19, 1858, at Morgantown, Burke County, N. C.; son of Jesse and Susan (Murr) Howard, both of Salisbury, N. C. In the early sixties his father removed from Salisbury to Morgantown, and it was there he received his elementary education; later entered Rutherford college, N. C. He matriculated at the Atlanta medical college in 1890, graduating in 1891. Began the practice of his profession in Shelby County, later removing to Irondale, where he has since been engaged in the practice. In 1899, he was elected mayor of Irondale. He is a Methodist; Democrat; Mason; Odd Fellow; and Knight of Pythias. Married: Gulielma, daughter of C. C. and Catherine (Hearne) Stamps, formerly of Georgia, who later moved to Irondale. Residence: Irondale.

HOWARD, LEONIDAS, Alabama pioneer and genealogist of his family. He was a cousin of Rev. Hosea Holcomb, Gen. Thomas Woodward and Augusta Evans Wilson. Deceased. Last residence: Mulberry.

HOWARD, R. C., member of the constitutional convention of 1861, from Russell County.

HOWARD, R. H., member of the constitutional convention of 1865, from Macon County.

HOWARD, THOMAS GREENWOOD, physician; graduate from the medical department of the University of Washington, 1868; licensed to practice by the County board of Autauga County. Residence: Selma.

HOWARD, WILLIAM B. H., lawyer, was born August 15, 1816, in Columbia, S. C., and died October 15, 1876, near Camden; son of Brutus Howard, a native of Maryland, who moved to South Carolina, and thence to Monroe County, in 1818. He was descended from the distinguished Howard family of England, a branch of which settled in Maryland, in 1700. He received his elementary education in the public schools of Monroe County, and at the age of nineteen entered a preparatory school in New Jersey. He graduated from Princeton university in 1839, read law in Claiborne, Monroe County, and was admitted to the bar. He was elected to the legislature from Monroe County as a Whig and served 1842 and 1843. In 1855, he represented Mobile County in the legislature as a Know Nothing. In 1847, he located in New Orleans, La., and entered upon the practice of the law, but two years later removed to California. In 1851, he returned to Alabama and settled in Mobile, where he practiced his profession and edited the "Evening News," the organ of the Know Nothing party. In 1856, he removed to Camden, Wilcox County. At the outbreak of the War of Secession, he enlisted as a private in the Third Alabama cavalry regiment and served throughout the period of hostilities. He was solicitor for the eleventh judicial circuit, 1865-68, after which time, he resumed the practice of law at Camden. Of him, Brewer's Alabama, p. 582, says: "Mr. Howard is a gentleman of the noblest character, pure in heart, charitable and humane, generous and honorable. He is a ripe scholar, an able advocate, and one of the best political speakers of the State." Married: in South Carolina, to Elizabeth O. Gaillard of an old and aristocratic family. Children: 1. son; 2. daughter. Last residence: Camden.

HOWARD, WILLIAM JOHN, planter, was born June 3, 1811, at Augusta, Ga., and died November 7, 1873, in Montgomery; son of John and Louisa (Stoner) Howard; grandson of Rhesa and Hannah (Few) Howard, and of Peter Stoner and wife, who was a Miss Minor, all of Augusta, Ga., where they were colonial settlers; great-grandson of William Few, Georgia's signer of the Declaration of Independence. He was educated in the private schools of Augusta. In 1838, he, with a colony of Georgians, settled at Cross-Keys, now Shorters' station. Here he acquired extensive tracts of land and farmed, owning hundreds of negro slaves. After the close of the War of Secession he removed to Montgomery. He was a Democrat and a Methodist. Married: April 24, 1834, to Anne Flewellen, daughter of James and Elizabeth (Slatter) Billingslea, of Clinton, Jones County, Ga. Children: 1. Elizabeth; 2. Louisa Amanda, m. James Rousham Stewart; 3. Alice Ware, m. Robert H. Ramsey; 4. Claudia Carolina, m. (1) Capt. Nathaniel Clanton, (2) Dr. Francis Marion Letcher; 5. Charles Gordon, m. Mary J. Pierce; 6. Henry Slatter; 7. Anna Parish, m. Hamilton Bonner Metcalf; 8. William Bostwick, m. Minnie (Barrett) Bunkley. Last residence: Montgomery.

HOWELL, WILSON P., farmer, state senator and member of the constitutional convention of 1901, was born March 23, 1832, near Lawrenceville, Gwinnett County, Ga.; son of John and Elizabeth Howell, who resided near Lawrenceville. He received only a limited education, and has been a farmer and local Methodist minister since reaching maturity. He enlisted July, 1861, as a private in the Confederate Army, and in 1862 was promoted to be captain of Co. I, 25th Alabama infantry regiment. From 1865 until 1868 he was tax assessor of Calhoun County. He served in the house of representatives from Cleburne County, 1870, re-elected in 1872 and again in 1886; elected to the State senate from the seventh district, 1876.

He served several times as enrolling clerk of the house and senate; and was employed from 1888 until 1892 as a clerk in the office of the State treasurer. He was elected without opposition to the constitutional convention of 1901, from Cleburne County. He is a Democrat; and a Methodist. Married: (1) December 29, 1850, Harriet V. Parker, who died in 1899; (2) February 14, 1901, to Mrs. Rebecca L. (Boker) Hendon. Residence: Oak Level.

HOWLE, WILLIAM HENRY, farmer; was born April 16, 1874, at Arbacoochee, Cleburne County; son of John Henry and Mary Delany (Blake) Howle; grandson of Peter Morgan and Malissa Howle, the former a native of South Carolina, went through the War of Secession in Wheeler's cavalry, served as tax collector for Randolph County, and was later county commissioner of Cleburne County, and of Henry and Sarah Jane Blake, the former also a member of Wheeler's cavalry, C. S. Army. All of these people were Baptists and all very successful farmers at Arbacoochee. Thomas Blake, the maternal great-grandfather of Mr. Howle, came from Georgia and settled in Randolph County, and represented Randolph County during one term of Legislature. Mr. Howle received his education in the common schools of Cleburne County; was justice of peace from 1906 to 1918; is a farmer; a Democrat; and a Missionary Baptist. Married: October 4, 1896, to Minnie Lou, daughter of John Franklin and Emily Lee McKinzie. Children: 1. Cecil Edgar; 2. John Wilmer; 3. Joseph Paul; 4. Stella May; 5. Pelu; 6. Henry Clayton; 7. Robert Comer; 8. Emory Astor; 9. Braxton Bragg; 10. Ozella Delany; 11. Alton Brown. Residence: Heflin.

HOWZE, AUGUSTIN CLAYTON, lawyer, was born August 17, 1846, at Athens, Clarke County, Ga.; son of John and Claudia (Clayton) Howze (q. v.). He received his preparatory education in the public schools of Marion, and attended Howard college for several terms. He graduated from the university of Georgia, 1869, with the degree of A. B.; studied law in the office of Gov. Andrew B. Moore, in Marion; was admitted to the bar, November, 1869, and has practiced in Marion and Birmingham, where he now resides. He was probate judge of Perry County from April, 1871, to November, 1874, and special judge of the criminal court of Jefferson County in 1908; appointed a member of the board of visitors to the Military academy, West Point, N. Y., by President Roosevelt, June, 1902; elected member of the constitutional convention, 1901, from the ninth district. He was a private in Battery B., under Capt. Joseph Selden, later under Capt. Charles W. Lovelace, from September, 1863, to the surrender in 1865. He is a Democrat; and a Presbyterian. Married: (1) in February, 1870, to Vallie, daughter of Dr. Henry Jones R. and Susan (Stroud) Long, of Athens, Ga.; (2) December 10, 1889, to Mrs. Nannie (Dillard) Arrington, daughter of James R. Dillard (q. v.), of Montgomery. Children: by first wife, 1. Henry Russell, lawyer, graduated at the University of Alabama, 1891, with degree of A. B., LL. B., instructor in mathematics at that institution, 1890-01, m. Minnie Love, Birmingham; 2. Susie, m. Preston Hampton Haskell, Mineral, Va.; 3. John, cotton buyer, m. Kate Fontain Meade, Birmingham; 4. Marion William, U. S. army, judge advocate general department, Chicago, Ill.; 5. Gerald, lieutenant, U. S. navy, S. S. Florida. Residence: Birmingham.

HOWZE, JOHN, merchant and farmer, was born January 22, 1822, at Louisburg, Franklin County, N. C., died April 26, 1902, at Marion, Perry County; son of Henry Yarborough and Kekomoisa (Mitchell) Howze, of Louisburg, who later located in Marion, Perry County, where he died in 1862; grandson of John Howze and wife, who was a Miss Yarborough, of Louisburg, N. C., and of Dr. Thomas Mitchell of North Carolina. John Howze was educated in the common schools of his native county and when young located in Mobile, where he learned the cotton business and became a commission merchant at that place. He afterwards removed to Perry County and engaged in farming. He merchandized in Marion for nearly fifty years. He was captain of a company of State troops during the early years of the War of Secession and was stationed at Fts. Morgan and Gaines. He was a Whig before hostilities but became a Democrat afterwards; and a Mason. Married: October 1, 1845, at Athens, Ga., to Claudia Caroline, daughter of Augustin Smith and Julia (Carnes) Clayton, the former a prominent citizen of Georgia, about 1805 to 1839, a judge of some of its courts and for many years a member of congress. The family came from Virginia and Clayton Torrence in his book "Roots of Rosewall," gives a full account of his ancestry. Children: 1. Augustin Clayton (q. v.), m. (1) Vallie Long; (2) Nannie (Dillard) Arrington, Birmingham; 2. Harry Y., Marion, merchant and planter; 3. John, m. Fannie Perry, Marion; 4. Claudia Caroline, m. — Jones, Selma; 5. Thomas Mitchell, m. Annie North, Marion; 6. Leonora Clayton, m. Rev. James A. Bryan, Birmingham; 7. Mallie Cobb, m. Basil Manly Lide, St. Louis, Mo. Last residence: Marion.

HOY, MARY LAVINIA THOMPSON, author, was born in South Carolina, in 1856; daughter of George Franklin and Rachel Emily (Crimen) Thompson, the former a Methodist minister, and member of the Mississippi conference at the time of his death, 1892. Mrs. Hoy is descended from the Taylors, Alstons, and Kirklands of South Carolina. She was educated in Memphis, Tenn. Author: "Adienne." Married: (1) William Bowles McGaughey, of New Orleans, La.; (2) Frank Lawson Hoy, of Birmingham. Children, by first husband: 1. Harry Anderson, Lordsburg, New Mexico, m. Virgie Frantz, of Brandon, Miss; 2. Snowden, m. Eva Gaddis, of Mississippi, residence Gadsden; 3. William Bowles, m. Helen Ford, of Canton, Miss.; 4. Jennie Bowles; 5. George Thompson, Birmingham. Residence: Birmingham.

HOYLE, GEORGE HARVEY, real estate abstractor, was born February 24, 1863, at Tensas, now Carpenters, Baldwin County; son of Alexander M. and Olive A. (Overton) Hoyle, the former was reared in Monroe County, Tenn., later moving to Tensas where he resided; grandson of John Overton of South Carolina, a soldier in the army of Gen. Jackson, in the War of 1812, who shortly after the close of the war located in Baldwin County. He was educated in the primary schools of Mobile, and at the Barton academy. On account of ill health he spent several years in Texas; upon his return in 1884 he entered the bee business and followed this trade for five years; in 1889 returned to Baldwin County; in 1890 engaged in the publication of a newspaper called the "Daphne Times," in 1894 this paper was sold, it now publishes under the name of the "Baldwin Times"; was a clerk of circuit court of Baldwin County; 1892-98; in 1892 engaged in real estate and land abstract business at Daphne where he continues at this time; in August, 1900, was elected as a representative from Baldwin County to the legislature of 1901. He is a Democrat; and a Methodist. Married: May 26, 1897, at Bromley, to Evie Dolive, the widow of Alfred Bates, deceased. Residence: Daphne.

HUBBARD, DAVID, representative in congress and first Confederate commissioner of Indian affairs, was born in Tennessee about 1792, and died in Louisiana in 1874; son of Major Hubbard of Virginia, an officer in the Revolutionary Army. The Hubbards are of Scotch descent. David Hubbard received his early education in the country schools, and had just entered an academy when he volunteered to serve under Gen. Jackson at New Orleans, where he held the rank of major, served as quartermaster, and received a wound in the hip. After the War he came to Alabama (see Saunders), located in Huntsville, worked as a carpenter and took up the study of law, later removing to Florence, where he was elected solicitor and held this office for four years. He removed his family to Moulton, Lawrence County, 1827, entered the mercantile business and engaged in politics, being elected a member of the State senate from this county in the same year, and again in 1828, and was chosen a member of the house of representatives for seven times. He moved to Courtland in 1829 and engaged in buying and selling Chickasaw Indian land, was elected to the U. S. congress, served as a member of the committee of ways and means, 1839-41; defeated by Gen. Houston, three times presidential elector of the Democratic party, 1845; and re-elected to the 31st congress, 1849-51. He was appointed by the governor as a delegate to the Southern commercial congress, April, 1859, at Savannah, Ga.; was a presidential elector on the Breckenridge and Lane ticket, 1860; a representative in the Confederate States congress, 1861-63; and was appointed Confederate States Indian commissioner, 1863-65, filling this important position with the greatest sagacity and tact. Throughout his life in this State he guarded her interests most faithfully and with ability. He served on the board of trustees of the University of Alabama, 1828-35; built one of the first railroads in the United States, this being from Tuscumbia to Florence, the cars being run on wooden rails; established cotton factories, tanneries, shoe factories and flour mills and had his slaves instructed in all these trades. He suffered heavy losses during the occupancy of Lawrence County by the Federal troops, and after peace was declared removed to Spring Hill, Tenn., established a tan yard near Ewell station and, with the help of his former slaves, succeeded in regaining a part of his lost fortune. He died in Louisiana while on a visit to his son, Duncan. Married: (1) to Miss Campbell, niece of George W. Campbell, of Nashville, Tenn., once minister to Russia, and sister of Argyle Campbell, a lawyer of Moulton, later of Columbia, Miss., and (2) to Miss Stoddard, of Tennessee. Children: 1. Mary, m. Dr. John Tucker, of Virginia; 2. Duncan, m. (1) Miss Chambers, of Virginia, and (2) Miss Edmonson, of Holly Springs, Miss.; 3. David, m. (1) Miss Wiley, of Holly Springs, Miss., (2) Miss Holt, of New Orleans; 4. Caledonia, m. Gaston Henderson, of Mississippi; 5. Emma, m. James Young, son of Col. G. H. Young, of Waverley, Miss; 6. George C., killed at battle of Bakers Creek, Miss., m. Margaret, daughter of Oswald King, of Lawrence County. Last residence: Spring Hill, Tenn.

HUBBARD, GRAPH JOHN, lawyer, was born January 1, 1871, at Troy; son of John P. and Ann Gaines (Coombs) Hubbard (q. v.). He attended the common schools of Troy; was graduated from Howard college, A. B., 1889; received certificates in special courses in history, language and literature from the University of Alabama, 1891; and was graduated from that university, LL. B., 1892. He began the practice of law at Troy, 1892; served as alderman of Troy, 1899-1901; as recorder of Troy, 1901-1906; register in chancery for Pike County, 1908-1914; clerk and treasurer of Troy, 1910-1915; and represented Pike County in the State legislature, 1914-1915. Mr. Hubbard served as second lieutenant, Co. H, First infantry, Alabama national guard, May, 1894-October, 1894; as captain of that company, October, 1894-July, 1899; lieutenant colonel, First infantry, Alabama national guard, July, 1899-February, 1909; colonel, First infantry, February, 1909-1915. He was captain of Co. H, Second Alabama infantry, U. S. volunteers during the Spanish-American War. He is a Democrat; Baptist; Mason; Odd Fellow; Knight of Pythias; Elk; Woodman of the World; and has been officially connected with the Spanish American War Veterans, and the Sons of Confederate Veterans. Married: (1) April 24, 1901, at Troy, to Camilla Hilliard, daughter of William J. and Laura (Bullard) Hilliard, of Troy, the former a soldier in the C. S. Army probate judge of Pike County for eighteen years, and a representative of that county for one term; (2) June 28, 1906, at Troy, to Sallie Williams, daughter of John D. and Mary (Mark) Williams, of Troy, the former who served as alderman of Troy and as county commissioner of Pike County. Children, by first marriage: 1. Laura Gaines; by second marriage: 2. John Tryon. Residence: Troy.

HUBBARD, JOHN PERTILLER, lawyer, was born August 7, 1836, near Bruceville, Pike County, and died September 16, 1904, at Troy; son of William Tryon and Amy (Youngblood) Hubbard, the former a native of Albion, Orleans County, N. Y., who moved from New York to Connecticut, then to South Carolina, and finally to Alabama, settling near Bruceville, and served Pike County in the State legislature, the latter who came from South Carolina. He received his early schooling in the country schools of Pike County; at Orion institute; at Tuskegee; and at Brownwood institute, La Grange, Ga.; and was graduated from Howard college, Marion, with second honors, 1859. He studied law in the office of David A. Clopton and R. H. Ligon; was admitted to the bar, 1860; and began to practice at Troy. In 1861, he enlisted as a private in Co. I, Twenty-second Alabama infantry regiment; and after the war, returned to Troy and resumed the practice of law. He was elected to the State legislature, 1868, and was a member of that body until 1873, being speaker of the house during the latter session. He was returned to the legislature in 1876; was elected judge of the second circuit in 1880; and was reelected in 1886. He was a Democrat, a Baptist, and a member of Phi Gamma Delta college fraternity. Married: December 23, 1869, at Troy, to Ann Gaines, a native of Savannah, Ga., daughter of John S. and Mary E. (Provos) Coombs, of Savannah, Ga., and Selma. Children: 1. Graph John (q. v.); 2. Amy, m. John Key Murphree; 3. Mittice Ann, m. J. Mack Pennington, deceased. Last residence: Troy.

HUBBARD, LEWIS W., grand commander, Masons, was born February 1, 1851, in Montgomery. He removed to Selma in January, 1880. He was elected grand commander of the grand commandery, in 1903. Married: in December, 1877, to S. Josephine Medley, of Selma. Residence: Selma.

HUBBARD, SAMUEL DANA, sr., banker and merchant, was born September 4, 1807, in Wiscasset, Me., and died January, 1883, in Montgomery; son of Samuel, jr., and Phoebe (Hatch) Hubbard, of Berlin, Conn., who removed to Marshfield, Mass. He was educated in the schools of his community; graduated from Bowdoin college, where he was a student under Longfellow, the poet. He received financial training, and, at an early age, removed to Mobile, 1830, where he associated himself with Perley Gerald in merchandising. Later they opened a trading-post with the Indians at Tallassee. In 1836 he removed to Montgomery, where he was associated with the Alabama bank. He continued in the banking business after the close of the State bank, until 1865. In 1868 he was made clerk of the circuit court; and later became clerk of the county board of revenue, which position he held until his death. In this office he rendered valuable services to the county during reconstruction times by preventing frauds which would have involved the county in overwhelming debt. At his own expense, assisted by Mr. George Noble, he opened and straightened South Court and South Perry streets. A double row of oaks and elms were planted by him along the latter street, many of which are still standing. He was a Whig and a Union man, but followed Alabama in 1861, in her fortunes after secession. His eldest son served the entire four years of the war as a Confederate soldier. He was a Presbyterian; and an Odd Fellow. Married: August 16, 1837, in Montgomery, to Frances Wells, daughter of Ebenezer and Frances (Wells) Russell, who removed from Connecticut to Springfield, Mass., representatives of the same family to which James Russell Sewell belongs. She came, about 1832, to Alabama to live with her brother, Henry Wells Russell, Indian agent at Tallassee in 1851. Children: 1. Mary, m. William T. Taylor, of Snowdown; 2. Samuel Dana, jr., m. Mary Charlotte Taylor, of Snowdown; 3. Ebenezer Russell, d. 1865; 4. Charles Russell, unmarried, d. 1873; 5. William Henry, (q. v.), m. (1) Josephine Poellnitz; (2) Augusta Brannon; 6. Louis, m. Sara Josephine Medley; 7. Frances Wells Russell, m. George Clinton Clisby; 8. Ellen Caroline, d. 1864. Last residence: Montgomery.

HUBBARD, THOMAS, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 79, and a resident of Morgan County; lieutenant, quartermaster and sergeant Virginia State Troops; enrolled on March 23, 1833, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $296.66; sums received to date of publication of list, $889.98.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in Vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34. He resided in Morgan County, June 1, 1840, aged 87.—Census of Pensioners, 1841, p. 148.

HUBBARD, WILLIAM DAVID, Baptist minister, was born at Jemison, Chilton County; son of Davis and Rebekah (Cobb) Hubbard, the former a native of Chilton County, near Randolph, a planter, who lived at Helena and in Jefferson County, and was a soldier in the C. S. Army for three years; grandson of John and Susan (Jones) Hubbard, of Georgia, and of Alexander and Rebekah (Underwood) Cobb, who lived in Alabama. Two of his great-grandfathers were soldiers in the Revolution. The Hubbard family emigrated originally from Wales, and settled in New England, then moved to Georgia, Alabama and Texas. He received his early education in the country schools and in Helena high school, and was graduated from Howard college, East Lake, A. B., 1892, and from the Southern Baptist seminary, at Louisville, Ky., 1895, with the degree of graduate in theology. The honorary degree of D. D. was conferred by Howard college 1906. He became a Baptist minister in 1887, and has served as pastor of the churches at Greenville, Eufaula, Raleigh, N. C., Troy, and Huntsville. Because of a breakdown in his health at the latter place in 1911, he withdrew from active work for two years, and after that time was stationed at Dadeville. He is a Democrat; a Mason; a Knight of Pythias; an Odd Fellow; a Knight of Honor; and a member of Sigma Nu college fraternity. Married: in 1895, at East Lake, to Allina Bestor, daughter of Henry Everette and Julia (Bestor) Coleman, of Virginia, the former a native of that state, of English descent; granddaughter of Dr. D. P. Bestor, minister and educator, who came south from New England long before the War of Secession, and was president of a college at Greensboro at one time. Children: 1. Julia Bestor; 2. Evelyn Shilman. Residence: Dadeville.

HUBBARD, WILLIAM HENRY, banker, was born September 14, 1845, in Montgomery; son of Samuel Dana, sr., and Frances Wells (Russell) Hubbard (q. v.). He was educated in the private schools of Montgomery, attended the Military college of Montgomery, and was trained in bookkeeping by his father. He engaged in school teaching for a while but later in bookkeeping and was connected with the Capitol city insurance co., now dissolved. He is vice-president of the Fourth national bank, Montgomery. He is a Democrat; and a Presbyterian. Married: (1) in 1873, in Marengo County, to Josephine Poellnitz, (2) in 1886, to Augusta Brannon, of Eufaula. Children: by the first wife: 1. Josephine, died in infancy; by the second wife: 2. Thomas Brannon, M. D., m. Mrs. Nicholas Marks; 3. Louis, civil engineer, in France in European War; 4. Margaret, m. Robert Denham, civil engineer, U. S. rivers and harbors service. Residence: Montgomery.

HUDDLESTON, GEORGE, lawyer, was born November 11, 1869, in Wilson County, Tenn.; son of Joseph Franklin and Nancy (Sherrill) Huddleston, of Wilson County, Tenn.; grandson of George Augustus and Harriet (Cumming) Huddleston, of Huddleston's Cross Roads, Wilson County, Tenn., the former a native of Buckingham County, Va., and of Samuel Wilson and Eliza (Bomar) Sherrill, of Wilson County, Tenn.; great-grandson of George and Lucy (Winston) Huddleston, the latter a relative of Gov. Winston, of Alabama, and of William J. and Elizabeth (Terry) Bomar, the former a Virginian, and a descendant of Edward Bomar of S. Farnham, Essex County, Va.; great-great-grandson of Capt. Samuel Wilson, in command of the east Tennessee riflemen at Kings Mountain, and of Thomas Terry, a Revolutionary soldier in Virginia. The Bomars and Huddlestons were both English families, the latter, settling in Virginia in 1670. Mr. Huddleston was educated in the country schools, and at Cumberland university, where he was graduated, LL. B., 1891. He began to practice law in Birmingham in 1891, and retired in 1913. He served as alderman of Birmingham, 1910; was a private in Co. K, First Alabama regiment, Spanish-American War, 1898; is a Democrat; an Odd Fellow, serving as grand representative sovereign grand lodge, 1909-1910, and grand warden, grand lodge, 1912. He is author of fugitive poems, one of which was published in the "Lawyers' Alcove," Doubleday Page & Company, 1900. Residence: Birmingham.

HUDDLESTON, ROBERT LEE, physician; was born February 26, 1864, near Rocky Mount, Merriwether County, Ga.; son of Dr. Joseph Allen and Martha (Head) Huddleston, the former of Oglethorpe County, Ga., who was a surgeon in the C. S. Army, the latter of Eatonton, Putnam County, Ga.; grandson of Allen and Selina (Hudspeth) Huddleston of Oglethorpe, Ga., and of Dr. James Daniel and Martha Head, of Eatonton, Putnam County, Ga. The Huddleston family is of Scotch descent. Dr. Huddleston was educated in the common schools, at Bowdon college, in the medical department of the University of Alabama, and was graduated with the degree of M. D. from the medical department of University of Georgia. He began the practice of medicine at Weoka, Elmore County; was surgeon for the Louisville and Nashville railroad company; was elected justice of the peace in Autauga County, 1892, and in 1896; was appointed physician for State convicts, 1897, by Gov. Johnston; reappointed to same position by Gov. Comer and Gov. O'Neal; and represented Elmore County in the legislature, 1911. He is a Democrat; a Methodist; a Mason; an Odd Fellow, and a Knight of Pythias. Married: May 6, 1891, at Columbus, Ga., to Mattie, daughter of John W. and Susan Howard, of Weoka, the former who was a Confederate soldier, and lost a leg in the service. Children: 1. Edna; 2. Winston; 3. Roberta. Residence: Speigner.

HUDGINS, LAFAYETTE CALHOUN, public official, was born February 13, 1855, near Moore's Bridge, Tuscaloosa County; son of Lemuel Tillman and Lucretia Isabelle (Latham) Hudgins, who lived near Carrollton, Pickens County, and near Moore's Bridge, Tuscaloosa County, the former a native of Pickens County, born July 20, 1825, near Carrollton, who was captain and major in the Forty-first Alabama regiment, C. S. A., and was killed at the siege of Petersburg; grandson of Austin and Nancy (Mangum) Hudgins, who lived near Carrollton, the former a native of South Carolina, and of Anthony and Isabelle Latham, who also lived near Carrollton. He was educated in the country schools of Pickens County and at Carrollton academy, and was occupied until 1888 in farming and teaching school. He was elected sheriff of Pickens County in 1888 and served four years; was elected probate judge in 1898; and was re-elected to that position in 1904 and 1910. He is a Democrat; a member of the Missionary Baptist church; a Mason and an Odd Fellow. Residence: Carrollton.

HUDGINS, TARLTON L., business man, was born February 22, 1814, in Pickens County, S. C.; son of James and Margaret (Williams) Hudgins, natives of South Carolina, who moved from that state to Habersham County, Ga., where they engaged in farming. He remained on the home farm until he was sixteen years old, then learned the carpenter's trade, which he followed for twelve years. In 1835, he located in Walker County, Ga., where he became a carpenter and builder. He moved to Alabama in 1842, and engaged in manufacturing machinery for crushing gold ore in Tallapoosa County. He was a manufacturer of cotton gins near Columbus, Ga., 1844-1846; engaged in the mercantile business in Talladega County, 1846-1855, and at Wetumpka, 1855-1858. During the War of Secession, he was commissioned and served as district collector of the income tax from 1862 until the end of the war, then resumed merchandising, residing at Vicksburg, until 1871. He was a merchant in Tuscaloosa, 1872-1877; located in Birmingham, 1877; engaged in merchandising for three years; established a private banking house with W. S. Mudd and Josiah Morris, under the name of T. L. Hudgins and company, April, 1880, and was elected its president; when that bank was chartered as the City bank, was again elected president; was a stockholder and director of the First national bank which he helped organize; was one of the organizers of the Birmingham insurance company, and was its president until May, 1866, when on account of ill health he was forced to resign; was a stockholder in the Birmingham iron works; and in the New Castle iron and coal company. He was a Baptist. Married: (1) in 1834, to Ann D. Meroney, of Greenville, S. C., who died March, 1879; (2) December 6, 1882, to Lucy, daughter of William Pope, of Talladega County. Children: 1. Tarlton L., jr.; 2. Marie S. Last residence: Birmingham.

DR. FRANCIS G. DU BOSE

HUDMON, WILLIAM E., merchant, was born December 30, 1843, in Chambers County; son of Daniel N. and Sarah (Collins) Hudmon, the former a native of Georgia, a merchant and planter and the latter a native of Tennessee. He was educated at Beulah academy. He entered the mercantile business in partnership with his brother, J. F. Hudmon, at Beulah, purchased his brother's interest, January 1, 1873, continuing until March, 1877, when he moved to Opelika, and, in the fall of 1878, formed a partnership with G. W. Hopson. In January, 1880, this firm succeeded the Messrs. Edwards and became known as Hudmon brothers and company. He enlisted in April, 1862, as a private in Co. C, 1st battalion, Hiliard's Alabama legion afterwards the 16th Alabama regiment, C. S. Army, remaining in active service until the close of the war. He was wounded at Chickamauga, taken prisoner March 31, 1865, near Petersburg, Va., and imprisoned at Point Lookout, Md. He has served as mayor of Opelika. He is a Baptist; Knight of Golden Rule; and a Mason. Married: (1) December 17, 1865, to Mary E. Dickens, of Beulah; (2) in February, 1888, to Mrs. A. E. (Sutton) Milford. Children: by first wife, 1. Dona Belle, m. Benjamin A. Cooper, of Opelika. Residence: Opelika.

HUDNUT, JOSEPH, teacher, was born March 27, 1884, at Big Rapids, Mich.; son of Edward Webster and Thyrsa (Fairman) Hudnut, the former a native of Louisville, Ky., who lived at Detroit and Big Rapids, Mich., and was a manufacturer, capitalist and banker; grandson of Joseph and Marcia (Webster) Hudnut, who lived at Chicago, the former a brevet major general in the War of Secession, and a descendant of an English family who settled in New York about 1820, and went west about 1850, and of Ferdinand and Julia (Waters) Fairman, who lived at Big Rapids, Mich. He attended Michigan military academy, Orchard Lake, Mich.; was graduated at the University of Michigan, B. Arch.; attended Harvard university for two years; and the University of Pennsylvania for one term. He served as instructor in the Detroit technical schools, 1908, and as professor in the Alabama polytechnic institute, 1912. He is a Democrat and a Unitarian. Married: December 28, 1912, at Philadelphia, to Claire, daughter of Charles P. and Elizabeth (King) Ring, of Philadelphia. Residence: Auburn.

HUDSON, BENJAMIN, planter, was born in middle Tennessee, and died in 1848 in Kentucky. He came to Franklin County in 1820 or 1821, and settled on a plantation. He represented Franklin County in the State legislature in 1828, and subsequently served five years in the lower house and twelve years in the State senate before 1847. He developed cancer about that time and died the next year in Kentucky, while seeking medical advice. During his years in the senate, he was a member of the principal committees and was for the greater part of the time the chairman of the committee on accounts. It was said of him that he had made more motions, explanations and suggestions during his service in the senate than any other member. His long service in that body had made him perfectly familiar with the rules of the senate and with parliamentary law in general, so that whenever a difficulty occurred in points of order, Mr. Hudson was apt to be called on by the president to say what was the practice. He was a Democrat. Last residence: Franklin County.

HUDSON, CLAY IRBY, Baptist minister, was born January 21, 1884, at Tuskegee, Macon County; son of Felix Thurman and Mary Frances (Parker) Hudson, the former who was born near Rock Mills, Randolph County, who served throughout the War of Secession, was a Baptist minister for twenty-five years, and served as postmaster at Auburn for a number of years; grandson of Cicero Demosthenes and Matilda (Beadles) Hudson, who lived at Coweta County, Ga., and of Ephraim and Mary Sanders (Stamps) Parker, who lived in Randolph County. His great-grandparents came from England. Rev. Hudson received his early education in the schools at Auburn; attended Alabama polytechnic institute at Auburn, Howard College at Birmingham, and pursued a theological course at Union university, Jackson, Tenn. He entered upon the ministry of the Baptist church in August, 1904; became pastor of Pleasant Hill Baptist church in 1908; served the North Edgefield Baptist church at Nashville, Tenn., 1908-1910; the Rust Memorial church at Nashville, 1910-1911; and took charge of the pastorate at Decatur in 1911. He is a Knight of Pythias, and a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon college fraternity.; Married: December 28, 1909, at Nashville, Tenn., to Colice Cecile, daughter of James Faucher and Hattie Belle (Stuart) Corbitt, who lived at Nashville, Tenn. Residence: Decatur.

HUDSON, JOHN B., member of the constitutional convention of 1875, from Covington County.

HUDSON, PERCY SPENCER, Methodist minister, was born April 18, 1879, at Tuskegee, Macon County; son of Daniel Mason and Margaret (Boutwell) Hudson, the former a native of Berea, O., who lived at Tuskegee, was a minister in the Methodist Episcopal church, South, served missions, circuits, stations and districts, and was considered an authority on theological subjects; grandson of Dr. and Prusia (Tuthil) Hudson, who lived at Berea, O., the former a physician and Baptist minister, and of Dixon H. Boutwell, who came from Milledgeville, Ga., to Clarke County, married a Miss Hancock of Virginia, and settled at Choctaw Corner; a descendant of Henry Hudson, discoverer of the Hudson River; and a relative of a Boutwell who was in Lincoln's cabinet. Two of his mother's brothers were killed in the War of Secession, and some of them served in the Mexican War. Several ancestors served in the war of the Revolution. Rev. Hudson received his first instruction at home; attended public and private schools, including Rev. John Motley's private school; and took his last course at the Alabama military institute, under Prof. W. D. Fonville, president. For some time he taught school, and later studied law, but entered the ministry before beginning the practice. He entered the Alabama conference in December, 1903, and was appointed to serve the Headland charge. Several years later, he spent some time in Montana in mission work, then returned to the Alabama conference. He was the first Methodist to preach in Samson, and organized the Methodist church at that place. He was appointed county registrar by Gov. Johnson in 1900, but the office was abolished under the constitution of 1901. For a year, Rev. Hudson contributed a weekly signed editorial to the Montgomery "Times" on religious, moral and reform subjects, and later was a weekly contributor to the Camden "News." He is a Democrat; a Mason; a Knight of Pythias; and an Odd Fellow. Married: August 25, 1904, at Headland, to Coral Kathleen, a native of Fort Gaines, Ga., daughter of John Knight and Georgia Annie (Balkcom) West, who lived at Headland; granddaughter of Dr. West of Fort Gaines, Ga., and of Whit Balkcom, of Balkcom, who was a large land owner. Children: 1. Percy Donnelly; 2. Mary Louise; 3. Philip Sibert. Residence: Camden.

HUDSON, THOMAS, retired public official, was born August 28, 1841, at Uniontown, Perry County; son of Richard H. and Sarah (Chambers) Hudson, who lived at Uniontown, the former a native of Virginia, who came from that state to Alabama when he was seventeen years of age, and became a successful merchant of Uniontown, where he died in 1863, the latter a native of Clarke County, and a granddaughter of Gen. Joseph Chambers, of the War of 1812. He was prepared for college at Uniontown, entered the University of Alabama in 1857, leaving that institution in 1859 to enter the University of Virginia, where he was a student when Alabama seceded from the Union. He immediately left school and became a member of an old military company which had at that time tendered its services to the governor of the state, and left for the field in April, 1861. At Dalton that command was reorganized and became the Fourth Alabama regiment, taking part in the first battle of Manassas. Mr. Hudson was captured at that time, and confined to the Old Capitol prison until the following November, when he was paroled. Early in 1863, he joined Capt. Storr's cadet company from Tuscaloosa, and became a part of the Seventh Alabama cavalry, with which command he remained until the end of the war. After peace was established, he returned to Uniontown and followed farming until 1874. He held the office of assistant tax collector, and was elected tax collector for three years. He went to Marion in the fall of 1880 to take charge of the probate judge's office for Judge Stewart, who was incapacitated by illness. He purchased the "Southern Standard," of which he became editor and proprietor, changing its name to the Marion "Standard." He has twice been vice-president of the Alabama press association, has served as Grand Keeper of Records and Seals of the Order of Knights of Pythias; is a member of the Knights of Honor; and of the Order of Iron Hall. Married: in 1863, at Uniontown, to Kittie, who died in August, 1873, daughter of P. H. Pitts, and a niece of Hon. A. C. Davidson, formerly a representative in congress. Children: one daughter and three sons; one son, Philip Pitts, b. December 11, 1872, is a merchant at Uniontown, m. February 24, 1900, at Uniontown, to Marie Hungerford. Residence: Marion.

HUDSON, WILLIAM MOSES, merchant and representative in the legislature, was born March 12, 1857, near Pigeon Creek, Butler County; son of Joseph and Emily (Fannin) Hudson, the former a farmer of Butler and Montgomery Counties; grandson of Pinkney Alfred Hudson, a native of North Carolina, and of A. W. Fannin, of South Carolina. He was educated in the country schools of Montgomery County, and for twelve years was a clerk for John Wilson, merchant, of Pike Road; during 1889 he was in business in Pike Road on his own account; and since that year has been a merchant in Montgomery. He is now in the wholesale business under the firm name of Hudson and Thompson. Mr. Hudson was for two terms a member of the board of aldermen from ward two; filled out the unexpired term of J. H. Hartley as alderman at large; served on the board of revenue of Montgomery County, during the administration of Gov. W. D. Jelks; and was a member of the house of representatives from Montgomery County, 1915. He is a Democrat; Baptist; Mason; Shriner; Knight of Pythias; and a member of the National union. Married: January 14, 1891, at Pine Level, to Zula, daughter of Nathan D. and Margaret (Blackburn) Wright, of that place, the former a Confederate soldier and farmer. Children: 1. Joe, m. Martha Ray Stewart; 2. Elizabeth, m. Joe Carlisle Mathews; 3. Florence. Residence: Montgomery.

HUDSON, WILLIAM W., professor of mathematics and natural philosophy at the University of Alabama, Tuscaloosa, 1833-37. He held an A. M. degree.

HUEY, BENJAMIN MACLIN, lawyer, was born June 15, 1840, at Talladega, and died May 26, 1906, at Marion; son of James Grandison Leroy and Virginia B. (Maclin) Huey (q. v.). He attended Emory college, Oxford, Ga., until his junior year, and was graduated from Southern university at Greensboro, A. B., 1860. He studied law in the office of A. J. Walker, of Talladega until June, 1861, when he enlisted in the C. S. Army, joining Co. E, Tenth Alabama infantry, as a sergeant. He was with that command about eighteen months, and at Williamsburg, Va., was promoted to second lieutenant for gallantry in action, and assigned to Talladega as drill master. He remained in that position until July, 1864, when he raised a company of infantry of which he was elected captain, and was assigned to a battalion in Mobile. At that place, while he was absent, his company was captured by Gen. Farragut, and was never exchanged, and subsequently Col. Huey was again assigned to post duty at Talladega, where he remained until the close of the war. While in the service he had participated in the battles of Dranesville, Williamsburg, Seven Pines, Gaines Mill, Frazier's Farm, Malvern Hill, second Manassas, Harper's Ferry, Sharpsburg and a number of skirmishes. After peace was established, he located in Marion, and resumed the study of law with ex-Gov. A. B. Moore and Hon. William M. Brooks. He was admitted to the bar in 1866, and from that time until the end of his life, with the exception of the years 1869, 1870, and 1871, which he passed on his plantation in Perry County, was actively engaged in the practice of law at Marion. He was elected to the State legislature from Perry County, 1878-1879, and declined the nomination for the following term. He was elected mayor of Marion in 1881, and was sent to the State senate in 1886, declining re-election in both instances. During his service in the senate he introduced a bill to establish a state female industrial school and university, the first move in that line ever attempted in Alabama. The school at Montevallo is the outgrowth of that bill. In 1887, he was appointed by Gov. Thomas Seay as colonel of cavalry on his staff during his four years term of governor. He was one of the trustees of Marion female seminary, and at the time of his death was adjutant general of Second Alabama United Confederate Veterans, on the staff of Gen. E. P. Bowles. He was a Democrat; a Methodist; a Royal Arch Mason; a Knight Tem-plar; past chancellor in the Knights of Pythias; and a Knight of Honor. Married: June 9, 1863, near Marion, to Sarah Elizabeth, daughter of Edwin Woody and Rhoda (Langdon) King, who lived on a plantation near Marion, the latter of whom moved from Southington, Hartford County, Conn., when she was ten years old; granddaughter of Gen. E. D. King, a wealthy land and slave owner, and a kinsman of William R. King, vice president of the United States. Children: 1. Edwin King, b. July 2, 1864, was cashier of the Excelsior coal company at Gurnee, and later assistant secretary and treasurer of the New Orleans acid and fertilizer company, m. May 19, 1892, at Meridian, Miss., to Lizzie Hardy, New Orleans; 2. Eugene Leroy, (q. v.); 3. Benjamin Maclin, jr.; 4. Estelle Virginia, m. William Burt MacBride; 5. Sarah, m. James Harvey Patterson, Mobile; 6. Neva Langdon, m. Charles Austin Miner; 7. Thomas Ford; 8. Clara Augusta, m. William G. Stevens. Last residence: Marion.

HUEY, EUGENE LEROY, business man, was born November 6, 1865, at Marion, Perry County; son of Benjamin Maclin and Sarah Elizabeth (King) Huey (q. v.). He was educated in a private school; at Howard university; and at the University of Alabama at Tuscaloosa, 1882-1883. He went from Marion to a position with the Sloss furnace company, near the present site of Bessemer, and remained with that company for some years. He was in business for himself in Marion for five years, and was assistant postmaster of Bessemer during Cleveland's last administration. He was cashier for a firm of contractors in Guatemala, C. A., October, 1896—August, 1897; was employed by the Bessemer fire brick company first as cashier and later as superintendent; was cashier of the Bessemer national bank, which position he resigned in order to enter the furniture business; and is president and treasurer of the E. L. Huey furniture company. He served three terms as alderman of the city of Bessemer. Mr. Huey was second lieutenant of Co. M, Alabama state troops, 1892-1893; is commander of the Third brigade of Alabama Sons of Confederate Veterans, and was assistant quarter master general under Dr. Clarence Owen's administration as commander in chief of the Sons of Veterans. He is a Democrat; a Methodist; past chancellor of the Knights of Pythias; and a Woodman of the World. Married: October 10, 1899, at Bessemer, to Mattie M., daughter of Chambers and Maria (Jordan) McAdory, who lived at Jonesboro. Children: 1. Marie Elizabeth, b. November 5, 1900, d. July 19, 1902; 2. Amy McAdory, b. April 5, 1904, d. July 1, 1905; 3. Eugene LeRoy, jr., b. July 19, 1906, d. November 21, 1907; 4. Sarah King, b. October 24, 1909. Residence: Bessemer.

HUEY, JAMES GRANDISON LEROY, business man, was born June 28, 1813, in the Waxhaws settlement, Lancaster District, S. C.; son of Alexander Boyd and Elizabeth Ross (McCain) Huey, who were married March 21, 1811, and soon after settled in Waxhaws settlement, the former a native of that place, born December 22, 1787, who served in the War of 1812 with the rank of first lieutenant; grandson of James and Jane (Walker) Huey, who lived on Cane Creek, Lancaster District, S. C., the former a native of County Antrim, Ireland, born May 8, 1759, of Scotch parents, who came to the colony of South Carolina just before the Revolution, was followed soon after by his mother and family, and at the beginning of the war for independence attached himself to the army under Gen. Thomas Sumter, and served throughout the war, at times under Gen. Marion and finally under Gen. Greene, where he was detailed to repair and make wagons, the latter who carried provisions a distance of more than forty miles to her brother and Andrew Jackson who had been captured by the British at Waxhaws meeting house and were held in jail at Camden, and who was instrumental in securing the release of those two, together with four other patriots, in exchange for thirteen British foragers who had been captured by the cavalry company of her brother, Andrew Walker, and grandson of William and Eleanor (Johnson) McCain, the former a soldier in the Revolution who died about 1822 or 1823, the latter a sister to the father of Richard M. Johnson who became vice president of the United States under the presidency of Martin Van Buren; great-grandson of Hercules Huey, of Ireland, and of John Walker, who had emigrated from the north of Ireland not far from Belfast, and settled in Waxhaws. The Hueys were originally French Huguenots who left France in the latter part of the sixteenth century to avoid religious persecution. The name was originally spelled Huet.

Gen. Huey received the greater part of his schooling under the tuition of Jennings B. Kerr. After leaving school, he accompanied Rev. William Blackstone on a ten months' tour of missionary labors in South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Alabama and Tennessee; returned to his home, and for a year worked on the farm and resumed school under Mr. Kerr; taught school and farmed for the next year; and in December, 1832, moved to Harris County, Ga., with his parents, and settled on a farm there, near his uncle, Robert D. Huey. After the death of his parents, he assisted his uncle in the building of several mills; was employed for more than a year by Richard Hingson in the building of mills; and at the end of that time established himself in that business. In 1835, he moved to Alabama and became clerk in a store owned by Maj. Elisha C. Walker, in Talladega County, remaining in that position for a year and a half; then, in partnership with his uncle, Thomas W. Huey, of Lancaster District, S. C., opened a store in Talladega. He was elected to the State senate in 1845 from Talladega County, and served through the session. At the opening of hostilities in April, 1861, he was elected major general of the Eighth division of Alabama militia. During the war, he joined a company of old men, and was, after the battle of Chickamauga, marched to a point near Chattanooga to assist in taking care of prisoners and captured arms. After the war, he lived in Talladega until October, 1867, when he moved to Bibb County, and spent the remainder of his life on a plantation there. He was a Methodist.

Married: (1) in 1838, to Virginia B., who died March 17, 1859, in Talladega, daughter of Benjamin and Elizabeth Briggs (Mason) Maclin, who lived on a plantation near Petersburg, Va., the latter a cousin of Hon. James M. Mason of Virginia, who was captured at sea while on his way to England as ambassador for the Confederate States of America during the War of Secession, and of Hon. John Y. Mason, of Virginia, secretary of the navy in President Harrison's cabinet, 1843-1844; (2) January 9, 1866, to Mrs. Margaret C. Holman, daughter of Edwin Woody and Rhoda (Langdon) King. Children, by first marriage: 1. Benjamin Maclin (q. v.); 2. Alexander Pearson, d. August 12, 1842; 3. James Leroy, d. September 9, 1855; 4. Elizabeth Mason, m. March, 1861, to Capt. Walter Cook, of the Tenth Alabama volunteers, who joined his command a few days after his marriage and was killed the following May at the battle of Chancellorsville; 5. George Robert, d. November 4, 1853; 6. Thomas Walker, d. June 8, 1875; 7. Lelia Olivia, d. October 27, 1857. Last residence: Bibb County.

HUEY, JOHN M., business man, was born May 16, 1838, in DeKalb County, Ga. His parents emigrated from Georgia to Mudd Creek, Jefferson County, in April, 1844, and engaged in farming. He attended school at that place and assisted in the work of the farm, until 1855, when the family moved six miles south of Jonesboro. From there he was sent to school at Montevallo, Shelby County, under Prof. McKinnon. During the winter of 1858, he served as assistant engineer under Capt. Fox, chief engineer of Montevallo, who had the contract to build the branch road from Montevallo to the Alabama mines. He remained in that capacity for a year, then attended school at Ruhama under Prof. Jacob H. Baker. He returned to Montevallo, October, 1860; acted as station agent of the Alabama and Tennessee railroad six months; accepted a position in the grocery store of James Adams, at Selma; enlisted in the C. S. Army in the fall of 1861, joining the Eighteenth Alabama regiment, Co. G, under Capt. James Haughey; was appointed agent for the C. S. Navy with the rank of captain, 1862, serving in that position until the close of the war; became outside superintendent of mines and store manager with Monk, Edwards and company in July, 1865; went to Selma as shipping agent for the same company the following year; and remained in that position until the company was ruined in a commercial crash. He located at Pratt Mines, Jefferson County, late in 1867, where subsequently he became a dealer in real estate and mineral lands. He was nominated for the lower house of the State legislature in 1886. Married: October 12, 1867, to Annie E. McWilliams, of Jefferson County. Residence: Pratt Mines.

HUEY, THOMAS EDWARD, engineer; was born April 21, 1883, at Birmingham; son of John Marvin and Annie Elizabeth (McWilliams) Huey (q. v.), the former who was born in De Kalb County, Ga., in 1838, moving to Jefferson County, in 1843, where he lived until his death in 1915, was a member of Co. G, eighteenth Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army, was later a captain in the C. S. Navy, stationed at Selma, and was in charge of the shipment of barges of coal from Alabama coal fields to Admiral Farrand's fleet at Mobile, and was later a Baptist minister; grandson of James and Dove (Hubbard) Huey of Chester District, S. C., and of Col. James Wilson and Nancy (Duff) McWilliams, of McWilliams Springs, near Ensley. The Hueys were of French Huguenot descent, leaving France in the 16th century, living for a time in Ireland, from there coming to South Carolina. Several of the Hueys served in the Revolutionary War. The grandfather, James Huey, was related to Richard M. Johnson, vice-president of the U. S. with Martin Van Buren. Mr. Huey was educated in the private and public schools at East Lake; graduated from Howard college in June, 1904, with the B. S. degree. He took a limited course in civil engineering; practiced civil engineering and surveying for a period of eight years after graduation; he was resident engineer for the Seaboard air line railroad for two years; is at present engaged in the fire insurance business. He was city engineer for the city of East Lake, 1907-8; assistant city engineer of Birmingham, 1909-10; was elected to the legislature from Jefferson County, 1918. He was captin of Co. L, fourth infantry regiment, Alabama National Guard for six months in the year 1910. He is a Democrat; a Baptist; a Mason; a Knight of Pythias and member of the Psi Delta college fraternity. Married: June 20, 1906, at East Lake, to Julia, daughter of Dr. Capers Copeheart and Frances (Moore) Jones, the former who was a physician for Howard college for twenty-five years. Children: 1. Thomas Edward, jr. Residence: East Lake.

HUEY, THOMAS THURSTON, lawyer, was born June 6, 1869, in Jefferson County; son of Jesse Vann and Mary C. (Rutledge) Huey, the former a farmer and a soldier in the C. S. Army, who was a member of the State legislature from Jefferson County, 1900-1902; grandson of Samuel T. Huey, who came from South Carolina to Jefferson County, and was a captain of militia. His father was of Irish descent, and his mother's ancestors were English. He received his early education in the schools of Jefferson County, under Prof. I. A. Brown and Prof. M. M. Wood, and was graduated from Howard college, M. A., 1891. He was engaged in business in Bessemer, 1892-1896; was elected city clerk and treasurer of Bessemer, September, 1895; served in that capacity four years, then was elected mayor of the city. He was captain of a cadet company at Howard college, and was captain of Co. H, Third Alabama national guard, which volunteered for the Spanish-American War and became Co. H, First Alabama volunteer infantry. When that company was mustered out, he became major of the Third Alabama national guard regiment. He is a Democrat; a Baptist; a Royal Arch Mason; an Elk; a Knight of Pythias; and an Odd Fellow. Married: (1) July, 1896, to Lulu May Huey, who died in January, 1898; (2)

November, 1899, to Lyda, daughter of Capt. J. J. Mayfield, of Tuscaloosa, an officer in the C. S. Army, and sister of Judge J. J. Mayfield, of Tuscaloosa. Residence: Bessemer.

HUFF, JAMES, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 74, and a resident of Perry County; private Virginia Continental Line and Militia; enrolled on October 29, 1833, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $20.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34.

HUFFMAN, THOMAS YANCEY, business man, was born April 4, 1851, near Pleasant Hill, Jefferson County, and died December 31, 1911, at Bessemer; son of Daniel Jackson and Frances (Yancey) Huffman, who lived near Jonesboro, the former a native of South Carolina, the latter a cousin of William L. Yancey, statesman; grandson of Daniel Jackson and Jane (Curry) Huffman, who lived in South Carolina and moved to Alabama soon after its admission as a state, and of Siras Yancey, who married a Miss Smith, and lived in Polk County, Tenn. He received his early schooling at Bucksville and Pleasant Hill, I. W. McAdory teaching at both places, and attending school with Mr. Hogg, afterwards governor of Texas. He was a student at Lebanon college, Tennessee, for one year, then farmed until the development of Jefferson County was begun, after which time he was associated with H. F. DeBardeleben. Mr. Huffman served as alderman the first year Bessemer was incorporated, 1887-1888; served in the State legislature from Jefferson County, 1891-1892, 1892-1893; and was a member of the board of education, 1908-1909. He was a Democrat; a Methodist; and a Mason. Married: October 30, 1876, at the present site of Bessemer, to Ida McAdory, daughter of Alfred Scott and Mary Virginia (McAdory) Spencer, who lived at Jonesboro, the former of whom enlisted in the first company formed in Alabama for the C. S. Army, and served throughout the War of Secession; granddaughter of Col. James McAdory who fought in the Indian War. Children: 1. Gray Jackson, m. Marietta Hurt, Bessemer; 2. Clive Spencer, m. Mattie Holt, Birmingham; 3. Roy Thomas, m. Amie Ward, Birmingham; 4. Gladys, m. Cecil Nimmons Cowan, Bessemer; 5. Caryl, m. Robert Eugene Rarden, Bessemer; 6. Doris, Bessemer. Last residence: Bessemer.

HUFFSTULLAR, GEORGE, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 71, and a resident of Blount County; private N. C. Continental Line; enrolled on November 22, 1833, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $77.50; sums received to date of publication of list, $232.50.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in part 3, vol. xiii, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34. Spelled also Hofstalar, resident of Blount County, June 1, 1840, aged 76.—Census of Pensioners, 1840, p. 148.

HUGER, CHARLES LOWNDES, cotton factor, was born April 27, 1844, at Spring Hill, a suburb of Mobile; brother of Daniel Elliott Huger (q. v.). He was educated at the University of Louisiana, at New Orleans, and in one of the French schools of that city. He enlisted in the C. S. Army, in 1861, as a member of the Crescent rifles; was made adjutant of the First Louisiana infantry; was appointed ordnance officer with the rank of major on the staff of B. M. Thomas, in 1865; was taken prisoner at Blakely, opposite Mobile, in April, 1865; and confined at Fort Gaines on Dauphin Island for about two months. After peace was established, he located at Mobile and engaged in the business of compressing cotton. He has served as president of the Mobile cotton exchange, and president of the Mobile Cotton compress association. He is a member of the Manassas and Athelstan clubs. Married: in 1868, to Ruth Dargan, daughter of Judge E. S. Dargan (q. v.). He has had four children; one son, Edmund Dargan, b. July 22, 1871, is a cotton factor at Mobile. Residence: Mobile.

HUGER, DANIEL ELLIOTT, cotton merchant, was born November 30, 1836, in Camden, S. C.; son of John Middleton and Elizabeth Allen (Deas) Huger, the former a native of South Carolina, who moved with his family to St. Mary's Parish, La., about 1840, and engaged in sugar planting there until the beginning of the War of Secession when he moved to New Orleans, and in 1884, finally located in New York city; grandson of Judge Daniel Elliott Huger, who was born in Charleston, S. C., and of James Sutherland Deas, of South Carolina; great-grandson of Gen. Isaac Huger, an officer of the Revolutionary War, of Huguenot ancestry. Mr. Huger is a brother of Charles Lowndes Huger (q. v.). He was reared in St. Mary's Parish, La., and obtained his education in the schools at Drennon Springs, Ky. He moved to Alabama about 1856, engaged in commercial business at Mobile, and remained there until the outbreak of the War of Secession. He enlisted in the C. S. Army, becoming first sergeant of Co. A, Third Alabama infantry regiment, in 1861, and served throughout the war in the western army, being promoted time after time until he reached the rank of colonel of the Sixty-third regiment. After peace was established, he returned to Mobile, and resumed the cotton business. He was one of the organizers of the Mobile County Exchange, and has served as its president several times. He is a member of all the clubs of Mobile, and was captain of the Cowbellion DeRakin society, the forerunner of a number of the present secret societies. Married: in 1861, to Hattie Brevard Withers, daughter of Maj.-Gen. Jones M. Withers, of the C. S. Army. Children: two daughters. Residence: Mobile.

HUGER, RICHARD P., physician, graduate of the medical department of the University of South Carolina, 1871, and licensed by the board of Calhoun County, 1881; annual orator Medical association of Alabama, 1887.

HUGGINS, JACOB, physician, was born July 13, 1836, at Newbern, Hale County; son of Jacob and Ann Isler (Bryan) Huggins, the former a native of Onslow County, N. C., who lived at Trenton, Jones County, N. C., and was married there, came with his family to Alabama in 1835, settled in Perry County, near Newbern, and moved to Newbern in 1846; grandson of Jacob and Martha (Koontz) Huggins, who lived in Onslow County, N. C., the former a soldier in the Revolution, and of Joseph and Susan (Hargett) Bryan, who lived at Trenton, Jones County, N. C., the former of whom also fought in the Revolutionary War. The ancestors of the Huggins family came from Holland in the middle of the eighteenth century and settled in North Carolina. The Bryans went from Ireland to England, and emigrated to America during the eighteenth century, settling in the colony of North Carolina. Dr. Huggins received his early education in the country schools, and at Mt. Moriah academy, Sumter County. He commenced the study of medicine in 1857, at Newbern, under Dr. John F. Reynolds of that place, and later with Dr. T. G. Thomas and Dr. W. R. Donagle, in New York. He attended two regular courses of medical lectures at Jefferson medical college, and at the medical department of the University of Pennsylvania, in Philadelphia; took a course of lectures at the University of New York summer school, and a private course in anatomy under Dr. D. Hayes Agnew in New York; and was graduated from the University of Pennsylvania, M. D., 1860. He practiced medicine for a year at Newbern, and in 1862 entered the C. S. Army as a private soldier. He was soon assigned to the medical department and promoted to surgeon of the Thirty-sixth Alabama regiment. He was stationed at Fort Morgan, 1862-1863, and was with Forrest's cavalry, 1864-1865. After the war, he returned to his practice in Newbern. He served as health officer of Hale County for about three years; is a member of the Hale County medical society; and a life counsellor of the Medical association of Alabama. In addition to his medical practice, Dr. Huggins is interested in farming and owns a plantation near Newbern. He is a member of the board of control of the Canebrake agricultural experiment station at Uniontown; is a reporter for the agricultural and weather bureau at Washington; and is a trustee of Marion female seminary. He has served as chairman of the county Democratic convention several times; is a steward in the Methodist church; a Master Mason; and a Knight of Pythias. He is author of "A Case of Precocious Development in a Negro Child," "Club-Foot and Other Deformities in the Negro Race," both published in the Virginia Medical Monthly, Richmond, Va., about 1873; and "Two Cases of Traumatic Tetanus successfully treated with Fl. Ext. Gelseminum," Medical and Surgical Age of Alabama, 1891. Married: (1) in 1866, to Ann Jordan, of Greensboro, who died February 2, 1892, daughter of Archer Hunt and Sarah (Pierce) Christian, natives of Virginia, and a relative of Letitia Christian who married President John Tyler, and of Rev. William Christian of Richmond, Va., who married Julia Jackson, only child of Gen. Stonewall Jackson; (2) August 25, 1897, at Demopolis, to Lillie Belle, daughter of Dr. Seth D. and Mary Jane (Seabrook) Smith, of Demopolis, the former a native of North Carolina, who was born June 22, 1831, and died August 21, 1905. Children, by first marriage: 1. Anna Belle. Residence: Newbern.

BENJAMIN F. RODEN

HUGHES, ABNER A., lieutenant colonel. 48th Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army.

HUGHES, BEVERLY, member of the constitutional convention of 1819, from Limestone County; Alabama territorial judge, 1818, succeeding Obadiah Jones.

HUGHES, BRYCE M., physician, was born March 19, 1857, at Franklin, Tenn.; son of Bryce M. and Elmira (Fleming) Hughes, the former also a native of Franklin, where he was a practicing physician. He received his preparatory education in the schools of Professors I. and A. Campbell, and read medicine under Dr. William White after which he entered the Louisville, Ky., medical college. After a year's study at that institution he matriculated at the University of Louisiana where he remained for four years, two years of which time he did hospital practice, graduating March, 1882, and in June of that year located in Birmingham. After practicing his profession alone for several years he formed a partnership with Dr. P. B. Lusk, later dissolving this association, and in 1886, formed a partnership with Dr. William L. Chew. He was a member of the Jefferson county medical society, the board of censors and the city board of health. Last residence: Montgomery.

HUGHES, CHESNEY W., merchant, was born in Pickens County, July 30, 1842; son of James J. and Nancy (Hamlin) Hughes, the former a native of South Carolina, emigrated when a lad to Greene County with his father, later returning to South Carolina and died there in 1856; grandson of Joseph Hughes (q. v.). He was educated in the schools of Pickens and Greene Counties; enlisted in 1861, in Co. D, Second Alabama infantry regiment, under Capt. T. C. Lanier and participated in the following engagements: Corinth, Vicksburg, Lookout Mountain, Missionary Ridge, New Hope Church, Atlanta, and numerous skirmishes. After the war he returned to Pickens County and engaged in farming. Later he removed to Birmingham where he engaged in the mercantile business; removed to Pleasant Ridge in 1887, and conducted the same line of business. He was instrumental in building the first Presbyterian church in Birmingham. Married: (1) in 1871, the daughter of Eli Going, a native of Pickens County; (2) in 1874, Mary Hendly, a native of Greene, now Hale County; (3) in 1884, Anny F., daughter of B. J. and Jane E. (Going) Hughes, who were double first cousins, the former came to this State when fourteen and educated himself, later becoming a teacher and eventually a merchant. Children: by first wife: 1. Mary G.; by the second wife, 2. Lucy T. Last residence: Pickens County.

HUGHES, JOSEPH, soldier of the American Revolution, was born in Chester County, S. C., in 1761, died September 4, 1834, in Greene County, and is buried in Hebron Cemetery. He served in 1776 on Williamson's Cherokee expedition and subsequently in Georgia. Early in 1780 he was commissioned a lieutenant by Gov. Rutledge and fought under Sumter at Rocky Mount, Hanging Rock, Musgroves' Mill, King's Mountain, Hammonds' Store and Cowpens. Col. Brandon, his commander, declared at the Battle of Cowpens: "Hughes saved the fate of the day." In 1781 he was promoted captain, and showed valor at the battle of Eutaw Springs. He entered on the pension roll, July 2, 1832. He rose to the rank of colonel in the militia. In 1825 he removed to Greene County and later to Pickens, where he died. He was a Presbyterian. Married: (1) Unknown; (2) Annie Brown of South Carolina. She was the aunt of Gov. Albert G. Brown, of Mississippi, and sister of John Brown, killed at the battle of Cowpens. Children: by first wife, 1. William Wright; 2. Joseph; 3. Mary, m. ——— Kennedy; 4. Martha, m. ——— Morris; 5. Sarah, m. ——— Maberry; 6. Jane, m. ——— Bruner; children by second wife: 7. Annie, m. ——— White; 8. Stewart, deceased; 9. James, deceased. Last residence: Pickens County.

HUGHES, JOSEPH R., business man, was born March 14, 1842, at Gadsden; son of Gabriel and Asenath D. (Young) Hughes, natives of Haywood, Lincoln County, N. C., the former of whom went to Georgia in early life, was married there in 1832, came to Alabama in 1838, located near Jacksonville in Calhoun County; moved to Double Springs in 1840, and in 1845 in company with James Hughes and John S. Morgan, founded the city of Gadsden, was one of the first postmasters of Gadsden, and died in March, 1886, his wife preceding him by a year. The Hughes family, after coming to America settled in Pennsylvania, and later moved to the Carolinas. The Youngs are of German descent. Mr. Hughes lived on the home farm until 1857, and was attending school at the beginning of the War of Secession. Leaving school in April, 1862, he entered Co. G, Forty-eighth Alabama regiment, C. S. Army, and with that command took part in the seven days' fight around Richmond, at the battle of Manassas where he was slightly wounded, and at Sharpsburg. On account of ill health, he was discharged from the army, in October, 1862, and in the following November joined Tracy's brigade as chief clerk of the commissary department under Maj. Hollingsworth. He was in the siege of Vicksburg, was present at the surrender of Gen. Pemberton, July 4, 1863, and, being paroled, joined his command at Missionary Ridge, September, 1863. After that time, he was in the campaigns of Dalton and Atlanta, at the battle of Jonesboro, was with Hood in his raid into Tennessee, and in all the battles from Nashville to North Carolina, where he surrendered with Johnston. After the war, he was clerk in a dry goods establishment for a short time; moved to Cherokee County, where he was deputy in the office of the circuit clerk; came to Gadsden, where he built the Exchange hotel and was its first proprietor; erected the first steam flour mill at Gadsden; was in the milling business until 1874; was elected clerk of the circuit court of Etowah County, 1874; was re-elected in 1880; and since 1886 has been engaged in the real estate business. He devotes some of his attention to agriculture; is interested in the New Gadsden hotel; is secretary of the Gadsden real estate company; has been a member of the city council several times; is a Democrat; a Knight of Honor; and a Methodist. Married: December 14, 1867, in Gadsden, to Mary E., daughter of Robert and Elizabeth (Adams) Davis, of that place. Children: 1. William F.; 2. Robert G.; 3. Miles Preston, b. December 4, 1881. Residence: Gadsden.

HUGHES, PERRY BRYCE, educator, was born September 23, 1871, at Hughes Mill, Tuscaloosa County; son of William Riley and Sarah Ann (Pool) Hughes, the former a Confederate soldier; grandson of Daniel and Monica (Bell) Hughes, and of William P. Pool, all of whom lived at Hughes Mill. Mr. Hughes was educated in the rural schools of Tuscaloosa County; the Verner military academy, and at Troy State normal school. In 1904 he was elected county superintendent of education for Tuscaloosa. He is a Democrat; Baptist; and Odd Fellow. Mr. Hughes is the author of several song books, used in the public schools. Married: September 4, 1908, at Tuscaloosa, to Annie Mae, daughter of Elisha and Bettie Scott, of that place. Children: 1. Winfield Scott; 2. Albert Elton. Residence: Tuscaloosa.

HUGHES, ROBERT LEE, physician, born November 7, 1871, at Choccolocco, Calhoun County; son of William Moses and Emily (Harrison) Hughes, the former a native of Edgefield, S. C., who removed to Choccolocco and became a large land owner and planter, a Confederate soldier, of Irish ancestry; grandson of Lankford Hughes of Edgefield, S. C., and of John L. and De Arona (Mc Prae) Harrison of Hancock County, Ga., of Scotch ancestry. Dr. Hughes received his early education under private instruction with three years at Douglasville college, Douglasville, Ga., where he graduated in 1890; spent two years in the Atlanta medical college from which he received the degree of M. D. in 1892; took post-graduate course at Johns Hopkins hospital, Baltimore, Md., 1906; post-graduate course in New York polyclinic in 1906 and 1913; health officer, Calhoun County, 1910-14. He was a member of the Democratic executive committee of Calhoun County for a number of years; a Baptist; Mason; Knight of Pythias. Married: June 3, 1903, at Choccolocco, to Lola, daughter of James Shadric and Gussie (Blackmon) Morris of that place. Children: 1. Edith Florida; 2. Robert Lawrence. 3. Sara Lois; 4. Helen. Residence: Anniston.

HUGHES, WILLIAM, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 82, and a resident of Shelby County; private N. C. Militia; enrolled on May 24, 1833, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $80.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34.

HUGHES, WILLIAM PORTER, physician and legislator, was born April 29, 1869, at Burleson, Franklin County; son of James and Parlee (McCrory) Hughes, the former a native of Huntsville, Madison County, but early removed to Burleson, served two years in C. S. Army, and filled several important county offices. The McCrory family resided in Lewisburg, Tenn. He was educated in the public schools of Burleson; graduated in 1889, from the State normal college at Florence; attended Mobile medical college, 1891-92; practiced at Pleasant Site for three years; and in 1896 graduated from the Louisville medical college, Ky. Soon after graduation he located at Russellville where he now resides. He was elected in June 1909, to succeed Benjamin H. Smith, as a member of the legislature from Franklin County. He is a Democrat; a Missionary Baptist; a Mason; and a Knight of Pythias. Married: June 27, 1906, at Russellville, to Willie Mae, daughter of William C. and Susie B. Hurst. Children: 1. William Hurst. Residence: Russellville.

HUGHES, WILLIAM P., physician; graduate of the Chattanooga medical college, 1906; licensed by the board of Franklin County that year. Residence: Russellville.

HUGHSTON, JOHN LEE, lawyer and legislator, was born July 13, 1878, near Mt. Hope, Lawrence County; son of Thomas Porter and Leonora Clem (Dial) Hughston, the former served in Co. B, 16th Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army; grandson of Lee Roy and Savannah (McCord) Hughston, and of John and Sallie (Thompson) Dial. He was educated in the public schools of Leighton, and graduated from the State normal school, Florence, 1901. In October, 1903, he was admitted to the bar, and has since followed that profession. He has from time to time been employed in the probate judge's office. He represented Lauderdale County in the legislature of 1907. He is a Democrat; Methodist; Mason; Knight of Pythias; and a Woodman of the World. He is unmarried. Residence: Florence.

HUGULEY, GEORGE W., major and later lieutenant colonel, 59th Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army.

HUMES, MILTON, lawyer, was born August 4, 1844, at Abingdon, Va., and died December 28, 1908, at Huntsville; son of John Newton and Jane Conn (White) Humes, who lived in Virginia, the former a native of Knoxville, Tenn., who was graduated from Princeton university, and became a lawyer and a planter; grandson of John N. and Margaret (Russell) Cowan Humes, the former a Scotchman, who came to America with two brothers who settled in Pennsylvania, while he located in Knoxville, Tenn., where he became a successful merchant, the latter the widow of James Cowan of Knoxville, and the sister of Gen. Gilbert Russel, of Virginia, and grandson of James Lowry and Elizabeth (Wilson) White, who lived at Abingdon, Va., the former an Irishman who came to America in early life, and acquired a large number of plantations all through the South, in addition to vast interests in iron, lead and salt. Mr. Humes was a nephew of Thomas W. Humes, for several years president of the University of Tennessee, at Knoxville, and of Mary Humes, who married Hon. John White of Kentucky, who was at one time speaker in the house of representatives in the U. S. congress. He was brother of Capt. John N. Humes, killed at Antietam; of Gen. W. Y. C. Humes, a lawyer at Memphis; of James W. Humes, a colonel in the C. S. Army from Tennessee and later a lawyer at Abingdon; of Andrew R. Humes, a captain in a Virginia regiment, C. S. Army, who died at Memphis during the yellow fever epidemic in 1878; of Thomas W. Humes, a teacher at Huntsville; of Frank A. Humes, a lawyer in Abingdon, Va., who was captain in the C. S. Army; of Elizabeth W. Humes, who married Dr. L. B. Sheffey; and of Ellen W. Humes, who married Dr. D. K. Tuttle, of Baltimore, Md., a professor of chemistry in the University of Virginia, who entered the C. S. Army with the rank of colonel and in the capacity of a scientist. He was educated at the Abingdon academy, Virginia, and at the age of sixteen years entered the C. S. Army as a private in Co. A, Sixty-third Virginia infantry regiment. He was promoted to captain at Dalton; received a severe flesh wound, being shot through both legs near Marietta; was recommended for promotion to the rank of major; assigned to the army of Tennessee; and fought his last battle at Bentonville, N. C. After the war he read law in the office of Gen. Leroy Pope Walker at Huntsville, and was graduated from the law school at Washington and Lee college, Lexington, Va., LL. D., 1867. He began the practice of law in 1866 at Huntsville, and spent the remainder of his life actively engaged in his profession at that place. He was for years attorney for the Memphis and Chattanooga railroad company for the East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia railroad company, and for the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis railroad company in Alabama; was attorney for and director of the North Alabama improvement company, and director of the Alabama black band coal, iron and railroad company, of Jackson. He was a member of the State legislature, 1888-1889; was chairman of the judiciary committee of the house during that time; and was president of the State bar association, 1888-1889. He contributed to the building of every church and schoolhouse in Madison County for the thirty years prior to his death, Humes academy, and the public school at Hazle Green were named in his honor. He was a Democrat; an Episcopalian; and a Mason. Married: June 1, 1870, at Huntsville, to Ellelee, daughter of Gov. Reuben and Felicia (Pickett) Chapman (q. v.). Last residence: Huntsville.

HUMPHREYS, DAVID C., public official, was a lawyer of Morgan County, who was first elected to the State legislature in 1843. Some time afterward, he moved to Huntsville, and represented Madison County in the house for several years. He was a delegate to the national Democratic convention at Baltimore, in 1860, and supported Stephen A. Douglas. He was opposed to secession, but after the state seceded entered the C. S. Army as a private, and rose to the command of a regiment. He afterward left the army, and remained at home till the end of the war. After the surrender, he allied himself with the Republican party, and was a candidate before the State legislature for the U. S. senate, but was defeated by another member of that party. Soon after he was elected to fill a vacancy in the house from Madison County, and served to the end of the term. He was appointed by the president and confirmed by the senate as judge of the supreme court of the District of Columbia. Last residence: Madison County.

HUMPHRIES, H. G., member of the constitutional convention of 1861, from Mobile County.

HUMPHRIES, J. J., Indian agent, prominent citizen of De Kalb County who removed to the west where he died while serving as an Indian agent.

HUNDLEY, DANIEL R., lawyer, author, colonel, C. S. Army, was born in 1832, in Madison County; brother of lieutenant-colonel William H. Hundley, of Madison, who commanded the battalion which was the nucleus of the 12th Alabama cavalry, and was killed in 1864. He received a collegiate education, and graduated in law at the University of Virginia and Harvard college. He made his home in Chicago, Ill., where he practiced law, and was a contributor to literary publications. He opposed secession, but when the issue came he returned south, and took part in the organization of the 31st Alabama infantry regiment of which he was elected colonel, and participated in the campaign in east Tennessee in the spring of 1862. In the winter of 1862, his regiment was ordered to Vicksburg where he fought with distinction at the battle of Chickasaw Bayou, and at Port Gibson, the first encounter with Grant's army, where he was wounded. Later he shared the service of General Pettus' brigade in the Atlanta campaign until captured, and was sent to Johnson's Island. At the close of the war he resided in Lawrence County and engaged in the practice of law. Author: "Social relations in our Southern States," 1860. Last residence: Lawrence County.

HUNDLEY, OSCAR RICHARD, lawyer, was born October 30, 1854, in Limestone County; son of Orville M. and Mary E. (Holding) Hundley, the former a native of Limestone County, who lived at Huntsville, and was a colonel in the C. S. Army, Wheeler's cavalry; grandson of John H. and Melinda Hundley, of Limestone County, the former a Virginian who moved to Alabama in 1818, and of Richard and Mattie Holding, of Madison County; great-grandson of John Henderson Hundley, who came from England, and settled in Halifax County, Va. He received his early education in Huntsville; prepared for college at Phillips Exeter academy, New Hampshire; attended Marietta college, Ohio, 1873-1874; was graduated from Vanderbilt university, B. L., 1877; and received the honorary degree of LL. D. from Marietta college, 1907. He was admitted to the bar, 1878, and began to practice law in Huntsville; served as city attorney for Huntsville, 1882-1884; division counsel, Nashville, Chattanooga & St. Louis Railway, 1888-1907; was elected to the lower house of the State legislature, 1886-1887, 1888-1889; was a member of the State senate, 1890-1891, 1892-1893, 1894-1895, 1896-1897; was appointed by President Harrison national commissioner to the World's Columbian Exposition at Chicago, 1893; was the Republican nominee for congress from the Eighth Alabama district, being defeated by Gen. Joseph Wheeler, 1907; was appointed U. S. district judge, Northern district of Alabama by President Roosevelt, 1907; retired from that office in May, 1909; was a member of the general council of the Alabama Bar Association, 1902-1903, and 1908-1909. He was a Democrat until 1896, when he became a Republican; is a Roman Catholic; and is author of "Code of Ordinances of the City of Huntsville, Alabama." Married: (1) February, 1878, to Anna E. Thomas, of Nashville, Tenn.; (2) June 24, 1897, at Birmingham, to Bossie, daughter of Frank P. and Indiana H. O'Brien; granddaughter of Michael Andrew O'Brien, an Irishman, and editor of the "Dublin Nation," and of Wade Allen McBryde, a Virginian. Residence: Huntsville.

HUNDLEY, WILLIAM, lawyer; living in 1913. Residence: Greenbrier.

HUNDLEY, WILLIAM H., major, and later lieutenant colonel, 12th battalion, Alabama partisan rangers; lieutenant colonel, 1st Alabama cavalry regiment, C. S. Army.

HUNLEY, PETER F., major and later lieutenant colonel, 18th Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army.

HUNLEY, RICHARD RYLAND, planter, was born December 11, 1825, near Camden, S. C., and died July 7, 1897, at Talladega; son of Ransom Gayle and Caroline Matilda (Forney) Hunley, who lived near Montgomery; grandson of Richard and Louisa Hunley, and of Gen. Peter and Nancy (Abernathy) Forney, of Lincoln, N. C.; great-grandson of Ambross and Mary Hunley. He was a brother of Peter Forney Hunley, a graduate of the University of Alabama, and a planter of Talladega, who entered the C. S. Army as captain of Co. I, Eighteenth Alabama infantry regiment, and was promoted to major, lieutenant-colonel, and colonel of that regiment, serving through the entire four years of the War of Secession, was married November 8, 1857, in Lincoln County, N. C., to Margaret Elizabeth Johnston, and died December 8, 1882. Mr. Hunley attended the University of Alabama but did not graduate. He became a farmer in Shelby and Talladega Counties, and a horticulturist at Talladega. He was postmaster of Talladega, 1884-1888. He was a Democrat, an Episcopalian, and a Mason. Married: July 13, 1847, in Lincoln, N. C., to Martha Sophia Johnston, his first cousin; daughter of Dr. William H. and Nancy (Forney) Johnston, who lived at that place; granddaughter of Gen. Peter and Nancy (Abernathy) Forney. Children: 1. Ransom Gayle, broker, b. May 23, 1848, in Lowndes County, d. April 10, 1881, at Talladega, attended the University of Alabama at Tuscaloosa, m. April 11, 1877, at Elyton, to Sallie E. Porter, daughter of Judge M. T. and Kate (Martin) Porter, who lived at Birmingham, the former a colonel in the C. S. Army, and after the War, a lawyer and judge of probate. Children, Kathleen Johnston and Richard Forney, both living in Birmingham; 2. Ann Caroline, Talladega. Last residence: Talladega.

HUNT, BENJAMIN POWEL, lawyer, editor, was born September 3, 1849, at Salem, Franklin County, Tenn.; son of George Washington and Priscilla (Powel) Hunt (q. v.). He received his early education at Mary Sharp college and at Sewanee college, preparatory schools at Winchester, Tenn., and attended the University of the South for some time. He studied law for five months at the University of Virginia, 1870, under John B. Minor, and was admitted to the bar at Winchester, Tenn., November, 1870. He practiced law for twelve years at that place, and in February, 1883, came to Huntsville, where he became a partner with the late Paul Jones. He bought an interest in the Huntsville "Mercury," and became its editor, March, 1884; began to issue the paper daily in August, 1885; and continued its editor until the fall of 1887, at which time he became editor of the Huntsville "Independent." He was elected to the State legislature, 1896-1897; is state commissioner and a member of the board of trustees of the Agricultural and Mechanical college for Negroes at Normal; inaugurated the movement to secure the building of the Nashville Chattanooga & St. Louis Railroad into Huntsville; was influential in the movement for better roads and in the abolition of seventeen saloons from Huntsville; is a Democrat; and a Presbyterian. Married: October 5, 1897, at Huntsville, to Susie Harrison, daughter of Perry L. and Elizabeth (Daniel) Harrison, who lived at that place, and a descendant of Benjamin Harrison, signer of the Declaration of Independence, and of William Henry Harrison, president of the United States. Residence: Huntsville.

HUNT, GEORGE WASHINGTON, merchant, was born October 20, 1813, in Franklin County, Tenn., son of David and Elizabeth (Larkin) Hunt, natives of Virginia, who lived on a farm in the southwestern part of Franklin County, Tenn., the former of whom accompanied his parents to South Carolina, and then to Rogersville, Tenn., in the first years of the nineteenth century, located in Franklin County, Tenn., in 1806, was a major in the war of 1812, and died at his farm in Franklin County in 1839; grandson of John Hunt (q. v.). He was reared on his father's farm, received a common school education, and at the age of twenty years, began clerking in a store in Salem, Tenn. Three years later he moved to Jackson County, where he was similarly employed, and in 1839 came to Huntsville. He was receiver and manager of stage lines at that place; conducted old Huntsville Bell Tavern for Woods and Yeatman, of Nashville, Tenn.; returned to Tennessee where he was engaged in the mercantile and milling business until 1861; moved to Winchester, where he merchandised and farmed until 1882; and returned to Huntsville where he lived, retired, until his death. Married: (1) in 1844, at Winchester, Tenn., to Priscilla J. Powel, who died July 24, 1873, daughter of Benjamin and Ellen (Rutledge) Powel, of that place, the latter a native of Rogersville, Tenn.; (2) in November, 1882, to Mrs. McCalley, daughter of Joel Rice. Children, by first marriage: 1. Benjamin Powel (q. v.); 2. David, deceased; 3. George R.; 4. Addie B., m. Samuel L. Nelson, of Baldwyn, Miss. Last residence: Huntsville.

HUNT, JOHN, pioneer, was born in Virginia, but the particular locality is not known. No facts are preserved concerning his early life. He served in the War of the American Revolution, as a patriot, but whether in the ranks of the continentals or in the state organizations of Virginia or North Carolina is not known. He had moved to North Carolina some time before the war, and at its close, located in Tennessee. When the public lands in the great bend of the Tennessee were thrown open to settlement, he is found as early as 1805 on a prospecting tour in that region. It is generally conceded that he first came to Huntsville Spring in 1805, and brought his family there in that or the next year. He erected the first building, a small log cabin, about seventy-five yards south of the Huntsville springs. The Indians were not settled in that vicinity, although the existence of the remarkable spring was well known over the Indian country before the white people settled the county. The Yazoo land companies knew its locality, and some of their agents may have visited it. John Hunt had doubtless learned its location and came from east Tennessee with the express purpose of finding the way to it from the Winchester country, and settling near it. The town was first called Twickenham, that being the name of the home of Alexander Pope, the English poet, so called at the suggestion of Leroy Pope, one of the pioneer settlers, a collateral relative of the poet. That name was never a favorite, and the people of the county generally objected to it, thinking that in justice to John Hunt, the town should bear his name. Col. Pope and the trustees, in deference to the wishes of the people of the county, in their petition for a charter, asked that the name of the town be changed from Twickenham to Huntsville. In December, 1811, when the town was incorporated by the territorial legislature, the city received its present name. These meagre facts represent about all that is known of John Hunt in the locality which bears his name. It is said that he lost his lands near the spring, that he later left the county, and probably returned to Tennessee where he died. The dates of his birth, marriage and death, the name of his wife, and his place of burial are unknown. That he was held in high esteem by his neighbors is evidenced by the fact that the name of the town was changed in his honor, and with the concurrence of the men of power and influence then dominating the affairs of the community. A full list of his children is not available; a provisional list includes: 1. Maj. William, m. Mary Roland, and from whom the distinguished family of Skeggs, now of Morgan County, descend, Judge William E. Skeggs and Hon. H. A. Skeggs are of that family; 2. Elizabeth, m. Samuel Black Acklen, whose family is believed to have come into the Tennessee valley at the same time or very soon after the arrival of John Hunt, and has maintained a high and honorable standard through all the years of the history of that state; 3. Maj. David; 4. George, who settled in Lincoln County, Tenn., where he died in the early thirties, m. Lydia Hunt, who with six sons and three daughters moved to Bastrop County, Tex. Last residence: Tennessee.

HUNT, RICHARD CLAYTON, lawyer, was born February 5, 1849, at Huntland, Franklin County, Tenn.; and died April 21, 1919, at Fort Payne; son of William Blackburne and Annie Rutledge (Clayton) Hunt the former born at Huntland, where he lived until his death in 1862, was a captain in the Indian War in Florida, a merchant and farmer; grandson of David and Elizabeth (Larkin) Hunt, who lived in Franklin County, Tenn., the former a major in the War of 1812, and of Richard and Margret (Rutledge) Clayton, who lived at Larkin's Landing, Jackson County; and great-grandson of John Hunt, founder and for whom Huntsville was named, and soldier of the American Revolution. Mr. Hunt received his early education in rural schools of Franklin County; studied law, at Winchester, Tenn., and in 1871 admitted to the bar; in 1875 located in Scottsboro, Jackson County, where he practiced until his removal in 1900, to Fort Payne; and for twelve years, 1899-1911, he was solicitor of the ninth judicial circuit. He was a Democrat, and in 1888 was a delegate from the Eighth congressional district to the National Democratic Convention at St. Louis. He is a Presbyterian and a Knight of Honor. Married: Annie Rebecca, daughter of Frederic and Margaret (Kimbrough) Scruggs, of Sevier County, Tenn. Children: 1. Sarah, m. Dr. S. J. Vann, a physician of Birmingham; 2. Luke P., lawyer, m. Frances, daughter of M. P. and Ida Green, and resides in Birmingham. Last residence: Fort Payne.

HUNT, WILLIAM H., lieutenant colonel, 26th, O'Neal's, Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army; major and later lieutenant colonel, 35th Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army.

HUNTER, ANN (TOULMIN), prominent worker in the Ladies Memorial Association. Deceased. Last residence: Mobile.

HUNTER, FOUNTAIN WINSTON, Confederate soldier, was born in 1819, in Sumter District, S. C., and died in 1887, in Montgomery; son of Charles D. and Nora (Moore) Hunter, who were married and lived in Sumter District, S. C., the former a colonel in the War of 1812, a planter who owned more than five hundred slaves, who was military governor of South Carolina for some years, and later moved to Alabama, was a general of the territory before Alabama was admitted into the union as a state, and lived on his plantation in Dallas County, near Selma, until his death; grandson of Gov. Moore of South Carolina, who lived in Charleston, S. C. He entered the C. S. Army as captain of the Metropolitan guards of Montgomery, under Col. Lomax, served throughout the war, and at its close was colonel of the Second Alabama cavalry on the staff of Gen. James Clanton. After peace was established, he returned to his plantation near Montgomery. He was a Democrat. Married: to Sallie Harrison, youngest daughter of Col. Edmund and Jane (Stork) Harrison, who came from Petersburg, Va., to Mobile, and later moved to Lowndesboro. Children: 1. Harry, d. unmarried; 2. Nonie Moore, d. in Montgomery, in her eighteenth year, unmarried; 3. Jennie, m. C. P. Vaughan, lives with her daughter, Mrs. W. F. McIntosh, in Montgomery. Last residence: Montgomery.

HUNTER, JOHN LINGARD, lawyer and planter, was born November 18, 1794, at Charleston, S. C., and died February 15, 1868, at Eufaula; son of Thomas and Mary Lingard (Wyatt) Hunter, the former a native of Scotland who later migrated to Charleston, S. C.; grandson of John and Violetta (Lingard) Wyatt, of Charleston. He obtained his early education in Charleston, S. C. His parents having died during his childhood he was educated by Gov. William Aiken's mother, who was before her marriage, a Miss Wyatt of that city. He graduated from the South Carolina college, Columbia, in both the academic and law departments. Although a lawyer by profession, he did not actively engage in the practice after removing to Alabama; coming with his family from Charleston to Eufaula, Barbour County, 1835. He was a trustee of the University of Alabama, a member of the Alabama legislature, 1841, from Barbour County, and was elected major-general of militia. Garret says of him: "He was a fair specimen of the olden school, and was raised in South Carolina, from Huguenot ancestry. In addition to his general intelligence, he was a scientific patron of agriculture, and was usually assigned the front rank in all conventions and societies of this class, of which he was a member. The polish and grace of manner, with all the etiquette of good breeding, never forsook him." He was a Democrat; Episcopalian; and Mason. Married: July 3, 1816, at Charleston, S. C., Sarah Elizabeth, daughter of James Henry and Sarah Bradwell (Ferguson) Bowler, of Godfrey, S. C.; granddaughter of William and Elizabeth (Wilson) Bowler; great-granddaughter of James Wilson, captain of the Revolutionary War from South Carolina, and a signer of the Declaration of Independence. Children: 1. James Lingard, m. Sarah Shorter; 2. Elizabeth Aiken, m. Allen Kent Merrill; 3. Violetta Wyatt, m. Bertram Joseph Hoole; 4. Henry Bowler; 5. William Aiken; 6. Sophia Ferguson, m. Irvin L. Miller; 7. Sarah Serena, m. James Lawrence Pugh (q. v.); 8. Victoria Virginia, m. Henry De Lamar Clayton; 9. Mary Geraldine; 10. Charles Bradwell; 11. Theresa Wilson, m. William Andrew McTyre. Last residence: Eufaula.

HUNTER, JOHN STARKE, lawyer, was born about 1796 at Camden, Kershaw District, S. C., and died in 1866, at Louisville, Ky.; son of Harry and Elizabeth (Davis) Hunter, who lived at Camden, S. C., the former a native of that state, and a soldier in the Revolution; grandson of Henry and Fannie (Starke) Hunter, esq., who lived in Virginia and South Carolina. He was graduated from South Carolina college, and studied law under Hon. Abraham Blanding. He was admitted to the bar in 1816, moved to Alabama two or three years later, and opened a law office in Claiborne, Monroe County, in partnership with Hon. A. P. Bagby. Two years later, he located at Sparta, Conecuh County, where he was for some time the law partner of Hon. S. W. Oliver. He moved to Hayneville, Lowndes County, about 1829 and continued his law practice there in partnership for several years with Hon. Nathaniel Cook. In 1834 he was elected to the circuit bench to succeed Hon. John W. Paul, and remained on the bench for only one year. He was an elector for Martin Van Buren in 1836, but allied himself with the Whig party the following year, and was president of the first Whig convention held in Tuscaloosa in 1840. He was elected to the State legislature from Lowndes County in 1840, and served on the committee of inland navigation. The next year he was elected to the State senate, but resigned his seat in that body in 1843, and moved to Dallas County. He opened a law office in Cahaba but devoted the major part of his attention to planting. He was the Whig candidate for congress in 1849, and was defeated by Hon. S. W. Harris of Coosa County. In 1857, he moved to Kentucky and engaged in raising stock, remaining there until 1865, when he returned to Dallas County. In the fall of that year, he was elected to the State constitutional convention. He died in Louisville, Ky., the following year and his body was brought to his old homestead in Alabama for interment. Married: January 10, 1822, to Theodosia James, daughter of Samuel and Mary (Darrington) James, who lived in Sumter District, S. C., and a sister of Col. Lorenzo James of Montgomery County. She was a member of the distinguished James family of Revolutionary fame, and was related to John James, sr., to Capt. John James "of the Lake," and to Daniel McGirth, a famous tory. Children: 1. Samuel, deceased; 2. Sarah, m. Col. Robert White Smith, a merchant of Mobile. Last residence: Louisville, Ky.

HARRY T. SMITH

HUNTER, JOHN STARKE, business man, was born September 16, 1848, at Pleasant Hill, Dallas County; son of Ransom Davis and Martha Famariah (Vasser) Hunter, who lived on a plantation near Bragg's Store, in Lowndes County, and later sold the plantation and moved to Cahaba, Dallas County, the former a native of Burnt Corn, Monroe County, who was a member of the firm of Perine & Hunter, merchants, at Cahaba, and served in the Fifth Alabama regiment, C. S. Army, during the War of Secession; grandson of Henry Larence and Mary (Howard) Hunter, of Burnt Corn, and of John Edward and Sarah Caroline (Milhous) Vasser, of Pleasant Hill, Dallas County. He obtained his early schooling under Mr. Halloway at Pleasant Hill, and under Prof. Lowery at Cahaba, and attended the University of Alabama at Tuscaloosa. At the outbreak of the War of Secession, he joined a cavalry company raised by Tom Goldsby of Dallas County, which later became a part of the Fifteenth Alabama regiment commanded by Col. Harry Maury of Mobile. After the war, he became a business and newspaper man at Camden. He is a Baptist and a Mason. Married: to Harriet Gertrude Sholar, daughter of Levi and Jane (Burnett) Sholar, who lived at Hope Villa, East Baton Rouge Parish, La. Children: 1. Martha Vasser, m. H. H. Matthews, formerly of Montgomery, a hardware merchant at Camden, has one child, Sarah Hunter; 2. Ransom Davis, hardware merchant and editor of the "Camden News," m. Arvilla Eaton of Biloxi, Miss., has one child, Bulah Gertrude. Residence: Camden.

HUNTER, ROBERT MACON, Baptist minister, was born at Bladon Springs, Choctaw County; son of Haywood Hogan and Virginia Annie (Jordan) Hunter, the former a native of Lenoir County, N. C., who moved to Alabama when a young man and settled in Greene County; grandson of John and Elizabeth (Whitfield) Hunter, who moved from North Carolina to Forkland, and of Charles and Eliza (O'Freal) Jordan, of Augusta, Ga.; great-grandson of Isaac Hunter; great-great-grandson of Isaac Hunter who moved from Bertie County, N. C., to Duplin County, N. C.; great-great-great-grandson of Isaac Hunter of Chowan County, N. C., who died there in 1752. The Hunters moved from Virginia to North Carolina in the sixteenth century, and have a common ancestry with R. M. T. Hunter, U. S. senator, and secretary of state of the C. S. A. Jacob Hunter, a great-great-uncle of Rev. Hunter, served with William Hunter in the Provincial congress which met at Halifax from April 4 to May 4, 1776. Alexander Hunter, an ancestor, was in command of a North Carolina regiment during the Revolutionary War, and Thomas Hunter, of Martin, N. C., was a member of the Provincial congress which met November 12, 1776. Rev. Hunter attended school at Nicholasville, at West Bend, and at McKinley; and was a student at Howard college, 1883-1885. He obtained his theological training at the seminary at Louisville, Ky., and has been in the Baptist ministry since 1883, serving pastorates at Camden, Wetumpka, Prattville, Jasper, Enterprise, Elba, Newton, Birmingham, Flomaton, and Atmore. He is a Democrat and a Mason. Married: December 8, 1891, at Lowndesboro, to Rosa Bibb Cilley, daughter of Dr. Philip Noble and Sallie Kast (Whitman) Cilley, who lived at Lowndesboro, the former a native of New Hampshire, who represented Lowndes county in the State legislature at one time; granddaughter of Hon. Seth Noble and Sarah (Cavis) Cilley, the former a soldier in the War of 1812, who represented his county in the State legislature, and of James K. Whitman, a native of Halifax County, Va.; great-granddaughter of John Cilley, a soldier in the Revolution and in the French and Indian Wars. Residence: Flomaton.

HUNTINGTON, BACKUS W., circuit judge, was born about 1817, in New Jersey. He removed to South Carolina and about 1839, located in Tuscaloosa where he began the practice of law. He represented Tuscaloosa County in the legislature, 1843; removed to Sumter County, where he resumed his practice, was elected to the bench of the circuit court in 1852, resigning the year after and removing to New York City. Married: Annie, daughter of Daniel M. Riggs (q. v.), of Dallas County.

HURST, ALPHEUS AUGUSTUS, lawyer, was born March 26, 1850, at Copper Mines, Talladega County; son of Robert Augustus, and Edna (Moore) Hurst, the former a native of Butts County, Ga., who moved with his father to Fish Head Valley in 1836, and later served as a lieutenant in Co. E, Thirty-first Alabama volunteers, C. S. Army; grandson of William Hurst, a soldier in the Seminole War, and of Rev. Samuel Moore, who emigrated from Anderson District, S. C., to Fish Head Valley in 1837; great-grandson of Robert Hurst, a Revolutionary soldier, whose ancestors came from England to Virginia about 1670. Mr. Hurst was educated in the schools of Talladega and Clay Counties, and at Lineville academy. He taught in the public schools of Clay, Randolph and Cleburne Counties for about ten years; was county superintendent of education for Cleburne County, 1880-1892; read law while teaching and was admitted to the bar, 1880; practiced law in the firm of Aiken, Burton & Hurst until 1886; in the firm of Feagin & Hurst until 1891; and alone until 1897; was appointed probate judge to fill an unexpired term, 1897; and was elected to that office for a term of six years, 1898. He is a Democrat; a Baptist; a Mason and a Knight of Pythias; and is a member of the executive committee of the board of directors of Jacksonville normal college. Married: December 10, 1879, to Mary A. Tolleson, of White Plains, daughter of Jesse and Mary Pesnell Tolleson. Children: 1. Le Roy R.; 2. Alpheus J.; 3. Gussye; 4. Minnie; 5. Carl Bryce; 6. Herbert J.; 7. Essie; 8. Ruth; 9. Hugh; 10. Grace; 11. Louise. Residence: Edwardsville.

HURST, JAMES ALPHEUS, physician, was born August 30, 1865, at Rockford, Coosa County; son of James Franklin and Mary Frances (Porter) Hurst (q. v.). He was educated in the common schools of Coosa County, and was graduated from the medical department of the University of Alabama, M. D., 1890. He began to practice medicine at Walnut Grove, 1891; served in the State senate from the sixth district, 1901; is a Populist; and a Missionary Baptist. Married: July 24, 1889, at Gadsden, to Cora Ann Clayton. Residence: Walnut Grove.

HURST, JAMES FRANKLIN, lawyer, was born February 22, 1828, in Butts County, Ga., deceased; son of William and Nancy (Scruggs) Hurst, the former who moved from Virginia to Talladega County; grandson of James and Mary Scruggs, of Columbia County, Ga. He was educated in the common schools of Alabama and Georgia; studied law and was admitted to the bar; began to practice at Rockford, 1860; served as a delegate from Coosa County in the constitutional convention of 1867; was U. S. Commissioner, 1882-1888. He was a Republican; and a Methodist. Married: (1) to Nancy Nolen, daughter of Abner and Vashti Nolen of Coosa County; (2) to Mary Frances Porter, daughter of Sidney Jefferson and Mary Porter of Rockford; (3) to Mattie Elizabeth White, daughter of Stephen A. and Martha White. Children: 1. James Alpheus (q. v.). Last residence: Rockford.

HURT, WILLIAM H., planter, was born in 1846, in Macon County; son of Elisha Fletcher and Amanda A. (Marshall) Hurt, natives respectively of Putnam and Talbot Counties, Ga., the former who was brought by his parents to Russell County when a boy, returned to Georgia after reaching manhood, was married in Talbot County, then returned to Alabama, and located in Macon County, where he farmed until his death a few years later, the latter who was married to James T. Burt after the death of her first husband, and died in 1880, in Lee County; grandson of Hon. William B. Marshall of Talbot County, Ga., who was a member of the Georgia legislature and of the secession convention of 1861, and of Henry Hurt, who was of English descent, and moved from Georgia to Russell County early in the history of the state. Mr. Hurt was reared on a farm, and in 1861, when he was fifteen years old, joined Co. C., Fifteenth Alabama infantry, C. S. Army. He participated in the battles of Winchester, Port Republic, seven days around Richmond, Cross Keys, second Manassas, Harper's Ferry, Sharpsburg, Fredericksburg and Gettysburg, at which latter place he was captured, July 2, 1863, and confined to prison at Fort Delaware until June, 1865. He served as orderly sergeant of his company during part of the time and was once slightly wounded. After the close of the war, he returned home and attended school for a short time, then engaged in farming. He served as tax collector of Macon County, 1875-1880; was elected probate judge in 1886 and was re-elected to that position in 1892. He is an Episcopalian; a Mason; a member of the Knights of Honor; and of the Legion of Honor. Married: (1) in 1867, to Theresa E. Moore, who died in August, 1884, daughter of Dr. James S. Moore, of Georgia, who was graduated from West Point in the same class with Gen. Robert E. Lee, was for many years a successful physician, was an earlier settler of Macon County, and died at Warrior Stand, shortly after the close of the War of Secession; (2) in 1888, to Mary Jessie Granberry, a native of Harris County, Ga., daughter of Prof. G. A. Granberry, of Dothan. He had five children by his first marriage. Residence: Macon County.

HURT, W. P., Methodist minister; member of the Alabama conference. Residence: Pensacola, Fla.

HURTEL, ALPHONSE, mayor of Mobile, 1875-77, and succeeded, upon his death in the latter year, by D. P. Bestor.

HUSBANDS, WILLIAM, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 75, and a resident of Greene County; private N. C. Militia; enrolled July 2, 1833, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $80; sums received to date of publication of list, $240.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. XIV, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34.

HUSE, CALEB, commandant and professor of chemistry, at the University of Alabama, 1860-61.

HUTCHENS, WILLIAM THOMAS, business man, was born December 24, 1859, at Huntsville, Madison County; son of James M. and Lucy E. (Hodges) Hutchens, the former a native of Tennessee, born near Morristown, was a contractor and builder, who enlisted in the C. S. Army in 1862, joining the Fourth Alabama cavalry, Russell's regiment, Forrest's brigade, and served with the ambulance corps until the close of the war, who was a member of the city council for years, and erected the government building at Huntsville, the latter a native of Tennessee who was reared in Alabama; grandson of James D. and Polly Hodges, who came from East Tennessee to Alabama and located at Ditto's Landing, now Whitesburg, the former of whom was killed at Buck Snort Mountain in 1864, by Federal troops. He was educated in public and private schools at Huntsville, and worked for his father after leaving school. He was elected chief of police by the city council when he was twenty years old but resigned soon after to enter business for himself. Selling out his mercantile business, he was elected chief of night police by the city council. After his term of office had expired, he became a bookkeeper for his father. In 1887, he engaged in the plumbing and steam-heating business, in which occupation he has continued. He has for years been senior member of the firm of Hutchens & Murdock. He was elected a member of the city council for a term of four years, 1889; was elected mayor for a term of two years, 1893; was re-elected without opposition in 1895; was appointed postmaster by President McKinley, February 3, 1898; and was reappointed by President Roosevelt, February 10, 1902. He is a Baptist; a Knight of Pythias; and an Odd Fellow; holding high offices in both of the fraternal orders. Married: September 30, 1896, to Willie T. Armstrong, of Huntsville. Children: 1. Allan V.; 2. Morton M.; 3. Willard C.; 4. Vernon Fisher; 5. William J., deceased; 6. Mary E., deceased; 7. Maud Elsie, deceased. Residence: Huntsville.

HUTCHESON, WILLIAM GILMER, lawyer, was born September 21, 1857, in Montgomery; son of John Dean Hutcheson, a native of Laurens District, S. C.; who came to Alabama in 1846, and spent the rest of his life in Montgomery as a drygoods merchant, dying in 1865 at the age of forty-eight years. His mother was a daughter of Judge B. S. Bibb. He received his early schooling in Montgomery, was graduated from the Virginia military institute at Lexington, and from the law department of Vanderbilt university, LL. B., 1879. He was admitted to the bar before the supreme court of Alabama in June, 1879, and immediately began to practice law in Montgomery. He formed a partnership with L. A. Shaver, esq., in 1881, and continued in that association for many years. Married: October 3, 1881, at Nashville, Tenn., to Kate Baxter, daughter of Edmund Baxter, esq., a lawyer of that city. Children: three. Residence: Montgomery.

HUTCHINSON, JOSEPH JOHNSTON, lawyer, jurist, and later a Methodist minister. He resided at various times in Montgomery, Mobile, Tuscaloosa and Greensboro.

HUTCHISON, MILLER REESE, engineer and inventor, was born August 6, 1876, at Montrose, Baldwin County, son of William Peter and Tracie (Magruder) Hutchison. He received his early education in the Mobile public schools; attended Marion military institute, 1889-91; Spring Hill college, 1891-2; University military institute, Mobile, 1892-95; received the degree of electrical engineer from the Alabama polytechnic institute, 1897; Spring Hill college, Ph. D., 1914, later attended the Alabama medical college. During the Spanish-American War he was chief engineer of the seventh and eighth light house districts. Among his numerous inventions are the "Acousticon" and the "Massacon" for the deaf, the "Hutchison Electric Tachometer," and the "Klaxon horn." He is engineer advisor to Thomas A. Edison. Married: May 31, 1901, to Martha J. Pomeroy, of Minneapolis. Residence: East Orange, N. J.

HUTTO, JASPER CUNNINGHAM, newspaper man and teacher, was born August 30, 1887, at Lincoln, Talladega County; son of Rev. Allen Augustus and Margaret Olivia (Acker) Hutto. His preparatory education was received in private schools, and in the public schools of Louisville, Ky., Anniston and Decatur. He was graduated from Howard college, Birmingham, 1909, with the B. A. degree and after another year's work in residence there was awarded the degree of M. A., having won honors in scholarship and in oratory. He was graduated from the School of journalism of the University of Missouri, June, 1911, with the degree of B. S. During 1912-13, he was employed in the news department of the "Montgomery Advertiser," one year as reporter, covering the State Capitol, the second as city editor. He was state editor for the "Birmingham News" the two years following. In January, 1915, he accepted the chair of journalism at Howard college, Birmingham, being the first individual to establish and permanently operate a full college department of journalism in Alabama. He is a Democrat and Baptist. Married: December 31, 1913, in Birmingham, to Leta Emily, daughter of James Wallace and Hattie (Herring) Hargrove of that city. Residence: Birmingham.

HUTTO, JOHN C., major, 30th, also known as 26th, Caltart's, Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army.

HUTTON, AURELIUS WINFIELD, lawyer, was born July 23, 1847, in Greene County; son of Dr. Aquilla Davis and Elizabeth Hannah (Tutt) Hutton, of Hopewell, Greene County, and Edgefield District, S. C., respectively; grandson of Gen. Joseph and Nancy (Calhoun) Hutton, who removed from Abbeville District, S. C., to Greene County. A sister of Mr. Hutton is the wife of Dr. D. H. Williams (q. v.). He entered the University of Alabama in 1863, and was assigned, as a private to Co. B, Alabama corps cadets, serving until it was disbanded about April 15, 1865. He began the study of law in the office of Bliss and Snedecor, at Gainesville, 1866; graduated from the University of Virginia, LL. B., 1868; admitted to the practice by the Alabama supreme court in January, 1869, and the following month removed to Los Angeles, Calif., where he has continuously resided. He was elected city attorney, 1872; re-elected 1874; served as judge of the superior court, 1887 and 1888; U. S. district attorney pro tem, 1889-90; and in 1891, although a Democrat, he was appointed by President Harrison as special counsel for the United States in the suit against the S. S. Itata, for violation of the neutrality laws of the U. S., during the civil war in Chile. He is major general of the Pacific division, United Confederate Veterans. Married: February 24, 1874, at Los Angeles, to Kate Irene Travis, formerly of Gainesville, who bore him ten children. Residence: Los Angeles, Calif.

HUTTON, CORNELIUS MARION, Presbyterian minister, was born November 26, 1835; son of William J. and Ann (Callaway) Hutton, the former the brother of Dr. Aquilla D., father of Aurelius W. Hutton (q. v.). Rev. Mr. Hutton was educated at the University of Alabama, A. B., 1857, A. M., 1858; graduated from the Theological seminary, Columbia, S. C., 1860; was pastor of the Bethel church, 1860-66; chaplain, 36th Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army, 1861-65; pastor Bethesda church, 1866-69; Pleasant Ridge church, 1870-89; and removed to Texas in 1889, when he served various churches. From 1869 to 1886 he was also a teacher. Married: (1) July 28, 1864, at Union, to E. Jennie Gordon; (2) August 25, 1886, at Georgetown, Tex., to Mrs. Laura (Daniel) Burke. Residence: Pilot Point, Tex.

HYBART, CHARLES L., lawyer; living in 1913. Residence: Monroeville.

I

IBERVILLE, PIERRE LE MOYNE, SIEUR DE, French-Canadian explorer, the first governor of the province of Louisiana, was born July 16, 1661, in Montreal, Canada, and died July 9, 1706, in Havana, Cuba; son of Charles le Moyne, Sieur de Longueuil, a native of France, but a resident of Canada for many years, interpreter to the colony of Villemarie being familiar with the language of the Hurons, and captain of Montreal; brother of Jean Baptiste Le Moyne, Sieur de Bienville (q. v.). He joined the French navy at the age of fourteen and was later regarded as the most skilful officer in that navy. He was entrusted with the project of establishing direct intercourse between France and the Mississippi. He left Brest on October 17, 1698, reached Mobile Bay, January 31, 1699, anchoring near Massacre, now Dauphin Island, later, March 2, 1699, entering the Mississippi River, after having erected huts on Ship Island. He established a colony at Fort Biloxi and in May, 1699, returned to France, but in January, 1700, again reached Fort Biloxi. In December, 1701, the colony, having been greatly reduced by disease, was transferred to the settlement of Mobile and also occupied Dauphin Island. He was made captain of a line of battleships in 1702, and while cruising the coast of North Carolina in 1706, was stricken with a fatal malady. Last residence: Mobile.

IKELHEIMER, EDWARD, merchant, was born September 15, 1819, in Bavaria, Germany. He received a classical and commercial education in the schools of his native county; emigrated to America in 1844, locating in New York; removed South and settled in Selma in the fall of 1844, where he became a prosperous merchant.

INGE, FRANCIS, planter, was born about 1780, in North Carolina, and died in Greene County; son of Richard, sr., and Sally (Johnson) Inge (q. v.); brother of Dr. Richard, (q. v.), William Marshall (q. v.), and John Johnson Inge (q. v.) and half-brother of Robert Sturdivant (q. v.) and Lt. Zebulon Montgomery Pike Inge (q. v.). He was educated in the common schools of North Carolina, and became a planter. In 1821, he accompanied his father's family to Alabama, where they settled in Tuscaloosa as pioneer citizens and engaged in extensive planting. He won the title of major in the Mexican War. He was a Democrat. Married: about 1815, to Rebecca Coke Williams, of North Carolina. Children: 1. Samuel W., m. Miss Hill of Greene County; 2. Richard; 3. Francis Decatur; 4. John Henry; 5. William Murphy (q. v.), m. Augusta Evans, of Mississippi, a cousin of Augusta Evans Wilson, author; 6. George. Last residence: Greene County.

INGE, FRANCIS JAMES, jr., lawyer and solicitor for Mobile County, was born April 24, 1871, at Hollow Square, Hale County, and now resides in Mobile; son of Francis James, sr., and Emma Mentoria (Chapman) Inge (q. v.). He received his preparatory education in private schools and later attended Barton academy and the Southern university, Greensboro, and graduated from the University of Alabama, A. B., 1890; studied law two years at the latter institution, receiving the degree of LL. B., in 1892. Admitted to the practice, he located in Mobile, where he now resides. He has been president of the city council; solicitor for Mobile County; adjutant of the Mobile battalion, First Regiment A. N. G., 1897; chief of ordnance, with the rank of colonel on governor's staff, 1907-12. He is a Democrat; an Elk; and a Methodist. Married; September 1, 1900, in Mobile, to Ellen Mary, daughter of Thomas Lott and Mary (Waring) Harrison, of Mobile. Children: 1. Francis Harrison; 2. Waring. Residence: Mobile.

INGE, FRANCIS JAMES, sr., merchant, was born April 18, 1832; in Greene County, and died January 8, 1891, in Mobile; son of Dr. Richard and Rebecca Eaton (Brownlow) Inge (q. v.); brother of Richard Freer Inge (q. v.). He was educated in the schools of Greene County, and entered business life at an early age, removing to Mobile, where he resided until his death. He was enlisted in the Confederate service, Co. B, 11th Alabama infantry regiment, 1861; later transferred to Gen. Gracie's brigade and served the full four years of the war. He was a Democrat; a Mason; and a Methodist. Married: June 9, 1870, at Sawyersville, to Emma M., daughter of Joseph and Harriet Jane (Evans) Chapman, of Hale County. Children: 1. Francis James, jr., m. Ellen M. Harrison; 2. Richard Henry, m. Annie Lewis; 3. Hattie, m. Ernest B. Denison. Last residence: Mobile.

INGE, HARRY TUTWILER, physician and surgeon, was born September 20, 1861, at Forkland, Greene County; son of William Bullock, sr., and Elizabeth Brock (Herndon) Inge (q. v.), brother of William Bullock Inge, jr. (q. v.), Zebulon Montgomery Pike Inge, jr. (q. v.), and of Richard Inge, III (q. v.). He received his early education in private schools and later entered the Southern university, at Greensboro. He graduated from the University of Alabama in 1881 with the A. B. degree and in 1885 was given the honorary degree of A. M. He entered the University of Virginia and studied medicine there and in the University of New York from which latter institution he graduated in 1883. He located in Mobile where he has since practiced his profession and lent his executive talents to civic and patriotic activities. He was a member of the city council, 1896-1911; member of the school board, 1900-12; president, Mobile Bay quarantine board, 1896-97; president, Mobile County medical society; counsellor, State medical association, 1885; orator, State medical association, 1890; president, surgical section, Southern medical and surgical association, 1911; president, State medical association, 1912; surgeon, Louisville and Nashville railroad company; chief surgeon, Southern railway company in Mississippi; chief surgeon, Mobile and Ohio railroad company; member, Mobile cadets, 1883-1890; surgeon, with rank of brigadier general, in the State staff, 1895-98. He established in association with Dr. E. D. Bondurant, the Inge-Bondurant sanatorium, in Mobile, in 1898. He is a Democrat; and Knight Templar. Married: June 23, 1883, in Greensboro, to Belle, daughter of Dr. F. M. and Margaret (Sledge) Peterson, who lived at that place. Children: 1. Francis Marion; 2. Harry Tutwiler, jr.; 3. Walter Herndon; 4. Richard. Residence: Mobile.

INGE, JOHN JOHNSON, jr., physician and surgeon, was born October 3, 1822, and died September 13, 1904, in San Fernando, Calif.; son of John Johnson, sr., and Ann Richmond (Hill) Inge, of Tuscaloosa, who removed from North Carolina to Alabama in 1818, and who induced his father and brothers to immigrate; grandson of Richard, sr., and Sally (Johnson) Inge (q. v.). He was educated in the schools of Tuscaloosa; studied medicine at Tulane university; and at Jefferson college at Philadelphia. He practiced his profession at Tuscaloosa, but removed to Mississippi, and later to Ft. Worth, Texas, where he was a pioneer physician and was often sent for to assist in surgical operations at Ft. Belknap, at such times being escorted to and fro, through the Apache Indian country, by a company of soldiers from the fort. He was a surgeon in the Confederate army, Texas troops. He was a Whig, after 1865, a Democrat; a Mason; and a Methodist. Married: (1) to Agnes, daughter of Gen. Nathaniel and Mary (Easley) Terry; (2) May 10, 1878, in Weatherford, Texas, to Juliette, daughter of James and Sally Johnson (Inge) Hogan; and granddaughter of Richard, sr., and Sally (Johnson) Inge, and of William and Sarah (Grant) Hogan, all of Tuscaloosa. Children: by the first wife: 1. Ann Richmond, deceased; 2. Easley, m. Edward Yarboro, of Baird, Texas; no children by second marriage. Last residence: San Fernando, Cal.

INGE, RICHARD, physician and planter, was born about 1780, in Granville County, N. C., and died in Greensboro; son of Richard and Sally (Johnson) Inge (q. v.); brother of Francis Inge (q. v.), William Marshall Inge (q. v.) half brother of Robert Sturdivant Inge (q. v.), and of Lt. Zebulon Montgomery Pike Inge (q. v.). He was educated in the schools of North Carolina and Virginia; graduated in medicine and practiced in North Carolina and Greene County, until his death. Married: (1) to Elizabeth Bullock, of North Carolina; (2) to Mrs. Freer; (3) to Rebecca Brownlow. Children: by the first wife: 1. William Bullock, m. Elizabeth Brock Herndon (q. v.); no children by second wife; by third wife: 1. Sarah, m. Toulmin Herndon; 2. Richard Freer (q. v.), m. Fanny Brown; 3. Rebecca; 4. Frank, m. Mrs. Kennedy. Last residence: Greensboro.

INGE, RICHARD, III, physician and surgeon, was born January 18, 1851, in Greene County, and resides in Greensboro; son of William Bullock, sr., and Elizabeth Brock (Herndon) Inge (q. v.); brother of William Bullock Inge, jr. (q. v.), Dr. Harry Tutwiler Inge (q. v.), and of Zebulon Montgomery Pike Inge, jr. (q. v.). He was educated at the Southern university; studied medicine, and graduated from the University of Virginia, 1870; graduated in medicine from the University of New York City, 1871; was interne in New York City hospital, 1871-73, and in the latter year located in Greensboro, where he practices his profession. He is a member of the State and County medical societies. He is a Democrat; Mason; Knight of Pythias; and a Methodist. Married: November, 1879, to Caroline, daughter of Col. Thomas H. and Mary E. (Alexander) Herndon (q. v.). Residence: Greensboro.

INGE, RICHARD, sr., Revolutionary soldier and planter, was born in 1754, in King and Queen's County, Va., died August 13, 1833, in Tuscaloosa, and is buried in the old Inge graveyard; son of English parents, who came to America many years before the Revolution. He was educated in the schools of Virginia and engaged in tobacco planting. He removed to North Carolina, thence, in 1821, to Tuscaloosa, where he was a pioneer citizen and planter. Married: (1) to Sally Johnson of North Carolina; (2) in 1806, to Mary Sturdivant, of Dinwiddie County, Va. Children: by the first wife: 1. Mary, m. William Murphy, of Greene County, nine children; 2. Dr. Richard (q. v.); 3. William Marshall, m. Susan Marr (q. v.); 4. Francis, m. Rebecca Coke Williams; 5. John, m. Ann Richmond Hill; 6. Haley, d.; 7. Philemon, d.; children by the second wife: 1. Sally Johnson, m. James Hogan; 2. Elizabeth Turner, m. Gen. G. W. Crabbe, M. C.; 3. Robert Sturdivant, m. Agatha Marr (q. v.); 4. Zebulon Montgomery Pike, m. Rosa Williams (q. v.); 5. Martha Ann, m. Dr. John Marrast; 6. Evalina Belmont, m. Robert H. Smith of Mobile; 7. Emily Stewart, 2nd wife of Robert H. Smith. Last residence: Tuscaloosa.

INGE, RICHARD FREER, lawyer, State legislator and colonel C. S. Army, was born March 12, 1830, near Forkland, Greene County, and died September 23, 1863, of wounds received in the battle of Chickamauga; son of Dr. Richard and Rebecca Eaton (Brownlow) Inge (q. v.); brother of Francis James Inge (q. v.). He was educated in the private schools of Forkland; entered the State university in 1847, and studied law under John Womack of Eutaw. He practiced for three years in Forkland; removed to Eutaw and formed a partnership with J. D. Webb and T. H. Herndon. In 1853 he represented Greene County in the legislature; and, 1857, was elector, on the Fillmore ticket. He entered the Confederate service, in 1861, as captain in the 18th Alabama infantry regiment, and served from Shiloh to Chickamauga, where as colonel of the 18th, he led it in Stewart's charge, was mortally wounded and died after the battle. His remains were brought to Eutaw for interment. He was a Whig; and a Methodist. Married: December 6, 1855, to Frances Amanda, daughter of Andrew and Amanda A. (Watson) Brown, of Eutaw, who were from Fayetteville, N. C. Children: 1. Richard Freer, jr.; 2. Andrew Brown, m. Louise Gallagher; 3. Francis James, m. Ann Brown; 4. Virginia Brown, m. Thomas Fleming Winn. Last residence: Eutaw.

INGE, ROBERT STURDIVANT, lawyer and mayor, was born August 1, 1810, in Virginia, and died August 23, 1850, at Livingston Sumter County; son of Richard, sr., and Mary (Sturdivant) Inge (q. v.); brother of Zebulon Montgomery Pike Inge (q. v.), half brother of Richard Inge (q. v.), and William Marshall Inge (q. v.), and of Francis Inge (q. v.). He was educated in the schools of Tuscaloosa and Tennessee; studied law at Erie, and practiced in Tennessee. He was made circuit judge in 1833, in Tennessee, before removing permanently to Alabama; held the office of mayor of Tuscaloosa; removed to Livingston, Sumter County, where he resided until his death. Author: wrote prose and poetry, contributing to "The Southern," a magazine of that day. He was a Whig; a Mason; and an Episcopalian. Married: December 11, 1832, at Tuscaloosa, to Agatha Susannah, daughter of William Miller and Nancy Greene (Perkins) Marr, of Tennessee; granddaughter of Daniel and Bethemia Perkins, the former a Revolutionary soldier, under General Greene. Children: 1. Mary Perkins; 2. Ann Elizabeth; 3. Robert S., jr.; 4. William Hardin; 5. Frances Annie, m. Malcolm Burke; 6. Zebulon Montgomery Pike, m. Adele Ketchum; 7. Daniel Perkins Marr, m. Ella Bishop; 8. Mary Jane, m. Dr. Casimir A. Landrum. Last residence: Livingston.

INGE, SAMUEL WILLIAMS, sr., lawyer, State legislator, district attorney in California and member of congress, was born February 22, 1817, in Warren County, N. C. and died June 10, 1868, in San Francisco, Calif.; son of Major Francis and Rebecca Coke (Williams) Inge (q. v.); brother of William Murphy Inge (q. v.). He was educated in the schools of Greene and Tuscaloosa Counties; attended the State university; studied law under William M. Murphy and W. G. Vandergraff, at Erie; practiced at Eutaw in 1839; later removing to Livingston. In 1844, he represented Sumter County in the legislature and 1847 was elected to congress, re-elected 1849, and 1851-53. He fought a duel with Stanley, of North Carolina, a member of congress. In 1853 he was appointed Federal district attorney for California, by President Pierce. Later he surveyed the State of Sonora, Mexico, but returned to San Francisco where he formed a partnership with A. P. Crittenden, and where he resided until his death. He was a Democrat. Married: to Miss Hill, of Greene County. Children: Samuel W., jr., m. Imogene Fanny Inge, daughter of William Bullock Inge (q. v.); 2. Juliette, m. Dr. ——— Inge. Last residence: San Francisco.

INGE, WILLIAM BULLOCK, sr., planter, was born June 22, 1815, in Granville County, N. C., and died January 3, 1873, at Forkland, Greene County; son of Dr. Richard and Elizabeth (Bullock) Inge (q. v.). He was educated in the schools of Greene County, and was the first matriculate and A. M. graduate of the University of Alabama. He applied his knowledge of scientific farming on an extensive scale. He was a Democrat; Mason; and a Methodist. Married: to Elizabeth Brock, daughter of Thomas H. and Emma (Toulmin) Herndon, of Erie, Greene County. Children: 1, 2 and 3, died in infancy; 4. Imogene Fanny, m. Samuel W. Inge, jr.; 5. William Bullock, jr. (q. v.); 6. Dr. Richard Inge, III (q. v.), m. Caroline Herndon; 7. Sarah Virginia, m. C. A. Selden; 8. Zebulon Montgomery Pike (q. v.); 9. Edward H. d.; 10. Dr. Harry Tutwiler (q. v.); 11. Walter Webb, deceased. Last residence: Forkland, Greene County.

INGE, WILLIAM BULLOCK, jr., planter, State senator and member constitutional convention of 1901, was born June 20, 1848, at "Tishaba" plantation, Greene County; son of William Bullock, sr., and Elizabeth Brock (Herndon) (q. v.); brother of Zebulon Montgomery Pike Inge, jr. (q. v.), and of Richard Inge, III (q. v.), and of Dr. Harry Tutwiler Inge (q. v.). He was educated in private schools and entered the Southern university, at Greensboro, where he graduated with the degree of A. M., in 1868. He engaged in farming on the plantation at Forkland, 1870. In 1878 he removed his family to Greensboro; served on the city council for thirteen years; served in the State senate, 1884-87; represented the 32nd senatorial district in constitutional convention, 1901; and a school trustee for twenty years. He is a Democrat; a Mason; a Knight of Pythias; and a Methodist. Married: December 15, 1870, to Lida Virginia, daughter of Dr. James L. and Eliza Ann (Croom) Tunstall, of Greensboro. Children: 1. Dr. James Tunstall, m. Helen Moore, of Mobile; 2. William Bullock, III, m. Grace Bestor; 3. Dr. Richard, III, m. Willy Creagh Clarke; 4. Lida Tunstall, m. T. Bowen Hill, of Montgomery; 5. Marian, m. Dr. J. R. Goodloe, of Demopolis. Residence: Greensboro.

INGE, WILLIAM MARSHALL, lawyer, was born about 1802, in Granville County, N. C., and died in 1842, in Sumter County; son of Richard, sr., and Sally (Johnson) Inge (q. v.), brother of Dr. Richard Inge (q. v.), Francis Inge (q. v.), half brother of Robert Sturdivant Inge (q. v.), and of Lt. Zebulon Montgomery Pike Inge (q. v.). He was educated in the schools of North Carolina and Tennessee; was admitted to the bar and represented Tennessee in congress, 1833-35; in 1836, joined his brothers in Alabama and formed a law partnership with Robert H. Smith. Married: Susan Marr, of Fayetteville, Tenn. Children: 1. Sally, m. ——— Gaines; 2. Mary Turner; 3. Eliza Jane, m. ——— Scarborough, of Mississippi; 4. John; 5. Susan; 6. William Marshall, jr. Last residence: Sumter County.

INGE, WILLIAM MURPHY, lawyer and colonel C. S. Army, was born in Greene County, and died in Corinth, Miss.; son of Major Francis and Rebecca Coke (Williams) Inge (q. v.); brother of Samuel Williams Inge (q. v.). He was educated in Tuscaloosa and Greene counties and studied law. He removed at an early age to Corinth, Miss., where he practiced his profession, and represented his county in the legislature, being speaker of the house in 1884, presided when Jefferson Davis made his appearance before that body to make his last speech to Mississippians. He enlisted in the Confederate service, in 1861; surrendered at Macon, Ga., 1865, as colonel of the 12th Mississippi infantry regiment, having served from Manassas, to Shiloh, Gettysburg to Macon. He was a Democrat. Married: to Augusta Evans, of Corinth, Miss., a cousin of Augusta Evans Wilson, the author. Children: 1. Mary Williams, m. ——— Hoskins, of Mississippi. Last residence: Corinth, Miss.

ROBERT JEMISON IV

INGE, ZEBULON MONTGOMERY PIKE, lieutenant in U. S. Army, was born in 1814, in Granville County, N. C., and killed May 9, 1846, in the battle of La Resaca De La Palma, Mexican War; son of Richard, sr., and Mary (Sturdivant) Inge (q. v.); brother of Robert Sturdivant Inge (q. v.), half brother of Richard Inge (q. v.), of William Marshall Inge (q. v.) and of Francis Inge (q. v.) He was educated in the schools of Tuscaloosa; attended the State university, 1832; graduated at West Point military academy, 1838, entered the Mexican War as 1st lieutenant 20th U. S. dragoons. He also served in the Seminole War. His body was brought from Mexico by his brother with the intention of burial in Tuscaloosa, but the boat "The Tuscaloosa" conveying the remains, was destroyed by an accident in the Tombigbee river and the body was never recovered from its watery grave. A committee on arrangement for suitable ceremonies while the body was resting in Mobile enroute homeward, invited the Rev. W. T. Hamilton to make a funeral oration at the Government street church, January 30, 1846. The eloquent address made on that occasion is preserved in the Department of Archives and History in Montgomery. The following account is given therein of the heroic manner of the death of Lieutenant Inge, prepared by Captain May, the officer in whose command the young Alabamaian was serving: "On the morning of the 9th my squadron was actively employed in reconnoitering the chaparral in advance of the field of the 8th; and, on the advance of the army, I took my position as the advance guard. When about half a mile from the position which the enemy were reported to have taken, I was ordered to halt, and allow the artillery and infantry to pass, and await further orders. After about three quarters of an hour, the general ordered me to charge the enemy's batteries and drive them from their pieces, which was rapidly executed with the loss of Lieut. Inge, seven privates and ten horses wounded; Lieutenant Locket and Sergeant Story, in the front, by my side, had their horses killed under them. Lieut. Inge was gallantly leading his platoon when he fell. We charged entirely through the enemy's batteries of seven pieces, and gained the rising ground on the opposite side of the ravine. The charge was made under a heavy fire of the enemy's batteries, which accounts for my great loss. After gaining the rising ground in the rear, I could rally only six men, and with them I charged the enemy's gunners, who had regained their pieces, drove them off, and took prisoner General La Venga, whom I found gallantly fighting in person at the battery. It was on this rising ground beyond the redoubt, and in the very act of wheeling his horse to return to charge on the Mexican gunners, that Lieut. Inge, with a large part of the troops he so admirably led, was killed by the discharge of musquetry from a compact body of infantry posted immediately behind the redoubt, and who had reserved their fire until the American assailants were within murderous reach of their weapons. Lieutenant Inge fell dead on the very spot where he was wheeling round to return to the charge. His body was found pierced with nine wounds, any one of which would have proved mortal." Married: Rosa Williams, of Maryland. Last residence: Tuscaloosa.

INGE, ZEBULON MONTGOMERY PIKE, jr., lawyer and State legislator, was born February 7, 1856, at Forkland, Greene County; son of William Bullock and Elizabeth (Herndon) Inge (q. v.); brother of William Bullock Inge, jr. (q. v.), of Richard Inge, III. (q. v.), and of Dr. Harry Tutwiler Inge (q. v.). He was educated in private schools and the preparatory department of the Southern university from which he graduated, A.M., 1875. He studied law at the University of Virginia, 1875-76; admitted to practice, 1876, in Mobile; represented Mobile County in the legislature, 1884-85; trustee for Mobile City bond-holders, 1885-1908. He is a Democrat, and has served as secretary of the executive committee of Mobile County. He is a member of the Chi Phi college fraternity. Married: December 4, 1878, to Nona, daughter of George M. and Virginia (Brown) Johnston, of Greensboro. Children: 1. Virginia, m. Charles A. Lesesne; 2. Zebulon Montgomery Pike, jr.; 3. Nona; 4. Herndon, m. Margaret Erwin; 5. Imogene; 6. George B. Residence: Mobile.

INGERSOLL, ANDREW J., lieutenant colonel, 21st Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army.

INGLE, ANDREW J., member of the constitutional convention of 1875, from Winston County.

INGRAM, AUGUSTUS J., major 12th Alabama cavalry regiment, C. S. Army.

INGRAM, FRANCIS JEFFERSON, farmer, Baptist minister; was born January 26, 1865, near Delta, Randolph County; son of Francis Marion and Martha (Smith) Mills Ingram, the former who was a native of Randolph County, a member of the army of northern Virginia, and a farmer; grandson of Edmund and Rachel (Newsom) Ingram, of Georgia, and of Archibald and Sarah (Tollison) Smith, who lived in Monroe County, Ga., and who removed in 1858 to near Delta, now Clay County. He was educated in the common schools of his native county, and at Ashville and Lineville colleges. He has been a farmer, was school teacher for eighteen years and a Baptist minister twenty years. He served Union church, 1900-1903; Goodhope church at Delta, 1900-1903; Mt. Moriah; Delta; Concord; Springhill; Liberty; Lystra; Rockspring; Ashland; Olive Branch; Mellow Valley; Gibsonville; and is now serving Alexandria, Calhoun County, and Abanda, Chambers County. Mr. Ingram was superintendent of education for Clay County, 1894 to 1898; was probate judge of Clay County, 1904-1917; and a member of the house of representatives from Clay County, 1919. He is a Democrat; Baptist; and Mason. Married: May 30th, 1900, near Delta, to Mariah Evaline, daughter of Charles Albert and Mariah (Casper) Johnson, who were natives of Georgia, the former was a Confederate soldier, spending some months a prisoner at Fort Delaware. Children: 1. Earnest Francis; 2. Carey Judson; 3. Ray Greene; 4. Ruth Eveline; 5. Annie Belle; 6. Everett Jefferson; 7. Winnell. Residence: Ashland.

INZER, JOHN WASHINGTON, lawyer, was born January 9, 1834, near Lawrenceville, Gwinnett County, Ga.; son of Henry White and Phoebe Harden (Reid) Inzer, who were married in August, 1824, near Lawrenceville, Ga., and lived at Montgomery's Mills, on Yellow River, until about 1830, when they moved to a plantation at the headwaters of Sweetwater Creek, and later moved to Alabama, settling at Eden, St. Clair County; grandson of John and Mary (Dowdy) Inzer, who moved from North Carolina to Hall County, Ga., in 1814 or 1815, the former a native of England, born in 1760, who came when quite young with his parents and settled near Baltimore, Md., served two years in the colonial navy, most of the time as midshipman, became a soldier in the American Revolution under command of George Washington, serving until the end of the war, and died in 1831, at his residence in Hall County, Ga., the latter a native of North Carolina, who was reared in that state, and married about 1796, and after the death of her husband moved with her daughter to Gwinnett County, Ga., where she resided until 1842, then moved to Buckhorn Valley, Talladega County, near Oxford, and lived with her daughter at that place until her death, and of John and Mary (Harden) Reid, the former who served in the War of 1812, with the Second South Carolina troops, and died when comparatively a young man in South Carolina, the latter who moved from Pendleton District, S. C., after the death of her husband, to Gwinnett County, Ga., and died there in December, 1851. His father was born June 22, 1799, in Moore County, N. C., and went with his parents to Hall County, Ga., where he remained for a short time; then moved to Jackson County, Ga., where he learned the trades of a mechanic, a smith, and a wheelright. In 1822, he moved to Gwinnett County, Ga., and opened a smith and wood shop and engaged in farming at Montgomery's Mills, where he remained until December, 1853. In 1837, he raised and mainly equipped a light horse company for the Indian War in Florida, was made captain of the company, and served until late in the spring of 1838, when he returned with his company and was mustered out of the service. He was a Baptist minister for many years before his death, and after moving to Alabama devoted most of his time to preaching. His wife was born in Pendleton District, S. C., February 14, 1805, and was a blue stocking Presbyterian of that state.

Judge Inzer was reared on his father's farm in Gwinnett County, Ga. He attended the common school of the vicinity, and the Gwinnett institute, under the supervision of Rev. James Patterson, in 1852. He taught a country school near Lawrenceville, in 1853, and moved with his parents to St. Clair County the following year. Later in the year, he went to Talladega and entered the law office of the late Senator John T. Morgan and Judge A. J. Walker, the late chief justice of the supreme court, as a law student. He was admitted to the bar of the circuit court of Talladega County, 1855, and before the supreme court of Alabama in 1859. He located in Ashville, January 8, 1856, and has ever since pursued his profession at that place. He was appointed probate judge of St. Clair County by Gov. Andrew Barry Moore to fill a vacancy in May, 1859, and held the office until the election in May of the following year. He was a delegate at the Democratic convention held in Montgomery, June 14, 1860, and in December of that year, was elected to represent the county in the secession convention held at Montgomery, July 7, 1861. He entered the C. S. Army in the latter part of 1861, as a private soldier in the Fifth Alabama battalion of infantry. Later he was promoted to first lieutenant of Co. L, Eighteenth Alabama infantry regiment. The battalion was disbanded by order of Gen. Bragg at Corinth, Miss., in 1862, and was re-organized at Mobile, in 1863, as the Ninth Alabama battalion. At that time, Judge Inzer was elected captain of Co. G, and about two weeks later was promoted to major. In June, 1863, the battalion was organized into the Fifty-eighth Alabama infantry regiment, with Bush Jones as colonel, and Judge Inzer as lieutenant-colonel. Judge Inzer was present at the battles of Shiloh, Beach Grove, Hookers Gap, McLemores Cove, Chickamauga, Chattanooga, Lookout Mountain, and Missionary Ridge, and on November 25, 1863, while in command of the regiment, was captured at the top of Missionary Ridge. He was held prisoner at Johnson's Island, near Sandusky, O., until the latter part of June, 1865, when he was released by special order of President Andrew Johnson. Soon after his return to his home, he was appointed probate judge of St. Clair County. He went to Ashville to reorganize and set up the civil government of the county, then resigned from the office at the end of seven or eight weeks. He was elected probate judge the following year with a majority equal to the entire number of votes of his nearest opponent, and held that office until displaced by the reconstruction acts. He was a member of the first active convention that assembled in Alabama after the war, in Montgomery, 1870; was elected to the State senate from Jefferson, Walker and St. Clair Counties, 1874; was elected to the constitutional convention of 1875, and in 1890 was nominated and elected to the State senate without opposition. He was appointed judge of the Sixteenth judicial circuit in 1907, and in the following year was nominated and elected without opposition to the office he had been holding. Because of ill health, he was not a candidate for re-election in 1910. He was chairman of the road commission of St. Clair County when the bond issue for eighty thousand dollars was made a law; was appointed by Gov. Houston as a trustee of the Alabama insane hospital and held the position for twenty-four years, part of the time as president of the board; was a member of the board of trustees of Howard college; was appointed brigadier general of the Seventh brigade of Alabama militia by Gov. Houston, and was reappointed by Gov. Cobb, Gov. Seay, and Gov. O'Neal; is a Democrat; is a deacon in the Missionary Baptist church; has served as vice president of the Alabama Baptist State convention; is a Royal Arch Mason; and a Knight of the Golden Eagles.

Married: August 2, 1866, to Sallie E., of Columbiana, a daughter of Capt. Wylie Hill and Caroline Hale (Bowden) Pope, the former an officer in the Twenty-fifth Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army, who died in 1864, in Ashville, the latter a sister of Hon. Franklin W. Bowden (q. v.), a lawyer and for some years a member of congress from Alabama; granddaughter of Wylie and Sarah (Davis) Pope, who came from Georgia to Wetumpka, and of Robert Bowden, who lived near Montevallo. Children: 1. Clara E., m. Hon. James P. Montgomery, resides in Ashville, has two daughters living, Mildred and Carolyn, and two sons who are deceased; 2. Lila Bowden, m. (1) R. L. Freeman, by whom she had one son, John Inzer, (2) Senator Watt T. Brown (q. v.), of Ragland, by whom she has two daughters and one son; 3. John Manley, m. Buena Vista Robinson, daughter of Hon. J. S. E. Robinson, resides in Ashville, has three sons and three daughters. Residence: Ashville.

IRBY, THOMAS EVANS, Confederate soldier, was born December 17, 1823, in Marlborough District, S. C., and died May 5, 1862, at the battle of Williamsburg; son of Charles and Rebecca (Evans) Irby, who lived in Marlborough District, S. C., the latter of whom was of Welsh descent, and lived in Roanoke, Va., until she moved with her parents to the east side of Pee Dee River, S. C.; grandson of Charles and Mehitabel (Kolb) Irby, the former a brother of Edmond Irby who played an active part in the Revolutionary War and was in Capt. Hicks regiment, McIntosh's brigade, at the siege of Charleston, 1780, and of Thomas Evans, who lived in South Carolina, on the east side of the Pee Dee River. He received his early education at old Spring Hill college, near Mobile; attended the University of Alabama at Tuscaloosa; and was graduated from Mount St. Mary's college, at Emmitsburg, Md. He was a planter by profession, and lived on his farm in Dallas County. He raised a company of volunteers for the Mexican War, was elected captain of the company and led it to Mexico in 1847. He was elected to the State legislature from Wilcox County in 1849; was returned to the legislature from Dallas County in 1857; and was re-elected in 1859. In 1861 he raised a company and volunteered in the service of the C. S. Army. He was made major of the Eighth Alabama infantry, and passed twelve months in Virginia; was made lieutenant-colonel of the regiment, and was in command when he was killed at the battle of Williamsburg, May 5, 1862. He was a Democrat and an Episcopalian. Married: June 10, 1852, in Marion, to Tempie Adelaide, daughter of Samuel and Eliza (Williams) Perry, who lived in North Carolina. Children: 1. Eliza Perry, m. Abram Louis Pope, resides at Marion, children, Tempie, Thomas Irby, Virginia, Rebecca; 2. Rebecca Evans, resides at Richmond, Ky.; 3. Josiah Evans, d. in 1874; 4. Lucy, m. Nathaniel Jones Davis, resides at Marion, children, Thaddeus Jones and Nathaniel Jones, jr.; 5. Virginia Clay, d. in 1883. Last residence: Dallas County.

IRVINE, JAMES, member of the constitutional convention of 1865, from Lauderdale County.

IRWIN, REASON WHITEHEAD, planter, b. October 8, 1840, in Georgia; son of Col. Alexander and Margaret M. (Lawson) Irwin, of Irwin's Cross Roads, Ga., the former a native of that state, who was reared and married there, a planter who owned large tracts of land and many slaves, and who died in 1839, the latter a native of Georgia, who died in 1852; nephew of Gen. William Irwin (q. v.). He came with his four brothers to Henry County; attended the University of Alabama; and became a planter until the outbreak of the War of Secession. He enlisted in the C. S. Army as first lieutenant of the Irwin Invincibles, with his brother as captain of the company. He was assigned to the Sixth Alabama infantry regiment, and served three and one half years. After the close of the war, Lieut. Irwin resumed farming. He is a Democrat, and a member of the Missionary Baptist church. Married: March 4, 1863, in Washington County, Ga., to Anna Worthen, who was reared in Washington County, Ga., and was graduated from Monroe female college, daughter of Richard Worthen, a planter and merchant of Georgia, who represented Washington County in the legislature for several years, and died in 1862. Children: 1. Emma V., a graduate of Shorter female college, Rome, Ga.; 2. George R. Residence: near Shorterville.

IRWIN, THOMAS KILSHAW, cotton broker, brigade inspector, general C. S. Army, colonel First regiment Alabama militia, was born July 4, 1835, in Mobile, and died in that city, March 27, 1911; son of Alfred Franklin and Margaret (Kilshaw) Irwin, the former a native of Prince George County, Md., who later lived in New Orleans, La., and Mobile, and was private secretary of Gov. Villere of Louisiana, afterward treasurer Mobile and Ohio railroad; grandson of John and Eliza (Gladwyn) Kilshaw, of Liverpool, England; great-grandson of Thomas Kilshaw and wife, who was a Miss McGinnis. The Kilshaws were a Lancashire family, originally the Earls of Trafford of Chester, but having sheltered Guy Fawkes, leader of the historic "Gunpowder plot" the family lands and titles were confiscated. They were squires of Kirkham for generations. Through the McGinnis marriage may be traced descent from one of the kings of Ireland. Gen. Irwin received his education in the common schools of Mobile. He entered the cotton brokerage business in that city about 1852 and later formed a partnership with Maj. Wm. H. Ketchum. He was president of the Mobile cotton exchange at the time of his death and the last surviving charter member of that institution. He was provost marshal of Mobile, 1861; captain in 44th infantry regiment, C. S. Army, 1862; inspector, Gen. Ferguson's brigade of Wheeler's cavalry, 1862-65. He volunteered to act as one of an escort to President Jefferson Davis who after the surrender of Lee was endeavoring to escape Federal capture, but this tender was declined. After the close of hostilities he helped to re-organize the First Alabama regiment, now a unit of the Alabama national guard, and was for nine years its colonel; was breveted general by the governor of Alabama in recognition of his work in connection with the militia. He was prior to the war an old time Whig, but later affiliated with the Democrats; a Unitarian; Mason; member of the Strikers society. Married: December 23, 1858, in Mobile, to Mary Anna, daughter of Col. Charles T. and Emily Joyce (Sims) Ketchum of that city; granddaughter of Benjamin and Priscilla (Meade) Sims of Augusta, Ga.; great-granddaughter of Col. William and Martha (Cowles) Meade, an officer in the French, Indian and Revolutionary wars. Children: 1. Franklin Kilshaw, m. Mary McHenry of Cincinnati, O., resides in Brookline, Mass.; 2. Emily Sims, (Daisy), m. Alfred Augustus Clisby of Birmingham. Last residence: Mobile.

IRWIN, WILLIAM, public official, was born in Georgia, and died in 1849; brother of Col. Alexander Irwin, of Irwin's Cross Roads, Ga.; and uncle of Reason Whitehead Irwin (q. v.). He was of Irish ancestry, and was descended from one of three brothers who emigrated from Ireland at an early day and settled in Virginia. He moved to Alabama in 1819, and settled on a plantation in Henry County, near Franklin, and became owner of vast tracts of land. He was elected to the State senate in 1825, and continued to serve in that body as a member from Henry and one or two of the adjoining counties for twelve years. During the Creek War in 1836-1837, he commanded the militia of the state with the rank of major-general, and had an active part in subduing the Indians in Barbour County. When the town of Eufaula was first incorporated in 1837, it was called Irwinton in his honor. Gen. Irwin was drowned in the Chattahoochee River in 1849, between Columbus and Eufaula, by jumping from the burning steamer "Ham Smith." Last residence: Henry County.

ISAACS, CAPTAIN OF TOURCOULA, Coosada Chief. See Indian chiefs and associated characters.

ISAACS, WALTER GILBERT, Methodist minister, chaplain U. S. Navy, and a member of the Alabama conference, M. E. church, South, was born in Warrington, Escambia County, Fla., August 25, 1862; son of William and Katharine (Adams) Isaacs, natives respectively of Richmond, Va., and Washington, D. C. He received his early education in the public schools of New Orleans; attended the Southern university at Greensboro, 1877-78; and graduated from Vanderbilt university, B. Ph., 1878. He joined the Alabama conference in 1881, served in various stations, and since 1888 has been a chaplain in the U. S. navy. He is a Democrat. He is unmarried. Residence (Address): U. S. Navy Yard, New York.

ISELL, D., lawyer; living in 1913. Residence: Guntersville.

ISELL, JAMES, merchant and banker, was born September 12, 1806, at the country home of his parents in Wilkes County, N. C., and died December 6, 1871, at Talladega; son of Thomas and Discretion (Howard) Isbell, the former a native also of Wilkes County, and a soldier in the Revolutionary War; great-grandson of Henry Sater, who built and presented to the congregation the first Baptist church in the state of Maryland, and is buried in that church yard, near Baltimore. He received his education in the public schools of his native county and located in Lowndesboro, in 1831 where he embarked in the mercantile business; removed to Talladega in 1836, and later in life added banking to his business activities, having founded the banking house of Isbell and son, Talladega, and the City national bank of Selma of which he was president at the time of his death. He gave assistance to all the public enterprises of his community, including educational institutions, religious organizations, and material movements, such as railroad building that affected the prosperity of his section. He was a Democrat and a Presbyterian. Married: in 1833, in Knoxville, Knox County, Tenn., to Rutelia, daughter of Robert and Margaret Houston of that place. Children: 1. Robert Houston, president Talladega real estate and loan association, graduate Kentucky military institute, and from the law department of Cumberland university, Lebanon, Tenn., captain Co. D, First Alabama C. S. Army, banker in partnership with his father and connected with the City national bank, director in Anniston and Atlantic railway co., treasurer Talladega and Coosa Valley railroad company; an Odd Fellow, d. 1892; 2. Thomas Livingston (q. v.) m. Mattie Norris, Talladega; 3. Margaret Discretion, m. Joseph Hordie, Los Angeles, Cal.; 4. Frances Amelia, m. William H. Boynton; 5. Mary Alice, m. N. P. Armstrong. Last residence: Talladega.

ISELL, THOMAS LIVINGSTON, farmer, was born in 1837 in Talladega County; son of James and Rutelia (Houston) Isbell (q. v.); was reared on the farm and attended the neighborhood schools; was employed first in his father's store, later was associated with him in the Isbell bank, but on account of bad health removed to the old farm where he was reared and has since devoted himself to progressive agriculture. He enlisted in 1862, in a company commanded by his brother, Robert Isbell, in the First Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army; was captured at Port Hudson during the forty-nine days' fight; after receiving his parole his regiment was re-organized, and he was placed on detached duty at Selma. He is a Presbyterian; and a Mason. Married: in 1883, at Selma, to Mattie J., daughter of James and Sarah (Moss) Norris, the former a prominent merchant and banker at that place. Children: 1. Thomas H. 2. Mossie; 3. Rutelia H. Residence: Talladega.

IVES, SAMUEL SPENCER, farmer and colonel C. S. Army, was born August 15, 1835, at Masonville, now Center Star, Lauderdale County; son of Amos Quincey and Mary (Jackson) Ives, the former a native of Vermont, who in early life came to Alabama, the latter a daughter of John Jackson and his wife, who were residents of west Tennessee. He was educated in the common schools of Lauderdale County; became a farmer; on the outbreak of hostilities in 1861 he became a lieutenant in Co. I, Ninth Alabama infantry regiment; went with his regiment to Virginia; in June, 1861, was ordered back to Alabama on recruiting service; later appointed captain of Co. A, 35th Alabama infantry regiment; promoted colonel; and was twice wounded at Baton Rouge and Franklin. After the war, resumed the life of a farmer; was sheriff of Lauderdale County, 1880-1884; U. S. marshal during Cleveland's first administration; and was in the civil service on Muscle Shoals canal for twenty-two years. He is a Methodist; a Mason, and a Knight of the Maccabees. Married: (1) in 1858, to Amanda Mitchell, who died in 1868; and (2) to Mary Lucile, the daughter of Enoch Reilly and Louisa (Chisholm) Kennedy, of Green Hill, the former a planter and Methodist minister; granddaughter of David Reilly and Mary (Spinks) Kennedy; great-granddaughter of John Alexander and Mary (Tandy) Kennedy; great-great-granddaughter of Alexander Kennedy who emigrated to America from Scotland and settled near Philadelphia. Children: 1. Samuel; 2. Sallie, m. Charles W. Street, resides in Birmingham; 3. Martha Lou, m. Reuben A. Lewis, resides in Birmingham; 4. Mary Vernon, m. Lee E. Kerr, resides in Dallas, Tex.; 5. Emma Frances, m. Arthur W. Robinson, resides in Memphis, Tenn.; 6. William Kennedy, m. Louise Ralls, resides in Gadsden; 7. John m. Eloise King of Eufaula, resides in Florence. Residence: Florence.

IVEY, ELIJAH, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 75, and a resident of Lowndes County; private S. C. Militia; enrolled on November 4, 1833, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $80; sums received to date of publication of list, $200.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34.

IVEY, W. R., Baptist minister, was born February 22, 1865, in Dale County. His father was a physician who lived in Dale County until 1877; resided at Spring Hill, near Troy for two years; moved to Orion and practiced his profession there until 1882; retired from the practice, and moved near Tuskegee, Macon County, settling on a farm; and finally located in Montgomery. Rev. Ivey attended the schools in Dale County until he was twelve years of age, then entered a neighborhood school at Spring Hill, for several years. He collected for his father until 1882, then became manager of his father's farm in Macon County. On February 1, 1886, he entered Howard college to prepare himself for the ministry, continuing his work there until February, 1889, having moved with the college from Marion to Birmingham. On leaving college, he traveled in Alabama visiting the associations in the interest of missions and education. He was called to take charge of the Scottsboro Baptist church, November 1, 1889, and remained pastor there until January 10, 1891, when he was asked to take charge of Scottsboro college. An option in favor of the Baptists was granted him for five months, and in that time he succeeded in raising a sum of seventy-six hundred dollars to meet the indebtedness on the property. Under his supervision the school was enlarged materially. Residence: Scottsboro.

J

JACK, EDWIN SPENCER, lawyer, was born February 20, 1869, near Tuscaloosa; son of James M. and Mary Henley (Spencer) Jack (q. v.). He received his early education at Havana, and in the University high school at Tuscaloosa, and was graduated from Southern university at Greensboro, A. B., June, 1889. He read law in Greensboro and was admitted to the bar in 1892. He began to practice in Greensboro immediately; was appointed tax assessor of Hale County to succeed his father, May 20, 1897; was elected to the same office in 1900, 1904, 1908, and 1912; and became associated in the practice of law with Robert B. Evins, in 1911, under the firm name of Evins & Jack. He is a Democrat and a Methodist. Married: April 24, 1900, in Greensboro, to Mary Ellerbe Cobbs, daughter of Richard Hooker and Fannie (Avery) Cobbs, who lived at that place; granddaughter of Bishop Nicholas Hamner Cobbs (q. v.), and of Rev. John Avery, an Episcopal clergyman. The Cobbs were from Virginia, and the Averys from South Carolina.

JACK, JAMES, planter, was born May 7, 1800, in Elbert County, Ga., and died December 27, 1875, at Havana, Hale County; son of Patrick and Harriet (Spencer) Jack, of Georgia, the former of whom was born in North Carolina, September 7, 1769, and served during the War of 1812, being appointed lieutenant colonel of the Eighth Georgia infantry, April 2, 1812, promoted to the rank of colonel, July 6, 1812, was honorably discharged June 15, 1815, and died January 25, 1821; grandson of James and Margaret (Houston) Jack, who were married November 20, 1766, and settled in October, 1768, at the headwaters of the Catawba River, in North Carolina, remaining there until August, 1772, when they moved to Mecklenburg County, settling in Charlotte, February, 1773; the former a native of Pennsylvania, born in 1739, who moved to North Carolina with his father's family after reaching years of maturity, and became owner of much landed property in the vicinity of Charlotte, who had an active part in the Mecklenburg Declaration of Independence, May, 1775, and rode as express messenger from Charlotte to Philadelphia in June of that year to make known to the Continental congress the action of the people of Mecklenburg, who served in the Revolutionary War from the commencement to the close, being captain of a company of troops which he raised and led on Rutherford's Cherokee campaign in 1776, was with the troops who opposed Cornwallis when he entered Charlotte in September, 1781, led his company in Gen. Polk's brigade in April, 1781, joining Gen. Greene at Rugely's Mills, at the close of the war was left poor, having advanced all he possessed in the great struggle, moved to Georgia in 1783, settling in Wilkes County, later Elbert County, where he engaged in farming and remained until his death, December 18, 1822, his claims on the state of North Carolina for Revolutionary services and expenditures amounting to more than seventy-six hundred pounds in currency at the time of his death; great-grandson of Patrick Jack, who came with several brothers from Ireland about 1730, and settled in Pennsylvania, moving to North Carolina in 1760, where he located first in Bowan County, who was conducting an inn in Charlotte, Mecklenburg County, at the time of the Revolution, sent his four sons to the Revolutionary Army, and died from ill-usage at the hands of the British before independence was acknowledged.

Mr. Jack was a farmer, who came to Alabama in 1824, and settled in Jefferson County; lived there for two years; and moved in 1826 to Hale County, where he continued farming until his death. He was a Whig, opposed to secession, and was a Methodist. Married: (1) to Ann Gray, of Georgia, who was born January 2, 1803, and died April 16, 1838, daughter of Hezekiah and Frances Callier (Scott) Gray; (2) to Mary Julia Witherspoon, daughter of Samuel W. and Grace (McClellan) Witherspoon, of Tennessee, and aunt of Samuel Witherspoon, formerly congressman from Mississippi. Children: 1. Edward, deceased, married and moved to Mississippi; 2. James M. (q. v.); 3. Hezekiah, unmarried, killed in War of Secession; 4. Patrick, deceased, unmarried; 5. Harriet, deceased, m. J. T. B. Cocke, last residence, Mississippi; 6. Samuel, deceased, m. Delia Miller; 7. John H., m. (1) Lena Stickney, (2) Susie Edwards, resides in Greensboro; 8. Grace, m. W. C. Christian, resides in Greensboro; 9. Julia m. A. C. Christian, resides in Corsicana, Tex.; 10. Evie, m. J. S. Calicut, resides at Corsicana, Tex.; 11. Lillie, m. Mr. Ransome, resides at Corsicana, Tex.; 12. William Spencer, m. Annie Stollenwerck, resides in Stewart; 13. Charles Elbert, planter, unmarried, resides in Havana, Hale County; 14. Thomas Howard, A. B., Southern university, 1880, lawyer at Blooming Grove, Tex., m. in 1888, in Chambers County, to Sallie Buckalew. Last residence: Havana.

JACK, JAMES M., planter, was born April 11, 1828, in Greene County, and died May 22, 1897, at Greensboro; son of James and Ann (Gray) Jack (q. v.). He was reared in Hale County and educated at the Green Springs school under Prof. Henry Tutwiler. He left school when he was twenty-one years of age and began to farm, continuing that pursuit until 1884. He was elected to the State legislature from Hale County in 1876, and served one term. He was elected tax assessor of Hale County in 1884 and held the position until May 20, 1897. He moved to Greensboro in 1889. He entered the C. S. Army in 1861, as a private in Co. D, Fifth Alabama infantry, and lost his right leg at Malvern Hill. He was discharged, returned home, and served as captain of the home guards. He was a Methodist Episcopalian. Married: in 1867 at Tuscaloosa, to Mary Spencer of Tuscaloosa County, daughter of James Campbell and Martha Ann Houston (Potts) Spencer, the former a member of the State legislature from Tuscaloosa County at the time of his death in 1861. Children: 1. Edwin Spencer (q. v.); 2. Houston Campbell, a graduate of Southern university, resides in Oklahoma; 3. Annie Gray, m. James Pennington Borden, resides in Greensboro; 4. James Patrick, m. Bessie Cundiff, resides at Christianburg, Va.; 5. Theodore Henley, m. Alice Ashley. Last residence: Greensboro.

JACK, THEODORE HENLEY, teacher, was born December 30, 1881, at Greensboro; son of Capt. James M. and Mary Henley (Spencer) Jack, (q. v.). Dr. Jack received the degrees of A. B., 1902, and A. M., 1903, University of Alabama; A. M., Harvard university, 1908; and Ph. D., University of Chicago, 1915. He has taught at the University of the South, Sewanee, Tenn.; Tulane university, New Orleans; Harvard university; returned to Alabama in 1909 to accept the position of alumni professor of history, Southern university at Greensboro, and is now professor of history at Emory university, Atlanta, Ga. Married: Alice Searcy, daughter of Charles Rush and Ella (Wyman) Ashley; and the granddaughter of Felix L. Ashley (q. v.) and of Dr. Wm. Stokes Wyman (q. v.). Children: 1. Melissa Dearing; 2. Mary Spencer. Residence: Emory university, Atlanta, Ga.

JACKSON, CHARLES P., clerk of the Railroad commission, 1888—. Residence: Birmingham.

JACKSON, CRAWFORD MOTLEY, lawyer and planter, was born about 1820, in Autauga County, and died February 27, 1860, near Coosada; son of James and Temperance (Motley) Jackson (q. v.). He attended the University of Alabama, 1831-32; was a lawyer in Montgomery and a planter in Autauga County. In the Creek War of 1836, he held the rank of general. He represented Autauga County in the State legislature of 1843, 1845, 1847, 1855, and 1857, being speaker of the house during the latter year. He was a Democrat. Author: "Brief biographical sketch of Col. A. J. Pickett," 1859; and several addresses. He was unmarried. Last residence: Coosada.

DR. DYER F. TALLEY

JACKSON, EMMETT CARSON, farmer, was born July 31, 1843, near Independence, Autauga County; son of Jeremiah and Mary Ann (Carson) Jackson, the former a South Carolinian, who moved to Georgia and later to Alabama, settling first in Autauga County and then in Macon County; grandson of Walter and Mary Chancey (Clark) Jackson, of South Carolina, the former a soldier in the Revolutionary Army, and of William Carson, who came from Ireland, to South Carolina, and later moved to Alabama. He was educated in the country schools of Autauga and Macon Counties, and began farming in 1867. He served in the State legislature as an Alliance Democrat, 1890-1891; as a Jeffersonian Democrat, 1892-1893; as a Populist, 1894-1895; and as a Democrat, 1911-1915; has served as county commissioner, 1904-1908; and was a member of the constitutional convention of 1901. During the War of Secession, he was a sergeant in Co. H, First Alabama regiment. He is a Baptist. Married: November 20, 1866, near Auburn, to Barbara Fudge Frazer, daughter of Alexander and Catherine (Zellers) Frazer, who lived near Auburn; granddaughter of John and Mildred (Bond) Frazer, of Scotch descent, and of Jacob and Barbara (Fudge) Zellers, of German descent. Children: 1. William Carson, m. Annie Rebecca Reese; 2. Jeremiah; 3. John Alexander, m. Annie E. Greene; 4. Emmett Francis, m. Gertrude Peterson; 5. James Baxter, m. Hannah Jane Colwell; 6. Mell Frazer, m. Lillian Estelle Smith; 7. George Wallace, m. Virginia Lorene McMillan; 8. Mary Catherine. Residence: Opelika.

JACKSON, FRANCIS S., lawyer, was elected solicitor of the eighth circuit in 1838. He resigned shortly after the election of his brother-in-law, Gen. John P. Booth, as judge of the same circuit, and, in a few years, settled in Montgomery. In 1850 he opposed Judge Goldthwaite for the circuit court bench and was beaten. He represented Montgomery County in the State legislature, 1851. In 1852 he opposed Gov. John G. Shorter, who held the executive appointment for circuit judge, and was again beaten. He was a Democrat without the Southern Rights features. He removed to Pensacola, Fla., and shortly afterwards died of yellow fever. Last residence: Pensacola, Fla.

JACKSON, HENRY MELVILLE, first Protestant Episcopal coadjutor bishop, diocese of Alabama, was born July 28, 1848, in Leesburg, Va., and died May 4, 1900, at his home, "Roseland" near Eufaula; son of Dr. Samuel K. and Anna (Calvert) Jackson who lived in Norfolk, Va., the former a practicing physician at that place, who was born in Winchester, Va.; grandson of Rev. J. E. Jackson, rector of the Episcopal church in Winchester, Va., and a native of England, and of George Calvert, of Fauquier County, Va. He was educated at the Virginia military institute, and at the Virginia theological seminary, where he was graduated in 1873. Almost immediately after his graduation, he took charge of his first parish in Montgomery County, Va. He was ordained deacon in that year and priest in 1874. In October, 1875, he took charge of the parish at Greenville, S. C., and remained in that place until October of the next year. He became rector of Grace church, Richmond, Va., in succession to the celebrated Dr. Kinloch Nelson, and remained there until his elevation to the episcopate. While in Richmond, he was for a time editor of the "Southern Pulpit," afterwards merged into the "Pulpit Treasury." He received the degree of doctor of divinity from Randolph Macon college in 1885, and from the University of the South in 1891. He was consecrated bishop in St. Paul's church, Selma, January 21, 1891, by Bishop Wilmer, becoming the first coadjutor bishop of the diocese of Alabama. Married: (1) in 1874, to Miss Lloyd, daughter of John J. Lloyd, of Mt. Ida, Va.; (2) to Miss Pace, daughter of James B. Pace, of Richmond, Va.; (3) to Carrie Toney, of Eufaula. Last residence: "Roseland," near Eufaula.

JACKSON, JAMES, sr., pioneer settler and planter, member State legislature, was born October 25, 1782, at Ballabay, County Monaghan, Ireland, and died August 17, 1840, at "The Forks," Florence, Lauderdale County; son of James and Mary (Steele) Jackson, of Lisnaboe, County Meath, Ireland; grandson of Hugh and Elinor (Gault) Jackson, of Carrickmacross. He was educated in Ireland and was a civil engineer. He immigrated in 1799, and settled in Philadelphia; in 1801, he followed relatives to Nashville, Tenn., and engaged in surveying. An old map of Nashville, 1807, shows his two story house, with nineteen others, they composing the "residential district" of Nashville of that day. In 1814, at the land sale, he became one of the Cypress Creek land company, bought extensive tracts of land in Lauderdale County, and was one of the founders of Florence. He acquired a large plantation, at the forks of big and little Cypress Creeks, from the Indian Chief, Double Head, whom he permitted to still occupy his wigwam. This Indian home was only a short distance from the large house he proceeded to build, and which is standing today. He engaged in surveying, planting and breeding fine stock. He assisted in building Florence, with counsel and purse, and donated to the Methodist, Presbyterian and Episcopal churches, sites for their buildings; he also gave the site of the Presbyterian synodical college for young women. He represented Lauderdale County in the legislature, 1822, and was president of the senate, 1830. He was notable for his firmness of character and more so for his gentleness and charity. The large number of slaves formed a happy family.

For many years he was an intimate friend of President Andrew Jackson. He was a Whig; and a Presbyterian. Married: December 28, 1810, at Columbia, Tenn., to Mrs. Sarah Moore McCollough, daughter of George and Elizabeth (Walters) Moore, of Wilmington, N. C.; a lineal descendant of Governor James Moore, royal governor of the Carolinas, and his wife, Anne Yeamans, daughter of Sir John Yeamans, founder of Clarendon Colony, N. C., and S. C., and founder of Charleston, S. C. Children: 1. Andrew Jackson, m. (1) Thirmuthes Hogan, (2) Jane Thomas; 2. Mary Steele, m. James Kirkman; 3. Martha, m. (1) Robert Andrews, (2) William H. Mitchell (q. v.); 4. Sarah Moore, m. Rufus King Polk; 5. Ellen, m. Abram D. Hunt; 6. James, m. Elizabeth Perkins (q. v.); 7. William Moore, m. Thirmuthes McKiernan, (q. v.); 8. Alex, m. Dorthula Baxter; 9. G. Moore, m. Sarah Cabell Perkins; 10. Jane. Last residence: "The Forks," Florence.

JACKSON, JAMES, jr., planter, probate judge, lieutenant-colonel, C. S. Army, was born April 21, 1822, at Nashville, Tenn., and died August 14, 1879, at Florence; son of James, sr., and Sarah (Moore-McCollough) Jackson (q. v.); brother of William Moore Jackson (q. v.). He was educated in private schools of Nashville and Florence, engaged in extensive planting, built a large plantation residence, nine miles from Florence, which he called "The Sinks" where he lived and died. He enlisted in the Confederate service, April, 1861, 4th Alabama infantry regiment, was wounded in the battle of Manassas, on recovery organized the 27th Alabama infantry regiment and was elected lieutenant-colonel; was captured with the regiment at Ft. Donelson, held prisoner seven months; was exchanged; and was with his regiment in the siege of Jackson, Miss.; participated in the Georgia campaign; lost an arm at Kenesaw Mountain; later was with Hood at Nashville; assigned to Joseph E. Johnston's army and commanded a brigade under Gen. Loving, at the battle of Bentonville, N. C., 1865, when Johnston surrendered. He returned to his home and resumed planting operations, and was chosen probate judge of Lauderdale County. He was an old line Whig, a "Know-Nothing," after 1865, a Democrat. Married: October 3, 1850, at Florence, to Elizabeth Perkins, daughter of William O'Neal and Rebecca (Meredith) Perkins, of Lauderdale County. Children: 1. William, m. Sarah Weakley; 2. Jane; 3. Mary Steele; 4. Sallie Moore; 5. Eleanora Kirkman, m. William H. Phillips; 6. James Kirkman, m. Helen Gunter, of Montgomery (q. v.); 7. Charles Pollard, m. Eliza S. Tatum; 8. Robert Andrews; 9. Elizabeth Perkins. Last residence: "The Sinks," Florence.

JACKSON, JAMES KIRKMAN, business man, was born April 7, 1862, at Florence; son of James and Elizabeth (Perkins) Jackson, of Florence, the former who was colonel of the Twenty-seventh Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army; grandson of William O. and Pocahontas Bolling (Meredith) Perkins, of Lauderdale County; great grandson of Elisha and Sarah Bolling (Cabell) Meredith of Prince William County, Va., the latter whose grandfather was a colonel in the Revolutionary Army; and a descendant of James and Sarah (Moore) Jackson, the former a native of Balabay, County Monaghan, Ireland, and one of the pioneers and founders of Florence, the latter a lineal descendant of Sir John Yeamans and James Moore, colonial governors of Carolina. Mr. Jackson received his early schooling under a private tutor at Florence, and attended the State normal school, at that place. He was admitted to the bar, but never engaged in the practice of law. In 1883, he was appointed clerk of the Alabama railroad commission, and held that position for four years; served as private secretary to Gov. Thomas Seay, 1887-1890; to Gov. Thomas G. Jones, 1890-1894; and to Gov. Jelks, 1902-1907, serving the last three months of that time under Gov. Comer; was elected secretary of state, 1894-1898. He is a Democrat and an Episcopalian. Married: February 21, 1900, at Montgomery, to Helen Gunter, daughter of William A. and Helen (Poelnitz) Gunter, of Marengo County. Children: 1. James Kirkman, jr.; 2. Helen. Residence: Birmingham.

JACKSON, JAMES MONROE, physician, was born April 12, 1826, at Culleoka, Maury County, Tenn., and died December 20, 1914, at Guntersville; son of Harbert and Martha (Gill) Jackson, natives respectively of Maury County, Tenn., and of Botetourt County, Va., a farmer, and died in 1845; grandson of Mark Jackson, a native of Georgia, captain in the War of the Revolution, who lived to be a hundred, dying in 1828. He was of Scotch-Irish descent. Dr. Jackson was reared on a farm. His early education was acquired in the neighborhood schools of the section, and he graduated at Jackson college, Columbia, Tenn., 1844, with the degree of A. M. In 1845, he removed to Somerville, Morgan County, and studied medicine under Dr. William G. Gill. Subsequently he attended the University of Kentucky, at Louisville, and later the Medical college of South Carolina, at Charleston, from which he graduated in 1848, with the degree of M. D., standing at the head of his class. He returned to Somerville, where he practiced his profession until 1856, at which time he removed to Guntersville, where he remained to the close of his successful career as a physician, dying at the advanced age of eighty nine. He retired from the practice about ten years before his death, but retained an alert interest in all that pertained to the advancement of the science of medicine to the end. At the beginning of the War of Secession, he enlisted in a company of infantry organized at Guntersville by Capt. Isaac Henry; was sent to Clarksville, Tenn., where he organized the Stuart college hospital of which he was house surgeon. He was at the battle of Fort Donelson and there surrendered to the enemy and was sent to Camp Chase and thence to Johnson's Island where he was chief surgeon of the Confederate hospital, serving the Federal soldiers also. After his release, June, 1862, he went to Richmond, Va., and was present at the battle of Cedar Run. He was surgeon at the post, Jackson, Miss., and had charge of the wounded from the battlefield of Perryville, Ky.

Later he was sent to Port Hudson, La. He was appointed surgeon of the 49th Tennessee infantry regiment; was present at the siege of Vicksburg; transferred to Chickamauga and participated in that great battle as also in the battles of Atlanta, Peachtree Creek and Franklin, Tenn. At this place being left with the wounded he organized the McNutt hospital of which he had charge until 1865. He was sent by the Federals to the penitentiary at Nashville, Tenn., and from there to the military prison at Camp Morton, Ind. There he was held, with three other surgeons, as hostage, for four Federal surgeons who were missing at the battle of Franklin. It was afterward ascertained that these four surgeons had deserted the Federal army or had gone to their homes. He remained in prison until the surrender at Appomattox and President Lincoln issued his proclamation. After his release he returned to Somerville, where his children then were, and later resumed his practice at Guntersville. He was a Democrat; Presbyterian; and Mason. Married: November, 1850, at Somerville, Eliza, daughter of Dr. John and Martha (Berry) Wilkinson of that place, but natives of Augusta, Ga. Mrs. Jackson lived only six years after her marriage, leaving an infant which followed her to the grave, and two older children. Her husband never married again. Children: 1. James Lewellyn, m. Annie Steger, at Marysville, resides at Guntersville; 2. Alice, m. Robert B. McKinney, resides in Iuka, Miss.; 3. Mattie, d. in infancy. Last residence: Guntersville.

JACKSON, JEFFERSON FRANKLIN, lawyer, was born November 23, 1821, near Clayton, Barbour County, at that time a part of Pike County, and died in Montgomery March 27, 1862; son of Jacnith and Prudence (Alum) Jackson, natives of Georgia, who removed to Alabama and lived first near Clayton, and later in Sumter County; grandson of Randall Jackson who lived in Georgia and Louisiana and who died in Sumter County, at the age of seventy-six, his wife living to be ninety-seven. He was educated in the country schools near Irvington, later attending the Irvington literary institute, where he was assistant teacher as well as pupil. In June, 1839, he was awarded the "quarterly prize," as the reward for close application to his studies and exceptional conduct. During 1840 he taught school in Sumter County. Quoting from his diary, dated Bridgeport, Conn., June 21, 1841: "I left home May 21st, and all that I hold dear on earth, and with my almost broken heart, set out for Connecticut to acquire a thorough collegiate and accomplished education; I being convinced of the importance of such a course, had labored about two years incessantly in a thousand ways, before I could get the consent of my parents, friends, and the wherewith to leave home. Became a member immediately of Rev. Henry Jones' boarding school." Here he prepared himself for Yale college, which he entered in 1842. In 1846 Yale conferred upon him an A. B. degree, and during 1846 and 1847, he was a student in the Cambridge law school. In the latter year he was admitted to the practice in Montgomery. He served as U. S. district attorney for the northern and middle districts of Alabama under the administration of Presidents Zachary Taylor and Millard Fillmore. Gov. Reuben Chapman appointed him agent to investigate and settle the account relating to the five per cent fund between the United States and Alabama. He proceeded to Washington and on January 2, 1850, Gov. H. W. Collier in his message to the legislature on "The Five per cent Fund" speaks of his work as the State's representative in the following terms: "The services of Mr. Jackson have been eminently beneficial to the State, in causing a revision of an old and complicated account, and inducing the recognition of the right of the State to a large sum of money. But for the industry and perseverance of himself, or some other agent equally astute and untiring the errors he discovered might have never been brought to light." He recovered $104,729.66 for Alabama. On April 21, 1856, he was admitted as an attorney and counselor of the U. S. court of claims, at Washington. He was a Whig; a Presbyterian, and a member of Alpha Delta Phi college fraternity at Yale. Married: February 2, 1848, in Boston, to Eleanor Clark, daughter of Daniel and Eleanor (Clark) Noyes of that place. The former was the son of Lieut. Ephraim and Sarah (Dike) Noyes who married in 1779 at Bridgewater, Mass., and graduated at Yale college in 1812. He was descended from Norman-English ancestry, the name first appearing as James, Crusader, Knight of the Battle of Hastings; William Noyes, was the attorney general of Charles I; William, a clergyman of the diocese of Salisbury was the father of two sons, James and Nicholas, both graduates of Oxford, who came to America in 1685, and built a home at Newbury, Mass., which is still in the family. Daniel Noyes was the great-grandson of James, hence his daughter was the great-great-granddaughter of James Noyes. Eleanor Clark was of English ancestry, the family coming originally to America from Dorchester, the daughter of Richard Clark and wife, who was a Miss Hayden, and grand-daughter of Col. Josiah Hayden the former of whom was a Revolutionary soldier, from Dorchester, Mass., who after the cessation of hostilities removed to Maine, where he took up lands with General Knox, settling there. Children: 1. Charles Whiting, m. Sallie Lillian Hart, of Eufaula, two children; 2. Franklin Winston, died Nov. 21, 1914; 3. William Noyes, m. Lucie E. Marks, daughter of Dr. Benjamin Rush Jones (q. v.); 4. Ellen Madeline, died November 4, 1904. Last residence: Montgomery.

JACKSON, J. F. B., railroad contractor, legislator and colonel, C. S. Army, was born January 31, 1832, in Franklin County, Ga., and died in Birmingham, at an advanced age; son of William and Lucy (Morris) Jackson, both natives of Georgia; brother of Eppy W., captain in the 11th Georgia infantry regiment, at Second Manassas; of Benjamin F., sergeant in the 4th Georgia cavalry, at Chickamauga; of John M., major of the 43rd Georgia infantry regiment, at Jonesboro; and of Thomas A., captain in a Georgia regiment who died in 1865, from the effects of wounds received in battle.

He began his business career at the age of eighteen years, and in 1861, was a lieutenant of the "Dalton Guards," Dalton, Ga. He entered the Confederate service with this company in the spring of 1861, and was promoted lieutenant-colonel on the organization of the 39th Georgia regiment which was sent to Virginia and participated in the mountain campaign under Gen. R. E. Lee. Later his regiment was in East Tennessee and the Kentucky campaign under Gen. E. Kirby Smith, and in 1862-63, was sent to Mississippi as part of Cuming's brigade of Stevenson's division, for the defense of Vicksburg. He was appointed colonel and participated in the battles of Laurel Hill, Locust Lane and Sewell Mountain, W. Va., Tazewell, Tenn., Richmond, Ky., Chickasaw, Bayou and Baker's Creek, Miss. Subsequently he took part in all of the battles of the campaign under Gen. J. E. Johnston, including Rocky-Face Mountain, Resaca, New Hope Church, Kenesaw Mountain and Peachtree Creek. He received three wounds, the last incapacitating him for military service. After the war he represented his county in the first constitutional convention of Georgia. His chief occupation for a number of years was railroad contracting which brought him to Birmingham in 1871, as the constructor of over one hundred miles of the Louisville and Nashville railroad through Alabama, and was later superintendent of roads of Jefferson County. He was a member of W. K. Hardee camp, United Confederate veterans. Married: (1) in 1859, to Matilda C. Morris; (2) in 1867, to Sallie Hoke, of Greenville, S. C. Last residence: Birmingham.

JACKSON, JOHN, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 82, and a resident of Jackson County; private S. C. Continental Line; enrolled on November 19, 1819, under act of Congress of March 18, 1818, payment to date from September 21, 1818; annual allowance, $96; sums received to date of publication of list, $1,243.47; transferred from Lincoln County, Tenn., from March 4, 1816.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34.

JACKSON, WALTER CLARK, physician, was born July 14, 1827, at "Ellerslie," home of his grandfather, Bolling Hall, in Autauga, now Elmore County, and died September 22, 1906, in Montgomery; son of Absolom and Emily (Hall) Jackson, the former a large planter; grandson of James and Temperance (Motley) Jackson (q. v.); and of Bolling Hall (q. v.). Dr. Jackson received his early education in the private schools of Elmore County, and the school of S. S. Bernan, at Sparta, Ga. In 1844-48, he was a student in the University of Alabama; and in 1852, was graduated with the degree of M. D., from the medical department of the University of Pennsylvania. He at once entered upon the practice of his profession in Montgomery, where he continued throughout a long business life of fifty years. He was an alderman of Montgomery, twice city physician, and health officer of Montgomery County. During the War of Secession, Dr. Jackson and other physicians of Montgomery attended sick and wounded soldiers in hospitals in the city. Twice he went to attend wounded Confederates elsewhere, in Richmond and in Northern Georgia. For thirty years, 1868-98, he was treasurer of the medical association of the State of Alabama, and was grand senior life counselor of the association; president, Medical and surgical society of Montgomery County. He was a Democrat; a Mason; and a charter member of the Knights of Honor. Author: paper, "The Hypodermic use of atropia in hemorrhagic malarial fever" in Transactions of the medical association of Alabama, 1880; a report of successful treatment of a case of virulent poisoning from arsenic, published first in an American medical journal and later republished in the London Lancet about 1856-60; and other contributions of the literature of his profession. Married: December 5, 1855, in Montgomery, to Frances Elvira Bibb, widow of Chancellor Joseph Saffold (q. v.), and daughter of Rev. Peyton Bibb (q. v.). Children: 1. Fannie, m. John Whiting Brown, Montgomery; 2. Lizzie, m. Alston Harris Pickett, son of Col. Albert James Pickett (q. v.); 3. Carrie Coleman, of Montgomery; 4. Hattie Emma, m. Charles Werner Joseph; 5. William Lee; 6. Hillie Nanette, m. George Jordan Scovel; 7. Leila, died in infancy; 8. Sophie Lee, m. Dr. Shepard Walter Foster (q. v.). Last residence: Montgomery.

JACKSON, WILLIAM MOORE, planter and public official, was born June 19, 1824, in Lauderdale County, and died December 21, 1899, at Florence; son of James and Sarah (Moore-McCollough) Jackson, of "The Forks," Florence; brother of James Jackson, jr., (q. v.). He was educated by private tutors; entered the University of North Carolina; studied law at the Transylvania university, Ky.; but engaged more extensively in cotton planting than in the practice of his profession. He acquired large tracts of land both in Alabama and Arkansas and during the latter part of the War of Secession, he caused to be burned three hundred bales of cotton, in Arkansas, to prevent it falling into the Federal hands. In 1857, he represented Colbert County in the legislature; in the senate, 1859-65, when the U. S. military forces took charge of the administration of affairs in Alabama. Later he was a notary public in Lauderdale. He was a Democrat, a member of the convention that seceded from the Union and voted for secession. His plantation home was alternately headquarters for Confederate and Federal officers. A division of Gen. Hood's army was encamped on his plantation, at one time, while Generals Stephen D. Lee, Frank Cheatham and A. T. Stewart were guests at his house. Married: June 16, 1846, to Thermis Waters, daughter of Bernard and Marianne (Waters) McKiernan, of Hagerstown, Md. Children: 1. Sarah M., m. O. H. Bynum; 2. Mary M., m. Edward Winston; 3. James, m. Althea Wardlaw; 4. Thomas Hunt, m. Rebecca McKay; 5. Bernard M.; 6. Susannah M., m. John Harris. Last residence: Florence.

JACKSON, WILLIAM RICHARD, physician, was born June 16, 1864, at Chireno, Nacogdoches County, Tex.; son of William Daniel and Mary Adelia (Brown) Jackson, who lived at Chireno, Tex., the former a native of Conecuh County, who served in the C. S. Army as cavalryman under Gen. Crump in the trans-Mississippi department during the four years of the War of Secession; grandson of W. E. and Martha Jackson, who lived in South Carolina, and of Robert Owen and Nancy W. (Crouch) Brown, who lived in Natches, Miss. His great-grandfather Jackson came to South Carolina from near York, England, and his great-grandfather Crouch came to Tennessee from Holland. He received his early schooling in Texas, at Chireno, at Nacogdoches, and at Woodville; attended the University of Nacogdoches, 1884-1885; and received the degree of M. D. from the medical department of the University of Alabama at Mobile, 1888. He studied at the Polyclinic hospital in New York City, 1895 and 1906; at the New York post graduate school, 1895; visited Europe in 1902 and studied surgery, gynecology, and pathology in Berlin, Vienna, and London; and studied in Philadelphia in 1908. He entered upon the practice of medicine in Mobile in 1888, and has continued in that place. He was assistant demonstrator of anatomy in the medical department of the University of Alabama, 1888-1891; demonstrator of anatomy, 1891-1895; and professor of surgery, 1900-1912. He has been visiting surgeon of the city hospital and southern infirmary at Mobile, and has been president, secretary and treasurer of the Mobile County medical society. He is a Democrat; a Methodist, serving as a steward in the church for twenty years; is an Odd Fellow; a Knight of Pythias; a Thirty-second degree Mason; and a member of the Scottish Rite and Shriners. Married: July 17, 1889, at Suitman, Miss., to Irene, daughter of Emanuel and Frances (Potter) Alvarez, who lived at Mobile. Her father was of Spanish and French origin and her mother was born in North Carolina. Residence: Mobile.

JACOBS, BEN MOSES, merchant, was born August 21, 1859, at Quincy, Ill.; son of Moses and Caroline Jacobs. He was educated in the public schools of Quincy, Ill.; entered the mercantile business; removed to Columbus, Miss., in 1880, and later in the same year to Birmingham where he is now a member of a wholesale and retail furniture, bank and office supplies company. He is a member of the Ancient and Accepted Scottish Rite Masons. He is married. Residence: Birmingham.

JACOBS, BERTRAM, 33rd degree, Honorary Ancient Accepted Scottish Rite.

JAGGERS, JEREMIAH, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 86, and a resident of Madison County; private S. C. Continental Line; enrolled on February 14, 1824, under act of Congress of March 18, 1818, payment to date from January 28, 1824; annual allowance, $96; sums received to date of publication of list, $730.90.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34.

JAMES, FRANK LOWBER, physician, pharmacist, editor and inventor, was born August 27, 1841, in Mobile, and died May 19, 1907, in St. Louis, Mo.; son of Thomas Simmons and Laura (Spaulding) James, the former a native of Princess Ann County, Va., who removed to Portsmouth and later to Norfolk and in 1835 to Mobile where he left his impress in the architecture of that city; grandson of Frances Abby (Mervin) Spaulding of Middleburg, Vt., who had a plantation and mill on the Chesapeake Bay, suffered many depredations at the hands of the British soldiers during the Revolutionary War and was taken captive by them, impressed as a seaman and held for eight years. Mr. James was a precocious child, reading understandingly at three, began very early the study of Latin and Greek, and composed a play in French at twelve, which was given at the school commencement; and at sixteen entered the Polytechnique at Carlsruhe, Germany, to study civil engineering, but soon his passion for chemistry asserted itself, and he went to Munich where he entered the laboratory of Justus von Liebig, having the good fortune to become a member of this household. He later studied medicine in Paris. From the University of Munich he received the degree of Ph. D. After the War of Secession he was engaged with Gen. Folsom on the Trans-Mississippi survey; in the early seventies was associate editor with Gen. Albert Pike and Matt Galloway on the "Memphis Appeal;" for two years he lived with Dr. F. G. McGavock near Shawnee Village, Ark.; and practiced medicine at Oceola, Ark., during 1878-79, at the same time doing archeological work for the Smithsonian institution. He went to St. Louis, Mo., in 1880, and practiced medicine in that city; was professor of chemistry at the St. Louis college of physicians and surgeons; was associate editor of the "St. Louis Medical and Surgical Journal" and editor of "The National Druggist," from 1884 until his death. He was at one time president of the American medical and surgical association; president of the St. Louis society of microscopists, and of the American microscopical association. He was in Paris when the War of Secession began and conveyed dispatches from the Confederate Commissioners Mason and Slidell to President Jefferson Davis. He was engaged in the Confederate secret service, and invented the first torpedoes used in war, some of which were planted in Mobile Bay and destroyed the Federal gun boats, for which a price was set upon his head by Gen. B. F. Butler of the U. S. army. He was a Democrat and a Mason. He was the author of "Elementary Microscopical Technology;" and for many years a contributor to medical and scientific journals. Through these articles he gained an international reputation among scientists and microscopists. He never married. Last residence: St. Louis, Mo.

JAMES, J. C., Methodist minister; member of the Alabama conference. Residence: Prattville.

JAMES, JOSEPH HOPKINS, lawyer, was born December 12, 1881, in Clarke County; son of Joseph Hopkins and Fredonia Winnifred (Caller) James, the former a native of Coolruss, County Wicklow, Ireland, who was a merchant at Mobile for some time, and later a Methodist minister; grandson of John and Mary (Hopkins) James, of Ireland, and of James and Jane (Marks) Caller, of Barlow Bend, Clarke County; great-grandson of James and Winnifred (Duke) Caller, the former who received a captain's commission in North Carolina in 1795, moved to Mississippi territory, settling near St. Stephens, 1802, was a colonel in the Creek War, 1812-1814, and was several times a member of the general assembly at St. Stephens and Huntsville; great-great-grandson of James Caller, who was kidnapped in England and brought to America, landing in Virginia, and who had two sons in the Revolutionary Army, and of Green Duke of Warrenton, N. C. Mr. James was educated at schools in different counties in Alabama; was graduated from Southern university, B. A., 1901; and from the University of Alabama, LL. B., 1906. He entered upon the practice of law at Uniontown, 1906; served as a member of the town council for two terms; and represented Perry County in the State legislature, 1911. He is a Democrat; a Methodist; and a member of Kappa Alpha college fraternity. Married: April 3, 1907, at Uniontown, to Lutie Foster, daughter of David William and Lutie (Foster) Pitts, of that place; granddaughter of Phillip Henry and Margaret (Davidson) Pitts, of Uniontown, and of Dr. Robert and Julia (Moore) Foster, of Marion, the latter a sister of Gov. A. B. Moore of Alabama. Children: 1. Joseph Hopkins. Residence: Uniontown.

JAMES, LORENZO, planter and legislator, was born April 19, 1805, in Kershaw District, S. C., and died in September, 1890, at Petoskey, Mich.; son of Samuel and Mary (Darrington) James, who came from Kershaw District, S. C., to Clarke County, in 1818; grandson of John James. He graduated at Yale college in 1824, and located in Mobile, later removing to Dallas County. In 1828 he removed to that part of Montgomery County which shortly afterwards became Lowndes County. He represented that county in the State senate in 1835. Soon afterwards he returned to Clarke County where he became a planter and represented this county in the house, 1841 and 1849, and in the senate in 1851. He was a Methodist. Married: Eliza, daughter of Gen. John and Elizabeth (Coleman) Scott. Children: among these, 1. Laura, m. Samuel B. Marks (q. v.); 2. Clementina Rebecca, m. Daniel Cram (q. v.); 3. Emily Virginia, m. Henry C. Semple (q. v.). Last residence: Kentucky.

JAMES, WILLIAM JOSEPH, lawyer and legislator, was born February 20, 1874, near Russellville, Franklin County; son of William Anderson and Mary Elizabeth (Pace) James, the former a member of Co. H, 16th Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army; grandson of Wyatt and Matilda (Kirk) Pace, of Russellville, and of Thomas James, a native of South Carolina, who removed to Franklin County, where he became a large planter and slaveholder; great-grandson of Jesse Kirk, a soldier of the Revolution. He was educated in the Russellville high school, and the State normal college at Florence, 1894-95; admitted to the bar in Russellville 1896; was made County solicitor 1898; chairman county Democratic committee 1898-1902; commissioner from Alabama to the Louisiana purchase centennial; and was elected in 1902 to the legislature from Franklin County. He is a Democrat; Baptist; Woodman of the World; and a Knight of Pythias. Married: December 4, 1895, to Ada, daughter of Daniel and Rebecca (Stone) Rogers, of Limestone County. Children: 1. Walter Joseph; 2. Grace; 3. William Burnette; 4. Hollis Rogers. Residence: Russellville.

JAY, ANDREW, Baptist minister, was born February 16, 1820, near Evergreen, Conecuh County, and died July 18, 1883 at Jay Villa; son of David and Margaritt (Brown) Jay, the former of whom came to Alabama from South Carolina, and was one of the earliest emigrants to Conecuh County. The family was first introduced into America by Augustus Jay who came about 1685 or 1686 from France. He was educated in the academy at Evergreen, and at Mayfield, Tenn. He devoted himself to planting in Conecuh County after leaving school. He served for some time as commissioner of roads and revenue; was appointed tax assessor; and was elected to the State legislature from Conecuh County in 1853 and in 1855. After the latter service, he retired from public life and was ordained to the Baptist ministry. He contributed to the establishment of the railroad through Conecuh, gave largely to the endowment of Howard college, and the Southern Baptist theological seminary at Louisville, Ky. During the War of Secession, he raised supplies of food and clothing for the Confederate soldiers, seeing to their shipment to the distant encampments, and was made major of a battalion of militia in 1863. His fortune was wiped out by the war, and after peace was established, he devoted his attention to his farm and to his ministry. He was a Whig. Married: September 23, 1841, near Evergreen, to Elizabeth Ashley, daughter of Wilson and Mary Ann Ashley (q. v.). Children: 1. David, b. January 31, 1845, d. June 25, 1869; 2. Wilson Ashley, d. in 1877, m. Annie B. Howard, who resides in Atlanta, Ga.; 3. Andrew, jr., d. 1903, m. Georgia A. Robson, who resides in Evergreen; 4. Mary Caroline, m. William Henry Robson, resides at Evergreen. Last residence: Jay Villa.

JAY, ANDREW, physician, was born June 28, 1851, at Jay Villa, Conecuh County, and died May 8, 1903, at Evergreen; son of Andrew and Caroline Elizabeth (Ashley) Jay (q. v.). He was educated in the schools and academies of his native county; and was graduated from the medical college at Mobile, 1872. He at once entered upon the practice of medicine, and with the exception of a small farm and drug business, devoted his entire life to his profession. He filled all the offices in the Conecuh County medical society, and was a senior life coun-seller in the Alabama State medical association. He had been coroner of Conecuh County, and represented that county in the State legislature, 1902. He was a Democrat; Mason; Knight of Pythias; and a Knight of Honor. Married: December 15, 1880, in Brooklyn precinct, Conecuh County, to Georgia Aurelia, daughter of Noah and Mary M. Robson, formerly of Georgia. Children: 1. Georgia Lucile; 2. Andrew, jr.; 3. Irma; 4. Carolina Elizabeth; 5. Leonora, deceased; 6. Wilson Ashley. Last residence: Evergreen.

McQUEEN SMITH

JEEMS, VACHEL, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 75, and a resident of Lauderdale County; private and sergeant Maryland State Troops; enrolled on May 22, 1824, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $90.27.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34.

JEFFERS, THOMAS, city official, was born in July, 1838, at Macon, Ga.; son of John E. and Eliza (Rombert) Jeffers, both natives of Georgia, the former of whom was clerk of Bibb County, Ga., for fifteen years. He was educated in the common schools of Macon, and after leaving school was apprenticed to the Wilmington machine company, at Wilmington, N. C. After serving an apprenticeship of six years, he became engineer on the Wilmington and Manchester railroad and remained in that position until 1860. He enlisted as a private in the Tenth North Carolina light artillery, C. S. Army, and served with that regiment until in 1863, when he was put on detached service as engineer on the Wilmington and Waldon railroad for the transportation of troops. From that time until some time after the close of the war, he traveled extensively in various positions for the government. He was appointed master mechanic of the South and North Alabama railroad shops in 1871, and shortly afterward was placed in charge of the railroad shops in Birmingham as master mechanic. In 1878 he formed a co-partnership with Jackson and Morris, in the saw-mill and lumber business; was elected mayor of Birmingham in 1878, and was re-elected in 1880. Previous to that time, he had served the city for several terms as a member of the board of aldermen. He inaugurated the sewerage system of Birmingham; was organizer and one of the incorporators of the First Avenue Street railway company; organized the Birmingham gas company; and for several years was superintendent of that company and of the Electric light company. He is a Mason and a member of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers. He was married in 1867 and has two children. Residence: Birmingham.

JEFFRIES, A. S., member of the constitutional convention of 1865, from Greene County.

JEFFRIES, JOHN M., major, 41st Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army.

JEFFRIES, L. E., lawyer, general counsel for the Southern railway; formerly a resident of Selma where he practiced his profession. Residence: Washington, D. C.

JELKS, WILLIAM DORSEY, editor, governor of Alabama, president of the Protective life insurance company, was born November 7, 1855, in Warrior Stand, Macon County; son of Joseph William Dorsey and Jane Goodrum (Frazer) Jelks, the former was killed in June, 1862, while a captain in the Third Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army; grandson of Robert and Matilda (Crowell) Jelks, the former a native of Halifax County, N. C., the latter a sister of John Crowell (q. v.), the first representative in congress of the Alabama territory. His mother was a daughter of Thomas and Martha (Bass) Frazer, who lived at Warrior Stand. On his father's side he was related to the Cromwells of England, "Crowell" having originally been written "Cromwell." There is a definite history of the omission of the "m" when the Crowells fled to England to avoid the Stuarts.

Bereft of his father at the age of six, his early life was spent at Union Springs. He was educated in the common schools of Bullock County and in 1873 entered Mercer university, Georgia, from which he was graduated in 1876. Kind relatives loaned him the money for his college course, which he returned in later years, ever holding these friends and kinsmen in sacred memory.

He was made an A. M. by Mercer university, and afterwards an LL. D. by the University of Alabama. The board of trustees of this latter institution at commencement conferred the degree of LL. D. on a number of Alabamians, including Gov. Jelks, but being a member of the board of trustees he declined to accept the degree, directing the secretary of the board not to include his name. Literary studies while in college came easily first in their attraction for him. In 1876 he returned to Union Springs, where he was engaged by the largest firm in that town to keep its books. He sought thus to pay back the borrowed money which had been furnished him for his college course. In 1879 he acquired an interest in the "Herald," published at Union Springs. Shortly afterwards thinking that he might better his fortunes he removed to Eufaula, where he purchased the Eufaula "Times," which, under his management, attained a wide circulation and influence. The paper boasted that it had a larger circulation in Alabama than any paper printed in the State, religious or secular, and it so boasted for ten years. It was probably the most often quoted newspaper in the State. Long before he entered politics he was a well known figure in State affairs. His paper always fought the battles of democracy with vigor and stood up for the editor's convictions without regard to friends or results. Incidentally he earned in his 19 years of ownership of that paper and its publishing department what he afterwards alluded to as a country competency. His familiarity with men and measures, his fair treatment of his contemporaries and his lucid grasp of intricate problems and his absolute reliability, all combined to make him a man of mark, when local conditions brought him forward in 1898 to represent the County of Barbour in the State senate.

Mr. Jelks served when about twenty-two years of age as a member of the common council of Union Springs. Afterwards at Eufaula he was made a member of the city school board, serving six or eight years as a member of that board and as superintendent of education for the city. This last post was honorary.

It was while acting as superintendent and a member of the public school board that the present public school building at Eufaula, since enlarged, was built. He gave much of his time to the work, being consumingly interested in the public schools of that city.

In 1898 he became a candidate for the State senate from Barbour County, defeating in the primaries two most excellent and well qualified gentlemen. He was elected for one term of four years, the legislature then meeting biennially. Under the system then in vogue one-half of the senators were elected every two years. He became a candidate for the presidency of the senate in 1900. Before the senate was due to meet, Mr. Samford, who had been elected governor in August before, was understood to be mortally stricken, and the informed public felt that in all probability the president of the senate, the successor to the governor, would serve at least a part of Mr. Samford's term. The campaign for president of the senate at that time was probably the most interesting and notable ever held in this State. Five very eminent gentlemen contested the election with Mr. Jelks, all withdrawing, however, before the final vote was taken.

Mr. Jelks served the State as governor for five years and eight months, a longer time than any preceding governor had served. He was called upon to act in Governor Samford's place and took the oath of office instead of Governor Samford, and served as governor thirty days. Governor Samford being sufficiently restored, took up the duties of his office and served the State for six months, when he died. Governor Jelks became governor on June 11th, 1901. The new constitution just then adopted provided for an additional term for the governor of two months, which made Mr. Jelks' services as governor run for five years and eight months, less an interim of several months, when being sick, Lieut. Governor R. M. Cunningham, acted in his stead.

Following the expiration of the term for which Governor Samford had been elected, Governor Jelks became a candidate for governor for the succeeding term of four years. The contest in the primary was between Ex-Governor Jos. F. Johnston, afterwards U. S. Senator Johnston, and Gov. Jelks. In the election he defeated J. W. A. Smith, republican candidate.

When Gov. Jelks was in the senate he was much interested in the new constitution. He believed that it was impossible for the citizenship of this State to live decently under conditions which constantly threatened the State with the domination of the ignorant and criminal. As State senator he was chairman of a senate committee on constitution and constitutional revision and amendment. This committee prepared a bill calling for a constitutional convention. Gov. Jelks became chairman of a joint committee appointed by a caucus of both houses and that committee perfected the bill. As president of the senate, afterwards, he signed the bill, and a few days later, having taken the oath of office as governor, he signed the bill as governor. He set a date for a vote on its adoption. Afterwards and by proclamation he named a date for the beginning of its operation. A reform of the electorate represented Governor Jelks' initial interest in the politics of that day. It will be seen that his connection with the new constitution in its beginning and until finally put in effect was very close.

The new constitution put a limit on State taxation, reducing the amount of the tax rate under the old law from 7½ to 6½ mills. While this reduction affected naturally the income of his administration, still he found sufficient funds to approve the increase of pensions for old soldiers by four times over previous appropriations. At the same time the legislature was able to appropriate to the schools of the State directly from the treasury, aside from the poll tax, an amount in the six years of his administration of about twice as much as the appropriations for any six years that went before it.

During his administration the uniform school book law was passed, saving the State many hundreds of thousands of dollars. Nine million dollars of the bonded debt of the State was refunded. Part of this debt now runs at 3½% interest, and another part at 4%, the previous bonded indebtedness maturing at different times and therefore refunded at different times and under different conditions of the money market. The governor was able to sell these bonds at an aggregate premium of over $300,000.00, by which amount he decreased the outstanding bonded obligations of the State. They were retired. In this same transaction the State saved something like $100,000.00 a year of interest over that which had been paid out in previous years. This reduction in the bonded indebtedness of the State while small was still the first reduction in the State's indebtedness since the days of Houston and the re-adjustment period.

Governor Jelks considered that the old method of leasing the State convicts by the month was altogether bad, and early in his administration decided that it should be changed. He gave it out that the State would, after a specific date, doctor, clothe, feed and guard with its own appointees all of the State's convicts; contracts were made with the mine operators for about half of these convicts, the contracts providing for the mining of coal by the ton. The convicts used on the farms and in the lumber camps were as jealously guarded as those in the mines. The statistics will probably show that in so far as the health of the convicts were concerned an improvement was had. While the purpose in the mind of Governor Jelks was to improve their physical and moral condition, incidentally this change in working the convicts paid the State a vast sum of money, which sum increased until in 1906, the net income of the State from this source for the year was something like $400,000.00. During the period of the Governor's services the net amount to the State from this source was something like ten times as much as the State had been able to earn under old conditions for a like number of years. The government was most economically administered; notwithstanding the reduction in the tax rate and the very great increase in the schools and pensions.

Governor Jelks went out of office with a cash balance in the treasury of something like $1,800,000.00. It might also be said that there was no surplus in the treasury when he went in. Of this sum he advised the legislature in a final message that one million dollars of it was pure surplus and should be given to the schools. The legislature immediately thereafter appropriated large sums to the common schools and at the same time authorized the building of splendid halls at the University, at the Polytechnic and at Montevallo, which were built out of these accumulations.

It was during his administration that a demand for lower railroad rates swept the whole country covering every State. In this State a fight was made that this reform could best be carried out by electing the railroad commissioners by the people. A bill was passed to that effect, which was signed by him. He was apprehensive that the people would go too far, that a campaign for the election of candidates would commit these candidates to such rates as would cripple the common carriers and probably destroy them. Besides Governor Jelks could not get himself to differentiate between inter and intra-state rates, recognizing, as he thought, the impossibility of assessing a proper cost to each. He foresaw that one great national commission, with branch commissions reporting to it, must be the final result before approximate justice could be done both railroads and people.

The capitol was enlarged during his administration. An appropriation of $150,000 was voted by the legislature, and the south end of the Capitol Square was purchased in part and condemned in part, there being a dozen residences on that part of the present Capitol grounds. These had to be torn down and the present addition to the Capitol built, providing many new offices and including the present permanent home for the Department of Archives and History. The purchase of this ground and the building of the present south wing of the Capitol was made within the appropriation.

In 1912 Governor Jelks was elected a delegate from the State at large to the Baltimore convention, which convention nominated Woodrow Wilson, and there the delegation elected him national committeeman for Alabama. While on the national committee he undertook to have that body declare itself for the temporary organization of the next national convention on a basis of district sovereignty instead of state sovereignty. He was opposed to allowing one man in any large State vote the whole delegation by majority rule as was done at Baltimore. The committee declined to pass a resolution to that effect. The ruling forces in the committee as then organized and the spirit of their control, did not appeal to him. He positively declined to become a candidate for committeeman again. Aside from the official positions named in this sketch, Governor Jelks was never a candidate for office. He has declined repeatedly since 1907 the ardent insistence of good friends to offer for the governorship.

Governor Jelks went out of office in January, 1907. Immediately thereafter he organized the Protective life insurance co., of Birmingham, and became its first president, and at the time of the publication of this book retains that position. The Protective life insurance co. is a most successful institution and a growing one.

Married: June 7th, 1883, at Eufaula, to Alice, daughter of Henry R. and Addie Keitt Shorter (q. v.). Henry Shorter was one of the best known men in Alabama. He held a high official station in Alabama for about fourteen years. Her uncle, John Gill Shorter, was war governor of Alabama. Another uncle, Eli S. Shorter, was a representative in the National Congress before the war. Clement Clay Shorter, Speaker of the Alabama House of Representatives at 26 years of age, was her first cousin, as were Reuben F. Kolb and John Martin McKleroy. Both of these last named gentlemen being State figures. Children: 1. Catherine, m. Edward Tripp Comer, and they are the parents of three children. 1. William Jelks, 2. Edward, Jr., 3. Alice Shorter. Residence: Birmingham.

JEMISON, CLARA, author and writer. Residence: Tuscaloosa.

JEMISON, JOHN STEELE, lawyer and planter, was born February 4, 1856, in Tuscaloosa; son of William Henry and Elizabeth A. (Patrick) Jemison (q. v.), of Eatonton, Ga.; grandson of William and Sarah (Mims) Jemison, of Eatonton, Ga., who removed to Tuscaloosa about 1822. He was educated in the schools of Tuscaloosa, entered the University of Alabama and graduated, 1876. He studied law and acted as quartermaster and later commandant of cadets from 1876-79. He graduated from the law department during the latter year and began the practice in Montgomery. In 1881-85 he edited the "Alabama Law Journal," and in 1884 removed to Lafayette where he practiced until 1886, then located permanently in Birmingham as attorney of the Birmingham land and loan co. He is a Democrat; and an Episcopalian. Married: November 7, 1883, at Lafayette, to Margie Allen. Children: 1. Elizabeth Virginia; 2. Allen Bryce. Residence: Birmingham.

JEMISON, ROBERT, lawyer, business man, State legislator and senator, member Alabama Secession convention, Confederate State senator, 1863-65, was born September 17, 1802, in Lincoln County, Ga., near Augusta, and died October 17, 1871, at Tuscaloosa; son of William and Sarah (Mims) Jemison of Twiggs County, Ga.; grandson of Robert and Margaret (Kirkham) Jemison, of Philadelphia, Pa., who removed to near Augusta, Ga., before the Revolutionary War; great-grandson of Robert and Sarah Jemison, who came in colonial times, from Scotland to America. He was educated by Prof. N. S. S. Beaman, the stepfather of William L. Yancey; entered the University of Georgia and among his classmates were Dixon H. Lewis and W. T. Colquitt. He read law under Eli Shorter, of Eatonton, Putnam County, Ga., and about 1826, removed, with his father's family, to Alabama, locating in Pickens County as a planter where he remained until 1836. At that date he removed to Tuscaloosa and engaged in several lines of business, established a saw-mill, a flouring-mill, toll-bridge and a stage-coach line, carrying mail. He also conducted his plantation. He served in the State legislature, 1840-50; and in the State senate, 1851-63. In 1861, he represented Tuscaloosa in the convention that took Alabama out of the Union, although personally opposing Secession. His able arguments against that movement almost prevailed during one period of discussion, but he lost when the vote was taken. He gave his loyal support to the State as a "sovereign," and later to the Confederate States. In 1863, he was elected to the Confederate States senate, and served until the downfall of the Confederacy. He assisted in promoting the Selma, Rome and Dalton railroad, in establishing the hospital for treatment of the insane, and in systematizing the financial affairs of Alabama. He was a Union Whig, opposed to Secession; after 1865, a Democrat; and a Methodist. Married: at Tuscaloosa, to Priscilla Cherokee, daughter of Greenberry and Elizabeth (Van Weter) Taylor of Mobile, and sister of John T. Taylor of that city. Children: 1. Cherokee Mims, m. Andrew Coleman Hargrove (q. v.), of Tuscaloosa. Last residence: Tuscaloosa.

JEMISON, ROBERT, IV, business man, was born September 12, 1853, in Tuscaloosa; son of William Henry and Elizabeth Ann (Patrick) Jemison (q. v.); and nephew of the confederate state's senator, Robert Jemison (q. v.). He received his early education in private schools in Tuscaloosa and Carrollton, and graduated from the University of Alabama with high honors, 1874, receiving the B. L. degree, but never practiced law. Later his alma mater conferred upon him the honorary degree of LL. D. Upon the completion of his education he entered business with the J. Snow hardware company, owning later a half interest in the firm, and holding that association until 1884, when he removed to Birmingham. Upon arriving at that place he conducted for two years a grocery brokerage business which he afterwards disposed of. In the meantime he had entered the banking, real estate and insurance business. In 1885 he became vice-president of the Berney national bank, and the next year led in the organization of the Iron and oak insurance company, raising a capital stock of $100,000, and was elected its president. In 1886 he formed the East Lake land company, with a stock of $200,000, and was elected president. Soon afterwards he, with several associates, organized the Birmingham land and loan company, with a capital stock of $50,000, and was elected on the directorate. Later he assisted in organizing the Central mortgage and trust company, which financed building and real estate development through the city of Birmingham and its environs. During his early residence in the city of his adoption, he aided in organizing the Birmingham railway and electric company, now the Birmingham railway, light and power company, and became its president; one of his administrative achievements being to merge the interests of several independent companies with his company, thereby bringing into one efficient, co-ordinated system, the several other lines and companies. Married: October 25, 1876, in Tuscaloosa, to Eugenia Rebecca, daughter of Dr. Nicholas Turner and Ann Murphy (Hill) Sorsby, who lived successively at Eutaw and Tuscaloosa. Children: 1. Robert, V. (q. v.); 2. John S., m. Margaret Packman; 3. Annie Hill, m. A. H. Woodward (q. v.); 4. Elizabeth Patrick, m. L. C. Morris, physician; 5. Sorsby; 6. Elbert Sevier; 7. Richard Wilmer, deceased. Residence: Birmingham.

JEMISON, ROBERT, V, real estate promoter and civic leader, was born February 28, 1878, at Tuscaloosa; son of Robert and Eugenia (Sorsby) Jemison (q. v.). He was educated in the public schools of Birmingham and received his preparatory instruction from Professor Joel C. DuBose, 1894-95; attended the University of Alabama, Tuscaloosa, 1895-96, but resigned during his junior year to enter the University of the South, which he attended during 1897-98. His entrance into the business life of Birmingham was with a hardware firm, 1899-1903. During the latter year he organized the Jemison real estate and insurance company, which has grown to the place of first magnitude in this type of business within the State, and out of which have grown a number of subsidiary companies, viz., Central park land company; Mountain terrace land company; Fairfield land company; Elmwood cemetery company; City investment company; First bank of Fairfield; Central mortgage and trust company; Jemison-Seibels insurance agency. He is also a director in the First national bank of Birmingham. Mr. Jemison was elected president of the chamber of commerce of his city during a trying period of its history and his administration was characterized by remarkable achievements both in a civic and material way. He was president of the Alumni society of the University of Alabama, 1906-07; is vice-chairman of the Park commission of Birmingham; trustee of the Industrial school of Alabama; member of the Efficiency society of New York, and the Southern and country clubs of Birmingham. He is a Democrat; Episcopalian and a member of the Phi Delta Theta college fraternity. Married: November 12, 1901, in Birmingham, to Virginia Earle, daughter of William Augustus and Virginia (Mudd) Walker (q. v.). Children: 1. Virginia; 2. Robert; 3. William Walker. Residence: Birmingham.

JEMISON, WILLIAM CARLOS, newspaper editor and mayor, was born December 2, 1850, in Tuscaloosa, and died March 28, 1901, in Galveston, Tex.; son of William Henry and Elizabeth Ann (Patrick) Jemison (q. v.), and brother of Robert, sr., and John S. Jemison, (q. v.). His education was interrupted by the results of the War of Secession, but with the brave spirit that dominated the manhood of the period he met the stern duties of life. For a while he engaged in planting and school teaching, pursuing his studies between hours of work. He entered the law department of the University of Alabama and graduated in 1874, practicing only a few years, however, before engaging in the coal and iron business. He was mayor of Tuscaloosa 1889 to 1890 and 1894 to 1900 and during his incumbency, he invited the Rivers and Harbors convention to meet in his city, and demonstrated to that body the possibilities of the Warrior river as a navigable stream of potential possibilities. He inaugurated the system of graded public schools during his administration, as well as barge line communication with Mobile. He was editor and proprietor of the "Tuscaloosa Times" at the time of his death. Married: (1) February 24, 1879, at Ocean Springs, Miss., to Eliska Leftwich, daughter of J. G. W. Leftwich of that place; (2) July 10, 1889, at Talladega, to Clara Roberts. Children: by the first wife, 1. Kate; 2. Allen, Birmingham; by the second wife: 3. William; 4. Margaret. Last residence: Tuscaloosa.

JEMISON, WILLIAM HENRY, planter, teacher and quartermaster at the University of Alabama, was born March 4, 1820, at Eatonton, Putnam County, Ga., and died November 11, 1892, at East Lake; son of William and Sarah (Mims) Jemison, who removed from Eatonton to Twiggs County, Ga., where they settled on a large plantation, later coming to Perry County and finally to Tuscaloosa, where he built a beautiful home on one of his plantations near Tuscaloosa, which has been known successively as "Crab Orchard," "Cherokee Place," and "Hargrove Place"; grandson of Robert and Margaret (Kirkham) Jemison, both of Irish descent, the former a Revolutionary soldier of Lincoln County, Ga., and at whose home, twenty-five miles from Augusta, Ga., General Washington was once entertained; great-grandson of Robert and Sarah Jemison, who emigrated to America from the north of Ireland, 1730, and settled on a farm in Pennsylvania, parents of seven sons, who settled in Kentucky, North Carolina and Georgia, being the progenitors of a large connection in those states; and brother of Robert Jemison (q. v.). He graduated at Princeton university; located in Tuscaloosa, and in late life removed to Birmingham. He was a captain in the C. S. Army; member of the Alabama legislature; professor of agriculture at the Alabama polytechnic institute; quartermaster at the University of Alabama, 1873-82. Married: Elizabeth Ann Patrick. Children: 1. Virginia Ann, deceased, unmarried; 2. Carrie, died in infancy; 3. Sarah Elizabeth, m. John Cade, Tuscaloosa, both deceased; 4. Margaret Penn, m. W. J. Prowell, both deceased; 5. Mary Gabrilla, m. J. W. Riddell, both deceased; 6. William Carlos (q. v.); 7. Robert IV (q. v.); 8. John Steel (q. v.); 9. Mims Penn, m. (1) Leila Lee, (2) Mary Torry, the latter surviving. Last residence: Birmingham.

JENKINS, GEORGE LUCKEY, Methodist minister, was born July 22, 1863, near Fort Deposit, Lowndes County, and died at Ensley, March 13, 1915; son of Rev. Andrew Jackson and Georgia Josephine (Watson) Jenkins, the former a native of Camden, a graduate of Alabama university, in 1845 with A. M. degree and became a Methodist Protestant minister in 1856; grandson of Rev. John and Mary Ann (Dunham) Jenkins of Camden, S. C., later of Wilcox County; and of Emsley and Mary (Ellis) Watson, who lived near Fort Deposit; great-grandson of Joseph Jenkins who fought under General Francis Marion in the Revolution. Rev. G. L. Jenkins attended the village schools of Letohatchie, under Professors D. F. Gaffney and George W. Thigpen; Emory college, Oxford, Ga., 1883-84, during the presidency of Dr. A. G. Haygood, later bishop; and the Southern university, Greensboro, 1886-88, receiving the degree of B. S. He entered the Methodist ministry, November 22, 1888, and has had pastorates at North Birmingham, Madison, Tuscumbia, Bridgeport, Bessemer, Roanoke, Anniston, New Decatur, Tuscaloosa, Florence and Ensley; was presiding elder of Talladega District; trustee Birmingham college. He was a Democrat; a Mason; Knight of Pythias; Odd Fellow; and a member of Kappa Alpha college fraternity. Married: January 26, 1898, at Lafayette, to Myrtis Viola, daughter of Hon. Lewis S. and Sallie (Trammell) Schuessler of Lafayette; granddaughter of Lewis Scheussler and of Col. Elisha Trammell of Georgia, founder of the cotton mills at Lannette and Langdale, Ga. Children: 1. John Lewis; 2. George L., jr.; 3. James Andrew; 4. William H.; 5. Edward Schuessler; 6. Joseph Embree; 7. Frank Willard. Last residence: Ensley.

JENKINS, JAMES ARTHUR, Baptist minister, was born August 10, 1871, at Inverness, Bullock County; son of James Elmore and Annie Jane (Cogdell) Jenkins, the former who served in the C. S. Army, and who represented Bullock County in the State legislature; grandson of Jonas and Mary Jenkins, and of Charlie and Mary Cogdell, all of Inverness. He obtained his early education in the schools of Bullock County; attended Howard college, East Lake; and the Southern Baptist theological seminary at Louisville, Ky. He has served pastorates in Indiana, Kentucky and Alabama, resigning the pastorate at Wetumpka to become chaplain of convicts in April, 1911. He is a Democrat; a Mason; an Odd Fellow; and a Knight of Pythias. Married: November 12, 1902, in Montgomery, to Amanda Ruth, daughter of James Alexander and Jennie Stewart, of Montgomery; granddaughter of Patrick and Martha Stewart, and of John and Lucy (Hancock) Hilliard. Children: 1. Mina Judson; 2. Frank Elmore; 3. Frances Elizabeth. Residence: Montgomery.

JENKINS, JAMES ELMORE, farmer and legislator, was born February 22, 1847, at Bruceville, Bullock County; son of Jonas and Nancy (Townsend) Jenkins, the former a native of North Carolina; grandson of Samuel and Polly Ann (Barnett) Townsend, of Bullock County. He was educated in the common schools of his native county and served in Co. I, 17th Alabama infantry regiment, Canty's brigade, C. S. Army. He is a farmer; justice of the peace; and represented Bullock County in the legislature of 1911. He is a Democrat; a Baptist; and a Mason. Married: (1) Mary; (2) Lillie, both daughters of Charles and Mary (Gilmore) Cogdell, of Inverness. Children: 1. Ollou, m. Angeline Moore; 2. James Arthur, m. Ruth Stuart; 3. Luther; 4. Bessie; 5. Mamie, m. A. M. Crenshaw; 6. Annie; 7. Charles Rufus. Residence: Inverness.

JENKINS, JOHN, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 81, and a resident of Limestone County; private and sergeant S. C. Continental Militia; enrolled on June 14, 1833, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $65; sums received to date of publication of list, $195.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv. Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34.

JENKINS, JOHN F., grand master, grand council, Masons, 1911.

JENKINS, LUCKY W., grand high priest, grand chapter, 1881-82; deputy grand master, grand council, Masons, 1879-85.

JENKINS, R. M., president of the Jenkins lumber company. Residence: Birmingham.

JENKINS, SAMUEL CALHOUN, lawyer, was born October 28, 1868, at Allenton, Wilcox County; son of Lucky Walker and Ellen Shaw (Nettles) Jenkins, the former a native of Allenton, who lived during the greater part of his life at Camden, where he was a practicing physician, and served in the C. S. Army in the company of his brother, Capt. Thomas F. Jenkins; grandson of Rev. John and Fannie (Dunham) Jenkins, the former a pioneer Methodist minister, who was in Fort Mims in 1813 until a few days before the massacre, at the close of the Creek War went up the Alabama River and settled in what became Wilcox County, and was one of the commissioners appointed to select the county site and to contract for buildings, and of John Nettles, of Black's Bend, Wilcox County; great-grandson of Joseph Jenkins, a Revolutionary soldier under Gen. Marion, while his wife was a daughter of Joseph Lewis, a leading Tory in the war. Mr. Jenkins received his preparatory education at Camden; was graduated at the University of Alabama, A. B., 1889, and A. M., 1890. He taught school three years; studied law; and was graduated from the law school of his alma mater, LL. B., 1897. He began the practice of law in 1894, while superintendent of education in Wilcox County, which office he held from 1892 to 1896; was a member of the house of representatives, from Wilcox County, 1896-1898; was a State senator, 1898-1900; a delegate to the constitutional convention of 1901; moved to Baldwin County, February, 1902; and represented that county in the State legislature, 1907 and 1911. He is a Democrat; a Methodist, and a Knight of Pythias. Residence: Bay Minette.

JENKINS, THOMAS FAREWELL, farmer and soldier; was born November 5, 1827, at Allenton, Wilcox County; son of John and Fannie (Dunham) Jenkins, both natives of South Carolina, the former a native of Beaufort County, of Scotch ancestry, the latter of Welch ancestry. His education was obtained in the schools of Wilcox County, and with the exception of his service in the Confederate Army he passed his life on his farm. He was a justice of the peace in Geneva County for twelve years; entered the Confederate Army as captain cavalry company from Wilcox County in 1861, going first to Pensacola, Fla., after the battles of Shiloh and Corinth he returned home and organized a company made up from Wilcox, Coffee and Dale Counties, which became a part of the 54th Alabama cavalry regiment, of which he was later elected major, a position he held until captured near Florence, and sent as a prisoner to Johnson's Island, where he was held until close of the war. He returned to Wilcox County where he resided until his removal to Geneva County in 1882. He was a Democrat; a Presbyterian; and a Mason. Married: November, 1854, at Oak Hill, Wilcox County, Margaret, daughter of Simeon and Amanda (Wardlaw) Bonham of that place, a niece of Gen. Milledge F. Bonham of South Carolina. Children: 1. Joseph D., m. Annie Sellers; 2. Bessie W., m. James J. Johnson; 3. Thomas, dec.; 4. S. Bonham, dec.; 5. Anna, dec.; 6. John A., m. Daisy Carr; 7. Archie W., m. Lucile Walker; 8. Jennie, m. J. Walter Kehoe. Last residence: Geneva.

JENKINS, WILLIAM, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 73, and a resident of Jackson County; sergeant, lieutenant and captain S. C. State Troops; enrolled on June 6, 1834, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $170.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34.

JENNINGS, WILLIAM, soldier of the American Revolution, a resident of Shelby County; private, particular service not shown; enrolled on August 14, 1833, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832; annual allowance, $26.66; transferred from Tennessee.—Pension Book, State Branch Bank, Mobile. He is buried in the old cemetery at Harpersville, and on his tomb is the following: "William Jennings, a Revolutionary soldier, born Feb. 26, 1761, died August 17, 1840." Other members of the Jennings family are buried there.

WILLIAM T. SHEEHAN

JERNIGAN, JOSIAH, city clerk, was born November 24, 1847, near Milton, Santa Rosa County, Fla., and died July 6, 1908, at Troy. On November 24, 1864, he enlisted in Co. I, 15th Confederate cavalry regiment. He removed to Rose Hill, Covington County, 1861; Elba, 1866; and finally located in Troy, November 10, 1869. He was register in chancery from November, 1869, to November, 1880, and served as city clerk of Troy for a number of years. He was a Baptist and a Mason. Married: September 28, 1871, near Troy, to Hortense Mullins. There were five children from this union. Last residence: Troy.

JESSEE, GEORGE M., lieutenant colonel, 6th Confederate battalion cavalry; Major Jessee's battalion, Kentucky Mounted Rifles, C. S. Army.

JEWETT, MILO PARKER, first president of Judson college, was born April 27, 1808, in St. Johnsbury, Vt., and died June 9, 1882, in Milwaukee, Wis.; son of Dr. Calvin Jewett, who was born in 1782 and died in 1853, was a graduate of Dartmouth college, M. D., 1821, and a physician of St. Johnsbury; nephew of the Rev. Luther Jewett. He was prepared for college at Bradford academy, Vermont, and was graduated from Dartmouth college, A. B., 1828, and A. M., 1831. He was principal of Holmes academy, Plymouth, N. H., 1828-1829; studied law in the office of Josiah Quincy, Rumney, N. H., 1829-1830; abandoned the law in 1830 and entered Andover theological seminary; and was graduated from that institution in 1833. During his vacations, he lectured on the common school in New Hampshire, Massachusetts and Connecticut, and his lectures started the movement which resulted in the common school system adopted by the state of New York. After his graduation, he decided to teach rather than preach, and accepted a professorship in Marietta collegiate institute. He helped to raise funds for the college, founded the next year, and was professor of rhetoric and political economy at Marietta college, 1834-1838. He was a member of the State educational convention of Ohio which led to the establishment of the common school system in that state in 1835, and his report on the subject created interest all over the country and resulted in the special educational mission and work of Horace Mann in New England. He united with the Baptist church in 1839, after resigning his professorship in Marietta college, and was ordained to the ministry by the Siloam Baptist church of Marion. He was made the first president of Judson female institute, just established at Marion, in 1838, and conducted, in connection with the school, the "Alabama Baptist," which became the Baptist organ of the state. In 1855, he returned to the north and established Cottage Hill seminary for girls at Poughkeepsie, N. Y., and was its principal, 1855-1861. While in Poughkeepsie, he met Mathew Vassar, and suggested to him the plan of a thoroughly equipped and endowed college for the higher education of young women. Mr. Vassar adopted the plan, and in 1861, when Vassar college was established, Mr. Jewett was made its first president. In 1862, at the request of the trustees, he visited Europe to inspect the universities, libraries, and art galleries in Great Britain and on the continent to obtain information about the best educational systems in the old world. He was attacked by almost total blindness in 1864, and resigned the presidency of Vassar. He moved to Milwaukee, Wis., in 1867, and was made honorary president of Milwaukee female college, chairman of the board of visitors of the University of Wisconsin, president of the board of health, of the Wisconsin State temperance society, of the Milwaukee County Bible society, and chairman of the Baptist educational association. The University of Rochester conferred upon him the honorary degree of LL. D., in 1861. He was the author of "Jewett on Baptism," 1840; "Report of the President's Visit to Europe," 1863; "Report on the Organization of Vassar College," 1863; "Relation of Boards of Health to Intemperance," 1874; "A Plea for Academies," 1875; "The Model Academy," 1875. Last residence: Milwaukee, Wis.

JEWETT, ORIGEN SIBLEY, lawyer, was born April 5, 1820, in Mobile, and was killed at the battle of Chickamauga, September, 1863; son of Elijah and Salome (Sibley) Jewett, the former a native of Thompson, Conn., born February 8, 1782, a soldier of the War of 1812, died in Mobile, September 1, 1830; grandson of Joseph and Rachael (Nichols) Jewett of Thompson, Conn., and of Col. Timothy and Mary (Barstow) Sibley of Thompson, Conn., and Providence, R. I., the former a descendant of Capt. John Sibley who settled in Salem, Mass., in 1629, was selectman in 1636, and the progenitor of a line that was active in the French and American Wars, and the American Revolution. John Jewett the founder of the line in America, was of French or Spanish origin, immigrated from London and was married to Elizabeth Cummings of Topfield, Mass., in 1661, became a landowner, member of the legislature, and died at Ipswich, leaving twelve children. Origen Sibley Jewett was educated in Mobile, later graduating at Brown's university, Providence, R. I.; read law in the office of Gov. John Gayle, Mobile, practiced with Robert Armistead in Montgomery; was member of the legislature, 1861, from Clarke County. He entered the services of the C. S. Army and in the winter of 1861-62 was elected major of the 38th Alabama infantry regiment. He was an Episcopalian. Married: December 21, 1853, at Montgomery, to Clara Lee, daughter of Thomas and Clementina (Scott) James, granddaughter of Gen. John Scott, one of the early settlers of Montgomery. Children: 1. Thomas James, died 1890; 2. Virginia Scott, died 1908; 3. Clara Lee, m. Samuel Blackburn Marks and resides in Montgomery; 4. Origen Sibley, jr., died 1908; 5. Eliza Elliott, died 1863. Last residence: Gainestown, Clarke County.

JIM BOY, or TUSTENAGGEE, EMATHLA, Creek Chief. See Indian chiefs and associated characters.

JOHN, JOSEPH FRANCIS, Episcopal clergyman, was born June 5, 1847, at Uniontown, Perry County; son of Joseph Reid and Rosa Jane (Smith) John (q. v.). He obtained his early schooling in Selma and Columbiana, attended the University of Alabama, and was graduated from the Virginia military institute, July 4, 1870. He was ordained a priest in the Protestant Episcopal church, and has served as rector of the churches at Uniontown and Faunsdale, of Grace church at Anniston, of Trinity church at Jacksonville, Ill., and of St. Andrews at Clearfield, Pa. He is a Royal Arch Mason; an Odd Fellow; a Knight of Pythias; an Elk; and a Moose. Married: November 28, 1871, at Marion, to Sarah M., daughter of Hugh and Sarah R. (Jones) Davis, who lived at that place, the former, born November 22, 1811, and the latter, October 13, 1819; granddaughter of Nathaniel and Martha (Bowe) Davis, the former, born in 1784, and the latter, May 16, 1791, and of Thomas Anderson and Mary (Crenshaw) Jones; great-granddaughter of Stephen and Elizabeth (Bowe) Davis, and of Nathaniel and Susan (Davis) Bowe; great-great-granddaughter of William Davis, born in Wales, and of John Dabb Davis, who was a son of William Davis, of Wales. Children: 1. Sarah, m. Henry William English, Jacksonville, Ill.; 2. Samuel Will, Christobal-Colon, Panama; 3. Laura; 4. Isabelle, m. Henry Franklin Van Valzah, Tyronne, Pa.; 5. Agnes Frances.

JOHN, JOSEPH REID, lawyer, was born March 16, 1814, in the vicinity of Providence Church, Mecklenburg County, N. C., and died at Selma in 1889 son of Abel and Isabella (Reid) John, who lived at Providence Church, Mecklenburg County, the latter of Scotch-Irish descent; grandson of Daniel and Elizabeth (McClendon) John, of Mecklenburg County, N. C., the former a native of Wales, who came to America and settled first in Pennsylvania, then moved to South Carolina, and later to North Carolina, where he was married, lived and died. He was educated in the public schools of North Carolina, visited Alabama in 1836, and moved to the state in 1838. He located at Uniontown and for two years was occupied in teaching school and studying law with Col. C. W. Lee. He was admitted to the bar in 1839, and immediately began his practice at Uniontown. He was elected justice of the peace at that place for some years; was a representative from Perry County in the State legislature in 1847; moved to Selma in January, 1856, where he continued his law practice; was elected mayor of Selma in 1862; was appointed chancellor of the middle division in 1863 upon the resignation of Chancellor Byrd; was re-elected in 1865 under the reorganization of the State government; and held the office until 1868 when he was superseded by the reconstruction acts. He continued his practice until 1883 when he retired to spend the remainder of his life in quietude at his residence in Selma. He was a trustee of Dallas academy; was one of the original organizers of the East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia railway, at that time the East and West Alabama railway, and as its attorney procured its right of way, its charter, and the subsequent appropriations to its construction. During the War of Secession, the fortifications of Selma were constructed under his direction, and he was appointed receiver by the court to take and care for the property of Northern people sequestered there during the war. He was a leader in the movement for temperance, was a Democrat and a Methodist Episcopalian. Married: in 1837, at Mecklenburg, N. C., to Rosa Jane, daughter of David and Sarah (Black) Smith, who lived in Mecklenburg County, N. C.; granddaughter of David Smith, a native of Ireland. He had seven children, five sons and two daughters, among these Joseph Francis John (q. v.) and Samuel Williamson John (q. v.). Last residence: Selma.

JOHN, SAMUEL WILLIAMSON, lawyer and legislator, was born June 29, 1845, at Uniontown, Perry County; son of Joseph Reid and Rosa Jane (Smith) John (q. v.). He received his primary education in Selma. While yet a school boy, and following the patriotic impulses of the boys of that day, he joined the "Curry Dragoons," December, 1861, which organization became Co. F, 3rd Alabama Cavalry regiment, C. S. Army. He served the full term of his enlistment of one year, and was with his company at the battle of Shiloh, though not called into action. In response to the wishes of his family, he entered the University of Alabama, from which he graduated with the class of 1865. While a member of the corps of cadets in the University of Alabama, he shared with them the services they were called upon to perform at Blue Mountain, Pollard, Blakely, and in the night fight with Croxton's raiders at Tuscaloosa. After graduation he studied law in Selma under his father and was admitted to practice in the supreme court the day he attained his majority. He then entered upon a career as a lawyer and legislator. In 1872-73 he was solicitor of Dallas County, and in 1874-75, was a member of the City council of Selma. In 1882-83, 1884-85, 1886-87, and 1915 he represented Dallas County in the legislature. He was chairman of the committee on privileges and election, 1882-83; of the committee on commerce and common carriers, 1884-85, and of the judiciary committee, 1886-87, 1892, 1897. He represented Jefferson County in the legislature of 1897-98, 1899 and 1907, and Dallas County, 1915. He drew and largely contributed to the passage of the employer's liability act, Code of 1907, sections 1910-12; the child labor law, sections 5428-49; the juvenile delinquent law, sections, 6450-65, with the amendments adopted at the special session of 1909; the act providing a sanatorium for the study and treatment of tuberculosis, sections 771-93; the law defining the rights and liabilities of husband and wife, sections 4486-98; the uniform text book law, sections 1805-50; the revised charter of the Alabama girls technical institute, now the Alabama girls technical institute and college for women, Montevallo, sections 1912-1928; and the acts retaining the coal lands granted by Congress to the state for the use of the Alabama girls technical institute and regulating the sale thereof and funding the proceeds, sections 1829-32. He is also the author of the original act providing for examiners of public accounts, the act of establishing experiment stations at Auburn and Uniontown; the act to punish the taking of rebates; the acts requiring all school funds to be paid into the state treasury, and thence direct to teachers, the Dallas County jury law, and the present state jury law which is based on the former. He was on the committee appointed in 1894 to devise a new convict system for the state, and drew the several acts providing for the adoption and the publication of the "Codes" of 1887 and 1907. He was a member of joint committee on the judiciary, 1915, and author of the law consolidating all chancery and city courts with the circuit court. In 1885 he was instrumental in organizing the 3rd regiment, Alabama state troops, of which he was elected the first colonel. He has been a frequent contributor to the newspaper press, and is the author of an article on "Selma" in Northern Alabama illustrated. He was chairman of the joint committee of the "Code" in 1887, and was chairman of the code committee of 1907. In 1900-01 he was a member of the Alabama history commission, and assisted in the preparation of its "Report." He is a member of the Alabama bar association. For many years Col. John has been a member of the board of trustees of "The Alabama Insane Hospitals"; and until 1911 was a member of the Alabama girls technical institute; has been a trustee of Alabama State department of archives and history since its establishment in 1901; and while residing in Birmingham was a member and vice president of the city board of education. He is a Democrat; was a delegate to the National democratic convention in Denver, Colorado, 1908, and elector for the state at large in 1896; a Methodist; was delegate to General conference, 1886, of M. E. church, South; a Mason; a Knight Templar. Married: (1) in April, 1870, to Susie E. Woolsey, who in 1874 died without issue; (2) July 15, 1874, to Estelle Thornton Carson; and (3) June 1, 1887, to Rosa, daughter of John and Emily (Hughes) Clisby (q. v.). Children: by second wife, 1. Estelle Carson, m. Portis G. Welsh, Selma; by third wife, Joseph William, attorney of Mobile. Residence: Selma.

JOHNS, LLEWELLYN W., mining engineer, was born November 10, 1884, at Ponty Pridd, Glamorganshire, Wales, and died in February, 1912, in Birmingham; son of William and Catherine (Hopkins) Johns, of Ponty Pridd, Wales. He was trained as a mining engineer in the Western academy at Bath, England. After leaving school, he worked in the government chain works and in the mines as engineer and miner at Ponty Pridd, and when he was eighteen years of age, sailed for America. He arrived in New York, where he was employed by a surveyor for three months; worked on the Lehigh Valley railroad, building bridges at Allentown, Pa.; went to Wilkesbarre, Pa., where he worked in the coal mines; built cars for the Lake Shore railroad in Chicago; went to Omaha, Neb., and was engaged to work with the bridge force of the Union Pacific railroad; worked subsequently at Cheyenne, Wyo., at Ogden and Salt Lake City, Utah. He went to Montana and worked at Helena for a time; the next year took an abandoned claim in the placer mine, Lost Chance Gulch, and struck bed rock. He formed a partnership with a sawmill proprietor in order to build a flume, but at the end of six months the firm failed, leaving him penniless. He went to Pioche, Nev., and worked in the mines until 1868, then went east and worked in the mines and built cars for the Honeybrook coal company in Pennsylvania. He became mining and mechanical engineer of the company and remained in that position until the fall of 1870, at which time he went to Lime Lodge, Pa., and worked for six months for W. R. Thomas. He went south the next year; dug coal for Mr. J. T. Pierce at Warrior, Jefferson County; was superintendent of mines at Rising Fawn, Ga.; went to St. Louis in 1875; and to Virginia City, Nev., where he secured work first as a carpenter, later becoming timber boss, then assistant engineer of the Ophir mines; returned to Rising Fawn in the fall of 1875; went to Helena in 1877 and assumed control of the mines there, opening the Black Shale, the Little Pittsburg, and the Helena mines, and building one hundred coke ovens. In the spring of 1879, H. F. DeBardeleben bought out the mines and organized the Pratt coal and coke company, and Mr. Johns was made mining engineer of the company. He superintended the opening of slope No. 1, rebuilt the coke ovens at Helena and built ten new ones at Pratt mines; sank Ellen shaft and Slope No. 2, in 1880; opened Laura slope in 1885, and Enoch slope in 1886. He was a Mason; a Knight Templar; and an Elk. Married: in September, 1874, at Rising Fawn, to Jennie Scott, who had come from Durham, England, in her eighth year. He had four children. Last residence: Birmingham.

JOHNSON, A. B., pioneer Missionary Baptist preacher. Deceased.

JOHNSON, A. H., major, 1st Alabama cavalry regiment, C. S. Army.

JOHNSON, ALBERT SIDNEY, lawyer, was born July 29, 1888, at Choctaw Corner, Clarke County; son of William James and Susan Emma (Evans) Johnson, the former a native of Bashi, Clarke County, who lived at Choctaw Corner where he conducted a mercantile business, and later moved his business to Thomasville, was admitted to the bar in 1888 and since that time has practiced law; grandson of William England and Louisa M. (Davis) Johnson, of Bashi, the former a North Carolinian, who came to Alabama in 1852, was a planter and served in the C. S. Army, and of Louis G. and Harriet E. (Grayson) Evans, of Linden, Marengo County; great-grandson of William M. Johnson, a captain in the War of 1812; great-great-grandson of William Johnson, a general in the Revolutionary War. Mr. Johnson was prepared in the South Alabama Institute, at Thomasville, and was graduated from the University of Alabama, LL. B., 1907. He was licensed to practice law, in 1907, and located in Clarke County, forming a partnership with his father, under the firm name of Johnson & Johnson. He was elected city attorney of Thomasville, 1907; and has served as a member of the board of education of Thomasville. He is a Democrat; a Methodist; a Knight of Pythias; and a Woodman of the World. Residence: Thomasville.

JOHNSON, BERNARD, pioneer physician, legislator and militia colonel, was born August 5, 1782, in Greene County, Ga., and died February 7, 1843, in Dallas County; son of Thomas and Agnes (Greer) Johnson, the former of whom was born March 10, 1742, in South Carolina, resided in Greene County, Ga., and died there, March 5, 1816, served as a lieutenant in the Revolutionary War with troops from Georgia, the latter was born in Pennsylvania and removed with her parents to South Carolina, thence to Georgia, and died in Dallas County, September 5, 1820. The ancestors of Dr. Johnson came from the highlands of Scotland to Georgia with Governor Oglethorpe in 1732, and were descended from Sir Gilbert Johnson of the Johnson clan, seated in Scotland, 1292. Dr. Johnson was educated in the schools of Georgia and studied medicine in that state. He practiced his profession in Georgia and later removed to Dallas County where he was a pioneer physician. He built the first grist and saw mill in that section. In 1826 he served in the Alabama legislature, and was colonel of "B" regiment of militia which was called out to serve as escort to General Lafayette, on his visit to Cahaba. He was a Democrat and a Presbyterian. Married: (1) in December, 1814, to Sarah Ann, daughter of A. B. Taylor, a descendant of James and Frances Taylor, the former emigrated from Carlisle, England, to Virginia, between 1650-67, also a relative of President Zachary Taylor; (2) Sarah Craig; (3) Martha (Norwood) Hines. Children: 1. John Gilbert Greer, born 1818, in Dallas County, served in the C. S. Army, m. Elizabeth Evans, and whose grandsons, Gilbert Lee Boyd and Coleman Davis Boyd, of Glasgow, Ky., were respectively in the U. S. navy and 32nd division, A. E. F., in the Meuse-Argonne offensive, during the European War, and was a member of the Army of occupation following the armistice; 2. Cummins, a soldier of the Mexican War, d. unmarried; 3. Mary Ann, m. Joseph Chapman, and was murdered by negroes in 1843, their son, Alonzo Chapman, Confederate soldier, was killed in the battle of Seven Pines. Last residence: Cahaba.

JOHNSON, B. C., major, 31st, Hale's, Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army.

JOHNSON, CROCKETT WESTMORELAND, teacher, was born November 29, 1881, at Mt. Rozell, Limestone County; son of John Wiley and Hannah Susan (Davis) Johnson, the former a native of near Pulaski, Giles County, Tenn., who removed to Mt. Rozell, where for many years he was a teacher, farmer and business man, holding local office, finally settling in Florida where he engaged in merchandising; grandson of Pascal and Emely (Jackson) Johnson, who lived near Pulaski, Tenn. Mr. Johnson received his early education in the public schools of his native county and in the private schools conducted by Col. Gaines C. Smith, Johnson White and W. M. Mathews. He graduated from the State normal school, Florence, 1908. He began his professional career in Lauderdale County, 1902, being principal of the Pine Hill academy. Two years later he was made principal of the public schools of Headland, Henry County, and superintendent city schools of Mt. Pleasant, Maury County, Tenn., 1908. Four years later he removed to Columbia, as principal of the Houston County high school, a position he now holds. He is a Democrat; Baptist; Odd Fellow; Knight of Pythias; and Mason. Married: August 28, 1908, at Headland, to Willie Eugenia, daughter of Lawson Andrew and Georgia (Boyer) Whigham of Headland; granddaughter of Samuel Whigham, who came to Barbour County, in 1850, from Georgia, a large land owner and planter, veteran of the Mexican War, and a Presbyterian, and of George Bower, great-granddaughter of James Bruce and Jonathan Thornton, the latter a Confederate veteran, merchant and planter of Eufaula, and descended from a line of Baptist preachers. Children: 1. William Westmoreland; 2. Lawson Whigham; 3. Crockett Wiley. Residence: Columbia.

JOHNSON, EDWARD H., physician, was born in 1845, in Troy; son of Dr. Osborn S. and Eliza J. (Hobdy) Johnson, the former of whom was born in 1820, in Marion County, Ga., was graduated from the Medical college of Augusta, M. D., 1841, moved to Pike County, and practiced at Monticello until the county seat was moved to Troy, practiced at Troy until about 1855, and moved to Mt. Ida, Crenshaw County, dying October 17, 1867; grandson of Edmund Hobdy, a pioneer and planter of Pike County. He attended school at Troy and Mt. Ida, and in 1862, joined Co. E, Fifty-six Alabama infantry, C. S. Army. After eight months service at Mobile, he operated in north Mississippi and Tennessee, intercepting Gen. Sherman on his way to Chattanooga, joined Johnston's army in north Georgia in 1864, and fought all the way to Atlanta, following Sherman into North Carolina and surrendering with Johnston. He returned home most of the way on foot, and worked on a farm during the summers of 1865 and 1866, attending school in the winters. He read medicine with Dr. Benjamin Meadows in Crenshaw County; took a course of lectures in Atlanta, Ga., in 1868; and was graduated from Washington university, now the College of medicine and surgery, at Baltimore, Md., in 1869. He located at Rutledge and practiced medicine until 1888, when he moved to Troy. He is a member of the State Medical Association; was for some years president of the Crenshaw County Medical Society, and a member of the board of censors of that society; has been president and a censor of the Pike County Medical Association; was at one time county physician of Crenshaw County; was tax collector of that county by appointment of Gov. Houston; and was postmaster at Rutledge during Grant's administration. He is a Methodist; a Mason; and a Knight of Pythias. Married: in June, 1869, to Sarah E. Chapman, a native of Elmore County, daughter of John D. and Mary H. Chapman, natives of Georgia, the former of whom was justice of the peace of Crenshaw County for many years, and a representative of that county in the State legislature during one term. Children: five.

JOHNSON, JAMES, lieutenant colonel, 3rd Confederate infantry regiment; major 1st battalion Arkansas infantry.

JOHNSON, JAMES MONROE, farmer and Baptist minister, was born July 15, 1856, at La Plass, Macon County; son of Seaborn and Mary Ann (Williams) Johnson, the former of DeKalb County, Ga., who was a Confederate soldier in the War of Secession, the latter of Macon County; grandson of Robert and Roxanna (Wimberly) Williams, of Macon County. The family is of Welsh, English, Irish and Dutch descent. Mr. Johnson was educated in the common schools of the county and at Wetumpka. He is a farmer; a Baptist minister; and was a representative in the State legislature, 1911. He is a Democrat; a Mason; and a Woodman of the World. Married: to Catherine Rebecca Ward, daughter of George and Mary (Smith) Ward, of Montgomery County. Residence: Eclectic.

JOHNSON, JAMES RICHARD, Christian minister and legislator, was born May 17, 1862, at Bridgeport, Jackson County; son of John Charles and Sarah Ann (Morrow) Johnson, of that place. He was educated in the common schools. He is a minister of the Church of Christ. He represented Jackson County in the legislature of 1900-01. He is a Democrat. Married: (1) April 9, 1882, at South Pittsburg, Tenn., to Mollie Francis Jassett; (2) April 8, 1886, at Bridgeport, to Mary Lucinda Barnes. Residence: Bridgeport.

JOHNSON, JAMES WILSON, Methodist minister, was born, June 10, 1874, near Somerville, Morgan County; son of Andrew and Sarah (Griffin) Johnson, the former born at Spring Place, Ga., was a farmer and a member of the Fourth Alabama cavalry regiment, C. S. Army; grandson of Andrew Johnson, of Spring Place, and of Benjamin and Margaret (Cuthbertson) Griffin, who lived in North Carolina. Mr. Johnson received his early education in rural schools; during his early years attended school at Somerville; he received the M. A. degree from Morgan County college, now non-existent, and at the University of Chicago. He is a minister of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, having joined the North Alabama conference in 1897. He has served several churches, including the First Methodist church at Birmingham. He is both a York and a Scottish Rite Mason. Married: October 18, 1899, at Danville, to Eva, daughter of George and Frances Howell, of that place. Children: 1. James Wilson, jr.; 2. Frances Eva. Residence: Birmingham.

JOHNSON, JOE, merchant, planter, and legislator, was born March 16, 1872, at Meltonsville, Marshall County; son of John Newton and Sarah Evergreen (Parker) Johnson, the former of Claysville, was a member of Co. H, 42nd Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army, the latter of Wakefield; grandson of Joshua and Mary Ann (Carter) Johnson of Claysville, and of Cary and Dollie (Tucker) Parker of Wakefield; great-grandson of James and Amy (Motly) Carter and of John and Mary (Sawyer) Tucker. He was educated in the common schools. He is a farmer, blacksmith, veterinary surgeon, and a merchant. Since 1908 has been a member of the County board of education, and was once justice of the peace. He represented Marshall County in the legislature of 1911. He is a Democrat; a Northern Methodist; and a Woodman of the World. Married: August 23, 1893, to Julia, daughter of Thomas and Jane Barnett, of Ft. Payne. Children: 1. Effie May; 2. Thoro Joe Newton. Residence: Meltonsville.

JOHNSON, JOHN, soldier of the American Revolution, and a resident of Pickens County; private, particular service not shown; enrolled on August 1, 1836, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $30.66.—Pension Book, State Branch Bank, Mobile.

JOHNSON, JOHN ELDRIDGE, farmer, was born November 10, 1879, at South Hill, De Kalb County; son of William Rampley and Lydia E. (Saxon) Johnson, the former a native of Flowery Branch, Forsyth County, Ga.; grandson of Philip and Nancy (Rampley) Johnson, of Georgia, the former a Virginian, the latter an Englishwoman, who came to America in early life, and practiced medicine in Hall and Forsyth Counties, Ga., for forty years, being one of the first professional women in the South, and of John Adams and Sarah Jane (Lackey) Saxon, of Clay County. Mr. Johnson was educated in the public schools of Alabama, and took the Chadman law course, but never applied for admittance to the bar. He taught school, 1898-1899, and since that time has engaged in farming. He was elected justice of the peace in 1908; and represented De Kalb County in the State legislature, 1915. He is a Democrat, a Baptist and an Odd Fellow. Married: December 24, 1901, at Tenbroeck, to Mary Magnolia Millirons, daughter of Jesse and Mary Jane (Graves) Millirons, of that place. The Millirons family emigrated to north east Alabama from Ireland in 1822, and were among the first settlers of that district. Children: 1. Vergia Montes; 2. Julian Herbert; 3. William Aubrey; 4. Henry Allen; 5. Lillian Stevens. Residence: Fyffe.

JOHNSON, JOHN WILLIS, farmer, was born November 19, 1846, near Nixburg, Coosa County; son of George and Elizabeth (Suttle) Johnson, the former a native of Edgefield District, S. C.; grandson of Jesse and Sallie Suttle, of Centreville, Bibb County. He was educated in Pine Grove, Fishpond and Woodland academies in Coosa County; enlisted in the Alabama reserves, Co. C, Sixty-second Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army; was engaged at the battles of Spanish Fort and Blakely; was captured in the latter battle, April 9, 1865, and imprisoned a month at Ship Island; clerked in a dry goods store, 1870-1871; then engaged in farming; served as a justice of the peace, 1880-1892; and as a representative in the State legislature, 1903. He is a Democrat and a Primitive Baptist. Married: (1) March 14, 1872, to Elizabeth Matilda, daughter of William L. and Louisa Thompson, of Nixburg, Coosa County; (2) December 1, 1903, to Alice, daughter of Albert and Sarah Thomas. Residence: Lauderdale.

JOHNSON, JOSEPH HENRY, farmer, was born January 6, 1851, at Dudleyville, Tallapoosa County; son of Joseph Alexander and Lucy (Moore) Johnson, the former a resident of Maryland and Georgia before removing to Alabama, and who was the clerk of the first court held in Tallapoosa county; grandson of James Alexander and Amelia (Dyer) Johnson of Maryland and of James and Fanny Moore, who lived near Horseshoe Bend before the battle of Horseshoe and afterwards at Dudleyville, Tallapoosa County, the latter who was a Creek Indian. Mr. Johnson received his education in the common schools at Dadeville and at Howard college, but did not graduate. He is a farmer; was probate judge of Tallapoosa County from 1886 to 1892; and represented Tallapoosa County in the State legislature, 1919. He is a Democrat, and a Missionary Baptist. Married: to Harriet Crawford, daughter of Jesse and Martha Fitzpatrick, of Chambers County. Children: 1. Kathleen, m. Lovick Peirce Anthony; 2. George Bailey, m. Nellie Johnson; 3. Eugenia Parnelle, m. Samuel Henderson Wallace; 4. Carey Shaffer, m. Mary Leslie Johnson; 5. Judson Brewer. Residence: Dadeville.

JOHNSON, JOSEPH HENRY, founder and principal of the Institute for the deaf, dumb and blind at Talladega, was born October 16, 1832, in Madison, Ga., and died May 5, 1893, in Talladega; son of Seaborn J. and Minerva (Fannin) Johnson, natives of Georgia, the former a prominent attorney and planter of Floyd County; grandson of Joseph Fannin, also a native of Georgia. Dr. Johnson was educated in the country schools, and attended Hern school in Georgia. He taught at the Georgia institute for the deaf and dumb, 1845-54; attended the Charleston medical college for one term; went to Philadelphia and graduated in 1856; returned to Georgia and taught for one year. At the request of Gov. Andrew B. Moore, he came to Alabama in 1858, and became founder and principal of the Talladega institute for the deaf, dumb and blind. In March, 1861, he organized Co. G, 1st Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army, was made captain but was forced to resign at the end of a year on account of an accident. He returned to Talladega, again assuming charge of the institution and remaining in that position until his death. He was a Methodist; Mason; Odd Fellow; and a Knight of Honor. Married: in 1853, to Emily, daughter of Judge Abner and Nancy (Morris) Darden, the former a native of Georgia who served in either the senate or house of that state for fourteen years. Children: 1. Seaborn Jones, A. M., University of Alabama, teacher, Deaf and blind institute; 2. Joseph H., jr. (q. v.); 3. Annie; 4. Helen. Last residence: Talladega.

JOHNSON, JOSEPH HENRY, jr., principal Talladega State deaf, dumb and blind institute, was born May 13, 1864, at Talladega, and died November 25, 1914, at the same place; son of Dr. Joseph Henry and Emily (Darden) Johnson (q. v.). He graduated A. B., from the University of Alabama, 1881, took a post-graduate course and received the A. M. degree in 1882, and in 1911 the honorary degree of LL. D. was conferred upon him by his alma mater. He began his profession as head teacher in the Kentucky school for the deaf; was appointed in 1888, principal of the Alabama school for the blind, afterwards resident principal of the school for the deaf, and, on his father's death in 1893, he succeeded him as principal of the three State schools for the deaf, blind and the negro deaf and blind. He was a Methodist; member of the board of trustees of the University of Alabama and of the State department of Archives and History; and president of the Association of instructors of the blind, 1905. Married: July 9, 1884, to Nellie, daughter of Dr. John Edward Hall, surgeon-major, C. S. Army; granddaughter of Dr. James Guild (q. v.). Last residence: Talladega.

JOHNSON, LOUIS W., major, 10th Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army.

JOHNSON, LUCIUS BRUTUS, educator, was born in 1805, in Putney, Vt., and died October 6, 1853, at Selma. He was educated at Middlebury college, Vt., and went to Raleigh, N. C., in 1835, where he became principal of the Raleigh high school for the education of boys. He remained there for one year, then moved to Summerfield and became principal of the Pleasant Valley male academy. He moved to Texas in 1837, and located in Bastrop, where he engaged in the practice of law in partnership with Hon. W. P. Hill, brother of Senator Hill, of Georgia. He came to Alabama in 1841, and the following year opened a male and female school in Selma. In 1844, he and his wife opened a new school, under the name of the Dallas male and female academy, with Prof. Johnson supervising the boys and Mrs. Johnson, the girls. In 1851, Prof. Johnson and his wife left Selma to take charge of the Camden male and female academy in Wilcox County, but returned to their former charge in 1853. In October of that year, they opened the Dallas female academy, and six days after the opening of the school, Prof. Johnson died of yellow fever. Married: in 1836, at Summerfield, to Harriet Benham, who was born in Hartford, Conn.; was educated in that state; came south in 1829 to Milledgeville, Ga., and opened a select school for the education of young ladies, which she conducted for two years; went to LaGrange, Ga., and established a female school, which she taught for four years; took charge of the female department of the Pleasant Hill academy at Summerfield, Dallas County in 1835; and was holding that position at the time of her marriage in 1836. After her husband's death, she conducted the Dallas female academy until 1864, then went to Winsted, Conn., where she died and was buried. She was related to Mrs. Emma Willard, founder of the Troy female seminary of New York, to Mrs. Almira Lincoln Phelps of Baltimore, and to Elijah Hinsdal Burnitt, astronomer and mathematician. Children: 1. Abbie, deceased, m. during the War of Secession, in Selma, to Lieut. Duval, resided in New Orleans. Last residence: Selma.

WILLIAM L. LANCASTER

JOHNSON, RICHARD, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 74, and a resident of Greene County; private Virginia Militia; enrolled on September 18, 1833, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $20.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34. He resided in Greene County, June 1, 1840, aged 79.—Census of Pensioners, 1841, p. 149.

JOHNSON, RICHARD, soldier of the American Revolution, age not given, and a resident of Madison County; Corporal in Lee's Legion; enrolled on May 25, 1829, under act of Congress of May 15, 1828, payment to date from March 3, 1826; annual allowance, $120; sums received to date of publication of list, $1,020.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34. He resided in Madison County, June 1, 1840, aged 82.—Census of Pensioners, 1841, p. 148.

JOHNSON, R. W., major, 4th, Roddy's, Alabama cavalry regiment, C. S. Army.

JOHNSON, THOMAS ABNER, physician, minister and legislator, was born December 17, 1836, in Greene County, Ga.; son of John Robert and Mary Ann (Bristowe) Johnson, the former a native of Pennfield, Ga., who lived in Greene County; grandson of Chesley and Martha Bristowe, of Crawfordville, Ga. He received only a limited education but pursued his studies while teaching. He began practice of medicine prior to the war, although his medical education was not completed, and not until 1880 did he complete a course and take a degree from the Nashville medical college. He has practiced medicine over forty years in Barbour County, in Florida, and in Russell County, where he lived many years. During 1861-65 he was a lieutenant in the Russell County company of reserves, C. S. Army. For many years he was justice of the peace. He represented Russell county in the legislature of 1903. He has been for many years a local minister of the Methodist Episcopal church, South. Married: September 6, 1857, to Mary Ross, daughter of Cornelius and Sarah (Ward) Braswell, of Auburn. Residence: Jernigan.

JOHNSON, WILLIAM, early settler and merchant, was a native of Virginia, born in 1792, and died May 20, 1873, in Selma. He came to Selma about 1820, built a small log house and opened a store, but soon moved into a plank building. He left many descendants. Last residence: Selma.

JOHNSON, WILLIAM, soldier of the American Revolution. "On the 23rd inst., at the residence of his son, Lewis Johnson, in this county, William Johnson, a soldier of the Revolution, in the 87th year of his age. He was a native of Edgefield District, South Carolina, and had resided in this state for a number of years."—The Dallas Gazette, Cahaba, Ala., April 28, 1854.

JOHNSTON, BURKE, lawyer; living in 1913. Residence: Uniontown.

JOHNSTON, B. F., member of the constitutional convention of 1875, from Macon County.

JOHNSTON, BURRELL, member of the constitutional convention of 1875, from Hale County.

JOHNSTON, CHARLES B., major, 21st Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army.

JOHNSTON, CHARLES C., superintendent of education of Perry County; living in 1913. Residence: Marion.

JOHNSTON, CLIFTON CARRELL, lawyer and legislator, was born May 19, 1866, at Summerfield, Dallas County; son of Dr. William Sample and Margaret Ann Graham (Carrell) Johnston, the former a native of Mecklenburg County, N. C., who removed to Summerfield; grandson of Nathan Butler and Janet (Graham) Carrell, who came from North Carolina. He was educated in the preparatory schools of Summerfield; in 1890 was admitted to the bar at Marion; since 1894 he has been justice of the peace. He was one of the representatives from Perry County in the legislature of 1903. He is a Democrat; and a Presbyterian. He is unmarried. Residence: Marion.

JOHNSTON, DAVID, business man, was born January 21, 1847, in Tuskegee, Macon County; son of Dr. John Gerdine and Mary J. (Low) Johnston, natives respectively of Georgia and Alabama, the former a graduate of the medical department of the University of Pennsylvania in 1839, practiced in Tuskegee until the War of Secession, was sent by Gov. John G. Shorter to Richmond, Va., in 1861, to look after the wounded, went to Pensacola, Fla., on the same mission, and was subsequently appointed surgeon to look after the camps, located in Montgomery in December, 1865, and practiced medicine there until his death in 1868; grandson of David Johnston, a physician, who moved from North Carolina to Walton County, Ga., and later to Alabama, where he located in Tuskegee, Macon County, in 1843; great-grandson of Dr. Lancelot Johnston, who came from Dublin, Ireland, with his brothers, David and John Johnston, and settled in Caswell County, N. C., who was a surgeon in the Revolutionary War, and had a pair of knee buckles presented him by George Washington. Mr. Johnston was reared in Tuskegee and prepared for college there. He attended the Tuskegee collegiate institute until the beginning of the War of Secession, and left school when he was sixteen years old to become a sergeant in Co. A, Sixty-third Alabama infantry regiment. He was promoted to sergeant major; was captured at Blakeley; sent to Ship Island and then to Vicksburg, where he was exchanged to be paroled at Meridian, Miss., in May, 1865. He returned to his home in Tuskegee, and moved to Montgomery in February, 1866. He clerked in a store and farmed until 1896, and in February of that year was appointed by Gov. Oates to fill an unexpired term as circuit clerk. In 1898, he was elected to the same office, carrying every precinct in the county. He is ex-officio deputy clerk of the city court, criminal division, and is a member of the National Union. Married: in 1876, to Alice Judkins, who died in 1900, daughter of William T. and Sallie Judkins. Children: 1. Allie May; 2. Nettie D.; 3. Sarah T. Residence: Montgomery.

JOHNSTON, EDWARD DOUGLAS, farmer and lawyer, was born August 7, 1874, at Selma; son of Joseph Forney and Theresa Virginia (Hooper) Johnston (q. v.). He was prepared in public and private schools of Birmingham; was graduated from the University of the South, Sewanee, Tenn., A. M., 1894; and attended law school at the University of Alabama in 1894. He was admitted to the bar prior to his graduation, and practiced law, 1894-1899. Since that time he has engaged in farming. He was assistant prosecuting attorney of Jefferson County, 1898-1899; and was elected to the State legislature from Madison County, 1915. During the Spanish American War, he served as adjutant and first lieutenant of Co. K, First Alabama volunteers, and later as captain of Co. C, Third Alabama volunteers. He is a Democrat and an Episcopalian. Married: September 30, 1907, at Cincinnati, O., to Mary Warfield Clay, daughter of Brutus Junius and Pattie A. (Field) Clay, of Richmond, Ky.; granddaughter of Cassius Marcellus Clay, a member of the famous Kentucky family of that name. Mrs. Johnston is also related to the Warfields of Maryland, the Goodloes and Irwins of Kentucky, and the Fields, Burgesses, Lewises, and Clarkes of Virginia. Children: 1. Douglas; 2. Clay; 3. Theresa Virginia; 4. Charlotte Elizabeth. Residence: Huntsville.

JOHNSTON, EWART, lawyer and fruit grower, was born September 13, 1889, in Birmingham; son of Robert Daniel Johnston (q. v.) and Mrs. Lizzie J. (Evans) Johnston (q. v.). He was educated in the public schools and in the Webb school, Birmingham; at Bell Buckle, Tenn.; Marion institute, Marion; and the Boy's Latin school, Baltimore, Md. He graduated in law at the University of Virginia, 1913, and practiced in Birmingham for a short period. Later he removed to near Winchester, Va., where he conducts an apple orchard, and fruit farm. After eight months border service in Texas, as second lieutenant, 2nd Virginia infantry regiment he became first lieutenant and A. D. C., 58th Infantry brigade, captain in command of Co. L, 116th infantry, A. E. F., and served in the French sector, Alsace, and was in the Argonne offensive. He was awarded a distinguished service cross and received two citations from general headquarters, A. E. F., 1918. He is a Presbyterian and Democrat. Unmarried. Residence: Winchester, Va.

JOHNSTON, GEORGE DOHERTY, lawyer, politician, brigadier general, C. S. Army, was born May 30, 1832, at Hillsborough, Orange County, N. C., and died December 8, 1910, at Tuscaloosa; son of George Mulhollan and Eliza Mary (Bond) Johnston, the former a native of Orange County, N. C., removing to Greensboro, in 1834, where he died a short time later, the latter originally of North Carolina and Tennessee; grandson of George and Mary (Mulhollan) Johnston, and of William and Frances Wilson (Doherty) Bond; great-grandson of Charles and Mary (McCauley) Johnston of North Carolina and of George and Mrs. Mary (Freeman) Burke Doherty, the former a major in the 6th Continental regiment of North Carolina in the American Revolution, a native of Ireland, and an original member of the Society of the Cincinnati, the latter the widow of Gov. Thomas Burke of North Carolina; great-great-grandson of George Johnston and wife, a Miss Wilson, originally Scotch Presbyterians who moved to Ireland, emigrating to Tennessee in 1738, settling in Orange county, N. C., in 1740; and of Capt. Robert and Tabitha (Wilson) Freeman, of Norfolk, Va. General Johnston's education was received at a private school in Marion, and at Marion seminary; graduated from Howard college, A. B., and A. M., 1848; and in the law department, Cumberland university, Lebanon, Tenn., 1852. He began the practice of law at Marion in 1854, continuing there until the outbreak of the war in 1861. He was mayor of the town, 1856, and a member of the general assembly, 1857-58. He entered the Confederate Army, April 15, 1861, as second lieutenant, 4th Alabama infantry regiment; was at the battle of Manassas; elected major, 25th Alabama regiment, January 25, 1862 was at the battle of Shiloh, April 6-7, 1862, when he was promoted lieutenant colonel; promoted colonel, September 9, 1863; brigadier-general, July 26, 1864; and in the campaign in Tennessee commanded General Quarles brigade composed of the 1st Alabama, 42nd, 46th, 49th, 53rd and the 55th Tennessee regiments consolidated, and the 48th Tennessee; was in the Carolina campaign, still in the command of Quarles' old brigade; and at the surrender had been ordered to report to Gen. Richard Taylor. He resumed the practice of law at Marion immediately after the war, continuing there until 1871, when he was appointed commandant of cadets at the University of Alabama, 1871-73; was superintendent South Carolina military academy, Charleston, 1885-90; member, United States civil service commission, 1892-93; returned to Alabama and served in the State senate from Tuscaloosa county, 1900. He was a Presbyterian. Married: (1) in 1853, to Euphradia, daughter of Gen. Charles A. and Mary (Peay) Poellnitz (q. v.); (2) in 1865, to Maria, daughter of Maj. I. N. and Jane Polk (Walker) Barnett, of Columbia, Tenn.; (3) in 1876, to Stella (Searcy) Harris, daughter of Dr. Reuben and Abbie (Fitch) Searcy, of Tuscaloosa. Children: by first wife, 1. George Burke, m. Sallie Pickering, Uniontown; 2. son; 3. son; 4. daughter; by third wife, 5. George D., jr. Last residence: Tuscaloosa.

JOHNSTON, GORDON, lieutenant-colonel, U. S. Army, was born in 1874, in Charlotte, N. C.; son of Gen. Robert D. and Lizzie (Evans) Johnston (q. v.). He was educated in the public schools of his native city; at Pantops academy, Charlottesville, Va.; graduated A. B., 1896, from Princeton university; honor graduate of the Infantry and cavalry school, U. S. Army, 1903; attended the Royal military riding academy, Hanover, Germany, 1907; instructor at the mounted service school, Fort Riley, Kan., 1907-12. At the beginning of the Spanish-American War he volunteered and served in both infantry and cavalry units and later in the Philippine Islands during the insurrection of certain native tribes following the occupation of the islands by the United States. He entered the regular army in 1901 as second lieutenant of cavalry and has risen to the rank of lieutenant-colonel. During the European War he fought with the 2nd British corps, Ypres sector, 1918, and was in the Vosges sector the same year. From September 26 to November 1, 1918, he participated in the Meuse-Argonne battle. He has been awarded the congressional medal of honor, the distinguished service medal, legion de honneur (officers) Spanish-American War, Philippine campaign, Cuban occupation, Mexican border and victory medals. He served as mounted orderly to Col. Theodore Roosevelt, 1st U. S. volunteer cavalry, Rough Riders, 1898; commanded regimental scouts, 43rd infantry regiment, U. S. V., in Philippine Island campaign, 1899-1901; built the telegraph line from Pickit to Cottobatto, 1906; was severely wounded and recommended for the medal of honor in the engagement at Bud Dajo, Jolo, 1906, which was presented by President Taft in 1910; attached to Edgerly mission of American officers to Germany, 1907; winner of the Plaza cup for officers' charges at International military competition, New York, 1910, British, French, Canadian and Belgian teams competing; member of officers' team representing the U. S. Army at the International horse show, Olympia, London, 1911; on duty with 11th cavalry regiment, U. S. Army, during Colorado strike, May to December, 1914; aid-de-camp to Maj. Gen. Leonard Wood, December, 1914, to July, 1916; adjutant of the 1st senior training camp, Plattsburg, N. Y., 1915; organized the Southern training camp, Fort Oglethorpe, Ga., 1916; commanded 12th N. Y. infantry regiment, N. G., on Mexican border service from July 7, 1916, to January 26, 1917; appointed major, N. A., and adjutant of the 83rd division during its organization at Camp Sheridan, Ohio, August 25, 1917, to February, 1918; served with the A. E. F. in France from March 1, 1918, to June, 1919, as follows: graduate, general staff college at Langres; assistant to chief of staff, 4th corps and 6th corps, for the training of new division; acting chief of staff, 7th corps, in the Vosges sector, and commanded the 7th corps in the name of the commander-in-chief, six days; attached to 1st army corps for staff reconnaissance work and commanded for a short while the 308th infantry of the 77th division in the Meuse-Argonne battle when this regiment had lost all its field officers, October 6-11th; chief of staff, 82nd division, from October 11, 1918, to February, 1919, when this division was ordered to port of embarkation. He received the distinguished service medal and a citation reading: "for exceptionally meritorious and distinguished services, showing great ability while chief of staff of the 82nd division in the operations in the Argonne area. The force of his energy and his masterful leadership manifested itself in the crowning successes of the division during the operations of this campaign." He was chief of staff of the 7th division, February, 1919, to December, 1919; appointed assistant chief of staff for military intelligence, central department, 1919. He is a Presbyterian but has no political affiliations. Married: May 25, 1904, in Baltimore, Md., to Anna Julia, daughter of Robert Wilkinson and Julia Watts Hall (Brock) Johnson, descendant of distinguished colonial ancestry. Address: War Department, Washington, D. C.

JOHNSTON, JACK W., long-time ticket agent for the Louisville & Nashville office in Birmingham. Deceased.

JOHNSTON, JAMES MONROE, Baptist minister and legislator, was born July 15, 1856, at LaPlace, Macon County; son of Seaborn and Mary Ann (Williams) Johnson, the former was of DeKalb County, Ga., and a Confederate soldier, the latter of Macon County; grandson of Robert and Roxanna (Wimberly) Williams, of Macon County. The family is of Welsh, Irish, English, and Dutch descent. He was educated in the common schools and at Wetumpka. He is a Missionary Baptist minister. In 1911 he was one of the representatives from Elmore County in the legislature. He is a Democrat; a Mason; and a Woodman of the World. Married: Catherine Rebecca, daughter of George and Mary (Smith) Ward, of Montgomery County. Children: 1. Fannie Belle, m. H. T. Stacy, Woodlawn; 2. Joseph Monroe; 3. Annie Maude, m. O. L. Gerald, Eclectic; 4. Paul, m. Mattie Collins. Residence: Eclectic.

JOHNSTON, JOHN W., major, 47th Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army.

JOHNSTON, JOHN WILLIS, farmer and legislator, was born November 19, 1846, near Nixburg, Coosa County; son of George and Elizabeth (Suttle) Johnston, the former a native of Edgefield, S. C.; grandson of Jesse and Sallie Suttle of Centerville, Bibb County. He was educated in Pine Grove and Fishpond academies in Coosa County. From 1870-71 he was a clerk in a store; later became a farmer; was justice of the peace, 1880-92. He enlisted in Co. C, 63rd Alabama infantry regiment, Alabama reserves, C. S. Army; engaged in battles of Spanish Port and Blakely; was captured in the latter battle in 1865 and imprisoned a month on Ship Island. He served in 1903 and 1907 as a member of the legislature from Coosa County. He is a Democrat; and a Primitive Baptist. Married: (1) March 14, 1872, to Elizabeth Matilda, daughter of William L. and Louisa (Russell) Thompson, of Nixburg, Coosa County; (2) December 1, 1903, to Alice, daughter of Albert and Sarah (Robbins) Thomas. Children: 1. Marion; 2. Ida Daisy, m. J. A. Thomas; 3. James L.; 4. Lulu Pearl; 5. Sadie Belle; 6. Carl Lyman. Residence: Alexander City.

JOHNSTON, JOSEPH FORNEY, lawyer, governor of Alabama, U. S. senator, was born March 23, 1843, in Lincoln County, N. C., and died August 8, 1913, at Washington, D. C.; son of Dr. William and Nancy (Forney) Johnston, who lived at "Mount Welcome," Lincoln County, N. C., the former a physician of Scotch-Irish descent, the latter a descendant of a Huguenot family, one of whose members, Jacob Forney, emigrated to America and settled in Lincoln County, N. C.; grandson of Col. James Johnston, of the Revolutionary Army, who was a planter on the Catawba River, Lincoln County, N. C., and of Gen. Peter Forney, who lived at "Mount Welcome"; great-grandson of Gilbert Johnston, who espoused the cause of the Pretender, was wounded at Culloden, fled to America and settled in North Carolina in 1745, his brother, Gabriel Johnston, being the royal governor of the province. Senator Johnston was a brother of Robert Daniel Johnston (q. v.), and of William H. Johnston (q. v.). He was educated in the public schools, and when he was seventeen years of age, moved to Alabama. He was attending high school at Talladega when the War of Secession commenced, and on April 21, 1861, he enlisted as a private in the Eleventh Alabama regiment, serving until the close of the war, at which time he was captain of a company in the Twelfth North Carolina regiment. He was wounded four times; at Chickamauga, Spottsylvania Court House, New Market and Petersburg. Returning to Alabama, he began the study of law in the office of Gen. W. H. Forney, at Jacksonville. He was admitted to the bar in 1866, and in October of that year, moved to Selma, where for seventeen years he practiced law. He moved to Birmingham in 1884, and was president of the Alabama State Bank for ten years, voluntarily resigning in 1894. He was made first president of the Sloss Iron & Steel Company in 1887; and for a term was chairman of the state Democratic executive committee. He was elected governor of Alabama in 1896, and was unanimously nominated for a second term, and was elected in 1898. In a primary election, held August 27, 1906, he was nominated as an alternate U. S. senator, and on the death of Senator Pettus, he was, on August 6, 1907, elected as his successor in congress. He completed that term, and was re-elected to the senate in 1909. He was chairman of the committee on military affairs, and was active in affairs in congress at the time of his death. He was a Democrat. Married: August 12, 1869, in Lancaster, S. C., to Theresa Virginia Hooper, daughter of Edward Jones and Amelia (Jones) Hooper, and a great-granddaughter of William Hooper, a signer of the Declaration of Independence. He had three sons, among whom are Edward Douglas, and Forney, the latter a lawyer in Birmingham. Last residence: Birmingham.

JOHNSTON, LIZZIE JOHNSTON (EVANS), philanthropist, president board of control of Alabama boys industrial school, vice-regent Mount Vernon ladies association from Alabama; was born May 3, 18—, at Greensboro, Guilford County, N. C.; daughter of Peter Gustavus and Anne Eliza (Morehead) Evans, who lived at New Berne, N. C., captain of a volunteer company of cavalry, and afterwards colonel of the 63rd North Carolina cavalry regiment, C. S. Army; granddaughter of Peter and Nancy (Johnston) Evans, of Egypt, N. C., and of John Motley and Anne Eliza (Lindsay) Morehead, of Greensboro, N. C. She is descended from Juduthun Harper, who served in the Colonial congress and was an officer in the Revolutionary Army. Another forebear was Karenhappuck-Norman Turner, a noted war nurse who had seven sons in the Revolutionary Army, who rode horseback from her home in Maryland to Guilford, N. C., reaching there just after the famous battle, and saved the life of Colonel Forbes and one of her own sons, and in recognition of her patriotic services throughout that period, a monument was erected to her memory on the Guilford battle grounds. Mrs. Johnston was educated at the Charlotte female college, North Carolina. After removing to Birmingham with her husband and children, she entered actively into the civic, educational and philanthropic activities of that city. Having presented the need for a reform school for delinquent boys to the Alabama federation of women's clubs, she received the support of that body for legislative action, and was made chairman of the legislative committee, authorized to press the passage of a law during the session of 1898-99, making an appropriation, giving a charter, and creating a board of control to be composed of seven women, the governor, attorney general, and secretary of agriculture. She achieved her plans, and when the board was organized in 1900, was elected its president and has held that position during the last twenty years. The school was located at East Lake, and is a monument to her love of humanity. This was the first State board composed in the main of women. She has been vice-regent for the Mt. Vernon ladies association for a number of years, and has secured and given to the association a sword that belonged to General Washington, which her sons presented in her name; a sofa that originally belonged at Mt. Vernon; the famous sash upon which General Braddock was carried from the battle field, which he gave to his aide, Col. George Washington, and on which seven blood stains are still visible; the gift of a bed spread that was made by a relative of Mrs. Washington; the gift of the camp bedstead used by General Washington in his campaigns. For fifteen years, she, in association with her husband and Miss Julia Tutwiler, ministered to the spiritual welfare of the prisoners in and near Birmingham, teaching in prison Sunday schools, especially to the convicts who worked in the mines. The greater part of her time, since 1915, has been spent on her apple orchard, near Winchester, Va. She also has a summer residence in Port Dover, Canada. She is a Democrat and a Presbyterian. Married: November 1, 1871, in Greensboro, N. C., to Robert Daniel Johnston (q. v.). Children: 1. Col. Gordon (q. v.); 2. Robert Daniel, jr., m. Margaret Lutkins, Birmingham; 3. Nancy Forney, m. Harvey Frederick Skey, London, Canada; 4. Elizabeth Morehead, m. Maxwell Rufus Berry; 5. Evans, Winchester, Va.; 6. Eugene Morehead, m. William Geronway Eager, Valdosta, Ga.; 7. Capt. Ewart (q. v.); 8. Letitia C., m. Capt. Lewis Gerald Firth, England. Residence: Winchester, Va.

JOHNSTON, MARY, author, a resident of Alabama for some years, was born November 20, 1870, at Buchanan, Va., daughter of Maj. John William and Elizabeth (Alexander) Johnston, both natives of Virginia. Her education was received entirely in her father's excellent library. With her father she removed to Birmingham, at the age of fifteen, and while at this place her first book, "Prisoners of hope," 1898, was published. After her second novel, "To have and to hold," 1900, she accompanied her father to New York, later taking up her residence at Richmond. The books written by Miss Johnston are "Audrey," 1902; "Sir Mortimer," 1904; "The Goddess of reason," 1907; "Lewis Rand," 1908; "The Long roll," 1911; "Cease firing," 1912; "Hagar," 1913; "The Witch," 1914; "The Fortunes of Garin," 1915; "The Wanderers," 1917. Residence: "Three Hills," Warm Springs, Va.

JOHNSTON, MARY ANNE (HOLT), patriotic worker, was born in 1826, in Augusta, Ga.; daughter of William White and Mary Arinton (Ware) Holt, the former an officer in the War of 1812 and judge for nineteen years of the middle district of Georgia; granddaughter of Dr. William Holt, of Virginia, a Revolutionary soldier. She was an earnest worker in the Ladies' memorial association. About 1858 she and her husband moved to Montgomery County and located on a large plantation, near McGehee's Switch. After the war they removed to Montgomery. Married: in 1853, to William Johnston, son of Archibald Simpson and Agnes Bolton (Ewing) Johnston, the former a native of Kort, Glasgow, Scotland, the latter of Charleston, S. C. Last residence: Montgomery.

JOHNSTON, MILUS EDDINGS, Methodist minister, was born July 26, 1823, near Lebanon, Wilson County, Tenn., and died in October, 1915, at Watertown, Tenn.; son of Oliver Campbell and Hannah Hall (Buckley) Johnston, natives of Ireland, who lived in Wilson County, Tenn., and at Wartrace, near Gainsboro, Jackson County, Tenn. He received a limited education under the instruction of William Hall, of Jackson County, Tenn., and became a minister of the gospel. He was converted at Wartrace Campground, September 12, 1840; received an exhorter's license from the Methodist Episcopal church, August 16, 1845; was licensed as a local preacher, October 28, 1849; was ordained deacon at Shelbyville, Tenn., by Bishop William Capers; was received on trial into the Tennessee Conference, October, 1851, and assigned to Smith Fork circuit for two years; was in charge of Carthage Circuit, 1854-1855, at the end of which time, his health failed. He called for and received the superannuate relation, and moved to Alabama, locating in Madison County. The next year he again entered the itinerant ministry; served on the Vienna circuit for two years; and was successively in charge of the Larkinsville circuit, the Madison circuit and Fayetteville station, in the Tennessee circuit. While serving in the latter charge, the Federal army which had taken possession of the country after the battle of Shiloh refused to allow him to fill his appointments. He enlisted in the C. S. Army; was commissioned captain of a company by Gen. Bragg; was promoted to major, and later to colonel of the Twenty-fifth Alabama battalion, which command he surrendered at Huntsville, in May, 1865. He returned home and re-entered the itinerant work, and a short time later, when the north Alabama conference was organized, became a charter member of the new conference. He worked with that conference until he lost his hearing, and accepted the superannuate relation. He returned to Tennessee in 1909, and was residing with his son, John Allison Johnston, at the time of his death. He was a Democrat, a Mason, and an Odd Fellow. Married: (1) in 1843, near Gainesboro, Tenn., to Susan Anna Ray, who died in 1853 at Alexandria, Tenn., daughter of John Allison and Louisa (Sweezy) Ray; (2) to Mrs. Finley, daughter of James Hame. Children, by first marriage; 1. Caroline Hollis Jones, d. at Huntsville female college; 2. Fountain Bascom, m. Maggie Harris, Shelbyville, Tenn.; 3. Melville Burr, m. Adella Campbell, Decatur, Tex.; 4. John Allison, Watertown, Tenn., m. Ida Huffman, deceased; 5. Louisa Parilee, Nashville, Tenn., m. James Thomas Ellis, deceased; by second marriage; four. Last residence: Watertown, Tenn.

JOHNSTON, RICHARD FRANCIS, editor, was born March 17, 1863, at Sparta, Hancock County, Ga.; son of Richard Malcolm and Mary Frances (Mansfield) Johnston, of that place, the former a lawyer, jurist, planter, teacher and author, whose principal works are "Georgia Sketches," "Life of Alexander H. Stephens," and an English literature used extensively during the eighties; grandson of Malcolm and Lucy (Davenport) Johnston of Oak Grove, Hancock County, Ga., and of Eli and Nancy (Hardwick) Mansfield, of Sparta; great-grandson of William Johnston, who served in the Revolutionary War and removed from Charlotte County, Va., to Hancock County, Ga., in 1799; great-great-grandson of Rev. Thomas Johnston, of Dumfries, Scotland, who came to America in 1751, and having been ordained as a clergyman in the Church of England served a parish in Charlotte County, Va., where he died. The Mansfields came to England from Holland during the reign of Elizabeth and were early colonial settlers in New Haven, Conn. He was educated by his father, and at St. Charles college, Maryland, where he graduated, A. B., 1881. He studied law under Walter C. Charlton, of Savannah, Ga., and was admitted to the bar in 1884, but not liking the law, he soon gave up the practice. From 1887 to 1890 he was private tutor in the family of the late D. S. Troy, at Montgomery. In May, 1890, he secured a position with the "Birmingham News," and became city editor, and served in that capacity until 1902, when he entered the services of the "Birmingham Ledger" as managing editor. In 1918 he was advanced to the position of associate editor, and his duty has been editorial writing. He is a Democrat; Knight of Pythias; and a Presbyterian. Married: October 2, 1894, in Birmingham, to Lillian Inez, daughter of John Embry and Josephine Emma (Youngblood) Miles, the former of Welsh, the latter of English descent, her father being a native of Charleston, S. C. Children: 1. Richard Malcolm, senior captain college cadet corps, Alabama polytechnic institute, member S. A. T. C., and of the Sigma Nu college fraternity; 2. Eugene Rhodes, Alabama polytechnic institute, member S. A. T. C., and of the Sigma Nu college fraternity. Residence: Birmingham.

JOHNSTON, ROBERT DANIEL, lawyer, brigadier general of C. S. Army, was born March 19, 1837, at Mount Welcome, Lincoln County, N. C.; brother of Joseph Forney Johnston (q. v.), and of William H. Johnston (q. v.). He was prepared for college at a classical school in Rutherfordton, N. C.; attended Davidson college for a few months; and entered the University of North Carolina, where he was graduated with second distinction, A. B., 1857. He studied law in the University of Virginia, 1860-1861, and left school to enter the C. S. Army before the close of the session. He joined the Rutherford riflemen, a company organized at his home, in April, 1861, and was afterward elected second lieutenant. Six months later he was made captain of the company, and in May, 1862, was elected lieutenant colonel of the Twenty-third North Carolina regiment. After the battle of Gettysburg, he was appointed brigadier general. He participated in all the battles of the army of northern Virginia; was wounded at Seven Pines, twice, at Spottsylvania Court House, at Gettysburg, and at Hare's Hill, Va. He was admitted to the bar and commenced the practice of law in Charlotte, N. C., in partnership with Hamilton C. Jones, in the fall of 1865. At the same time, Gen. Johnston and his partner bought and edited a daily newspaper, "The Charlotte Observer." Some time later, they sold out their interest in the paper, and devoted themselves to the law practice until 1887, when Gen. Johnston moved to Birmingham. He served as president of the Birmingham National Bank, 1888-1895; became register in the U. S. land office in Montgomery in 1895, and continued in that position until 1908; and after that time promoted investments in mineral and other lands. He is a Democrat, and an elder in the Presbyterian church. Married: November 1, 1871, daughter of Col. Peter Gustavus and Ann Elizabeth (Morehead) Evans, who lived on a plantation at New Bern, N. C.; granddaughter of Gov. John M. Morehead, of North Carolina. Residence: Birmingham.

JOHNSTON, THOMAS, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 75, and a resident of St. Clair County; private Virginia Continental Line; enrolled on July 20, 1833, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $40; sums received to date of publication of list, $72.79.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34.

JOHNSTON, WILLIAM FRANCIS, lawyer, was born July 19, 1853, in Pickens County; son of Robert T. and Mildred C. (Terry) Johnston, natives of South Carolina, the former a lawyer, who came with his parents to Alabama in 1818, who was graduated from Centre College, Danville, Ky., in 1837, and from the University of Alabama, A. M., located in Pickens County, where he helped establish and taught in Pleasant Hill academy, practiced law, and edited the "Pickens Register," was twice elected to the State legislature, was in charge of the Pickensville female institute, 1858-1861, and 1865-1868; was tax assessor and a colonel in the militia, 1861-1864, was in charge of a school at Mayfield, Ky., 1868-1870, returned to Pickens County and resumed the practice of law, and died in 1877; grandson of David and Sarah (Sutton) Johnston, the former a native of Scotland, who came from that country with his father in 1790, and settled near Versailles, Ky., who moved to Fairfield District, S. C., where he was married, and later moved to Tuscaloosa, and of John Wesley and Emily (Talliaferro) Terry, the latter a descendant of the Virginia family of Talliaferro, prominent in colonial and revolutionary days; great-grandson of Robert Johnston. He attended schools taught by his father, and assumed the care of his father's family when he was seventeen years old. The next year, he was employed to keep up the minutes of the probate court of Pickens County, and spent his spare time in studying law. He was admitted to the bar in 1872, and in November of that year was elected solicitor of Pickens County, 1876-1886, and was president of the convention which nominated John H. Bankhead for congress. He moved to Anniston in 1887 and formed a law partnership with John M. Caldwell; became first judge of the city court of Anniston in 1889, by appointment of Gov. Seay; and resigned the judgeship after a short time, to return to his law practice in the firm of Caldwell & Johnston. He has served as president of the school board of Anniston. He is a Democrat and a Presbyterian. Married: October 13, 1880, to Elizabeth Blake Weir, daughter of Gen. Andrew Weir, of Pickens County. Children: 1. William Frank; 2. Walter Weir; 3. Edith A. Residence: Anniston.

DANIEL PRATT, SR.

JOHNSTON, WILLIAM H., physician, was born March 28, 1839, in Lincoln County, N. C., and died April 3, 1898, in Birmingham; brother of Joseph Forney Johnston (q. v.), and of Robert Daniel Johnston (q. v.). He received his early education from the common schools of the vicinity, and attended Davidson college and the University of North Carolina, leaving the latter institution to enter the C. S. Army. He enlisted in the Hornets' Nest rifles, organized at Charlotte, and later became attached to the Twenty-third North Carolina infantry regiment as a sergeant. Six weeks later he was made first lieutenant of Co. K, of that regiment, and served in that rank for a year, when he was made captain of the company. He was captured at the battle of Gettysburg, and confined at Fort Delaware and Johnson's Island until his parole in March, 1865. He returned to Charlotte, N. C., and in the fall of 1865 began to study medicine. He attended the medical department of the University of New York, and was graduated in 1867. He practiced in Bellevue hospital for eighteen months, then located in the regular practice of medicine in New York City, where he remained for four years. In 1875, he came south and practiced in Selma for eleven years, then moved to Birmingham in 1886, where he entered a partnership with Dr. Mortimer H. Jordan. He was a member of the Jefferson County Medical Society; of the state board of censors, and served as president and grand senior life counsellor of the Alabama State Medical Association. He was an Episcopalian. Married: in 1872, to Kathleen Gage, daughter of Dr. James Gage, of Union, S. C. Children: 1. Hardee, physician, b. November 1, 1874, was graduated from the University of Alabama, A. B., and from the University of Virginia, M. D., 1895, served as first lieutenant and assistant surgeon in the First Alabama regiment of volunteers during the Spanish-American War, 1898, m. October 30, 1901, in Birmingham, to Daisy Lewis, Birmingham; 2. Mary P.; 3. James F. Last residence: Birmingham.

JOINER, GEORGE ALBURTUS, business man; born October 23, 1843, in Talladega, Talladega County, and died December 8, 1918; son of James Harvey and Jane (Williamson) Joiner, the former a native of South Carolina, lived in Talladega where he was editor of the Talladega Reporter and Watchtower, and was prominent in the Masons, being Grand High Priest of the Grand Chapter, Royal Arch Masons of Alabama in 1878-79-80; and the latter who was a native of Mississippi. The ancestors of George Alburtus Joiner were of Scotch-Irish descent. He received his education in the public schools of Talladega and had a certificate of admission to United States

Naval Academy at Annapolis but forewent his original intention at the behest of duty and entered the C. S. Army as a private in Co. B, First Alabama regiment, serving until January 23, 1863, when he was appointed by Jefferson Davis to the Confederate Naval Academy, graduating sixth in his class of twenty-six in July, 1864. He was one of the officers of the battleship Nashville; in the spring of 1864 became aide to Commodore W. H. Parker, in command of the Richmond; was passed midshipman; and was aide to William Buchanan until the surrender at the battle of Mobile Bay. At the close of the war Mr. Joiner began his business career as a printer on the Talladega Watchtower, a weekly paper founded by his father and later merged with the Reporter. He next entered into the mercantile business continuing in this line until 1890 when he with others built the first cotton mill in Talladega which is still running. Mr. Joiner was secretary and treasurer of the Talladega Cotton Factory and president of the Joiner Drug Company. He was alderman of the city of Talladega; city clerk; a member of the legislature from Talladega County; member of the board of trustees, Alabama School for Deaf and Blind for nearly thirty years; and a member of the national organization for teachers of the deaf, attending all conventions. He was a democrat; a member of the First Baptist Church of which he was senior living member and senior deacon; and a member of the Masons being connected with Zamora Temple, Mystic Shrine, was past grand secretary of the Grand Lodge and Grand Chapter of Alabama, and chairman of several standing committees of the Grand Lodge and Grand Chapter. He was one of the most widely known and distinguished Masons of the state. Married: December 8, 1881, at Talladega to Mary Francis Broadstreet. Children: 1. Sarah Enfield, Talladega; 2. Marion Harvey, d.; 3. Jeannette Alabama, d.; 4. Joseph Johnson, d. in infancy; 5. Manly Richard, m. Maude McCoy, Talladega; 6. Rachel, d. in infancy. Last residence: Talladega.

JOINER, JAMES HARVEY, newspaperman and merchant, was born November 17, 1819, in Abbeville District, S. C., and died September 6, 1881, at Talladega; son of Sherrod and Sarah (Cobb) Joiner, the former a North Carolinian, who lived at Abbeville, S. C., and in Ashville, the latter who was from Bedford County, Va. He received a common school education, and moved from St. Clair County to Talladega County in 1837. He was a merchant in that community, and for thirty years was editor and publisher of the "Democratic Watchtower." He was a Democrat; a Baptist; and a Mason, serving as grand high priest of the grand royal arch chapter of Alabama. Married: (1) December 23, 1842, to Rachel Williamson, of Tennessee; (2) March 4, 1847, to Caroline McLane, of Limestone County. Children, by first marriage: 1. George Alburtus (q. v.). Last residence: Talladega.

JOLLY, JOHN J., major and later lieutenant colonel, 43rd Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army.

JONES, ALBERT HAMPDEN, physician, was born June 8, 1822, near Huntsville, and died at Florence, February 8, 1884; son of Frederick and Philippa Augusta (Jackson) Jones, natives respectively of Tennessee, and Alabama, the former a planter in Mississippi; later a physician in Madison County; grandson of Edmond Jones of Murfreesboro, Tenn., and of Isaac and Mary (Spencer) Jackson, of Anson County, N. C., removing to Madison County, in 1817; great-grandson of Samuel Spencer, a Princeton graduate of 1757, who had removed to North Carolina to practice law, was a member of the Provincial congress at Halifax, 1776, a colonel in the Revolution, later one of the superior court judges of North Carolina. Both Spencers and Jacksons originally came from England. Dr. Jones was educated in the common schools of his native county, and at Charleston, S. C., 1847-8; graduated from the medical department, Transylvania university at Lexington, Ky., M. D., 1849; immediately began practice 1850, in "The Reserve," Lauderdale County; retired in 1873 to become president of the Cypress mills co., successor of the ante-bellum Weakley, Martin and co.; director Florence State normal school, 1872-1884; director Memphis and Charleston railroad co., during the seventies; served in War of Secession. He was a Democrat, and Methodist. Married: February, 1855, at the family seat in Lauderdale County, to Rebecca Anne, daughter of Nathan V. and Mary Thomas (Smith) Boddie of Alabama, and North Carolina respectively. The Boddies are of English descent. Children: 1. Frederick Fearn, deceased; 2. Susan Hill, m. Lieut. John Robert Price, C. S. Navy, residence Florence; 3. Mary Philippa, State Normal college, Farmville, Va.; 4. Percy Rivers, president Cherry cotton mills, Florence; 5. Emmet Lee, m. Annie Rebecca Ford of Montgomery, residence, Cumberland, Md.; 6. Louisa; 7. Minnie, deceased. Last residence: Florence.

JONES, ALLEN C., planter, and colonel C. S. Army, was born November 7, 1811, at Everetts, N. C.; son of Cadwallader and Rebecca Edwards (Long) Jones, the former a native of Virginia, was midshipman on the Chesapeake when attacked by the Leopard, 1807, resigned the navy to accept commission in U. S. Army, eventually becoming a colonel, in the war of 1812, served as member of board of internal improvement of North Carolina during the administration of Burton, Iredell, and Owens, was president of the Roanoke navigation company and chairman court of common pleas and quarter sessions; grandson of Major Cadwallader and Mary (Pride) Jones, the former a captain in "The Third Regiment of Light Dragoons," and aide-de-camp to Gen. Lafayette, with the rank of major, participated in campaign of 1781, the battle of Brandywine, and was present at the surrender of Cornwallis; great-grandson of Frederick and Betsy (Eppes) Jones, of Prince George County, and of Halcott and Mary (Briggs) Pride, also of Virginia; great-great-grandson of Peter and Mary (Jones) Jones; great-great-great-grandson of Abram and Mary (Wood) Jones, and great-great-great-great-grandson of Abram Jones, who died in Henrico County, prior to 1689. He is a descendant of Richard Jones, a native of England who emigrated to Virginia in the early part of the seventeenth century. At the first call to arms, Allen C. Jones raised an independent company, the "Greensboro Guards," which after doing garrison duty at Ft. Morgan and Pensacola became a part of the Fifth Alabama infantry regiment, he being advanced to the rank of lieutenant colonel, commanding it at the first battle of Manassas. When reorganization took place in 1862, Col. Jones did not continue in the service. He was a member of the house of representatives from Greene County, 1851; entered the senate in 1857, serving four years from the district composed of Greene and Marengo Counties. Of his election, Garrett says that it "was a little remarkable in that day of the old party organizations, and Greene County having a decided Whig majority." But his success was owing to personal popularity, and to family influences. He was a large land owner in Greene and Hale Counties, and a successful planter. He was a Democrat. Married: June 11, 1845, to Catherine, daughter of Col. John and Margaret (Chadwick) Erwin (q. v.). Children: 1. Julia Erwin, m. Thomas Ruffin Roulhac (q. v.); 2. Rebecca Long, m. John Nelson; 3. Margaret Chadwick, m. Alfred Benners; 4. Catherine Erwin, m. John Randolph; 5. Allen Cadwallader, m. Maria Lewis; 6. John, d. unmarried; 7. Robin; 8. Frederick Pride, m. Mary, daughter of Dr. Francis Marion Peterson, (q. v.). Last residence: Greensboro.

JONES, AMOS B., educator, Methodist minister, was born December 4, 1841, in Randolph-Macon college, Boydton, Mecklenburg County, Va.; son of Rev. Amos W. and Caroline (Blanch) Jones, the former a graduate of Randolph-Macon College, a minister in the Methodist Episcopal church, who lived at Jackson, Tenn., and for forty years was president of the Memphis conference female institute; grandson of Amos Jones, a local preacher of North Carolina, and a native of Lewisburg, N. C., and of Gen. William Blanch, of Virginia. He received his early education at Jackson, Tenn., and attended West Tennessee college, Andrew college, Union university, and East Alabama university of Auburn, leaving the latter institution at the outbreak of the War of Secession. He returned to his home in Jackson, Tenn., and enlisted in the C. S. Army as second sergeant in the Sixth Tennessee infantry. On the reorganization of the regiment, he was elected captain of Co. H, and served in that position until the close of the war. He was wounded at Murfreesboro and at Chickamauga. He conducted a farm and renewed his studies until 1869, when he was elected to a professorship in the Memphis conference female institute. He held that position for nine years, and was elected president of the institution in 1878. After holding the presidency two years, he resigned to become president and proprietor of the Huntsville female college. He was licensed to preach in the Methodist Episcopal church in 1873, by the Memphis conference. He is a Mason, and has served as right worthy deputy grand master and as right eminent grand captain-general of the grand commandery of Tennessee. He has been president of the Alabama Y. M. C. A.; is a professor in the Correspondence university of Chicago; and a member of the American institute of christian philosophy. The honorary degree of LL. D. was conferred upon him by the Southwestern Baptist university, at Jackson, Tenn., and the degree of D. D., by the University of Alabama. Married: in 1868, near Aberdeen, Miss., to Mary G. Gates. Children: 1. Amos W.; 2. James T.; 3. Carrie Blanch, deceased; 4. Joseph N., deceased; 5. Mary Sue, deceased. Residence: Huntsville.

JONES, BENJAMIN CLAY, lawyer, was born November 27, 1865, at Jonesboro, Jefferson County; son of Elias Alexander and Elizabeth (Leatherwood) Jones, the former a farmer, and a native of York District, S. C., who settled in boyhood, near Jonesboro, where he resided until 1887, at which time he removed to Athens, Limestone County; grandson of James L. Leatherwood, who lived near Pleasant Hill, Jefferson County. His early education was obtained in the Red Mountain academy, near Jonesboro, in Prof. I. W. Hill's school at Pleasant Hill, and in Birmingham. He graduated from Cumberland university, Lebanon, Tenn., with the A. B. degree, 1887; read law at home and was admitted to the bar in 1889, entering upon the practice at Bessemer, February 1, 1890, where he practiced in partnership with Thomas M. Owen until 1893. He was judge of the city court of Bessemer from June, 1901, to November, 1903; mayor of Bessemer, October 1, 1916, to date. He is a Democrat; Methodist; Mason; Knight of Pythias. Married: June 25, 1902, at Livingston, Sumter County, to Sarah Dunlap, daughter of John W. and Janie Bradshaw, who lived at Gainesville and Livingston. Children: 1. Bessie Roycraft; 2. Benjamin Clay, jr.; 3. Robert Alexander; 4. Sarah Bradshaw; 5. Mary Morey. Residence: Bessemer.

JONES, BENJAMIN RUSH, physician, planter and druggist, was born November 22, 1813, at Lancaster, S. C., and died in Montgomery, June 26, 1887; son of Dr. Bartlett and Mary Elizabeth (Dunlap) Jones, the former a native of Martinsville, Henry County, Va., who lived at Lancaster, S. C., and Bachelor's Hall, Va., practiced medicine for fifteen years and died at the age of forty-five; grandson of Benjamin and Elizabeth (Ramey) Jones of Lancaster, S. C., and of Col. Robert and Jean (White) Crawford also of Lancaster, the former a Revolutionary soldier and brother of W. H. Crawford of Georgia. The progenitors of these several families emigrated to the Waxhaw settlement, S. C., in 1765, coming from Scotland with the parents and grandparents of Andrew Jackson. Dr. Jones was educated in private schools in Lancaster and Camden, S. C., and later entered the South Carolina college, now the South Carolina university, graduating with the degree of B. A. He received his medical and surgical education at the Jefferson medical college of Philadelphia from which he graduated with honor in 1837. He first began the practice of his profession in Lowndes County, while living on his mother's plantation, but later he located at Mt. Meigs, Montgomery County, where he resided upon his own plantation and practiced medicine. A few years later he removed to Montgomery where he practiced with his brother-in-law, Dr. J. Marion Sims, who became a world-famed physician. He purchased and conducted a drug store in Montgomery, corner Dexter Avenue and Perry Street. He retired from business, and the practice of medicine prior to the War of Secession, but his hundreds of slaves being freed and his large landed estate unremunerative without this labor, he resumed the practice and rebought his drug business under the firm name of Jones and Reading, later Jones and Cary. He rebuilt a large practice which he retained up to a few months of his death. He was an ardent supporter of the Southern cause, but being too old for service at the outbreak of war, he allowed his only son, a youth in his teens, to leave the University of Alabama and enter the army where he served four years. Dr. Jones gave liberally to the Confederate cause and was noted for his generosity and charity. He formed a home guard to protect the women and children from Wilson's Raiders when they passed through Montgomery. He was president and director of the Alabama Bible society for several years; a Presbyterian; president, Montgomery medical association; organizer and president Social medical club of Montgomery. Married: May, 1841, at Montgomery, to Frances Amelia, daughter of David M. and Mary Elizabeth (Barnett) Talliaferro, who lived in Meriwether County, Ga. She was a descendant of Nicholas Meriwether who emigrated from England to Virginia during the reign of Charles II. His son, Nicholas Meriwether, jr., was a member of the house of burgess from Hanover County, Va., 1710-14-25. Children: 1. Frances Amelia, m. Edgar Winter, Montgomery; 2. Eliza Virginia, m. Thomas Marshall Vass, Montgomery; 3. Lucy Ellen, m. Nicholas Meriwether Marks, deceased, Versailles, Ky.; 4. Susan Theresa, m. Dr. George Platt Waller (q. v.), Mitylene; 5. Mary Elizabeth, deceased; 6. Benjamin Rush, jr., deceased. Last residence: Montgomery.

JONES, BUSH, lawyer, was born May 12, 1836, in Perry County, and died September 27, 1872, at Uniontown. His parents came from Virginia to Perry County in 1835. He was graduated from the University of Alabama, A. B., and A. M., 1859; finished his law studies at Lebanon, Tenn., and began to practice law in Uniontown in 1858. In January, 1861, he enlisted in a company from Dallas County which served six weeks at Fort Morgan. He fought at Manassas as a private in the Fourth Alabama, and later served for some months with that command as lieutenant. He went to Corinth, where he was elected captain of a company from St. Clair, afterward part of the Ninth Alabama battalion. When the battalion was reorganized he was elected lieutenant colonel, and later was made colonel of the Fifty-eighth Alabama regiment. He led the regiment at Chickamauga when it lost sixty-three per cent of its number, and at Missionary Ridge when his horse was killed under him. Prior to that time, the Thirty-second Alabama regiment had been consolidated with his regiment, and he led the command at Dalton, Rocky Face, Resaca, New Hope, and to Atlanta. He was in temporary command of Deas' brigade at Atlanta, and led Holtzclaw's brigade at Atlanta, at Jonesboro and at Spanish Fort, leading his own regiment at Nashville. He was paroled at Meridian. Shortly after the close of the war, he was appointed probate judge of Perry County by Gov. Parsons, and was elected to the office later in the year. He was evicted from office by the reconstruction acts in 1868, and from that time until his death practiced law in Uniontown in partnership with J. W. Rush. At the time of his death, he was on the Greeley electoral ticket. Married: at Uniontown, to Carrie Evans, who died in 1871, a sister of Mrs. Augusta Evans Wilson of Mobile. He had one child which died in infancy. Last residence: Uniontown.

JONES, CADWALLADER, lawyer, soldier, while never a resident of Alabama it is proper that a sketch of this worthy man should appear here on account of the prominence of his many descendants who live in Alabama. He was born August 17, 1813, at "Mt. Gallant," Roanoke Falls, Northampton, N. C., and died December 1, 1899, at Columbia, S. C.; son of Cadwallader and Rebecca Edwards (Long) Jones. The former, who was born at "Monte Cailoux" near Petersburg, Va., and joined U. S. navy when seventeen years of age, a midshipman on the "Chesapeake" when that vessel was attacked by the "Leopard," 1807, resigned the navy to join the army, and became 1st lieutenant, Third U. S. infantry regiment, May 3rd, 1808, was made adjutant under Gen. Wade Hampton and lived at "West Hill," Hillsboro, Orange County, N. C.; grandson of Major Cadwallader and May (Pride) Jones, of Prince George County, Va., the former a Revolutionary soldier, and of Lunsford and Rebecca (Edwards) Long; and a descendent of Richard Jones, of Wales, who emigrated to Virginia in 1680 and whose son, Abram, became the ancestor of Col. Cadwallader Jones. Col. Jones was educated at the school of W. A. Bingham, Hillsboro, N. C.; graduated at the University of North Carolina when nineteen years of age, and soon afterward began the study of law, entering upon the practice in Raleigh in 1834, later removing to Hillsboro. He represented Orange County, N. C., in the general assembly, 1840 and 1842; elected solicitor fourth judicial circuit; re-elected twice, holding this or other offices until 1856; removed in 1857 to South Carolina, for the purpose of planting. He raised a company in 1861 for the C. S. Army and was elected captain, became major of the 12th South Carolina infantry regiment upon its organization, rising to be its colonel after the battle of Sharpsburg. Being forced to resign on account of failing health, he was elected without opposition as senator from York, and in 1865 was a delegate to the constitutional convention. He was a Democrat; and an Episcopalian. Author: "A Genealogical History," 1900. Married: January 5, 1836, at Raleigh, N. C., to Annie Isabella, daughter of Gov. James and Frances Johnstone (Tredwell) Iredell, of that place, sixth in descent from John Alden and his wife, Priscilla. Children: 1. Frances Iredell, married George Erwin (q. v.); 2. Rebecca Cadwallader, unmarried; 3. Iredell, deceased, captain in C. S. Army, m. Ellen, daughter of Gov. J. H. Adams of South Carolina; 4. Cadwallader, captain in C. S. Army, m. Emily Johnston of Raleigh, residence, Greensboro; 5. Allen, captain in C. S. Army, m. Augusta Porcher of Charleston, S. C.; 6. Johnstone, adjutant-general of North Carolina, m. Bettie Miller, of Charlotte, N. C., reside in Los Angeles, Cal.; 7. Willie, colonel of a South Carolina regiment during Spanish-American War, later brigadier-general of South Carolina troops, m. Annie Caldwell of Columbia, S. C.; 8. Annie Isabella, deceased, m. Dr. Thomas C. Robertson; 9. Harcott Pride, unmarried; 10. Helen Iredell, m. John Stricker Coles of Columbia, S. C., residence Jacksonville, Fla. Last residence: Columbia, S. C.

JONES, CAPERS CAPEHART, physician, was born December 18, 1846, at Carlowville, Dallas County; son of James Capers and Emeline (Dennis) Jones, the former a native of Abbeville District, S. C., later a resident of Richmond, Dallas County, a minister and a Confederate soldier; grandson of Charles S. V. and Martha B. Jones, also of Abbeville District, S. C., and of Samuel and Martha (Capehart) Dennis, of Butler Springs, but formerly of Albemarle County, N. C. Dr. Jones was educated at Center Ridge academy, Carlowville, under Professor Thomas J. Dill; graduated in medicine from the Philadelphia university of medicine and surgery, M. D., 1870; entered upon the practice of medicine at Snow Hill, Wilcox County, March 30, 1870; president of the Medical association of Alabama, 1904-5; twice vice-president of Jefferson County medical society; joined Lockhart's battalion, December 18, 1863, which was later reorganized as the 62nd Alabama infantry regiment, and was sergeant of company D. He is a Democrat; Baptist; Mason; Knight of Honor and Knight of Pythias. Married: (1) February 1, 1871, at Snow Hill, to Mary, daughter of John and Mary (McCondichie) Gulley; (2) Frances Delphine, daughter of John Moore of Camden; (3) Ruby, daughter of J. Eades Gullette of Camden, and (4) Mrs. Ernest Cary of La Grange, Ga. Children: by second wife: 1. Edgar Allen; 2. Frances Moore, m. W. E. Perryman, of Woodlawn; 3. Ethel, m. Sumter Lea, jr., of East Lake; 4. Julia, m. Thomas E. Huey, East Lake; 5. Mary, m. James E. Parker, Birmingham; 6. F. Wayland, m. Emma Kay, East Lake; and by third marriage; 7. Capers Capehart, jr.; 8. De Votie Dill. Residence: Birmingham.

JONES, CATESBY AP ROGER, naval officer, was born about 1821, in Clarke County, Va., and died June 17, 1877, in Selma; son of Gen. Roger and Mary Anne Mason (Page) Jones; and grandson of Maj. Catesby and Lettice Corbin (Turberville) Jones. He attended the U.

S. Naval academy at Annapolis, and served in the U. S. Navy as midshipman and lieutenant until Virginia seceded from the union. He resigned his commission at that time, and being stationed at the navy yard at Norfolk, Va., joined the Virginia state forces, and took part in floating and reconstructing the U. S. steam frigate Merrimac, scuttled on April 19, 1861, by order of Commodore McCauley of the U. S. Navy, commandant of the yard. Lieut. Jones converted the Merrimac into the iron-clad Virginia. He was executive and ordnance officer of the vessel, and after the first day's battle with the Monitor, March 8, 1862, when both of his superior officers were wounded, he succeeded to command. On March 9, finding the armament ineffective against the Monitor, he made repeated efforts to destroy the latter with his powerful vessel used as a ram. As the Monitor successfully eluded the steel prow of the Virginia, both vessels withdrew, the Virginia to shield her hull, increased her draught, and to make other repairs. As the commanding officer of the vessel was unable to reassume charge, the government at Richmond placed the Virginia under Commodore Josiah Tatnall and made Lieutenant Jones second in command. On April 11, 1862, the reconstructed Virginia steamed down to the Roads expecting again to meet the Monitor, but the fleet of U. S. vessels was behind Fort Monroe and did not come out for second trial, and soon after a breakdown in the engine forced the Virginia to return to Norfolk for repairs. On May 8, the Virginia again went down the harbor, to find the Monitor, Naugatuck, Galena, and a number of heavy ships shelling the Confederate batteries on Sewell's Point. On the approach of the Virginia, the U. S. fleet retired behind the walls of Fort Monroe, and Lieut. Jones despairing of obtaining an open fight, fired a gun to the windward and took the Virginia back to her buoy. After the evacuation of Norfolk by the Confederate forces, the Virginia was taken part way up the James River to co-operate with the C. S. Army, but before reaching Jamestown Flats, the pilots refused to venture farther. As the ship was so lifted as to expose her hull and render her unfit for action Commodore Tatnall gave orders to destroy her, and she was burned on the shore near Craney Island. The crew escaped by marching twenty-two miles to Suffolk and taking cars to Richmond, and Lieut. Jones and Lieut. John Taylor Wood were the last to leave the doomed vessel.

Lieut. Jones was placed in command of the defense of the James River, and constructed batteries on Drewry's Bluff, sunk vessels in the channel, and prepared to meet the Monitor, Galena, and other Federal iron-clads, forcing the passage of the River. The crew of the Virginia, under Lieut. Jones, barred the Federal fleet, and Richmond was saved. He was promoted to the rank of commander, April 27, 1863, and ordered to Selma to take charge of the Confederate government works there and to complete the armament of the iron-clad Tennessee. He constructed the machinery and battery, and when the trial of the battle of Mobile Bay in 1864 tested his work, the captured Tennessee was found to have an uninjured armor and to have lost of her officers and crew only two killed and nine wounded. After the war was over, he was employed by Peru and Chile in their war with Spain, 1865-1869, and refused command of the squadron in deference to the feelings of the native officers. Married: to Gertrude Tartt. Children: 1. Roger ap Catesby, B. S., 1887, secretary of Central B. and L. association, secretary of Central city real estate company, cashier of the Bank of Selma, president of the Bank of Selma, director of the Estelle cotton mill company, and of the Cawthon mill company at Selma, president of the American bank at Manila, P. I., vice-president of the American safe deposit company at Manila, secretary and treasurer of the American chamber of commerce at Manila, and of the American stock exchange at that place, vice-president of the East and West trading and development company, Zamboanga, P. I., vice-president of the Mabry securities company of Selma, and of the Suttle and Jones trading company at Felix, in business at Hamburg and Linden, and president of the Melvin Patterson grocery company at Selma; 2. Catesby ap Catesby, b. January 3, 1870, A. B., University of Alabama, M. D., Baltimore medical college, 1893, city physician at Selma, 1895-1896, instructor, New York polyclinic graduate school and hospital, 1897-1899, assistant surgeon to New York ophthalmic and aural institute, eye and ear specialist, New York. Last residence: Selma.

JONES, CHARLES POLLARD, lawyer and adjutant general of Alabama, was born June 13, 1858, at Montgomery, and died November 6, 1907; son of Samuel Goode and Martha Ward (Goode) Jones (q. v.). He was educated in Montgomery, and was an alumnus of the Agricultural and mechanical college at Auburn, and of the University of the South at Sewanee; studied law in office of Jones and Faulkner in Montgomery, and was admitted to the bar in 1881; was a member of the firm of Thomas G. and Charles P. Jones until the latter was appointed U. S. federal judge in 1901. Entered law department of the Louisville and Nashville railroad co., in 1882, as tax representative; appointed assistant district attorney for the same company on December 1, 1890; was division counsel for Central of Georgia railway company; captain of "Montgomery Greys" 1888-1889; and adjutant general of Alabama 1889-95. He was a Democrat; an Episcopalian; a Mason and Knight of Pythias. Married: February 10, 1891, in Montgomery, to Elizabeth May, daughter of P. C. and Laura Jane (McKnight) Murphy, of New Orleans, La. Children: 1. Laura Goode; 2. Charles Pollard, a graduate of West Point, 1918, and now a lieutenant in the U. S. Army. Last residence: Montgomery.

JONES, CHURCHILL, farmer, member Alabama legislature, was born about 1806 in Virginia, and died in Texas. He emigrated when a young man to Conecuh County and began teaching school at Gravella; soon entered politics and represented his county in the general assembly, 1841, 1842, 1843; became a farmer and acquired a good property. He was a Whig. Several years before his death he removed to Texas and the name of his wife is unknown. Children: 1. James Sanford, deceased. Last residence: Texas.

JONES, E. N., lawyer and judge. Residence: Camden.

JONES, EGBERT J., colonel, C. S. Army, was born about 1820 in Madison County and died at Orange Court House, Va., in 1861; of a family of humble fortune, his father being a farmer. He had but slender educational advantages, but finally succeeded, about 1842, in graduating from the law school of the University of Virginia. He at once began the practice of his profession in Athens. In 1844 and 1845 he represented Limestone County in the legislature. When the Federal government in 1847 called for ten new regiments for service in the Mexican War, he raised a company for the 13th infantry of which R. M. Echols became colonel, Jones M. Withers, lieutenant-colonel, and Jere Clemens, major. After his return from the service he continued the practice of his profession in Athens, until 1853 when he removed to Huntsville. Here he and the Hon. James Robinson having formed a partnership, they carried on a large and lucrative practice until the outbreak of the war. In the meanwhile, during several years, he was a member of the board of trustees of the State university. He was intensely Southern in his political views, and was elected captain of one of the first companies that left Madison County, which became part of the 4th Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army, on its organization at Dalton, Ga., in April, 1861. He was elected colonel of the regiment, which at once proceeded to Virginia. At some time in the late spring, from causes now forgotten, the officers and men of six companies of the regiment petitioned Colonel Jones to resign. His response revealed the nobility of his nature. He showed no emotion to the regiment, but expressed his regret that he had not given satisfaction, and concluded by saying that he would resign after the approaching battle if the regiment still desired it. The day of battle came, and during its shock and tumult, Colonel Jones sat quietly upon his horse, with his leg thrown carelessly across the pommel of the saddle, and calmly gave his orders,—a sight never to be forgotten by the regiment. Towards the close of the day he was struck in the lower part of the hip with a minie ball, which ranged down to his knee. He was at once borne from the field. His heroism in this battle and his terrible wound brought about a strange revulsion of feeling in his regiment, and if there ever was a man afterwards idolized by his men it was Egbert J. Jones. He survived his wounds several weeks and died at Orange Court House, Va. His remains were carried to Huntsville and there buried amid a large gathering of people. He was a Methodist. Married: a daughter of William Echols, of Huntsville, but she died a year after, leaving him childless. Last residence: Huntsville.

JONES, ELI SPEAR, physician, graduate of the medical department of the University of Alabama, Mobile; licensed to practice by the county board of Jefferson. Residence: Gadsden.

JONES, ELLIOTT PRIEST, lawyer, was born October 21, 1819, at Moulton, Lawrence County, and died April 18, 1880, at Fayette; son of Benjamin and Viney (Wallace) Jones, the former a captain in the Mexican War, a native of Kentucky, who lived in Moulton and Fayette. His ancestry was of Irish origin. Elliott Priest Jones received a common school education in his native county and began his career by teaching school. He read law in the office of Ligon and Walker, Moulton, and began the practice at Fayette, in 1844. He was judge of the county court, 1848-50; member State senate, 1850-60; member of the constitutional conventions of 1861 and 1865 and during the latter decade, 1853, 1855 and 1857, was again elected to the senate and served three terms. He voted against the adoption of the Secession ordinance and refused to sign it. Upon the creation of a new county, made up of territory he represented, the legislature gave it the name of Jones in his honor. Later the name was changed to Sanford and finally to Lamar. He was a Methodist; Mason; and Odd Fellow. Married: In Fayette, to L. J., daughter of Mrs. Jane (Brooks) Page, native of Virginia, who located in that county. Children: 1. John W., Confederate soldier, Phoenix, Arizona; 2. J. B. Jones, merchant, m. Annie Byars, Fayette; 3. Lucius E., m. Viola Wimberly, Little Rock, Ark.; 4. Mattie O.; 5. R. S.; 6. Mary Alice; 7. Sylvester F.; 8. Frances I., m. G. F. Brown, Columbus, Miss.; 9. C. S., m. Angelo Fern, Steens, Miss. Last residence: Fayette.

JONES, FREEMAN, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 71, and a resident of Pickens County; private Virginia Continental Line; enrolled on August 12, 1833, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $60; sums received to date of publication of list, $180.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34.

JONES, GEORGE PRESLEY, lawyer, was born January 11, 1850, near Russellville, and died December 5, 1916, at Florence; son of Henry Cox and Martha L. (Keyes) Jones (q. v.). Mr. Jones was educated at Florence, and prepared for the bar by Chancellor Keyes, being admitted to the bar in 1871. He spent a few months in the office of Col. Josiah Patterson, but in 1872 opened his own office in Florence. In 1885 he formed a partnership with the late Judge R. T. Simpson. In 1887 he was made president of the board of trustees of the Florence State normal college and held that position for many years. He was a Methodist; a Democrat; and a Knight of Pythias. Married: Mary Bliss. Children: 1. George Bliss. Last residence: Florence.

JONES, GEORGE WASHINGTON, lawyer, was born April 16, 1850, in Madison County, and died February 26, 1901, at Guntersville; son of William Brown and Mary Jane (Erwin) Jones, the former who was born April 27, 1817, near Newmarket, and died in 1887, a farmer and landowner who was assistant quartermaster in the C. S. Army with the rank of colonel, the latter who died in 1893; grandson of George T. and Rebecca (Brown) Jones, who were among the first settlers of Madison County, the former a native of Scotland who was brought by his grandmother to the United States when an infant, and assumed his grandmother's name, changing his from Tannehill to Jones, and who was a representative from Madison County in the State legislature for several terms. He was educated in the schools at New Market, and was graduated from the law school of Cumberland university in 1874. He located at Guntersville in January, 1875, and began the practice of law in partnership with R. K. Boyd, then secretary of state. He continued in that partnership for six years, then practiced alone for two years, and subsequently was associated with J. G. Winston and J. L. Burke. He is a Democrat; a Presbyterian; and a Mason. Married: December 24, 1879, in Maysville, to Lavina Chardavoyne, his first cousin, daughter of George Washington and Maria Gay (Harris) Jones, who lived at that place; granddaughter of George T. and Rebecca (Brown) Jones; and a direct descendant of Pocahontas. Children: 1. Birdie Boyd, b. November, 1881, d. August, 1882; 2. Bessie Gay, b. June 26, 1883, Guntersville. Last residence: Guntersville.

DR. SAMUEL P. SMITH

JONES, GEORGE WASHINGTON, lawyer, was born October 25, 1865, at Nolin, Hardin County, Ky.; son of Samuel Harris and Fanny Evans (Smith) Jones, the former a native of Greenbrier, Va. (now West Va.), and a farmer; grandson of Col. Roger and Sarah (Pendleton) Jones, the former of whom served in the War of 1812 and the Indian Wars, and of Rufus and Diana (Newton) Smith, natives of New York and Massachusetts, respectively. He was educated in public schools of Nolin and at Sonora college, Ky., where he graduated in 1885. He taught in Sonora college and in public schools of Nolin. He later was private secretary of the late Theodore Welch, general freight agent Louisville and Nashville railroad co., and the late Col. J. M. Falkner of Montgomery, district attorney of the Louisville and Nashville railroad co., and to the late Col. H. W. Fuller, passenger traffic manager, Chesapeake and Ohio railway. He studied law under Col. Falkner; was admitted to practice by supreme court of Alabama and by the U. S. supreme court; and is district attorney of the Louisville and Nashville railroad co., succeeding his old preceptor. He was member board of education Montgomery County for 18 years. He is vice-president of the South and North Alabama railroad company, attorney for the Pullman company, the Southern Express company, and other corporations. He is a Mason; Knight Templar; Shriner; Knight of Pythias; Odd Fellow; Elk; Knight of Honor; and member of the National Union; and an Episcopalian. He has served as a member of the board of directors of the Chamber of commerce and of the Beauvoir club. Married: December 21, 1892, at Montgomery, to Ruth, daughter of Capt. Charles Washington and Julia Reese (Norton) Norton, of Montgomery; granddaughter of Dr. Samuel Edwin and Julia Gustina (Alston) Norton. Children: 1. Roger Alston, attorney at law in practice at Montgomery. Residence: Montgomery.

JONES, GILBERT ERNEST, lawyer, was born February 19, 1886, near Blakely, Early County, Ga.; son of Charles Ernest and Mary (Martin) Jones, the former a native of Hale County, who lived at Colquitt and Damascus, Ga., and taught school in Georgia, Mississippi, Virginia, Missouri, and other states, and served in the C. S. Army throughout the entire War of Secession; grandson of John Haley and Caroline (Colgin) Jones, who moved from Hale County to Mobile, and of Henry Ambrose and Amanda (Davis) Martin, of Ft. Gaines, Ga. He received his early educational training from his father, and later attended the common school of Damascus-Kestler, Ga. He learned the printing trade on the "Edison News," Edison, Ga.; has worked on a number of papers in Alabama; and was one of the founders of the "Clio Free Press," which he edited until 1916. He was one of the founders of the Clio telephone company; and later became sole owner of that enterprise, operating lines in Clio, Louisville, and Ariton. He was a member of the Alabama electoral college of 1909; a member of the Clio town council, 1910-1912; of the Alabama electoral college, 1913, and served as its secretary; and was elected State senator from the twenty-fourth district. He began the movement for the state publication of school text books in 1913, the books to be supplied students at cost, distributed through the education department, the state to own and operate the plant. He is a Democrat; a Baptist; a Mason; a Knight of Pythias; a Red Man; a Woodman of the World; and a member of the Farmers' Union. Married: July 6, 1915, to Nola Inez, daughter of Neil Monroe and Elcy (Phillips) Mooneyham, of Clio. Residence: Clio.

JONES, HARVEY ELLIS, business man, was born April 28, 1842, at Tuscaloosa; son of George L. and Madeline (Clitherall) Jones, of Tuscaloosa; grandson of Frederick Jones of Hillsboro, N. C., and of Dr. George and Caroline (Burgwin) Clitherall, of the "Hermitage," near Newbern, the former a member of the U. S. Army; great-grandson of Frederick Jones, the Royal chief justice of North Carolina. He was educated in private schools; at St. James college, Hagerstown, Md.; and at the University of Alabama, but did not graduate. He entered the C. S. Army, April 28, 1861, as second sergeant, Co. E, Third Alabama infantry regiment; was promoted to captain, and to assistant adjutant general of Gracie's Alabama brigade. On March 31, 1865, he lost a leg in battle at White Oak Road, Va. After the war, he engaged in various business occupations; was appointed recording secretary to Gov. Thomas G. Jones, serving, 1890-1894; was private secretary to Gov. William C. Oates, 1894-1896; was a member of the railroad commission, 1895-1899; adjutant general of the state, 1895-1896; and was appointed State tax commissioner in 1901. He is a Democrat and an Episcopalian. Married: November 24, 1869, at Spring Hill, near Mobile, to Marion, daughter of Bishop R. H. and Margaret (Brown) Wilmer (q. v.). Residence: Mobile.

JONES, HENRY A., lawyer; living in 1913. Residence: Tuscaloosa.

JONES, HENRY COX, lawyer, was born January 23, 1821, near Russellville, Franklin County, and died June 20, 1913, at Florence; son of William Stratton and Ann Harris (Cox) Jones, the former a native of Amelia County, Va., born in 1798, and died in 1874, came from Virginia in 1813, and located at Huntsville, moved to Franklin County in 1819 and settled on a large plantation near Russellville; grandson of Thomas Speck and Prudence (Jones) Jones, who lived in Amelia County, Va., the former a colonel in the Revolutionary Army, and of Henry and Judith (Eldridge) Cox, who lived at Huntsville, Madison County; great-grandson of Peter Jones of Dinwiddy County, Va., an officer in the British Army who was sent to America to fight the Indians, and of Thomas and Martha (Bolling) Eldridge, the latter a descendant of John Rolfe and Pocahontas, fourth generation. The ancestors of the Jones family came from Wales. He was raised on a plantation near Russellville, and obtained his early education in the schools of that place, under the instruction of John Wyatt Harris; and was graduated from LaGrange college in 1840. He studied law in college under Prof. Tutwiler, and later under Hon. Daniel Coleman of Athens. He was admitted to the bar in 1841 in Franklin County. He was elected probate judge of the county during that same year, and resigned the office after eighteen months, to become a representative of Franklin County in the State legislature. He was re-elected to the legislature in 1844, and was sent to the State senate in 1853. He moved to Florence in 1856, and continued his law practice. In 1860, he was a Douglas elector, and the following year represented the county at the secession convention, where he refused to vote for or sign the ordinance of secession. Though he was an opponent of secession, he was elected to the provisional congress of the Confederate States of America and served in the body for one year. During the war he was engaged in the manufacture of cottons and woolens under a contract for the Confederate government. After the war, he resumed the practice of law at Florence. He was associated at times with Sidney C. Posey and the Hon. Josiah Patterson. During the reconstruction period he was chairman of the Democratic central committee for five years. In 1876 he was a Tilden elector, and later in that year he was elected solicitor for the eighth district. He was re-elected to that office for two more terms, holding the position in all for eighteen years. He was a Democrat; a Methodist; and a Mason.

Married: October 13, 1844, at Athens, to Martha Louisa, who died at her home in Florence, May 6, 1887, daughter of George and Nelly (Rutledge) Keyes, who lived in east Tennessee; granddaughter of John Wade and Louisa (Tolbott) Keyes, the former a captain in the Revolutionary Army, serving under Gen. Thomas, the latter a niece of President Monroe; great-granddaughter of Humphrey and Marcella (Wade) Keyes, who moved to Virginia from Massachusetts. The Keyes family came to America from England and first settled in Massachusetts, where one of them assisted at the "Boston Tea Party." Children: 1. William Stratton, who served in the C. S. Army under Forrest, and was killed at Pulaski, Tenn., September 27, 1864; 2. Bertha, m. Lindsey Melbourne Allen, a cotton manufacturer, Phil Campbell; 3. George Presley (q. v.), b. January 11, 1850, near Russellville, admitted to the bar in 1871, became a member of the law firm of Simpson and Jones, is president of the board of directors of the Normal college at Florence, m. Mary Bliss, Florence; 4. Ellen Rivers, Florence; 5. Henry Cox, lawyer at Decatur, deceased; 6. John Rather, railroad man in St. Louis, Mo., deceased; 7. Jennie Keyes, m. William Jones Kernachan, Florence; 8. Martha Bolling, m. Thomas Sadler Jordan, Birmingham; 9. Robert Young, doctor of dental surgery, m. Annie Pollard, Birmingham; 10. Wade Keyes, deceased. Last residence: Florence.

JONES, HENRY MARTIN, Presbyterian minister, was born February 28, 1820, at Petersburg, Va., and died March 9, 1889, at Arlington; son of Thomas W. and Mary Weatherly (Martin) Jones. His family records were destroyed by fire in Wilcox County in 1876. He was educated in Virginia and moved to Talladega in 1842. He was ordained as a Cumberland Presbyterian minister in 1847, and did evangelistic work in Calhoun and Cherokee Counties, where he organized several churches, and in Montevallo. He moved to Wilcox County in 1862, and in 1878 surrendered his connection with the Cumberland Presbyterian church and united with the Presbytery of south Alabama in Mobile. He served the Presbyterian churches at Geneva and Laurel until 1887. He was superintendent of education in one of the counties of Alabama. Prior to the War of Secession he was a man of large means, owning property in Montevallo and at Arlington. He was a strong Confederate sympathizer and gave thousands of dollars to the cause. He was a Mason. Married: in 1841, at Petersburg, Va., to Mary Priscilla Williams. Children: 1. Charles Thomas Roper, b. January 7, 1842, d. August 1, 1860; 2. Richard Timothy, b. December 11, 1845, killed in battle of Antietam or Spartanburg, October 7, 1862; 3. Mary Elizabeth, b. March 9, 1850, d. March 25, 1907, m. P. B. Lily; 4. Martha Caroline, b. December 7, 1852, d. July 22, 1907, m. Prof. Hayden Albert Finch; 5. Henry Ewen, b. August 2, 1855, d. January 15, 1910, m. Winnie Wilson; 6. Walter R., b. January 28, 1859, m. Cornelia Jones, Pine Hill, Wilcox County; 7. Charles Richard, b. June 10, 1862, d. April 12, 1890, m. Ellen Price; 8. Leon George, b. June 22, 1865, m. Kate Jane Higgins, Talladega. Last residence: Arlington.

JONES, J. W., member of the constitutional convention of 1875, from Morgan County.

JONES, JAMES DAVID, physician, was born December 4, 1866, at Lower Peachtree, Wilcox County; son of Henry Robert and Mary Elizabeth (Hestle) Jones, the former who served in Co. B, Thirty-eighth Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army, was twice wounded and since the war has farmed in Clarke County; grandson of David Parham and Martha (Pugh) Jones, and of Isaiah Jeremiah and Eliza (Mixon) Hestle, all of Clarke County, and brother of Robert Isaiah Jones (q. v.). The Jones family emigrated from Virginia to Alabama before 1819. The home of the Jones' is still standing on the James River, and is known as "The Jones Plantation." The Mixons and Hestles are South Carolinians. Mr. Jones received his early education in the public schools at Lower Peachtree; studied two years at the medical department, University of Alabama, at Mobile; and one year at the University of Kentucky, Louisville, Ky. He was licensed to practice as a surgeon and physician at Demopolis in 1894. Since that date he has practiced at Sweetwater, and in 1919, was made county health officer of Marengo county. He was elected to the State legislature from that county in 1919. He is a Democrat; a Methodist; 18th degree Mason; a Knight of Pythias; Woodman of the World; a member of the Marengo county medical society and the Alabama state medical association. Married: June 27, 1894, at Lower Peachtree, to Alice Algerina, daughter of Nathaniel Julius and Laura (Kimbrough) McConnell, of Lower Peachtree; granddaughter of John and Patsy (Caller) McConnell, the former a captain in the Revolutionary War. Children: 1. Henry Robert, m. Elenor Ward; 2. James Caller; 3. Bayliss Algerina; 4. David Lamar. Residence: Sweetwater.

JONES, JAMES McLEAN, lawyer, was born July 18, 1872, at Greensboro, Hale County; son of Madison and Alice (McLean) Jones, of Greensboro. He was educated in the common schools of Hale County; at the Southern university, Greensboro; Marion institute, Marion; and the University of Virginia; graduated, 1892, from the University of Alabama, with the degree of LL. B. He entered upon the practice of his profession at Greensboro in 1892, where he has since resided. He was a member of the constitutional convention of 1901, from Hale County; and was three years chairman of the Hale County democratic executive committee. He is a Democrat; and a Presbyterian. Married: August 8, 1894, to Annie Lewis. Residence: Greensboro.

JONES, JAMES TAYLOR, lawyer, representative in congress and circuit judge, was born in Richmond, Va., July 20, 1832, and died at Demopolis, February 15, 1895; son of Richard and Anne Jene (Taylor) Jones of Virginia, who located in Marengo County, in 1834, where Mrs. Jones died in 1840, and her husband in 1872; grandson of Zachariah Taylor, of Cartersville, Va. He received his early education in the local schools; entered Princeton university in 1848 at the age of sixteen and graduated, A. B., 1852, three years later received the honorary degree of A. M. from this university; entered the law department of the University of Virginia, conducted by the distinguished Professors Minor and Hawthorne, and graduated in 1850; and in 1856 entered upon the practice in Demopolis, in partnership with George G. Lyon. In 1861 enlisted as a private in the Fourth Alabama infantry regiment, the first received into active service; chosen captain of Co. D, on the reorganization of the regiment in 1862 for the period of the war; was in the battles of First Manassas, Seven Pines, Gaines' Mill, Gettysburg and the engagements around Richmond. While in the trenches around Richmond and Petersburg he was assigned to duty by Judge John A. Campbell, then the assistant secretary of war, as judge advocate in the war department in which capacity he continued to serve until the end of hostilities. The war over he returned to his home in Alabama on foot, a journey of thirty days. He was a delegate from Marengo County to the constitutional convention of 1865. From 1869 to 1878 he was associated with Frank S. Lyon; in 1872 elected state senator; and in 1874 nominated for congress. In company with Col. J. W. A. Sanford, candidate for attorney-general of the State he made a thorough canvass of the fourteen counties at that time embraced in the 4th district. At the time the position was filled by Hon. Charles Hayes, "who by means of the United States troops, United States marshal and an appropriation of $400,000 worth of bacon to the then flooded counties of the district, was elected." Mem. Rec. of Ala. p. 480. The State was afterward re-districted and, in 1876, Captain Jones was elected to congress and filled the seat for eight years. In 1892 he was elected judge of the first judicial district without opposition. He was a Mason; an Episcopalian; and in 1892 the first commander of the Alabama Division, United Confederate Veterans. Married: (1) in 1862, to Ida, daughter of A. G. Vaughn; (2) in 1875, to Jennie, daughter of Dr. R. W. Reese of Marengo County. Children: There were thirteen children to these unions. Last residence: Demopolis.

JONES, JAMES WILEY, business man and Baptist minister, was born June 1, 1857, at South Butler, Butler County; son of William Henry and Martha Perkins (Rhodes) Jones, the former an Alabamian, who lived at South Butler and at Jones Mills and was a member of Dean's company, Seventeenth Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army, serving throughout the four years of the War of Secession; grandson of Elbert and Katherine (Fountain) Jones, who came from Georgia to Alabama, lived in Conecuh, Montgomery and Butler Counties, and of Davis Newton and Amy (Perryman) Rhodes, Georgians, who settled in Butler County. Both grandfathers fought in the Mexican War and in some Indian wars. Their ancestors came from England, settled in the Carolinas, and later moved to Georgia. He attended the common schools of Butler County, and received a diploma in vocal music from the Southern musical convention, Auxiliary No. 6, 1877. He has farmed all his life; ran a gin, a grist and a saw mill about nine years; merchandised for eight years; has been interested in an incorporated mercantile company; is vice president of the Repton State bank; moved to Monroe County, 1888, where Jones Mills now stands; was ordained a Primitive Baptist minister in 1887, and has served from one to four churches since that time; and has been moderator of the Antioch association for a number of years. Rev. Mr. Jones served as school trustee, 1881-1910; represented Monroe County in the State legislature, 1900-1901, 1910-1911; was alderman of Jones Mills, 1909-1910; chairman of the board of education for Jones Mills, 1910; trustee of the Normal college at Troy, 1910. He is a Democrat. Married: December 21, 1876, at Oakey Streak, to Mary Frances, daughter of Richard Singleton and Eliza Salter (Josey) Hughes, of that place, the former a farmer, justice of the peace for several years, county commissioner during reconstruction days, legislator from Butler County, 1878-1879, and a Primitive Baptist preacher for half a century; granddaughter of James and Nancy Josey. Children: 1. James Houston, m. Idonia Sawyer; 2. Minnie Ella; 3. Lilla Belle, m. Walter Benjamin Merrill; 4. Marie Anna; 5. Burnie Edward; 6. Alice Ethel; 7. Richard Earle; 8. Henry Thomas; 9. Ralph Lee. Residence: Jones Mills.

JONES, JASON G., farmer, was born in 1811, in North Carolina, and died in 1886, in Montgomery County; son of George Jones, a native of North Carolina who removed to Alabama about 1833, settling in Henry County, where he remained until his death, in 1886. Married: in 1846, in Montgomery County, to Mary J., daughter of David B. Peele, a farmer, native of Georgia, an early settler in Alabama, who lived at different times in Lowndes, Macon, Montgomery and Choctaw counties, but died in Mississippi. Children: 1. George, farmer, d. unmarried; 2. Rebecca, graduate of Judson college, d. unmarried; 3. David Peele, m. Alice, daughter of William Barnes of Barachias; 4. Elizabeth, student at Judson college, d. unmarried; 5. William Gilmer, m. (1) ——— Cooner; (2) Mrs. Jesse G. Jones, widow of his brother; 6. Jesse Gregory, m. Annie Lee Hudson of Auburn; 7. Mourning, m. Dr. J. W. Killen, New York State. Last residence: Oak Grove.

JONES, JESSE M., holding A. B. and M. S. degrees; professor of animal industry. Alabama polytechnic institute, Auburn, 1913.

JONES, JOHN, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 75, and a resident of Morgan County; private N. C. Continental Line and Militia; enrolled on November 4, 1833, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $61.44; sums received to date of publication of list, $153.60.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34.

JONES, JOHN ARCHIBALD, colonel, C. S. Army, was born April 14, 1831, at Fayetteville, N. C., and died March 20, 1896, in Lexington, Mo.; son of Amos and Elizabeth (Holmes) Jones, the former born in Onslow County, N. C., lived in Fayetteville, N. C., later near Montgomery, and near Camden, died in Mobile in the summer of 1884, and was buried in Camden; grandson of Lewis and Zarah (Gregory) Jones, of Jones County, N. C., and of Archibald and Mary (Turner) Holmes, of Fayetteville, N. C., and the great-grandson of Archibald and Elizabeth (Blocker) Holmes, the former was an emigrant from Scotland to Fayetteville, N. C., settling there after the battle of Culloden. John Archibald Jones entered the University of Alabama in 1851, was graduated therefrom in 1855 with the degree A. B. He was tutor of Latin and Greek in the University in 1855 and 1856; was a member of the Philomathean literary society and of the Delta Kappa Epsilon college fraternity. He was professor of mathematics in the Alabama central female college at Tuskegee from 1856 to 1858. After this he became secretary of the cotton mills at Scottsville, Bibb County, and was holding this position at the opening of the war. In 1862 he was elected captain of a company in Bibb county, which became part of the 44th Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army, on its organization at Selma on May 16, 1862. The regiment on its arrival at Richmond, July 1, was placed in A. R. Wright's brigade. It fought in the second battle of Manassas and then took part in the Maryland campaign. In September, on the promotion of Maj. W. F. Perry to lieutenant-colonel, Captain Jones was promoted major, and soon after he was promoted lieutenant-colonel on Lieutenant-Colonel Perry becoming colonel of the regiment. In the following winter the regiment was placed in Law's brigade, in which organization it remained until the close of the war. Lieutenant-Colonel Jones is specially complimented by Colonel Perry in his report of the battle of Gettysburg, as having "behaved with great coolness and courage." Colonel Perry was appointed brigadier-general March 15, 1865, to rank from February 21, 1865. It is impossible from the lack of records, to determine whether Lieutenant-Colonel Jones was promoted colonel on the promotion of Colonel Perry to brigadier-general. In the organization of General Lee's army in the Appomattox campaign, he appears as lieutenant-colonel commanding the 44th Alabama. After the surrender at Appomattox, Colonel Jones returned to Alabama and from 1865 to 1878 he followed the occupation of a farmer in Wilcox County. He then taught school in various places in Alabama from 1878 to 1885. During these years, from 1880 to 1882, he was superintendent of public instruction in Hale County. From 1886 to 1889 he was president of the Dalton female college, Dalton, Ga. From 1889 until his death, he was secretary of the faculty of Central college, Lexington, Mo. He was a Methodist. Married: May 12, 1856, at Tuscaloosa, to Mary Vincent, daughter of David and Stella (Houghton) Scott, the former was born in South Carolina, April 5, 1792, removed to Jefferson County, where he engaged in mercantile business, also followed this avocation in Tuscaloosa and Marion, finally sold out this business and established cotton, woolen, flour, and lumber mills at Scottsville, a town named for himself, the latter a sister of H. O. Houghton, of Houghton, Mifflin co., publishers; granddaughter of David and Jane Scott, and of William and Marilla (Clay) Houghton, of Boston, Mass.; great-granddaughter of William Houghton, born in Boston, March 23, 1774, and great-great-granddaughter of Abraham and Sarah (Divol) Houghton, the former was born in Lancaster, Mass., November 27, 1725, served in the Revolution as a private in Capt. Jonathan Whitney's company of Col. Samuel Willard's regiment. His ancestors came from Lancastershire, England to Lancaster, Mass., in the Abigail in 1632. Children: 1. Thomas Scott; 2. Archibald Amos, graduated from the University of Alabama, 1882, m. Kate Harben, in 1888, lived in Seattle, Washington; 3. Bessie Holmes, Kansas City, Mo.; 4. Paul McConnell, graduated from the Vanderbilt university afterwards professor of biology in the same institution; drowned at Woods Hole, Mass.; 5. Elliott Hamilton, m. Martha M. Scarrett, Kansas City, Mo.; 6. Ernest Scott, Kansas City, Mo.; 7. Herbert Vincent, m. Eleanor Buford, Kansas City, Mo. Last residence: Lexington, Mo.

JONES, JOHN CALIGUA, farmer, mechanic and member Constitutional convention, 1901, was born September 27, 1852, near Centerville, Bibb County; son of William and Sarah Jane (Rotenberry) Jones, who lived near Centerville. He was educated in the common schools, but received no college education. He has been a farmer; and is now a mechanic. He is a Democrat; and a Baptist. Married: Ella Frances Foshee. Residence: Blocton.

JONES, JOHN EDMUND, lawyer, was born about 1805, and died about 1854. For many years he was a Methodist minister, and later in life while retaining that character, added to it that of a lawyer. He was elected to the State senate from Sumter County by a majority of four votes over Samuel B. Boyd, in 1840. After his term in the senate had expired, he was, in 1844, elected solicitor of the Mobile circuit, defeating Percy Walker. In 1847 he was elected judge of the city court of Mobile, and held that office until declining health caused him to retire. Last residence: Sumter County.

JONES, JOHN PAUL, physician, was born June 21, 1837, in Brunswick County, Va.; brother of Richard Channing Jones (q. v.). He was prepared for college in the schools of Camden; was graduated from the University of Alabama, A. B., 1859; and from the New Orleans school of medicine, M. D., March, 1861. He received the degree of A. M. from the University of Alabama, 1877. In June, 1861, he enlisted in the Wilcox rifles, which were mustered into the C. S. Army as the escort of Gen. Bragg. He was assigned to the staff of Gen. Jones M. Withers, as assistant surgeon in charge of his escort, with the rank of captain, in 1862. A few months after the battle of Murfreesboro, he was transferred at his own request to the Academy hospital at Chattanooga, where he served as assistant surgeon under Dr. Frank Hawthorn. Dr. Jones succeeded Dr. Hawthorn and was in charge of the hospital during the last year of the War of Secession. When the war ended, Dr. Jones returned to his home in Camden and resumed the practice of his profession. He has served as president of the Wilcox County medical society, and was vice-president of the State medical association of Alabama for two years. In addition to the practice of his profession, he has interests in real estate and other investments in Wilcox County. Married: February 14, 1866, to Camilla Hunter, daughter of Maj. Frank Boykin, of South Carolina, but at that time a resident of Camden. Children: 1. Thomas Warburton, physician, b. September 3, 1868, was educated in Camden male school and in the University of Alabama, and was graduated from the College of physicians and surgeons, New York City, M. D., 1890, practiced medicine in partnership with his father, m. June 28, 1894, at Selma, Fannie Tipton, Camden; 2. Frank Boykin, planter, b. July 2, 1872, was educated at Camden male school, and at the University of Alabama, was graduated in pharmacy, Columbia university, New York, served as mayor of Camden, 1896-1897, m. July 11, 1900, at Camden, Charlotte Mary Boykin, Camden; 3. James Huestis, physician, b. March 11, 1876, was educated at the University of Alabama, and was graduated from Tulane university, M. D., 1901, student at the Alabama polytechnic institute, 1897-1898, Snow Hill; 4. John Paul, jr., lawyer, b. June 10, 1898, was educated at the University of Alabama, at the Alabama polytechnic institute, 1897-1898, and at the Vanderbilt law school, 1898-1899, received the degree of LL. B. from the University of Alabama, 1900, was solicitor of Wilcox County, Camden; 5. Winston Boykin, physician, b. April 30, 1880, educated at the University of Alabama, at the Alabama polytechnic institute, 1897-1898, was graduated from Tulane university, M. D., 1901, practiced at Camden; 6. Richard Channing, jr.; 7. Clement Richardson. Residence: Camden.

JONES, JOSEPH BREVARD, lawyer, was born February 10, 1867, at Montgomery; son of Samuel Goode and Aurora Serena (Elmore) Jones (q. v.). He received his elementary education at Youngsboro and Opelika, and at grammar school, University of the South; graduated from that institution A. M. 1888; studied law in the office of Jones and Falkner, Montgomery; licensed to practice law by supreme court, 1890; appointed tax agent of the Louisville and Nashville railroad company, December 1, 1890, a position he has continuously held. He is a Democrat; an Episcopalian; and a member of the Kappa Alpha college fraternity. Married: December 10, 1912, at Montgomery, to Annie May, daughter of Joseph Wesley and Annie (Savage) Dimmick (q. v.). Residence: Montgomery.

JONES, JOSEPH H., major, 55th Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army.

JONES, JOSHUA, planter, was born, in 1791, in Cumberland County, N. C., and died October, 1866, in Montgomery County. He was a successful planter, his home being on the Woodley Road, west of Catoma Creek, and distinguished for kindness and hospitality. Besides their own large family they reared several orphans. He was a Baptist and a Democrat. Married: (1) to Charity Miller; (2) to Mary Elizabeth, daughter of Lewis Jones, a native of North Carolina who removed to Alabama about 1832 and located in Montgomery County where he established a farm from the virgin forest, the two Jones families were not related. Children: by the first wife, 1. Thomas Isaac, m. Mary Frances, daughter of Norville Robertson and Barbara (Poss) Holloway; by the second wife, 2. David George, a Confederate soldier in Clanton's cavalry, and later in the Virginia army, m. Alice, daughter of Christopher C. Tompkins of Bullock County; 3. William, Confederate soldier in Governor Watts' regiment, died in prison from effect of wounds received at the battle of Shiloh; 4. Lewis, Confederate soldier, m. a widow Colley of Bullock County, no issue; 5. John C., member 1st Alabama cavalry, m. Catharine, daughter of William A. Cook, of Bullock County; 6. James, enlisted in the Confederate Army when sixteen, m. Porterfield, daughter of Christopher Tompkins of Bullock County; 7. Joshua, died young, unmarried; 8. Owen Gregory, died young, unm.; 9. Henry Ballard, unm. deceased; 10. Zara, m. Nicholas Barnett; 11. Mary Ellen, m. Julius B. Gay; 12. Amos, farmer, treasurer of Montgomery County, missionary Baptist, Democrat, member of Capt. Peter H. McEachin's company, Hilliard's legion, later the 16th Alabama cavalry, which was with Bragg on his Kentucky raid, fought at Chickamauga, was with Longstreet, and was in all the battles around Petersburg and Richmond, captured before the surrender and imprisoned at Newport News until July, 1865, m., in 1868, to Caroline Virginia, daughter of John D. and Charlotte Campbell, natives of South Carolina, removed to Alabama, settling first in Macon County, later in Montgomery. Last residence: Montgomery County.

JONES, JULIUS, physician, was born March 5, 1858, in Coosa County; son of J. C. and Angelina G. (Love) Jones, the former a native of Madison County, Tenn.; grandson of Julius and Martha (Walker) Jones, the former a native of North Carolina, who immigrated to Madison County, Tenn., where he was a farmer and of Archibald and Isabella P. (Graham) Love, the former a member of a North Carolina family who removed first to Florida, thence to Talladega County, the latter a member of the well known Graham family, politically prominent in several southern states. After receiving his academic education Dr. Jones read medicine, 1852, with Dr. J. B. Kelly, of Coosa County; entered Vanderbilt university medical school, Nashville, Tenn., 1883 and graduated valedictorian in a class of three hundred. He began the practice at Rockford, where he has remained. He is a Democrat; Mason; Knight of Pythias; a Baptist; and member of the Kappa Alpha college fraternity. Married: December 12, 1888, at Rockford, to Mattie, daughter of Thomas McDonald, of Rockford. Children: 1. McDonald, deceased; 2. died in infancy. Residence: Rockford.

JONES, LEE, physician; graduate of the medical department of the University of Virginia, 1909, and licensed to practice by the State board of medical examiners in 1910. Residence: Selma.

JONES, LUTHER CALVERT, accountant, and member Constitutional convention, 1901, was born July 19, 1870, at Pheonix, Lee County; son of G. W. and Nancy A. (Johnson) Jones, who lived at Pheonix, then known as Brownsville. He received a common school education. He is a bookkeeper, and accountant; was a first lieutenant and captain in the Alabama National Guard, formerly known as Alabama State troops; was a member of the constitutional convention of 1901, from Lee County. He is a Democrat. Married: August 5, 1888, at Pheonix, to Minnie Lee Roquemore. Residence: Pheonix.

JONES, MARY WARD (HUTCHINSON), teacher, was born in Greensboro; daughter of Alfred Holt and Virginia (Richardson) Hutchinson, the former a native of Montgomery, who lived at Livingston and was a first lieutenant and acting captain throughout the War of Secession; granddaughter of Judge Joseph Johnstone and Mary Adelaide (Jackson) Hutchinson, the former a Methodist minister, native of Montgomery, who held charges at Mobile, Tuscaloosa, and Greensboro, and of Josiah and Anne (Hewell) Richardson of Christian County, Ky.; great-granddaughter of James and Cynthia (Clark) Hutchinson; great-great-granddaughter of Joseph and Sarah (Johnstone) Hutchinson and of Gen. James Jackson, a brilliant Revolutionary officer. The Hutchinsons were of Scotch-Irish stock. Mary Ward Hutchinson Jones was a pupil of Julia Tutwiler and graduated from Tuscaloosa female college. She taught at the head of the department of history, at the Livingston normal school during Miss Tutwiler's presidency. Married: in 1884, in Tuscaloosa, to Frederick Houston, son of Capt. W. A. C. and Esther (Houston) Jones (q. v.) of Livingston. Residence: Livingston.

JONES, MORGAN D., living author and writer. Residence: Andalusia.

JONES, N. A., educator, principal of the high school of Dale County, 1913. Residence: Ozark.

JONES, OBADIAH, lawyer, Federal judge in Georgia, and receiver public moneys, was born in Virginia in 1783, died in Athens, May 24, 1825, and is buried on his property, "Spring Hill." He removed to South Carolina, near Newberry Court House, with his parents and only brother, at an early age. Suffering the loss by death of his relative he was left without data as to his family history. He had no opportunity for schooling, as he was left without means and compelled to work for his living. His promising intellect and sterling character gained the friendship of Judge Knight, of South Carolina, who assisted in his education, obtained a school teachers' position for him, in the meantime assisting him in the study of law and finally taking him into partnership. Later he moved to Ogelthorpe County, Ga., but being appointed receiver of public moneys, removed to Athens, Ga., to transact the business of his office. Later he was appointed to a Federal judgeship of Georgia. He was appointed judge in Mississippi Territory, of which Alabama was then a part, and removed to Athens, where he bought a plantation north of that place called "Spring Hill." He directed the laying-off of Mississippi and Alabama into townships and sections and represented the U. S. government at the Pontotoc convention when the trade with the Indians was concluded, purchasing their interest in the lands, and safeguarding the hamper-baskets of money that paid for the same. His honesty and fairness won the confidence of the Indians, and they agreed to his terms for their removal beyond the Mississippi River. Twelve sections of land were given to him by the government in recognition of these services, which he distributed among his children. He was also interested with Gen. Sevier of Tennessee in lands in Alabama, but his papers were lost. A copy of his commission as superior court judge, Madison District, Alabama Territory, is in the collection of the State Archives, and also the proceeding of the courts which he held. He was a Presbyterian. Married: about 1814, in Asheville, N. C., to Elizabeth Cowden, aunt of Judge Cowden of North Carolina. Children: 1. William Crawford; 2. Albert; 3. Son, died in infancy. 4. daughter m. ————— Roberts; 5. and 6. two sons whose names are not given, who moved to De Soto County, Miss., 1836, after Judge Jones' death leaving descendants there. Mrs. Jones is buried at Mississippi City. Last residence: Spring Hill, near Athens.

DANIEL PRATT, JR.

JONES, R. A., merchant, was born December 10, 1842, in Madison County; son of Charles Smithson and Delia (Jones) Jones, who lived in Jackson County, the former a native of Virginia, who came to Alabama when a young man served in the Florida and Mexican Wars, and was a trustee of the University of Alabama at the time of his death, October 20, 1850; great-grandson of Robert Jones, a Virginian, who served in the Revolutionary War, and was at the battle of Yorktown. He is a brother of Jasper Jefferson Jones, who was major of the Eighteenth battalion of Alabama volunteers, C. S. Army, and solicitor of Jackson County for two terms. The Jones family is of Welsh descent, and was first introduced in America in 1727 in Brunswick County, Va. Between that date and 1760, five other families, all related, emigrated and settled in the same county. The history of the Jones family has been traced back to Ednowain-Bendew, the chief of the Thirteen Noble Tribes of north Wales and Powys, who died in 1079. Mr. Jones moved to Jackson County with his parents when an infant; left school at the age of nineteen to enter the C. S. Army; enlisted in Co. A, Thirty-third Alabama infantry in May, 1861; participated in the battle of Liberty Gap, Bragg's retreat from Tennessee, the battles of Chickamauga, Missionary Ridge, Ringgold Gap, Resaca, Rocky Face Ridge, New Hope Church, Kenesaw Mountain, Atlanta, Jonesboro, Lovejoy, and Franklin; was wounded and captured at Franklin; and confined to Camp Douglas until the end of the war six months later. He returned to Jackson County and farmed for a year, then established himself in the mercantile business at Bridgeport. He continued in that occupation until 1890, and since that time has devoted his attention to his interests in the Bridgeport land and improvement company in which he has been treasurer and a director. He is a Methodist. Married: December 9, 1869, to Eliza C., daughter of Samuel and Jane (Cope-land) Glover, natives of England and North Carolina, respectively. Children: 1. Lillie, d. in infancy; 2. Ollie May, m. F. H. Edmunds, of Bridgeport. Residence: Bridgeport.

JONES, RALPH ap CATESBY, graduate of the Alabama polytechnic institute, with the degree of B. S., in 1887; vice-president and treasurer of the Mabry securities company. Residence: Selma.

JONES, RICHARD CHANNING, lawyer, president, University of Alabama, was born April 12, 1841, in Brunswick County Va., and died September 12, 1903, at Camden; son of Col. John Cargill and Mary Ann (Walker) Jones, who moved from Virginia to Camden, Wilcox County, in 1844, the former a Baptist minister; grandson of Capt. John and Lucy Binns (Cargill) Jones, of Brunswick County, Va., and of Edward and Mary (Warburton) Walker; great-grandson of Col. John Jones of Brunswick County, a member of the Virginia house of burgesses, 1772-1775, and president of the Virginia senate, 1787-1788; great-great-grandson of Capt. John Jones, son of Maj. Peter Jones, who founded Petersburg, Va., in 1734. He was brother of John Paul Jones (q. v.). The Jones family were prominent in Prince George and Brunswick Counties, while the Walkers and Warburtons resided at Williamsburg, Va. Through his maternal grandmother, Gen. Jones was a member of the Virginia family of Harrisons who gave two presidents to the United States. He received his early schooling in Camden, was prepared for college in the Camden male high school, and was graduated from the University of Alabama, A. B., 1859. In 1862, his alma mater conferred upon him the degree of master of arts, and in 1891, the degree of doctor of laws. In January, 1861, he was admitted to the bar and located in Camden to practice, but soon after, as third lieutenant of Camden rifles, Alabama state troops, was assigned to Fort Morgan. Later he became third lieutenant of Co. C, Forty-fourth Alabama infantry regiment; was promoted to second and first lieutenant of the company; and was elected captain of Co. E, but declined to accept. Subsequently he acted as assistant adjutant general of Law's brigade, and served until the surrender. Returning to the profession of law at the close of the war, he continued in the active practice until 1890. During that long period he was brigadier-general of the State militia, his commission bearing date, June 4, 1876; and from 1882-1886, he was a member of the State senate. In 1890, he was called by the trustees to the presidency of the University of Alabama, to succeed Gen. Henry D. Clayton, who died in office. He held the office for seven years, and returned to Camden in 1897 to enter again upon the practice of law. While at the University he was professor of international and constitutional law; and in 1896 he was president of the Alabama bar association. He represented the Twenty-second district in the constitutional convention of Alabama in 1901, and served as a member of the committees on suffrage and elections, and education. The legislature of Alabama, by act approved March 4, 1901, provided for the appointment of a commission of three members to take steps looking to the annexation of west Florida to Alabama, and to one of those positions Gov. William J. Sanford named Mr. Jones, the other commissioners being William L. Martin of Montgomery, and Samuel Blackwell of Decatur. Mr. Jones took much interest in the organization of the Confederate veterans. In 1894 he was commandant of Camp Rodes, at Tuscaloosa, and at the time of his death, he occupied a similar relation to Camp Franklin K. Beck, at Camden. He was a Baptist, was deacon in his local church, and for years superintendent of the Camden Baptist Sunday school. He was a Democrat; a Mason; and a Knight of Pythias. Married: October 19, 1864, at Camden, to Stella Hamilton, daughter of Francis and Marcella (Hunter) Boykin, of Camden. Children: 1. Virginius Nalder, d. May 2, 1900, was graduated with distinction from the University of Alabama and with honor from the law school of the University; 2. Stella Boykin, d. July 31, 1872; 3. Reginald Dawson, m. Mrs. Lottie B. Jones, Camden; 4. Richard Channing, m. Ellen Boykin, Camden; 5. Pauline Washington; 6. Nannie, m. William J. Primm, Camden; 7. Lulu Darrington; 8. Camilla; 9. Lilian; 10. Lottie, m. W. Maxwell Boykin, Mobile. Last residence: Camden.

JONES, RICHARD WASHINGTON, physician, was born February 22, 1821, and died January 11, 1886; son of Benjamin Stephen and Jane (Jeffries) Jones, natives of Brunswick County, Va., who removed to Alabama in 1823; grandson of Stephen and Anna (Clairborne) Jones, of Crooked Run, Brunswick County; great-grandson of Benjamin Stephen Jones; and great-great-grandson of Thomas Jones, a soldier in the Revolution. He was educated in the common schools of Jackson County; at Emory and Henry college, graduating about 1844, and at the Pennsylvania college of medicine, about 1845; began practice about 1845 at Marion, Va.; removed to Carroll Parish, La., and after the war practiced in Hawkins County, Tenn. He was mustered into service for the Mexican War on June 16, 1846, as captain of Co. F, First regiment Alabama infantry, and mustered out on May 27, 1847. He served as captain of the "Tiger Bayou Rifles," Carroll Parish, afterward lieutenant colonel and colonel of the 14th regiment Louisiana infantry; invalided in 1863-64 and saw no more service, except in hospitals. He was a Mason; a Democrat; and a Methodist. Married: (1) July 22, 1847, near Abingdon, Va., to Cornelia Julia, daughter of Thomas and Mary Thurman, of Springfield, Va. and (2) in 1869, to Alice Mitchell, of Rogersville, Tenn. Children: by first wife: 1. Mary Ada; 2. Edward Thomas m. Minnie Bunting, of Bristol, Va.; 3. Richard Paul, d. 1906; 4. Harry Percy, d. in infancy; 5. Rev. Eugene B., of Tangent, Ore.; 6. Benjamin, d. in infancy, 1861; by second wife: 7. Lelia Mitchell resides at Rogersville, Tenn. Last residence: Hawkins County, Tenn.

JONES, ROBERT ISAIAH, lawyer, was born April 24, 1862, at Lower Peach Tree, Wilcox County; brother of James David Jones (q. v.). Judge Jones attended the Montgomery institute in Wilcox County, and studied law at the University of Alabama, 1896 and 1897. He taught school for a short time on leaving the State university in 1897; was admitted to the bar, May 29, 1897, at Camden; served as mayor of Linden, 1915-16. He was judge of the Marengo County circuit from November, 1916, until the State was recircuited by act of the legislature of 1919. He is a Democrat; a Methodist; a Woodman of the World; a Mason and a Knight of Pythias. Married: (1) March 7, 1883, at Lower Peach Tree, to Mary Ellen, daughter of George and Ellen (Andress) Watson of Lower Peach Tree; (2) December 17, 1907, to Mamie, daughter of Roland and Sarah Jane (Etheridge) Kimbrell, Sweet Water, Marengo County. Children, by first marriage: 1. Lillian Arcola, m. Kamah Gibson; 2. James Albert, m. Janet Hoskins; 3. Bertha Etta, m. Mitchell Keener McConnell; by second marriage: 4. Charles Virginius; 5. Sarah Elizabeth. Residence: Linden.

JONES, ROBERT REYNOLDS, Methodist evangelist, was born October 30, 1883, at Skipperville, Dale County; son of William Alexander and Georgia (Creel) Jones, the former a native of Macon County, Ga.; removed to Macon County, and later resided in Dale, Barbour and Henry Counties; a member of Co. H, 37th Alabama infantry regiment, wounded in the battle of Chickamauga; grandson of William Jones and of Thomas Creel, of Dale County. These various lines of ancestry were English. He received his early education in the schools of Dale County, and in the high school at Kinsey, Henry County; and spent three years at the Southern university at Greensboro. He was licensed to preach at the age of fifteen and served the Headland circuit of the Alabama conference, Methodist Episcopal church, South, at the age of seventeen. He conducted evangelistic campaigns during his college vacations, and has been engaged in evangelistic work since leaving college at the age of twenty-one. He is a local elder; a Mason; and a Knight of Pythias. He is the author of "Bob Jones' Sermons," "Sowing and Reaping," a sermon to men only; and "The Coming of the Lord," a book of Bible studies. Married: (1) October 24, 1905, at Pine Hill, Wilcox County, to Bernice Sheffield; (2) June 17, 1908, at Uniontown, to Mary Gaston, daughter of Eugene and Estelle (Siddons) Stollenwerck, of Selma and Birmingham. Children by second wife: 1. Robert Reynolds, jr. Residence: Montgomery.

JONES, ROBERT TINGNAL, planter, was born October 8, 1815, in Mecklenburg County, Va., and killed May 31, 1862, in the battle of Seven Pines, Va.; son of James B. and Judith Bailey (Hall) Jones, also of Mecklenburg County, Va.; grandson of Tingnal and Martha (Anderson) Jones, of Mecklenburg County, and of Dr. Robert and Wills (Nobbs) Hall, of Halifax County, N. C., a surgeon in the navy during the Revolutionary War. The Jones family was of Welsh ancestry. He received his early education in Virginia, and graduated at the U. S. military academy, West Point, N. Y., in 1837, taking the four years' course in three years, was appointed second lieutenant and served in Florida during the Indian Wars. He resigned in 1838 and located upon a plantation in Perry County. He surveyed and constructed the Cahaba and Marion railroad. At the outbreak of the War of Secession, 1861, Governor Moore tendered him a seat on the military board of the State, with the rank of brigadier-general, which he declined. He was placed in command of a battalion of artillery at Fort Morgan and was appointed colonel of the 12th and 20th Alabama regiments, accepted the former, and was re-elected colonel in 1862. He fell at Seven Pines, at the close of the day, while turning the guns of a captured battery on the enemy. He was a Whig; Episcopalian; and Mason. Married: (1) February 8, 1843, at Marion, to his cousin, Lucy Maria, daughter of Harwood and Rachael (Crenshaw) Jones; (2) September 30, 1847, at Marion, to Mary Indiana, daughter of Leonard Henderson and Mary Eliza (Perry) Seawell (q. v.). Children: by first wife, 1. Lucy Maria, m. Thomas Center Ferguson, Selma; by second wife, 2. James Beverly, Selma; 3. Leonard Seawell, deceased; 4. Mary Frances, deceased; 5. Martha Anderson, Selma; 6. Edward Henry, Richmond, Pa. Last residence: Perry County.

JONES, SAMUEL GOODE, legislator, was born September 20, 1815, at Greenway, Brunswick County, Va., died October 4, 1886, at Winchester, Tenn., and is buried at Sewanee, Tenn.; son of Dr. Thomas Williamson and Mary Armistead (Goode) Jones, of Brunswick County, Va., the former was a physician who lived near Lawrenceville, Brunswick County, Va., and who after many years of practice was accidentally killed by his horse throwing him from his sulky; grandson of John and Lucy Burns (Cargill) Jones, of Brunswick County, Va., and of Samuel and Mary Armistead (Burwell) Goode, of Mecklenburg County, Va. Samuel Goode Jones, was a member of the Alabama legislature, 1872-74; captain of the home guards of Montgomery, 1863-65; and military superintendent of the Alabama and Florida railroad, reporting to the Confederate War department at Richmond. He was an old line Whig until the disappearance of that party, when he affiliated with the Democrats. He was a member of the Protestant Episcopal church, and for years was trustee of the Bishop's fund and vestryman of St. John's church at Montgomery and was treasurer of the University of the South. He was a member of the Sigma Phi college fraternity and was one of the founders of the chapter at Williams college, Massachusetts. Married: (1) November 8, 1842, to Martha Ward, the daughter of Dr. Thomas and Mary Ann (Knox) Goode, of Hot Springs, Va., (2) in Montgomery, to Aurora, daughter of Benjamin Thomas and Sarah (Brevard) Elmore; granddaughter of Gen. John Archer Elmore (q. v.). Children: by the first wife, 1. Thomas Goode (q. v.), m. Georgena Caroline Bird; 2. Mary Virginia, m. William Gesner; 3. Samuel Goode, jr.; 4. Lucy Spottswood, m. F. H. Armstrong; 5. Edwin Francis, m. Bertha Hansford Stubbs; 6. Carter, m. Lou Ellen Calloway; 7. Martha Goode; 8. Charles Pollard (q. v.); by second wife, 9. Samuel Goode, III, m. Mrs. Lucy (Clayton) Gilbert; 10. Joseph Brevard (q. v.), m. Annie May Dimmick; 11. Jackson Scott; 12. George Mason; 13. Franklin Elmore; 14. Edward Elmore. Last residence: Montgomery.

JONES, SAMUEL PORTER, Methodist minister and noted revivalist, was a native of Alabama born in Chambers County, October 16, 1847, and died suddenly on the train, near Memphis, Tenn., October 15, 1906; son of Capt. John S. and Queeny (Porter) Jones. At the age of twelve, he was carried to Cartersville, Ga.; received his education under private tutors and at boarding schools; he began the study of law after the War of Secession; was admitted to the bar, 1869, and began the practice, but his intemperate habits soon ended his professional career. In 1872, after the death of his father, he reformed, professed religion, studied for the ministry and became a minister of the Methodist Episcopal church, South. He was for eight years, 1872-80, pastor of various charges in the north Georgia conference, and for the next twelve years, 1881-93, served as agent of the Decatur orphan's home, which he had founded and established. From the last named date he did evangelistic work over the country, holding revival meetings in almost all cities of the U. S., and in summer months spoke on various Chautauqua platforms. Author: "Sam Jones' Sermons," 1883; "The music hall series," 1886; "Quit your meanness," 1886; "Sam Jones' own book," 1887; "St. Louis series," 1890, and "Thunderbolts," 1895. Married: November 23, 1869, to Laura Adelaide, daughter of John H. McElrain, of Henry County, Ky. Children: 1. Mary M.; 2. Annie C.; 3. S. Paul; 4. Robert W.; 5. Laura Henry; 6. Julia Baxter. Last residence: Cartersville, Ga.

JONES, SIDNEY MORGAN, business man, was born May 18, 1860, at South Butler, Butler County; son of William Henry and Martha Perkins (Rhodes) Jones, both of Alabama, the former who served in the C. S. Army for four and one half years; grandson of Elbert and Amy (Fountain) Jones, of Buena Vista, Monroe County, and of William Rhodes, of Fort Dale, Butler County. Mr. Jones was educated in the public schools of Butler County. He was notary public and ex-officio justice of peace, from 1901 to 1904; and was elected to the lower house of the State legislature from Escambia County, 1919. He is a Democrat; Primitive Baptist; and clerk of the Antioch Baptist association. Married: November 18, 1883, at Sandy Creek church, near Cerro Gordo, Fla., to Mary Jane, daughter of Augustus Freeman and Penelope Jane Whittle, of South Butler. Children: 1. Clarence Cleveland, m. Kate Taylor; 2. Cecil Sidney, m. Nell Curtis; 3. Carl Henry, graduate of the U. S. Naval Academy, Annapolis, Md., 1914; 4. Mattie Estelle, m. Henry T. Farish; 5. Grady Whittle. Residence: Atmore.

JONES, T. H., Methodist minister; member of the Alabama conference. Residence: Montgomery.

JONES, THOMAS C., soldier of the American Revolution, aged 69, and a resident of Blount County; private S. C. Militia; enrolled on April 8, 1833, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $64.16; sums received to date of publication of list, $192.48.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in Part 3, Vol. xiii, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34. He resided in Blount County, June 1, 1840, aged 82.—Census of Pensioners, 1841, p. 148.

JONES, THOMAS ELI, business man and legislator, was born October 18, 1846, at Center Star, Lauderdale County; son of Charles Brickley and Sarah (Joiner) Jones, the former a native of Wake County, N. C., who removed early to Lauderdale County, where he lived the rest of his life, and was a justice of the peace and constable for twenty years; grandson of Jesse and Margaret (Johnston) Jones, the former a native of North Carolina, who moved to Alabama in 1828, and of Eli and Mary (Welch) Joiner, residents of Lauderdale County. He was educated in the public schools of his native county; spent eight years in the blacksmith department of the Florence wagon factory; was notary public, 1885-1887; and tax collector of Lauderdale, 1904-1913. He represented Lauderdale County in the legislature of 1915. He is a Democrat; a Baptist; and an Odd Fellow. Married: September 7, 1876, at Center Star, to Olive Frances, daughter of Alfred Green and Lydia Kennedy (Hamill) Hill, of that place; granddaughter of James and Catherine (Stutts) Hill, the former of North Carolina, later of Lauderdale County, and of Hugh and Elizabeth (Kennedy) Hamill, the former was a Methodist minister, a native of Ireland, who came with his parents to America in infancy. Children: 1. Lydia Vernon; 2. William Franklin (q. v.), m. Kimball Bloodworth, New Decatur; 3. John Thomas; 4. Charles Alfred; 5. Percy Lee; 6. Lucian. Residence: Florence.

JONES, THOMAS GOODE, soldier, Federal district judge, and governor of Alabama, was born November 26, 1844, at Macon, Ga., and died April 28, 1914, at Montgomery; son of Samuel G. and Martha (Goode) Jones (q. v.), the former a native of Brunswick County, Va., was one of the pioneer railway constructors of the South and was noted for his donations to schools and his devotion to the Episcopal church, died at Winchester, Tenn., near Seawanee, in 1886, and the latter of Hot Springs, Va.; grandson of Dr. Thomas Williamson and Mary (Armistead) Jones of Inverness, Mecklenburg County, Va., and of Dr. Thomas and Mary Ann (Knox) Goode of Bath County, Va.; great-grandson of Colonel John Jones in command of a Virginia regiment in the Revolutionary War, member before and after the war of the Virginia house of burgesses and speaker of that body, and of Samuel Goode, lord lieutenant of Mecklenburg County, Va., before the Revolution and officer of the line in that war, member of U. S. congress in 1800. The Jones were of Welsh and the Goodes of English ancestry. Governor Jones was educated by private tutors and in Montgomery schools, afterwards attending the schools of Dr. Charles Minor and the celebrated Gesner Harrison school near the University of Virginia. In 1859 he entered the Virginia military institute, where he had "Stonewall" Jackson as one among many distinguished teachers. He left this institution with the rest of his class in 1862 to enter his country's service, in which in a few months he rose by leaps and bounds to the rank of major in the following order: first sergeant, Co. K, 53rd Alabama infantry regiment; first lieutenant, and aide-de-camp to Brig. Gen. John B. Gordon, Early's division, Elwell's corps, Army of Northern Virginia; captain and later major and aide-de-camp to Gen. Gordon after the latter's promotion to the rank of major-general, acting A. I. G., when that officer was assigned to Second corps, Army of Northern Virginia. After the war in which he was wounded four times, he was commissioned lieutenant colonel and A. D. C. by Governor Houston. He was also captain of the "Montgomery Greys," Co. A, Second regiment, Alabama State troops, and colonel of Second infantry regiment Alabama State troops, from 1880 to 1890. He returned to Montgomery after the war and for a short time was engaged in agriculture. He had studied law while in winter quarters in the Confederate Army and now carried on his legal studies in the office of John A. Elmore being one of a class taught by Chief Justice A. J. Walker of Alabama. He was admitted to practice in 1866. During 1868 he edited the "Daily Picayune," a Montgomery newspaper. From 1870 to 1880, he was reporter of the Alabama supreme court. He was admitted to practice in the supreme court of the United States in 1876. During that year he was elected alderman of the city of Montgomery and served in that capacity until 1884, devoting much of his time to the study of municipal problems. He was chosen orator for the Confederate memorial day exercises in 1874 and delivered an address which elicited commendation from the entire nation. He was a member of the Alabama legislature 1884-88, and was elected speaker of the house of the sessions, 1886-88. After an epoch making campaign, he was elected governor of Alabama and took his seat in 1890, being re-elected for another term of two years at the expiration of his service. His powers as a fearless and vigorous speaker were generally recognized and when the Confederate monument on capitol hill at Montgomery was unveiled in 1898 he was chosen to make the historic address. In 1901 he was elected president of the Alabama State bar association and in that same year was appointed by President Theodore Roosevelt Federal judge for the northern and middle districts of Alabama. Owing to his courageous character he was made chairman of the committee that was raised to meet the emergencies that faced the people when the city of Montgomery was visited by an epidemic of yellow fever in 1897. He was a member of the Alabama constitutional convention, 1901, and left the impress of his legal knowledge in the document that resulted from the deliberations of that body. Governor Jones had established his soldierly reputation during the War of Secession, and it was in recognition of his martial qualities as well as his broad Americanism that he was invited to make the oration during the memorial services at the tomb of Gen. U. S. Grant, New York City, in 1902. A stanch Democrat, Governor Jones served his party in many capacities. At one time he was a member of the Montgomery County executive committee, and was for four years a member of the State executive committee. He was an Episcopalian, and a trustee of the Bishops fund of this diocese, also a trustee of Hamner Hall school for girls. He was a member of the Knights of Pythias and of the Order of Elks. Author: eighteen volumes of Alabama supreme court reports, 1870-1880; a pamphlet, "Last Days of the Army of Northern Virginia," also "Code of Ethics" of Alabama State bar association. Married: December 20, 1866, in Montgomery, to Georgena C., daughter of Dr. Marshall and Carrie (Moore) Bird of Montgomery. Children: 1. Marshall Bird, m. Allie Stickney; 2. Gena Moore, m. (1) Charles F. Holt, son of Gov. Thomas Holt of North Carolina; (2) Rev. Horace T. Owen; 3. Thomas Goode, died in infancy; 4. Martha Goode, m. Thomas W. Cohoon; 5. Carrie Bird; 6. Madeleine Clitherall, died in infancy; 7. Gordon Houston, m. Louise Warford, dec.; 8. Lucy Spottswood, died in infancy; 9. Eliza Clitherall, died in infancy; 10. Thomas Goode, m. Aileen Lee Sparks; 11. Samuel Goode, deceased; 12. Walter Burgwyn (q. v.); 13. Netta. Last residence: Montgomery.

JONES, VINCENT, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 71, and a resident of Shelby County; private S. C. Militia; enrolled on May 24, 1833, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832; payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $23.31; sums received to date of publication of list $58.28.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34.

JONES, WALTER BURGWYN, lawyer, was born October 16, 1888, at Montgomery; son of Thomas Goode and Georgena Caroline (Bird) Jones (q. v.). Mr. Jones received his early education in Miss Gussie Woodruff's private school, the Montgomery grammar school and the Boys' high school; was a student at the Alabama polytechnic institute, 1906-7, and the University of Alabama, 1907-9, graduating with honors from the law department, 1909, with the degree of LL. B. He was admitted to the bar, May 27, 1909, and has been practicing in Montgomery since that date, and was elected to the State legislature from Montgomery County, 1918. Mr. Jones became secretary to the U. S. district judges for the middle and northern districts of Alabama in 1911, and continues to hold that position; is a member of the National geographic society; of the Alabama anthropological society; and of the Montgomery bar association. He is a Democrat; an Episcopalian; a Knight of Pythias; Knight of Khorassan; and a member of the Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity. He is the author of "The Jones-Burgwyn Family History" and of a number of articles appearing in periodical and pamphlet form. Residence: Montgomery.

JONES, WILLIAM ALEXANDER CAMPBELL, teacher, civil engineer and circuit clerk, was born June 17, 1829, at Danville, Casey County, Ky., and died August 17, 1911, at Livingston, Sumter County; son of Sandy Elrod and Sophia (Crutcher) Jones, the former a native of Lincoln County, Ky., who lived later in Missouri, was a minister of prominence in the Christian church and authority in church history; grandson of John and Ann C. (Coleman) Jones of Lincoln County, Ky., and of Samuel and Nancy J. Crutcher, of Montgomery County, Mo., whence they had gone from Virginia; great-grandson of John and Elizabeth (Elrod) Jones, of Adkin, N. C.; and great-great-grandson of John Jones of Wales who settled in Virginia. He received his preparatory education in the public schools of Kentucky, and entered Franklin college, Franklin, Tenn., when fourteen years of age and graduated in 1848. He studied law, but abandoned the prosecution of that profession on account of ill health; entered the civil engineering service, lived in camp for three years, and was a member of the first corps of engineers to survey the Northeastern and Southwestern Alabama, now the Alabama great southern railroad. He was superintendent of education of Sumter County for a number of years; president of the board of trustees, Livingston school for thirty-five years; clerk of the circuit court, Sumter County, 1888-1904; State senator, 1884-1888, and introduced and secured the passage of the first prohibition bill for Sumter County. He entered the Confederate Army as captain of Company C, 40th Alabama infantry regiment, and was on the staff of Maj. Gen. French, Maj. Gen. Loring, Lieut. Gen. Polk and Lieut. Gen. A. P. Stewart. He was head of the committee of safety during Reconstruction period; chairman Democratic executive committee for a number of years; a Presbyterian; and a Mason. He did editorial newspaper work during the year preceding the war and during the reconstruction period wrote for the "Livingston Journal." Married: December 2, 1857, at Livingston, to Mary Esther (Houston) McRae, widow of Dr. W. P. McRae, and daughter of Mathew Cyrus and Martha Lyle (Gillespie) Houston, of Summerville, Morgan County. Both the Gillespie and Houston families are descendants of Mrs. John Houston who emigrated from Ireland in 1735. Children: 1. Frederick Houston, m. Mary Ward Hutchinson, of Livingston; 2. Aline, m. Walter A. Sims, of Livingston; 3. Harden Lake, deceased; 4. Hettie Houston. Last residence: Livingston.

JONES, WILLIAM BLEST, merchant, was born February 21, 1841, at Tuskegee, Macon County, and died at Montgomery, January 29, 1910; son of Thomas Blest and Darien (Howard) Jones, the former a native of Newport, Shropshire, England, who emigrated to America and located at Tuskegee, later removing to Montgomery, and finally to Georgia where he died; grandson of Richard and Margaret (Lee) Jones, also of Newport, and of Joseph and Sophia (Smith) Howard of Cross Keys, Macon County, the former, at seventeen, served in the South Carolina militia during the American Revolution and a member of Brandon's division; great-grandson of William Blest Jones, and of Nehemiah Howard, settled in Elbert County, Ga. and there died. William B. Jones was educated in the public schools of his native county. He served in the "Metropolitan Guards," Company F, Third Alabama infantry regiment, and promoted first lieutenant during the War of Secession and badly wounded in the battle of Chancellorsville. After the war he reorganized the "Montgomery Greys," and served as captain of that company; and entered the mercantile business, and was for thirty years a wholesale grocer in Montgomery. He was a Democrat and an Episcopalian. Married: April 21, 1869, in Montgomery, to Martha, daughter of William Cunningham and Mary (Baker) Ray (q. v.). Children: 1. Mary Baker, m. Fern M. Wood, resides in New Jersey; 2. Martha Darien, m. Samuel J. Cassels, of Montgomery; 3. John Ray, m. Katherine Pierce, of Columbus, Ga.; 4. Carrie Pinkston, m. Junius J. Pierce, of Montgomery; 5. Josiah Morris, m. Louise Huber; 6. Sarah Howard, m. Louis H. Moore of Montgomery; 7. Frances Jackson, m. Harvey H. Sims of Memphis, Tenn.; 8. Willie Blest, m. Frank B. Sale of Mobile. Last residence: Montgomery.

JONES, WILLIAM CLARENCE, lawyer, was born November 9, 1845, at Oak Hill, Wilcox County, and died February 3, 1920; son of Joseph Clarke and Julia (McReynolds) Jones, the former a native of Missouri, who lived at Oak Hill, the latter a daughter of William and Phoebe McReynolds, of Allenton, Wilcox County. His ancestors on both sides were Scotch Irish, who went from Scotland to Ireland, then came to South Carolina before the Revolution. On his father's side, ancestors fought in the Revolution. He was prepared for college in the schools at Oak Hill; attended the University of Alabama, 1863-1864; left school to enter the C. S. Army, joining Co. D, Third Alabama cavalry; served until the end of the war; attended the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, N. C., graduating A. M., 1868; and was graduated in law at Cumberland university, Columbia, Tenn., LL. B., 1871; taught school in the high schools of Wilcox County for fifteen years, after which he entered upon the practice of law at Camden; was elected to the State senate from the twenty-second district, 1902; was a Democrat; a Reformed Presbyterian. Married (1) in 1877, to Taylor Hines; (2) in 1887, to Annie Bonner Hines, daughter of Robert H. and Sallie Hines, of Rosebud, who came from South Carolina to Alabama. Last residence: Camden.

JONES, WILLIAM FRANKLIN, teacher, was born January 9, 1881, at Centre Star, Lauderdale County; son of Thomas Eli and Olive Frances (Hill) Jones (q. v.), the former a native of Atlas, Lauderdale County, who lived at Atlas, Centre Star, and at Florence, was a blacksmith for many years, and served as tax collector of Lauderdale County; grandson of Thomas B. Jones, who moved from Wake County, N. C., to Atlas; and of Alfred Hill, who moved from Moore County, N. C., to Atlas. He attended the rural school at Centre Star until he was thirteen years old, then moved to Florence and entered the city schools. He was graduated from the State normal college in 1903; attended Summer school of South, 1905; the University of Virginia, 1906-1907; and the University of Chicago during the summer of 1901. He taught Latin and mathematics in the high school of Gadsden, 1904-1906; was principal of that high school, 1907-1909; and became superintendent of the city schools of New Decatur in 1909. He is a Democrat, a Baptist and a Knight of Pythias. Married: June 30, 1910, at New Decatur, to Kimball, daughter of Benjamin Morgan and Mary (Jones) Bloodworth, who lived at Dadeville. Residence: New Decatur.

JONES, WILLIAM GILES, lawyer, third Federal district judge, was born November 6, 1808, in Powhatan County, Va. and died in 1883, in Mobile. His father was a planter and a nephew of William B. Giles, representative in congress, 1790-1798, 1801-1802, U. S. Senator, 1804-1815, and later, governor of Virginia. His mother was a Miss Moseley, a relative of Judge A. F. Hopkins. He was educated at Hampton-Sidney college and at the University of Virginia, and studied law under Attorney General John Robertson of Richmond, Va. He was admitted to the bar in 1830, and practiced law for several years in Virginia. He came to Alabama in 1834, and for a time held a position in the land office at Demopolis. He moved to Erie, the county town of Greene, in 1836, where he formed a partnership with William M. Murphy, and later moved to Eutaw. He represented Greene County in the State legislature in 1843, and in the same year, moved to Mobile, where he practiced with success. He was elected to the State legislature from Mobile County in 1849, and became chairman of the judiciary committee of that body. He was re-elected in 1857. He was a Whig until the dissolution of that party, after which time he gave his support to the Democratic party. On the death of Hon. John Gayle, Mr. Jones was appointed judge of the U. S. district court for the southern district of Alabama, 1858, by President Buchanan. When Alabama seceded, he tendered his resignation, and was appointed to the same office under the government of the Confederate States of America by President Davis. He held the office until the fall of the Confederacy. After the close of the war, he was arrested by the Federal authorities and indicted, in the same district court over which he had presided, for high treason against the government of the United States because of his adherence to the Southern cause, but before his case was tried an act of congress was passed, the effect of which was to relieve Judge Jones from further prosecution. He continued his practice of law in Mobile until the time of his death. Married: (1) to Miss Branch of Dinwiddie County, Va.; (2) to Miss Hobson, daughter of Matthew Hobson, esq., of Greene County, sister of Col. Hobson of the Fifth Alabama infantry, C. S. Army, and a relative of Mrs. William M. Murphy. Children: 1. Walter, b. April 14, 1839, civil engineer, Danville, Va., lieutenant, staff of Gen. Samuel Jones, C. S. Army, d. at Bladon Springs, July 7, 1862; 2. M. H., b. July 15, 1845. Last residence: Mobile.

BENJAMIN P. CRUM

JONES, WILLIAM JOSEPH, business man and legislator, was born September 20, 1861, at Allenton, Wilcox County; son of William Bonner and Laura Alice (Walthall) Jones, the former a native of Edgefield District, S. C., later removing from his native state to southern Missouri in 1815, thence to Wilcox County, in 1819, settling near Allenton, the latter was a native of Virginia; grandson of Joseph and Mary Jones, and of William and Sarah Walthall, all of whom resided at Allenton. He was educated in the schools at Oak Hill; attended the University of Alabama, 1880-81; and graduated in 1883 from Sadler Bryant and Stratton business college of Baltimore, Md. In 1894 he moved to Butler Springs and became proprietor of the hotel there. He is also a merchant and farmer. In 1907 he was one of the representatives from Butler County in the legislature. He is a Democrat; Mason; and a Missionary Baptist. Married: in 1888, to Rosa Eleanor, daughter of Joseph B. and Mary Rosanna McWilliams, who resided at Oak Hill, both of whom were descendants of emigrants from South Carolina. Residence: Butler Springs.

JONES, WILLIAM L., farmer and legislator, was born May 14, 1847, at Oak Hill, Wilcox County; son of Samuel L. and Elizabeth B. (McReynolds) Jones. He was educated in the schools of Oak Hill, and attended the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. From 1880 to 1884, he was sheriff of Wilcox County. He represented that county in the legislature of 1898-99, 1900 and 1901. He served in Co. H, 3rd Alabama cavalry regiment, C. S. Army. He is a farmer; and a Democrat. Married: December 23, 1869, at Oak Hill, to Mary R. Cole. Residence: Camden.

JONES, WILLIAM R., railroad man, was born June 1, 1850, at Tuscumbia; son of John Wesley and Mary Martha (Rather) Jones, the former a native of Alabama, born in 1827 in Marshall County, farmer, printer and merchant, who lived at Somerville, Decatur and Tuscumbia, was superintendent of the Huntsville and Decatur railroad, and on the completion of the line, became its agent at Decatur, who was second lieutenant and captain of Co. D, Seventh Alabama regiment, C. S. Army, 1862-1865, a representative in the constitutional convention of 1875, and mayor of Decatur for three terms; grandson of W. B. Jones, a soldier of the War of 1812, a minister of the Methodist Episcopal church, and one of the first settlers of Marshall County. He received an academic education, and began to learn the railroad business under his father when he was sixteen years old. In 1876, he was appointed agent at Grand Junction, later went to Memphis, and from there to New Orleans. In April, 1887, he was appointed agent of the Memphis and Chattanooga railroad at Decatur. While Albert Sidney Johnston was at Decatur, Mr. Jones served for four months as his private messenger. He is a Methodist; and a Knight of Honor. Married: December 12, 1871, to Matilda W., daughter of Col. L. S. Banks. Children: 1. Maury Wesley. Residence: Tuscumbia.

JORDAN, CHRISTOPHER COLUMBUS, business man, was born July 31, 1864, at Crawford, Russell County; the son of Joseph J. and Emeline (Sims) Jordan, the former of Georgia, who lived for a time at Hawkinsville, Ga., but moved to Crawford in 1855, and was a member of Waddell's battery of artillery in the C. S. Army, the latter of South Carolina; grandson of Joseph and Elizabeth Jordan, and of James and Nancy Sims, all of South Carolina. The Jordans were English people, coming directly from the old country to the northeastern part of Georgia. Mr. Jordan was educated at Crawford in the country schools. He is a business man, having farmed for a number of years, and is at present a merchant and in the sawmill business. He was justice of the peace for the Crawford beat from 1898 to 1916; census reporter to farmers' statistics bureau; and was elected to the State legislature from Russell County, in 1919. He is a Democrat; a Methodist; and a Mason. Residence: Girard.

JORDAN, ISAAC NEIL, business man and legislator, was born February 28, 1858, at Ft. Deposit, Lowndes County; son of Samuel and Nancy (Blackwell) Jordan, the former a native of Georgia, the latter a resident of Lowndes County. The Jordans are of Scotch descent. He was educated in the Highland Home school. He is a banker; a merchant; and a planter. He was a representative from Lowndes County in the legislature of 1915. He is a Democrat; and a member of the Christian church. Married: in 1882, to Martha Eugenia, daughter of William A. and Martha (Dunn) Lightfoot, the former of Mississippi; the latter of Autauga County. Children: 1. Ernest Roscoe, m. Rose D. Bowie; 2. Samuel Lightfoot, m. Louise Callier; 3. Lucy Neill, m. J. F. Hattermer; 4. Weaver Milton; 5. Davis Eugene. Residence: Ft. Deposit.

JORDAN, JESSE JAMES, planter, was born January 14, 1818, at Milledgeville, Baldwin County, Ga., and died December 25, 1848, at

*Louise Cal-
lier*

Shorters, Macon County; son of Green Hill and Elizabeth Taylor (Sanford) Jordan, both natives of Milledgeville; grandson of John and Winifred Jordan who lived in Southampton County, Va., the former enlisted in the Continental Army under Capt. Frank Moore in Southampton County, Va., served with that command for three years, later served under Col. Elbert at Savannah, was taken prisoner at the fall of that post, placed upon a British ship and subsequently exchanged, rejoining the American troops and was serving under Gen. Washington at Yorktown when Cornwallis surrendered, and of Jesse and Martha Sanford of Milledgeville. The founder of the Jordan family in America was Rev. Robert Jordan who came to the Colonies as a chaplain, in 1640. He was an Oxford graduate and two years after arriving, married Sarah, daughter of ——— Winter, who bore him six sons, John, Robert, Dominicus, Jedediah, Samuel and Jeremiah, from whom many families of the name are descended. The Jordans are an illustrious race in England, and are of Anglo-Norman origin. The name is derived from the Norman baptismal name, Jourdain, probably a corrupted form of the Latin Heriermus, and is well known in Wales, where one of the first settlers was one Jordan de Cantington, one of the companions of Martin of Tours in the conquest of Klunes. The coat of arms used by members of the Jordan family in the United States, is described: azure, a lion rampant between eight crosses crossilet fitchee, or, the crest is a football proper. Motto: Percussa Resurga.—“When struck down I rise again.” Jesse James Jordan attended school in Milledgeville, Ga., and the University of Virginia. He was a planter, owning extensive lands in Macon County. He was a Democrat and Methodist. Married: March 7, 1839, at Clinton, Jones County, Ga., to Amanda Frances, daughter of James and Elizabeth (Slatter) Billingslea of that place. Elizabeth Slatter married (1) William D. Bunkley; (2) James Billingslea; (3) James Lowther. She was the mother of Jesse Bunkley, who when quite a young man left his home in Clinton for New Orleans, and was never heard from again. One Lige Barber, tried to impersonate him in order to obtain his fortune, during the early '50s, the case being tried in Macon, Ga., with Judge Hardaman on the bench. The trial created a sensation throughout the country, as prior to this, there had been but one such case in American legal annals, and one in England. The court held that the plaintiff was an impostor. Children: 1. Jesse James, m. Mary Nettles; 2. Elizabeth Amanda, m. Thomas Henry Reynolds, Montgomery. Last residence: Shorters.

JORDAN, MORTIMER, planter, was born January 19, 1799, at Oglethorpe, Ga., and died February 19, 1866 in Jefferson County; son of Reuben and Janette (Harvie) Jordan, who lived in the settlement on Broad River in upper Georgia, the former a descendant of Pocahontas; grandson of Matthew and Julia (Scott) Jordan, who were of English descent and settled in Virginia, and of John and Martha (Gaines) Harvie, jr., who lived at “Belmont,” the former a native of Gargunnoch, Stirling-shire, North Britain, who moved from Scotland to Virginia and settled in Albemarle County about forty years before the Revolution, who was a friend of Peter Jefferson and a guardian of Thomas Jefferson, and died in 1767, the latter a relative of Edmund Pendleton, who moved with her children from Virginia after her husband's death and settled on Broad River, in Georgia, and was among the original settlers at that place. Mr. Jordan moved to Alabama and became a planter in Jefferson County. Married: (1) to Lucy Gray, daughter of Hezekiah and Frances Collier (Scott) Gray, who lived in Prince Edward County, Va., and later at Tuscaloosa, the former a native of Port Tobacco, Md., the latter a sister of Gen. John Scott, and a first cousin of Francis Scott Key; granddaughter of Capt. James and Frances (Collier) Scott, the former of whom was born about 1735, and served in the Revolutionary War; great-granddaughter of Col. Francis Eppes; (2) to Amy Weldon. Children, by first marriage: 1. Charles, killed at the battle of Chickamauga, m. Margaret Sadler of Jefferson County; 2. Fleming, deceased, m. Julia Sadler, Jefferson County; 3. Margaret, deceased, m. Dr. Joseph Riley Smith of Jefferson County; 4. Martha, deceased, m. Dr. Frank Prince of Jefferson County; by second marriage: 5. Maria, deceased, m. Chambers McAdory; 6. Dr. Mortimer Harvie (q. v.); 7. Sarah, deceased, m. Dr. Nave. Last residence: Jefferson County.

JORDAN, MORTIMER HARVIE, physician, was born June 10, 1844, in Jefferson County, and died February 6, 1889, at Birmingham; son of Mortimer and Amy (Welton) Jordan (q. v.). During his boyhood, he worked on his father's farm and attended the common schools of the neighborhood. He spent two years at the University of Alabama and left school to join the C. S. Army. He enlisted as a private in Co. G, Forty-third Alabama regiment; was made corporal, sergeant, lieutenant and finally captain; and served until the surrender. After the war, he began the study of medicine in the office of his uncle, Dr. Nathaniel Hawkins. He attended Miami medical college, Cincinnati, O., and was graduated in the spring of 1867 at the head of his class, M. D. He began to practice medicine with Dr. Hawkins at Elyton, at that time the county seat of Jefferson County. In 1869, he was appointed physician to the Alabama penitentiary. During the time he occupied that position, he discovered a prevalence of lame invalid convicts, especially among men of long sentences. He attributed the condition to scurvy and corrected it by a change in diet. In 1873, he located in the infant city of Birmingham, and built up a practice in addition to his practice at Elyton. In that same year Birmingham was visited by an epidemic of cholera, which taxed him professionally to the utmost limits of his time and strength. After the epidemic, Birmingham grew to a flourishing city and Dr. Jordan's practice grew with it. He went to New York in 1875, attended the Bellvue medical college, and served for several months as assistant to Dr. J. Marion Sims. He was at various times secretary and censor of the Jefferson County Medical Society, and was twice its president. He was a member of the state board of health, 1879-1883; was elected president of the State Medical Association, 1884; was called to fill the chair of materia medica, and therapeutics and clinical medicine, in the Medical college of Alabama at Mobile, 1886, and served through two sessions. During the larger part of his career, Dr. Jordan was without a partner in his practice. He was associated with Dr. Charles Whelan in 1881, and from 1886 until his death with Dr. W. H. Johnston, who moved from Selma to accept the position. In 1888, the disease from which he suffered acquired such headway that he went to southern California where he remained for several months. Finally, on growing worse, he returned to his home. Shortly before his death he became a member of the Catholic church.

Dr. Jordan was author of "A History of the Surgery of Jefferson County," read before the State Medical Association at Huntsville, 1872; "A History of the Epidemic of Cholera in Birmingham," read before the State Medical Association at Selma, 1874, and written for the Cholera Report, on the epidemic of 1873, published by act of congress; "Resuscitation from Chloroform Narcosis by Nelaton's Method," published in the American Practitioner, 1875, and generally copied in the medical periodicals of the United States, and in two French and three German journals; "Treatment of Intussusception of the Bowels by Distensile Enemata with the Body of the Patient Inverted," published in the American Practitioner, 1876; "Infantile Diarrhoea," read before the State Medical Association at Birmingham, 1877; "The Transmission of Syphilis by the Male Element of Reproduction to the Mother through the Foetus in Utero," published in the American Journal of Obstetrics, 1875; "The Treatment of Post-partem Hemorrhage by Intra-uterine Injections of Hot Water," read before the State Medical Association at Selma, 1879; and "A Report on the Epidemic of Typhoid Fever, which prevailed in Birmingham in 1881-1882," read before the State Medical Association at Mobile, 1882. Married: September 1, 1868, at Elyton, to Florence Earle Mudd, daughter of Judge W. S. Mudd. Children: 1. Amy L.; 2. Lula V.; 3. William Mudd, physician, b. February 8, 1873, attended the University of Alabama, was graduated from the College of physicians and surgeons, Baltimore, Md., M. D., 1895, was assistant surgeon with the rank of first lieutenant, in the U. S. Marine hospital service, 1896-1898; now in practice at Birmingham, m. December 21, 1897, at Birmingham, to Augusta Sharpe; 4. Mollie M.; 5. Mortimer Harvie, b. November 15, 1881, attended the University of Alabama, Birmingham; 6. Mattie Prince, deceased. Last residence: Birmingham.

JORDAN, MORTIMER HARVIE, physician and captain, American Expeditionary Forces, was born November 15, 1881, in Birmingham, died July 31, 1918, at Evacuation hospital No. 7, and is buried at Coulommiers, Seine, France; son of Dr. Mortimer Harvie and Florence Earle (Mudd) Jordan (q. v.). Captain Jordan received his early education in the schools of Birmingham, attended the University of Alabama, 1898-1902, and graduated from the medical department of Tulane university with the degree of M. D. He located in Birmingham and made a specialty of skin diseases. He was captain of Co. K, Fourth Alabama infantry regiment, National Guard, from November, 1915, to June, 1916, and commanded that company during border service at Nogales, Arizona, June, 1916, to March, 1917. He went overseas during the European War, as captain of Co. K, 167th Regiment, Rainbow Division. After a course of study in France at the staff school in Lorgues, he was transferred to headquarters as intelligence and operation officer. He was wounded on July 28, 1918, by high explosives at the Ourcq River. He was awarded the distinguished service cross for extraordinary heroism near Souian, France, July 16, 1918. Seeing a private of his company wounded by shell fire, Captain Jordan left his shelter and rushed to the aid of the wounded. After administering first aid he carried him through the terrific bombardment a distance of one hundred and fifty yards to a place of safety. He was a Democrat; Episcopalian; and a member of the Phi Delta Theta college fraternity. Married: June 9, 1909, in Birmingham, to Lucile, daughter of Judge Zell and Lelia (Dulin) Gaston, of Greenville, Butler County, later of Birmingham; granddaughter of Adam Baty and Sophia (McMullin) Dulin, and of Zell Gaston; great-granddaughter of Lucius C. and Amanda J. (Rawls) Gaston, of Barbour County. Children: 1. Mortimer H.; 2. Lucile Gaston. Last residence: Birmingham.

JORDAN, SAMUEL, teacher and Christian minister, was born March 17, 1847, near Fort Deposit, Lowndes County; son of Samuel and Sophia (McFarland) Jordan, the former a native of Georgia, who later located in Lowndes County; grandson of Thomas and Mary Jordan and of James and Flora (McFarland) McFarland, the former a native of Scotland, who lived five miles east of Ft. Deposit, having gone there from Conecuh County to which he removed from Chesterfield District, S. C., in 1814; great-grandson of Peter and Mary (McArthur) McFarland, both of whom were also natives of Scotland but who emigrated to Laurel Hill, Richmond County, N. C., and of Neil and Christiana (McInnis) McFarland, both of whom were born in Isle of Skye, Scotland. Rev. Mr. Jordan received his early education in the common schools of his native county. From 1868 to 1871, he was a student under Prof. Justus M. Barnes, Highland Home college, and the year following, under S. A. Goodwin. During this time, he was preaching and teaching at Strata and Highland Home. In 1898, he was elected president of Highland Home college, and held the position two years. His military record is highly creditable, having served in Hilliard's Legion. He had his horse shot from under him several times and was captured in Kentucky in 1863, and carried to Camp Chase, Ohio, where he was kept until the spring of 1864, and then carried to Ft. Delaware, where he was held until after the surrender. He is a member of the Church of Christ and a preacher in that denomination. Married: September 4, 1872, at Strata, Montgomery County, to Mary Elkanah, daughter of Elkanah and Mary Barnes of that place. Children: 1. Justus, m. Mary E.

Ewing; 2. Rosa, m. Charles W. Landers; 3. Luke; 4. S. E., m. Ivey Ringstaff; 5. Fannie, m. W. O. Bonham; 6. Lucy; 7. Mary; 8. Flora; 9. Ruth; 10. Willie. Residence: Highland Home.

JORDAN, WILLIAM CHRISTOPHER, receiver U. S. land office and farmer, was born July 10, 1834, at Talbotton, Talbot County, Ga.; son of Thomas George and Mary Lovicy (Chambliss) Jordan, the former a native of North Carolina, who later lived successively at Warrenton, Skitoway Island, Clinton, and Talbotton, Ga., and Society Hill, Eufaula, and Midway, a farmer by occupation who died in 1872 at the age of eighty-five years; grandson of William and Anne (Medlock) Jordan, and of Christopher and Mary (Taylor) Chambliss, all of Warrenton, Warren County, Ga. Both William Jordan and Christopher Chambliss were Revolutionary soldiers. Mary Taylor was a relative of President Zachary Taylor, the name coming into the family through the mother of the president, a Miss Zachary. The Chambliss family is thought to have sprung from French ancestors. William Christopher Jordan received his early education from his sister, Narcissa, and was later put under the instruction of the male teachers of the locality. Before completing his school life, at eighteen years of age, his father placed him as overseer of the farm, and for three years he was out of school. During 1851-52, he was a student in the Male institute at Glenville. He resumed his task as overseer, but two years later was settled on a farm of his own by his father, near Midway, and has remained there for the past fifty-three years. He was a member of the Alabama legislature, 1884-85; appointed by President Cleveland as receiver of public money in U. S. land office, Montgomery, 1885-89. In July, 1861, he was elected captain of the Militia company from Midway, enlisted in the C. S. Army, Co. B, 15th Alabama infantry regiment, March, 1862, and was made color sergeant. His services for white supremacy following the war were heroic and made a part of the struggle that preserved the civilization of the South. His natural talent for music has been used for church purposes throughout his life. He is a Democrat; and a Baptist. Author: "Some events and incidents of the Civil War;" sequel to the foregoing, unpublished. Married: February 14, 1856, at Chunnenugee Ridge, to Anne, daughter of Reuben and Mildred (Cleaveland) Thornton; granddaughter of Reuben and Mary (Alexander) Cleaveland, and of Reuben and Elizabeth (Allen) Thornton, all of Elbert County, Ga. Children; 1. Mary Theodosia, m. Maj. J. P. Wood, Troy; 2. Mildred Melissa, m. George McLaney, Andalusia; 3. Junia Lorena, m. (1) G. B. Thomas, (2) B. W. Gresham, Prattville; 4. William E., m. Miss Stallings, Midway; 5. Iva Lee, m. Miss Smith, Troy; 6. Lovicy Lillie; 7. Clanton Cleaveland; 8. and 9. Cary and Curry, twins, Troy; 10. Pitt Paulis, Midway; 11. Annie Ellen, m. T. T. Smith, Woodland, Ga.; 12. Robert Robin; 13. Thomas Reuben. Residence: Midway.

JOSEPH, EDWIN BOYCE, president insurance company and banker, was born October 19, 1852, in Montgomery, and died, May 22, 1905, in that city; son of Thomas and Sarah Ann (Riley) Joseph (q. v.). He received his education in a Virginia military school, and at the Alabama agricultural and mechanical college, Auburn. He was president of the Capital City insurance company and bank, 1884-96, founded by his father; president Montgomery street railway, 1884-88; member of the real estate firm of Joseph and Dowdell, 1896-1901, the firm being E. B. Joseph & son, from 1901 until his death. He was a member of the city council of Montgomery; president of the city council, 1895-99; mayor of the city, 1899-1903. He was 1st lieutenant, Montgomery Greys, which was Co. A, 2nd regiment Alabama national guard. He was an Elk; Redman; and Knight of Pythias. Married: August 19, 1876, at Auburn, to Elizabeth Hathaway, daughter of Pickett Chauncey and Edna (Terry) Smith, who lived in Montgomery, the former a native of Suffield, Conn., who came to Alabama about 1850; granddaughter of Ichabod and Ann (Hathaway) Smith, and of James and Nancy (Bibb) Terry; great-granddaughter of Peyton and Sarah (Cobbs) Bibb, the former a brother of William Wyatt Bibb, and of Thomas Bibb, the two first governors of Alabama. Children: 1. Edwin Boyce, deceased, m. Kathleen Lahay, Montgomery; 2. Edna; 3. Chauncey Smith; 4. William Francis; 5. Carrie Brown, m. Foster Webb Stanley, Greenville. Last residence: Montgomery.

JOSEPH, MOSES V., merchant, son of J. and Rachael (Terquen) Joseph of Paris, France, who emigrated to Louisiana, and later located in Alabama, residing successively at Mobile, Greensboro, and Demopolis, being a merchant and a Confederate soldier. M. V. Joseph received a common school education but owing to his ambition to give a sound education to his five sisters and his brothers, he left school while still a boy and began earning his own way in life. His aspirations, however, were such that after the day's work was ended he applied his evening hours to study and in this way gained a general knowledge equal to a college course. In 1887, he removed from Selma to Birmingham, and in partnership with A. B. Loveman opened a small store which has grown to be the South's largest department store. In all matters of a public nature, Mr. Joseph has shown the same large views and business acumen as in his private business, and he holds a position of honor in the city of his adoption. He was for one term president of the Commercial club of Birmingham; vice-president of the Jewish Synagogue; a Knight of Pythias; member of B'nai B'rith of which he has been president; and a Democrat. Married: January 6, 1890, in Birmingham, Jennie M., daughter of Samuel Marx of that city, a Confederate veteran. Children: 1. Rosalie. Residence: Birmingham.

JOSEPH, THOMAS, merchant, president insurance company, was born in 1812, on the Island of Fayal, in the Azores, of Portugese parents and came to Montgomery, about 1842, where he became a merchant and proprietor of the Montgomery flour mills. Having operated these mills during the war, he sold them to his son, and in 1871, organized the Capital City insurance company, of which he became president, holding that position until his death, in 1883. He was also a director of the Louisville and Nashville railroad, and accumulated by his own efforts a large property. He was president of the board of revenue of Montgomery; a Democrat; and Presbyterian. Married: in 1846, at Mobile, to Sarah, daughter of Francis T. and Sarah (Boyce) Riley, the former a native of Ireland, descendant of Jacob Hardenbroeck, one of the original four proprietors of Manhattan Island. Children: 1. William Finley, m. Mary Ellen Saffold; 2. Thomas, jr., m. Emma Grant, whose second husband was James Sanford Dowdell; 3. Edwin Boyce, (q. v.); 4. Francis William, m. Hattie Swanson; 5. Sarah Ann, m. James Sanford Dowdell; 6. Charles Werner, m. Mattie Jackson; 7. Carrie, m. Henry Constantine. Last residence: Montgomery.

JUDGE, THOMAS JAMES, lawyer, was born November 1, 1815, in Richland District, S. C., and four years later, came with his parents to Alabama, and settled in Butler County. His early schooling was meagre, and when he was fifteen years old, he entered a printing office in Montgomery. After a year in the printing office, he became clerk in a dry goods store in Montgomery. In 1834, he established a newspaper in Greenville and edited it about a year. He volunteered in the Creek War; served three months; and in 1837 moved to Hayneville, where he read law in the office of John S. Hunter and Nathan Cook. He began to practice law in Hayneville the next year; was appointed district solicitor by Gov. Fitzpatrick in 1843; and was defeated in the fall election for that office. He was elected to the State legislature from Lowndes County in 1844, and was re-elected the following year; was sent to the State senate from Lowndes and Butler Counties, in 1847, and continued to serve in that body until 1850, when he resigned in order to move to Montgomery County. In the same year, he was a delegate to the Nashville convention. He formed a law partnership in Montgomery with T. H. Watts and J. F. Jackson; represented Montgomery County in the legislature in 1853; was an unsuccessful candidate for congress against Hon. J. F. Dowdell of Chambers County in 1857; and was defeated in the election to congress two years later by Mr. Clopton, of Macon County. In 1860, he supported Breckenridge for president, and upon the secession of Alabama was sent by Gov. Moore in February, 1861, as a commissioner from the state to the government of the United States at Washington, to negotiate with that government in reference to the forts, arsenals and custom-houses in Alabama, and the public debt of the United States, as well as to the future relations of the state with the U. S. government. He immediately went to Washington to fulfill his mission, but President Buchanan refused to receive him in any other character than that of a distinguished citizen of Alabama, and his mission was fruitless.

When the War of Secession began, Col. Judge volunteered as a private, and served a short time at Pensacola early in 1861. Soon after leaving Pensacola, he was appointed by President Davis as colonel of the Fourteenth Alabama regiment which was organized and mustered into service at Auburn. He went with his regiment to Virginia, but in April, 1862, was so seriously injured by a railroad collision as to be forced to resign his command. He also suffered from rheumatism contracted by severe exposure on the peninsula of Virginia. Soon after his resignation, President Davis tendered him the position of presiding judge of a military court in the army of Virginia, with the rank of a colonel of cavalry. He declined that appointment, principally on account of his rheumatism, as it would subject him to further exposure in the cold climate of northern Virginia. President Davis then tendered him the same appointment to serve with the army in Mobile and Col. Judge accepted, and served in the court until the close of the war. Upon the reorganization of the State government in 1865, he was elected one of the judges of the supreme court, and held that position until superseded by the reconstruction measures of congress. After that time, he turned his attention to the practice of law in Montgomery and Greenville. He was a Whig. Married: to Miss Graves, a sister of Hon. Peyton T. Graves, of Lowndes County. Last residence: Montgomery.

JUDGE, THOMAS JAMES, lawyer, State senator, was born May 11, 1884, at Greenville, Butler County; son of Thomas James and Kate (Herbert) Judge, the former a member of the legislature from Butler County, assistant librarian of supreme court and solicitor of Butler County; grandson of Thomas James and Susan (Graves) Judge (q. v.), and of Curtis Burke and Catherine (Lewis) Herbert of Greenville. He was educated in the common schools; graduated LL. B., 1905, from the University of Alabama; has been register of Butler County; clerk of the committee on commerce and common carriers in the legislature of 1907; one of the representatives from Jefferson County in the session of 1911; and state senator from the Thirteenth district in 1915. He is a Democrat; an Episcopalian; Knight of Pythias; Woodman of the World, and a member of the Sigma Nu college fraternity. Married: December 28, 1910, at Louisville, Ky., to Lucile, daughter of Maj. John F. and Elizabeth (Wilson) O'Brien, the former at one time president of the East Tennessee Valley and Georgia R. R. Residence: Birmingham.

JUDKINS, GEORGE BERNARD, physician, was born in 1837, in Montgomery, now Elmore County, and died in 1908 in Wetumpka; son of John Christopher and Eliza Jane (Young) Judkins (q. v.). He was reared upon a plantation and his early education acquired in the schools of the community. He entered the University of Virginia from which he graduated, 1854. He read medicine under Dr. T. B. Ligon, Macon County, and graduated from Jefferson medical college, Philadelphia, 1859. He located in Montgomery, where he practiced his profession until 1861, when he joined Clanton's cavalry, C. S. Army, and saw active service in Pensacola, Montgomery and northern Alabama. In 1863 he was made assistant regimental surgeon in Clanton's brigade and served until the close of the war. After hostilities ceased he located in Macon County, where he practiced medicine. In 1888 he was appointed physician to the penitentiary at Wetumpka. He served at one time as a censor of the Macon County medical society. He was a Mason and a Methodist. Married: March, 1864, to Sarah, daughter of Conrad and Eliza J. Webb, natives, respectively, of Virginia and South Carolina. Children: 1. Sallie Evans, m. William Lamar Smith (q. v.); 2. Mary Eugenia, m. George Holmes Smith (q. v.).

JUDKINS, JAMES HENRY, lawyer and planter, was born February 2, 1839, in Montgomery County; son of John Christopher and Eliza Jane (Young) Judkins (q. v.). He entered the University of Alabama as a sophomore in 1856, but withdrew and entered the University of Virginia. He was adjutant with rank of first lieutenant, 1st Alabama cavalry regiment, C. S. Army, 1861-62; adjutant general, with rank of captain, Clanton's brigade, 1863; private secretary to Governor Thomas H. Watts, 1863-65; planter in Brazil, South America, 1867-70; county solicitor Elmore County, 1872-74; inspector of penitentiary, 1874-80; assistant U. S. attorney for the middle district of Alabama, 1897-1901. He read law under Governor Watts and practiced that profession in Wetumpka. He is also a planter, owning plantations in Elmore and Bullock Counties. He is a Democrat and a Methodist. Married: January 16, 1862, at Tuskegee, to Mary Elizabeth, daughter of Lancelot and Lucy (Lumpkin) Johnston III, of that place; granddaughter of Lancelot Johnston II, of Georgia, who owned lands in Alabama, and of Henry H. Lumpkin; great-granddaughter of Lancelot Johnston I, of North Carolina, a surgeon in the Revolutionary Army. Children: 1. James Henry, jr., died in childhood; 2. Lucy, m. John W. Durr (q. v.), Montgomery; 3. Thomas Williams, Montgomery; 4. Mary, born in Brazil and died in childhood; 5. Clifford, died in childhood; 6. Cliffjames, m. Florence Kizer, Montgomery; 7. Lawrence George, Montgomery; 8. Willulah, Montgomery; 9. Woodford Johnston, m. Lucile Sanguinetti, Montgomery. Residence: Montgomery.

JUDKINS, JOHN CHRISTOPHER, planter, was born May 27, 1809, in Surrey County, Va., and died in 1871, in Elmore County; son of George and Margaret (Lucas) Judkins, the former also a native of Surrey County, Va., a planter, captain in the War of 1812, and who in 1821 removed to Alabama and settled on lands on the Tallapoosa River, nine miles from Montgomery, where he established Judkins ferry, which was the first on that river and has been in continuous use for a century. The Judkins family is of Scotch origin. John Christopher Judkins received his education in the local schools of his native state and in his boyhood began the life of a farmer upon the parental lands. He bought, at government sale, lands on Line Creek, Montgomery County, and at the beginning of the War of Secession he had accumulated a landed estate of nearly seven thousand acres, and owned two hundred and fifty slaves. In 1866 he was elected to the Alabama legislature from Macon County and served on the committee on ways and means. During the following year he resigned his office and in company with Col. James Porter of Montgomery and John Shackelford of Macon County, removed to Brazil, where he purchased land and slaves. Mr. Judkins and his associates intended colonizing the new home land with relatives and friends from Alabama, planters who had suffered the loss by emancipation of their former slaves, but the severance of old ties and distance from former associations deterred many from perfecting their plans for emigration when the time drew near, and in 1868, the leader returned to Alabama, where he died and was buried in the family graveyard on the Tallapoosa River. He was a Whig and opposed secession, but followed his state as a matter of patriotism. Married: in 1838, in Elmore County, to Eliza Jane, daughter of Bernard Chappell and wife, who was a Mrs. Harris, the former of Irish parentage, and it is not clear in the family records whether he was born in Ireland, 1781, or in Virginia, where he later lived. He removed to Georgia, where in 1810, he was married. Later, with his wife and three stepsons, he removed to Alabama, settling on the Tallapoosa River, where he reared a family of seven daughters and two sons. At the time of his death, 1860, he owned a number of slaves and above two thousand acres of land. Children: 1. Rebecca Evans, m. Col. Thomas Williams (q. v.); 2. George Bernard (q. v.), m. Sarah Webb, Wetumpka; 3. James Henry (q. v.); 4. John Christopher, jr., planter and an officer on Gen. Clanton's staff, C. S. Army, m. Eva Pinkston, Shorters; 5. Fanny Jane, m. James Oliver; 6. William Thomas, student at the University of Alabama, member of Capt. Starr's cadet company, C. S. Army, and killed at Greenport in skirmish with Rosseau's raid, July 18, 1864; his body was never located; 7. Lawrence Dawson, planter, m. Mary Williams; 8. Bolling Young, d. unmarried; 9. Peggy Lucas, m. Arthur Jemison Brooks, Huntsville; 10. Dolly Evalina, m. McDuff Cain, Wetumpka; 11. Harriet Susan, m. Henry Shellman; 12. Mary Euphemia, m. George Mathews, Mathews. Last residence: Elmore County.

JULIAN, FRANK NEWSUM, editor, was born June 18, 1872, in Tuscumbia; son of William Reese and Elizabeth Melissa (Croxtan) Julian, the former a native of Lawrence County, who served with gallantry in the Mexican War under Col. Jefferson Davis, was the first soldier over the walls of Monterey and was promoted to a sergeancy, was commissioned lieutenant of artillery by Gov. A. B. Moore, January 31, 1861, entered the cavalry branch of the C. S. Army, and served under Roddy and Forrest, and was first sheriff of Colbert County, to which office he was twice re-elected; grandson of George Irvin and

MERRILL E. PRATT

Martha Lavina (Reese) Julian, and of Elizah and Eleanor Johnson (Scott) Croxton, of South Carolina, the former a descendant of John Croxton, an Irish peer, and the latter a first cousin of Gen. Winfield Scott. Mr. Julian attended the common schools for several years, and at the age of thirteen years entered the printing office of the "North Alabamian," at that time owned by Capt. A. H. Keller, father of Helen Keller. He remained there until 1889; spent the next three years in clerical work; was on the staff of the St. Louis "Dispatch," 1892; returned to weekly newspaper work in 1893, and continued in that line until 1907. Mr. Julian served six years as secretary of the Democratic executive committee of Colbert County; was clerk of the committee on corporations, Alabama legislature, 1896-1897; was elected assistant clerk of the house of representatives, 1898; re-elected for the extra session of 1899, and for the regular session of 1900-1901; elected secretary of the constitutional convention of 1901; clerk of the house of representatives, 1903; was elected secretary of state in 1906, and as secretary of state, was ex-officio insurance commissioner, and his administration of that department was of great value to the state and policy holders; was elected associate railroad commissioner, 1911-1915; resigned from the office of secretary of state to accept the position of general manager of the Alabama Fidelity & Casualty Company, Montgomery. On September 1, 1915, he re-established the "Sheffield Standard," which had been discontinued on the death of A. M. Ragland, some months before. He is a Democrat; a Presbyterian; member of the United Sons of Confederate Veterans; of the Woodmen of the World; the Elks; and the Knights of Maccabees. Married: December 18, 1895, at Tusculum, to Eva Josephine, daughter of Hugh J. and Mary E. (Smith) Stephenson, of Leighton. Children: 1. Reese; 2. Mary Elizabeth. Residence: Sheffield.

JULIAN, WILLIAM R., lieutenant colonel of Julian's Alabama cavalry battalion, C. S. Army.

JUSTICE, OSCAR SUTTLE, physician, was born May 9, 1860, at Nixburg, Coosa County; son of William Strong and Martha Ann (Johnson) Justice, the former a native of Bibb County, Ga., who moved to Alabama in 1842, and lived in Dale County, in Nixburg, Coosa County, and in Eclectic, Elmore County; grandson of Levi and Elon (Pickard) Justice, of Georgia, and of George and Elizabeth (Suttle) Johnson, of Coosa County. The Justice ancestors were from England, and the Suttles from Scotland. He attended the common schools of Coosa County; the Baltimore Medical and Surgical College, 1883-1884; was graduated from the Medical College of Alabama, Mobile, M. D., 1885; and received a certificate from the New Orleans Polytechnic, 1900. He began the practice of medicine in Central, 1885; is a member of the Elmore County Medical Society; counsellor of the Alabama Medical Association; was elected to the State senate from the tenth senatorial district, 1911; is a Democrat; a Mason; Odd Fellow; and Columbian Woodman. Married: (1) in 1888, at Central, to Annie Green Hollifield, who died in 1896, daughter of William Green and Paulina (Billingsley) Hollifield, of Central; (2) in December, 1902, to Mary Dixon Jackson, who died June, 1903. Residence: Central.

K

KAUL, JOHN LANZEL, lumberman, was born October 9, 1866, at St. Marys, Elk County, Pa.; son of Andrew and Walburga (Lanzel) Kaul, the former a native and resident of St. Marys; grandson of John Kaul, and of Michael Lanzel, both of St. Marys. All grandparents were born and lived in Bavaria, Germany, coming about 1840 to America, his paternal grandparents settling first in Philadelphia, and the maternal in Baltimore. Mr. Kaul obtained his collegiate education through a four year course at Rock Hill college, Baltimore; and the Eastman business college at Poughkeepsie, N. Y., completed his course at the latter when nineteen years of age. After work in the office of a lumber company, of which his father was a member, he was placed in charge of a hardwood mill belonging to the same. He remained in this situation until 1889, when a tour in the South led Mr. Kaul to the purchase of an interest in a lumber company at Hollins, Clay County. Here he obtained experience in the management of yellow pine. Finally he bought the remaining interests, trebled the capacity of the mills, and purchased large tracts of land adjacent or elsewhere in the State. For two terms he was president of the Yellow pine manufacturers' association of the State, and is a director of the First national bank of Birmingham. His interests in business are numerous and varied. He is president and treasurer of the Kaul lumber co., of Birmingham; has been a member of the State board of forestry; chairman of the Park commission of Birmingham; and has held many similar positions for the public good and without monetary compensation. He is a Democrat, by birth and rearing he is a Catholic. Married: June 19, 1901, at Birmingham, to Virginia Roy, daughter of Judge James B. and Virginia (Pierce) Head (q. v.). Children: 1. John Lanzel, jr., deceased; 2. Virginia; 3. Hugh. Residence: Birmingham.

KAY, EDGAR BOYD, civil engineer, was born January 15, 1860, at Warriors Mark; son of Dr. Isaac Franklin and Catherine (Bell) Kay, who lived at Warriors Mark and at Bellwood, Pa., the former a physician, who was first lieutenant, captain and assistant surgeon, of the One hundred tenth regiment of Pennsylvania volunteers, U. S. Army, during the War of Secession, and died April 13, 1873, at Bellwood, Pa.; grandson of George Boyd and Elizabeth (Kline) Kay, who lived at Hopewell Mansion, Bedford County, Pa., and of John and Elizabeth (Boyles) Bell, who lived at Mary Ann Forge, Bellwood, Blair County, Pa.; great-grandson of William and Rachel (Boyd) Kay, of York County, Pa., the former a soldier in the Revolution, who died February 24, 1844, and is buried in the Kay burying ground at Hopewell, Pa.; great-great-grandson of John and Elizabeth (Smart) Kay, the former of whom was born in Philadelphia, September 13, 1723, a manufacturer of fire-arms and a soldier in the Revolution, second colonel of the Ninth Pennsylvania regiment, under Anthony Wayne; great-great-great-grandson of John and Rebecca Kay, the former born in Philadelphia, December, 1682, the first white child born of English parents in the city, who received from William Penn, in honor of his birth, a square of ground in what became the city of Philadelphia, who laid the cornerstone of the Philadelphia hospital in 1755, and died July 5, 1767, at Kennet Square; Chester County, Pa.; great-great-great-grandson of John Kayor Kay, who with his wife came to America with William Penn, on the ship Welcome, landing on the banks of the Delaware River at Penny-Pot landing, later a part of the city of Philadelphia, the former of whom led the accusation against the Earl of Bellomont, March 11, 1700. He received his preparatory education at Logan academy, Bellwood, Pa., and at Mountain seminary, Birmingham, Pa.; and was graduated from Rensselaer polytechnic institute, Troy, N. Y., C. E., 1883. He was instructor in civil engineering at Rensselaer polytechnic institute, 1883-1885; member of the firm of Durham Drainage Company, Kansas City, Mo., 1885-1888; consulting engineer in Kansas City and organizer of the Western Engineering Company; located in Pennsylvania in 1891 to look after real estate and mining interests; organized, built and conducted the Bellwood electric light plant, 1891-1893; designed and built the Bellwood water works plant, and was borough engineer for two years; was chief engineer for the water works systems at Somerset, Tyrone and East Tyrone, Pa.; for the complete sewerage system at Charlotte, N. Y.; for the water works system at Saltsburg, Pa., Quarryville, Pa., Wernersville, Pa., Downingtown, Pa., Monroe, N. Y., New Holland, Pa., Christiana, Pa.; for the sewer system at Swarthmore, Pa.; the water works system at Myerstown, Pa., Honey Brook, Pa., Lewiston, Pa., and Elizabethtown, Pa.; was chief engineer and president of the Mount Union, Pa., and Strasburg, Pa., water companies, which plants he designed and built; became instructor of engineering at Union college, Schenectady, N. Y., 1896-1897; and at Cornell university, 1897-1903; was appointed professor of engineering at the University of Alabama, 1903-1907; professor of civil engineering and dean of the college of engineering, University of Alabama, 1907-1912; consulting engineer for the Alabama railroad commission, 1903—; chief engineer of the state convict bureau, and for several steam and hydro-electric power companies and cities. He has been a frequent contributor to technical journals; is a Democrat; an Episcopalian; a thirty-second degree Mason and a Knight Templar. He is a member of the American Society of Civil Engineers; of the American and International societies of testing materials; of the Society for the Promotion of Engineering Education; of the Engineering Association of the South; of the American Society of Municipal Improvements; and other technical societies; is a member of Delta Kappa Epsilon and Sigma Xi fraternities. Married: September 26, 1900, at Wapakoneta, O., to Florence Edna Means, daughter of Lyman North and Elizabeth (Edmiston) Means, of that place; granddaughter of Robert Lee Gilmore and Sarah (North) Means, of Waynesfield, O.; great-granddaughter of Thomas Means, who married a sister of Ann Carter, the wife of Light Horse Harry Lee of Virginia. Residence: Tuscaloosa.

KAYLOR, JOHN THOMAS, judge and legislator, was born January 6, 1856, at Cohutta Springs, Whitfield County, Ga.; son of Daniel and Priscilla (Page) Kaylor, the former a Confederate soldier; grandson of William and Martha Ann (Dunn) Kaylor, the latter a native of Ireland; and of John and Mary (Brown) Page; great-grandson of John William Kaylor, who came from Germany, settled in East Tennessee, and served as a captain in the Revolutionary War. Judge Kaylor was educated in the common schools of Randolph County; was elected probate judge of that county in 1904, and served for six years. He represented Randolph County in the legislature of 1915. He is a Democrat; and a Baptist. Married: Millie, daughter of Henry Glenn and Sarah (Herndon) Casper, who lived at Graham. Children: 1. James William, M. D., Colorado; 2. John Henry; 3. Shelby. Residence: Graham.

KEATES, THOMAS, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 78, and a resident of Tuscaloosa County; private Maryland Continental Line; enrolled on January 10, 1827, under act of Congress of March 18, 1818, payment to date from October 18, 1826; annual allowance, $96; sums received to date of publication of list, $708.64.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34.

KEENER, JOHN CHRISTIAN, Methodist Episcopal bishop, was born February 7, 1819, in Baltimore, Md., son of Christian and Mary Clare (Brice) Keener; grandson of Christian and Susanna (Swope) Keener, and of John and Sarah (Lane) Brice; a descendant of Melchor Keener, who came to America from Switzerland, about 1700, and became a merchant and shipper in Baltimore, and of Benedict Schwope, minister of the United Brethren in Christ. He received his education from the Wesleyan university, Connecticut, from which institution he was graduated, A. B., 1835, and A. M., 1839. He engaged in the drug business in Baltimore, Md., 1835-1841, and the following year joined the Alabama conference of the Methodist Episcopalian church. He was stationed at Mobile, 1842; at Demopolis, 1843-1844; at Tuscaloosa, 1845-1846; at Montgomery, 1847; and at New Orleans, La., 1848-1852. He was presiding elder of the New Orleans district, 1853-1857; was pastor of the Felicity Street church, New Orleans, 1858-1859; was presiding elder of the New Orleans district, 1860; became superintendent of chaplains of the C. S. Army west of the Mississippi River, in 1861, and served until 1864; served as editor of the New Orleans "Christian Advocate" and as presiding elder of the New Orleans district, 1865-1870; was elected bishop of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, in 1870; and founded a mission in Mexico in 1873. He retired from the office of bishop in 1898 because of his advanced age. The degree of D. D. was conferred upon him by LaGrange college in 1854; and the degree of LL. D., by Southern university at Greensboro, 1880. He edited sermons and lectures of the Rev. William Elbert Munsey, D. D., and is the author of "The Post Oak Circuit," 1857; of "Studies of Bible Truths," 1899; of "Garden of Eden and the Flood;" and of contributions to church periodicals. Married: to Mary Anna Spencer, daughter of Richard and Anna (Baker) Spencer, who moved to Alabama from Baltimore. The Spencer family came from England about 1750. Children: 1. John Ormond (q. v.). Last residence: New Orleans, La.

KEENER, JOHN ORMOND, Methodist minister, president Southern university, was born August 17, 1854, at New Orleans, La., and died December 31, 1898, at Greensboro; son of John Christian and Mary Anna (Spencer) Keener (q. v.). He received his early education in the public schools of New Orleans, La., and was graduated from Southern university at Greensboro, A. B., 1874. He entered the Alabama conference of the Methodist church in the year of his graduation, and continued there until his death. He was pastor at Cahaba, 1874-1877; at Watumpka, 1877-1879; at Glenville, 1879-1880; at Milton, Fla., 1880-1883; was presiding elder of Mobile district, 1883-1886; of Selma district, 1886-1890; of Montgomery district, 1890-1892; was stationed at Mobile in 1892, and at Greensboro, 1893-1894. While serving as pastor of the Greensboro station, he was called to the presidency of the Southern university, 1894, and remained in the position until his death. The honorary degree of D. D. was conferred upon him by Southern university in 1893. He represented his conference in the general conferences of 1894 and 1898, and in the Ecumenical conference. He was a Democrat; a Knight of Pythias; and a member of Pi Kappa Alpha college fraternity. Married: May 27, 1879, in New Orleans, La., to Phala Hutchinson Mathews, daughter of John and Mary Menefee Mathews, of that place, the former a minister of the Methodist church for more than sixty years, who served pastorates in Montgomery, New Orleans, La., Kansas City, Kas., Nashville, Tenn., and St. Louis, Mo., and was of Scotch-Irish parentage. Children: 1. Ella, m. Ernest Tyree Chadwell, Nashville, Tenn.; 2. Mary Mathews, d. in 1886. Last residence: Greensboro.

KEEP, HENRY V., major and later lieutenant colonel, 3rd Confederate infantry regiment, C. S. Army.

KEETON, PAUL FELDMAN, educator and dean of Judson college, was born March 21, 1882, at Woodstock, Tuscaloosa County; son of William Pendleton and Sarah Matilda (Herring) Keeton of that place, the former a Confederate soldier. He was prepared for college at Woodstock academy; entered Howard college, 1899, and graduated, C. E., 1903, and after extra work, A. B., president of the Franklin literary society and of the Y. M. C. A., elected by the faculty as post-adjutant of the college during his senior year; attended the University of Texas, 1908, and George Washington university, graduating from the latter institution, Ph. D., 1913. He has taught in private and public schools; held the chair of mathematics and science, Scottsboro institute, for two years, and the same chair in the Decatur, Texas, college. He returned to Alabama and was for four years superintendent of public schools in this state; taught four years in the Oklahoma college, and later elected dean; dean of Bryan academy, Texas; professor in Simmons college; professor of education and dean, Judson college, since June, 1918. He is a Democrat, Baptist; and Woodman of the World. Married: June 8, 1905, to Mabel, daughter of Dr. John Franklin and Mary Isabella (Smith) Ford of Decatur, Texas, natives of Cleveland, Tenn., who located in Texas soon after their marriage. Children: 1. Mary Isabella; 2. Paul Ford. Residence: Marion.

KEFFER, JOHN C., member of the constitutional convention of 1867, from the fifteenth district. Residence: Montgomery County.

KEGLEY, H. C., Presbyterian minister of the North Alabama presbytery; living in 1913. Residence: Birmingham.

KEITH, CHAMBLISS, lawyer, was born December 8, 1875, at Selma, Dallas County; son of Marshall Alston and Lucy (Walker) Keith, the former a native of Talladega County, who lived there until he was sixteen years old when he joined the C. S. Army, served through the war, and was paroled as first lieutenant, Co. F, Thirtieth Alabama regiment; grandson of John and Elizabeth (Hunt) Keith, who lived near Kymulga on a plantation, and of Thomas J. and Henrietta James (Chambliss) Walker, who lived at Cahaba. The Keith and Walker families are from Virginia and are of Scotch descent. The Butt and Chambliss families are of English descent. He received his early schooling at Dallas academy, Selma; at the Virginia military institute; and was graduated from Cumberland university, Lebanon, Tenn., LL. B., 1897. He began his law practice at Selma, in June, 1897, and has continued his profession in that place. He is a member of the state executive committee of the Democratic party; has been a delegate to all of the state conventions since he has become of age; and was a delegate to the national convention of 1908. He is an Elk. Married: in April, 1903, at Selma, to Ada Byrd Hooper, daughter of Charles W. and Caroline (McKee) Hooper, of Selma. The Hooper family is of English descent, and came to Alabama from Georgia. The McKee family is of Scotch descent, and came from South Carolina. Children: 1. Marshall Alston, b. 1905, at Selma; 2. Charles Hooper, b. 1908, at Selma. Residence: Selma.

KELLER, ARTHUR HENLEY, publisher and editor, was born February 5, 1836, at Tuscumbia, Colbert County, and died August 28, 1896, at Tuscumbia; son of David and Mary Fairfax (Moore) Keller, the former a native of Hagerstown, Md., born in 1788, who emigrated to Knoxville, Tenn., where he entered the mercantile business, and in 1820, moved to Alabama, becoming one of the pioneer settlers of the northern part of the state, who entered large tracts of land and farmed, and was president of the railroad from Tuscumbia to Decatur, one of the first roads built in the United States, the latter a native of Rockbridge County, Va., born in 1796, who was a second cousin to Robert E. Lee; grandson of Casper Keller, a native of Canton Berne, Switzerland, who came to the United States and settled in Maryland in colonial days, and of Alexander Spotswood and Elizabeth (Aylette) Moore, who lived at Chelsea, Charles County, Va., the former a native of Chelsea, King William County, Va., an aide to Gen. Lafayette and to Baron Steuben, with the rank of major, and a lieutenant in the service of the state of Virginia, who served both in state and continental lines, the latter who survived her husband for many years, and lived in Rockbridge County, Va., then moved to east Tennessee, near Knoxville; great-grandson of Bernard and Anne Catherine (Spotswood) Moore; great-great-grandson of Alexander and Anne Butler (Braine) Spotswood, the former one of the early colonial governors of Virginia. The Moore family were wealthy planters of Virginia and trace their lineage to Sir Thomas Moore of England. They were among the first settlers of Virginia. Mr. Keller was reared and educated in Tuscumbia, and studied under the instruction of Gov. R. B. Lindsay. He was graduated from the law department of the University of Virginia, 1858, and received his license to practice from Gov. A. B. Moore, at that time circuit judge. He enlisted as a private in the C. S. Army, November, 1861, and was detailed as quartermaster-sergeant under Dr. D. R. Lindsay, of the Twenty-seventh Alabama regiment, stationed at Fort Henry. Later he was temporarily assigned to the staff of Gen. Sterling Wood, in Florence. In July, 1862, he joined Roddy's cavalry as a private, and in September of that year rejoined his old regiment as quartermaster at Vicksburg. He remained with the latter command until July, 1864, when he was made paymaster of Gen. Roddy's division of cavalry. At the close of the war, he engaged in the receiving and forwarding business at Keller's Landing until the courts were opened, when he practiced law until 1874. He purchased the "Tuscumbia North Alabamian" in December, 1874, and was its editor for more than thirty years. In July, 1885, he was appointed U. S. marshal for the northern district of Alabama by President Cleveland. He was a delegate to the Democratic convention at St. Louis, Mo., in 1876, and was a delegate at large to the Cincinnati convention in 1880. He was a Democrat; a Presbyterian; a Knight of Honor; and a member of the Ancient Order of United Workmen; and was author of several articles in the "History of Northern Alabama." Married: (1) November 12, 1867, at Tuscumbia, to Mrs. Sarah E. Rosser, who died in March, 1877, daughter of William Simpson, a commission merchant at Memphis; (2) July 1, 1878, at Memphis, Tenn., to Kate Adams, daughter of Gen. Charles W. and Helen (Everett) Adams, who lived at Memphis, and belonged to the famous Adams and Everett families of Massachusetts, having come south when young people. Children, by first marriage: 1. Fannie, d. young; 2. James McDonald, d. 1906; 3. William Simpson, state highway engineer of Alabama, resides in Montgomery, m. in 1904, to Aileen Moore, of Columbia, Tenn., who d. February 12, 1911; by second marriage: 4. Helen Adams, Wrentham, Mass.; 5. Mildred Campbell, m. 1907, Laban Warren Tyson, Montgomery; 6. Phillips Brooks, Meridian, Miss. Last residence: Tuscumbia.

KELLER, HELEN ADAMS, author, lecturer and screen player, was born June 27, 1880, in Tuscumbia, daughter of Capt. Arthur and Kate (Adams) Keller, (q. v.); granddaughter of Charles Adams, Confederate soldier; great-granddaughter of Alexander Moore, who acted as aide to Lafayette, and of Gov. Spotswood of Virginia. Through her mother, she is related to the Adams and Everett families of Massachusetts; she is the sister of W. S. Keller (q. v.). When less than two years of age Miss Keller was stricken with an acute illness that resulted in the loss of sight, hearing, and speech. For five years she was shut away from all means of communication with the outside world, and was too young to have developed resources within herself, a condition that resulted in paroxysms of emotion. The distress of her parents found relief through the interest of Prof. Alexander Graham Bell, who advised Capt. Keller to obtain a teacher from the Perkins institute for the blind. In response, Miss Annie Sullivan went to Tuscumbia, March, 1887, to try experiments that might establish communications with the child. Through handling a doll communication was finally set up, and Helen became aware of the outside world. She learned rapidly, and by September, 1887, Miss Sullivan had not only taught her to spell with her hand and the use of six hundred words, but also to write a letter. In November she wrote a letter to Prof. A. G. Bell using one hundred and forty-five words. In 1890, she learned to speak. She was then an inmate of the Perkins institute, still under the vigilant care of Miss Sullivan, but Miss Sarah Fuller, the principal of the Horace Mann school, undertook the work of articulation. The young student learned six sounds in one hour by touching the tongue, lips or throat of the person speaking. In 1893 she and Miss Sullivan were the guests of Prof. Bell at the World's Fair, Chicago, and these two patient teachers awakened a keen and intelligent interest in their pupil's mind by a painstaking description of the exhibits and visits of note on the scenes. While in Chicago, she spoke in public to five hundred teachers from all over the world. When she "heard" the Marseilles, for the first time her hands were placed on the piano while a Frenchman played the piece and she instantly responded to the spirit of the martial music, slowly describing its character. An eye witness records that: "She heard drums and shouting, summoning a nation to arms." In 1894, she entered the Wright-Humason school for the deaf, New York, for vocal culture and training in lip-reading, Miss Sullivan accompanying her as teacher, interpreter and friend. In 1896, she spoke to the inmates of the Institute for the blind, at Talladega. In the fall of that year she entered the Cambridge school for young ladies to prepare for Radcliffe college and later was placed under the instruction of a private tutor, Merton S. Keith, taking and successfully passing the entrance examination, in 1899. She spent four years at Radcliffe, attended by Miss Sullivan, graduating A. B., cum laude, 1904. She was able to accomplish this remarkable triumph over her handicap through the aid of Miss Sullivan who read her text-book to her upon her hand, as only a few books were available in raised print, the written work of the student being done on a typewriter which Miss Keller had mastered. Since graduation she has become a writer, a lecturer, an earnest worker in behalf of the blind and deaf, and has made one appearance in a moving picture play. Prof. Bell says "That in the miracle of Helen Keller's restoration to communicate with the outside world, the work of Miss Sullivan, now Mrs. John Macey, must not be ignored, for she wrought the miracle." In this estimate he is joined by all teachers, physicians, and scientists. She continues to make her home with Mrs. Macey at Wrentham, Mass., occasionally spending the winter in Montgomery with her sister, Mrs. L. W. Tyson, and in California accompanied by her mother. Author: "The story of my life," 1902; "Optimism," 1903; "The world I live in," 1908; "The song of the stone wall," 1910; "Out of the dark," 1913; and has written articles in various magazines. Unmarried. Residence: New York.

KELLER, WILLIAM SIMPSON, highway engineer, was born February 20, 1874, at Tusculumbia; son of Arthur Henley and Sally (Simpson) Keller (q. v.), the former a native of Tusculumbia, who lived all his life at that place, was captain and paymaster in Roddy's command, C. S. Army, promoted to major just as the war closed, was U. S. marshal for the northern district of Alabama under Cleveland's first administration, was a lawyer and editor; grandson of David and Mary (Moore) Keller, of Tusculumbia, the latter a direct descendant of Gov. Spottswood, first colonial governor of Virginia, and a second cousin to Gen. Robert E. Lee, and of William Simpson, of Tusculumbia, and Memphis, Tenn., a cotton merchant. His great-grandfather Keller came to the United States from Switzerland and settled in Maryland. He received his early schooling at Tusculumbia, attended the State Normal College at Florence; and was graduated, B. C. E., from the University of Alabama, 1893. He is a civil engineer; was county surveyor of Colbert County, 1897, 1898; assistant engineer, Shiloh National Park, 1900-1905; chief engineer, good roads commission, Madison County, Tenn., 1905-1908, 1909-1910; with U. S. office of public roads, 1908-1909; engineer in charge of road construction, Dallas County, 1910-1911; appointed state highway engineer of Alabama, 1911. He is a Democrat; a Presbyterian; and an Elk. Married: (1) to Aileen Walton Moore, daughter of William J. and Jennie (Scruggs) Moore, of Columbia, Tenn., the former of whom was one of Coleman's scouts through the War of Secession, who was captured and imprisoned with Sam Davis, but escaped; (2) to Abbie, daughter of Dr. James T. and Annie (Ross) Searcy, the former who has been for a number of years superintendent of the Alabama insane hospitals. Residence: Montgomery.

KELLERMAN, CHARLES R., civil engineer; acting-professor of engineering at the University of Alabama, 1899-1900.

KELLEY, GEORGE CHRIETZBERG, developer and builder, was born July 30, 1847, at Wilmington, New Hanover, N. C.; son of George Hezekiah and Julia Agnes (Cason) Kelley, the former a native of Edwardsville, Ill., born in 1820, and died in Wilmington, N. C., who lived at Wilmington and was commissary agent for the government of the C. S. A. collecting supplies for the army during the War of Secession, the latter who was born in 1822, and died in 1898, in Wilmington, N. C.; grandson of Oliver Leffingwell and Sarah Hall (Findley) Kelley, who lived at Kenansville, Duplin County, N. C., and of Isaac and Sarah (Potter) Cason, who lived at Smithfield, now Southport, Brunswick County, N. C.; great-grandfather of Hezekiah and Elizabeth (Leffingwell) Kelley, of Norwich, Conn., the former the owner of various ships engaged in the West India trade and one of the largest French spoliation claimants; great-great-grandson of Daniel and Abigail (Reynolds) Kelley, of Norwich, Conn.; great-great-great-grandson of Joseph and Lydia (Calkins) Kelley, natives of Norwich and New London, Conn., the former born in 1690, who was a relative of Reginald Kelley of Pemaquid, Conn., who took the oath of fidelity in 1674, and of George Kelley of Kelley's Island, O., but formerly of Connecticut. The Kelley's are descendants of the most ancient families of England; their ancestry being traced back to the Norman conquest. The manor and advowson in Devonshire have been in the family at least from the time of Henry II, when Nicholas de Kelley was its representative. The Leffingwell branch of the family is descended from Lieut. Thomas Leffingwell, one of the founders of Norwich, Conn.; himself a descendant of Lawrence Leffingwell who lived in England in 1492, at the time of the discovery of America. Mr. Kelley received his education in private schools, the War of Secession preventing his attending college. At the age of seventeen he entered the C. S. Army, but did not engage in active service. His business career began in North Carolina, where for five years, he was connected with the hardware trade. He became private secretary to the president and superintendent of the Atlantic Coast railroad lines for two years, then became auditor of the Wilmington & Weldon railroad. He held the latter position until 1878, when he resigned and moved to Alabama. He is a Democrat and a Methodist. Married: July 25, 1874, in Wetumpka, to Icoline Bates, a graduate of Judson college, who died August 1, 1889, in Birmingham, daughter of Jared and Artemese (Tulane) Bates, the former a native of Connecticut, whose ancestors came from England, the latter a niece of Paul Tulane, founder of the Tulane university of New Orleans, who left France with the Huguenots. Children: 1. George Bates, b. February 20, 1876, in Wetumpka, a graduate of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, member of the firm of Kelley Company, civil engineers, Birmingham, m. February 26, 1902, in Birmingham, Susanne Austin of Atlanta, Ga., children, Katharine Austin and George Bates, jr.; 2. Wilbur Edrald, b. June 27, 1881, in Birmingham, graduate of the Alabama polytechnic institute and member of the firm of Kelley Company, Birmingham, m. November 14, 1906, in New Orleans, to Madeleine Whitfield, a native of Clarksville, Tenn., child, Wilbur Edrald, jr.; 3. Irwin Olin, d. in infancy. Residence: Birmingham.

KELLEY, THOMAS ELIAS, farmer and legislator, was born December 21, 1854, in Decatur County, Ga.; son of George and Deliah (Prevatt) Kelley, the former was a native of Ashville, Buncombe County, N. C., locating near Thomasville, Ga., served in the Indian Wars and was for two years in the Confederate Army; grandson of James Kelley, and of Ferney and Elizabeth (Ward) Prevatt, of Buncombe County, N. C. His great-grandfather migrated from Ireland to North Carolina, where he married Milbrie Hawthorn. He attended the common schools of Georgia and Alabama. He is a farmer; and a Democrat. He represented Houston County in the legislature of 1915. Married: October 6, 1876, at Dothan, the daughter of Noah and Winnie J. (Wood) Allen, of that place. Children: nine living, names not ascertained. Residence: Dothan.

KELLOGG, FRANCIS W., representative in congress, was born May 30, 1810, in Worthington, Hampshire County, Mass. He received a limited education and moved to Michigan, where he engaged in the lumber business. He was elected to the state legislature of Michigan, 1856-1867; represented that state in the Thirty-sixth congress, where he served on the committee on invalid pensions; was re-elected to the Thirty-seventh Congress, during which session he served on the committee on public lands and expenditures in the postoffice department; and was returned to the Thirty-eighth congress, and served on the committee to military affairs. He was appointed collector of internal revenue for the southern district of Alabama, by President Lincoln, in 1865, and moved to Mobile; was elected a representative from Alabama to the Fortieth congress, and on July 21, 1868, was admitted to take the oath of office. He served on the committee on commerce, and took an active part during his brief period of service, introducing several measures designed to benefit the region which he represented, among which were a bill to provide for the improvement of the bay and harbor of Mobile, a bill granting the New Orleans, Mobile & Chattanooga railroad the right of way through the public lands, and a bill to renew the grant of lands to aid in the construction of a railroad from Selma to Gadsden in Alabama. He also introduced a resolution directing the postmaster-general to open negotiations with the several European governments with whom we have postal treaties for a further reduction of the rates of international postage. Last residence: Mobile.

KELLY, JOHN B., member of the constitutional convention of 1875, from the twelfth district.

KELLY, JOHN BAKER, physician, graduate of the Jefferson medical college, 1859; licensed to practice by the Coosa County medical board, 1884. Residence: Anniston.

KELLY, JOHN HERBERT, brigadier general, C. S. Army, was born in Carrollton, Pickens County, March, 1838, and was killed at the battle of Franklin, Tennessee, August 20, 1864; a son of Isham Harrison and Elizabeth (Herbert) Kelly, the former a native of Carrollton, Pickens County, where he practiced law and died in Cuba in 1844, and the latter who was a daughter of John and Harriet Waters of Columbia, South Carolina, and died in Woodville, Miss., in 1845; nephew of William Kelly of Madison, whose death occurred soon after 1830, was elected a representative in congress, his district comprising the entire state in 1821, resigned the following year when elected to fill the term of Mr. Walker in the federal senate, served till March, 1825, when he was defeated for another term by Dr. Chambers of this county, in same year represented Madison in the legislature, was elected speaker, last service was in the lower house in 1827, and of Gen. Moses Kelly of Jefferson, who was one of the earliest settlers there, represented the county in both branches of the general assembly, was judge of the probate court for some years, was a farmer, was a brigadier-general of militia, served under Jackson in the Indian war, and died in 1866. The father of John Herbert Kelly only lived four years after his son's birth and the mother died three years later. This left John Herbert Kelly an orphan and his rearing devolved upon his grandmother, Mrs. Harriet Herbert Hawthorne. When he was sixteen or seventeen years of age, his uncle Hon. Philander Thomas Herbert, who was a member of congress, procured for him a cadetship at West Point, and he lacked but a few months of graduating when his state seceded and he went to Montgomery to offer his services. He was appointed a second lieutenant in the regular army and dispatched to Fort Morgan; went with Gen. Hardee to Missouri; on October 5, 1861, was appointed captain and assistant adjutant general; was later commissioned major, and placed in command of the Ninth Arkansas battalion; fought at Shiloh and a month later was promoted to the command of the Eighth Arkansas regiment with the rank of colonel; participated in the battles of Perryville in which Col. Kelly personally captured Col. Michael Gooding of the Twenty-second Indiana regiment, and Murfreesboro; was severely wounded at the latter; commanded a brigade at Chickamauga; commissioned brigadier general, November 16, 1864; after being in command of a brigade of Wheeler's division he was soon put in command of a division—Grigsby's and Wade's brigades. His career was signalized by a series of brilliant achievements and his death occurred while leading a charge at Franklin, Tenn., August 20, 1864. The remains of General Kelly were removed to Mobile in 1866 and interred in the family burying ground there.

JUDGE ALEXANDER O. LANE

KELLY, JOHN JEFFERSON, farmer, was born September 28, 1839, in Choctaw County; son of Jesse and Martha (Lee) Kelly, the former a native of Raleigh, N. C., who removed to Choctaw County, the latter of Anson County, N. C. He received only a limited primary education. He has been a farmer all of his life; and before the war was a plantation overseer. In 1862, he enlisted in the 40th Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army, was captured in 1864, being confined at Rock Island until June, 1865. At Resaca when the regimental flag was shot down he assisted in rescuing it at great peril. In 1898 he was elected a member of the legislature from Choctaw County, as a Populist; and again in 1902 as a Democrat. He is a member of the Methodist Protestant Church. Married: March 14, 1860, to Lydia Haran, daughter of Joshua and Evalene (Packnip) Allen, who lived at Jefferson, Marengo County. Residence: Butler.

KELLY, MAUDE McCLURE, lawyer, was born at "Mountain Spring" near Sylacauga, Talladega County; daughter of Judge Richard Bussey and Leona (Bledsoe) Kelly (q. v.). Miss Kelly was educated at Noble institute, Anniston, and at the University of Alabama, law department, where she graduated cum summa laude, LL. B., in 1908. She was admitted to the circuit court of Jefferson County on October 14, 1908, and to the supreme court of Alabama in 1909. She was made a notary public in 1905. She is a Baptist; is a patroness of Alpha Delta Pi sorority at Judson college; was organizer and charter member of the Birmingham equal suffrage association; chairman of the legislative committee of the State woman's suffrage association; historian of William Lowdnes Yancey chapter, U. D. C.; national secretary of war, United States Daughters of War of 1812; member of D. A. R.; state president, Alabama Daughters of the War of 1812; member Alabama bar association and Birmingham lawyers league. Residence: Washington, D. C.

KELLY, PETER, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 83, and a resident of Wilcox County; private S. C. Continental Line; enrolled on June 24, 1834, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $50.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34.

KELLY, RICHARD BUSSEY, judge, was born February 7, 1859, at Ladiga, Calhoun County; son of Samuel Camp and Amie Elizabeth (Pace) Kelly (q. v.). He was educated in the common schools of his native county; at Oxford college, graduating as A. B. in 1876; and at the law department of the University of Alabama, from which he graduated, LL. B., in 1879, cum summa laude. He was admitted to the bar in July, 1879, at Wedowee, on motion of Judge James Aiken; to the bar of the supreme court of Alabama, February 4, 1884; to the bar of the supreme court of the United States, May 6, 1896, on motion of Senator Arthur Brown of Utah. He has practiced successfully in all of the courts of the United States. He represented Calhoun County in the legislature of 1894-95; and was chancellor of northeastern chancery division, 1898 to 1904. He is an honorary brigadier general, U. C. V. He was vice-chairman of the committee to raise funds to secure the adoption of the Constitution of 1901. He is a Mason; Odd Fellow; Beaver; Knight of Pythias; member of the Alabama bar association; Birmingham lawyers' league; and Chamber of commerce. Married: October 10, 1880, at Sylacauga, to Leona, daughter of Francis Marion and Louisa Catherine (Vincent) Bledsoe of Mountain Spring, near Sylacauga, the former a North Carolinian by birth, serving in Co. K, 18th Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army; enlisting in 1861, and was killed during the last week of the War of Secession, was a planter and general manager of a marble company at Sylacauga. Children: 1. Francis Marion, m. Dr. Robert Daniel Irwin, of Anniston; 2. Maud McLure (q. v.); 3. Richard Bussey, jr., attorney in Birmingham, graduate of Howard college and University of Alabama, member of the Sigma Nu college fraternity; 4. Samuel Bledsoe; 5. William Milner. Residence: Birmingham.

KELLY, RILEY JACOB DANIEL, business man, was born July 22, 1875, at Monroeville, Monroe County; son of Samuel Riley and Annie Elizabeth (Owen) Kelly, the former a sergeant in the C. S. Army, who at the close of the war, returned to the place of his birth, Monroeville, was a farmer and a business man, the latter who was born in Shubuta, Miss., but was reared in Monroe County; the grandson of Samuel and Nancy (Crout) Kelly, of Dutch and English descent, respectively, pioneer settlers of Monroe County, having removed from Charleston, S. C., in 1829, the former who established the first water-mill in this part of the state, the first of a series of mills, only the ruins of which are now standing, and of James and Elinora (Corley) Owen. Mr. Kelly received a common school education; studied telegraphy, held several positions with the southern Alabama division of the Louisville & Nashville Railroad from 1898-1902. He resigned to engage in mercantile business at Excel, was elected State senator from the twenty-first district, 1918. He is a Democrat; member of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, and a York and Scottish Rite Mason. Married: January 15, 1908, at Jones Mills, to Rosalie, daughter of James Thomas and Florence (Baas) Nicholas, the latter who was of French-English descent, whose great-great-grandfather came to this country during the American Revolution, with the French army and was killed in 1780. Children: 1. Ernestine Elizabeth; 2. Margaret Rosalie. Residence: Excel.

KELLY, SAMUEL CAMP, planter, was born March 11, 1825, in Franklin County, Tenn., and died September 9, 1891, at Oxford; son of Sims and Mary (Camp) Kelly, the former of whom was born in Wake County, N. C., March 11, 1785, but in his youth moved to Georgia, where he lived in Wilkes and Washington Counties, later removing to Franklin County, Tenn., served in the War of 1812, was a great friend of the Indians, and the Creeks camped on his grounds on their way to their reservation in the west; grandson of William and Mollie (Durham) Kelly, of Irish descent, and of Samuel and Mary (Banks) Camp, the former was born in Connecticut, May 14, 1753, and died in Warren County, Ga., in 1827, served as commissariat, in Revolutionary Army, on staff of Gabriel Penn with rank of captain; great grandson of Icabod and Phoebe (Canfield) Camp, the former of whom was born on February 15, 1726, at Durham, Conn., entered Yale, September, 1739, graduated A. B., September 14, 1743, and M. A., 1746, licensed Presbyterian minister, 1745-46, appointed to read prayers at Wallingford, Conn., September, 1748, appointed to read prayers at Middletown, May 29, 1748, received license of the Bishop of London March 27, 1752, in 1760 was called to the diocese at Wilmington, N. C., and in 1761 to Virginia, in 1778, went west to carry on Episcopal work in "ye Illinoy" with headquarters at Kaskaskia, where he was killed in 1785 by an intoxicated Spaniard, the latter was granddaughter of Thomas and Phoebe (Crane) Canfield and grandniece of Matthew Canfield one of the charterers of Connecticut, and of Gerard and Frances (Bruce) Banks, jr.; great-great-grandson of Gerard and Frances (Strother) Banks. Samuel Camp Kelly was educated by tutors and lived the life of the son of a wealthy planter. He served in the Mexican War, enlisting June 13, 1846, and was mustered out May 25, 1847. He enlisted as first lieutenant of Co. E, 30th Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army, of which Dr. J. C. Francis was captain. Francis soon became major, and Kelly was promoted captain. This company and others consolidated with it became known as Kelly's Infantry, and he was later promoted major and served as colonel. After the war he lived on his plantation until 1867, when he removed to Jacksonville; moved to Oxford in 1872, when Oxford college was established. He largely maintained this school in its infancy and its existence is due to his unfailing support. Married: January 19, 1851, to Amie Elizabeth, daughter of Rev. Richard and Amie (Bussey) Pace, located at various times in Georgia, Alabama and Texas. Children: 1. Richard Bussey (q. v.); 2. Dr. W. P. Last residence: Oxford.

KELLY, THOMAS C., physician; graduate of the medical department of the University of Alabama, Mobile, 1908; licensed to practice by the county board of Clarke, the same year. Residence: Thomasville.

KENDRICK, JAMES E., physician; graduate of the medical department of the University of Alabama, 1869; licensed to practice by the county board in 1882. Residence: Luverne.

KENEDA, WILLIAM, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 78, and a resident of Lauderdale County; private Virginia Militia; enrolled on August 28, 1833, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $34.44; sums received to date of publication of list, $103.32. —Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34.

KENNAMER, SEBORN F., farmer, was born April 2, 1830, at Kennamer Cove, Marshall County; son of Jacob and Kezziah (Davis) Kennamer, the former a native of Chesterfield, Chesterfield County, S. C., who later located at Kennamer Cove. He was educated in the neighborhood schools and during his early manhood began the life of a farmer from which he retired in 1908. He was elected to the constitutional convention of Alabama, 1867, and to the legislature in 1868-69, and was a member of the finance committee. He was opposed to secession and served with the Union forces as scout during the War of Secession. He was an old line Whig but became a Republican; a member of the Christian church. Married: April 8, 1869, at Scottsboro, to Nancy Elizabeth, daughter of Thomas J. and Mary (Custer) Mitchell of that place. Children: 1. Thomas Jacob, m. Laura Houston, Ensley; 2. Mary Elizabeth, Guntersville; 3. Charles Brents, m. Birdie Hooper, Birmingham; 4. Damaris Barton, m. William Noel, Boaz; 5. Franklin Elmore, m. Lillie Florence, Madill, Okla.; 6. Martha Kezziah, m. J. Stanhope Smith, Guntersville; 7. John Sheppard, Washington, D. C.; 8. David Wendell, Washington, D. C.; 9. Samuel Rexford, Guntersville. Residence: Guntersville.

KENNEDY, ABSALOM MASON, electrical engineer, was born in Montgomery; son of Joseph Mason and Mary A. (Irwin) Kennedy (q. v.). He received his elementary education in private schools in Montgomery, attended the public schools and Starke's university school. He graduated from the Alabama polytechnic institute with the degree of B. S., having completed the electrical and mechanical course. He entered the employ of the Montgomery light and water power co., and was later connected with the Southern bell telephone and telegraph co., engineering department, Atlanta, Ga. He became chief engineer of the American talking picture co., New York, and later staff engineer of the laboratory of Thomas A. Edison, Orange, N. J. He was also a member of the Kennedy company, Montgomery. He is now practicing the profession of civil engineering in Montgomery. He is a Presbyterian. Married: (1) January 1, 1902, at College Park, Ga., to Roline Vann; (2) August 15, 1906, at Montgomery, to Lucy Elizabeth, daughter of John W. and Clara (Holt) Simpson of that city. Children: by second wife, 1. Clara Virginia; 2. Kate Burke. Residence: Montgomery.

KENNEDY, ANNE ELIZA, teacher, was born in Centerville; daughter of Josiah Sparks and Anne Eliza (McNeill) Kennedy (q. v.); sister of John Percy Kennedy (q. v.). She received her elementary education from the Rev. H. A. Smith, a graduate of Amherst college, and his wife, a graduate of Mt. Holyoke college, who conducted a private school at Centerville. Her first college work was given under the instruction of Mr. J. D. Cooper, of Trinity, Pa., who was also a teacher in Centerville. She later studied at the University of Tennessee, and completed her work for a bachelor's degree in the School of education at the University of Chicago. In addition to the foregoing, she has added to her preparation for teaching by normal school correspondence courses. She entered upon the profession by teaching the children of her neighbors in her home town. Two years later she was offered a position in the Centerville school which she accepted. A course of study in Mobile, followed this experience and she next taught in the Crozier-French school in Knoxville, Tenn., for one year, followed by a year in the public schools of Union Springs. In 1896, she returned to Knoxville, Tenn., but when the Alabama girls' industrial school, now the Technical institute was opened she was the first member of the faculty elected and for sixteen years filled the chairs of English and history. Residence: Centerville.

KENNEDY, DAVID, soldier of the American Revolution, and a resident of Lowndes County; private in cavalry and infantry, particular service not disclosed; enrolled on February 28, 1837, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $53.10.—Pension Book, State Branch Bank, Mobile.

KENNEDY, HIRAM RALIEGH, physician and farmer, was born September 30, 1852, in Lauderdale County; son of Enoch Riley and Louise Jane (Chisholm) Kennedy, the former a North Carolinian, a farmer and a miller; grandson of John Chisholm, of Green Hill, a captain in Jackson's Army at the battle of New Orleans, where he was severely wounded. He was educated in the country schools of Lauderdale County; and at the State normal college, at Florence; and was graduated at the University of Louisville, M. D., 1880. He engaged in the practice of medicine in 1880 at Green Hill; and is also a farmer and miller. He was elected to the state legislature, 1890-1891, 1892-1893; and to the State senate, 1900. He is a Democrat and a Methodist. Married: December 9, 1880, near Green Hill, to Mary Elizabeth Brotherick, daughter of Benjamin I. and Nancy E. (Stubbs) Brotherick, of Green Hill. Children: 1. Oscar Yandell; 2. Edgar Leslie; 3. Eva Estella; 4. Reba Louisa; 5. Hiram Ralieggh. Residence: Green Hill.

KENNEDY, JOHN PERCY, banker, was born October 12, 1858, at Centerville, Bibb County; son of Josiah Sparks and Ann Eliza (McNeill) Kennedy (q. v.); brother of Anne Eliza Kennedy (q. v.). He was educated in the schools of Profs. Cooper and Smith, Centerville. He entered the mercantile business and in 1897 was made cashier of the Bibb County banking and trust company. Two years later, he was elected president of that institution and holds the position at this time. He was register in chancery, 1886-98, and city treasurer of Centerville, 1896, to the present. He is a Democrat; Presbyterian; and Knight of Pythias. Married: October 7, 1896, in Centerville, to Annie Catherine, daughter of Col. James LaFayette and Sue A. (Powell) Davidson of that place, the former organized in 1861, the first infantry company that left Bibb County to join the Confederate Army, and at the time of his death, 1896, was probate judge of Bibb County, whose brother, Samuel W. Davidson, was a captain in another company, and whose sister, Mary Frances, was the wife of Edward H. Moren, lieutenant-governor of Alabama and after his death married William L. Peek of Conyers, Ga.; granddaughter of Samuel Wilson and Frances (Stringfellow) Davidson, of South Carolina; great-granddaughter of John and Margaret (Wilson) Davidson, the former a soldier of the Revolution. Children: 1. John Percy; 2. Catherine Davidson; 3. Josiah McNeill. Residence: Centerville.

KENNEDY, JOHN SPINKS, lawyer, was born in 1818, in Moore County, N. C. In 1825 he was taken to Alabama with his parents who settled in Lauderdale County where his father was a gunsmith and planter. He was educated at LaGrange college, studied law, and was admitted to the bar in 1842. He was elected to the State legislature from Lauderdale County in 1841, was re-elected the following year, and again in 1847. In 1848, he was elected solicitor of the Florence circuit, and held that position for nine years. He was an elector for Breckenridge in 1860; served as a private in the Seventh Alabama regiment, C. S. Army; and later became commissary of the regiment. He moved to Tuscaloosa in 1863, and helped control a cotton factory in that place. After the war, he built a factory for the manufacturing of cotton goods a few miles from Tuscaloosa. Married: to Mary Emiline Kennedy. He had the following, among other children: 1. Logan Paschal, foundryman, b. November 22, 1846, first lieutenant, Tenth Alabama cavalry, C. S. Army, m. March 21 1871, at Louisville, Ky., to Hannah J. Lithgow, resides at Louisville, Ky.; 2. John Robie, planter, b. June 9, 1848, in Florence, was graduated, LL. B., from Cumberland university, 1870, secretary and treasurer of the Tuscaloosa Land and Loan Company, and of the Tuscaloosa Building & Loan Association, and a director of the Tuscaloosa Coal, Iron & Land Company, m. in 1871, to Johanna McLester, daughter of R. C. and Mary T. McLester, resides in Tuscaloosa, child, John Robie, jr.; 3. David Patton, merchant, b. December 18, 1853, d. March 27, 1888, m. Sallie Mitchell; 4. Edward Jennings, musician, b. February 1, 1855, resides at Tuscaloosa. Last residence: Tuscaloosa.

KENNEDY, JOSEPH MASON, merchant, was born June 26, 1853, in Hamilton, Lanarkshire, Scotland, and died in Montgomery; son of Absalom Mason and Ann (McQueen) Kennedy, the surname having been added by him, a native of Hamilton, Scotland, where he was educated and married, came to America in 1854, at the age of twenty-three, locating first in Augusta, Ga., but later settling in Montgomery, where he engaged in the paint and oil business, fought in the 23rd Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army, at Vicksburg, Miss., was for two terms alderman of Montgomery; grandson of Alexander and Katherine (McGregor) Mason, of Scotland, the former a soldier of the Crimean and Indian Wars, the latter a direct descendant of the famous Scottish chieftain, Rob Roy McGregor, and of James McQueen, of New York, an author and magazine writer of that city, prior to removing to Scotland, where he died. Joseph Mason Kennedy attended Buchan's college, Hamilton, Scotland. At the age of twelve, he ran away from this institution and made his way to the coast with the purpose of joining Admiral Raphael Semmes' Confederate ship, the "Alabama," but was apprehended and returned to the school. In 1867, he joined his father in Montgomery and learned the painter's trade. Later he specialized in sign painting and finally became a member of his father's mercantile firm of which he ultimately became proprietor. While a very young man he was possessed of a desire to see the world and became a ship's painter, embarking at San Francisco and returning home by New York. He was an alderman for Montgomery, and was for years foreman of the volunteer fire company, before the present department was created. He was an Elk; Knight of Pythias; Odd Fellow and member of the National Union; Presbyterian, and director in the Young Men's Christian Association. Married: (1) in 1877, to Mary A., daughter of Capt. R. L. Irwin, U. S. Army, a native of Illinois; (2) October 8, 1902, to Eunice Estelle, daughter of Edward Butler Thrash, a merchant of Selma; great-granddaughter of Gen. Edmund Butler of General Washington's army. Children: By the first marriage, 1. Absalom M., (q. v.); 2. Leonora Maggie; by the second marriage, Eunice. Last residence: Montgomery.

KENNEDY, JOSIAH SPARKS, merchant, was born March 29, 1807, in Moore County, N. C., and died January 25, 1891, in Centerville; son of Alexander Kennedy and wife, a Miss Williamson, the former a gunsmith and manufacturer, who lived at Mechanic's Hill, N. C. His paternal grandfather was a native of Scotland, and a pioneer emigrant to North Carolina. The maternal grandfather, Williamson, was a soldier of the Revolution, and lived to be a hundred and thirteen years of age. Josiah S. Kennedy removed from his native state to Tennessee and thence to Bibb County, where he built up a successful mercantile business. Before launching upon this career he temporarily undertook farming and was for a while proprietor of a large blacksmith shop. In 1865, he formed a partnership in the mercantile business with J. P. Taylor and two years later bought out his partner, and re-organized, with his son, Edward, as the junior member of the firm. After his death his widow owned and directed the business. He was for many years postmaster and a member of the town council of Centerville, and also proprietor of the Centerville hotel. He was an old-time Whig and opposed to secession, but after Alabama withdrew from the Union and hostilities began he sent four sons into the Confederate Army, later a Democrat; and a Baptist. Married: June 6, 1833, to Ann Eliza, daughter of Archibald and Mary (Waddell) McNeill, natives of North Carolina; the former was a farmer and merchant, in early life a school teacher, and held several offices in Moore County, N. C., was a member of both branches of the state legislature, and a member of congress several times, a Whig in politics and a Baptist; granddaughter of Daniel and Sarah McNeill of Scotland who emigrated to North Carolina, and of Edward and Lucy (Birdsong) Waddell, natives of Virginia, who emigrated to North Carolina, and engaged in farming. Children: 1. Louise E.; 2. William L., bookkeeper and accountant, member Alabama infantry, C. S. Army, m. Annie Lombard, Mobile; 3. Archibald E., merchant, member Co. C, 4th Alabama infantry regiment, severely wounded in the first battle of Manassas, m. Ella McCreary, Arcadia, La.; 4. Margaret E., m. James Lotspeich, cotton broker, Corsicana, Texas; 5. Josiah M., member Co. F., 11th Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army, killed in battle near Richmond, in 1862; 6. Edward, merchant, member Co. I. 51st Alabama cavalry, C. S. Army, special scout under General Wheeler, m. Mary Crawford, Centerville; 7. Lydia F.; 8. Mary C., m. J. N. Suttle, lawyer and politician, Centerville; 9. Annie E. (q. v.); 10. David A., merchant, m. Leila Gary, Selma; 11. John Percy (q. v.). Last residence: Centerville.

KENNEDY, SAMUEL P., business man, was born June 19, 1862, in Knox County, Tenn.; son of Samuel and Margaret Elizabeth (Nail) Kennedy; grandson of Adam Meek and Elizabeth (Ritchie) Kennedy, and of John and Mary (Steele) Nail, all of Knox County, Tenn. His father and paternal grandfather were farmers and stock raisers. Mr. Kennedy received his early education at Holston academy, Tennessee; entered the railway service with the East Tennessee, Virginia & Georgia Railway, in the railway department; came to Alabama in 1880 with the South & North Alabama Railroad, and the Selma, Rome & Dalton Railroad, remaining continuously in the railroad business, serving in the roadway, transportation and traffic departments until July, 1900; entered the manufacturing business; is one of the stockholders of the Planters' Chemical & Oil Company, fertilizer manufacturers and cotton seed crushers, at Talladega; and is a stockholder and director in the Talladega Ice & Cold Storage Company; was appointed secretary to the railroad commission of Alabama, March, 1907; and served in that position until his appointment as president of the Alabama public utilities commission by Gov. Charles Henderson, January 19, 1915. He is a Democrat; a Presbyterian; a Mason; and a Knight Templar. Married: to Mary Pernell, daughter of Col. Henry T. and Mary (Mabry) Dick, of Jefferson County, Tenn. Residence: Anniston.

KENNEDY, THOMAS, lawyer, was born December 14, 1831, in Harris County, Ga. deceased; son of Alexander B. and Elizabeth (Stevens) Kennedy, who moved from Harris County, Ga., to Chambers County in 1836. He attended a high school at Oak Bowery, and was a student at Emory college for several years, leaving college before his graduation because of ill health. He entered the C. S. Army as captain of a company in the Sixth Alabama regiment, Col. Seibles commanding, May, 1861, and, after seven months' service, resigned because of ill health. In 1863 and 1864, he did post duty in the quartermaster's department at Mobile. He moved to Texas and was admitted to the supreme court at Tyler, returning to Alabama just before the outbreak of the War of Secession. After the close of the war, he practiced law at Opelika; was admitted to the supreme court at Montgomery in 1888; was a member of the State legislature, 1876-1877, and 1900-1901; and served as commissioner of the Opelika police board for two terms of two years each. He was a Democrat, and a Methodist. Married: November 15, 1889, at Columbus, Ga., to Mary J. Luckie. Among his children is Minnie Kennedy, of Opelika. Last residence: Opelika.

KENNEDY, WILLIAM, soldier of the American Revolution, age not given, resided in Marion County, June 1, 1840, with J. Kennedy.—Census of Pensioners, 1841, p. 148.

KENNEDY, WILLIAM H., physician, was born January 2, 1829, in Tuscaloosa County; son of Reuben B. and Mary (Davis) Kennedy, natives of South Carolina, the former who came to Alabama when a young man and settled in Tuscaloosa County, where he lived thirty-five years, then migrated to Texas to spend the remainder of his days; grandson of Maxwell and Frances Kennedy, natives of Virginia, who come to Alabama when the state was a dense wilderness. He was reared and educated in Tuscaloosa County; was graduated from the Memphis medical school in 1851; practiced medicine until 1861; and entered the New Orleans medical school for advanced studies in the profession. After leaving that institution, he practiced medicine around Kennedy, Lamar County. He was an extensive planter and also was in the drug business at Kennedy. He was the first successful Democratic candidate to the State legislature from his district after the War of Secession. He was a Methodist and a Mason. Married: in 1855, to Eliza C. Cooper, daughter of Martin Cooper, of Mississippi. Children: 1. Fannie, m. W. T. Walker; 2. John O., physician, m. in 1888, to Miss Winston, Kennedy; 3. James Thomas, internal revenue service, Kennedy; 4. Mollie, m. Dr. John H. Duncan; 5. Joseph L., deceased; 6. Eddie, deceased; 7. Elijah, deceased. Last residence; Kennedy, Lamar County.

KENNON, W. P., pioneer, was born in 1813, in Jasper County, Ga., and died in 1885. The Kennon family is of Scotch extraction, the American branch originating in Virginia, and descending from Pocahontas. He went to Columbus, Ga., to study law under the famous Colquitt, but gave up the study of law for that of medicine before he was admitted to the bar. His studies were interrupted by the Indian troubles and he joined a company under Capt. Brown to help subdue the Indians. He took part in several battles in Florida. In 1838, he moved to Oak Bowery, where he resumed the study of medicine under Dr. Tucker, and later practiced his profession there for several years. In 1850, he moved to Wacooche Valley, where he resided on the river-side a number of years, and in 1861, settled in Salem, Lee County. He entered the C. S. Army and served as physician of his company until 1864, when an attack of rheumatism compelled him to withdraw. He practiced medicine for forty years until his death in 1885. He was a Democrat. Married: in 1838, to Elizabeth Story. Children: 1. Dixon, d. in the War of Secession; 2. Warner P., jr., merchant and farmer, conducts an ax and handle factory at Salem, has served as county commissioner, m. in 1871, in Salem, to Margaret Corcoran, children, Mary, William, deceased, Frances, deceased, Stokes, Paul Duncan, Charles, Nellie, and Bernard; 3. Robert; 4. Frank; 5. Mrs. Julia Dunn; 6. Mrs. Louisa White, deceased; 7. Mrs. Samuel Hill; 8. Mrs. Emma Head; 9. Mrs. Frank Hill. Last residence: Salem, Lee County.

KENT, JAMES, physician, was born January 8, 1830, in Petersburg, Va., and died May 5, 1881, in Birmingham; son of Charles and Sarah Edwards (Walthall) Kent, natives, respectively, of Boston, Mass., and of Virginia. He was graduated from William and Mary College, Virginia, in 1848, and was graduated in medicine and surgery from the University of Pennsylvania in 1850. He practiced medicine until Alabama seceded from the union, then, as captain of the Independent Blues, a volunteer company of Selma, was ordered with his company by Gov. Moore, in January, 1861, to occupy Fort Morgan. Later his company volunteered for the war, and left for Virginia, May 28, 1861. While in camp near Richmond, the company was assigned to the Eighth Alabama regiment, and sent to the peninsula, where Gen. Magruder was in command. In 1862, the Forty-fourth Alabama regiment was formed, and Dr. Kent was elected colonel. It was assigned to Longstreet's corps, army of northern Virginia. After a few months of service, Dr. Kent's health failed so much that he was forced to resign his command and undergo medical treatment in Petersburg, Va. When Selma was attacked, April 2, 1865, by Gen. Wilson, he served at the fortifications as surgeon. After the war, he resumed the practice of medicine until 1876, when his health failed and caused him to give up his profession. He retired to Shades Mountain, near Birmingham. He was elected to the State legislature from Jefferson County in 1880, and died the following year. Married: to Mary Grey. Last residence: Shades Mountain.

KERR, T. BEN, lawyer, was born June 18, 1871, at White Plains, Calhoun County; son of Andrew Jennings and Josie Margia (Hughes)

Kerr, the former a member of Co. H, 10th Alabama infantry regiment and a South Carolinian, who lived at Piedmont twenty years prior to his death; grandson of John T. A. and Mary (Brown) Hughes, natives of S. C. He was educated in the common schools of White Plains; at the Southern university, Greensboro, 1891-92, taking a special course; read law and was admitted to the bar at Centre, July, 1893; began practice at Piedmont, where he has since resided. He is a Democrat; Methodist; Knight of Pythias; and Mason. Married: December 29, 1909, at Ellore, S. C., to Annie, daughter of John M. and Amanda Weeks. Residence: Piedmont.

KERR, WILLIAM, deputy grand master, grand council, Masons, 1864.

KETCHUM, CHARLES THOMAS, cotton merchant, planter, colonel C. S. Army, was born December 24, 1815, at Sand Hills, Augusta County, Ga., and died December 22, 1876, in Washington County; son of Ralph and Christiana Colden (Griffith) Ketchum (q. v.); brother of Maj. William H. Ketchum (q. v.), and of Dr. George Augustus Ketchum (q. v.). He received his early education in the schools of Augusta, Ga., and attended Columbia college. He was a cotton planter in Augusta, Ga., until 1870, at which time he moved to Alabama, and became an extensive planter in Washington County. During the War of Secession, he served in the C. S. Army as colonel of the Thirty-eighth Alabama infantry regiment. He was reared a Presbyterian, but died in the Episcopalian faith. Married: (1) October 12, 1839, at Sand Hills, Augusta, Ga., to Emily Joyce Sims, daughter of Benjamin and Priscilla (Meade) Sims, who lived at that place, the former a member of the legislature of Georgia in 1798, brother of James Sims, a representative from Columbia, Ga., to the State legislature, and of Charles Sims, who served at the battles of Red Branch, Fort Mifflin and Fort Mercer, was at Valley Forge, and was a member of the Cincinnati and pall bearer to the commander in chief, granddaughter of Col. William Sims, a staff officer to Gen. Washington, and of Col. William Meade, of Royal Forest Place, Bedford County, Va., who fought in the French, Indian and Colonial Wars, gave active service during the Revolution, and was a staff officer under Washington, and a member of the Roll of Honor; (2) July 6, 1843, at Mt. Vernon, to Kate Eliza Ewing. Children: 1. Mary Anna, m. Col. Thomas Kilshaw Irwin, both deceased; 2. Alfred Huntington, m. December 22, 1874, to Mary A. Rucker; 3. Charles Colden, m. January 26, 1876, to Sallie E. Williams; 4. Jennie, deceased; 5. Sallie, deceased; 6. Kate, deceased; 7. Ralph, d. in infancy; 8. George, d. in infancy. Last residence: Washington County.

KETCHUM, GEORGE AUGUSTUS, physician, was born April 6, 1825, in Augusta, Ga.; son of Ralph and Christiana Colden (Griffith) Ketchum (q. v.); brother of Col. Charles Thomas Ketchum (q. v.), and of Maj. William H. Ketchum (q. v.). He was prepared for college by private tutors, and was about to enter the sophomore class at Princeton, when his father's failure in business caused him to change his plans, leading him, at the age of sixteen, to accept the position of assistant teacher in the Female academy at Livingston, taught by his former tutor, A. A. Kimball. Later he studied medicine under Dr. F. A. Ross, of Mobile, and was resident medical student in the city hospital for about two years. He took a course of lectures in the Medical college of South Carolina, at Charleston, 1844-1845, and in the spring of the latter year went to Philadelphia, Pa., where he was an interne for four months in the Blocksley almshouse, and a student at the University of Pennsylvania, from which he was graduated M. D., 1846. He immediately began the practice of medicine in Mobile, and in the yellow fever epidemics of 1847 and 1848, he ventured for the first time in the history of medicine to administer large doses of quinine in the early stages of the disease—a practice which afterward became very general in the southern states. He was elected physician to the city hospital in 1848, and during the same year, in conjunction with Dr. J. C. Nott and others, established a private infirmary for the accommodation of sick negroes, which became a prosperous institution and continued in use until the close of the War of Secession. In 1858, he joined with Dr. Nott and others in organizing the Medical college of Alabama, and the following year was elected professor of theory and practice of medicine, and on the resignation of Dr. William H. Anderson, was made dean of the faculty. In 1861, he was one of the four delegates sent from Mobile to the secession convention. He went as volunteer surgeon with the first company of state artillery to Pensacola, and was there commissioned surgeon of the Fifth Alabama infantry, which regiment was soon ordered to Virginia. On his way through Mobile, he was solicited by Dr. Nott to accept a position as surgeon of an organization formed for the defense of the city, as the people of Mobile were almost destitute of medical aid. He accepted that post, and continued in that position until the close of the war.

Dr. Ketchum was at various times before, during and after the war a member of the Mobile city council, and in that capacity was one of the deputation which, in 1865, surrendered the city to Gen. Gordon Granger. In 1847, he took part in the organization of the Medical Association of the State of Alabama, and was its first secretary. He aided in the re-organization of the association in 1868, was its orator in 1870, its president in 1874, and after that date a member of the board of censors of the committee of public health. He was a member of the Mobile Medical Society from its organization and served as its president several times. He was a member of the American Medical Association; of the American Public Health Association; was elected president of the Mobile board of health in 1871, and re-elected annually for many years; was a member of the Ninth International medical congress; and was responsible for securing to the city of Mobile an abundant supply of pure water. He was author of a number of published papers, among which are "Periodicity of Disease," 1851; "Valedictory Address," 1851; "Report on the Diseases of Mobile"; "The Sanitary Needs of the State," 1874, all published in the Proceedings of the Medical Association of Alabama. He was a Democrat. Married: in November, 1848, in Philadelphia, Pa., to Susan Burton, a descendant of one of the original Quaker families who came to America with William Penn. Children: 1. a daughter. Last residence: Mobile.

JUDGE HENDERSON M. SOMERVILLE

KETCHUM, RALPH, merchant, was born January 7, 1780, on Long Island, N. Y., and died in 1852, at Mobile; son of James and Sarah (Burr) Ketchum, who lived in Norwalk, Conn., until they were, with other loyalists, driven out of Norwalk to Long Island during the Revolutionary War, and who moved to St. John, New Brunswick, after the Revolution, and later lived in Kings County and at Woodstock, New Brunswick, the former who followed the sea with his two brothers, all stanch Tories, each commanding ships in the West India trade, the latter a sister-in-law of Jonathan Sturges, a member of the first congress under the constitution from Connecticut, and a cousin of Aaron Burr; grandson of Joseph Ketchum, 2nd; great-grandson of Joseph and Mercy (Lindall) Ketchum, who lived at Norwalk, Conn., the former the first settler who took out what was called home lots in Norwalk, the latter who lived in New Haven, Conn., prior to her marriage, April 3, 1679; great-great-grandson of Henry and Rosamond Lindall. The origin of the Ketchum family is Welsh, and the name has a coat of arms. Mr. Ketchum was a brother of Richard Ketchum, a lieutenant-colonel of the Carleton County militia, from New Brunswick, War of 1812, and a member of the house of assembly for the county of York, New Brunswick, in 1827. He was educated in New Brunswick, and left that place at an early age and went to New York. In 1800, he accompanied his uncle, Josiah Sturges, to Augusta, Ga., where the latter established a commercial house. Mr. Ketchum succeeded to the business, and remained in Augusta until 1835, when he moved to Mobile. He was a Presbyterian, and an elder in the church for thirty years. Married: in 1807, in Woodstock, New Brunswick, to Christiana Colden Griffith, daughter of Col. Benjamin and Mary (Carson) Griffith, the former an officer in the British Army, who participated in the siege of Savannah, the latter a native of Lancaster, Pa.; granddaughter of George Griffith, bishop; and a lineal descendant of Lewellyn ap Griffith, last king of Wales, beheaded because of his Romanist religion. The Griffith family is connected with the New York Coldens and the Pennsylvania Cadwalladers. Children: 1. Rev. Richard Colden, Presbyterian minister, m. to a daughter of Judge A. B. Longstreet; 2. Maj. William H. (q. v.); 3. Col. Charles Thomas (q. v.); 4. Capt. John R., of the C. S. Army, who died in the defense of Atlanta in the first battle fought after the removal of Gen. Johnston; 5. Dr. George Augustus (q. v.). Last residence: Mobile.

KETCHUM, WILLIAM H., cotton broker, major, C. S. Army, was born in 1821, in Augusta, Ga., and died June 25, 1865, in Mobile; son of Ralph and Christiana Colden (Griffith) Ketchum (q. v.); and brother of Col. Charles Thomas Ketchum (q. v.), and of Dr. George Augustus Ketchum (q. v.). He was educated in Augusta, Ga., and moved to Mobile with his parents in 1837. He served in the Mexican War as captain of Co. H, First Alabama regiment of volunteers, Col. John R. Caffey in command. He served under Gen. Zachary Taylor at Camp Belknap on the Rio Grande, and was with Gen. Winfield Scott's army at the time peace negotiations were opened. He was elected captain of the Alabama state artillery in December, 1856, and was commander of a company known as the Continentals. At the beginning of the War of Secession, he went to the front as captain of the famous Ketchum's battery, and took part in the battles of Shiloh and Farmington. He was slightly wounded at Shiloh, and was sent home on sick leave May 25, 1862. After his recovery, he was appointed chief of artillery of Canty's brigade, and commanded three batteries of artillery with the rank of major. While holding that position, he took part in the battles of Resaca, Cassville, and New Hope Church, and was disabled at the latter place. He was sent to Mobile to await orders, and upon his arrival at that place was appointed provost marshal and also commandant of the post under Gen. Dabney Maury. The duties of both positions proved too arduous, and the latter was given to Gen. Thomas Taylor. The position of provost marshal he held until the surrender of Mobile and the evacuation of that place. In mercantile life, he was almost always in the cotton brokerage business, and was at different times in his life associated in that business with W. Berry, Col. T. K. Irwin, and Capt. J. H. Pope. Married: twice. Children: 1. Mary Easton, m. Col. B. S. DeLeon, of Atlanta, Ga.; 2. William H., jr., deceased; 3. Adele, deceased, m. to Dr. Montgomery Inge, of Alabama, left one daughter, Adele Ketchum, who married John Blocker Thornton, of Tuscaloosa. Last residence: Mobile.

KETTIG, WILLIAM HENRY, business man and developer, was born August 6, 1863, at Louisville, Ky.; son of Ernest and Josephine Kettig, who came from Germany and settled in Louisville, Ky., the former a merchant at that place for many years. He was educated in the public schools of Louisville, and finished his education at the University of Heidelberg, Germany. On his return to Louisville, he entered business at that place, starting as office boy for a mill supply house. He was rapidly promoted, and was serving as traveling salesman for the company, when, in 1886, he resigned his position and came to Birmingham. With Maj. Willis J. Milner, he organized the Milner & Kettig Company, which grew in size until it extended through seven states. After being in business for twenty years, the firm, in 1905, sold out to the Crane Company, of Chicago, Ill. Mr. Kettig retained his connection with the new firm and has been manager of the Birmingham branch of the Crane Company since that time. He was for several years a member of the board of aldermen of Birmingham; was president of the Chamber of Commerce; president of the Country Club; and of the Southern Club. During the war between the United States and Germany, he was actively engaged in assisting the government in all public movements necessitated by the war. He was chairman of the first liberty loan committee, and was the active representative of the government in connection with all of the liberty loans. He was a member of the capital issues committee appointed by the government to supervise the issuing of all new securities, and served the government for nearly two years during the war without compensation of any kind. He was chief of engineers with the rank of colonel, on the staff of Gov. Comer, of Alabama state militia. The camp of the Fourth regiment, Alabama national guard, at East Lake, was named Camp William H. Kettig in his honor, August 7, 1913. He is a Democrat; a thirty-second degree Mason, a Knight Templar and a life member of the Mystic Shrine. Married: in December, 1891, to Laura M. Moody, daughter of Maj. W. A. and Mildred Moody, who lived at Birmingham. Children: 1. William H. jr.; 2. Mildred; 3. Dorothy. Residence: Birmingham.

KEY, THOMAS JEFFERSON, editor, was born January 17, 1831, near Bolivar, Hardeman County, Tenn., and died April 5, 1908, at Nashville, Tenn.; son of Chesley Daniel and Narcissus (Bailey) Key, of Albemarle County, Va., who removed to Kentucky when twenty years of age and located later in Jacinto, Miss., and was probate judge of Tishomingo County; grandson of James Key and wife, Miss Daniels, who lived near Madisonville, Ky., and of Dr. Bailey. Francis Scott Key, author of "The Star Spangled Banner," belonged to the same family, and the paternal grandmother was closely related to the line from which Senator John W. Daniels, the eminent Virginia orator and statesman sprang. The farm of the Chesley Daniels adjoined the Monticello lands, home of Thomas Jefferson, and the owner's friendship with his great neighbor led to the name being given to the son. Thomas Jefferson Key removed to Jacinto, Miss., with his parents when a lad and his early education was received in a primitive log school house. He was for a while, 1851, a student in the La Grange college, Alabama. At fourteen years of age he was apprenticed to the publisher of a weekly paper, "The Day Book" at Tuscumbia. In a short time he had mastered the printer's trade and bought the paper which he had served as an apprentice. Soon thereafter, while in his early twenties, he removed to Doniphan, Kans., and began the publication of a Democratic paper there. The agitation about the abolition of the slaves was at its height and the question of Kansas being a free or slave state superinduced great bitterness between parties and especially among publicists. He was elected one of the delegates to frame the state constitution, but the United States congress refused, under the leadership of Stephen A. Douglas of Illinois, to admit Kansas to the Union under this document. Along with other southerners he left that state and located at Helena, Ark., where he edited a Democratic paper. Three years later, 1860, he was elected to the legislature of that state representing Phillips County, and was re-elected. While a member of that body the Ordinance of Secession was passed. At the outbreak of the War of Secession he enlisted as a private but was soon made a lieutenant in Calvert's battery, Gen. Pat Cleburne's division. Later he was given command of the company, and rose to the rank of major. The command came to be known as "Key's Battery" and it made a glorious record, especially during the hundred days fighting in Georgia and in the Tennessee campaign. After the surrender he returned to his home in Arkansas and farmed. Three years later he removed to Corinth, Miss., and farmed and edited a farmer's paper, "The Model Farmer." His success soon required a broader field and he removed to Louisville, Ky., where he began the publication of the "Southern Agriculturist." On account of the health of members of his family he removed to Montgomery, where he continued to publish the "Southern Agriculturist." While there he was appointed assistant commissioner of agriculture by Gov. Thomas G. Jones and held that office five years. Upon the outbreak of an epidemic of yellow fever once more he removed, carrying his paper with him, and settled in Nashville, Tenn., where he remained until his death. He was a Methodist; and an Odd Fellow. Married: February, 1852, at Tuscumbia, to Nancy Helen, daughter of Phillip and Mary (Bowen) Palmer of that place; granddaughter of Judge Benjamin Bowen, of Newport, R. I., of Welsh and English parentage. The Palmers were of Scotch descent. Mrs. Key was a graduate of the Tuscumbia female seminary, and assisted her husband in his editorial duties for more than a quarter of a century. Children: 1. Chesley P., farmer, Stewarts, Tenn.; 2. Julia; 3. Emma; 4. Cleburne, printer, Nashville; 5. Pearl. Last residence: Nashville, Tenn.

KEY, WILLIAM HENRY, lawyer, was born February 8, 1861, at Calhoun, Ga.; son of William Jasper and Harriet T. (Neal) Key, the former a Georgian, who lived at Calhoun, Ga., was a lieutenant in the C. S. Army, and died from wounds received at the battle of Chickamauga; grandson of Pierce and Sarah Key, who moved to Banks County, Ga., from Bedford County, Va., and of William and Luvina Neal, of Banks County, Ga. He was educated in the rural schools of Banks County, Ga.; was graduated from the North Georgia agricultural and mechanical college, A. B., 1883; and from a law course at Washington university, St. Louis, Mo. He entered the practice of law at Hamilton, and later moved to Russellville. He served as county solicitor at one time; and was elected to the State senate from the thirty-first district, 1915. He is a Democrat, a Presbyterian, a Mason, a Knight of Pythias, and a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon college fraternity. Married: April 28, 1891, to Josephine Edwards Wilson, daughter of James Edwards and Josephine Wilson, of Russellville, the former of whom was a Confederate soldier. Residence: Russellville.

KEYES, GEORGE, soldier, planter and public man, was born November 8, 1792, in Washington County, Va., and died June 13, 1833, at Athens; twin-son of John Wade and Louisa (Talbot) Keyes (q. v.) of Virginia who came to Alabama Territory and were pioneer settlers of Athens. He was educated in the schools of his community; and at an early age, entered the Indian War, as a captain; afterward he was made brigadier-general of militia, and bore the title all his life. He was active in all the public affairs of Limestone County, and wielded much power for good throughout the State. Married: in Tennessee, to Nellie Rutledge, of that State. Children: 1. Wade, m. Mamie Whitfield, of Florida (q. v.); 2. John Washington, m. Julia Louisa Hentz, daughter of Caroline Lee Hentz, author (q. v.); 3. George P. (q. v.), m. (1) Fannie Gayle, of Montgomery, (2) Miss Rivers, of Louisville, Ky.; (3) Jennie S. Rainey; 4. a daughter, m. Judge Henry C. Jones, of Florence; 5. a daughter, m. Gen. John Rather, of Tusculumbia. Last residence: Athens.

KEYES, GEORGE P., lawyer, editor and public official, was born September 8, 1829, at Athens, and died in Sheffield, but is buried in the Keyes burying plot, near Athens; son of Gen. George and Nellie (Rutledge) Keyes (q. v.); brother of John Washington (q. v.) and Wade Keyes, jr., (q. v.). His educational advantages were the best; graduated from La-Grange college, in 1847; studied law; admitted to the practice, but relinquished that profession for literary and newspaper work. He edited the "Athens Herald" two years; removed to Montgomery and held office of register in chancery. In 1861, he volunteered for service at Fort Morgan, Mobile; in 1862, was sergeant-major in Hilliard's legion. Incapacitated in the Kentucky campaign, he returned to Montgomery and commanded the home guards, to date of surrender. Re-appointed register in chancery, he held that office until ousted by reconstruction politicians. He was associate editor "Montgomery Advertiser"; in 1880, established "The Alabama Progress;" in 1882, removed to Florence, but later threw his influence to the building of Sheffield, being influential in inducing capital to invest and develop the town, erecting the first frame residence, and later, the first brick residence there. He promoted many enterprises and was active in all interest of the town, to his death. His editorials and other writings made him widely known. He was a Democrat; a Mason; and a Methodist. Married: (1) August, 1859, in Montgomery, to Fannie Gayle; (2) in 1879, in Louisville, Ky., to the daughter of Rev. R. H. Rivers; (3) in 1887, to Jennie S. Rainey, of North Carolina. Last residence: Sheffield.

KEYES, JOHN WADE, sr., soldier of the American Revolution, pioneer settler and planter, was born September 25, 1752, in Mystic, Mass., and died February 13, 1839, at his plantation home, three miles from Athens; son of Capt. Humphrey and Marcella (Wade) Keyes, of Boston, the former a sea captain, who removed, about 1775, to Jefferson County, Shenandoah Valley, Va. He was educated in the schools of his community; volunteered in the Revolutionary army, under Gen. John Thomas, of Virginia; was in the battles of Bunker Hill, Trenton, White Plains, Princeton, Brandywine, and King's Mountain. After the close of the war, he settled near Alexandria, Va.; afterwards removed to Sullivan County, Tenn.; and later located permanently at Athens, Limestone County, where he was among the founders of that city while Alabama was still a territory. He acquired extensive tracts of land and built a large house, in which he lived and died. He was an ardent admirer of Gen. George Washington, and followed him in politics. He and his wife are buried in the old Keyes burying plot, on the old homestead. Married: January 27, 1773, in Alexandria, Va., to Louisa Talbot, a niece of President Monroe. Children: 1. twins, George, m. Nellie Rutledge (q. v.); 2. Washington. Last residence: Athens.

KEYES, JOHN WASHINGTON, physician and dentist, was born November 24, 1825, at Athens, Limestone County, and died November 27, 1892, in Florida; son of Gen. George and Nellie (Rutledge) Keyes (q. v.); grandson of John Wade Keyes (q. v.); brother of George P. (q. v.) and Wade Keyes, jr., (q. v.). He was educated in the schools of Athens; studied medicine; graduated from the Cincinnati dental college, D. D. S., and began practice of dentistry in Montgomery. In 1861, he entered the Confederate service as a member of the Montgomery rifles; 1862, 2nd lieutenant, Co. A, first battalion, Hilliard's Legion; later 2nd lieutenant, Co. F, 60th Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army; resigned in November, 1862, and was assigned surgeon of the 17th Alabama infantry regiment. In 1867, he removed with his family to Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, with the Gunter colony, that left Montgomery to settle in that country, at the invitation of Emperor Dom Pedro. He became dentist to the emperor and the royal family, and was succeeded, upon his resignation of the office, by his son-in-law, Dr. John William Coachman. In the later seventies, he returned to Alabama, and later removed to Wewahatchka, Fla., where he resided until his death. He was a Democrat; a Mason; and a Methodist. Married: November 4, 1846, in Tuskegee, to Julia Louisa, daughter of Nicholas Marcellus and Caroline Lee (Whiting) Hentz (q. v.). Children: 1. Ellen, m. James Hunter; 2. Jennie Rutledge, m. James E. Davidson; 3. Eula Hentz, m. Dr. John William Coachman; 4. Caroline Whiting, m. Ole Pickens; 5. Alice, m. Warren Scott; 6. Julia, m. Frank Branch; 7. Dr. William Baldwin Keyes, m. Annabelle Christy, of London, England; 8. Dr. Charles, m. Emily Longstreet; 9. David, m. Elizabeth Stratford; 10. George, m. Jessie Hentz; 11. Martha, d. young. Last residence: Wewahatchka, Fla.

KEYES, JULIA L., author. Deceased.

KEYES, WADE, jr., lawyer, chancellor and assistant attorney-general of the Confederate States of America, was born in 1821, at Mooresville, near Athens, and died in Florence, but is buried in the Keyes burying plot near Athens; son of Gen. George and Nellie (Rutledge) Keyes (q. v.); grandson of John Wade Keyes (q. v.); brother of George P. (q. v.) and John Washington Keyes (q. v.). He was educated by private tutors, entered LaGrange college, and later the University of Virginia. He studied law in Lexington, Ky., and under Judge Coleman, at Athens. After a tour of Europe, he removed, 1844, to Tallahassee. Author: two volumes on legal subjects, the one on chancery practice won him the chancellorship of the Southern division of Alabama, in 1853, he having returned to Alabama in 1851. In 1861, he was appointed assistant attorney-general, C. S. Army, which position he held throughout the existence of the Confederacy. At the close of the war, he resumed the practice of law, and removed to Florence, where he resided to the day of his death. He was a Democrat; a Mason; and a Methodist. Married: in Florida, to the daughter of Gen. George Whitfield, of Tallahassee. Children: 1. Mary, m. Dr. Charles Boaz Whitfield (q. v.), of Demopolis. Last residence: Florence.

KILBURN, JAMES STERLING, business man and legislator, was born March 3, 1862, in Lauderdale County; son of Russell Marion and Martha Beckwith (Martin) Kilburn, the former of Lawrence County, Tenn., the latter of Florence; grandson of Amos Kilburn and of John M. Martin, of Florence. He is of Irish ancestry. He was educated in the schools of Lauderdale County. He is in the real estate business, and was one of the representatives from Lauderdale County in the legislature of 1911. He is a Democrat; Methodist; Elk; and a Knight of Pythias. Married: February 14, 1895, to Tommie, daughter of Thomas W. and Susan (Tidwell) White, of Florence. Residence: Florence.

KILBY, THOMAS ERBY, banker, manufacturer, State senator, lieutenant-governor, governor, was born July 9, 1865, at Lebanon, Wilson County, Tenn.; son of Peyton Phillips and Sarah Ann (Marchant) Kilby, the former a native of Wilkes County, N. C., successively a resident of Atlanta, Ga., and of Anniston, where he died; grandson of James Wellborn and Rachael (Colvard) Kilby, of Wilkes County, N. C., and of John and Sarah (Phillips) Marchant, natives of Glamorganshire, Wales, but who emigrated to Polk County, Tenn., in 1852. The Kilby family came from England and settled in Boston, Mass., in the 17th century, whence descendants removed to Virginia and North Carolina. Governor Kilby received his early education in the public schools of Atlanta. Upon reaching manhood he removed to Anniston where he began his business career as agent for the Georgia-Pacific railway. He quickly began to reveal his business abilities, and in 1899, in association with the late Oscar

E. Smith, organized and operated the Kilby locomotive and machine plant, of which he was president, later acquiring his partner's interests. In 1903 he was elected vice-president of the Kilby frog and switch company of Birmingham and became president of the City national bank of Anniston in 1905. His interest in civic and political matters was co-incidental with his business growth, and in 1898 he was elected to membership in the city council of Anniston, serving two years. During 1900-05, he was a member of the board of education of his town and during 1905-09 was mayor. Upon Governor Comer's election to office he appointed Mr. Kilby as inspector-general, with rank of colonel on his staff, an honor held through 1907-10. While mayor of Anniston he reorganized the city's finances and dealt with all municipal problems in a constructive way. The business section of the city was paved, forty miles of cement sidewalks were laid, the city's water and light contracts re-written, public service corporations were required to remove the unsightly wooden poles from the main streets, and place them in the alleys, and a "city beautiful" campaign inaugurated that gave to Anniston the sobriquet of the "model city;" bucket shops and gambling joints were abolished and saloons were, under the local option law, voted out, and the will of the people rigidly enforced on that point. Following this work for his city, Col. Kilby made a trip to Europe to study state and municipal systems in the old world. Upon his return he announced his candidacy for the State senate from Calhoun County, to which he was elected serving 1911-15. During his legislative career he brought himself before the people as the earnest advocate of the prohibition laws then upon the statute books, and in 1914 was elected as lieutenant-governor of Alabama, his opponents in the Democratic primaries of April 6th being Scott Chestnut and T. A. Curry, and in the fall election, George Beyer, Republican, C. B. Farman, Progressive, and W. H. Chichester, Socialist. Through this position he became presiding officer of the senate. The unbusinesslike methods of handling financial matters practiced by the legislators convinced him of the need of reforms, which he used every means to inaugurate. The time honored custom of "log-rolling" in the enactment of revenue bills during the last days of a legislative session was so revolting to him that he made a budget system the chief plank in his platform when he announced his candidacy for governor in 1918. On assuming the office of lieutenant-governor he won in a contention with the incoming administration to name the senate committees. During the Comer administration a prohibition law was enacted which made the state bone dry. During Governor O'Neal's administration these statutes were repealed, and it fell to the hands of the legislature elected with Governor Henderson to restore the state to the bone dry column. Lieutenant-Governor Kilby, as second in command, rendered valiant services towards that end by naming a majority of prohibition members on every important committee in the senate, and throughout the session his influence went towards the redemption of pledges he had made during the campaign. While making the race for the governorship the eighteenth amendment to the constitution of the United States was before the people, offering nation-wide prohibition, and involving in the merits of the question the old States Rights principles so steadfastly adhered to by the people of Alabama and the South. A firm stand in favor of the ratification of the amendment was taken by Governor Kilby without harmful effect upon his candidacy. His opponents were William W. Brandon, John H. Wallace, jr., and Charles N. Teasley.

Governor Kilby's inauguration was an imposing event, taking place upon the portico of the south wing of the capitol, preceded by a parade participated in by columns of soldiers just returned home from overseas service, including the famous 167th regiment, of the Rainbow Division, A. E. F., led by Col. William P. Screws; veterans of the War of Secession, units of the Alabama National Guards, and city, county and state officials. The armistice had been signed only about two months earlier and while the governor was making his inaugural address, January 18, 1919, aeroplanes from Wright's Field encircled the crowd from overhead. The legislature that came into office with Governor Kilby recessed after fulfilling its pledges on the main issues of the times, and reconvened in July. In mid-summer of the next year a special session was called, beginning September 24, 1920. Governor Kilby, like Governor Comer, entered upon his duties with a legislature in sympathy with the platform pledges but division arose over the radical reforms proposed by the governor in the reorganization of the State's finances and the business management of the State government. However the chief executive had enough supporters to enact the important statutes advocated by him. One of the first bills to become a law was that creating a budget commission, composed of the governor, attorney general and state auditor. This committee framed financial legislation whereby the State would live within its income during the four years following, and set aside funds with which to reduce materially, if not eliminate, the floating debt estimated at around a million dollars. Other constructive measures passed by the first legislature of the Kilby administration was a school code through which a State board of education was created and many progressive changes made in the educational system. A code commissioner was chosen; good road legislation was passed, and an amendment to the constitution of the State was submitted to the people, permitting the issuance by the State of a twenty-five million dollar bond issue to match that sum appropriated by Congress through the Bankhead good roads bill for highway improvement, the interest on the bonds to be paid from automobile licenses. The system providing for three members of a tax equalization board for each county was amended to provide one tax adjuster for each county in the state except Jefferson County, which was allowed three. A new revenue bill was passed creating a new tax system. In drafting this revenue bill, Governor Kilby first recommended a graduated income tax and an excess profit tax. The latter, however, was later withdrawn, leaving the income tax and a tax of two cents on every ton of coal mined in Alabama to become a law. A workmen's compensation act was passed; an increase in Confederate pensions was made; a bone-dry prohibition law was enacted and a law enforcement department was created; the convict lease system was abolished to become effective January 1, 1923; tax exemptions in favor of foreign capital developing local industries was prohibited for the future; a law was passed requiring State officials to reside in Montgomery.

A special session of the legislature was made necessary in the fall of 1920 when Tennessee became the 36th state to ratify the Susan B. Anthony amendment to the federal constitution enfranchising women. The legislature amended the election laws so as to enfranchise the women of Alabama, who voted in the presidential election of that year for the first time. While the legislature was in session the strike of the coal miners in the Birmingham district developed a situation detrimental to the public welfare and State troops were dispatched to the regions of the disturbance. A commission was appointed to study conditions and upon evidence in the report the legislature authorized the creation of a fuel administrator through whose agency it was proposed that all necessary coal for industrial and domestic uses should be available at fair prices.

During his administration Governor Kilby has twice visited foreign countries, Canada and Mexico, going to the latter country in 1920, officially to attend the inauguration of President Obregon. He is a Democrat; Episcopalian; a 32nd degree Mason; Shriner; and Knight of Pythias. Married: June 5, 1894, in Anniston, to Mary Elizabeth, daughter of Whitfield and Anne Horry (Dent) Clark, of Clayton, Colonel of the 39th Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. A.; granddaughter of John Horry and Mary Elizabeth (Morris) Dent and of James and Harriet (Wise) Clark, of Edgefield District, S. C.; great-granddaughter of Capt. John Herbert and Anne (Horry) Dent, the former an officer in the U. S. Navy, and of James Whitfield Clark, and of Lewis Jacob Wise, both of Edgefield District, S. C. Children: 1. Anne Horry, m. Gilbert E. Porter, III, of Chicago; 2. Oscar Marchant; 3. Thomas Erby, jr., both of Anniston. Residence: Anniston.

KILLEBREW, T. J., manufacturer, was born about 1840, in Georgia; son of Marmaduke N. and Maria L. (Wiggins) Killebrew, who were married in 1839, in Warren County, Ga., lived in Sumter County and Clay County, Ga., then moved to Alabama in 1865, settling in Dale County on the Choctawhatchee River, the former a farmer, miller, and woolen manufacturer. He was reared on the farm and educated by private tutors. At the outbreak of the War of Secession he entered the state militia for six months, then enlisted in the C. S. Army. He was assigned to the eastern army, and served most of the time during the war in garrison duty along the Atlantic coast, though he participated in the three days' battle of Bentonville. He was discharged from the army, April 30, 1865, returned home, and began farming. He continued farming for six years, then became engaged in the manufacture of woolen goods with his father in the firm of Killebrew and son. In 1885, he purchased his father's interest and controlled the entire business. He took an active part in securing the railroad through Newton, and is a stockholder in the company. He is a Democrat and a Methodist. Married: in September, 1865, to Martha S. Blocker, daughter of Stephen S. and Rebecca (Rice) Blocker. She was born and reared in southwest Georgia, and was graduated with first honors from the Southern Masonic female college, Covington, Ga. Children: 1. Oscar D., was graduated from Auburn college, 1889, civil engineer; 2. Ida, was graduated from Wesleyan female college, at Macon, Ga., with extraordinary honors; 3. Adus E.; 4. Thomas J. jr.; 5. Emmett S.; 6. Albert R.; 7. Lila. Residence: Dale County.

KILLEN, HENRY ALEXANDER, business man, was born January 31, 1837, at Bluewater, Lauderdale County; son of John and Susan (Richardson) Killen, the former a native of Averysboro, N. C., who was a major of militia for a number of years; grandson of James and Nancy (McDougal) Killen, and of John and Catherine (Stubbs) Richardson, of Lauderdale County. The Killens were of Irish descent; the McDougals, Scotch; the Richardsons, English; and the Stubbs, Dutch. He received a limited education in the country schools; engaged in farming and merchandising; was elected county commissioner in 1874, and served two successive terms; represented Lauderdale County in the State legislature, 1896, 1898, 1902 and 1906. During the War of Secession, he entered the C. S. Army as first lieutenant of Co. E, Twenty-seventh Alabama infantry regiment, serving throughout the war. He is a Democrat and a Mason. Married: (1) in December, 1860, to Mary Allen, deceased, daughter of Bluford and Telitha (Harrison) Allen, of Lauderdale County; (2) July 26, 1866, to Sallie A., daughter of John and Marcy (Mayfield) Robinson, of the same county. Children: 1. James Sharp, m. Jennie Peden; 2. Nettie Jane, m. R. F. Williams; 3. Mary Cora, m. John Springer; 4. Birdie Lee, m. William Lumpkin; 5. Daniel Fisher, m. Maud Mackey; 6. Robert Bruce, m. Velma Hail; 7. Sallie Cleveland, m. Mead Harwell. Residence: Green Hill.

KILLOUGH, JOHN NEWTON, physician, was born February 21, 1865, at Woodlawn; son of William and Hulda Parmelia (Pool) Killough, who lived and died in Jefferson County, the former a native of Tennessee, a planter who was twice married, and who organized the Five Mile church in the Killough homestead in 1850; grandson of James and Sarah (Mitchell) Killough, who were married in Tennessee in 1797, moved to Alabama in 1820, first locating on a farm near Birmingham, Jefferson County, and moving in 1831 to Huffman, where they established the Killough Place, one of the old time manors of slavery days, and of Mitchell and Mary (Gilbert) Pool, the former a physician, who came to Alabama with a colony from South Carolina, his native state, in 1812; great-grandson of James Killough, who came from Ireland in 1750 with his family and settled in South Carolina. Dr. Killough received his education at Oak Grove high school and at the Kentucky school of medicine, where he was graduated in 1887. He took a post-graduate course in Johns Hopkins university in 1901; began the practice of medicine in Huffman; and in 1901 moved to Woodlawn, where he has continued his practice. He is a member of the Jefferson County medical society, of the State medical association of Alabama, of the American medical association, and is examiner for several insurance companies. He is a Democrat; a ruling elder in the Cumberland Presbyterian church; an Odd Fellow; and a Red Man. Married: September 12, 1895, to Mary Lena, daughter of B. W. and Mary Eaton (Lett) Taylor, of Huffman, the former a farmer who served through the War of Secession in the C. S. Army; granddaughter of Thomas and Polly (Brazil) Taylor; great-granddaughter of Rollen Taylor, who emigrated from South Carolina to Georgia in 1820. Mrs. Killough was graduated from the Alabama conference female college at Tuskegee, M. E. L., 1888. Residence: Woodlawn.

KILPATRICK, JOHN YOUNG, lawyer, planter, was born January 18, 1835, at Scotch-Irish Township, Rowan County, N. C.; son of Rufus Hale and Eliza (Young) Kilpatrick, natives of Rowan County, N. C., who lived at that place, the former a graduate of Hampden-Sidney college, Virginia, who devoted his life to teaching, and moved to Alabama after his wife's death, locating in Marengo County in 1844, and at Grove Hill, Clarke County, in 1846; grandson of Rev. Joseph Dickey and Margaret (Dickey) Kilpatrick, who lived at Third Creek church, Rowan County, N. C., and of John and Margaret (Boroughs) Young, of the same place; great-grandson of William Kilpatrick, a Scotch-Irishman who came to America in 1755 and settled in North Carolina where he was married. His ancestors served with the colonists in the Revolutionary War. He was taught by his father and prepared for the sophomore class in college when he was sixteen years old. As his father's health failed at that time, he did not enter college, but began to teach school. He studied law and was admitted to the bar in September, 1857, and began to practice in Monroeville, Monroe County, late in that year. He moved to Clarke County in January, 1858; served as sub-electron on the Breckenridge and Lane ticket in 1860; refused to act as a delegate to the secession convention from Clarke County that same year; was mustered into the C. S. Army as a private soldier, April 1, 1861; was commissioned first lieutenant of Co. I, Adams' regiment of cavalry, in September, 1861; was promoted to captain, and served in that capacity until the end of the war. He was elected to the legislature from Clarke County in 1863, while serving in the army, and was absent from his company only long enough to attend the sessions. He refused to act as a delegate to the reconstruction convention in 1865, but accepted the election to the state senate from Clarke, Monroe and Baldwin Counties in that year. He moved to Camden in 1866, and continued serving in the State senate until removed from office by the reconstruction acts in 1868. He was a Tilden and Hendricks presidential elector in 1876, and was elected to the State senate from Wilcox County in 1894. He followed the practice of law until he retired in 1903, and for many years controlled farming interests. He is a Democrat; a Presbyterian; a Mason; Knight of Pythias; and a Knight of Honor. Married: (1) August 28, 1862, in Clarke County, to Virginia, who died November 28, 1864, daughter of Morgan and Elizabeth (Dickinson) Carleton, who lived in Clarke County, the former a native of North Carolina, the latter a native of Virginia and a sister of Hon. James S. Dickinson, member of the Confederate congress; (2) in December, 1867, to Mary Ellen Phillips, of Dallas County, who died in 1869, daughter of Dr. John B. and Mary (Swift) Phillips; (3) in 1876, to Lizzie Carleton, cousin of his first wife; (4) in 1882, to Mary Carleton, who died in 1900, sister of Lizzie Carleton, daughter of George and A. Maria (Pogue) Carleton. Children: by third marriage: 1. John Y., jr., register in chancery, m. to Ella Mary Cook, of Camden, child, John Young; 2. Lida May, Camden; by fourth marriage: 3. Dr. George Carleton, physician, Pensacola, Fla.; 4. Rufus Hale, lawyer and railroad man, m. Leila Whitney of Atlanta, Ga., child, George Emmet; 5. Ellen P., Camden; 6. Emmet, teacher. Last residence: Camden.

WILLIAM J. VAIDEN

KIMBALL, ALLEN, physician, was born in November, 1803, at Midway, N. C., and died at Waverly, in 1871; son of Abington and Mary (Allen) Kimball; grandson of Bartholomew and Agnes (Gilliam) Kimball of Granville County, now Henderson, N. C. Dr. Kimball graduated from Medical college, Louisville, Ky., 1827; practiced his profession in Columbia County, Ga., near Ware's Ferry, Tallapoosa River; and near Waverly, Tallapoosa County. He served in the Alabama legislature, 1844-45, and in the senate in 1852-3; was a member of the Secession convention, 1861, and voted against the Ordinance of Secession but after its passage lent all aid possible to the defense of the State, losing in the war that followed a son and two sons-in-law. He was a Whig until 1855, then a Know Nothing and after the war a Democrat. Married: in 1828, to Mary Ann, daughter of Dr. Nathan and Mary (Marshall) Crawford of Columbia County, Georgia, the former was a native of Virginia, cousin to William H. and George Crawford of Georgia and of Chief Justice John Marshall; was a descendant of Rev. Daniel Marshall, chaplain in the Revolutionary War. John Crawford, an early American ancestor, came from Scotland and was killed in Bacon's Rebellion. Children: 1. Mary Isabella, m. Benjamin Walton, killed in War of Secession; 2. Augusta Ann, m. Dr. Robert Rowell;

3. Eugenia Frances, m. Hon. David B. Culbertson, long a representative in congress from Texas, and father of Senator Charles A. Culbertson (q. v.); 4. Amaret, died young; 5. Lunsford, m. Nora Bryant; 6. Nathan Crawford, m. Lula Walton; 7. Aurelia Stella, m. Capt. A. C. Read; 8. Charles Bernadotte, killed in War of Secession; 9. Pamela Jane, m. James Johnson; 10. Rebecca Gertrude, m. Dr. George W. Vines. Last residence: Waverly.

KIMBALL, ISHAM, circuit clerk, register in chancery, planter and merchant, was born March 31, 1797, in Warren County, N. C., and died at a very mature age in Clarke County, son of ——— Kimball and the first of his four wives, a native of North Carolina who removed in 1807 with several of his orphan children to the Tombigbee settlement, on the west side of the river, near McGrews reserve; in 1812 he located on Bassetts Creek, four miles east of Grove Hill, where he married his fourth wife, who with his younger children and some of the family slaves were murdered by the Indians just prior to the attempted massacre of Ft. Sinquefield, a blow which he did not long survive. Isham, sixteen years of age, came under the care of R. R. Harwell who administered upon the father's estate and gave the orphan boy a home. In 1815 he engaged in the mercantile business with a Mr. Taylor and later served as postmaster, register in chancery, and clerk of the circuit court of Clarke County, 1833-49, resigned in the latter year to devote himself to his extensive planting interests. Married: in 1821, to Martha T., daughter of Josiah (or John) and Sarah Carney. She was a native of North Carolina who came with her parents to the river settlements about 1812. Numerous descendants survived him. Last residence: Jackson Community, Clarke County.

KIMBELL, JOHN C., major, 32nd Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army.

KIMBROUGH, GEORGE R., lieutenant-colonel, 19th Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army.

KIMBROUGH, J. R., educator; superintendent of city school, Springville.

KINARD, JOHN, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 82, resided in Randolph County, June 1, 1840, with Barnett Kinard.—Census of Pensioners, 1841, p 148.

KING, EDMUND RUSH, farmer and public official, was born June 16, 1855, in Tuscaloosa County, and died November 22, 1900, at Tuscaloosa; son of Michael A. and Annie S. (Bealle) King, the former a prominent citizen of Huntsville who represented Madison County in the State legislature, 1847, 1849, and 1851; grandson of John S. Bealle, a native of Baltimore and one of the early settlers in Tuscaloosa County. Mr. King attended the schools of Tuscaloosa County, the University of Virginia, and the University of Alabama. He was a planter; sheriff, Tuscaloosa County, 1888-92; circuit clerk, 1892-93; and U. S. deputy marshal, 1893-97. Married: Mellie, daughter of Rev. John C. Foster (q. v.). Children: 1. Tosca; 2. Velma; 3. Georgia Annie; 4. John Foster; 5. Robert M. Last residence: Tuscaloosa.

KING, EDWIN DAVIS, pioneer settler, was born April 12, 1792, in Greene County, Ga.; son of Woodson and Sarah (Cartwright) King, the former of North Carolina, who later removed to Greene County, Ga., the latter of Tennessee; cousin of William Rufus King (q. v.). He was captain under General Floyd's command, in the principal Indian War. He removed to Alabama while it was yet a territory and became a wealthy citizen. He was a trustee of the University of Alabama, one of the projectors of Howard college and Judson female institute, and president of the board of trustees of the latter institution from its beginning until his death. He was a Baptist. Married: Ann Alston Hunter. Children: 1. Porter (q. v.); 2. William D., m. Rebecca Tait; 3. daughter, m. Mr. Yampert; 4. daughter, m. Mr. Lumpkin; 5. daughter, m. Mr. Lumpkin; 6. daughter, m. Mr. Gore. Last residence: Marion.

KING, GEORGE CLARK, planter, public official, was born July 20, 1797, in Bertie County, N. C., and died October 20, 1840, at Summerfield; son of John and Amelia (Slade) King, who lived in Bertie County, N. C., the former who was born and reared in England, and being a Whig, came to America. He was the twin brother of William Gray King, and had two sisters, Hester and Barbara King. He was well educated, and was fitted for a surveyor, lawyer and civil engineer. When he was nineteen years old, being an orphan, he asked his guardian for a settlement, and on being refused, left that part of the state and located near Wilmington. Not long afterward, he moved from North Carolina to Tennessee, near Nashville; lived there for a little more than a year; then moved to Perry County, settling near where Marion now stands on land which they rented from the government. He was elected sheriff of Perry County, and sometime later was elected judge of the county court. In 1837, he moved to Summerfield, Dallas County, where the best girls' school in the state was located, for the purpose of securing an education for his children. Mr. King was very fond of hunting and while on a camp hunt, contracted an illness of malarial nature which resulted in his death in 1840. He was a member of the Methodist church, and was buried at Childers Chapel near Summerfield. Married: July 12, 1817, near Wilmington, N. C., to Elizabeth Downing, daughter of Edward Reasor and Elizabeth (Downing) Byrd, who lived near Wilmington. Children: 1. Edward Byrd, b. October 9, 1819, near Nashville, Tenn., m. Elizabeth Ann Goldsby, of five children born to them, only one survives, Dr. Goldsby King (q. v.); 2. William Thomas Carraway, b. May 1, 1822, near Newbern, m. Maria Louise Coleman, had three children who all died young; 3. Ann Amelia, b. October 2, 1824, near Greensboro, m. John Whilfred Lapsley, lawyer, surviving children, Mrs. Kellar of Miami, Fla., and Mrs. G. B. Deans of Washington, D. C.; 4. Jacqueline Louisa, b. October 26, 1827, near Greensboro, m. Dr. C. B. Moore of Summerfield, surviving children, Mrs. H. S. D. Mallory of Selma, Mrs. J. A. O. Riddle of Birmingham, and Rev. Byrd L. Moore of Summerfield; 5. Sophia Clark, b. March 1, 1831, near Greensboro, m. Robert Dannel Sturdivant, planter, had thirteen children, three of whom died in infancy, and Walter J., of Marion, Mrs. C. E. King of Marion, Mrs. R. S. Browning, sr., of Selma, Juliette, of Felix, Louise Lafayette, of Birmingham, Amelia Lapsley of Felix, Robert Dannel, of Berlin, Sophia Clark, of Felix, William Gray, of Felix, and Mrs. N. L. Tate, of Summerfield; 6. Alabama, b. October 2, 1834, in Summerfield, d. in 1841; 7. Elizabeth White, b. January 7, 1837, in Summerfield, unmarried; 8. George Faulkner, b. April 7, 1841, unmarried. Last residence: Summerfield.

KING, GOLDSBY, physician and surgeon, was born April 29, 1860, at Selma, and died April 5, 1920, at that place; son of Edward Byrd and Elizabeth Ann (Goldsby) King, the former a native of Nashville, Tenn., a graduate of the University of Alabama, read law, was admitted to the bar, practiced in Selma until his death, served in Co. B, 8th Alabama cavalry regiment, and was judge advocate on General Clanton's staff; grandson of George Clark and Elizabeth Downing (Byrd) King (q. v.), the former a native of North Carolina, who removed to Alabama, was first sheriff of Perry County, and afterwards probate judge of that county, and of Col. Thornton Boykin and Sarah Smith (Ware) Goldsby (q. v.); great-grandson of Edward R. Byrd, who was educated at William and Mary college; great-great-grandson of Edward R. Byrd, sr., of Virginia, who later settled on the Albemarle Sound in North Carolina. Dr. King received his academic training in the private schools of Selma and was graduated from the Medical college of South Carolina, with the degree of M. D., in 1880. After one year's service as house surgeon and physician in the Charleston, S. C., city hospital, he came to Selma in 1881 where he was city and county physician, 1883-84, and for some time surgeon of the city hospital. He spent the year 1885 in Heidelberg in study, and in 1889 was at Johns Hopkins, Baltimore, Md. On December 6, 1896, Dr. King opened the first private hospital in Selma. The Goldsby King hospital which was still in operation at the time of his death was a splendid institution and one of the best equipped in the State. He was a Presbyterian. Married: October 11, 1883, in Selma, to Annie, daughter of Dr. Chauncey Williams and Mary Rand (Kenan) Graham, of Kenansville, N. C., later of Alabama; granddaughter of Thomas Kenan, representative in congress from North Carolina; great-granddaughter of Gen. James Kenan, of the Revolutionary army. Both the Kenans and the Grahams were early settlers of North Carolina from Ireland and Scotland respectively. Children: 1. Annie Graham; 2. Dulie Agee; 3 and 4. boys, died in childhood. Last residence: Selma.

KING, GRACE ELIZABETH, author, was born November 29, 1852, at New Orleans, daughter of William Woodson and Sarah (Miller) King (q. v.). She was educated in the French schools of New Orleans, and began writing in 1881, achieving success with her first story published in "The New Princeton Review." She is a member of the Louisiana historical society, of which she was for years vice-president, member of the Author's league of America, and the Royal society of arts, of England. Her interpretation of the Creole life of Louisiana has given her a permanent place in American letters. Her best known books are "Monsieur Motte"; "Earthlings"; "Bayou l'Ombre"; "Madeline Chevalier"; "Alain de Triton"; "Tales of time and place"; "New Orleans: the place and the people"; "Jean Baptiste le Moyne, founder of New Orleans"; "Balcony stories"; "De Soto and his men"; in collaboration with Prof. John R. Ficklen a "History of Louisiana." Unmarried: Residence: New Orleans, La.

KING, HUGH M., lawyer. Deceased. Last residence: Evergreen.

KING, JAMES, Methodist minister, was born December 10, 1782, in North Carolina, and died January 12, 1870, in Wilcox County. He joined the Methodist church in 1800; was licensed an exhorter in 1805; licensed to preach in 1806; ordained deacon in Wilmington, N. C., in 1816; and remained in North Carolina until 1818. On April 21, 1819, he removed with his family to Alabama, locating in Alabama Town. He served Alabama Town and Philadelphia, now Montgomery, being the first licensed minister to preach in the latter city. In the winter of 1819, he removed to Conecuh River, serving two appointments, one above and the other below the Florida line. The following year he located in the Burnt Corn settlement. He was ordained elder at the Belleville church in 1822 and continued to travel throughout that section until 1834, when he removed to middle Tennessee. In 1835 he returned to Alabama, locating in Wilcox County and serving this and adjoining counties. In 1851 he removed to the west coast of Florida, later returning to Alabama and serving Lowndesboro District, Dale, Pike and Sumter Counties, and the southern portions of Mississippi. Married: (1) in 1802, to Priscilla ———; (2) in 1832, to Mrs. Register. Children, by first wife, 1. Sarah Ann, m. Alfred G. Moore; 2. Mary, m. Harvell Armstrong; 3. Drusilla, m. John Sampey, grandparents of John Richard Sampey (q. v.); and another daughter and son. Last residence: Wilcox County.

KING, JERE CLEMENS, lawyer, was born February 13, 1870, near Greenville, Butler County; son of Thomas Carter and Mary J. (Grand) King, the former a native of Dallas County, who lived at Fort Deposit and Greenville, was first sergeant and later lieutenant in Co. K, Seventeenth Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army, and represented Butler County in the State legislature, 1888-1889; grandson of John and Mary (Day) King, who lived at Three Runs, Butler County, and of James Grant, of Hickory Flax, Chambers

County; great-grandson of Allen King, an Englishman, who settled in Goldsboro, N. C. Mr. King obtained his early schooling in Butler County; attended the Ft. Deposit institute, Ft. Deposit school, the Highland Home college, and spent one year at the Agricultural and mechanical college, Auburn. He was elected clerk of the circuit court, Butler County, serving four years; attended lectures at the law school of the University of Virginia, 1896; was admitted to practice before the supreme court of Alabama, 1897, and the supreme court of the United States, 1901; practiced at Houston, Tex., 1897; at Huntsville, 1898-1903, and during that time was for two and one-half years a member of the firm of King and Bankhead; was elected to the house of representatives from Jefferson County in 1907; and is actively engaged in the practice of his profession at Birmingham. He is a Democrat; a Presbyterian; a Knight of Pythias; and a Mason. Married: December 5, 1900, at Franklin, Ky., to Martha, daughter of Henry and Mary (Summers) Munford, of Glasgow, Ky.; granddaughter of William E. Munford, and of Kirkland Summers. Children: 1. Ruth Munford, d. in infancy. Residence: Birmingham.

KING, JOHN JONES, planter, was born February 19, 1855, at McKinley, Marengo County; son of Dr. Shubal Starnes and Lucy Elizabeth (Crawford) King, the former a native of Madison County, a physician in Marengo County, who served four years in the C. S. Army, in the Forty-third Alabama infantry regiment, and was wounded at Shiloh; grandson of Col. Henry and Nancy (Wellborn) King, and of Stephen Gibson and Lucy (Bridges) Crawford; great-grandson of Charles King of North Carolina, a first cousin of William R. King, vice president of the United States. Mr. King received his education in private schools in Marengo County. He is a farmer and a planter; was elected to the lower house of the State legislature, 1884-1885; served as collector of customs at the port of Mobile during Cleveland's second term; represented Marengo County in the constitutional convention of 1901; and was a State senator, 1907-1910. He is a Democrat, having served as a member of the Marengo County executive committee for thirty consecutive years, was its chairman, 1894-1896, and a member from the first district of the State executive committee, 1902-1906. He is a Royal Arch Mason, and a Knight of Pythias. Married: May 4, 1884, at Livingston, to Fannie Julia, daughter of Col. Isaiah Chapman and Mary Anne (Bestor) Brown. Children: two adopted; 1. Mary Lucy King, d. September, 1906; 2. Mary Carter Adams. Residence: Consul.

KING, JOSEPH, soldier of the American Revolution. "About the 30 ultimo, in Wilcox County, Alabama, Mr. Joseph King, aged about seventy years, and believed to be a native of South Carolina; in which state he officiated as a chaplain during the Revolutionary War. He died seized of considerable property, which, as he had no kin in the county, must escheat to the State, unless his relatives supposed to reside in Upper Alabama and South Carolina, present their claims within the time prescribed by law."—Southern Advocate, Huntsville, Ala., June 30, 1826.

KING, PORTER, lawyer, was born April 30, 1824, in Perry County, and died January 3, 1890, in Atlanta, Ga.; son of Gen. Edwin Davis and Ann Alston (Hunter) King (q. v.). He was educated at the University of Alabama, and attended Brown university, Providence, R. I., 1842-1843. He began to study law in 1843 under Col. Thomas Chilton in Marion, was admitted to the bar in 1845, and began the practice of law. He was elected to the legislature from Perry County in 1847, served one term, and spent the following two years on his plantation. After that time, he returned to his law practice in Marion, and in 1850 was elected judge of the circuit court. He served as judge until in the early part of 1861, when he called his grand jury together, and handed in his resignation as judge in order to enter the C. S. Army. He proceeded at once to Marion, and was made captain of a company of volunteers, composed mainly of students from Howard college. The company became part of the Fourth Alabama infantry regiment, and Judge King commanded it for one year. At the end of that time, he was re-called to his post of circuit judge, and continued on the bench until ousted by Military Governor Parsons in 1865. From that time until his death, he devoted his attention to his planting and financial interests. In 1877, he was appointed judge of probate, but resigned that position two years later. He was a director in the Central City insurance company and the Commercial bank of Selma, and was instrumental in the construction of the Selma, Marion and Memphis railroad, of which he was president until succeeded by Gen. Forrest. He was for many years a trustee of the State university and of the hospital for the insane; was a member of the board of trustees of Howard college for twenty years; was president of the board of trustees of Judson female institute for twenty years, succeeding his father in that position; was vice president and treasurer of the Educational, land and development company of Florence; was leading deacon and superintendent of the Sunday school of the Siloam Baptist church; was a Democrat; and a Knight Templar. Married: (1) February 25, 1849, at Greensboro, to Margaret Erwin, who died in 1850, daughter of Col. John Erwin, a distinguished lawyer of Greensboro; (2) February 19, 1852, at Athens, Ga., to Callender McGregor, daughter of Joseph Henry and Callender (Grieve) Lumpkin, the former of whom was chief justice of the supreme court of Georgia. To his second marriage, eight children were born, five of whom died in infancy; the following survive: 1. Joseph Henry Lumpkin, lawyer, Anniston; 2. Porter, b. November 24, 1857, in Marion, was graduated from Howard college in 1876, was admitted to the bar, practiced in Opelika, then in Atlanta, Ga., for twenty years, was a member of the law firm of King and Anderson, member of the city council, 1890-1891, mayor of Atlanta, 1895-1896, captain on the staff of the colonel of the Fifth regiment, Georgia national guard, member of the Georgia legislature from Fulton County, two different times, deceased, m. November 21, 1883, in Talladega, to Carrie Elston, daughter of David Hamilton and Nettie Caroline (Elston) Remsen, children, Remsen and Callender; 3. Thomas, connected with the Bessemer steel works, Troy, N. Y. Last residence: Marion.

KING, ROBERT HANSFORD, farmer, teacher and legislator, was born June 7, 1866, at Cedar Plains, Morgan County; son of John McMillan and Mary Frances (Speak) King, the former a native of Morgan County, enlisted July 5, 1862, in Co. I, 5th Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army, served through the war under Gen'ls. Wheeler, Forrest and Roddy; grandson of Burton and Susan (McMillan) King, the former came to Alabama in 1844, but in 1851 removed to Missouri, and of Wiley and Elizabeth (Murphey) Speak, the former fought under Gen. Andrew Jackson and assisted in subduing the Indians in Alabama and Florida; great-grandson of John Henry King and of William Jasper Speak, the former came to America from Ireland and settled in Illinois, the latter a native of England, who settled near Mecklenburg, N. C. Mr. King was educated in the public schools of Cedar Plains and Hartselle. He is a farmer and teacher, having followed his profession since 1880. He represented Morgan County in the legislature of 1915. He is a Democrat. Unmarried. Residence: Falkville.

KING, SIBLEY PAUL, business man, was born June 5, 1860, at Sibley Mills, Baldwin County; son of Nathaniel and Salome Elizabeth (Sibley) King, the former a native of Montevallo, later resided at Enterprise, Miss., returned to Montevallo, where he died November 19, 1863, graduate South Carolina college, member Alabama legislature; grandson of Edmund and Nancy (Ragan) King, and of Origen and Elizabeth (Barlow) Sibley; great-grandson of Edmund and Elizabeth (Woodson) King, of Virginia. He received his early education from governesses and later attended Barton academy, Mobile, and afterward the Mobile military academy. He has taken interest in military matters since his school days, holding office in the Alabama national guard. His business connections are numerous and include real estate, banking and manufacturing interests. He is a Democrat; an Odd Fellow; a Hoo Hoo; and a member of all leading business and civic organizations of his city. Unmarried. Residence: Birmingham.

KING, WILLIAM HUGH MEANS, lawyer, editor and teacher, was born May 28, 1832, near Madison, Morgan County, Ga., and died June 5, 1914, at Evergreen, Conecuh County; son of William Torian and Louisa Hammond (Means) King, both natives of Morgan County, Ga.; grandson of Dr. William and Mary (Torian) King, of Greensboro, Ga., but later residents of Tuskegee, and of Hugh and Winifred (Hammond) Means, of Morgan County, Ga. The original ancestors of the Kings, Torians and Hammonds emigrated to America from England and settled in Virginia. The Means were of Scotch-Irish descent and lived first in South Carolina. William Hugh Means King attended the neighborhood schools during his boyhood and entered Franklin college, now the University of Georgia at Athens, in August, 1850, graduating first in his class three years later. He read law in the office of Francis Stebbins Bartow, who later became brigadier-general, C. S. A., and entered upon the practice in 1854, in Columbus, Ga. Later he removed to Hamilton and finally to Bainbridge, Ga. Following the war period, he located in Tuskegee but removed to Evergreen. He was elected mayor of Bainbridge, Ga., in 1860, and in 1892 was mayor of Evergreen, holding the office three terms. He was principal of the academies at both Greenville and Evergreen. He enlisted as a volunteer for Confederate service and was elected captain of the Hardee Rifles, which became Company H, 5th Georgia infantry regiment. He served as a special aide to Gen. R. H. Anderson and was complimented for gallantry in the attack on Santa Rosa Island; was promoted to major on the staff department, C. S. Army, and served as brigade adjutant under General Anderson, and also under Generals Kirby Smith and Braxton Bragg. In February, 1863, he was ordered by General Bragg to report to Gen. Joseph Wheeler, with the rank of colonel, with instructions to collect eight unattached cavalry companies and form a regiment, which he was to command. The exigencies of the times in military matters made it impossible to assemble these troops as they were scattered over several states, and he remained with General Wheeler, ranking staff officer. He served throughout the war, taking part in a number of the greatest battles and in eighty-five smaller conflicts and was wounded three times. Realizing at the end that surrender was inevitable he left the army for his home, the day before General Lee met Grant at Appomattox. He was a Democrat; and a Mason. Editor: "Bainbridge Argus," Bainbridge, Ga.; "Macon Mail," Tuskegee; "The Evergreen Star," Evergreen. He wrote various short articles and a number of poems for the current press, and outlined a history of Alabama which he never completed. Married: (1) December 20, 1856, in La Grange, Ga., to Janie, daughter of William and Sabrina (Watson) Varner, of Tuskegee; (2) January 11, 1870, to Elizabeth, daughter of John Hunt and Lydia (Moore) Gordon, of Opelousas, La. Children: by the first wife: 1. Vesta; by the second wife: 2. Ethel; 3. Pauline; 4. Hugh M., jr.; 5. Dr. Gordon, New Orleans, La. Last residence: Evergreen.

KING, WILLIAM RUFUS, lawyer, diplomat, and vice-president of the United States, was born April 7, 1786, in Sampson County, N. C., died April 18, 1853, at Cahaba, Dallas County, and is buried in Selma; son of William and Margaret (Devane) King, the former of Sampson County, N. C., who rendered important service to his country during the Revolutionary War, was a member of the convention which was called to adopt the federal constitution, and was often a delegate from his county to the general assembly; grandson of Thomas Devane, of Huguenot stock, and of William and Mary (Woodson) King, of North Carolina; great-grandson of Drury and Lucy (Christian) Woodson. His early King ancestors came from the north of Ireland, and settled on the James River, in the colony of Virginia. He was educated in private schools and graduated from the University of North Carolina in 1803. Afterwards he studied law in the office of William Duffy, of Fayetteville, N. C., and was admitted to the bar in 1805. Locating at Lincoln, in his native county, he opened an office and in 1808 was elected a member of the state legislature; was reelected but resigned after his election as solicitor of the Wilmington district. At the age of twenty-four, in 1810, he was chosen to the United States congress, continuing as a member and supporting the measures of the Madison administration until 1816 when he was offered the position of secretary of legation to the American embassy at Petersburg. He remained abroad for two years, traveling a great deal, and being closely associated with William Pinckney, the envoy-extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary to Russia. When he returned from abroad the territory of Alabama was being organized and he soon determined to locate in this section of the country. He secured a residence and plantation near Cahaba, in Dallas County, and in 1819 was elected from this county as a delegate to the convention which framed the first constitution of the State. He was a member of the sub-committee which drafted that instrument. When the first general assembly met in 1819 he was almost unanimously chosen to one of the seats in congress to which the State was entitled, was twice re-elected, and served from December 14, 1819, until April 15, 1844. During the latter year, the relation of the United States with the foreign powers had become very sensitive in consequence of the proposed annexation of Texas and he was prevailed upon to accept the mission as minister to France where he rendered extraordinary service to his country and where he remained until 1846 when he resigned and returned home. In the summer of 1848 he was appointed by Governor Chapman to the seat in the United States senate left vacant by the resignation of Arthur P. Bagby. He was re-elected, serving from July 1, 1848, to January 18, 1853, when he resigned and was elected president pro tempore of the senate, May 6, and July 11, 1850, resigning as president pro tempore, December 11, 1850. He was nominated for the vice presidency on the ticket with General Pierce in 1852 and was elected to this office by a large majority. While serving in the senate he contracted tuberculosis and in 1853 was forced to spend the winter in Cuba. By a privilege extended by special act of congress, he took the oath of office, in Havana, Cuba, on March 4, 1853. As there was no improvement in his health he returned to Alabama, arriving in Cahaba the day before his death. He was unmarried. Last residence: Cahaba.

KING, WILLIAM WOODSON, lawyer, was born January 1, 1813, in Griffin County, Ga., and died at New Orleans, La., in 1881; son of Edmund and Nancy (Ragan) King, grandson of Edmund, sr., and Elizabeth (Thomas) King, and of Jonathan Ragan of Georgia. Mr. King's father removed to Alabama in 1817; in their journey the family were protected and guided by the Indian chief Weatherford, and settled on the site of the present Montevallo. At the age of four, he could read and was educated by a private tutor in a schoolhouse built by his father. In 1830 he entered Transylvania college, Lexington, Ky., graduating in 1833 with first honors in a class which contained Cassius Clay, John Breckenridge, Joe Bullock, and Alexander B. Meek. He entered the University of Virginia where he studied law for two years, and after completing that course made a long visit to Washington, guest of his relative, Senator, later Vice-President, William R. King, who introduced him to many of the intellectual giants of that day. In December, 1835, he settled in New Orleans; was admitted to the bar opened an office for the practice of law in partnership with his friend and classmate, William A. Elmore. In 1859 he retired from the practice with a large fortune and became a sugar planter, but his estates were swept away by the war, and he returned to New Orleans in 1865 penniless, with a large family to support. Although at first debarred from practice on account of the rigors of the "Ironclad Oath" demanded by the Federal authorities he soon overcame obstacles and established himself and family in comfort. He was sent to the Louisiana senate in 1854, and was made reporter of the supreme court. He wrote volumes V and VI of the Louisiana annuals, 1850-1851. He was a Democrat; and a Baptist. Married: (1) May 18, 1840, to Catherine Drish, of Demopolis; (2) in 1848, to Sarah Ann, daughter of Branch W. Miller of New Orleans. Children: by the first wife: 1. John R. D., who served through the War of Secession as captain of an Alabama company, and afterwards became a Methodist minister, deceased; 2. Edmund, who served in the Confederate artillery at Fort Morgan, later becoming a Presbyterian minister and lived at Enterprise; by second wife, 3. Frederick D., presiding judge of civic district court of New Orleans; 4. Grace Elizabeth (q. v.); 5. Annie Ragan; 6. Nina Ansley; 7. Branch M., deceased; 8. William A., deceased; 9. May Ford, deceased, m. Franklin Brevard McDowell. Last residence: New Orleans.

KINGHAM, HENRY, Episcopal clergyman, for a number of years a resident of Alabama, was born in the parish of Ellesborough, Buckinghamshire, England, March 13, 1864, and died about 1908 at Scroon Lake, N. Y.; son of Joshua and Sarah Kingham. Rev. Mr. Kingham received his preparatory education at Christ church school, Luton, Burfordshire, and St. Paul's college, Burgh; entered St. Augustine's college, Canterbury, 1885, and in November, 1887, received the college diploma, hood and benediction after passing the examinations for entrance into the ministry of the Church of England. He came to the United States the same year. He has served churches in the west and east and accepted a call to Trinity church, Florence, in November, 1896. Residence: Scroon Lake, N. Y.

KINNARD, JOHN, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 70, and a resident of Marengo County; private S. C. Militia; enrolled on September 5, 1834, under act of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $20.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in vol. xiv, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34. He resided in Marengo County, June 1, 1840, aged 77.—Census of Pensioners, 1841, p. 149.

KIRBY, ANDREW J., soldier of the American Revolution, aged 25, resided in Jackson County, June 1, 1840, with John McReynolds.—Census of Pensioners, 1841, p. 148.

KIRBY, ATTICUS DICKSON, merchant, was born June 16, 1868, at Summerville, Chattooga County, Ga.; son of Francis Andrew and Harriet Ann (Shropshire) Kirby, the former a lawyer, who served in the State legislature, 1854-1860, was judge of the superior court of the Rome circuit in 1868 and 1870, and resigned to take a position in Washington, D. C., which he had to give up because of ill health; grandson of Francis and Mary Barry (Lawson) Kirby, and of Wesley and Nancy (Swanson) Shropshire, all of Chattooga County, Ga.; great-grandson of Spencer and Frances (Pollard) Shropshire, the former the son of an English clergyman, Wingfield Shropshire, who first came to Boston, thence to Halifax County, Va. Mr. Kirby obtained his early schooling in Summerville; attended Emory college, 1889-1890; served as town councilman of Summerville, 1901; was occupied as a traveling salesman, 1893-1901; entered the mercantile business in West Huntsville, 1901; represented Madison County in the State legislature, 1907. He is a Democrat; an Odd Fellow; and an Elk. Married: April 2, 1901, to Zaida, daughter of Jesse Edward and Virginia E. (Wood) Brown, of Scottsboro, the former a soldier in the C. S. Army, and the latter a granddaughter of Jeremiah and Mary A. (Williams) Brown. Residence: Huntsville.

KIRBY, EPHRAIM, first superior court judge of Mississippi Territory, was born February 23, 1757, at Judea Society, Ancient Woodbury, Conn., and died October 20, 1804, at Fort Stoddert; son of Abraham and Eunice (Starkweather) Kirby, who were married May 31, 1756; grandson of Roger and Martha Kirby, the former born 1698; great-grandson of John Kirby; great-great-grandson of Joseph Kirby of Hartford, Conn., who emigrated from Warwickshire, England, early in the seventeenth century. Judge Kirby was educated at Yale college but left without taking a degree. In 1787 Yale conferred upon him an honorary degree of Master of Arts. After the Revolutionary War he entered the law office of Reynold Marvin in Litchfield, Conn., and after diligent study was admitted to the bar. He practiced law for several years in Litchfield and represented that district in the Connecticut legislature from 1791 until 1801 when he was appointed by President Jefferson, supervisor of internal revenue and direct tax for the State. In 1803 he was made land commissioner. He was one of the original thirty-five proprietors of the Western Reserve in Ohio and one of the first board of directors of that company. He was appointed by President Jefferson, first superior court judge for the Mississippi territory on April 6, 1804. He immediately proceeded to his post, Fort Stoddert, on the Alabama River, near the present Mount Vernon, where he died a few months later. At the outbreak of the Revolution he joined a company of volunteers and fought at Bunker Hill, later enlisted in a volunteer cavalry company, December 24, 1776, and was discharged August 7, 1778. In the engagement at Elk River he received seven sabre cuts on the head. At one time he was a lieutenant in Rhode Island company. He was in nineteen battles and skirmishes and received thirteen wounds. After the war he was colonel of the 17th regiment Connecticut militia. He was a staunch Democrat, an Episcopalian, and first general grand high priest of the Royal Arch Masons of the United States, 1798-1804. He compiled and published in 1789 the first volume of law reports ever issued in America, reports of cases adjudged in the superior court of the State of Connecticut from the year 1785 to May, 1788. He wrote the pledge and organized the first temperance society in America. Married: March 17, 1784, in Litchfield, Conn., to Ruth, only daughter of Judge Reynold and Ruth (Welch) Marvin. Children: 1. Frances Kirby, m. Joseph Lee Smith, son of Elnathan Smith and Chloe Lee, both of New Britain, Conn., parents of the famous Confederate, Gen. Edmund Kirby Smith, m. Cassie Selden, daughter of Samuel Marshall and Caroline (Hart) Selden; 2. Harriet, died in infancy; 3. Reynold Marvin, m. (1) Harriett W. Larned, (2) Mary Barclay; 4. Edmund, m. Eliza Brown; 5. Ephraim; 6. Harriet, m. Frances S. Belton; 7. Helen, m. Benjamin A. Putnam; 8. Catherine, m. Joseph P. Russell. Last residence: Ft. Stoddert.

THOMAS H. MOLTON

KIRK, DOLLY WILLIAMS, teacher and author, was born October 28, 1863, at Tuscaloosa; daughter of George Hamilton and Julia Anne (Owen) Kirk, the former a native of Burlington, Ind., who later lived at Cincinnati, Ohio, Tuscaloosa, and New Orleans, La., coming South when young, was southern in sympathies during the War of Secession, and engaged in the manufacture of gunpowder for the Confederacy; granddaughter of James and Margaret (Somerville) Kirk, both natives of Scotland, and of Thomas and Dolly Payne (Williams) Owen of Tuscaloosa; cousin of Thomas M. Owen (q. v.). Many of her ancestors were prominent in the early history of Virginia and North Carolina, one of them, Richard Owen, was commissioner of Guilford County, N. C., during the Revolution. She received her education in Mandeville and New Orleans, La., graduating with first honors from the high school in the latter city. She attended Sophie Newcomb college for a session, and later after adopting the teaching profession, studied at Chautauqua, N.

Y., the University of Michigan and at Columbia university. She began teaching in the grammar schools of Montgomery in 1894; was appointed to the high school force, and made head of the department of English in 1917. On account of ill health she later resigned her connections with the public schools. She is a member of the Tintagil club; the Frances Marion Chapter, D. A. R. Author: jointly with Frances Nimmo Greene, of "With Spurs of Gold, heroes of chivalry and their deeds," 1905; also a number of poems, produced in the current press and magazines. Unmarried. Residence: Montgomery.

KIRK, JAMES THOMAS, lawyer, was born April 7, 1858, near Russellville, Franklin County; son of James Thomas and Louisa M. (Cleere) Kirk, of Franklin County; grandson of James M. Kirk, a North Carolinian, who moved to Franklin County, and served through the Seminole War, and of George D. Cleere, a planter and merchant of Lawrence County. He was educated in the common schools of Franklin and Lawrence Counties; began to study law in the office of J. B. Moore of Tuscumbia; was admitted to the bar in 1880; engaged in the practice of law at Tuscumbia, 1880; formed a partnership with E. B. Almon under the firm name of Kirk and Almon, 1886; was a delegate to the constitutional convention of 1901, from Colbert County. He is a Democrat, and a Presbyterian. Married: December 16, 1886, at Tuscumbia, to Ella P., daughter of Gen. John D. Rather. Residence: Tuscumbia.

KIRKLAND, WILLIAM, soldier of the American Revolution, aged 72, and a resident of Autauga County; private S. C. State Troops and Militia; enrolled on January 11, 1833, under act, of Congress of June 7, 1832, payment to date from March 4, 1831; annual allowance, $72.33; sums received to date of publication of list, $217.—Revolutionary Pension Roll, in Part 3, vol. xiii, Sen. doc. 514, 23rd Cong., 1st sess., 1833-34.

KIRKLAND, WILLIAM WASHINGTON, lawyer, was born April 7, 1864, near Abbeville, Henry County, and died February 19, 1906, at Ozark, Dale County; son of Washington and Martha Ann (Murphy) Kirkland, the former a soldier in the C. S. Army, who was killed in battle near Columbus, Ga. He attended summer school at old Oak Grove, Baptist church, Henry County; farmed and merchandised for some time; studied law and was admitted to the practice in 1891; began the practice of law at Ozark, 1891; served as mayor of Ozark, 1897-1899; represented Dale County in the constitutional convention of 1901; was on the national Democratic electoral ticket from the state at large, 1900; was a Methodist; and a Mason. Married: near Echo, Dale County, to Laura, daughter of James M. and Mary J. Mathews. Residence: Ozark.

KIRKMAN, SAMUEL, merchant, cotton expert and race horse breeder, was born in 1832, in Florence, where he died, and is buried in Nashville, Tenn.; son of Thomas and Elizabeth (McCulloch) Kirkman, the former a native of Belfast, Ireland, of Scotch-Irish ancestry, the latter from Tennessee, whence they removed to Florence, in 1821, where he merchandised for forty years, in addition to having an interest in an iron furnace on the Cumberland river, in Tennessee, a plantation in Mississippi, and with his uncle, James Jackson, was interested in "The Forks," where race horses were bred and which interest imported from England, "Leviathan," "Glencoe," and other famous horses, during the three decades included in the twenties, thirties and forties, and later became sole owner of the turf interests of the firm, which included "Peytona," who in 1844 won the great race over the eastern horse, "Fashion," at the Long Island race course for a purse of one hundred thousand dollars; grandson of Thomas and Ellen (Jackson) Kirkman, who migrated from Ireland, and settled at Nashville where they invested largely in lands, and where they established a wholesale mercantile business with a branch house in New Orleans; great-grandson of Major Kirkman of the British Army and his wife, Barbara Carroll, niece of the Bishop of Ely, and who in their old age joined their son in Tennessee, and are buried in Nashville, in the family plot where five generations of the family sleep. Mr. Kirkman received his education in the public schools, entered at eighteen the senior class of Harvard university from which he graduated in 1850. Upon returning to Florence he entered his father's store as a clerk, but soon located in St. Louis, Mo., where he became the senior member of the commission firm, Kirkman and Luke. Eight years later he returned to Florence. He invested a considerable sum in a cotton factory in Tuscaloosa which was burned with its contents of seven hundred bales of cotton by the Federal troops under General Wilson's orders, 1865. After the close of the War of Secession he engaged in cotton buying and became a cotton expert and statistician. He was a Democrat; Presbyterian; and a member of the Phi Beta Kappa college fraternity. Married: in 1858, at Nashville, Tenn., to a daughter of Mr. James Wood. Children: 1. Elizabeth, m. Emmett O'Neal (q. v.); 2. Susie, m. ——— Vaughan. Last residence: Florence.

KIRKPATRICK, CLIFTON, planter, was born April 29, 1863, near Cahaba, Dallas County; son of Samuel McCurdy and Sarah Catherine (West) Kirkpatrick, who lived at Selma, the former of whom was born at Valley Creek, Dallas County, and lived at that place until moving to Fort Deposit, who later moved to Cahaba, entered the C. S. Army, August 25, 1862, serving throughout the war, and who was a member for two terms of the court of county revenues for Dallas County; grandson of William Laird and Mary (McCurdy) Kirkpatrick, who lived at Sandy Ridge, Lowndes County, and who had come to Alabama from Georgia, and of John and Maria Louisa (McLean) West, who also came from Georgia, and lived at Burnsville, Dallas County. The great-grandparents came from Scotland and Ireland and settled in North Carolina. Mr. Kirkpatrick is a brother of Samuel Kirkpatrick (q. v.). He received his early education in the common schools of the vicinity, and was graduated from Moore's Southern business university, Atlanta, Ga., 1884. He became a planter in Dallas County; was one of the first to advocate the building of modern highways in the county and was largely instrumental in bringing about the system of good roads in Dallas County. He is a life member of the Alabama good roads association; was president of the Dallas County good roads association at the time the campaign was on in Dallas County for a bond issue for good roads; was president of the Black belt live stock association in 1912 when an active effort was made to introduce state-wide tick eradication which resulted in the legislature enacting into law a state-wide statute; was precinct chairman for the various war loans, Y. M. C. A., and Red Cross drives, and an active member of the Dallas County patriotic society during the World War. He is a Democrat; a member of the Dallas County executive committee; is a Presbyterian, a deacon in the church; and a Knight of Pythias. Married: October 23, 1897, at Selma, to Minerva, daughter of Hamilton Claverhouse and Mary Jane (Moseley) Graham, of Selma. Children: 1. Alma, Selma; 2. Mabel, teacher in Dallas academy, Selma; 3. Graham, student in Castle Heights military academy, Lebanon, Tenn., and recently appointed to West Point by Senator Bankhead; 4. Samuel McCurdy, Selma; 5. Clifton, jr., Selma. Residence: Selma.

KIRKPATRICK, JOHN ALEXANDER, lawyer, was born October 17, 1844, at Gainesville, and died January 24, 1915, at Montgomery; son of Rev. John L. and Mary (Turner) Kirkpatrick, the former a Presbyterian minister; grandson of James Hutchinson and Ann (Parks) Kirkpatrick, and of Rev. William Leftwich and Ann (Alexander) Turner; great-grandson of Thomas Kirkpatrick and wife, a Miss McKee, of Capt. Hugh and Mary (Davis) Parks, the former an officer in the Continental Army who fought in the battles of King's Mountain and Hanging Rock, and of Archibald Alexander, of Rockbridge County, Va., captain of the rangers in the Sandy Creek expedition against the Indians and for whom Alexander hall, Princeton college, is named, and of Rev. James and Sallie (Leftwich) Turner, the former a Presbyterian minister of Bedford County, Va.; great-great-grandson of Robert McKee, of Walter and Mary (Lycan) Davis, of Hugh, sr., and Margaret (Young) Parks, all of Mecklenburg County, N. C., and of William Leftwich, captain of militia; great-great-great-grandson of Augustine Leftwich, an officer in the British Army. John A. Kirkpatrick received his early education in Charleston, S. C., where his father was a Presbyterian minister. He graduated from the academic department of Washington and Lee university and also received his lawyer's degree there. He began the practice of his profession in Opelika where he was at one time in partnership with T. M. Chilton and later with Render Dowdell. In 1878 he was made register in chancery of Lee County and in 1893 he resigned and removed to Montgomery, where he continued his practice. In the War of Secession he entered the Confederate Army at the age of seventeen as a member of Walter's battery of South Carolina. He organized the Lee County light infantry in 1882 and was its first captain. He was a Democrat; Presbyterian; and a Knight of Pythias. Married: in January, 1881, in Montgomery, to Carrie, daughter of Gen. James T. and Mary B. (Cowles) Holtzclaw (q. v.). Children: 1. Mary, play writer, of New York City; 2. James Holtzclaw, graduate, University of Alabama, Rhodes scholar, m. Lilla, daughter of Thomas Worthington (q. v.); 3. John Alexander, graduate, University of Alabama, play writer of New York City. Last residence: Montgomery.

KIRKPATRICK, JOHN LYCAN, Presbyterian minister in Alabama; served the Gainesville church; died and is buried at Lexington, Va.

KIRKPATRICK, M. L., lieutenant colonel, 5th Alabama Partisan Rangers, C. S. Army.

KIRKPATRICK, SAMUEL, physician, was born August 19, 1865, near Orrville, Dallas County; brother of Clifton Kirkpatrick (q. v.). He was educated at Southern university at Greensboro, and at the Alabama polytechnic institute at Auburn, where he was graduated in 1885; and was graduated from the medical department of Vanderbilt university, 1888. He began the practice of general medicine in Selma, 1888; took post-graduate work in the eye and ear department of the New York polyclinic hospital, 1895-1896; and after that time returned to Selma and specialized in diseases of the eye, ear, nose and throat. He is a member of the county and state medical societies, of the American medical association, is a fellow of the American academy of ophthalmology and oto-laryngology, a member of the American association for the advancement of science, of the Southern medical association, is oculist and aurist of the Southern railway and of the Vaughan memorial hospital at Selma. He is a contributor to the medical press. He is a Democrat, and a Methodist, and serves on the board of trustees of the church. Married: March 23, 1898, to Mary Myrtiline, daughter of Alfred Nicholous and Mary Lavinia (Wiglesworth) Hall, who were born and married in Autauga County, and lived there until 1888 when they moved to Selma, the former a large land owner and planter, who was engaged in the cotton warehouse and commission business at the time of his death in 1911. Children: 1. Mildred; 2. Myrtiline; 3. Marie. Residence: Selma.

KIRKSEY, FOSTER M., planter and merchant, was born June 10, 1817, at Tuscaloosa; son of Jehu and Nellie (Foster) Kirksey, natives, respectively, of North and South Carolina, the former of whom came to Alabama in 1804, and settled on a plantation in Madison County, who moved to Tuscaloosa in 1816, to Greene County in 1822 where he settled at Erie, and to Greensboro in 1824; grandson of John Kirksey, sr., a Scotchman who emigrated to America before the Revolution, and took part in that war. He received the greater part of his education at Erie, and in 1839 moved to Eutaw, where he resided for the remainder of his life. He was engaged in planting and merchandising during his residence in Greene County; was deputy sheriff of Greene County in 1836; and served as sheriff from 1845-1848. Married: (1) October 20, 1845, to Jane Merriweather, who died in 1857, daughter of Dr. Z. Merriweather of Greene County; (2) to Margaretta Liston, of Indiana, daughter of Jonathan J. Liston, a lawyer of that state. Children, by first marriage all deceased; by second marriage: 1. Liston; 2. Robert Elisha, b. February 28, 1871, was graduated from the Southwestern Presbyterian university, A. B., 1893, planter at Eutaw; 3. Harold; 4. Margaretta. Last residence: Eutaw.

KITTRELL, ROBERT NORMAN, physician, was born in Camden, Wilcox County; son of Dr. William Jones and Elizabeth Martha (Came) Kittrell, natives, respectively, of North and South Carolina, the former a graduate of the University of North Carolina and of the Alabama medical college at Mobile, who died in 1863 at Camden. The Kittrell family came from England, and the Comes originated in Ireland. Dr. Kittrell is brother of Benjamin F. Kittrell, physician at Black Hawk, Miss., who was surgeon of a Mississippi regiment during the War of Secession. He was reared and educated in the common schools of Camden, went to Black Hawk, Miss., where he clerked in a mercantile establishment, 1873-1878; entered the University of Mississippi, 1878, and was graduated in 1882. After his graduation, he taught school for a year in the Female synodical institute at Talladega; from Talladega, returned to Mississippi and taught a term at Meridian; took up the study of medicine at Black Hawk, Miss., in the summer of 1884; and was graduated from the Vanderbilt university, taking first honors, M. D., 1886. He remained on duty at the city hospital in Nashville, Tenn., 1886-1887; then settled for the practice of his profession at Gadsden. Married: in March, 1887, at Black Hawk, Miss., to Cora, daughter of Dr. R. D. Meek, of that place. Residence: Gadsden.

KLINE, CHARLES DAVID, lawyer, was born January 26, 1874, at Opelika, Lee County; son of Theodore David and Ida Eugenia (Holst) Kline, the former a native of Columbia, S. C., who lived at different places in South Carolina, North Carolina, Virginia, Georgia, Texas and Mexico, living during the War of Secession in Columbia, S. C., where he did service as a locomotive engineer between Columbia and Charlotte, went to New Orleans before the capitulation of that city, and brought several locomotives from there to Columbia, S. C., having to change the gauge several times, and saved all of the machinery of the railroad machine shop at Columbia when Sherman took the city, removed it to Chester, S. C., where it was operated successfully until the surrender, and was general manager of the Central of Georgia railroad at the time of his death; grandson of Christian David and Sarah (Farmer) Kline, of Columbia, S. C., the former of whom moved to that place in 1830 from Wurtemberg, Germany, where his family had for generations been prominent in business circles, and of Charles Ferdinand and Ida G. (De Rosenval) Holst, of Chester, S. C. Mr. Kline was educated in public and private schools at Columbia, S. C.; Richmond, Va.; Macon, Ga.; at the Methodist mission school, Laredo, Tex., 1887-1888; the Agricultural and mechanical college, Auburn, 1888-1890; the University of Georgia, at Athens, 1890-1894; graduating in law, LL. B. He began the practice of law at San Antonio, Tex., but owing to illness, returned to Georgia, and traveled for four years with his father; located at Savannah, Ga., for a time; later moved to Anniston; and was elected to the State senate from the seventh senatorial district, 1915. He is a Democrat; a Presbyterian; an Odd Fellow; a Knight of Pythias; and a Knight Templar; and a member of Phi Delta Theta college fraternity. Married: October 10, 1901, in Washington, D. C., to Edna Severa, daughter of Edwin I. and Louvinia Rogers (Denham) Bachman, the latter the descendant of a common ancestor with George Washington, through his mother's line, the Balls, and was also related to Benjamin Franklin. Residence: Anniston.

KLINE, WILLIAM FAIR, artist, for some time a resident of Alabama, was born May 3, 1870, at Columbia, S. C.; son of Theodore David and Ida Eugenia (Holst) Kline, and the brother of Charles D. Kline (q. v.). Mr. Kline was educated in the public schools of Richmond, Va., and Macon, Ga.; studied art at the National academy of design, New York, and Academie Julien, Paris. He has been awarded many medals for his paintings but he is better known for his mural decorations and stained glass windows. He conducts an art school in New York City. Unmarried: Residence: New York City.

KNIGHT, WILLIAM HENRY, planter, was born February 5, 1868, at Greensboro; son of William Newton and Eva (Happel) Knight (q. v.). Mr. Knight received his early education at home, from his mother. He attended the Southern university, at Greensboro, and the University of Alabama. He is a planter; was elected a representative in the State legislature from Hale County, 1915; is a Democrat; a Methodist Episcopalian; and a Woodman of the World. Married: April 17, 1901, at Greensboro, to Sarah Inge, daughter of William and Sarah (Herndon) Smaw, of that place. Residence: Greensboro.

KNIGHT, WILLIAM NEWTON, planter, was born February 18, 1840, in Russell County; son of Ephraim and Mary J. (Medley) Knight, the former a native of Lawrence District, S. C., who was a cotton planter, moved to Russell County in 1837, just after the Indians left; grandson of Ephraim and Catherine Knight, of Lawrence District, S. C., and of James Medley, of Stony Point, S. C. He was educated in the schools of Russell County, and was prevented by the War of Secession from getting a college education. He served as first lieutenant in Co. C, Thirty-sixth Alabama regiment, C. S. Army; was promoted to captain and was in command of the company until the surrender. After the war, he engaged in cotton planting on a large scale; served as sheriff of Hale County for four years; county commissioner of Russell County for several years; represented the county in the State legislature, 1886-1887, 1888-1889, 1890-1891; was a member of the Alabama constitutional convention of 1901, from Hale County. He is a Democrat; a Methodist; and a Mason. Married: December 27, 1865, at Greensboro, to Eva, daughter of Philip and Mary (Johnson) Happel, of that place. Children: 1. William Henry (q. v.); 2. Thomas E., lawyer. Residence: Greensboro.

KNOX, ANNA OCTAVIA (LEWIS), patriotic worker, was born in 1808, and died in June, 1890, in Montgomery; daughter of Col. Joseph Joel and Mariam (Eastham) Knox, the former a native of Albemarle County, Va., who early settled in Surry County, N. C., commanded a company at the battle of King's Mountain, in 1784, represented Surry County, N. C., in the house of commons, removed to Nashville, Tenn., in 1789, served as a member of the convention of 1796 that framed the constitution of Tennessee and was in 1796 and 1799 a member of the State senate, the latter the niece of Lord Fairfax; granddaughter of William Terrell and Sarah (Martin) Lewis, the former a native of Hanover County, Va., later a resident of Surry County, N. C., represented this county in the general assembly, 1781, 1783, 1785, 1786, and 1788, and a captain in the Revolutionary War; great-granddaughter of David Lewis and wife, a Miss Terrell, the former a native of Hanover County, Va., who removed to Albemarle County, and at one time a merchant; great-great-granddaughter of John Lewis, one of the original brothers that emigrated from Wales to America and who died in Hanover County, Va. For thirty years Mrs. Knox taught a Sunday school class for negroes at Court Street Methodist church. She was one of the most prominent and zealous workers of the Ladies' memorial association. For a number of years she lived in what is now called the White House of the Confederacy. Married: William Knox (q. v.). Last residence: Montgomery.

KNOX, JAMES CROLL, physician, was born March 28, 1812, in Jackson County, Ga., and died March 27, 1877 in Talladega; son of Samuel and Mary (Montgomery) Knox, jr., the former a native of Oglethorpe County, Ga., born October 6, 1789, who served in the War of 1812, and commanded a company under Gen. Floyd in the campaigns against the Creek Indians; grandson of Samuel and Mary (Luckie) Knox, the former who was born January 1, 1747, was married in 1774, and died in 1835, in Jackson County, Ga., a farmer, who was a soldier in the Revolution, and after the war, built Knox's fort in the state of Georgia for protection against the Cherokee Indians, and of Col. Hugh Montgomery, a prominent man in Jackson County, Ga.; great-grandson of John and Jean (Gracy) Knox, who emigrated to America from Coleraine, Ireland, about 1740, in company with Mrs. Knox's brother, Patrick Gracy, and others, and settled first, it is thought, in Pennsylvania, before going south to Carolina, where they were among the first settlers of Rowan County, N. C., the former a native of Scotland, born about the year 1708, who went from Scotland to Ireland with other Scotch emigrants, by invitation of the King of England, to constitute a balance of power against the insurgent Irish Catholics, the latter a daughter of Jean Sinclair, a relative of the mother of John Knox, the Reformer, who was a Sinclair. Dr. Knox studied medicine and was graduated from Transylvania university, Lexington, Ky., M. D., 1834. He settled in Talladega in 1835, and became a physician of distinguished ability, especially eminent in the department of surgery. He was a thorough anatomist, and a master of the science of medicine in all its branches. During his forty years of activity in the medical profession, his practice extended through adjoining counties and to other parts of the state. Soon after locating in Talladega, he was elected a ruling elder in the Presbyterian church, and held that office for about forty years. He was especially devoted to the educational interests of the church, and was influential in the establishment of the Synodical female institute, finally succeeding, in connection with others, in placing the school upon a permanent and prosperous basis.

Married: (1) July 18, 1837, at Talladega, to Mary Jane Bowie, who was born October 27, 1816, at Abbeville, N. C., and died June 8, 1857, daughter of Chancellor Alexander and Susan (Barnett) Bowie (q. v.); (2) April 14, 1858, to Mary Elizabeth Barnett, who died in 1870, first cousin to his first wife; (3) in October, 1872, to Mrs. Margaret E. (Johnston) Rice, who was born March 29, 1836, in Mecklenburg County, N. C., a descendant of the Alexander and Morrison families of North Carolina, who was married while in her teens to Rev. Mr. Rice, then pastor of the Presbyterian church in Palestine, Tex., was left a widow in a few years, during which time she taught in Marion seminary, and died May 15, 1894. Children, by first marriage: 1. Alexander Bowie, b. June 15, 1838, served as major of the Forty-second Alabama regiment, C. S. Army, was mortally wounded at the battle of Corinth, d. January 29, 1863, unmarried; 2. Samuel Luckie, b. March 21, 1840, brigadier-general, C. S. Army, killed in the battle of Franklin, Tenn., December 21, 1864, unmarried; 3. Laura Cynthia, b. April 9, 1842, m. James Gillespie, resides in Nashville, Tenn., children, Samuel, Mamie, Julius, Alice, James, Rosa, Hendrick, and Fannie; 4. Mary Jane, b. July 29, 1843, m. John McDaniel of Livingston, children, Belle, Lila, Henry, John and Louis; 5. Rosa, b. July 13, 1845, m. Lewis Brown of Sumterville, Sumter County; 6. James Croll, jr., b. September 11, 1847, at Aberdeen, Miss.; 7. Susan Jack, b. June 11, 1847, d. May 20, 1855; 8. William Andrew, b. March 23, 1851, d. October 22, 1892, m. January 16, 1879, to Mary Belle Wardsworth, his cousin, whose mother Rosa Bowie, was a daughter of Gen. John Bowie, two children, Rosa Belle and James Croll, after his death, his widow m.

March 20, 1894, James F. Rogers of Covington, Ga.; 9. Jabez Madison, b. May 29, 1853, d. August, 1888, unmarried; 10. John Barnett (q. v.); by second marriage: 11. Anna Margaret, b. March 4, 1859, m. Dr. Patillo Simpson of Laurens, S. C., children, Mary, Lucia, Knox and Annie; 12. Lillie Belle, b. August 21, 1860, m. A. W. Cockrell, jr., of Jacksonville, Fla., children, Susan, Jane Knox, Nathan, Lucia and Augustus William; 13. Lucia Barnett, b. November 7, 1861, d. May 12, 1889, was the first wife of A. W. Cockrell of Jacksonville, Fla.; 14. Zannie Bowie, b. May 27, 1864, m. Dr. William F. Thetford, Talladega; 15. Susan, d. at Talladega, unmarried. Last residence: Talladega.

KNOX, JOHN B., merchant, was born May 1, 1850, in Upson County, Ga.; son of O. F. and Susan (Kendall) Knox, natives of Georgia, the former a physician and a member of the legislature in 1859-1860, who died in 1873 in Pike County. He was educated in the schools of Pike County, and at the age of seventeen began business as a clerk in a mercantile establishment at Brundidge, later becoming a partner in the business. In 1880, he moved to Troy and engaged in the millinery and dry goods business. He became secretary of the Alabama terminal and improvement company, which had the contract for building the Alabama midland railroad; was secretary and a large stockholder in the Troy fertilizer company; and was one of the directors of the Troy normal school. He is a member of the Methodist Episcopal church, South; of the Knights of Honor; and of the Ancient Order of United Workmen. Married: February 6, 1873, at Brundidge, to Lula Margaret, daughter of Edward and Lucy (Perry) Dinkins, of Midway. Children: 1. Edward O.; 2. Mabel; 3. John B.; 4. Cephus Kendall, b. August 1, 1882, attended the University of Alabama, and enlisted in the U. S. Navy, 1901; 5. Evelyn, attended the University of Alabama, m. Herbert McLeod, of Troy; 6. Lucy; 7. Susan. Residence: Troy.

KNOX, JOHN BARNETT, lawyer, was born February 16, 1857, at Talladega; son of James Croll and Mary Jane (Bowie) Knox (q. v.). He was educated in private schools at Talladega, and after the War of Secession, when his father's health had failed and his fortune had been swept away, he began to work by day and continued his studies by night. After deciding to adopt the law as his profession, he entered the office of Judge John T. Heflin of Talladega as a student, and was admitted to the bar in 1878. He practiced law at Talladega in partnership with Frank W. Bowdon in the firm of Bowdon and Knox, until the death, a few years later, of Mr. Bowdon. He moved from Talladega to Anniston in December, 1888, where he has continued to reside and to practice his profession. He is associated with W. P. Acker, J. K. Dixon, M. H. Sims and Niel P. Sterne, in the law firm of Knox, Acker, Dixon and Sterne, of Anniston and Talladega. Mr. Knox was a delegate at large from Alabama to the Democratic national convention in 1892 and 1896; was chairman of the state executive committee; and managed Johnston's campaign.

He was elected to membership in the state constitutional convention of 1901 as one of the four delegates from the state at large, and on the assembling of the convention was elected president of that body. He was prominently connected with the reform of the suffrage in Alabama, had taken part in the movement from the beginning and spent many years endeavoring to induce the legislature to submit the question to the people. Mr. Knox closed the debate upon the question of the majority report of the committee on suffrage at the request of Judge Thomas W. Coleman, chairman of the committee, and successfully answered four of the most prominent and leading opponents of the measure, including ex-Gov. Jones, ex-Gov. Oates, Hon. Frank S. White, chairman of the Morgan campaign committee, and Hon. Robert Lowe, chairman of the State Democratic committee. The constitutional convention of Virginia, which convened some months prior to the Alabama convention, was considering three reports on a suffrage plan to be adopted by the body at that time. Members of the Virginia convention took the stenographically reported proceedings of the Alabama convention, published each morning, to enable the former to keep up with the work and progress made by the latter on suffrage and other matters. The argument which Mr. Knox made on that occasion by unanimous resolution was ordered read from the clerk's desk before the constitutional convention of Virginia, and by that convention was ordered to be printed in full in its proceedings, a compliment which was extended to no other address made before the Alabama convention. Furthermore, the Virginia convention abandoned the plan they were working on and practically adopted the Alabama plan of suffrage. Mr. Knox was twice offered a position on the supreme court bench of Alabama and was twice nominated for congress in his own district, but declined both positions each time. He is a Presbyterian; a Knight of Pythias; and an Elk. Married: February 13, 1884, to Carrie Egleton, daughter of Dr. Robert Greene and Mary Elizabeth (Ewing) McClure, who lived at Lewisburg, Tenn., the former a prominent citizen of Marshall County, Tenn., of Scotch-Irish ancestry, the latter of English ancestry, whose parents came from Amelia County, Va. Children: 1. Carrie McClure; 2. Mary Lyle, d. September 16, 1898. Residence: Anniston.

KNOX, ROBERT H., member of the constitutional convention of 1875, from Montgomery County.

KNOX, SAMUEL L., major, 1st Alabama infantry regiment, C. S. Army.

KNOX, WILLIAM, sr., banker and planter, was born December 22, 1800, in Strabane, Ireland, and died in Montgomery, June 9, 1869; son of Joseph and Isabel (Henderson) Knox, of County Tyrone, Ireland. He had a brother J. Henderson Knox, also born in Strabane, January 24, 1802, and died at Montgomery October 1, 1855, having at least one child, J. H. Knox, jr., who died the year after the father. Mr.

Knox settled in Winchester, Tenn., removed to Montgomery in the thirties; established the Central bank of Alabama, erecting the bank building at the northeast corner of Dexter avenue and Court Square; and built the residence on the corner of Lee and Bibb streets, now known as the first white house of the Confederacy, where his family lived for some years, later removing to a home on Perry street, which was noted for its hospitality. Mr. Knox was active in civic affairs, the first money paid into the treasury of the Confederacy was borrowed from the Central bank, February 26, 1861, to supply food and blankets for the volunteers. He was a Methodist, but late in life became a Catholic; a Democrat; and ardent Secessionist. Married: November 7, 1827, at Winchester, Tenn., to Anne Octavia (q. v.), daughter of Col. Joseph Joel and Miriam (Eastham) Lewis, the former an officer in the Revolutionary Army who was wounded at the battle of King's Mountain. Mrs. Knox was famed for her energy, charity and patriotism. She organized the women of Montgomery into the Ladies aid association for service to the Confederacy; was a charter member of the Hospital association and after the close of the war, in 1866, a charter member of the Ladies memorial association. The private purse of Mr. Knox was placed at the service of the association. Children: 1. John H., d. young; 2. Joel Joseph, d. unmarried; 3. William C. Claiborne, deceased; 4. Myra Eulalie, b. December 3, 1831, m. Thomas J. Semmes of New Orleans, and is still living; 5. William Hickman, deceased; 6. Anna Isabel, m. (1) Wm. S. Donnell; (2) John Paul and had a daughter, Lucy, who married a Fitzpatrick, and lives at Pollard; 7. William K., jr., Confederate soldier, and now an inmate of the Soldiers' home, m. Annie, daughter of Robert E. Coxe (q. v.); 8. John Haywood, deceased; 9. Robert H. (no facts); 10. George, deceased; 11. Robert Henderson, clerk in the Central bank, member Washington artillery, C. S. Army, lawyer, Republican member of house of representatives, 1871-72, and State senate, 1876-77, and member of the constitutional convention 1875, from Montgomery County, solicitor Montgomery County, 1872-76, consul to Hamilton, Ont., 1877, and delegate to Republican convention at Cincinnati, 1876, that nominated R. B. Hayes, m. Ada, daughter of John and Sarah (Parker) Herron, and died at Clanton in 1916; 12. Mary Louisa, d. in infancy; 13. Mary Ann, d.; 14. Hickman Lewis, deceased. Last residence: Montgomery.

KOLB, REUBEN FRANCIS, business man, was born April 16, 1839, at Eufaula, Barbour County; son of Davis Cameron and Emily Frances (Shorter) Kolb, the former a native of Cheraw, Cheraw District, S. C., who lived at Eufaula, and at Apalachicola, Fla., engaged in general merchandising and in the cotton commission business; grandson of Jesse and Susan Kolb, of Cheraw, S. C., and of Reuben C. and Mary (Gill) Shorter, of Eufaula. His great-grandfather Kolb came from Germany to America when a young man, was a major in the Revolutionary war, and was killed on Pedee River, in South Carolina, on which spot a monument, erected by the government, stands today as a memorial of his devotion to his adopted country. Capt. Kolb was educated in the common schools of Eufaula, and at the University of North Carolina, graduating in June, 1859. He enlisted in the C. S. Army as sergeant in Co. B, First Alabama regiment for twelve months; then raised and commanded Kolb's battery of artillery through the remainder of the war, during the last year, being in command of a battalion. After the war he engaged in farming; was commissioner of agriculture, 1886-1890; was the unsuccessful candidate for governor in 1890 and 1892; and was again commissioner of agriculture, 1911-1915. He is a Democrat and was for twenty-five years on the executive committee of Barbour County; and is a Baptist. Married: January 3, 1860, at Eufaula, to Caledonia, daughter of Thomas and Louisa Ann Cargile, of Eufaula. Children: 1. Emily Frances, m. Lucius J. Richardson; 2. Reuben, deceased, m. Pearl Hollifield, five children; 3. William Howard, m. Edith May Snow. Residence: Montgomery.

HENRY B. GRAY, SR.

KORNEGAY, ROBERT RUTLAND, merchant, was born July 28, 1863, at Van Dorn, Marengo County; son of Charles and Flora Louisa (Rutland) Kornegay, the former a native of Goldsboro, N. C., who served one year in the C. S. Army, then returned home on account of ill health, and was appointed by the commissary department to collect supplies for the army; grandson of Bryan and Margaret (Williams) Kornegay, Goldsboro, N. C., and of Ben and Mary (Pickett) Rutland, of North Carolina, and later, Mobile, the former a direct descendant of the Duke of Rutland, England, and the latter a first cousin of Albert Pickett, the Alabama historian. He was educated in the private schools at Demopolis; at Howard college, Marion; and at Moore's business college, Atlanta, Ga. He farmed for two years; was a wholesale grocer at Selma for three years, and is now engaged in the merchandise brokerage and commission business in Selma. He served as a member of the city council of Selma for two years; and represented Dallas County in the State legislature, 1907. He is a Democrat; a Baptist; and an Elk. Married: July 30, 1889, at Selma, to Mamie, daughter of Robert and Mary Daniel (Montague) Bates, of Perry County, and a direct descendant of Drago de Montague, who figured conspicuously in the service of William, Duke of Normandy, in his conquest of England in the eleventh century. Residence: Selma.

KUMPE, GEORGE ERNEST, physician and surgeon, was born September 12, 1818, at Hesen Kassel, Germany, and died at Leighton, August 29, 1887. He came to America when he was twenty-two years of age; attended the medical school, at Louisville, Ky., and University of Pennsylvania, graduating in 1847. In 1846 he began the practice of medicine at La Grange, later moved to Leighton in 1855 where he practiced until his death. He joined the State medical association in 1869, was president, 1872, and again in 1873; afterwards member of the board of censors for six years. He was a Lutheran while in Germany, but joined the Methodist church when he came to America; a Democrat; and a Mason. Married: December 2, 1847, at La Grange, to Rebecca Frances, daughter of Major James and Rebecca Kennerly of La Grange. Children: 1. Joseph Martin, physician; 2. James C. Kumpe (q. v.); 3. George E. Kumpe, jr., physician, Washington, D. C.; 4. Henry P. Kumpe, druggist, Leighton; 5. Catherine, deceased; 6. Edward W., deceased; 7. John W.; 8. Carlos, deceased. Last residence: Leighton.

KUMPE, JAMES C., lawyer and judge, was born May 27, 1852, at La Grange, Colbert County; son of George E. and Rebecca F. (Kennerly) Kumpe (q. v.). He was educated in the schools of La Grange and Huntsville, and at Cumberland university law school, Lebanon, Tenn., graduating June 4, 1874, with the degree of LL. B. He immediately entered upon the practice of his profession at Moulton on September 8, 1874, continuing until November 1, 1886, when he was elected probate judge of Lawrence County; was re-elected 1892-1898, 1904, 1910, and 1913. He is a Democrat; a Methodist; and Knight of Pythias. Married: March 14, 1878, at Moulton, to Mary A., daughter of John W. and Susan Allen, who lived at Pebble. Children: 1. Irene, m. Dr. Thomas H. Irwin; 2. Sue, m. James M. Irwin; 3. May, m. H. D. Jones of Russellville; 4. J. E., m. Lily —; 5. Ola, Moulton. Residence: Moulton.

KYLE, JAMES ALFRED, public official, was born February 28, 1862, at Bellefonte, Jackson County; son of Nelson and Mary Jane (Robinson) Kyle, the former a native of Madison County, who lived at Bellefonte and Scottsboro, was salt agent during the War of Secession, served as sheriff of Jackson County, 1865-1868, as deputy in the probate office, 1868-1874, as county treasurer, 1870-1874, as judge of probate, 1874-1880, and as register in chancery from 1880 until his death, September 19, 1886, at Scottsboro; grandson of John and Mary Jane Kyle, who lived at Kyle's Spring, Jackson County, and of Nelson Robinson, a lawyer of Bellefonte. He received his early education in Bellefonte and Scottsboro, and attended the Alabama agricultural and mechanical college at Auburn, 1877-1878, and Moore's business college in Atlanta, Ga., 1882. He assisted in the probate judge's office in Jackson County for some time previous to 1880; clerked in stores until 1883; became a partner to his father and was a merchant for two years; went to Texas in 1885, and remained there about a year; returned to Jackson County in 1886; was appointed register in chancery in that year, and continued in that office until 1916; was elected assistant secretary of the Alabama senate in 1901; was elected secretary of the senate in 1906, and was re-elected in 1911; acted as special agent for the government in 1907 in gathering marriage and divorce statistics. He is a Presbyterian; a Mason; an Odd Fellow; a Knight of Honor; a Knight of Pythias; and a Woodman of the World. Married: March 24, 1885, in Chattanooga, Tenn., to Vula Sabine, daughter of Dr. Constantine Blackman and Duanna Ann (White) Sanders, of Scottsboro, the former a Presbyterian minister for more than forty years. Children: 1. Mary Du, b. January 17, 1886, m. Marion Montgomery Wingfield, child, Vula Abbott, residence, Rome, Ga.; 2. Vula Sidney b. October 29, 1887, m. Russell Land Telford, child, Mary, residence, Louisville, Ky.; 3. Victoria Robinson, b. October 31, 1889, m. Hugh Boyd, Scottsboro; 4. Ruth, b. March 26, 1891, m. Elwood Price Oliver, child, Vula, residence, Reform, Pickens County; 5. Thomas Cobbs, b. December 9, 1892, engaged in concrete construction, Louisville, Ky.; 6. Fred Simpson, b. August 4, 1898, Scottsboro. Residence: Scottsboro.

KYLE, OSCEOLA, lawyer, was born February 26, 1837, at Wetumpka, Elmore County, and died March 13, 1888; son of William Sheridan and Janetta (McClung) Kyle, the former a Virginian; grandson of Henry and Elizabeth McClung; great-grandson of Archibald Alexander of Princeton, N. J. The McClungs and Kyles came originally from Scotland. During the early part of the War of Secession, he served as captain of a company in the Forty-seventh Alabama regiment. Two of the years of the war he was imprisoned on Johnson's Island; and at the time of the surrender, held the rank of colonel. He was admitted to the bar at Rockford; practiced law in Wetumpka, 1882-1885; and had a law office in Birmingham. He was a Democrat and at one time refused the nomination of his party as candidate for congress; was a Mason; and was author of a series of articles, "Old Wetumpka and its Surroundings." Married: (1) November 26, 1869, at Nashville, Tenn., to Mary Jane, daughter of James and Mary Jane (Taylor) Metcalfe, of that place; (2) June 16, 1876, at Wetumpka, to Eliza, daughter of Charles M. and Judson (Holman) Cabot, the former of Brattleboro, Vt., and the latter of Wetumpka. Children: 1. Mary Janetta, m. Rev. Harold Baldwin; 2. Ola, m. John Harvey Grant; 3. Margaret Virginia; 4. Thomas Williams, deceased; 5. Elizabeth McClung; 6. William Cabot. Last residence: Wetumpka.

KYLE, OSCEOLA, lawyer, was born January 9, 1862, at Tuskegee, Macon County; son of Ponsonby and Martha Adaline (Tranum) Kyle, the former of New York city, who came South at the age of twenty, served as assistant surgeon in the C. S. Army, joining the 47th Alabama regiment, was in Hood's army of the invasion of Tennessee, the latter who spent her childhood with the Indians, and could speak fluently the Creek language; grandson of William and Sophie (Henklus) Kyle, who lived in New York city, the former who was a large merchant, operating at the same time stores in New York, Charleston, S. C., and Fincastle, Va., and of Thomas and Sallie (Rice) Tranum, of Montgomery County, the former of English descent, who was one of the early pioneers of Montgomery County, was related to the Toombs of Georgia, to Gov. Ben Fitzpatrick, and to the Fitzpatricks of Montgomery County. The Kyles and Henkluses are of Irish descent. Col. Osceola Kyle (q. v.), was a cousin of Judge Kyle. Judge Kyle received his early education in the schools of Tuskegee, Macon County, and attended the University of Alabama for one year. He studied law in the office of Brewer and Brewer in Tuskegee, and was admitted to the bar on April 1, 1881, by the circuit court of Macon County, Judge James E. Cobb presiding. He worked in various capacities until 1883, removing to Opelika at the time of the "Opelika War." He again took up the study of law under Gen. George P. Harrison, of Opelika. In 1885 and 1886, he was city attorney for what was then the "District of Opelika," and represented Lee County in the legislature of 1886-7. He removed to Decatur in 1887 and at several different times was city attorney for Decatur and New Decatur. In the years 1894-5, 1896-7, and 1898-9, he represented Morgan County in the State legislature; in 1899 was appointed associate railroad commissioner, by Gov. Joseph F. Johnston; in 1900 was appointed circuit judge for eighth judicial circuit, by Gov. Jelks; in 1904 was appointed Federal judge on the Isthmian Canal, by President Roosevelt, resigning this office in 1905 to take up the practice of law in Decatur. He was first lieutenant, Gateway Guards, 1887-1888; captain of Joe Johnston Rifles, in the War with Spain; major, third Battalion, first Alabama U. S. Volunteers infantry, 1898. He saw six month's service at Miami and Jacksonville, Fla., and was mustered out in Birmingham in 1898. On the reorganization of the regiment as part of State militia, he was elected lieutenant colonel. He is a Democrat and a Christian Scientist. Married: February 19, 1889, to Wilhelmina, daughter of William Chapel and Sallie Fannie (Toomer) Ross, of Opelika. The Toomers were from Virginia and the Ross family was of English descent. Children: 1. Virginia, m. Robert S. Brown; 2. Frances, m. Victor J. Heard; 3. Ponsonby. Residence: Decatur.

KYLE, ROBERT BENJAMIN, business man, was born May 24, 1826, at Leaksville, Rockingham County, N. C.; son of James and Elizabeth Lee (Jones) Kyle, who lived at Leaksville, N. C., the former a native of County Tyrone, Ireland, who came to America in 1812, and after several years of adventure, located in Leaksville, N. C., where he engaged in merchandising and the manufacture of tobacco, and who died at Leaksville in 1836; grandson of Benjamin and Sarah Jones, who lived near Martinsville, Henry County, Va., the former an officer in the continental army, who commanded a company at the battle of Agua Creek, near the city of Washington, defeated the British, and saved the city from capture at that time. He was reared by his stepfather, Col. Joseph Kyle, at Columbus, Ga., attended school in Leaksville, N. C., in Russell County, in Columbus, Ga., and at Edge Hill, preparatory and commercial school at Princeton, N. J. In 1845, he was engaged as clerk in the dry goods store of J. and J. Kyle, and in 1846, was taken into copartnership. He sold his interest in that business in 1850, and entered the wholesale grocery business under the firm name of Grimes, Kyle and Thornton. In the spring of 1853, he moved to Cherokee County and engaged in planting on the Coosa River. He left his farm and moved to Gadsden in September, 1857, and became a merchant and banker. Gadsden at that time had a population of but one hundred and fifty people, and contained three small stores. He organized a company and built a steamboat for the Coosa River and its tributaries, and at the outbreak of the War of Secession, Gadsden had become a large cotton market, and Mr. Kyle had built up a good business. He opened the first recruiting office for enlistments in regular army of the Confederate States of America in Alabama in 1861, and in 1862, in connection with Capt. I. P. Moragne, organized a company of volunteer infantry. In the organization of the company he was elected first lieutenant, and when the regiment was organized at Talladega, the Gadsden company became Co. A, Thirty-first Alabama volunteers. Mr. Kyle was elected quartermaster of the regiment, and served as such until before the battle of Taswell, when his health failed and he was sent to Columbus, Ga., to recuperate. As he was not able to resume active duty in the field, he was assigned to duty with Maj. Frank Dillard, division quartermaster, with headquarters at Columbus, Ga. He remained in that service until the end of the war. After the surrender, he returned to Gadsden and entered the mercantile business. Soon after he undertook the construction of the Alabama and Chattanooga railroad, and later, in connection with W. P. Hollingsworth, built the Gadsden branch from Attala. He engaged in the lumber business in 1870, and from that time until 1912, successfully operated a sawmill at Gadsden. In 1887, he was one of the incorporators of the Gadsden furnace company; was one of the incorporators of the Gadsden pipe and foundry company; and of the Gadsden car and machine company. In 1887, with Capt. J. M. Elliot, jr., he built the Elliot car company plant, and was connected with that company until it was sold to the Southern car and foundry company. He was president of the Gadsden land and improvement company, and held a directorship in almost every other incorporated institution at Gadsden. He was the first mayor of Gadsden, and was a member of the constitutional convention of 1901. He was a Democrat; a Baptist; and a Royal Arch Mason. Married: (1) December 5, 1848, at Columbus, Ga., to Mary Allen Thornton, who died in 1855, in Cherokee County, daughter of Dozier Thornton, a planter, who represented Cherokee in the State legislature, 1858-1860; (2) October 2, 1856, at Columbus, Ga., to Mary Virginia, daughter of Nathaniel Nuckolls, a planter, civil engineer and contractor; (3) September 30, 1894, at Atlanta, Ga., to Mrs. Sarah H. Huguly, daughter of John White, of Pulaski, Tenn. He had two children by his first marriage, both of whom are deceased; and twelve by his second marriage, of whom the following survive: 1. Nina, m. James M. Elliot, jr.; 2. Thomas Stonewall, vice-president of the First national bank of Gadsden; 3. Edith Kyle, m. E. E. Thompson of Anniston; 4. Bessie, m. W. J. Beggs of Gadsden; 5. Robbie, m. F. F. Smith of Salisbury, N. C. Last residence: Gadsden.

KYLE, RUBY BERYL, author. Deceased. Last residence: Birmingham.

KYSER, JAMES KEATLY, merchant and legislator, was born March 29, 1862, at Belleville, Conecuh County; son of George W. and Frances (Andrews) Kyser, of Belleville, the former was a merchant and served as county commissioner for eight years; grandson of Simeon and Nancy (Smith) Kyser, and of Henry M. and Elizabeth (Watts) Andrews, all of Belleville, but natives of South Carolina. The father of Simeon Kyser came from Germany. He was educated in the common schools of the state; and is a merchant at Burnt Corn, where he began business in 1890. He was a delegate to the St. Louis convention which nominated Alton B. Parker for the presidency, 1908. He represented Monroe County in the legislature of 1915. He is a Democrat; Methodist; Mason; and a Shriner. Married: February 9, 1887, to Cora, daughter of John G. and Mary Eliza (Salter) Betts, of Evergreen, the former served in Hilliard's Legion, afterwards the 23rd Alabama battalion of sharpshooters, and while serving under Gen. Archibald Gracie and Col. J. W. A. Sanford was shot in the mouth and lost part of his lower jaw. Residence: Burnt Corn.

KYSER, JOSEPH MADISON, associate inspector of convicts, was born January 1, 1872, at Pine Apple, Wilcox County; son of Philip and Margaret Annie (Melton) Kyser, the former was born at Belleville, Conecuh County, served in Co. B, 3rd Alabama cavalry regiment, C. S. Army, under Gen. Joseph Wheeler; grandson of George and Lucinda (Nored) Kyser, of Belleville, and of Joseph and Nancy Jane (Ptomey) Melton, of Pine Apple. On his father's side he is of German descent, on his mother's, English. He was educated in the common schools of Wilcox County; at Monroe academy; attended Howard college, East Lake, 1889-1890, and the commercial business college of the Kentucky university, where he graduated in 1890. In that year he became a member of the faculty of his Alma Mater; in 1892, a member of the faculty of the Rome business college; and was with the Sullivan and Crichton business college, Atlanta, 1895-96. From 1897 to 1915 he was engaged as a bookkeeper, and later was engaged in the fertilizer and cotton oil business, being general manager of a number of companies in Alabama and Mississippi. From 1907 to 1914, he was alderman of Albertville. On April 12, 1915, he was appointed by Gov. Charles Henderson, associate inspector in the convict department, holding this place throughout his administration. He is a Democrat; Baptist; Mason; Elk; and a Woodman of the World. Married: December 16, 1896, at Atlanta, Ga., to Flora Belle, daughter of Prof. James Russell and Mary Cook (Winship) Glenn; granddaughter of Isaac Winship, founder of Winship machine shops, Atlanta, Ga., and his wife who was a Miss Cook, sister of Gen. Phil Cook, at one time secretary of State of Georgia. Children: 1. Menton Winship; 2. Russell Glenn; 3. Mary Lucile; 4. Irene Gray; 5. Flora Belle; 6. Joseph Madison, jr. Residence: Albertville.

INDEX TO PORTRAITS

VOLUME III

Ashcraft, J. T.....	793	Inge, H. T.....	713
Baldwin, B. J.....	761	Jelks, W. D.....	177
Barker, P. D.....	753	Jemison, Robert, IV.....	881
Beauchamp, G. A.....	601	Joiner, G. A.....	361
Bradley, L. C.....	569	Jones, T. G.....	81
Brewer, Willis	473	Jordan, M. H.....	545
Broadus, S. S.....	409	Kaul, J. L.....	617
Browne, S. B.....	297	Kettig, W. H.....	641
Bryce, Peter	273	Lancaster, J. A.....	681
Bush, T. G.....	65	Lancaster, W. L.....	913
Caldwell, H. M.....	433	Lane, A. O.....	961
Carmichael, J. M.....	321	Leedy, W. B.....	841
Chadick, W. D.....	169	London, A. T.....	153
Clark, L. V.....	553	Lovejoy, T. E.....	705
Clayton, H. D.....	89	McAdory, I. W.....	281
Cobb, R. W.....	105	McAdory, W. P.....	401
Cody, Michael	121	McCormack, G. B.....	481
Coffee, John	137	Martin, W. L.....	697
Comer, B. B.....	657	Milner, W. J.....	449
Copeland, B. G.....	745	Molton, T. H.....	985
Crum, B. P.....	945	Morrow, Hugh	609
Crumpton, W. B.....	441	Mudd, W. S.....	393
Cunningham, R. M.....	225	Norwood, Joseph	185
Davis, W. E. B.....	777	O'Neal, Emmet	129
Dent, S. H.....	849	Owen, T. M.....	49
DuBose, F. G.....	857	Partlow, W. D.....	425
Eyster, J. C.....	529	Pearson, R. H.....	833
Farley, J. G.....	305	Powers, J. K.....	33
Forney, W. H.....	265	Pratt, Daniel, Jr.....	937
Foster, H. B.....	417	Pratt, Daniel, Sr.....	921
Frazer, T. H.....	633	Pratt, M. E.....	953
Gaines, V. P.....	665	Prude, J. O., Sr.....	257
Garth, Jesse W.....	113	Pugh, J. C.....	385
Garth, W. W.....	193	Pugh, J. L.....	369
Glenn, R. L.....	25	Ramsay, Erskine	57
Goode, Rhett	585	Robinson, E. M.....	465
Gray, H. B., Sr.....	993	Roden, B. F.....	865
Grayson, J. W.....	737	Rogers, C. B.....	345
Greene, J. B.....	561	Rucker, E. W.....	41
Hanson, V. H.....	329	Rushton, Ray	649
Harrison, G. P.....	209	Samford, T. D.....	489
Harsh, G. R.....	729	Samford, W. J.....	217
Hartwell, H. T.....	313	Sevier, Landers	801
Henderson, Charles	145	Sheehan, W. T.....	905
Hillman, T. T.....	817	Sherman, S. S.....	721
Hoff, G. A.....	289	Sibley, B. D.....	505
Houghton, M. B.....	593
Houghton, W. R.....	689

Sibley, J. W.....	673	Trawick, Henry	337
Sims, W. H.....	9	Turner, Horace	377
Skeggs, W. E.....	353	Tutwiler, E. M.....	809
Smith, A. P.....	825	Tyson, J. R.....	625
Smith, E. A.....	233
Smith, H. T.....	873	Underwood, W. T.....	497
Smith, J. C.....	521
Smith, McQueen	897	Vaiden, W. J.....	977
Smith, S. P.....	929	Vandiver, W. F.....	537
Somerville, H. M.....	969
Stollenwerck, Frank, Sr.....	97	Walker, H. P.....	513
		Walker, L. P.....	161
Talley, D. F.....	889	Watts, T. H.....	17
Taylor, R. V.....	577	Weakley, S. D.....	201
Thach, C. C.....	785	Wiley, A. A.....	241
Thomas, C. E.....	457	Wilson, J. H.....	769
Thomas, W. H.....	73	Wyman, W. S., Sr.....	249